*"I was working on the beach. The season had just begun. It was my second year at the hotel. I was taking some classes. Javier was my friend... I saw you going to the ocean. You were wearing a white bathing suit. Jimmy Ruffin was singing at the radio. You asked for a glass of water... I realized that nothing will ever be the same. I realized my life had changed. I realized it will be something important. I realized you will always be mine..." **

Do you dare to express the necessary emotions for triggering some positive stimuli? Do you neglect that essential and fundamental life-generating substance within yourself? Which are the forces than can trigger the vivid spark of your Ego? What part of your Ego do others identify with? Can you extract like a miner the ore hidden within them?

In order to have full access to the resources of leadership, you must first of all follow the tendencies of your existence; you have to know how to assort the nuances of your own interior design. This design comes into shape, develops and adapts through the experience lived in the interaction with other people. He focuses on the bundle of stimuli that come between you and somebody else – rendered by that sensibility, that struggle which provokes you, and most times throws you into battle.

Thus, everything that powers you, and keeps you "in trends", passion, greatness, affection, particular forces that don't cancel each other, but are always in the noble service of the everlasting, are combined and bring their contribution to your transformation. Leadership itself is a special form of communication, of interaction, not just at a company level, but especially at an individual level – through its contents, through the intangible values it holds.

Leadership: Can you become the catalyst of positive transformation by extending the visibility of your feelings to the interaction area in the sense that you give to life in a context of uncertainty?

You reach a high leadership point only after you are completely dedicated to a truly inspiring moment, only when you are taken over by that powerful feeling of harmony, of unity, which brings light and finds an appropriate resonance in the spiritual background of others.

Leadership depends on the raw materials, the used catalyst and the purpose of the process of interaction with others. The purpose has to be in agreement with "the inner budget" – the entirety of feelings and emotions you generate among those around you, and those that you feel when you relate to them. Ideas, knowledge, thoughts and imagination are the raw materials that ensure a beneficial environment for development.

And the transformation catalyst used to evolve as self, as personality, thought and human being, it comes from the life experience itself, from involvement, but mostly from the positive state that you transmit to others. Awakening in them that powerful, refreshing reaction that has the strength to pull them out of the "shock" they're in.

This permanent "injection" of positivity has to be manifested in any life situation.

Leadership: Are you ready to judge the quality of your meaning in a life-and-death situation through a "Think Back" that allows you to perceive another world view?

Romanian philosopher, Constantin Noica, uttered something that I consider valid for every leader of today and tomorrow: "Who doesn't feel everything harsh, cruel in its spirit, doesn't live at their level. Great people aren't kind – here's the truth. I'm not saying they're evil, because I'd be diminishing them just as much. But they are not kind. Because they're not for others. They're for the spirit within them."

Being truly a great man is almost a condition of life, an own need to give others from your vital fluid. The life itself that you live (for others, for something inspiring) is an inexhaustible ore from which precious metal is extracted from the basis of leadership – the Ego, your true evolutionary force, proving its vitality in relation with exterior reality.

The Ego, this commander of its own feelings, it pushes you to fight, being the only one that can help you enter this apparently impossible space, your only ally that unleashes all the reaction forces in favor of someone or something.

Of course, with the obligation to respect a condition that defines you and that you have to firmly impose upon yourself, but that is sometimes hard to fulfill – and that I consider superior: never stray from what you are and feel. Make a detailed introspection of your Ego before changing the Ego of others.

Don't forget that you can stimulate your Ego only by maximizing the forces born from an excess feeling, from exhilaration, by estranging the two spaces – past and present. Sometimes, only through a think back are you able to produce "chemical reactions", friendly and beneficial for those around you.

The image of the world that you can perceive through a "Think Back", referring to the remembrance of some dear moments, is the expression of the tendency to adapt as quickly as possible to everything that brings a new life experience centered on getting a sense of "spiritual union" with a loved one.

The Spiritual Elevation Minute indicates that special liveliness that you must possess when you enter the scene of life, at a critical moment, the only way to communicate with someone beyond the separations owed to life's injustice.

Do you alienate from your Ego when you have to truly relate to others, or do you follow it at any moment? Do you life the condition of self-overcoming that motivates you and can develop your trust and the others' in your own strength?

The Spring Of Personal Reconfiguration

On April 09, 2009

Amplify your leadership to the highest level, highlighting your inner strength.

An anonymous stood up by himself against an immense empire. Spartacus, the tortured slave who has rebelled against the Roman legions and cohorts, was the one who caused major changes. As I said before in one of my articles on the site, he became a legend because he had the courage to risk his life for freedom and justice. He showed to the world what it is freedom through his living example, as slaves are able to become heroes, and that people are able to fight for a better life and for their happiness.

Conclusion: You cannot ever get incommensurable powers from nothing. Even so, you should focus on your inner nature, to give your self a great power of suggestion to help you resist those negative factors that diminish your capabilities.

Strengthen your faith in your own moral virtues, by establishing that positive mindset which would unlock any type of limits that your "climate" has imposed to you, by making a rescue maneuver that would lead to the increasing of your leadership. For this, you need to use to the maximum your inner resources.

Leadership: Are you able to focus on your inner nature and give your self a great power of suggestion to help you resist those negative factors that diminish your leadership abilities?

Spartacus had a leader potential. Nevertheless, just as a flower, to blossom, it needs the right conditions - and even so, he needed courage to follow rigorously the impulse to orient towards his spiritual development when the environment obliged him to remain small and insignificant.

But what defined his strong character was the fact that he knew how to focus on his inner nature, that is, he knew how to make his reason seem deep, he knew how to endure and wait for the right moment to stand out, he knew how to preach and pass on the basic teaching of history: how and why to never be forgotten. He knew how to handle his falls; he knew how to live and die with a sword in his hand – just like a real fighter. I also think he knew how to keep until the last moment that smiling face beyond which the bitterness was felt so many times.

The inner nature of man is not directed towards what man can accomplish, but towards what he self-induces with that naturalness with which the writer builds his characters from the novels. That naturalness which is the sign of unperverted humanity. In fact, characters like Spartacus have that naturalness that makes you love them to a certain extent, but in some places, they become too aware of their role, losing the realism that truly balanced people rely on.

Leadership: Can you insert a personal image in a message about life, so that the image is part of your final fulfillment which is associated with a stringent reality that cannot be lost sight of?

From Spartacus has started the strong current that has awakened in the conscience of thousands of people the need for change. He managed to attract on his side a lot of people that have revolted against a state of things that should be changed.

What a huge energy potential, of belief persists dormant in you? Have you consciously neglected for years your virtues and performances? Or, you continue to become estranged of them?

Learn to grow within you, and others around you, by following your example, will grow as well. Remember that you cannot ask more from others, if do not ask more from yourself. And that is exactly what it means to insert a personal image in a message about life, that is, to have a great power to evoke your terrible struggle with your own limits.

A stark reality cannot be lost sight of, namely that whoever is above the power assumed at the level of self-reaction to the world and the relentless laws of finitude, will never find liberation from the pages of his immortal story.

The Spring Of Your Personal Reconfiguration is represented by that positive impulse through which the leader accelerates his development, progressing more rapidly than it would do it at the insistence of others. It is the strongest part of the entire arsenal that you have, that if you know how to configure and highlight it, you will be able to build and shape your leadership up to the highest level.

Conclusion: There is a natural tendency at the majority of people to improve their lives, to achieve happiness, but not everyone has the courage to come out of anonymity, and fully develop their abilities and their inner mobilizing forces in order to materialize their wishes.

For developing your leadership, you must continuously expand your inner spring that produces a personal reconfiguration of your inner mobilizing forces.

The Stake Of A Destiny

On January 04, 2016

Step into the throes of a great spirit, measuring your own strengths after the aspirations you want materialized in lasting performance.

I had to get used to the irreparable situation I had come up with despite the extensive research efforts of my own world, anchored to a rethinking of the division of the present, by reformulating the equation of equilibrium of the finite element called "chance". Or luck.

Everything interfered with an unusual landscape with a spiritual charge, more widespread by the intervention of providence itself, facilitating the opening of a possessive action on the actualization of reality. Enlivened by an excess of zeal in the context of the process of adapting to the norms of the laws of this world, as no one has succeeded, I began to raise the bar when circumstances became favorable.

There is no greater spiritual reward than knowing that you are favored in the struggle for conquering a dream, to which all the forces of good and evil tend, in a complex cause-effect of a single unexpected and inexplicable effect through the known causes.

Leadership fuses inner determination with outer vision, becoming a touchstone that brings about change and fulfillment of personal destiny.

An odd thought seemed to whisper to me, like a rose petal that was prematurely loosened from a bud hidden from the sight of the world. A huge thrill prepared me for a revelation: "I expect a feverish night, but my bracelet I leave as an inheritance to you ! "

Constantinople was the test stone of Sultan Mehmet. The conquest of this city has been the subject of his dreams since childhood. There was something between him and Allah, who could somehow merge them together in a single way, in one meaning. At the same time, by conquering Constantinople, he could prove himself to be superior to all his ancestors.

In vain, wise elders waited for him to break his neck, they died first without understanding the meaning of life and the cycles of the human being. Mehmet was what he was living, he was the man of change, the man of the future. The time that has passed, passed on his side. That is how the prophecy was fulfilled.

Leadership: Can you see in a new light the sphere of the totality of causes determined by "chance", having the opportunity to redefine them beyond the horizon of events decided by God?

Nothing stays unshaken in the face of a lightning strike. And a place to shine like a lightning is, of course, for all those who follow their dreams. But as no one learns to swim in books, dreams are not touched by just sketching them on paper. First you need to know where to turn your attention and who you need to face. Yourself or God? The stake of a destiny is the world. And its glory is eternal.

The absolute essence of a becoming whose connecting elements are signs and predictions, under the influence of the dreams directed by a power beyond that of your own, are extracted from the extensive research efforts of your own anchored world to a rethinking of the division of the present.

And the present, from the point of view of the consciousness that indicates the true level of spiritual and intellectual preparation you have reached, becomes a kind of window to something far more comprehensive than life experience. Towards a horizon of meanings that give meaning to existence. An open window is a triumph of resounding accomplishments due to a routing of the present reflected in the future, called coincidence or hazard.

Leadership: Are you trying to open a window to something more comprehensive than life experience?

The present, gaining through the profound understanding of the phenomena that take place around the significance of personal renewal, cultivating principles, values, and knowledge, can facilitate the opening of a possessive action on the actualization of reality. It is divided, in the context of the process of adapting to the norms of the laws of this world, in two forces – one positive and one negative, one plus and one minus.

By the first force you can prove to yourself that you are superior to all others, through the other (the result of the first) you can extract that sense of totality, starting from the effects and causes of your initiatives.

Leadership can be better dealt with today as an attribute of your exploratory assets – such as interest in a special passion, or a victorious individual destiny. But he has his roots in the past that you built in your favor, looking for a meaning that warrants you dedicating your life… and death to.

With every chance you offer to yourself to look at yourself differently, you are closer to increasing your state of efficiency in relation to the value of the totality of a certain individual being in the long run. One that exists in everything and is asserted by a highly developed possession of the course of life.

The Stake Of A Destiny that takes a history, is the world in which you integrate first as a force of attraction, then as a reaction force, then an occupying force. In the end, it remains to establish their effectiveness in terms of the favorable change in the evolution of the world.

I quote for the conclusion of this article the description of a book belonging to poet Tudor Gheorghe Calotescu, as presented on the website publisher Absolut.

"The History of the Moment" by reference to the Universe conveys life in a moment, ephemeral and short. It's a second in nothingness and a thread of dust in infinity. Everything, life, feelings, the world materializes from the known to the absolute and relativizes, reflecting immenseness in a dew drop, defeating the universe over a micron.

Such a history is a sedimentation of successive lives, of retreats found in moments of enlightenment in sensations, in thought, and in the memory of the world reflected in man.

The Star Of A Wanderer Who Carries His Cross

On October 08, 2012

Face the reality by going forward, without getting lost in the chain of events, in which you yourself are the protagonist.

There was a time, when he could not be reconciled with himself: he was too disappointed with the way in which the things had changed, by his own fault, because he discovered that damned bag full of money.

Like a pirate, who hides his treasures, and then making himself unseen, Llewelyn Moss, rushes, rushes, rushes, he does not look either to left or right, rushes with that full faith that he must fight in order to survive. The proof of a last reserve of vitality. The desperate reaction of a power unleashed from the depths of his conscience.

With strength of character and determination, he rushes like the wind to that relentless call of the destiny, which always tends to be fulfilled at the established time.

Caught in a game, which had something that set in motion - in a great way - all the fibers of the audacious ones. Being pursued like a beast of prey by his bitterest enemies, on the one hand by the drug dealers, on the other one by the men of the law, and, above all, by Anton Chigurh, the merciless assassin.

So Moss crosses the border to Mexico, taking on a life of a wanderer, un proscrit, sinking into the darkness of anonymity. An exile based on the continuous succession of some enigmatic and desperate actions, in total disagreement with his personality. An individual's removal from normality, by creating a captive reality.

Leadership: Is the ultimate proof of your vitality a consistent application of caution that unexpectedly moves you to the highest elevation of feeling, leaving you to believe in need, that it is just one of the many possibilities of guidance you are capable of?

What was going on in the soul of Moss? At every step, he probably said "I am running to correct my mistakes; I must keep well as a wall; I will respond with my life for every step that I will make behind."

All his senses seemed focused on avoiding dangers. He felt dragged forward, irresistibly, by the roller of pursuers, becoming the protagonist of a "work" whose reality belonged to them. Stuffy, like a heavy load, in him happened a sudden change from being in a position of strength to not being.

Being pursued everywhere, surrounded like a deer by a pride of lions. He did nothing but to delay his death, carrying on his back the heavy cross of sins. And only his lucky star seemed to guide him, without anyone knowing in which way to go.

He was accustomed to always go forward, straight ahead. Without knowing that when the star fades - and this will certainly happen - he will disappear along with it.

Leadership: Do you keep watch on respecting the precaution at the level of making decisions under uncertainty, when the asset of your strengths is under-evaluated?

The way you respond to the course of events highlights certain realities that you ignore or banter, or you do not see them, but which are the only significant realities, which unquestionably can win a place in your existence.

A seemingly inexpugnable circle of unexpected situations, perspectives, overthrow of values, intertwined realities, and personal transformation processes, with apparent uniformities and regularities in a sum of chaotic factors that multiply from one day to another and manifest themselves arbitrarily, in a series of circumstances, happy or not, in a broad crisis of personality.

Therefore, the pursuit of diversity of perspectives, ideas and choices, on which to focus on your way towards excellence is primarily. It makes you include a certain depth, certain meanings, senses, multiple "facets", if you want, which are often in an implicit polemic between them.

To associate the elements drawn from reality, sometimes complementary, at other times contradictory, without being convinced of the veracity of the final result, that will not contradict your way of being, here is the confusion, the border of today and tomorrow, at which stops the skill and the wisdom of the leader.

Personal transformation is a consequence of the overthrow of that reality that you cannot avoid, but from which the force of moral and spiritual mirroring leads to a determination that breaks down any barriers imposed by the course of events.

To be someone else than who you really are, because of the events that change suddenly, of the circumstances on which the future may bring, it's a pretty risky reversal operation, which also has a correspondent well-defined in reality, in what you feel, in what you think, and in what you do.

Are you someone other than whom you pretend you are? Are you disappointed by the way things change, because of you? Do you feel trapped in a game that sets in motion your whole inner structure? Are you building your excellence after a code in total disagreement with your personality? Do you feel dragged on, irresistibly, by the roller of an uncontrolled evolution? Do you evolve to another way of being? Are you the protagonist of a "work" whose reality belongs to the others around you?

Leadership: Are you hastening your transformation to the detriment of the constant of being always in a position of strength?

I was reading a few days ago the fable "The man and the demon". A demon gives to a child a cotton thread and tells him. This is the thread of your life. Take it. When you want the time to flow faster, pull the thread, and your days will pass quicker or slower, as you will let the thread to go, quicker or more leisurely. As long as you do not touch the thread, you will always be in the same moment of your existence.

The child took the cotton thread; pulled by the thread, wanting to fulfill all desires, one by one. After the meeting with the demon, he lived only four and a half months.

If there are certain dominances or momentary escapes of your will to contribute to changing things, then your potential of to be what you were meant to be will fall dramatically. To be someone other than who you really are, is like "pulling the thread" - you are hastening your transformation to the detriment of the constant of being in a position of strength.

Leadership is the position you adopt in those situations where you can easily stumble, but where you find that finding as a rule: the toughest reality you face is the only opportunity to think about how you can become more confident and inspired so that you are able to change the clauses of the convention called "defeat".

A position of strength is obtained through a correct perception of what you are in the context of the vision that survives the wandering in a world which removes and isolates those caught in it.

This wandering can be perceived as a form of your struggle against death and your ambition to control time, to be one step ahead of it. But at the same time, it can be perceived as a trap of its own uncertainty in experiencing a life of meaninglessness, driven by an insignificant purpose.

The star of a wanderer who carries his cross brings into focus that continuous and unfavorable transformation, which like the wind scatters in chase all your efforts to keep unaltered your Ego, and the perspective on that unique thing that you intend to touch: the excellence.

Before passing to a higher level of leadership, find the courage and the inner strength to ask yourself about the reality of your own beliefs. Just as the electrons need a conductive material to move, so you must always manage to find a supporting point in your views of reality for your personality, your emotions, to be congruent with the final result: self-confidence.

Face the reality by going forward, without getting lost in the chain of events, in which you yourself are the protagonist.

Festina lente". Do not rush in reaching your goal at any cost, with an amazing speed. You risk not getting to fulfill it. Be in resonance with what you are, with the contemporaries and the constantly changing events. Adapt yourself to them. And so your star will not set too soon.

The Star Seeker

On June 12, 2010

The final result of your test of perfection depends on your ability to recognize the value that others' grants to your leadership.

I think I was 12 years old at that time, but how could I forget my first participation to a theater show? It was a very special play, in four acts, first of all, meant for children. I must confess, I really enjoyed it.

At the end of the show, when the curtain fell, when the lights were switched on in the hall, my mother took me in the backstage because, she said, I really had to meet the director, Mr. Baldovin, the one staging the show, who, with a lot of dedication and professionalism, had initiated, for years, hundreds of children in the art of acting.

Master Baldovin was not at all a cold and repulsing man, as I thought initially, he treated me like his own child from the first moment. I do not know why, maybe because of my very curious and avid for knowledge character, I felt the need to ask him:

Leadership: Can you find a correlation between what a director does behind the scenes and the performance that the performer claims without modesty?

His look, very gentle, making him seem the kindest man in the world, was directed straight to me. He looked at me as if I were a pupil, who, burning with desire to play in a theater play, to become an artist, informs himself what are the benefits he can obtain, as well as the potential obstacles of which he may hit. He answered me very determined:

- I watch, breathlessly, how my students play their roles, my students whom I have carefully selected, and whom I have prepared for months. That's what I always do behind the scene. However, every time I am terrified that something will go wrong. I am afraid that one of my students will forget their lines or the script, that they will stumble and the play would turn, eventually, into a failure.

Then, after a short break, the master put a wide smile on his face and, fully satisfied, he added:

- Even so, on the other hand, as it happened tonight, I look at my students with an extraordinary pride. They gave everything that I had hoped for and overtopped all expectations – for three hours, for the duration of the show, they collaborated in a perfect collegiality. I am pleased of their acting, of how they managed and displayed their talent. I am happy that I have made a good selection, and that I wasn't wrong about their skills. I can only consider myself a truly happy teacher.

The leaders measure their skills by watching the show behind the scene !

The master was so confident in himself, so enclosed in the carapace of his confidence when he talked to me that I knew at once that his life only consisted in leading his students to success, to a real triumph. His attitude was that of the man living, thinking and acting for one ideal: to discover young talents and guide them – always giving them indications, stimulating their spontaneity, creativity and appetite for theater, with the purpose to develop the abilities necessary for a real artist.

Looking at his students how well they were playing their roles, observing at the end of the show the passion and determination of the spectators applauding in the hall, what does master Baldovin really felt? Most certainly, he felt that his work, the hundreds of hours spent practicing with the students, the real effort he made for months had given the expected fruits by the performance of his students. He felt that he was a special man, worthy of all praise. Because, always, the teacher is evaluated by the results of his pupils. In other words, the better students play their roles, the more praised would be the "engineer" of the wonderful show.

Leadership is the director's right to change the meaning of a piece at will.

Do you determine the evolution of those around you? Or you let them stand alone at a high level of performance by their own forces? Do you have the power to induce people seeing your vision, to implement it and to participate in it? What is your attitude opposite their performance? Do you cultivate the mutually advantageous relationships? Is their growth potential directly related to your potential of being brilliant? What do you have to offer to others, and what do you expect in return from them? Are they satisfied of you? Or they doubt your guidance?

The final result of your "test" of perfection depends on your ability to recognize the value that others' grants to your leadership.

Leadership: Do you fully use your potential to lend your followers new affirmation valences from your own resources of performance?

The most gained leader is not he who has greater autonomy and competence, but he who lends his followers new affirmation valences from his own resources of performance.

It is obvious that the actions devoted to this interior identity with two sides - of content and process, presents unique personality identification elements. The effect of acquiring and processing the most promising sources of differentiation, which could stimulate the process of reinvention and enhancement of strengths, is beneficial especially when you can compete individually, in terms of harshness of practical considerations for the title of performer.

Master Baldovin was a performer since he left the gate open for his students to surpass themselves through their power to rise to his level, giving them the opportunity to acquire rare knowledge based solely on experience and the principle of communion. He may be regarded not only as an example to follow, but rather as a transmitter of high vibration energy, which can be channeled with much wisdom to a very advanced stage – mastery.

The most gainable person in the world

The most gainable person in the world is not the one that has more resources for development, but the one that borrows new valences from the resources of performance of others.

The master could not offer a more valuable gift to his students than sharing with them as much of his qualities as an actor. To make his little artists better and more devoted to acting, this was his greatest joy. His greatest accomplishment. How happy, how spiritually complete must the master have been when he saw his students covered by the noise of the spectator's applauds. After so many hours of work, his effort was fully rewarded.

Leadership involves interfering with energy in the meanings and significance of the play so as to determine the measure of the height of a role that represents you and from which feeds the tendency of others to accept the options of personalizing the act of artistic creation.

Master Baldovin did nothing else than seeding the "seeds" for the benefit of all his students - great artists in the making. He gave them the necessary impulse to commit to a work, which requires a lot of passion, skill, creativity, practice, artistic talent. Because an artist must continually create different spiritual moods depending on the play or the script, therefore, to have the ability in playing all kinds of roles.

A leader, in any field, can be compared to a "star seeker" because his success depends on how well he had chosen the people on his team, and how well he trained them. The leader's success is the team's success. Or, in other words, a leader's success always starts from the people, and depends on his ability to recognize the value that others' grants to his leadership.

The Star That Shines From The Bottom Of The Pocket

Identify that safety factor that can support spiritual contentment and belief, constantly reinventing yourself in the context of a world that is squandering its wonders.

The traveler remembered the delightful and ancient custom of children, who put their boots at the hearth's mouth on Christmas Day, to wait in the dark for who knows what shining gift from the caring fairy. The two spoiled sisters, Eponine and Azelma, had taken care not to miss the chance and each of the put a shoe in the hearth. The fairy, which was their mother, Mrs. Thenardier, had passed by and left a ten dime coin in each shoe.

The man got up and was about to leave, when he saw deep down, in the darkest corner of the hearth, an ugly slipper, of the lowest quality of wood, half broken and filled with ash and dried mud. It was Cosette's slipper, the little maid. With that moving confidence of children that can always be deceived without ever getting discouraged, Cosette also placed her slipper in the hearth. Hoping...

But in this slipper that was nothing. Then, the stranger reached into his jacket, leaned over, and put a coin into Cosette's slipper. Great was girl's joy, in the morning, when she found the gift. For the first time in all these years and work and suffering, too heavy for a child, someone had thought of her. The poor gentle creature, whose heart never opened before then to anyone, felt caressed for the first time.

*When Cosette swept the staircase, she would stop, remained nailed in place, forgetting about work and the whole world, busy looking at the star that shined from the bottom of her pocket.

Leadership: Do you agree that the story of your life will constitute as a major approach to the line of destiny traced by others in the circumstances of an unexpected event that can give a profound meaning to life?

Your moods act as an isolation factor when you feel constrained to keep your wishes and expectations under control. The rules imposed by the walls of a reality that seems increasingly petty can make you live in the patters of times that seem long gone. Or when you aspire to things you cannot afford. In other words, moods are like deep waters that could inescapably attract within its vortex those who fail to integrate the miraculous into a poor world.

The suffering that makes you weaker in a world without too many stable benchmarks is installed when for some reason you do not want to ask for more than what is owed to you and you feel compelled to say "okay" when you're afraid you lose everything if you do not accept.

An unexpected happening can give a profound meaning to life when it brings out your good parts in the form of a reflection in "something more than yourself", in favor of a determined, merciful God that predestines the lives of all men.

Writing the story of your life in such a drama of marginalization is a form of failure, it is like trying to gain wisdom through an experience of recognizing the finitude of an existence preceded by nothingness without the revelation of a transcendence of your condition through union with God.

This is what it means to relate to imaginary sources of fulfillment. And the minute you begin to feel that you are constrained to build your short existence in the principle: "I cannot have", then you will not be able to achieve the sublime in the spirituality of the world in which the Good, the Beautiful and the Truth give their hand and perform miracles. But you begin to be drained by anything beautiful, by any human feeling you own, by any great goal.

Or, your moods can act as a server of command and control when you refuse to receive instructions from an authority of restrictive and punitive order, such as unfavorable external circumstances. This reaction of choice is deeply justified in the case of leaders, because it is not based on prejudice, or in the belief of an absolute opposition.

Leadership: Are you called to give value to an act of dignity in a context that people have not known before, in terms of the depth of a moral conscience overwhelmed by negative reactions to a social misunderstanding?

Is there something of special nobility in you? Can your capacity of drawing essence from close to the limit experiences satisfy the unspecified requests of people to get something out of life? Do you try to raise the bar of their conscience to that of your entire being, responsible for producing change?

Some lyrics from the internet caught my attention the other day: "The absurd twitching of the soul deeply pierce my being, to the point of finding myself in my own helplessness, or ignorance in finding an answer. And the only weapon I have left is the despair of always finding myself chained inside my own being."

Experienced leaders know that the answers to the initial requests when "negotiating" with life, always exaggerated, begin with a negation of the type "Don't be naïve" or with the expression "Once upon a time". It is therefore they do not feel bothered to amplify the décor of the inner world of the others, quite the contrary, they are indebted. And, considering the value of what has superior dignity, the accept to convert to true creators of an area of hope, of achievement and fulfillment of the aspirations of the human soul.

The world is not as you want it to be, but it is how you should be in a sublime way, so as to qualify in a contest of the hazard that finds you without your looking for it.

In a way, they themselves relive the moments so painful for the others, feeling the despair of the suffering. It is therefore they practice a form of leadership that places the experience of life in an unexpected context, having a bright aura, that the other people have not yet come to know. And this form of leadership, that transmits with the power of emotions a message of faith, full of meaning: "to want, to believe, to hope and to fight whatever", has a stimulating and mobilizing effect.

It means you've come to have that admirable potential, similar to a vulture feeling the strength of its wings, thanks to which you reached a higher level than usual. It means you've become aware of a certain sensation of fullness and moral satisfaction, tying yourself spiritually to that area of the world insufficiently brought to light, that depersonalizes the individual and deprives him of humanity, that you managed to explore and, moreover, to conquer.

To be effective in the study of the surrounding world, possessing a certain wisdom that you can only acquire with time, there is need nonetheless also for the knowledge of the inner man that knows that language of the soul, the characteristic of time, to which you feel bound to as if through a backbone of your actions. If you place value in the lives of others, no one can take this from you.

A moral conscience rustled by negative reactions to a social misunderstanding can concretize itself in a mysterious revelation of the soul that only emerges when it feels the need for a craving for a charmed life story.

A story that started with "Once upon a time" can change radically with an urge: "Do not harden your heart, pray without stopping ! " which leads to the emergence of the hazard.

The Star That Shines From The Bottom Of The Pocket highlights that intrinsic motivation to create something new, mobilizing, giver of hope, that transforms people into a powerful driving force. Do not get stuck into a limit of the acceptability of life, whichever it may be, rather remember that you live in a present that is simultaneously a distant future, but also a distant past.

The Starting-Point on The Road To Perfection

On April 20, 2009

Explore in depth your personality for identifying those values and beliefs that make you a true leader.

I pointed out a passage from the novel „Le docteur mystérieux" by Alexandre Dumas that emphasize the limits, but also the qualities of a leader.

The capable doctor Jacques-Merey, from Argenton city, is unexpectedly announced that he was appointed deputy to the Convention, which meant he had to go to Paris to deal with the problems of France that was crossing over a period of deep decline and trepidation, and so it meant leaving the loved ones. Nevertheless, Jacques did not want to accept the given mandate because he has not thought worthy of this responsibility.

Suddenly, someone in the crowd gathered around the doctor, exclaimed:

- Would you do your duty from which you are missing today, Jacques Merey? You were not endowed with a superior intelligence and a considerable culture, to bury you in a provincial town, while Paris, the brain of France, is fighting for freedom. You can be one of those who will cry to humanity: "France is free ! " And you refuse ! Jacques Merey, I am telling you, you are passing by an immortal glory as a blind by a treasure. Jacques Merey, France could honor you, now will despise you, could bless you, but will curse you !

Leadership: Is the global profile of your personality a quantitative-qualitative expression of the totality of the experiences you live through a curious psychology of liberation from the addiction you are in?

The perfection of the leader refers to reaching the highest level of humanity, in which the moral values (kindness, understanding, generosity, truth, goodness, faith) have been kept intact, reaching the emotion attached to an important event that can mark the world. In other words, perfection is the result of a personality trait that reflects the motivational structure of the leader in tailor-made situations to show that the success of an event depends entirely on him.

A good leader always plays an important role in people's lives, but not always a leader is ready for change he has to do in himself, in his own life, in his own perceptions and thoughts, in his own interests to compete in the definitive test of becoming, of his perfection. Such a leader lives his life experiences through a curious psychology of liberation from the dependence in which he is (the dependence of always being in control), because he ends up being guided by the instinct of belonging to humanity, to the civic spirit of himself.

To be able to fulfill a mission, to accept separation from the old model of thinking, to open the way to a better align to the expectations of others, you can choose between two roads: one that meets the enemy, the other passing at sight to the front of the enemy. Your enemy number one, which can hinder your leadership to develop is the "conviction" deeply rooted in your mind and soul that you cannot impose yourself in a delicate situation and you will not be able to impose your personality before those that have chosen you and supports you in your attempt to guide them towards an ambitious future.

This enemy you can avoid or you can face it with a lot of courage and determination. If your belief does not coincide 100% with that of most people, then your leadership will be unable to move towards a healthy and sustainable development. Your success in leadership is primarily an internal journey that tests your feelings and faith, which shakes all your certainties and challenges you to overcome your limitations imposed by your will, by your abilities to take decisions and solve problems; it is a journey that will guide you to greatness, and that will light your way to a better knowledge of self.

The global profile of a distinct personality is a combination of greatness and longing, on the background of authenticity in reacting as a causal factor to major events, not as an "automatic" to the demands of others.

Your leader's true potential emerges when you express your intention to carry through the mission entrusted to you. Jacques Merey ultimately accepted people's appeal and proven, despite his own suspicions that he is ready for this. His role was a crucial one. He managed to demonstrate that he has the ability to achieve great goals, that he is brave and very clever in following hard and complex paths to new performances.

The Starting Point On The Road To Leadership Accomplishment suggests that decision that you take in the belief that you could be helpful to others. Leadership is a journey that you follow on your own risk, and that starts from you, from the point where you decided it is time to take over the reins of leadership because you are the person best suited to guide others towards a common goal.

However, for this you must have an intrinsic motivation, you should change your mood, to put yourself in value, to leave the old structures of thinking, to move things in the most elegant and most efficient way possible, and to have the wish to open the road to a better future as possible.

Just as the starting point of any business is to identify and provide benefits to all customers (better than the competition) - so the starting point of your leadership development is to identify those values and beliefs that transform you from an ordinary man, a perfect leader, by providing to people that amount of confidence they need so much to feed their hopes for the better.

Leadership seeks to highlight the importance of reporting events to a causal relationship between an individual's personality and the potential to be a positive response to the challenges posed by the dynamics and changes of the world.

Conclusion: The starting point in leadership is to identify its purpose, which is based on inner motivation of the leader, who after a profound analysis of his skills and abilities, accepts, being supported by the people, to take the tough and thorny ways of obtaining high performances (beating the competition) to achieve goals.

The Statue That Does Not Gain Life

Be the sublime experience of the spiritual being in the world you created without pretending that you are someone other than you really are.

I like to admire other peoples' gardens, the neat ones, full of flowers and trees, with a stylish look, orderly and yet natural, spontaneous. They seem to suggest an incursion into the secrets of an art that has successfully passed the test of time. Most of all, something in me seems to disregard the flow of weather whenever I see a new decor, a new flower ensemble, a more special cradle, or a combination of nuances placed on each seedling.

Somehow, I feel close to artists able to give the painting the vibrant and vibrant color of the buds and leaves harmonized between them by a detail strategy that captures and disconnects from daily agitation, bringing you to the small, but full, significance of the present.

To admire is the first work of "to analyze". I observe the person in charge of the garden, the attention being directed to the tools he works with, the materials he has at hand, but especially the way his own decorations grow. Creativity exists only in the case of an artist animated by his hands, who know how to gracefully touch each blade of grass, each leaf remnant, with that delicacy with which you spread the color on the easel.

Each blade of grass and each leaf has its place in the garden. Some people harbor their personal vision of plants by arranging them as a puzzle, without any concern for contradictions.

Leadership: Do you fight to maintain the appearance of an image of imagined happiness, as it must be created by an artist of nature, even if this torments you on the inside more than you would ever be willing to admit?

A few days ago, I saw an old man who gave instructions to his faithful servant: do this, do the other, that is beautiful, that is not, etc. It is like a parody to notice an individual point the finger, but does not possess the rare ability to transform reality into a dream and the other way around. But the old man, the same I always see without him seeing me, never puts his hand on the rake, doesn't cut the roses, doesn't plant, doesn't dig; you will never see him pushing a wheelbarrow.

His real happiness is to show off his tremendous appreciation for beauty, but without feeling the experience and the charm of the taste for the beauty carried by art, without being able to express his artistic sensibility through a material and spiritual practice. He poses as an honorable gentleman, admirer of the finest arts, but he lacks that constant kneading of muddied hands, that expressive movement of colorful hands is unknown to him, he lacks the ability to work without pause until late in the evening.

Not even watering the plants seems to be included in his "resume" of skills. There is someone specially paid for all these delicate chores. He discovered Facebook. He is content in taking pictures, the fruit of a subtle deception, a false assertion of his way of being, as if he were especially skillful when it comes to gardening. But all for the sake of fans and likes.

Art and science are united by the same determinative function: to create the amazing force of nature willing to let itself be transformed by man's spiritual experience.

This gentleman finds his refuge in the condition of a great lover of nature, but in the middle of his heart is the pale copy of a statue without life, even if he would never recognize his ignorance to the concrete of life and of divine creation, even though he would never recognize the limits of his own importance that he seeks to exert with great autonomy.

Of course, I do not want to bring arguments about the character that enormously betrays this spineless and frail man, for just as you know how to deal with your garden, so too you know how to do everything and you have done so your whole life.

But worse than this is that this man has not learned to communicate with nature after so many years of life, he cannot feel the ephemeral of the cherry blossom, he cannot feel the touch of the earth as a gentle blessing, he cannot knead the earth in his palms like a dough or feel the vibrations of the earth beneath the barefoot. And this is more important than any leading function.

Sir, careful not to dirty the gloves your gardener works with. And a good gardener does not work with gloves.

Leadership: Can you perceive the image of your being as a sign that you have entered a world where you need to know from the beginning where to seek it to ensure the fulfillment of the ideals that you carry in your soul?

The gardener communicates with nature and can change the personalized code of a decor, not because it is in his power to "let it be seen that something was done by his hand", but because he shows his care for the environment without focusing on the real way of operation of the "one man show" representation for the spectating passerby's.

A true gardener does not use the temptations of appearances to animate the living, the works of nature, in its image and likeness, but remains faithful to the aesthetics of the virtues of pragmatism, efficiency, fidelity, sensitivity, affection, diligence, skill, etc.

In leadership, it is important to look at the gardener's image as an exhortation to deeper thinking on the transformation of things that do not end their life cycle, but make up that reality of the eternal "Now" in the way of a personalized experience through the attitude of a caretaker of a place of virtues.

The ideal that the leader carries in his soul is the same one I wish a gardener touches: to resonate with the spiritual power of creation made out of effort and soul.

What kind of gardener of human souls is the one who does not feel what plants endowed with the power to grow from seeds planted by his hand feel?

Here the emphasis should not only be on man's features, but on the characteristic features of the work discipline he practices, highlighted by the planting and care of the flowers in his own garden. Care for nature, care for Creation, care for environmental conditions, respect for the rules of a good household, respect for beauty, respect for well-done work, attention to detail, attention to the richness of nature and its variety of manifestations.

Leadership must be seen as the ultimate method of gardening activity as a means of control and registration of nature.

At the same time, the theme of gardening is placed at the center of a wider problem, related to the powers associated with the image of an undisturbed, fulfilled happiness, to contribute to creating a delightful decoration that contains a moral, spiritual reward, not one that will rise to the height of a pedestal (standing out) that is essentially very flimsy.

The image of happiness carries within it the possible void of a lost life, a deception, if the garden becomes a territory of duplicity.

Leadership is a deciphering of life in the direction of addressing the condition of man who is not content to know only what he sees with his eyes but who is able to capture through the filters of will and sensibility the whole essence of Creation transposed into a garden made by his hand.

The Statue That Does Not Gain Life highlights the personality of the man who never knew that feeling of refreshment, of a steady good mood, of a permanent cleansing of thoughts, due to the proximity to the nucleus of life that is "an artistic intervention in nature in order to rediscover beauty on another scale".

Even if he knew how to talk about art (as from books), such a man would never be able to produce art simply because he could not embrace the immenseness and depth of Nature. We have so much to learn from nature. Let us feel before embracing...

Someone said it well at one point: "Nature is the most expressive model for an artist; it must move away from the artificial and capture the natural. In this case, the artist is the "wandering son" who returns home, to Mother Nature and God the Father."

The Stigma Of Those Destined For Doom (II)

Try to redefine your identity, justifying your existence through a self-discipline that bear the consequences of your actions.

A single opponent continues to stay more and more far away from Anton Chigurh: the self-control. He finds nowhere an outlet to let loose the cruelty of his icy soul. Only the tracks of blood he left free him, renewing the reason of his existence, like any other assassin. An awful chil gushes from inside him like a hemorrhage; his whole ambition is reinforced in a single layer of mortar. The gun with silencer discharges again its lead in everything that comes in its sight. Another poor innocent is always marked.

The light of change settles on the horizon. Sometimes, the occasional injuries threaten his life, engraving deep and compact shadows in his thoughts. This light makes him an unfinished silhouette in the workshop of the world and the events that shelter him as a doomed to a longer penitence. But he is not allowed to commune. Conscience alone must resurge in him and punish him severely. What conscience? Where should it spring from?

The black, thick curtains from the window of his world adjusts as necessary the dim light of change, reducing to a few beams the penetration of the rays of humanity – more and more illusory. This distribution of light and shadow, life and death, becomes purely decorative for him, it can always stop and recompose.

Being an assassin in this world where nothing is perfect, attracting fatality as a high power magnet is, for Anton Chigurh, the best form of redemption. To always have a gun with you, and within you, a deeply winged demon – the will to kill unhindered. There is the great discrepancy between essence and belonging, between what you are and what you should be.

Leadership: Can you resist falling into the void, in relation to the expectations of a destination of contrasts between force and fragility that surprisingly unusual?

How does the power to impose yourself needs to be used, with all its features and all the basic pillars of your character, so as to be free from any moral constraints? The same way that you can reject all the authority arguments that do not sustain your ideas to redefine identity, giving reasons for your existence through a self-discipline which becomes aware of the consequences that may result from your actions on a social level.

That means to intensively cultivate all your resources, to act so as to become aware of the need to be compatible with a reality where lack of direction has the supreme saying. Bringing a plus in your life does not mean you surrender to "fading", but resist falling into the void, in relation to the expectations corresponding to a destination of contrasts between force and fragility that surprisingly unusual.

The power of man is given by the feeling of uniqueness arising from the impulse to change, while fragility is a sentiment springing from the profound understanding of the composition of life and from the magical faith in a just world. The contrasts of these two entities surprise through the unusual when an action leaves behind a mark that is tough to erase, a memory that relates to the judgment that God sets up for you if you commit the sin of believing yourself better than others.

Here we refer mainly to the contrast between the deep and surface structures, which must make the best from each other, not cancel each other for each reset of the limits challenging your character. The deep structure is given on what makes you feel special, helping you evolve in a right direction. While the surface structure is given by everything that surrounds, runs through and enslaves you, that hatred of howling wolves, the chaos between reality and delusion, that false link between people, that inequality of opportunities.

Leadership: Are you able to give meaning to the concept of "reorienting the compass of life" that you set according to what you want to emphasize in a orienting way in confronting the limits of your own consciousness?

The leadership's priority is the entrance into a zone without "turbulence", an area where man perceives the difference between good and evil, between light and darkness, through a redefinition of its existence. Someone made a sound confession on a website: "The confrontation between the solitary and anguished man with Evil becomes a Faustian meeting of brutality and inequality of forces against which alternatives simplify and reduce to the utmost extent."

So, leadership can be canceled by the very motivation of man, by the very contradiction between his feelings and the perceptions about his condition, which facilitate the entrance into a dark area, accompanied by a deep restlessness. Man can be relevant to the concept of "reorienting the compass of life" when he renews his rationale to react to the events that mark him, by reconsidering the role he plays in directing the destiny of other people.

In order to be unique in what you give and in what you leave behind, you do not need to interfere with the preset order of the world, threatening it. But try to integrate into its reality, without appealing to personality extensions put on a single fundamental line: the gain obtained by removing others, even if you bump on their disapproval. In a sense, fatality, like personal guilt, has a set of very compact experiential education and orientation as their starting point.

Personality acquires other nuances that can be understood and foreseen only when you are calm and rational. The experience sensors must compress a huge amount of human variability around a central axis: tackling prejudices and eliminating false thinking patterns. Leadership acquires the significance of man through the effective management of the power of healing morally and spiritually by assuming full existence, by covering all possible hypostases.

The gray routine of existence often echoes a wave of wisdom, a state of inspiration, a specific call towards your true being, or towards something higher, which you need to consider in order to convince yourself of your own opening or grimness, your own superiority or inferiority in front of the mirrors where you see yourself.

In confronting the limits of one's own consciousness, man can highlight the inevitable fear of failure or the sense of disorientation that makes him perceived either as a labyrinth from which he can no longer come out from alive, or as a final point of reflection that can clarify his existence.

The Stigma Of Those Destined For Doom captures that uncertain area of experience which excludes the need to renew your mentality and spirituality, making it difficult to see what it means to be evolutionary.

Let us remember the words of writer Colin Turner: "Pitfalls help you: that is how you find out if you really want what you think you want, if you really follow the urging of heart and if you really are worthy of what it leads you to achieve."

The Stigma Of Those Destined For Doom (I)

Take a firm stand against your own weaknesses, without straying from the constraints of your evolutionary line.

Wherever we follow Anton Chigurh, we find him as if wrapped by a demonic cloak of helplessness, supporting his existence on the feeling of belonging to a world increasingly alien to his. Living in isolation, without human interaction, made slave of his own weaknesses, he continues to let loose his irrepressible anger.

Wherever Chigurh is, we can be almost certain that somebody is marked with the blood-colored red of death. The ambition of this ruthless assassin gushes forth through all the pores of his skin. Cruel and unpredictable, the evil venom pulsates in his veins, and when you least expect it, flares and splashes anyone who comes its way.

Eradication, disengagement from the ruthless demon, hanging like a foreign body from all that individualizes it becomes absolutely necessary, but impossible. He will continue a long while its series of "notes", which became his reason to be.

The man apparently common, but unusual, this unaspicious dreadful sphinx that stretches its mysterious wings in everyday life abandoned itself, without right of reply, to its immeasurable momentum to more and more misleading peaks.

He produces endless torment to those around him. And he continues to indulge himself in the creation of a new form of existence under the weight of the cruelty shell gushed out from the man turned into a beast. A disconnect from reality, a stage that paves the way for a new transformation: "Pacem în obscuritas invenio ! ". *

Leadership: Do you support your existence in the shadow of your sense of belonging to a world that is more and more foreign to you in comparison to a subtle form to protect yourself from an embarrassing condition?

Do you abandon yourself to the immeasurable impetus to misleading peaks? Can you crush that "demon" inside you, attached like a foreign body to everything that individualizes you? Do you indulge yourself in the creation of a new form of existence that discredits or undermines the development of relations? What is the engine that renews the reason of your existence?

To accomplish something related to leadership, not only skill and cleverness in shaping or building a definite form of value are necessary (the skill to make right choices at all times), but also what we might call "The Whole of Man", with all that it represents. Everything that comprehends him, with all that is unsoundable and mysterious in him, with his inner universe.

Man is the response entity to the circumstances of a reality that sometimes exceeds his ability to understand it, supporting his existence in the shadow of a sense of belonging to a world increasingly foreign to his. It is distinguished by a subtle form of being protected from an embarrassing condition, that of the negative side of the world, when it stops from thinking of everything in terms of: "no matter what they do they bear no condemnation."

The work of leadership is therefore not so much a resonant victory, an extraordinary achievementof a man with vocation and talent in a particular area, but rather a regulation of his character in the power of reason to create interpersonal rules of conduct for the purposes of joint action, by the appropriate correlation of its dominant characteristics with the requirements posed by its process of evolution.

But the work of leadership can also be a torture, not just a step forward, can be a form of disappointment intensely experienced by those who do not comply with the inherent rules and who do not blame themselves in any circumstances of their own transgressions. It is good for everyone to learn to critically analyze the deviations from the normal course of life.

Leadership: Does the integrity of your reality make up the dark register of the list of circumstances in which you have to demonstrate your attributes of consciousness, not in the sense of the gloom, but in the hidden in a less exploited area?

In "The Instructions of Kagemni", who seems to have been the vizier of King Sneferu, is found also this interesting observation: "The innermost room is open for the man of silence." Of course, these words can be assigned to more than one interpretation, but we will stop only on the essence that leadership requires.

Namely, to the value of the "hidden man", through that strong and striking component by which it manifests, that lays unknown deep within each of us. The value of man manifests visibly in the exterior, through the body, but always alternates between different poles: "to be" and "not to be".

The highest, most precios features of man are stored in "the innermost room", this area of vital resources for his existence and evolution, where he can intervene at any given time.

The integrity of his reality is given by the intensity with which he manifests the firm consciousness of his differentiating individuality. He demonstrates his attributes of consciousness, not in the sense of the somber, but in that of the hidden in a less exploited area called "missed experiences" or "feeling of rejection" when he cannot fulfill an ideal, when he is not given the possibility to refute his negative emotions.

The man who puts a price on human value, the man with an attitude based on morality and strength of character – the perfect model for leadership, embellishes his self-image – getting rid of everything that is toxic, of everything that can draw him down, of all negative ballast that can subjugate his existence. Only such a man can start afresh, only such a man can defeat "the demon" inside him.

Leadership: Can you put yourself in situations where you increase your solidarity towards an experience that still leaves its mark on you, daily, without being rigorous in combating the enemy you do not know?

I read an interesting article today on the Internet, in which the orator Vasile Paun prioritized human knowledge: "If I fight fire with fire, I can't expect to get peace. It is a situation where no one wins. I can not reach integration following the dynamic: victim – perpetrator – savior / resistance, or through fight and negativity. I must integrate positivity with negativity until I reach the balancing point."

A good leadership matters only if you get the victory over the "the hidden man" inside you. The result of a battle between two redoubtable opponents: fire and peace, negativism and positivism. An escape from the conflict with the moral and the immoral standard. A combination of circumstances where there are no reservations and alternatives: you either win or lose.

At one point, you can find yourself in both sides. What can help you get over the wall of uncertainty, the fundamental step towards full elucidation of all the unrest, is to block the opponent inside you and not let him splash you with venom. Arm yourself with the most precious quality: self-control, for you not to get hurt. Impose yourself upon the false reality that He inflicts you. Only so you will be able to root out this "demon" inside you, clenched like a foreign body to everything that individualizes you.

If you want to be helped to change, help yourself. In each of us are hidden the germs of an "Anton Chigurh" that reject their reason to be, limiting the contact with the sense of their own existence, with their origin, deriving from the primitiveness of those who chose the wrong path to human existence.

If you want to prove your humanity, take a firm stand against your own weaknesses, without straying from the constraints of your evolutionary line. Do you block your opponent or let him always cling to you until he pulls you down?

An enemy that you do not know, but one you always feel present in your reality, is the acceptance of becoming complacent in confusing and frustrating situations alongside a duplicate person who simultaneously serves two masters: continuous enmity and refusal to live a moral existence.

The Stigma Of Those Destined For Doom comes from that "I" remained in a rough state, rugged under the influence of education, human relations, self-knowledge and the surrounding world. In leadership, desire, willingness and power must act synergistically and in accordance with the "I" – the hidden man, who became a masterpiece in the workshop of the world.

The Stone Gives Way To The Sky

On May 12, 2015

Ensure a mobility that will allow you to reevaluate your "Gigantic" force of vision production through the tendency to conquer endless expanses of imagination.

"Letters of Michelangelo... Sometimes, a cry escapes them. The groan you hear at every line of the letters from the time of the Sistine Chapel frescoes. To work for months on end, unnaturally bent, with your head laid upon the back of your neck. With your hands numb and your feet heavy as lead. Eyes red and swollen because of the plaster falling on them. The brushes escaping your hands. The dizziness. The scaffolds that tremble as if they'd want to crush the momentum of creation upon the relentless immobility of the dome.

But behold, for the martyrdom months come to pass. The scaffolds are taken apart... the back straightens. The head rises. The creator gazes. He gazes upon his work. And the domes open before his eyes. The stone gives way to the sky.

*As Michelangelo, must we also straighten our backs... turning your eyes towards the laboratory vessels, filters, projectors, speakers, dialogues, music sheets... And gaze upon the domes that stretch over us... Our breath is taken away when, tilting our head back, we look into the future. We are atop a pyramid... But, looking upwards, behold, this peak becomes a starting point. And from it raises... another giant, which... is ready to conquer the infinite spreads of imagination." **

Leadership: Can you to give a new meaning to the exploration experience of new creative areas through the acquisition of a new concept of what it means to be yourself in a variety of expressive hypostases?

Always strengthening beliefs, based on the observation that human tendency is upwards, in relation to the faith of taking a thing to completion, can represent a solid fundamental for the challenge of being a creator. And through mobility, regardless of the achieved level of experience, highlighting the dynamic of development that you represent as a man of creation, fortifies that form of daring – of going out of the comfort zone that limits you, rolling over any self-doubt towards destruction.

Leadership, as a trend of encouraging a momentum towards performance, assumes that you practice the will, desire and ability to give new meaning to the learning experience, exploration – by relating to its results, training in this way your capacity of self-evaluation. A man of innovation devotes himself entirely to his work and, especially, to new openings for evolution that put him in contact with his power of realizing something original, sometimes independently from others, even without the certainty of success.

Mobility is the artist's ability to ensure the transformation of personal creation into a tool for handling all cinematic performances imaginable.

The tendency of a man of creation to conquer the infinite spreads of imagination, alongside the desire of being atop the pyramid, becomes through an orderly individual experience more than the expression of his personality and attitude towards what he does and transmits. It becomes a part of the soul, a mirror of their journey through life, a continuation of the process of training for performance, a starting point toward a future of quality. Ora et labora, pray and work.

Being yourself in a variety of expressive hypostases means guaranteeing the authenticity of your vast knowledge by acquiring a certain way of constructing an innovation that will make the viewing experience of an image that will survive time much more attractive.

Leadership is any assumption of an image that is able to make you appear in the hypostasis of a "Giant" of the production of visibility produced by the impetus of that artistic creation that ennobles and transfigures the eternal elements that formed the basis for its creation.

The Stone Gives Way To The Sky is a metaphor of the desires that become a reality, due to the human tendency to conform to the positive aspects and the results of their own experiences, acting in the direction of a personality that imposes itself by realizing the synthesis of fund-work-message. It expresses the full hope of success in searching for performance and finding uniqueness in what they do. The end of martyrdom. The consequence of the outbreak from the rich depths of being. A fact that involves a differential treatment of the development stage, contrary to the status of a mere man.

The Story Of A Perpetual Becoming

What is never forgotten is contained in an annex, an integral part of the trajectory of his diversity, the same path imagined by a god, experienced by an alchemist, loved by a philosopher, entrusted to an explorer and driven by the force of the hazard.

I was living out of an unmeasured excess of remembering, between "remembering your own faults" and responses of "don't know", in the totality of describing a night painting of life, just as Prince Ludwig Philip was forging his personality by changing the exceptional and unfavourable circumstances his country was experiencing.

Everything seemed detached from a non-material outward guidance of those who are seen, but cannot be known, in the infinite mystery of their differences, within the hidden interior of the incomprehensible creatures from which the thoughts full of doubt were clinging with obstinacy. As if I had been immersed in an everlasting space, whatever I would have chosen, darkness or light, I would have come to the same place, where the heart beats are not heard but felt and shared with the precision of an echo that reflects over the world.

Summing up all the attempts and tests tested so far, even though I have not always been aware of the absurdity of my efforts, which can be a mystery to any man unfamiliar with the formulas of experimenting with great knowledge, a new image of art is obtained: An eternal present. The very place to shelter my mind and its constant need to "become" something.

Out of necessity, I knew too well that there are other goods that constitute happiness, such as the passion for art and the interest given to the "science lab", reunified in the universe of a genius creator. But only one perpetuates despite the fact that it does not exhaust the whole content of the Great Work, leaving aside any philosophical approach: the depth of consciousness in which all things meet in one unique reality.

Leadership: Can the "I know" or "I do not know" answers about the side effects of "remembering" consumption be considered incorrect in the equation of the habit to relive them?

The mistakes of a wise man from whom a profound meaning can be derived, such as the confusion of an inexperienced memory or the hesitation of a consciousness related to time, is expressed by a holy feeling in front of the unknown, making everyone feel overwhelming, almost lethal.

The art of seeing it in several dimensions simultaneously, a trick of the mind stretched by new experiences, is a symptom of a deep-rooted habit in me: to see things against the current, different from how I thought them to be. To regain all my regrets and aspirations, it gives me the time to think of myself as "The Three Princes of Serendip": when I was traveling, I did not stop to discover, accidentally or through cleverness, things I was not looking for. "I do not know" turned almost overnight into a well-deserved "I Know".

Victor Hugo, whose life has submitted other meanings than those given by ordinary people, was heard after the first turning of philosophy, the true one: "God shows his will to people by revealing them into events, obscure texts, written in a mysterious language. People translate them. Hasty, incorrect translations, mistakes, shortcomings and contradictions. Very few spirits understand the divine language. The most penetrating, the quietest, the deeper they decipher slowly, and when they reach the end of their text, the work is perfect."

For a long time, I was struggling with that predestination of the proud man who would never bow before the sharp sword of unwritten laws, almost as impersonal as the judgment of God to which he seemed to lack all emotion. Conclusions of personal experiences came from the impact of the original that the alchemists, and the sages or explorers had thought of in their long journeys in the unknown, being more a question of courage, a final classification of the pulsating factors, between divine revelation and artistic inspiration. They all have the basis of breaking the secret relationship with what it means to be truly virtuous.

The most important virtue you have to acquire is a sort of temporary defeat in the face of metaphysical sin, from which you are able to resist what you already know.

Captain Sinbad and his crew find a gold tablet that leads him to an evil black magic practitioner, Prince Koura. Sinbad meets the Vizier that has the other side of the tablet, forming the map of an unimaginable treasure: eternal youth, the shield of darkness and a crown of untold riches. Together with the Vizier, Sinbad and his crew go overseas looking for treasure.

Every time there are people who swim against the water current, but also people who are led by a mysterious thread, which is called: unpredictable. Successful as a chance encounter. The hazard integrated with the work of art – divine. You look for something and find something else. Go in one direction, and strangely you are led to another. You cannot distinguish the discovery from what you have actually sought.

To take the risk of looking beyond the great ocean of divine interiority that orders triumphant deeds and man's relationships with the world beyond the boundaries of the minimal effort of moralizing inspiration meant to deepen the perfection of the work that the height of wisdom requires by defying the projection of that Energy or Will to be, which, according to Schopenhauer, manifests without purpose and without reason.

Being a man of learning from life lessons, like an alchemist looking for eternal youth, means to deepen yourself entirely in your sweet and painful fulfilment, which starts from a continuous ignorance of the alarm signals sent by the universal spirit and continues with the struggle against a self-indulgent self, not defeated by the mysterious eternal horizons of the world.

The real glory is to keep yourself in a present that protects its past by ensuring its correct "translation", an interpretation consistent with a greater and wiser will than yours.

The Story Of A Perpetual Becoming, the true masterpiece of implementation in relation to two or more judgements to get a new one between the originating point and the final moments in the analysis of fine lines drawn characters, is an error exiled in eternity. Just as building a crystal globe means putting into operation an imaginary world in which someone put the sun in the sky.

What is never forgotten is included in an annex, an integral part of the path travelled by its diversity, the same route imagined by a God, experienced by an alchemist, loved by a philosopher, entrusted to an explorer and driven by the force of the hazard.

The Story Of The Marble Statue And The Marble Tiles

Learn to highlight your qualities, without devaluing those of others.

In the middle of a beautiful city, there was a museum laid with beautiful marble tiles and with a huge marble statue as a part of the display. Many people from all over the world visited the museum every day and admired the beautifully crafted statue. One night, the marble tiles started talking to the marble statue.

Marble Tiles: Hey statue, Don't you think that it is just not fair that everybody from all over the world come all the way here to admire you while ignoring and stepping on me.

Marble Statue: My dear brother, marble tile, Don't you remember we are actually from the same cave.

Marble Tile: Yes! I do, that is why i feel it is even more unfair. Both of us were born from the same cave and yet the world treats us so differently now. This is so unfair !

Leadership: Can you live with the consequence of engaging in a form of liability that does not involve coercive force in the event of opposition to a "modeling" necessary for good quality work?

Marble Statue: Yes, you are right my brother. But, do you still remember the day when the sculptor tried to work on you but you resisted his tools.

Marble Tiles: Yes, I despise that guy. How could he use those nasty tools on me.

Marble Statue: Well, Since you resisted his tools he couldn't work on you. When he decided to give up on you, he started working on me instead. I knew at once that i would be something different and unique after his efforts. I bore all the painful tools he used on me and allowed him craft me as he wanted!

Marble Tiles: But those tools were so painful.

Marble Statue: My brother, there is a price for everything in life. Since, you decided to resist and gave up half way, you can't blame anybody who steps on you now.!

The marble tiles silently listened to his brothers words. and started to reflect on it.

The moral is as follows: The harder the knocks you go through in life, the more you learn and put them to use in the future! Do not be discouraged by setbacks and failures! Keep trying to be better.

Leadership is the pursuit of the certainty that all your hard work has paid off. It represents the voluntary straining of the body's physical or mental powers in order to achieve a higher than usual yield, in the sphere of a major interest: that of building a masterpiece, rising to the heights of perfection.

The Story Of The Marble Statue And The Marble Slab highlights that part of spirituality that deals with the rules and efforts that lead man from the first step of the climb to perfection, to union with God. At the same time, the story indicates the active part of spiritual life, the part of cooperation that God asks of you, the efforts and sacrifices that are required of you to reach the greatness of the work that God wants to accomplish.

The Strike Is October In Cinema

An effective director knows how to use personal feelings and experiences to bring characters and scenes to life beyond what is written in the script.

Why did the film "Strike" cause such an echo, why did some still, most of them belatedly, consider the film an event? Without going into the detailed analysis of the film, we still have to note some of its own aesthetic elements.

The aesthetic problems he was solving had been posed by Eisenstein before the film began. He alone describes the way in which the idea that would materialize in this film was born: "The wall of the Strasnii Monastery, demolished today, had an arcade. Through there went the road to the cinema, which used to be loud, from Malaia Dmitrovka no. 6, famous at the time, because it was where the most sensational American films were shown... How could these giants of the burgeoning American film be surpassed, in that an era in which our own cinematography had only taken its first faltering steps? How to find a subject that could surpass the American cinematographic stories? are we finding heroes who, through their personality, will forever overshadow the luminaries of bourgeois cinema?"

These questions led to the following: "What if we did everything the other way around: dropped the subject, dropped the stars, and used in the center of the drama the table as a 'dramatic character', the same table which was only the background for the play of the actors embodying individual heroes?"

Innovative leadership manifests itself in the ability to create unexpected and exciting scenes in perfect harmony with the atmosphere of the event.

The aesthetic idea of "Strike" was therefore born from an emulative desire of Eisenstein, who started the fight against bourgeois cinema with the clear intention of surpassing it. Specifying the motive of this phenomenon seems to me important for the understanding of Eisenstein's personality. Immediately after finishing the film, the director clearly knows its value and writes: "The strike is October in cinematography".

To increase the intensity of the emotional impact and the narrative movement of a film, the director can use multiple landmarks or sequences, that is, he can use a double montage with the same thematic constant: "visual counterpoint". The relative displacement of these sequences, by means of dialectical montage, can be given by a frame counter. Therefore, in order for the narrative to be performed in both interpretive senses, an individual sense and a collective sense, it is necessary to double the cinematic image in such a way that the second image is displaced from the first by 1/4 of narrative constant. In this way, the periodic signals of the story become 90° out of phase and define a rotating field of the viewer's attention.

Creating vivid and authentic characters in film relies on the emotional evocation of events conveyed through an image so that viewers resonate through personal experiences.

Since a certain portion of the image surface does not belong jointly to the two perspectives - individual and collective - the ratio of cinematographic signals is not influenced by the "aging" of the technique, the degradation of the film or other external factors. The Narrative Analyzer divides the two modulated dramatic streams - which correspond to the two images, that of the individual hero and that of the masses, according to the direction of emotional vibration, and then directs them to the receptors of emotional sensitivity (spectators). A third receiver, of the "social catalyst" type, transforms the part of the unmodulated beam into an emotional signal that is deflected by the prism of the social context, on the mirror of reality, and then reflected on the photoelement of the collective consciousness.

A tuning amplifier in the narrative circuit keeps this "social catalyst" receiver output constant by regulating the flow of images that affect viewers emotionally. In this way, the emotional field of the film is divided into several parts by a signal encoder that evaluates the ratio of the two phase-shifted signals: individual and collective. This innovative approach of Eisenstein in "Strike" allowed the creation of a film that went beyond the conventions of bourgeois cinema, thus answering the challenge of surpassing the giants of American film and creating a new Soviet cinematographic aesthetic.

The genuine emotional charge of the scenes comes not from the sketchy notes of the script, but from the personal feelings and experiences of the creative team.

"Strike is October in cinema" refers to the transformation of the narrative perspective, considering that without individual stars a deep impact can be achieved, in that the mass becomes the central expression of emotions and tensions. For this reason, the narrative shifts its focus, through a kind of abandonment of traditional conventions, to the principle that collective force has a more captivating role than individuality.

The Struggle For A Reason To Doubt

On March 28, 2009

Develop your leadership skills, supporting the road of others to your level of performance.

Who is that bold, cold-blooded person, endowed with a penetrating and creative mind, who manages to impose his authority and rise above all men? Who is he who, by his enviable powers, can decide the fate of each person after his own will? Perhaps, as Jules Verne once said, such a man can only be "The Master of the World".

Endowed with some exceptional qualities of genius, thanks to his formidable ability to invent and build super-sophisticated equipment, such a man would have every reason to consider himself the absolute master. Who wouldn't follow that man superior in every way who, with a strong self-confidence and a safety which arouses more fear than respect, can deliberately destroy anyone? Faced with such a man, you have no power, you must obey him without criticizing.

Leadership: Do you have the power to give up the struggle to gain and demonstrate your own superiority, accepting the need for the efforts of others to make you believe that a part of their world is better than yours?

Anyone who has read the book "Robur the Conqueror" knows that, in the end, humans did not allow themselves to be ruled by Robur's authority, even though he was a splendid scientist and could easily rule the world only through the power of his invention, the Albatross. Rather, Robur realized that there was no point in leading the world as long as people were not open to change. Here are the last words Robur addresses to mankind:

"Citizens of the United States, my experiment is finished; but my advice to those present is to be premature in nothing, not even in progress. It is evolution and not revolution that we should seek. In a word, we must not be before our time. I have come too soon today to withstand such contradictory and divided interests as yours. Nations are not yet fit for union.

I go, then; and I take my secret with me. But it will not be lost to humanity. It will belong to you the day you are educated enough to profit by it and wise enough not to abuse it. Citizens of the United States, Good-by !

Leadership: Is your superiority the culmination of an evolution started from a direct ignorance of the world and continued with the vigorous attempt to deny its return, even if you force yourself to resist the current imposed by a reality that cannot be interrupted because it is disturbed?

Let's imagine that, by absurd, in the distant future, one man, meaning you, will have absolute power – what would happen in this case? Will anyone manage to change your absolutist thoughts and actions? Your leadership potential will continue to grow and flourish? Will you be a changing agent who creates an appropriate climate for others to grow, or a restrictive climate, which will force them to remain small and undeveloped? Will you focus only on your personal powers, ignoring the leadership of others?

The truth is that you won't be able to ask of others what you don't ask of yourself. If you don't create an environment where the success of others becomes easy to achieve, if you don't influence them positively through your power and don't lead them to that high point of performance that you already reached, and if you don't allow them to evolve towards lasting development, your future won't look bright at all.

Leading people in a way, by your own will, without giving them the opportunity to develop, will decrease your leadership potential. It's like being in a car on a one-way road, and you're caught by torrential rain, with lightning and thunder. You will always be under threat of being struck by lightning.

A leader never accepts his position as a spectator to the drama of the world of being left behind. The world around him becomes a reality that he cannot deny and that he has an obligation to change, even if the movement of the world is not accidental, but decided by a competent judge, that being God.

Can you asses "the state of weather" before continuing your ascent to perfection? Do you look first to integrate your leadership in the development of people before guiding them? If they don't get good results, you will never be able to occupy a special place in their hearts.

Just as plants can't grow without water, so you don't have the opportunity to grow if you restrict other's people right to performance. If their progress stagnates, so will your leading ability. Robur found the strength to sacrifice his precious time for the enlightenment of others, of ordinary "mortals", striving so hard to achieve an ideal that is almost impossible, an ideal that transcends the present.

Napoleon Bonaparte is known to have been one of the greatest leaders in history. However, he failed lamentably because, in the last part of his life, he turned into an absolutist leader, a tyrant. His leadership abilities developed while those of others diminished. He couldn't fade the effect of adverse reactions that had emerged. His betrayal and, finally, his exile were a consequence of his decayed mentality and lack of a positive partnership attitude among citizens. He should have developed his leadership skills, supporting the road of others towards the same high level of performance and success as his.

Leadership is the price you pay for generating a totally unpredictable version of the world, sometimes by sacrificing reputation or personal well-being.

The orientation towards the future of knowledge and educational action is not only possible, but also absolutely necessary. In this case, the leader is exercised as a voluntary act of free decision, but especially as a collective consciousness that already experiences the future.

The Struggle For A Reason To Doubt is the reality you face when you are above other people. Are you a big-hearted person or a tyrant? Do you cultivate the most common sin in leadership – to measure yourself only with yourself and create opportunities for development only for yourself? If you find yourself in such a point, you are about to lose your value.

You are blind until you see that, on the humane plan, nothing is worth doing if you don't do it in such a way that others be better than you. Does your art to lead supposes also receptivity, not only resistance?

Conclusion: As a leader, you must know when things stagnate and seek reasons and causes for this stagnation. You must be able to analyze and reassess the situation whenever things stagnate. When there are reasons to doubt, you must change your tactic and leadership methods. You, as a leader, develop in parallel with your team. When it stagnates, you must redirect your forces to come in between, in order for it to become as evolved as you, and the performance of both must be far superior compared to other competitors.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls (II)

Unravel the true meaning behind those vague routs that astray people from the two constants: "to be" or "not to be", without losing yourself in a sea of doubt.

The amount of negative energy radiated by inspector Finch creates an adverse chemical reaction. The state of excitement of the prime suspect, Laura Quinn, boils to a maximum; she needs an inhibitor to stop the reaction. Her strength of character decomposes into harmless elements, all other traits involved into the restructuring process suddenly separate in freestanding units, with independent, slow and insecure functioning. Only she knows what's going on deep inside her.

When forming covalences, it is possible that the participating pair of electrons come from a single atom. A strange uneasiness seizes even the most fearsome hunter. Finch is not content when Laura nonchalantly responds in kind, but more confusing. For he, the man molded in ivory, despises this sweet and gentle equation between calm, intelligence and subtlety. The ecstasy of success no longer vibrates in him. He can no longer monitor his pulse. The nerves fluster. The concentration of oxygen in the blood increases, everything inside him is hot.

The turmoil conditioned by the balance of events, this meteorite that passes over Terra incognita of Finch's senses intensifies only in lashing moments lived by Laura Quinn – increasingly electrified, more limited, spontaneously lacking vital force when his field of negative energy invades her body, becoming almighty.

Only in this moment of high intensity, energy and vibration, the density of his own pride maximizes his strengths. The whole concentration of reacting substances stirs, and then doubles. Everything inside him gains momentum, as if traversed by an electric current of high intensity.

Leadership: Are you able to build a stronger self-control down the chain of events that mark your existence, in a context of the type: "Don't be too gentle with what's happening to you"?

A new attack follows. Launching a real vortex of currents with high voltage on Laura, he tries to instantly remove all inspiring particles of her immune system. But she escapes the current shocks she is subjected to with a single price: moral dilemma. Well said Aldous Huxley: "What you live is not what happens to you, it is what you do with what happens to you."

Laura's foundation is inaccurate. Investigating the substrates of her being is almost impossible. Because over her original impulses and gestures, Finch's electrifying will overlaps, shortening almost all her stimuli, all the operational parameters. It alters her thinking pattern, inhibits the activity of existing connections in her space of manifestation until it brings her closer to the truth.

A real revolt stirs inside Laura, while at the antipole, a grim turmoil struggles between doubt and assumption inside Finch. Two troubled souls are face to face like two mad swordsmen. One attacks and the other defends himself. Who will wield the sword of will better? Which self-control will be stronger?

After all, guilt is a case of low self-esteem, an increase in emotional and mental vulnerability.

Laura does not have to be gentle with what is happening to her, but she must face a situation that is hard to bear with confidence and skill. She must find a way to balance herself energetically, to clear her conscience from the sins committed voluntarily, so she can face the challenge: "I will never present amiable findings and evidence, even if I am guilty."

Can the evolution of your leadership be reduced to a cumulative alternation of causes and effects regarding the differences between "self-acceptance" and "requirements imposed by the nature of events", so that you can place value on your change of character?

Do you point everything towards a dark background? Does your nature raise many doubts, arouse anxiety, reactions of concern? Do you despise that sweet and gentle equation between calm, intelligence and subtlety? Do you try to remove all inspiring particles of other people's immune system? Does your manner arouse in others a true revolt, a grim turmoil?

The man's functioning system is questioned when he is confronted with the vicissitudes of a temporary adverse circumstance. The result of interference of the two waves, "to be" and "not to be", that exclude each other, fits his inner vibration, which in turn, acting with intensity, opens his mind and soul or activates that abnormal state of mental and emotional wear.

A constant bombardment of stimuli likely to launch the "irremediable", wrapping man in a spiral of uncertainty and instability, throwing him on some dizzying, tiring and hard to bear serpentines, pointing everything inside him towards a dark background. This will result in defeating his resistance, surrendering to a stronger opponent and exhibiting all aspects of his personality.

Leadership: Do you prove yourself worthy of the significance of the events experienced by resorting to an "I cannot deviate from change" approach, in order to know the truth about your own nature?

Human foundation is inaccurate. It is almost impossible to investigate its substrates. Because its thinking pattern that creates a magnified reflection as emotion is not predominant nor riveted. The foundation can always be updated, altered, narrowed, extended, destabilized, can always be shorted by a stronger will, a more abstract and tenacious thinking.

Being under the influence of such a hostile entity that compels you to give up, do you have the power to fight anymore? Full of doubt, troubled by many wanderings, do you choose to believe that things can and will be changed for the better? Is your character as strong as Laura Quinn's?

Do you let yourself be electrified by the higher will of others or fight back with greater intensity? What are the causes and circumstances that may constitute mitigating circumstances? Can they lead to your moral insolvency? Do you give others reason to use uncompromising judgments?

The true nature of man is to value what he cannot change in himself, by the fact that everything that makes him special is limited to acceptance, forgiveness, liberation from the past.

The craftsman leader produces custom creation just to sell, regardless of form qualities. His work is not designed and made so as to face crisis, austerity and routine, but to last. Therefore, he resorts to tools for light finishing and to perishable and easy to process materials, to a radical courage and a type of highly speculative persuasion, obtained by minor modifications of the situation to satisfy his dependency to hold control. At least for a while.

The artist leader always creates to give us to contemplate the original form of his work. And the amateur leader wants to learn everything, but he is always weak, unable to rise above himself.

Only the genuine leader actively participates in the competition with himself. He explores the most sensitive areas of his life, especially in dry seasons – the only way to facilitate a strong connection with himself.

Leadership is unbalanced when the fulfilling essence of man is subjected to a lot of tests: the wandering. When constants of beauty and goodness are lost in the mist of inability to change their lives for the better, when man cannot firmly recognize the truth of duality, that endless doubt, that disturbance of inner peace occurs, completely detaching him from himself, from reality and credibility.

And genuine leaders are people able to manage the effects of their own wandering, stoically bearing the effects of their own structural crisis. Only in times of high stress, energy and vibration, they maximize their strengths.

Learn how to react properly and discerningly in the face of a personality crisis, when you have the choice between remaining a prisoner of events in which you are involved with or without your will, and discovering another human being in the midst of these events. Leadership means to opt for the latter.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls highlights the tendency to transform evolution in involution when your existential turmoil seems to tighten. Therefore, a real mess is created in the box of feelings and thoughts, a genuine struggle between you and your own Ego.

If you want to know what is your level of leadership, if you want to know in which category of leaders you fit, then untie the real meaning behind those vague routs that separate people from the two constants: "to be" and "not to be", without losing yourself in a sea of doubt.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls (III)

Estimate with precision your personal and professional value, by taking into account the meaning you grant to the meeting with yourself.

Directing everything to a dark background by inducing a flow of a certain frequency, Gavin Finch breaks through the simplicity of the conclusion. Beyond appearances, beyond the impenetrable layer of the huge skyscraper where his suspects keep their thoughts and feelings safe. He then ranks these impulses in a top of the most terrifying fears, pushing his suspects in the area where their resistance is broken. As if sunken into a deep trance, they are forced to reveal the whole truth.

Laura Quinn is the prime suspect in the theft of diamonds. Stubborn, following the call of his ripping will, Finch connects Laura and the invisible element. He identifies the thing off the whole by endless convoluted and complicated variations, that he alone builds with the skillfulness of a fisherman trying to find new ways to catch sharks. And when the isolated phenomenon pierces through darkness, as soon as he feels a split personality of the questioned person, he shrouds him with an icy chill of humble resignation.

Expert on conditioning at a deeper level, Finch searches the wall between the unknown and the existent, the bulkhead from any territory. In it, everything announces Renaissance, while all his suspects feel the End. As alchemists use a coded and encrypted language, mysterious and hieroglyphic images, Finch's enigmatic nature raises many doubts, arouses anxiety, reactions of concern among those subjected to his ruthless interrogation.

Finch's safety is just there, in troubled, suspenseful moments that he lucidly subjects his suspects to. The ecstasy he is going throughout this tense mission, governed by some "laws" that seem to protest, pushes him towards the average area of the investigation. He orders the attack with heavy artillery, shells and grenades, subtly combined until he exhausts his target, until he leaves it inert. Laura breaks under the pressure to which Finch subjects her to, and slowly discloses her weak human character.

Leadership: Do the limits you experience by looking for a relationship between the nature of your influence and assuming the constraints that others have to accept, cause in you the break that facilitates your plunge into the realm of consciousness above reality?

The offensive model adopted with the purpose of improving your access to a new influence area through the sensibility control invisible cable, through regulating the pressure that operates mostly at an ethical and emotional level, producing a certain transformation at a functional level, has that meaning of relocating your whole being in the openness towards another's suffering.

This rare psychological finesse developed with the purpose of revealing an immense reality in the systematic exposure of some vital truths, abusively appropriated in one's own use, can transform into something that compromises the strength balance you must exhibit. In other words, the influence you produce at the level of consciousness in relation to the people around you, must be accepted as an assumption of the constraint of being labeled as "Ridiculous" or "Valid".

Your "attack" value directed towards a conscience guilty of modifying the truth, powered by the will to fulfill your duty until the end, exercises its whole responsibility up to the last implementation phase of the constraints that allow you to decide on your own over an individual's course in life. If you place yourself above others through your own way of becoming a person that transmits aggression, even if not directly, but at the level of reason, it means testing your limits to self-validate as an individual who does not surrender to close-minded and ungodly rules, but neither does it demonstrate any virtue in "moderation."

It would be better if you thought about the fact that while you let yourself be carried away on the wave of powerfulness, your leadership slips away on the slide of involution, or even worse, towards a total obstruction – that of being unable to distance yourself from what you can't forgive. The ability to forgive is a very valuable human characteristic, but not when it detains you from achieving your goals.

Don't forget that reality is the barrier you have to overcome if your conscience asks you to be on the side of truth, but at the same time it is a poisonous spike if you violate the right of others to uphold their innocence.

Leadership: Do you measure the effectiveness of your influence from the perspective of a consciousness that sees itself as "belonging" to a category of invulnerable people in the face of mistakes, contributing to the understanding of the virtues of masterfully achieving a new perspective on the power of truth?

Try to escape reality, without fully separating yourself from it. If you choose forgiveness, that means you prefer to run from that kind of experience of judging everything calmly and putting the finger on the wound – this is the reality that all leaders who cherish taking responsibility confirm, ensuring the necessary, normal balance between rights and obligations.

And if you choose ignorance or forgiveness deriving from the fragility of the "closure-openness" feelings, acting more as a facilitator of a transparent professional relation, ignoring the objectivity of what is, in essence, a just judgment, then your tendency will be to believe that you can transform into a better person as the blind man who wants to save the planet throws himself forward.

This would mean to run away from the toughest reality and get lost in the world of identity and morality that you have made out of too much goodwill.

As leader you have to make a choice between two tangible options for which you can estimate quite accurately their value at the moment when you highlight your qualities: a fight to overthrow the disorder, so that you can get back to order, or a preparation for the heart, towards an ending isolated from regrets, yet compromising. Pay attention to the meaning you grant to the meeting with yourself !

When you experience your physical and psychical extreme limits, you can answer with a laissez-faire attitude, which means to formally get involved in the course of events. Or with a sacrificial attitude, otherwise you won't be a fearful man, but an amiable one, with the risk of being perceived as weak. Or you can answer with a pragmatic-aggressive attitude, which makes you an intransigent and pretentious person.

The power of truth has as its main basis the encounter with yourself when you are willing to regain your self-awareness in the coordinates of an objective fact that enhances your virtue of living in the inner world of other people, without feeling superior to them.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls can be understood as a weight tied at the neck of suffering in order to sink it deeper, because of the leader's firm attitude trying to side with truth, and by that helping to optimally reshape its value. It's actually putting a mix of attributes through the filter of the experiences that give a certain meaning to words like: "constraint", "intimidation" and "inhibition", which only by oxidizing their quantity become beneficial for defining personal potential.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls (I)

Follow the relationship between people and try to discover the key element that directs them negatively, for your leadership to deal with unwanted experiences.

In a dark corner of the bar, two figures can be seen, similar through the experience acquired over time and through their pretentious nature itself: Gavin Finch and Laura Quinn. Gavin suspects that Laura is the man behind the robbery, while Laura is convinced that Finch has no clear evidence against her.

If we follow the thread of conversation and try to unravel the key element that dominates the two, lured by the temptation to experience a new human dimension, we feel that thrill which seems to yell out of every cell, issuing a certain type of waves of high intensity and vibration, depending on the specific of each and every one's personality.

Unpredictable, Finch lives as if only for what is unlimited, far beyond the interior measure of feelings. Only by conducting a thorough investigation, sometimes carried to the absurd, uplifts his professionalism, only thus the singular guarantee of its evolution towards excellence can maintain its validity. This is his supreme happiness, to meet whole-heartedly his inner harmony, patching up his forever open wound of vanity, felt only in moments of weakness of the suspects, with the bandage of mystification and misleading.

Sitting face to face with the suspect, all alone, without witnesses or listeners, Finch sharpens even harder his control mechanisms, pushes further his police forces, dominating by suspense and tension, by voluntarily inducing distress, by investigating the past in the most terrible and oppressive ways possible. He does not give up until the suspect does not raise the white flag of surrender; he only finds peace when his ticket to freedom loses its validity.

Leadership: Can you put in a favorable light what you feel at the level of self-awareness, from the perspective of the freedom to display your superiority through the presence of privileges and exaggerations of the type "the experience of possessing of a dose of tension is everything"?

To see the suspects full of creeps, struggling in remorse to get to smooth water, seeking answers, trying to evade by lying, disturbing their calmness, avoiding criminal liability, that and only that emphasizes Finch's sense of safety, ensuring complete success.

This state of inner contentment, almost diabolical, pushed to paroxysm, is like a boardroom where meetings, held alternately, focus on the need to fight for social exclusion. It's some kind of battle for an unprecedented conquest of supremacy on the human scene. Plots are weaved, evidences are manufactured, the whole functional human structure changes, information that may lead to his tiredness and exposing are sought, turning everything into an unusual drama.

Just as old Peyrade from Balzac's work closes the chimney and uses a stove whose pipe exits through the wall outside, above the street, Mr. Finch covers every hole from the suspect's heart, using here and there every means of persuasion possible, which onerously get beyond the normal pattern. He basically supplements the human's emotional baggage with a consistent negative charge, altering its entire control structure.

But this well-rounded suspect, Laura Quinn, this overstraining resistant computer, equipped with additional protection from excessive voltages, does not give up without a fight. Sly as a fox, she hits back bluntly. But with tact, intelligence and delicacy, hiding all her feelings, fears and hatred under the cloak of innocence.

During interrogation, the alternating voltage, which passes both through positive and negative values, is converted into one that has values of a single polarity. Laura does not have to go so far as to beg Finch's forgiveness and implore mercy, but make him fall with his hands stretched at her feet.

Even under the huge outbreak of unrest, under that grimness of clenched fists, when all the unknowns within her burn and burst out like nebulae, Laura fiercely keeps her calmness.

Leadership: Do you live only for what is unlimited, beyond the inner measure of feelings, in terms of "the cause that ensures your professional development corresponds to a standing in a position of authority"?

What does completely satisfy your inner harmony? What is the factor that accentuates your sense of safety, ensuring you total success in leadership? Do you dominate people only by suspense and tension? Do you fill every gap in people's hearts serving here and there by every means of persuasion possible?

In the ensemble of his representation, the man with his features and manifestations bound against a cause that intensely strains his psyche and emotions, or against an excessive strain of assuming certain responsibilities, exploits some depths effects specific to leadership, which blocks the achievement of the desired level of performance. Cascade effects, direct, indirect and cumulative effects transmit progressively over your own existence.

In such cases, not at all exceptional, but quite common, the man feels overwhelmed by unmanageable responsibilities. Retreating into his own ambiguous and incomplete world, his leadership falls in the area where he needs to lay out his defense shield, which can guarantee his efficiency, the effect being noticeable especially when he is unable to analyze himself against entitled claims that he has from himself. He comes to supplement his spiritual baggage with a substantial negative charge, which alters his whole control structure.

Positive human traits flourish especially around the elementary functional equation, such as: stimuli + values + conscious placing in an environment of fairness, but in the vicinity of a meddling leadership, which aims to demonstrate the causes which restrain his development or lower his efficiency level. To that effect it is true what the expert in training programs John Euhrman said, that some people oscillate and struggle between different variables, torturing themselves with questions like "What if?"

If you go to this dangerous point, where you ask yourself all sorts of questions, calculate all kinds of scenarios and dramatize, decreasing your chances of seeing a bright future, it means that you already are in front of "the barrier where you expect the train to pass".

The harmony between mental and emotional, as well as on the exterior – the harmony in relationships begins to "station", can no longer go through the usual route of transition to wholeness. This is the state you experience in moments of tension, when you are forced to raise the white flag of surrender.

The best leaders discover their true Self only in the tense moments of high impact events, beyond the limits imposed by the very nature of the situations that their presence generates in a different course of life.

Just as Laura Quinn, every leader goes during his life through such extremely tense, overwhelming, unexpectedly stressful, even humiliating moments, when all his functional structure changes, turning him into a defendant, who like any offender before completion of a process, must first check his conscience and be careful not to have a black spot on it.

Only such a key moment can bring out the negative and the vice inside man. An ordinator significance threshold that makes the material the man is built of to be covered and corrected, subject to a processing operation through training at a certain pressure, then testing it regardless of previous corrections until all negative aspects are neutralized.

The expert on leadership John Maxwell said at one point: "One of the most valuable things I've done in my life was to take important decisions before moments of crisis. This allowed me to manage these decisions in critical moments of my life."

However, I believe that the best leaders discover their true self only in the tense moments of life, beyond the limits imposed by their very nature, by the inner reactions that soften their mood, but clear their mind and test their conscience.

Under the huge outbreak of unrest, under that grimness of clenched fists, when all the unknowns inside you burn and chain like nebulae, can you jealously keep your nerves calm? What does your voice of conscience cry? Does it send you a message, to warn you about your feeling of guilt? How serious is this feeling? Does it cause you a fear so strong that you are tempted to give up easily?

The course of a leader's life is given by his faculty to discern, to distinguish things from one another, to judge clearly, with penetration, leaving himself in the will of a world that, even if it goes crazy, is required to be addressed by appealing to the emotions that determine his actions.

The Struggle Of Tenacious Souls highlights the relationship established between people, the tense moments they confront and how they react to various internal or external factors.

If you want your leadership to deal with unwanted experiences, try to discover the primary element that directs people negatively.

The Student Must Go

Exercise your power to shape people around you, conforming yourself to the requirements of the superiority that you want to highlight.

Eisenstein followed master Meyerhold's course for a long time. One day, when the student gave one of his tests, the teacher became sad. Eisenstein was scared, thinking that he responded poorly. But he received a note from Zenaida Reich, actress at Meyerhold's theater and his assistant. He read the note a little bit surprised: "When the student is not only equal, but surpasses the teacher, he must go ! "

Convinced that it was Meyerhold's desire, Eisenstein left him. This rupture was painful for both of them. Eisenstein described it as a "trauma". Trying to explain the story later, when the wound healed long ago and they reconciled and became friends again, Eisenstein wrote about this break:

*"I always find that, in relationship with his students and followers, he played again and again his own trauma caused by the rupture with his first teacher (by K.S. Stanislavski). And with those whom he rejected, he relived the bitterness that was eating him away. In the act of rejection, he became the tragic Father Rusten who defeated Zorab, as if looking for a justification and an addition to what he had committed in his own youth without having the malicious effusion of the "Father", but only giving way to the feeling of independence in creation of the too proud son." **

Leadership: Are you able to play a more important role in the lives of others, so that you can focus on what you have to accept from yourself?

Leadership cannot lead man through the meanders of his complexity if, first, he does not acquire scientific glory through an extended individual practice, an appropriate interaction with his own questions and answers, work experience, findings and representation of reality.

He who is always helped will never be able to impose himself against the toughest opponent: the power to surpass himself. And you can surpass yourself following your own example to train diligently, finding your own way to recharge from the overflow of energy flooding every bit of your being.

What you have to accept from yourself, moving away from the "master" who originally formed you, is the feeling of the effect of the attainment of a determined goal: the gain, the triumph of power, a new version of everything.

A leader is guided by the sense of purpose, not causality. He gathers the elements that make up the constitutive and harmonic parts of an initiatory journey and places them in a less wandered area – that of originality and expressivity in the interpretation of the assumed role.

Leadership is a custom creation, with a unique style, which does not appear in the gallery of "Wrongfully acquired styles" from others, but in the gallery "Discreetly and exquisitely acquired styles". Leadership develops and personalizes through a deep search of your own self, through your meaning and creative power, pointing in some way that absolute freedom of becoming the owner of the professional excellence space and of those who want to be part of it.

Can you sign a loan contract that does not specify the duration for which the loan is granted?

The professional straightening contract is always concluded with a rigorous, independent entity, namely with a master dedicated to your development and transformation, and he fulfills that condition of reciprocity, whereby the intellectual revenues, embedded in results to absorb the involvement and formation costs, charged in multiples stages, are transferred in order to hide the origin or ownership of an intellectual good.

Leadership is the equal of a meeting of two exceptional destinies, from which the winner comes out the one who can change the purpose of a creation in which its quintessence functions as proof of self-rediscovery.

The student must go designates that separation from the superior authority who exercised its power of influence on you, as a triggering factor of opening to a world increasingly sophisticated, a world of science to get rich through a good quality professional training and a knowledge above all knowledge, that of the self, by the idea of self-development and self-surpassing, putting to test your characteristics of researcher.

The Sublime Of Mastery

On September 13, 2010

Raise your leadership up to height that you aspire, by putting in the foreground its most prominent shades.

The master often returned to that theme: "The girl in the mirror". He managed to achieve, with careful attention to details, the sad and mysterious smile of the girl he had met in his yourth, in a trip to Egypt. The enthusiasm, perhaps exaggerated, supported his efforts in order to achieve an amazing work of art. The image that he put on canvas was in his mind for a while now. Now, after almost two months of work, it was finally done.

I remember very well that day, because he purposely invited me to his place to show me that piece masterfully done. Because yes, it is indeed needed a real mastery to express a wide range of moods belonging to one or more characters in a painting: the face, the gestures and the mimics, etc., and to turn colors and the people' traits in suggestive characters.

For the first time, I could see peace and spiritual hope on the master's face. He had that proud look, that charming enthusiasm wich fills only those who, truly dedicating themselves to their work, manage to create something truly special, something that makes them feel truly fulfilled.

Leadership: Do you owe art to evaluate your product of creative work to the true value of the quality of your own way of expressing your rich inner universe?

He rose slowly from his chair, took a step back to watch his work, his own creation which expressed his true mastery and skill. And, suddenly, seized by a profound sense of joy, he exclaimed with the same firm and confident tone, full of feelings, like Archimedes, when he sensed the law of universal gravitation: "Evrika ! "

The master never felt more appetite for life like in that moment. Sometimes sketching, other times seeking to translate what he would aspire to be art, he managed to achieve the sublime in painting. Finally, he had his success and fame assured.

Putting leadership on the highest plane of art is to draw a picture whose meaning will be fully understood only by those who are able to properly consider and weigh the defining elements of your intellectual formation.

The painter is an artist, a creator who, possessed by a strong desire, outlines in his mind the image that he is going to put down on his canvas, well before closing himself in his workshop in order to sketch it.

In the same way is the leader - a creator, who enriches his gallery of values and traits, fully depicting his wide range of emotions - enthusiasm, respect and admiration - in the purest sense as possible - thus reflecting the aspects of his personality. He puts in the foreground the most prominent shades of moral and social character, which harmoniously combine his values and intellectual abilities.

That is why , it is so important to follow this evolution of yours, by valorizing your own competence and experience, by approaching more deeply various aspects of the leadership - especially on the affective and moral plan, not just professionally. For your leadership to turn into a really great art, with some unique and extraordinary facets, you should put it on the highest plane of the image you sketch.

In order to reach the genuine mastery is not enough only viewing the "work of leadership" to which you will give life, but also its execution with great attention, painstakingly, gently, and patiently, for fear that the effect to be other than the expected one. Shape in your mind the vision that would push you to make the step towards excellence - well before engaging yourself in the implementation of any project, before opening the way for a broader approach.

Leadership: Can you conceive an art related to a reality full of substance that represents you in the plane of the image that you form of yourself before you achieve mastery?

The creation of a leader is nothing but a sum of steps and activities that lead towards achieving a goal. He always gives birth to mental images. On the "screen" of his imagination, he sees every detail represented with photographic accurateness, every step he must do, every decision he must take, every tactic and procedure he is to initiate, every plus and minus, by which to exercise a dominant positive influence on leadership. And then he designs an "art" related to a reality which would represent him, and to achieve success he aims to.

Threw up the old clichés. Look over and over again through your work, through your art related to reality and truth in order to arouse interest, respect and admiration in those around you. Only in this way will you be able to fulfill the aspirations which you spent the most years.

The sublime of mastery, compared to the beginnings of art that devote themselves to a deepening specialization, such as human psychology and expressiveness, is manifested by the perfecting of all the faculties of the soul and the access to a superior form of knowledge.

A knowledge that you only speak through the process of self-observation, reflection and self-correction, with the depth of a substantive approach to an individual theme from the perspective of the aesthetic criterion.

Conclusion: The leader's "creation" is perfect if, finally, it meets his expectations, reaching the initial proposed goal. A leader doesn't truly feel happiness determined by achieving the proposed goal, if it's not realized on qualitative and quantitative parameters, initially exposed, which formed the basis of his election as leader.

Raise your leadership up to height that you aspire, by putting in the foreground its most prominent shades.

The Superior Science Of Leadership

Fit your science in new equations, so that it would be in full compliance with the specifications and the functionality of the leadership model unanimously accepted by the meaning of life.

The suddenly opened paths and horizons science became more and more interesting, creating tremendous advantage for me, as if I were the favorite of a contest of circumstances established in a place where there are no obstacles. This was the result of my placement in front of superior reality, only understood a priori, which probably only the most progressive researchers had experienced.

Sophisticatedly designed, impregnated with accents of metaphysical thinking, illuminated by temporary generalization or embodiment, many of which abandoned after a while, this rich and complex reality had the merit to seriously tackle particularly profound aspects of sustainable development. Thus, I gradually entered a world of meanings that become more real and valuable than the ordinary experience world.

In order to appease, Goddess Atalanta made water spurt by hitting a rock with her spear, where not even the most delicate spring had appeared before.

In my case, I should have been more even-minded in terms of interfering with the unreal and infeasible. So, in order to quench the reactions of my experiment to explore the complexity of science, I took into consideration only the most plausible hypothesis of the research, making several fundamental connections between different studied concepts.

Leadership: Can the reality you experience, apart from what you've probably found up to a certain point, be totally different from what you can see from your own mentality?

Light shone over all things and put them there for my eyes to see and perceive them with a fine analyst acuity. The light was the way to reach that definable element, the heart of the matter. It suggested at the same time the attempt to unite and separate common - but relevant - features of small things, embodying two equal and opposite meanings, which in turn combined in achieving an abstract meaning.

I tried on myself a part of a unique experiment, "Vivre avec la lumière". Regardless of the nature or cause of the outbreak of that brightness, the lighting of that inner flame that supported creation, rising to the height of the most subtle contrivances, only one thing was certain: I constantly found new ways of interpreting, rendering and applying the acquired concepts.

If everyone would know these functional alternatives to use concepts and knowledge, then anyone would contribute to the development of science. Sometimes to see beyond your own mindset actually means to grasp another facet of the reality that projects you in the line of life that you most want, without obeying rules such as "validate the opinions of the majority".

Leadership must respect the following specifications:

To see beyond our own mentality is to give reality the chance to adapt to new limits of understanding and explanation of life phenomena.

Does your science generate a certain inconsistency with the specific changes that the leadership matter faces, without hurting your ability to act on external reality?

Can you support the result of your placement in relation to a higher reality? Do you try on yourself a part of a unique experiment? Which are the horizons which the reality you create opens? Can you unite and separate common - but relevant - features of small things, to develop your science?

The science generates effects of leadership, those hidden springs that you have not discovered yet, but that can create enormous advantages in the race for the great trophy called perfection. The effortless effects of the intervention of a new "force of the matter" are also run, under an agreement with yourself, with that habit of mind that you have not managed to extend yet. And that always makes it easy to "decode", on line of vital stimuli that amplify the level of understanding the reality, the content of a new approach to the relationship with yourself.

If your science produces a certain inconsistency in relation to the specific changes that the matter of leadership faces, so if everything you discover does not create a link between that special relationship and the higher level of understanding and usability of knowledge acquired, then the factors that can increase or decrease your value will alter automatically.

Practically, the matter of leadership unites all those small and extraordinary things for life, passed through the sieve of a reality that transcends any orientation, making that everything that makes you shine, evolve, be stronger, more inspired, happier, seem to be an integral part of a higher plan from where you can see a different world from the one you are used to.

A science such as leadership can be framed in the equations of determining a new direction to be followed when the purpose of life is dictated by the ability to observe and investigate the phenomena of reality which, by their manifestation, give rise to significant coincidences or correspondences.

These very significant coincidences or correspondences, which sometimes surpass any imagination, link our inner world to the outer world, showing the way to the fulfillment of our destiny.

The superior science of leadership is actually the result of all you have created over time to facilitate access to excellence. It is an incontestable proof of your transformation into a savant who has the ability to handle the matter effectively and arbitrarily.

But before becoming a savant, you should contribute to the development of science and manage to come to the fore by the practical application of the latest scientific achievements, which requires constant updating of knowledge.

The Supreme Ideal

On January 05, 2010

Strengthen people's sense of belonging to the team by cultivating their faith in the virtues that you appreciate the most.

The day was almost at its end. The emperor, attended by his personal guard, is getting near to one of his best warriors. He had failed in the mission that he had been entrusted. He was on his knees. He knew what awaited him.

- In the day when I appointed you as a commander, I trusted you will not disappoint me. You lost the battle. Nearly two thousand of samurai died. Are you afraid of death?

The warrior refused to look into his master's eyes. He glanced aside, and then looked down. He waited for a while before answering. He was ashamed for falling into disgrace. He felt isolated, useless, and this experience represented a deep, agonizing humiliation for him. He was mentally accusing himself for his lack of wisdom, and he was not regretting he must die.

- No, master. I'm a samurai. I feel honored for having served you. I completed my duty as well as possible, but I failed. I deserve to die.

The emperor pulled his sword out. His sword was thought to be the world's sharpest, and his technique unmatched. He participated in many battles, and did not lose any of them. He was a flawless warrior.

- You can choose to die fast or slow !

A deep, invisible trembling invaded the samurai under sentence of death. However, he did not lose his courage. He was not going to beg for his life. The thought of being executed with a quick thrust of sword comforted him. He had nothing more to say. He had the spiritual strength to fall silent, to hide his defeat. He waited with his head bowed for his punishment. He could not be spared from this ordeal.

- I'll kill you as quick as I can !

In the next moment, the sword hit instantaneously and decisively. The inevitable occurred. The one who has sinned paid the maximum price.

Leadership: Can you stand the shame of defeat by appealing to an ideal that can take, according to circumstances, the appearance of an inevitable battle with the high stake of an outcome that can keep your value intact?

The greatest anguish of an ambitious man such as the samurai was to live with the thought of disappointing his master, with the shame of not having satisfied his master's expectations. He educated himself from early childhood not to make mistakes. From the moment he woke up, he used to devote himself in improving his virtues. He never lived with fear, thinking of the harm that could happen to him. For him, life could become tolerable as long as he served his master, otherwise it would have been pointless. He swore by his sword that he would defend the emperor and obey him to the death. Actually, and that it means to be a "samurai" to serve until your last breath.

In the 16th century, the famous war strategist Daidoji Yuzan wrote in his Treaty of ethics (Budo Shoshin Shu): „First of all, a samurai must remember, day and night, that he must die."

A samurai must not groan for wealth and reputation. His only mission was to serve his master as well as possible. His own life was the assurance he would complete his task to his last breath. If it happens to fail in his mission, he was fated to die. Moreover, if he happened to die, then he died happy to have served his master.

A single ideal can, according to circumstances, take the form of an inevitable battle with the high stake of an outcome that can keep your value intact: that of serving a purpose that takes the form of a mission according to the character of the duty to a master who behaves like a God.

Leadership: Can you highlight yourself through a reflection of the experience of being a whole and a close union with the hero you represent in an outcome that brings success to a high consciousness?

Nowadays, there are no samurai, in the true meaning of the word, but there are still countless stories about them. From which we have so much to learn. Like, for example, to display affection towards friends, family, our superiors, towards the institution in which we work, towards the community in which we live. To be loyal and to cooperate in order to achieve the proposed goals enforce our feeling of belonging to a group.

Unlike the loyalty of a samurai towards his master, nowadays the concept of loyalty refers not so much to the devotedness to the leader, but to the attachment to his team of work collective, and the optimal completion of his pursued goals.

Many people have never felt a deep attachment to somebody. They do not know how it feels to help others, they are not determined; they lack the team spirit and the sense of gratitude. There are more and more of those who want to lead, to be under the spotlight. And they hate any kind of restraint. They try to skip some very important stages, in default of which the ascent to the top is impossible.

I believe each of us must, firstly, learn how to integrate adequately into a collective, to cooperate and become efficient, and only after that to aspire to uplift the professional hierarchy. They will learn to respect their commitments only guided by the need of being attached to a collective.

A worthy leader promotes the development of good fellowship relations and encourages people to cooperate efficiently. The most precious attribute of the people that he leads must instantly be the loyalty. They must be devoted to him and inspire him trust, displaying courage, no matter the circumstances, and by no means they should not betray, or to move away from him.

A high consciousness manifests itself by strengthening attachment to a past that preserves its prestige, but it has the burden of demonstrating attachment to a philosophy that rests on the spiritual side, the revelation of sacrificial deliverance.

The supreme ideal of a leader is to lead a team of capable people able to manage any kind of situation, ambitious, qualified, responsible, loyal and very devoted.

Unfortunately, the supreme ideal is very hard to achieve because between people, even excellent professionals, the relationships are developing in time, as well as the feelings, and are based on a great knowledge. A great leader should be the binder in a team, for it to be as good as possible.

However, if there is no samurai and the appropriate education of a samurai, and even if it is very hard to achieve, a leader will always hope to have by his side very loyal people who would help him reach his goals, to the benefit of everybody. This would be the supreme ideal.

Strengthen people's sense of belonging to the team by cultivating their faith in the virtues that you appreciate the most. Virtues such as loyalty, honor, patience, discipline, courtesy and courage - in order to achieve the proposed goal.

The Supreme Impulse Of The Heart's Will

Let yourself be led by that inner force that draws your future, avoiding the zone of turbulence that disconnects you from your normal way of being.

I came into possession of the numbers that could open the safe. The diamonds could have been mine. Even if I were able to act firmly and surely, in a single burst of courage, it is also true that I would have had to live with the truth. With the relative humility in the face of that overwhelming life situation, where I would have had to confront my own mirror, the right man inside myself.

Some masses of tissue in the body and the brain still generate strong currents, a sign that there is still inside me that unknown activity of stimuli, signals and reactions that urge me to take action. I respond well to challenges, especially when I am concerned about something urgent. O serious form of feeling that furiously palpitates inside me, the alluring thought of a victory over the immeasurable and unpredictable on the broad front of doubt.

And these currents, like angry waves that uncontrollably come and go, create around my whole being a strong, but fluctuating magnetic field. Or the amplitude of the magnetic field is adjusted and accentuated by the voice of my heart that constantly cries desperately, firmly commanding me: "Do it ! Do it ! Do it ! ". And God has no power over it.

Leadership: Do you show humility and a sense of heart to recognize the truth in perceiving an Ego forced to make sense of an expanded consciousness experience?

And yet, I do not think there is anything more beautiful than to indulge in high intensity currents. It is a kind of turbulence that weighs heavily on my own being, increasing my adrenaline, creating the impression of an excessive lack of measure, doubled by an elusion of reason. I run the risk of crazy and demonic overestimation, which somewhat manifests itself by the absence of an understanding of my nature. Who am I, what have I become?

I swiftly cross the well-defined territory of my vengeful being, where the activation energy of the combining reaction between the two reactants is produced: courage and determination, which cohere, forming a single reaction product: revenge.

Yes, I have to take my revenge. I must make a new attempt to get out of the uncomfortable space of my concerns and weaknesses, concluding an agreement with myself out of which some unilateral obligations should appear. I must quickly fix the connectors loosen by so much opposition to myself, to connect them to a device that mobilize me to go beyond the boundaries I have been used to so far. Generating a force able to cope with all impulses determined by the general principles and rules of morality and conscience becomes a priority.

I climbed the hill where the castle of doubt towered and I visited that giant building, flanked by strong fortifications, called trust. I would have probably regretted that I climbed up there if it weren't for the wonderful view, dominated by an endless feeling of contentment, freeing myself from the reeling thought that I was weak and did not respond to the heart's impulse when I was supposed to.

Leadership: Do you take into account your vulnerability of not having a pillar of support in times of hardship, in order to personalize an evolutionary experience in what fits you as a way of avoiding confrontation with the self-image?

Do you have the courage to face your own mirror, the correct man within yourself? Do you respond better to challenges when you are concerned about something urgent? Does a form of serious feeling palpitate within yourself when you bury your old way of being? Are you bound by emotions to take a step forward in the uncomfortable space of your weaknesses?

The objection that I express, admissible in this context, based on the saying: "If you do not like what you find, look elsewhere what you are missing ! " cannot banish the demons of those purely personal failures that circle man. And, obviously, does not take into account the set of specifications regarding human complexes, which bind his characteristics and manifestations in a given situation.

This objection that he who fully serves his development cannot denigrate his identity can be rejected by identifying a continuum of depth in the You-I-Past-Present relationship. My reservations concerning the alleged parallelism between the reaction force, which has an adverse effect on the human psyche, and the braking force that cancels the opposite effect, concern in particular the opposite operating rules that must be fulfilled for man to fulfill his life.

Confronting the self-image is proof of profound continuity in the You-I-Past-Present relationship, as a form of response to the weakness of not being able to free yourself from the passion of living in a selfish way.

When you step into the future, trying to forget your past, you are almost inevitably filled with the feeling of emptiness, unable to notice a change in the overall appearance of life. And as past always lives in you as an imperative presence, your only chance of "recovery" is setting that form of "revenge" of restoring your power to rise above your own operational failures.

And leadership does not go well with human inconsistency and vulnerability of not having a pillar on hard times. He who cannot live with the truth of his own self in the present yields to his lower nature, which relates to the past. And he is therefore forced to live with the relative humility in the face of overwhelming life situations, when he becomes powerless to defend himself against the war of his present and past self.

Can you evaluate your leadership in relation to your impulse to reinvent yourself to the boundary between "being someone else" and the condition of curbing your impulses of awareness of your own alterity?

Not daring to confront your own mirror, the correct man within yourself, who is able to keep your identity (and its values) intact, you get to a point when you touch the "tension" of life, you get to indulge in high-intensity currents that reduce your functionality, sign that there is still in you that activity of stimuli, signals and reactions, which urge you to take action – alienating you from that field of awareness, assumption and fulfillment.

The physicist Oliver Wendell Holmes enunciated this truth when he said: "A mind that acquires new frontiers because of a new idea will never return to its original size." These words can be interpreted as follows.

The idea of being someone else, of getting away from the well-defined territory of your real identity, overshadowing the line delimiting the frontiers of understanding, will temporarily relieve your situation and condition of being. But it could never justify the inability to restrain your impulses. You will return to the original size of existence, opposite to the perfect state of unity and wholeness.

The price you have to pay to get out of the uncomfortable space of concerns and weaknesses, being too high, will confirm or infirm your suspicion – that you are a man that cannot restore his course of life.

Leadership effectiveness depends on how your mistakes, made out of ignorance to change yourself, in conjunction with your impulse to reinvent yourself, personally affect you.

Alterity is the tendency of man to see himself differently than he is, in the light of what he is willing to pay to be freed from the pressure of the past, from the constraints of an austere existence.

The Supreme Impulse Of The Heart's Will designates that form of human expression that cannot be harnessed, the rapid growth of the tendency of living alone in a place of impotence, consisting of the inability to restore a state of affairs that turns out to be against your real nature, entering into a kind of darkness that disconnect you from your normal being.

If you want leadership to have the allure of a river flowing without interruption, let yourself be led by that inner force that draws your future, avoiding the zone of turbulence that disconnects you from your normal way of being.

The Supreme Manifestation Of Human Vanity

Extend the reference parameters of your identity, by regulating the intensity of the feelings you perceive and transmit to those around you.

El Dorado, the only oasis of prosperity in the midst of crisis, disturbed the sleep and obsessed the imagination of colored hordes of adventurers that ships discharged every day on the coast of Cuba and Espanola.

Likewise, the unmeasured Ego of this frail woman subjected to vanity, her only oasis of clearing in a dark world, haunts her, disturbs and obsesses her existence, satisfying the principle of action and reaction: "The force exerted by the first object to the second one is equal and opposite to the force exerted by the second object on the first one."

Laura Quinn's life experience is similar to that of a survivor of the battle for the acquisition of a huge richness. The laws of her life reveals through the force of two separate units that move toward each other at different speeds, swirling around each other, colliding hard and absolutely destructive, like satellites in a planetary system, close up to neutralization: values and beliefs.

These two singular units, these two absolute opposites, subject to completely different laws, decidedly confront, obsessively bind, trompeuse et régressive, develop more vertically, through incessant rubbing, fatally including all her being. This decline gradually accentuates, with age, causing even more mental and emotional fragility.

Leadership: Can you understand your life experiences based on the belief that everything that is being read as "an act of being in a world against the world" is filtered through a soulful strength that bears any kind of assault on conscience?

Laura Quinn faces a dilemma: recognize her guilt for stealing the diamonds worth a hundred million dollars, or refuse her avalanche of feelings and experiences that trigger the hope of fulfillment. That what belongs to her being and listens only to her, according to the essence that defines her, beyond any immediate reward, is the ability to imagine herself as being another person. The beginning of a new life and the chance of a new identity is first and foremost a sophisticated imaginative process that requires careful planning of each step and a lot of flexibility.

Decisive is all this state of irritation that continues especially emotionally, a configuration of existence by reversing individual poles, a long hibernation of positive emotions. Discontent leads to tension, a feeling of uneasiness, degenerating to acting in the direction opposite of the original.

This experience by which she only satisfies her vanity, this experience that does not bring her any further emotional benefit, this reversal of the scale of values, the duality between honesty and its antidote, between honesty and dishonesty, between darkness and light, between "to be" and "not to be" an orderly man, changes her track of life.

The spiritual strength Laura shows consists not in correlating the money with the motivation of her choices, in not letting people enter her world, in never falling, but rising up every time she falls. She endures any type of assault from her conscience, not because she manages to explain her deeds, not because her actions drive away her accumulated stress, but because she has managed to change the result of what was once through an excuse, an expression of repentance: "It was the hand of destiny, pure chance."

Does Paul I' words regarding Countess Vaninka may be valid for Laura Quinn in the movie "Flawless (2007)" ?

"If she has left some feelings of dignity, then her heart and remorse will show her the way she needs to grasp."

Leadership: Do you accept the choice of experiencing a life experience by detaching from the soul experience of a turning point, respecting the concrete aspect of your choice as a consequence of the belief that "it's fine the way it is"?

Life is like a ball that bounces: you can get it back; you can continue moving it from its destination to any other point. This is the strength we have, that willingly orders and wisely eliminates any destructive values and convictions. A whole world based on unstable foundations can, at any time, be reconstructed on granite ones. Only when faced with this confrontation, we show our true value.

Laure Quinn's failure, the turning point and the detail that made the difference between a normal life and a life full of anxiety is due to her pride in not being like everyone else, of not being surpassed by others, of not yielding to the passing desires that appear at the superficial level of any being. Laura wanted to be more important than others, but had to risk her career when she began to realize that she is below everyone else when it comes to happiness.

Starting from the identity that you create by accurately referring to people, situations and events, installing a version of one's self that can't survive otherwise, than through the intensity of feelings that combine knowledge with values, can you choose the way to respond to actions that integrate under the umbrella of trust and self respect. Identity, called in question as the credibility between the parentheses of a fight with the deepest and strongest of feelings, has the transparency of a pure crystal that manages to cleanse/purify the energy around it, radiating a light as strong as the value that you expect others to recognize in you.

Leadership can have an extremely fair tone, which corresponds to the spiritual elevation and ethical burden in a continuous pithiness, by asserting your position as interpreter of the pro attitude mood, generating a wave of valuable appreciations among people that want to build a better future. In order to give a personal tone to your leader profile, that pulls you out of anonymity, without exaggerating or distorting in any way the natural direction of your own existence, it would be indicated to fill in your description area through the filter of positive emotion, with new enforcing and invigorating additions.

These sufficiently expressive additions, that aren't anything else than a continuous reminder of the best in you in front of the truth, in the first line of life's difficulties, gives you the opportunity to reduce the difference between what you are and what you want to be. Here you can distinguish the openness in front of your supreme greatness, or the closure in front of those that don't think like you, or are against the way in which you make things.

Leadership: Do you identify with that unique feeling that can give meaning to your work, but which does not move your ability to overcome what's happening to you in a dramatic way?

First of all, the leader is the example of a winner in the confrontation between two personalities. The first one is a "chameleon" personality that leads to sadness and hopelessness, through the undefeatable vanity of a loveless doctrine, or through ardent desire to have something that, in truth, it doesn't have. The second is a personality that frees itself of what it bears in its soul in order to be happier, thus giving hope to others that they can escape from the fatal identity that depends only on something changeable.

Director Robert Fritz said at some point: "If you limit your choice only to what seems possible or reasonable, you disconnect yourself from what you truly want, and all that is left is a compromise."

Affectionate leaders, who successfully relate to the people around them, know that being reasonable means doing something so as the chord of their own sensibility can vibrate, but at the same time doesn't break in stress conditions, overwork or obstructions due to the so called "dark thoughts". The compromise that you can make is to lose your self-respect, accepting a rudimentary, simple way of life – a consumerist way of life where nothing is worthwhile anymore.

Take into account the unique feeling that can give meaning to your work but which does not move your ability to overcome what's happening in a dramatic way: "what I had and what I lost."

The expression of a spiritual trauma comes from the strength of choosing what you prefer to ignore and resist in this choice.

The Supreme Manifestation Of Human Vanity highlights one of the mildest types of pride. Specifically, the kind that you find in superficial people, in those who don't understand the point of suffering of not getting everything in life – which, in leadership, can take the shape of a personal investment that takes into consideration involvement and the wish to change something in the world, assuming moral responsibility.

The Sweet Triumph Of A Perfect Choreographer

On April 01, 2009

Open the door to people's hearts, strengthening those important qualities to be revealed in your leadership.

- Would you like to learn how to dance tango, Donna? Lieutenant Colonel Frank Slade asked the young lady sitting at the table, whom he had just met. What do you say?

Just as motion picture cameras record every move, Frank felt that he was watching every expression on the girl's face. She seemed restless.

- I think I'd be a little afraid... afraid to make mistakes ! She said with a sweet, but trembling voice.

Frank realized that the girl has relaxed, that she approved him. To encourage her, he said:

- Unlike in real life, there are no mistakes in tango. This makes tango so great. If you make a mistake and confuse steps, keep on dancing.

Leadership: Is your behavior better understood if it is viewed in terms of the perception that others have about the objective context than in terms of the sensations they receive from your stimuli?

The detail that changed everything. If you saw the movie "Scent of a woman (1992)", perhaps you remember that splendid dance that Frank and Donna made on the dance floor, among the people in that select restaurant. This scene emphasizes very well the manner to approach between two parties – one that leads, the other that follows it.

Frank led the dance gracefully, with unsurpassed mastery. Here is how a blind man, thought he reached old age, was able to take the decisions which has led not only his steps, but those of a beautiful lady. This desire sprung from the need to stand out and use his influence did not die with his youth. It accompanied him his entire life. He could surprise a lot of people by his simple manners, but also by his sharp mind, his greatness or his qualities, his refinement or good taste.

Donna was not impressed by the context in which Frank's formidable qualities as a dancer were exercised, because the context is only an act of ascertaining a diverse fact that can take place anywhere, so she had to be objective only in terms of her way of presenting herself, manifesting herself, making herself liked and appreciated. I would rather say that the sensations of flattery and good mood she received from the balanced stimuli of Frank, who knew how to touch a flower so that it blossomed gracefully, made her want to continue.

Watching them and admiring them both as they suited their pace, as they carefully chose their steps, I can say that I actually witnessed the development of a wide range of emotions and positive states. Frank's words, thoughts and attitude wove like a spell with those of the girl. She felt his inner vibration, his friendly intentions, his softness and warmth – precious qualities that every woman greatly appreciates in a man. Those were the important qualities which have created that unity between the boundaries that unequivocally delimited their selves.

Leadership: Can you adapt to the inner coordinates of others so that the result of your emotions and thoughts causes a feeling of the type "It was like in a dream", but not just any dream, a dream whose content goes in the opposite direction of your current position?

The perception of the girl's real thoughts and values had a great importance for Frank's success, subsequently leading to orienting her emotions towards a positive action. As if some unseen forces pushed him to a state of open mind, to a flowering of his own being, to an unexplored world and, of course, to one conclusion: that he can easily adapt to her own aspirations, her own inner coordinates and, at the same time, he was able to set his own pace and his own way to put himself in a positive light.

It was interesting that old Frank's forces were so strong, that they had a tremendous effect on the girl, ensuring him a dominant position on the "territory".

You can easily emphasize your personality, but the way you connect to others is correlated with the emotion that you convey during an action. You can bring more harmony in relationships with others if you play well the role of a partner, channeling your actions and feelings positively and constructively towards a direction that makes sense in the eyes of others. If your feelings orientation is diametrically opposed to their feelings, if there is no inner similarity between the way to approach the same "dance", if you don't bring them to the stage to relate to you and act at your pace, then it means that the role you play in their lives is "uncomfortable".

A dream whose content goes in the opposite direction of your current position is a concept for measuring "perfection" according to society or the standards of others, which turns any attitude of "alert" (caution) into an attitude of pride and respect to one's own person.

The Sweet Triumph Of A Perfect Choreographer is a testimony to the extent that Frank was able to fit the pattern after which Donna modeled her own expectations. To reach people's hearts, you need to build an image to emphasize your qualities, and to assume your role beyond the strict limits of your status.

Conclusion: A leader must be able to know people and their feelings, as well as their expectations and hopes. He must adapt to them, but also determine them to adapt and follow his pace, ways and methods. This "dance" of the leader and others must turn them into a harmonious "couple", in which each partner must know his role, adapting to the other and complementing each other.

The Symbolism Of The Individualization Process

On February 09, 2014

Experience a self-transformation equal to the intellectual height you want to reach, so that you achieve a reconfiguration of your model as a Man.

Relentless, I focused on my inner world, enveloped in mystery and surprise, which added depth to an intellectual creation. I could have dissolved the chaotic unit of my nature in a non-volatile, slightly manipulated solvent, called „aqua munda". Efficiently operating as capitalization agent of my fundamental assets, this solvent neutralized the external substances of an immutable reality, occasioning the crossing of a life experience that contributed to my radical changes.

But always, for lifting a body on the vertical to a certain height, it requires a force that is at least equal to the body's weight. This law could be applied in the conditions of a balanced and stable relation with the reality of my inner space, unburdened by the weight of a listening that facilitated a greater awareness in all the aspects of my life.

The exploitation privilege of this space was renewed once with the evolution of conceptions about me, in relation with the real world of a balanced judgment structure. A natural consequence of an interior and exterior reconfiguration that fit in the available budget for knowledge.

Leadership: Can you turn a subjective construction into a comparison with the self-concept that you know to be original, engaging in a certain way to the truth of a particular feature of the outside world?

A man can never raise his lucidity level or expand his realistic experience if he's pulled down by the weight of a self-dimension, which exceeds that of his existence. That is the reason why an incursion in the fabulous universe of self-existence, in the intimacy of the most controversial individualization tendencies stirs certain rustle, a positive revitalizing reaction, like an engine that determines you to give your best.

It's easy to wonder away in your own inner space, in the labyrinth of valuable aspects you are aware of, but it's very hard to calculate the geometric mean of all elements of contrast that intensify the qualities of your entirety. And it is certainly very hard to discover that natural number different from „zero", that perfect indivisible square, which fulfills the conditions of the statement according to which: „self-awareness always receives an opening request towards the exterior, but that is not everything for a harmonious development."

The truth of a certain external world characteristic that I was differentiating myself from, taking into account the information that helped me become someone else, presented either tendentiously or exaggerated or partly, was that I interpreted reality by referring less to expectations, passions, my aspirations. More to that logic that makes the seen side and the invisible part of the Being coexist and, moreover, be a whole called "The Beautiful Humane" or "The Microsystem of a New Variation of Expression".

Can you express your self-concepts in relation to the real world of an integrative judgment structure in an art that blossoms through symbolism and expression of love often to change the future?

You have to be really self-absorbed, to get closer to the truth about who you really are, so that you account for every contribution to the maintenance of a solid image, directly proportional with the considerable dimension of your inner identity. And a reality full of contradictions, where you sink deeper with many interruptions because the lack of self-knowledge can't ensure an ascending development, a proper exposure to a leadership full of perspective.

I believe that reflection is the key step that must be made in order to understand the balanced and stable reality of the inner space, unburdened by the weight of a listening that facilitates a greater awareness in all the aspects of my life. And it doesn't have to offer the possibility of a wrongful interpretation of one's operating mechanism. But coming from one's self, it must keep into account everything that really presents the fundamental importance of total becoming.

Are you focused on your inner world, enveloped in mystery and surprise, which add depth to the intellectual creation ? Only by reflecting over what you are, renewing your personal profile together with the evolution of your self-conceptions, in relation with the reality of a leadership integrated judgment, will you be able to raise your lucidity level.

Leadership: Can you ensure a spectacular finish in the "target terrain" that you attack with the weapons of a richer and more comprehensive knowledge than the one you have access to in reality?

Can you ensure a spectacular finish in the "target field" that you charge, compared to the individuality that defines you, when you manage to achieve a reconfiguration of your model as a Man. When the only measurable effect of your passage through the vast valley of knowledge is holding under control your whole being.

The reflection comes from own experience, from your own individuality, that brings another perspective and a broader, deeper knowledge. Based on the principle: "you can't fly if you're not aware of your wings" above any other principle, you will create o certain activity initiative that will support the formation and development of a transformation tendency equal to the intellectual height you want to rise up to.

In order to be ready to cross all the fields on leadership's game board, up until the connection line with the excellence of being your own magician, this reflection, capitalizing the natural light of reasoning, has to go beyond every possible conflict between the Ego and the assumed position.

Can you continuously exhibit the finesse of a thinking that would show your superiority towards everything that means self-knowledge?

The unknown is the most important factor in shaping the attitude towards your own person, bringing a gold medal to a leadership crossed by a continuous openness towards knowing those mental and emotional reaction patterns that make you remove those things that turn you into an extraordinary person. But the unknown is often neglected. In front of it you have to explain, to protect yourself or to refine it, thus ignoring any signal that comes from the exterior, from the middle of a reality that is hard to manipulate.

There are two realities in the language of scholars. The reality you create through the beliefs and thoughts that you generate, and the interpretations you give to the situations you meet, among which are those who choose to come to you. And the reality that you perceive as a variant of symbolizing your way of knowing, which is done through jumps that do not follow a logical chaining, as most of the great discoveries of history have come to pass.

The Symbolism Of The Individualization Process refers to the important hidden meanings of a man, in agreement with the continuous progress of self-knowledge that determines its actual favorable or unfavorable state in relation to leadership. The way in which this knowledge is managed, the way in which it is oriented towards leadership, creates the image of a leader that has become aware of his personality.

The meaning of the individualization process points out all those internal self-evaluation processes, accompanied by efforts to optimize the configuration of a man who wants to reach the highest peaks of performance.

The Symphony Of Wandering

Guide your vision towards excellence, permanently keeping in touch with the true reality.

At the end of the fifteenth century, when the continents were not yet fully discovered, the great sailors had only one concern: to facilitate connections with Asia and to seek the East, sailing westward. In a word, to get on the shortest track to the Land of Spices.

This is what Christopher Columbus tried to do. Relying on the ideas of the famous astronomer Florentine Toscanelli and those of the German cosmographer Martin Behaim, with which he corresponded for a long time, Columbus, at the age of 41, decided to set forth the unknown, to the unpredictable, armed especially with hope, desire to succeed, confidence and courage. His goal was clear. He only wanted "to seek the East through the West and to reach, through the West, the place where the spices came from".

Leadership: Do you define the territory of a new perspective on the role and validity of your limits, always acting under the impulse of mistaken beliefs?

Immersed in the thicket of his own thoughts and ideas, Columbus didn't guess in any way that fate will lead him along four journeys full of danger, all of them on unknown realms. Fate tried Columbus twice, guiding him to the New World, and also the many times he didn't abandon the idea, otherwise false, that he was on the coasts of Asia. For, if he rushed into finding Japan, the newly-found islands could only be part of Japan. And because he didn't think of any other possible options, he committed several errors, which changed the whole range of his discoveries.

Columbus had everything necessary in order to excel in leadership, and to exert a notable influence on society: competence, creativity, plentiful energy, tireless self-confidence, courage. He was hardly an old-fashioned man. He was an adventurous sailor, a captain who knew well his job, a good navigator and also a good merchant. Even so, he had a weak point, a flaw that followed him his entire life, a flaw due to which he was about to lose all his advantages: he constantly fed himself with the idea that he was right. Always acting under the influence of a wrong belief, he was wrong each time. And as a result, he died without even realizing the existence of the great continent, which he would not give his name at least.

A second error that Columbus made is that he relied only on some maps drawn by Toscanelli, but which were completely wrong. Instead of trying to deepen things more, and trying to count on him, to investigate better the shores that he discovered, he relied on the idea that there is only one reality, the one rendered on those maps that guided him the entire time.

The role of the limits which you don't always choose to impose upon yourself, that sometimes the very concept of "God" has imposed and which few people can overcome, is to make you mindful of the difference that makes the difference between what you want to fulfill at the starting point of the trip and what you want to introduce to the world when you try to think at the height of the final point of the journey.

Which leads to the result that the whole is in fact much more than the sum of its parts.

Leadership: Can you orient yourself in one direction without getting lost in the darkness of an illusion that expands its target?

Great progress in leadership, fully reflecting scientific knowledge enough assimilated for a development culminating in the desire to enter a special world, full of mysteries and compromises, have been stimulated by the constant challenges of the school of life.

Among these, we should mention personal failure, in some cases, thinking disability, maybe inadequacy to individual or collective stress, or maybe the urgent need to continuously maximize small victories hardly achieved to ensure subsequent professional safety and adaptation to a new reality.

Progressive prolongation of the compulsory processing duration of a changing "order", often demanded by conscience, and which your authority in the field always has in view, as well as changing the content transmitted by the school of life, will change the meaning and the status of your training from interior to exterior.

Yes, leadership is an art of discovery that begins and ends with you, a long dialogue with your defining authority, the self, which always pushes you to overcome your limits. A dialogue whose subject is negotiating the price that one must pay for performance. This can be expressed by the phrase: "orienting through the darkness of a becoming seeking its target."

The target on which are focused all your efforts to disguise a serious failure you only see the moment you are aware of it and continue to press to get closer to it. That means to feed illusions. Your target should not mean just to reach a certain destination, but to build an ideal destination of the greatness that you give to the world.

Leadership: Do you extend your concerns to the amount of "new" in the equation of interaction with all that is out of your control?

The weight decrease of the unpredictable factor, whose nature enables man inspired by high ideals to act firm from a professional point of view, justifies the "demand" of force to meet challenges, achieved through diversification of affirmation and promotion offer on the career steps.

Reviewing one's attitude towards change that is often in line with the general orientation. Improving methods of processing and advance knowledge transmission. Increasing demands on the quality of cognitive activity. Extending one's concerns to the amount of "new" in the interaction equation with everything out of your control, beyond knowledge strictly belonging to one's domain. All these are required to take control of situations that you are facing.

Leadership: Are you "restrained" by an underserved stand-by towards a form of manifestation of the infinity that you cannot grasp?

Limited knowledge narrows your horizons. A captain, who doesn't possess enough advanced knowledge and lacks high-performing instruments and equipment, can mislead himself. Just like a doctor cannot prescribe targeted treatments if he does not have helpful elements to diagnose (for example, lab analysis), so was the case of Columbus, he would not have drifted away if he had accurate navigation maps and advanced navigation tools.

Moreover, each island discovered had plenty of clues, which could help him make the difference between the coast of Asia and the new continent, but he overlooked them. Although he had acquired a far superior training than the sailors of his time, Columbus' horizon was yet limited. His knowledge of astronomy was not as advanced as that of a captain of our times, and he didn't have first quality and precision instruments. At that time, technology was not as advanced as today. During his journeys, he always guided himself by the position of the sun, the conjunction of the stars, the length of nights and days, etc.

Infinity is the knowledge attributed to the permissive will of God, to which you get when you decide to personalize your experience of broadening horizons from the height of the final point of your journey into the unknown.

Like a mythological titan condemned supporting the sky eternally, Columbus was condemned to wander the seas and the oceans. For, if we had to sum up all his journeys on sea, we would definitely discover that he mainly drifted, wandering in search of the proposed targets. He discovered several islands on the coasts of America, yet he never really knew where he was.

However, his wandering was not useless. Because through his travels, he enriched the geographical knowledge of time with many islands, such as Tortugas, Martinique, Dominica, Maria Gallant, Guadalupe, Montserrat, Santa Maria, Santa Cruz, Puerto Rico, Jamaica, Honduras coasts, Mullets islands, Darien gulf.

A bittersweet symphony. Columbus experienced many joys and sorrows, but also many victories and defeats throughout his life. His journeys represented a symphony which impressed the world, a symphony in which courage, fortitude and fearlessness combined harmoniously and despite some failures and unsuccessfulness, he rose above the people of his time. Therefore, the name and the glory of the illustrious navigator live everywhere.

Leadership is the unknown that reveals its significance from the height of the final point of the journey towards a better version of yourself.

Conclusion: Nowadays, a leader should not be compared with a wanderer, who walks on more or less beaten paths, and who does not know how or cannot reach his destination. On the contrary, nowadays, a leader must possess the both methods and the necessary instruments to achieve the final objectives.

Guide your vision towards excellence, permanently keeping in touch with the true reality.

The Talent Maker

On November 14, 2010

Define your leadership as an "engine" with high power of imposing certain specific impulses that stimulate the development, for your performance to be assessed properly.

Good knowledge of the past, full of scholarship and driven by a real passion for art, the teacher whom I consider to be the most important person in my life, had aroused enormous interest to me for painting, inspiring my burning desire for knowledge - specific to distinguished and innovative artists. Since the first moment I walked into his studio, I knew with certainty that he had the power to raise my cultural level and knead in me the aspiration to an ideal, to perfection, to the absolute.

I often talked about my master. Because he had the strength to rise between the ordinary and to overcome his condition. Those moments when, with an unspoken care and attention he confided me from his so vast experience, were decisive. His influence has been crucial of my training as an artist, developing my creative power by improving the penetration abilities of things.

Leadership: Is the self you access in the presence of a brilliant mind higher as you fulfill a certain amount of time fixed on the practice of integrating yourself into a sublime manifestation pattern?

"Blessed is the one who succeeds in giving wings and roots to his children" says an old Arab proverb. Yes, everything is possible if you have around you a man gifted with a tremendous imagination, with a very unusual creative spirit, possessing strength and is willing to give your artistic soul the "wings" so necessary to high up above him (and other people) by your own value.

The master carved my talent and my personality etching in my heart and mind the principles of realistic art, directly related to painting and drawing, and even related to calligraphy. The "wings" that my heart gave to me had a big opening that I really entered in the art of painting, full of deep meanings. And with the inspiration that he gave me, an inspiration that greatly stimulated my mind and the appetite for knowledge, I had passed it.

Yes. Exactly. I surpassed my master. He was honored by my creative qualities, the qualities of an observer and a portraitist; he admired me and still considers me a craftsman of detail.

The sublime is the result of a process of creating and consolidating the status of an author of "the beautiful element" that lives for others.

Leadership is based on ascent, which corresponds, in fact, to a robust stabilization, the identification of a custom fuel that continuously burns, following the operating parameters. This stabilization can help you keep the "relationship" you have with your teammate closest to the field of excellence – with the source of knowledge and culture that can take you beyond the limits imposed by yourself or other people.

One way to provide new perceptions of your roles and responsibilities, to professionally advantage you, of course, without causing a break in the flow of your thinking, ensures the maintenance of your own development resources and the enhancement of the impact on your and other's evolution.

Leadership: Are you in a position to confirm the value of art produced between the result of a slow rise and a steep ascendancy tendency?

Several stages of ascension to great performance can be distinguished, which beg the question: "How accessible is art?"

The slow, but sure ascendance, which strongly sticks to a certain category of people, characterized by a total submission of reason and understanding to a particular ideal that can be achieved only through advanced knowledge.

We're talking about people who did not believe in the basic principles on which true craftsmanship reside, who did not approve any kind of research or learning methods, who did not apply knowledge and creativity to distinguish new perceptions of self and personal value, but who have obtained unexpected, deep and impressive results because they have agreed to be subject to foreign influences.

There is also the steep rise, tried by courageous people on their own account, who fell before getting to the top.

The transformation process towards achieving perfection is carried out in time and always integrates supported thought and action – which, above all, must prove to be feasible investments, maintained as ideal, as own structure of mobilization and strength. And not to rely on an exhaustible resource, used only in case of emergency, which disappears after several uncontrolled "starts and stops".

The value of art produced between the result of a slow ascension and the tendency of steep ascension can be determined mainly by a meticulous analysis of the experience of other artists. You are in a position to confirm this value when you are actually part of the process of creating art through imitation, innovation or experimentation.

Art is achieved by exploring the depth of subjective experience – that of capturing that moment of revelation that you can penetrate with the understanding of your mind into what no one else has succeeded in.

I conditioned my vocation and talent through hard work that required endless exercises and retouches. But I could never reach a real artist if the influences exercised for a long time by my master would not have been extensive and profound. The feeling the joy that he stirred in me - to create with my own hands, using my own imagination, an art that not everyone can master, the art of painting - plus, undoubtedly, the help that he gave me by forming a personal style and a new vision, sublime, have contributed to my own evolution and have been a triumph.

When human soul is crossing with the soul of the leading, only when this happens people open their "wings" taking momentum to rise above other people, providing evidence of their brilliant creative traits.

And a perfect leader possesses the power to give those around him the "wings" necessary to rise above him, wings that reveal the endless horizon of their imagination. He is a talent maker.

Just as a painter transmits a deep feeling, without a burst of light and color, by evoking the atmosphere, through simplification of composition and tone – and so leadership, for taking magnitude and becoming a major source of know-how, must define itself as an engine with a high power of imposing certain specific events, reactions, impulses that would give the start to the change process, capitalizing the potential of human development and lifting it up to the highest level possible.

Because only by acquiring a new depth of self-consciousness, through unleashing motivation and internal forces, by highlighting their talents and their proper use, people could reach greatness.

Greatness is a peak of the talent to see things always closer to your vision that that of those who come to learn.

The Talent Maker is the one who has the ambition to discover what lies under the cover of helplessness, of incertitude, inefficiency or ignorance that keeps people trapped, like in front of a screen that gets tired your eyes, in a place where they cannot realize or direct their inner resources and capabilities, which reduces their desire of self-knowledge. Is the one who strives to become a mentor for those young people that are driven by the desire to make something special for the benefit of all.

A perfect leader possesses the strength and desire to give people the "wings" necessary to rise even higher than him.

The Talking Pen And The Winged Brush

On October 21, 2020

Aim to make a foray into the imaginary of a world beyond you, through the suggestion proposed by the destiny of the character you create: to place yourself outside of yourself in different ways, or to be present everywhere in same time.

I hold in my hand a pen whose ink does not seem to be consumed, but only warms its substance full of expression, similar in its aesthetic weight to the variety of colors that an artist's brush applies to the surface of the canvas. If the correlation between form and substance, between expression and content is examined in terms of the arbitrary nature of identifying the pen with a brush, no matter how important the artist is concerned, the spirit of the enlightened world and the specific existence of alchemy can materialize in any desired shape.

Let me be clear. He who knows how to turn a talking pen into a winged brush, reducing them both to a single dogma: "Play ! ", will be able to move more quickly from virtue to collaboration with God, and from creation to eternity. Or, the repeated experiences in the act of writing with an almost divine inspiration, beyond the multitude of suggestions and challenges of painting that led me into the world of colors, make me still believe that I am part of a novel whose author is the artist which adds to his paintings the plans of a vision of successive earthly lives.

In this aspect of the expressions of knowledge, of great synthesis and significance, consists the mastery of the artist, as well as the virtue of the alchemist: they experience a divine insufflation of art at the top of a column of infinity and only they can understand the Godhead by combining man's creative power with the charm of the surrounding nature. Let us keep in mind that there is no creation without a creator and that if it has any value for me, it is because something has happened in my soul that has imprinted this value on the masterpiece I represent.

Leadership: Are you permissive enough to share your knowledge of creation to recognize that in your relationships with the New Man you are building is required a simultaneity of any present inscribed in another universe?

That is how it is when you are an artist, you have to be both a painter and a writer, offering yourself the joy of finding an alchemical correspondence among the metamorphic colors of autumn leaves. But you also have to be a witness, a character and a storyteller. And if my pen takes the lead over the brush, understanding that my words have a greater weight than the colors on the final impression of the reader, then I must become a reader of a quality writer, as is Andersen who told the story of a palace of crystal in whose secret chamber was the richest book on earth: The Book of Truth.

The sage of this palace was able, above all, to gather the light of the stars and the rays of the sun, the radiance of the mysterious forces and the flame of the spirit. With the help of these amplified lights, directed at the pages of the book, he managed to read more and more of what was written in the book, but in that chapter entitled "Life after death", he could not discern any point. This finding troubled him: should he not be able to find in this world a light that would make it easier for the eye to read what was written there in the Book of Truth?

We capture here an incursion into a universe of pure becoming, through the suggestion proposed by the destiny of the character who is represented in the field of happy encounter between eye contact and the position of involvement in a destiny of convergence to "Things Holy", caused by an increased tone of convergence towards the development of reasoning. Here, too, the symbiosis of the expressive message with the form of a new ontology of identity in which the reader's self identifies with the writer's soul must be taken into account.

For example, if the pen purifies its purpose by developing a cursive, neat and orderly writing, and the brush purifies its quality of stretching colors (vivid and delicate) by emphasizing the contrast with various decors, both being reduced to forms as simple as possible to use, then the "Raw Matter" of universal dynamics will be the manifestation of the living soul out of the hands of the Creator.

At first glance, the pen can impart extraordinary power to the image that the brush colors under the action of light. And two brushes, with different sizes, increase the decorative effect of a story image, in addition to the chromatic, shape and expressiveness of the lyrical message, but at the same time the two can have their point of intersection in a pen that ensures fluent writing, without ink interruptions.

Leadership: Can you make a foray into the image of an improvised work from a journey of the expansive spirit that rewrites the destiny of an epic structure, so that you position yourself in a completely different position?

The pen and the brush. Understanding their nature, virtue and power to self-determine, without losing from their connection that versatile "IN-VITRO", I came to know in detail how natural works function and how celestial things are perceived, but especially how meaning corresponding to the things created and recreated. And if I write about the unknown symbols of the Divine Creation, fine things that we quickly overlook, I do it in the same way that the artist integrates, with the divine soul and feeling, in the main subject of his painting: the accelerated movement of a continuous desire of being closer to the work of alchemists.

I never imagined myself as a producer of symbolic forms, expressions and languages, until I gave my image, undulated by its spatial location in a stylistic mobility, the meaning of "dust, from dust" or "resurrection in another body".

The truth is no one knows how hard it is to be a brush that paints in comforting words, feelings, moods and emotions, the life of a very talented artist who knows how to make sense of a world beyond the edges of reality, beyond appearances.

In this case, the weight of the artistic construction does not lean, as in a balance, more on the brush that slows down or speeds up the rhythm of matching the colors on the palette or on the canvas, but on the pen that has to put the words in a certain order, trying to construct them in an improvised story, so that the eyes of those who read these lines catch only what their minds are prepared to understand.

I will always try to interpret some of my experiences and conclusions from the point of view of an alchemist who continuously mixes in his crucibles in the laboratory, science with the occult, the art of fiction and plastic art. And this is because an artist of my stature, who in the movement of the brush makes possible the expression of a life mirrored in other lives, relentlessly asks himself to fulfill with great obedience the purpose of the pen: to cause an acceptable change in the soul composition of divine works those works that give rebirth to enchanted treasures under the protection of the unearthly.

The indispensable attribute of an abstract art is the interface of a version of creation shaped by the image of two realities: a reality that extends considerably to the spirit of a world carried only in the soul, and a reality that changes through the foray into the destiny of previous lives.

The Talking Pen And The Winged Brush are the basic tools of an alchemist who knows how to turn "Far Away" into "Near", so that there are no boundaries between accidental and causal, between what is said and what is true. Or, an alchemist is originally an artist, difficult to understand, but also a dreamer aspiring to perfection, able to perceive reality and its elements in a completely creative way.

The Team Game Law

The probability for one player to obtain excellent results is directly proportional with the quality and level of his teammates' performances.

I still remember an episode that happened many years ago, when I started to attend faculty. I was training together with my colleagues. We had our team, we had been playing for quite some time together, we got well together on the field. Like almost always, several teams in the faculty participated at the trainings. We would play by rotation by the rule: "ten minutes or two goals".

Suddenly, the main player of one of the adverse teams injured himself. Not being able to continue, his team mates had to borrow a player from another team that was not playing. And, as they were inpatient and they had an intense desire to win, they didn't chose by chance. They chose Dănuț , the captain of one of the teams that wasn't playing, an exceptional player, whose talent was recognized and appreciated by all of us. Now, they thought, they will win the game and maybe even those that will come.

Whoever said that things can go well only if you have on your team an exceptional player was wrong. On that day, the respective team lost all the games. And in every game he played for that team, Dănuț played very poorly, much under his usual level, much under the expectancies of his team mates. And then I wondered: why?

The answer was obvious. The game style practiced by Dănuț was a lot different from that of his new team mates, and to which they couldn't adapt at all. Dănuț played a more running game and attacked more, more alertly, with many fast and short passes, on the ground, few dribblings, attacks in the middle and many distance shots, while his team mates practiced a cautious defense game, more primitive, with high and long passes, rarely making brave counterattacks, keeping their energy, not being able to build anything interesting.

A leader does not attract attention only through the goals he scores, but through the frequent changes in the pace of the game that turn into a common effort.

The attitude of each player changes according to the performance of his entire team. No progress can be made by a team which doesn't have a single, united, totally developed game stile. Only playing as often as possible together will players be able to develop a common and performing game style, based on teamwork and understanding, not on competition, a game style that would impose a certain rhythm, defensive or offensive, which would make the best advantage. You must not forget the fact that each player's attitude changes depending on the performance of the entire team. For a team, just like for only one player, nothing is more difficult to bear than the permanent uncertainty given to the lack of unity in order to make a perfect game.

Without very good team mates, a player, regardless of his talent, will always lack energy, determination and he will play reluctantly. Under no circumstance will he be just as self-confident, and this will make the others be, at their turn, uncertain of his performance. The success of a team doesn't depend on the best player, unless the team is very united. As a matter of fact, the team is everything, and if the other team mates' abilities and aptitudes are below his level, he won't be able to excel and continuously perfect himself.

Leadership: Can you convince your teammates to make a game that seems to be impossible at the end of the limit of contribution to the ideal of the unit?

The game can reach the limit of the impossible when your teammates have total control of the ball and show that they are very good but cannot score any goals. Practically, they have reached the limit of contribution to the ideal of unity, but they do not obtain any victory.

In leadership, this is an effect of a lack of consistency in how to maintain the attractiveness and temperature of the final destination. At the destination arrive those people with the results of finished races, not those who overestimate their attitude during the adrenaline filled journey.

When another person comes to a team's leadership, everything is taken from the ground up. When Dănuț was co-opted for the new team, the entire game should have changed. His performance level obviously being way better than the other players', it should have been an alarm signal for them, a signal which should have put them all on guard, wake them, detach them from the chain of routine, motivate them to play a lot better and mould by his game style.

But he couldn't do that because it was impossible in such a short time to make them be aware of the benefits which they could obtain if they would practice his game style. Dănuț couldn't guarantee the success of his new team not because he didn't succeed in integrating himself in it, but because his team mates, who were net inferior to him as far as value and game quality performed are concerned and they couldn't adapt to the alert rhythm which he imposed right from the start.

Never rely on the best player, it is not mandatory that his performance will bring a team's success.

Experience is an invisible wall that closes the mediocrity performance when you only have the interest in keeping yourself in power, without succeeding in making this power a manifestation of a fundamental will.

Dănuț 's team mates felt the taste of victory before having it, but they ran against an invisible wall called experience. They were able to identify a potential leader, but they couldn't play the game, they weren't able to follow it in the direction he set. Their average level of experience, their lack of practical abilities didn't allow them to adapt to the game style imposed by Dănuț on the go. And on his own, he didn't have the power to change the final result.

The performance and success of a team depend both on the leader, as well as on the members of the team. They all must make and act in tandem: it's no use if a leader is very good if doesn't have anyone to work with. The reverse is also valid: it's useless if a weak leader has a very good team. Any disagreement or dissension between them will result in a failure, even if everyone had the best intentions.

One way to assert yourself as a base player in a united team, awaiting a much-desired victory, is to suggest by the finest means of the striking talent that the action takes place simultaneously in a context of an accumulation plus-value and one of the absolute elites who want to occupy a larger field.

The Temerity Law

On March 05, 2010

Only the one devoted body and soul to an idea and who acts immediately in order to put it in practice can maximize the achievement.

Some people, whose unique feature is seeing themselves at a higher level, can inspire themselves and voluntarily, rarely on others' suggestions, all the necessary steps in order to achieve their goals. They manage to better themselves because they are permanently driven by that inner impulse which encourages them to accomplish great goals.

Leadership: Do you have the courage to break free from the past to win your validity from the point of view of the maximum cost of connecting to the consequences of an illusion?

"For more than 10 years, he served his king, his country, down the line and in all circumstances: by sea and land, in every season and in every sea coast, under the baking sun and in the cold blast. On the eve of his 36th anniversary, after King Manuel rejected his proposal to keep serving Portugal, Fernando Magellan took a radical decision: he had served enough; he had sacrificed enough for foreign interests, for the glory of others. Like every man with creative powers, he felt a deep craving for self-accomplishment."

For a man who wants to come into notice by all means, the chance rises from where he least expects. Studying the secret archives of the King of Portugal, the records with the captains' annotations, the charts and the seafaring maps, Magellan suddenly found an older page written in German and named „Copia der Newe Zeytung aus Presillg Landt".

This page was actually a report which clearly declared that the two oceans, the Atlantic and the Pacific, intercommunicated with one another through a channel. And since Magellan had got hold of an imprecise chart belonging to the famous cosmographer Martin Behaim, which indicated the location of the channel, as of that moment, he decided to achieve the impossible. What Columbus, Cortez, Cortereal, Cabot, Vespuci or Juan de Solis had attempted and with no success, he would certainly achieve.

The most interesting part of leadership is to take a path that has as a point of departure the finding of a "strait" that bears your name.

For Magellan, on the side of success that congratulates leadership of values and purpose, the strait was the point of passage between the moment before the onset of mysterious madness and the moment that changed the outlook on the world.

That map, the localization of the channel and the report which confirmed its existence, were Magellan's true secret. So, his project was far from being original. Although, relying on the chart and the report, at short notice, he drew up a plan of rounding the Earth.

But, amazingly ! Magellan fell victim to a striking confusion. He had been deceived; the data found on that chart and that report were totally wrong, whimsical. Therefore, he dedicated himself body and soul to a transitory illusion. He started looking for a chimera. The channel was under no circumstances where he imagined it would be. But if there were no clouds, we would not enjoy the sun. If he hadn't willingly assumed and accepted an error, Magellan would never have dared rushing into the waves of the great ocean, leading an expedition round the world and finally discovering the true "paso", the true strait, which still bares his name.

Leadership: Can you lift yourself from the anonymity of your existence by acting as a determinant of affirmation in a causal loop of an endless series of failures?

Ad impossibilia nemo obligatur. Nobody is required to achieve the impossible. Nobody can force a man to undertake a journey the odds of which are very low, to make more enemies, to often put his health and life in danger just to fulfill a personal desire, am I right?

Past all doubt, what determines a man to undertake risky and dangerous actions is his unyielding will, issued from a strong inner urge to devote himself to a remarkable and viable idea. Only madmen embark on journeys like remote-controlled robots, without judging their actions, putting their life at stake, or those who decide to achieve something monumental, having a clear idea about the place where they should land and which they are certain they will find.

The servant became an exceptional leader. Magellan, a simple "sobresaliente", grew into an exceptional leader because he embraced change and knew how to use leadership in a brilliant way. Nobody pushed him from behind, nobody encouraged him, nobody kept his side and he encountered the biggest and most difficult impediments. However, deep inside, he felt he could be more, he could achieve the impossible and, overtopped by a strong inspiration, he alone got up steam in order to achieve his goal. He faced the world. And he won. He hardly managed to organize a fleet, against the King's will, and he fronted to the riots of his crew.

Leadership: By confronting the long duration of a journey, do you benefit from an essentialization favorable to an overall understanding, of which it does not lack the specific contributions to a consciousness of personal value?

Those who were born in the lap of luxury, those who never wanted anything from life, those will never be able to fulfill a miracle. The one who doesn't entertain a great ambition that's really mind-consuming, who would physically arm him for his future attempts, will remain a commoner, an incomplete traveller, admired and observed by nobody.

Magellan is known to be one of the greatest conquistadors of history and a leader endowed with native leadership abilities. He felt he had a destiny to fulfill and, in a fast tempo, he mobilized into the right direction, in spite all the difficulties. Nobody and nothing could hold him back from fulfilling his desire – the one of finding a strait between the Atlantic Ocean and the Southern Sea.

The writer Stefan Sweig has noticed well: "Magellan proved us that a single man, with his brief and transitory life, could turn into reality and into an unfading truth what has initially been a simple desire, a simple dream for hundreds of generations."

Temerity is the test you propose yourself to pass when you understand that what makes it difficult to continue the journey is the shadow of a dream that moves away as you approach the changing point of the walking direction.

P.S. Leaders are action-oriented. When they find a good idea, they immediately proceed in order to put it in practice. Using their reason, their competence and power, always trying new things, they always succeed in advancing towards their goals. They reach their full potential by taking chances and believing in themselves all through, because they are adventurers.

The Territory Of Excellence

On March 12, 2009

The more important your leadership is, the greater the demand on yourself must be.

Yesterday evening, at an entertainment program, one of the guests told the following joke:

Two police officers spin along the road in their car. At one point, they avoid a hole and enter a tree. They both come out of the twisted bodywork, and one of them says:

- We deserve a bonus ! We never arrived so quickly on the accident scene.

Leadership: Can you work as a point of reference for the image of a whole made up of equal parts that can only be closed in a single position?

Do you study every aspect of your leadership before defining your excellence? Developing your potential is like tracing a map. In order to understand how to fully use it, you must first study each of its elements, so that you can extract as much information about its represented "territory".

All our traits, qualities and skills are collected in a territory where we are compelled to act. For our level of excellence to rise, we must first develop this territory under the beneficent effect of example and guidance of a professional, a mentor, a competent team. And then, to act in accordance with the constitutive elements of the territory, without getting too far from reality.

But too often, we make mistakes by creating barriers for ourselves in this territory. We are like the police officer who limits his potential, creating certain certainties, advantages, expectations for himself, which mask his lack of professionalism. We pass through a stage of development in the opposite direction of our excellence, which does not bring any benefits.

Just like the literary text, the play is the basic element in theatre, so the basic element of your excellence is given primarily by your level of honesty to your responsibility. The development of your territory can be reached only, primarily, by an enrichment of your own perspectives and understanding to your own performance. First, strive to become a better professional, then reason on your level of performance. You will break many of the fundamental aspects marking your territory if you mirror your personality through a false excellence.

Leadership: How high is the demand on you in relation to a situation that lends itself to more behavioral possibilities, but does not conform to your understanding of what is happening to you?

The image that defines your leadership position can be composed of two equal parts: the reality that you know is possible and the reality you experience by accepting the feeling of guilt, but to which you refuse to give yourself entirely. And working as a landmark for this image means feeling self-aware, as if other people will judge you for anything wrong, for any change you could not control.

Being demanding of yourself means showing more interest in events that put you in unexpected situations, and you immediately need to discipline yourself to focus your attention on what you can do to correct them. So the more important your leadership is, the greater the demand on yourself must be, and the more you must figure out your thinking inconsistencies. Do not remove your ability to be objective and critical on yourself – abilities that you need in order to constantly adjust your transition from mediocrity and inefficiency to excellence.

Do you feel particularly aimed at by a certain amount of failure when you get up too high your level of competence? Do you limit your potential in your way to improvement, breaching the basic principles of excellence? Do you call on all your skills to clarify and refine your vision, your system of principles and values, and your philosophy of life? What parts of your territory do you disregard when your results are disappointing?

The position taken by a leader in a state of bewilderment in the face of events must not be that of a "hero of chance", nor that of an inviolable man against whom even the will of God can do nothing. Rather, the position that a leader must adopt is that of submission to events, but acting with that admiration that starts from a moved soul, with the strength to recognize the weight of reality and the eventuality of an approach directed against one's own beliefs.

Leadership aims at the maturing process of a man who, from an inexperienced pawn in the face of events, transforms into a man of great verticality who saves the world from disaster.

The Territory Of Excellence forms that perfect unity between your performances and your qualities. The way you act in accordance with the constitutive elements of your leadership is critical for your excellence. The more important your leadership is, the greater the demand on yourself must be.

The territory of excellence supposes having a particular self-criticism and analysis, a special power to permanently anchor yourself, so as to be able to smooth your path to the future, and especially not to "get stuck". For this territory of excellence, leadership is like quicksand; it can swallow you when you stumble.

The Testimony Of A Destiny Born Of An Astral Configuration

On September 03, 2018

Be thankful to consider all the paths of your life as a kind of duty of a high spiritual teaching that is to be fulfilled when the time of a resetting of the world comes.

I cannot even explain to myself what I did, unless I condemn myself to a perpetual wandering in the search for past times, forcing the unanimously accepted boundaries of the truth that comes from the overpowering Creator that is in me and everywhere. He invaded my body, my mind, my soul, with the spell of the thirst to find the traces of a totality in which the opposites of this world are found. A katana cut broke the reminiscence of an undisclosed secret in one shot.

He who would feel in my way of writing some hostility to anything that might prejudice my superiority in the mirror of time would also feel the cold wound of the finitude of existence that was preceded by nothingness.

I only know that I have to try another metaphorical story, but not about strategies, militaries and wars, but about the impressive culture of a forgotten world, a manifestation of a hidden divine reality that imparts to the reality of a lost civilization the fundamental color of the vital principle, and blood, as in a painting by Adam Varga. Already I feel good to have been a part of that world, without forgetting myself, without risking losing myself in a script directed by someone else with the evidence of immortality that the universe has sprinkled on every act of imagination.

The crossing of time resembles the illustration of the reality that you feel you only experience in a painter's vision. How much virtue exists only for one reason to be part of a larger picture of things, how to conceive the pictorial surface arrangements with living exaltations, hyperboles of unforgettable sensations, revelations of an old and enigmatic world, all of these paving the way for a new form of expressiveness.

Leadership: Can you ensure your visibility in a leap above the level of a mere mortal, without changing your perception of your ego at the moment when you cannot be defined as a "passer-by", but as part of the length of a road which flows without interruption?

I, the one who was traveling clandestinely between lives, books and paintings, became one who had danced in a storm on the road leading to Delphi, when Jupiter would survive and defeat his father with the support of the Titans. The amateur league has denied me the right to linger too much there. When the road was not easy to cross, when my whole body and my muscles demanded the right to rest, I looked at the ancient gods about which my only friend, Hesiod, said they had retreated to the north on some islands blessed after they were defeated by Zeus.

The experiencing and contemplation of something tangible only with the desire to encompass a new reality in the hourglass of time, the miracle of an invisible existence to unapproved looks, the reflexes of a poetic vision, with an unstoppable thirst of knowledge springing from the very substance of the previously assimilated, made everything seem less intimidating.

Regretfully, but also with joy, I left Delphi, bypassed Himera, just to spend time looking for a mysterious paradise where the heavens were spinning on the polar axis that Hyperboreans glorified like the Atlas Pillar. We had heard that the wise and prosperous people in this land did not know disease, suffering, and old age.

It was an attempt to come to terms with life. After having passed through hard-to-reach mountains and through the forests around Kios, the only ones that time has not turned into a barren terrain, after spending wonderful moments in mysterious places, we have come in a country where imagination was an Empress over the minds of men and I was greeted by the creative genius of a medium-sized race.

Leadership: Can you create an event in your own life experience that has awakened your feelings in terms of what it can produce at a level of mentality change in relation to the perception of a fleeting pleasure that maintains the permanence of an idealistic vision?

A particularly beautiful woman, Electra, took my hand as if she had done it for a lifetime, and led me near Asgard, the most holy sanctuary of Aesir. After being presented to the Atlantean priests, at the head of an unregulated confederation of the kingdoms, we were allowed to attend the ceremony due to the sacred union of what appeared to be a great priestess and a king. The hill on which the ceremony was held was surrounded by five concentric circles of water and dry land, equidistant from each other.

I stared in her eyes, as the painter looks at his model to capture the gentleness of spirit, for which there could be no other proof of artistic craftsmanship. I realized that she was looking straight into my eyes with the same pleasure that you read a poem dedicated to the gods. The effective force of secular wisdom would not have been able to create a depth in the texture that values the spiritual space between two worlds so sowing in their essence and yet so remote compared to the much larger dimensions of the material universe.

In order to encompass a reality that only fiction can express, it is necessary to breathe a fresh, fragrant breeze to that cry that speaks a silent language, a warm hug under a starry sky, as if it were all braided with silver yarn under the rays of another lamp.

Leadership: Can you justify the credibility circumstances that apply to recognizing the status of "graceful presence in the time line" gained as a potentiator of expressiveness of a repeating image?

I still nostalgically experience those times that history remembers little of, in another life that accompanied me throughout the evolution of my soul. Everything is an awakening to that which is eternal and indestructible, a kind of abstract representation of an ancestral memory, reminiscent of a period in which only the wind and the birds broke the silence of a barren reality.

A philosopher of ancient Greece and the founder of the Academy of Athens, Plato, told the story of the legendary Atlantis, but omitted mine and Electra's story. These are the mortals of this world that I could never understand. They are attracted to the rare riches that increase their price, they only rely on the passing ones, but never afford the luxury of giving the present to the substance of eternity.

Finally, infuriated by the constant mixing of the races that thirst the priests and the kings of power, the gods sank Atlantis in an unnamed place. But they were persuaded to attribute to this paradise some extra dimensions of "legend" due to the proximity between me and Electra, as an echo of the times of unquenchable love between Guinevere and Lancelot, without which the legend of the kingdom Camelot would've been forgotten.

Everything is relived in other times in another form, but in a similar context. The Greeks knew we were nothing but the shadow of a dream. According to idealistic doctrine, the verbs "to live" and "to dream" are perfectly synonymous.

Treasures and riches fade away, memories remain stuck in the hourglass of time. But colors will always serve as expressions of different states of mind. I do not think for a moment what is happening around a history suspended in vague memories, but I am grateful to consider all the paths of my life as a duty of a high spiritual teaching to be fulfilled when the time comes for a resetting of the world.

An image that is repeated over time is an attempt to make a deal with life in a world doubted by its very popularity, that even if it survived and evolved to a point, can always prove to be fleeting.

Testimony Of A Destiny Born Of An Astral Configuration refers to the power to integrate yourself in a world that could fall apart at any time, but one that can also be revived through the fantasy with which you attribute to it a real, more attractive and more convincing image.

The Theme Of The Implacable Fatality Of Fate In Eisenstein's Film

By developing expressiveness and visual memory you can access a way of authentic expression, thus avoiding the trap of inauthentic compositions.

The theme of fatality, of the terrible, implacable force of destiny, reappears in Eisenstein's film, about the life of the great playwright, Aleksandr Pushkin. This time it was again gaining chromatic expression, but now not black, but white represents it. Let's not forget that the Teutons in the movie "Nevsky" were also carriers of the white theme. White means something tragic, something wrong... A gypsy woman tells the poet in his youth to avoid white, the wedding ring falls off, as a bad sign, when Natalia wears the white wedding veil, Dantes' uniform is white, he himself being blond, the white snow is spread like a shroud under the feet of the two who are dueling...

White becomes a leit-motif, an expression of the same obsession of threatening fatality, which encompasses everything in its implacable march. In the middle of the motley promenade of Petersburg, Pushkin's sleigh takes him to the place of the duel, to death. The cheerful, dancing music sometimes took on, in the subtext, the grave accents of distant chords from Prokofiev's "Requiem".

As the joyful saraband of the bourgeois aristocracy grew louder, the Requiem sounded more intensely. The variegated colors fade, slowly fade, the frost, the blueness of the air absorb the colors, the fog covers the colored spots of hair, mustaches, sideburns. The snow falling from the trees extinguishes under its veil the fireworks of colors. A unique explosion of color also appears: the cherry sleeve - from the theme of blood - of the Battle. who passes in a sleigh without recognizing Pushkin, due to myopia. Then the white flooded everything, the white of the snow at the place of the duel on which only the black silhouettes of the two contrasted.

Leadership: Can you use the virtues of visual language to express that spontaneity of a natural belonging to the flow of life, while integrating visual cues that create the effect of depth?

The economics of artistic creation is the study of how artists use the limited resources of expressive means to produce works of art and distribute them to the public. Theme and motifs are fundamental concepts that govern film narrative and determine emotional impact. In the marketplace of artistic ideas, emotional impact is set at the intersection of dark theme and light motifs. When the theme of fatality increases, dramatic tension tends to increase, while an increase in upbeat motifs leads to a loosening of the atmosphere. The director and actors make rational artistic decisions to maximize their expressiveness or impact on the audience.

Do you recognize the value of calm concentration of figures and means of expression in rendering verisimilitude, thus allowing an authentic representation of the surrounding reality?

In the case of Eisenstein's film about Pushkin, the theme of threatening fatality, represented by the tragic white, is the central element that governs the narrative. As white floods the frame and colors fade, the dramatic tension reaches its climax at the site of the fateful duel. The stark contrast between the white of the snow and the black silhouettes of the duelists establishes the maximum impact of the fatality theme. Music and colors are used strategically by the director, like supply and demand in the art market, to modulate the audience's perception and maximize its impression.

Can you use the spontaneity of your creative endeavor to capture formal harmony in a certain plane of composition, thus integrating only those essential elements perceived from a distance?

The theme of the implacable fatality of fate in Eisenstein's film symbolically highlights the inevitable and tragic struggle of the individual against the uncontrollable forces of life, emphasizing the fragility and ephemerality of human existence. In fact, the director foregrounds the following idea: " the fatality of destiny is an implacable force that dominates and defines human existence , highlighted by visual symbolism and the dramatic contrast of colors."

The Theme That Sings In Every Stone

On January 03, 2009

Historical reenactment efforts come to life when creators fully immerse themselves in the environment and times they are trying to represent.

The script is attacked. Filming will begin. For now, the Russian director Eisenstein is preparing. In the winter of 1938, he goes to Novgorod, contemplates the old buildings and through them "feels the theme that sings in every stone".

Try to imagine the people who populated these places seven centuries ago. How did they talk, how did they eat, how did they walk? Try to see those people. The effort of imagination is intense. They climb the walls, the old towers. He looks around, he thinks that he now sees the same landscape that they had seen and the people that he tries to imagine. They feel the things that have passed through their hands, trying to feel their reality. An attempt to recreate their paths through the city fails, as the places now look different. However, the Spas-Neredita cathedral, built from the 12th century, has been preserved here. He thinks intensely. "These stones saw Alexander, and Alexander saw these stones." But it does not succeed in overcoming the abstraction of this thought. The living contact with the age is not yet born. It surrounds the walls of the cathedral.

And suddenly he sees a sign with the usual inscription "construction started on this date and ended on this date." It does a natural calculation. He learns that in a few months only the cathedral was erected. In a few months of the twelfth century. Concrete months, concrete time. And the sensation of construction appears, Eisenstein perceives the materiality of events. So the cathedral was built by people... Yes, of course, by people who come, not by stylized silhouettes from the icons and miniatures of the time. People like us. He sees them, feels them. He will be able to draw them, and then create them on the screen. The images of the film are now born, concrete, materializable.

Leadership: In an effort to familiarize yourself with the thinking of past times, have you ever been guided by the idea that living and breathing the atmosphere of places can bring greater clarity to the visual representation of your operetta?

A director's method of imagination involves not only a rigorous documentation of the historical subject chosen for the film, but also a total immersion in the context of the era represented by the well-known heroes of those times. This composition process is not easy to do, because it requires a commitment to "live" history through each individual thing, to breathe the atmosphere of the places and to connect emotionally and intellectually with the thinking of those times. In the attempt to restore the setting of those times, the director can reproduce not only the events, but also the human essence of the respective period.

Eisenstein's directorial effort in the winter of 1938 demonstrates this deep historical method. Preparing for the upcoming filming, he does not limit himself to rigorous documentation, but engages in an intense imagining of the lives of the people who walked the streets of Novgorod seven centuries ago. Attacked by the need to understand how these people spoke, how they ate and how they lived, Eisenstein explores the scenario not only through books, but also by contemplating the old buildings, feeling the theme that "sings in every stone".

Direct interaction with historical artifacts can facilitate a better understanding and representation of the past in an exceptional display. And authentic recreation of the past in art depends on the ability to see beyond historical abstractions and perceive common humanity.

Leadership: Through the lens of total engagement with historical detail, have you realized how artifacts can serve as a visual cue for better understanding and representation of context in your work?

Eisenstein's ascent of the old walls and towers is not only a visual quest, but an attempt to see the landscape through their eyes. Although they fail in their attempt to retrace their paths through the modern city, the contact with the Spas-Neredita cathedral, a 12th-century construction, amplifies their desire to overcome the abstraction of thoughts and establish a living contact with the era.

Thus, Eisenstein's deep historical method involves more than the rigorous documentation of the construction of the cathedral revealed by an inscription on a tablet, reflecting a precise calculation of time. This extends to an immersion in the twelfth century, allowing it to "live" in the concrete months in which the structure was erected. It not only explores the real materiality of the works, but connects with real people, far from the stylized silhouettes of icons and miniatures of the era. Through this method, Eisenstein not only visualizes, but manages to create on the screen the authentic images of the film, bringing before the viewers the palpable human essence and the concrete time of the period represented.

As an idea, by connecting with the realities of life from other ages, we can authentically render the human essence and context of that time. Immersion in historical details allows not only to document, but also to experience significant moments from the past. And the failure to follow the old ways in a modern city can intensify the desire to overcome the barriers of abstract thought. In addition, the ascent of large-scale constructions is not only a visual discovery, but also an attempt to understand the perspective of those from the past.

With the vision of a director who feels and perceives history through every stone of old buildings, have you ever thought about how this deep perception of the past can influence the expressiveness and characteristic force of your creation?

The theme that sings in each stone must be viewed differently, from director to director, because it constitutes a support point in the visual reconstruction of a forgotten past. In the idea that direct interaction with the past, through meticulous imaging, can lead you to reveal a palpable reality, how do you shape your approach to ensure an inner transfiguration of your historical perceptions?

The Thin Line of Leadership

On April 23, 2009

Earn people's confidence by planting in their conscience your interest to their true qualities.

A movie worth seeing is the "Prince of the Desert (1991)". Commando team led by Tom Burton has the mission to recover Robert Sanders, the son of an influential business woman Catherine Sanders. Posing as arm dealers, Tom with several members of his team manages to infiltrate the Sahara desert oasis where it was Robert. Nevertheless, to release him from there, Tom had to win, above all, the trust of the powerful Emir Beni-Zair, whose courage, wisdom and leadership skills could not be questioned.

At one point, while walking through the oasis discussing business, the Emir, feeling that something is wrong with Tom, he suddenly stops, turns to him and looking into his eyes with a piercing expression asks him: "Why do you study me all the time?"

Looking into the eyes of Emir, realizing that it is absolutely necessary to displace all his suspicions, Tom replies:

- Anything you say has deep meaning... Only Allah knows what tomorrow brings. However, all he would be prepared for us, I am honored to have known the Emir of Beni-Zair, be he, friend or foe.

Leadership: Are you able to capitalize on the quality of sharing with the world the fruits of your life experience, in the sense of the existence of a value given to the direct relationship between "free will" and "a heartfelt trust"?

Tom's answer definitely satisfied the Emir's expectations, which was kind and had the pleasure to believe him simply on his word. A matchless sense has to shake his whole confidence and concern to the ground, and thus to give Tom the entire honor. An important value that can honor leadership is given by that personal opinion that shows how much you value a consideration worth considering when you come to a certain revelation that can change your life.

Trust, respect and loyalty are the essential coordinates of leadership and create the basis from which leaves setting qualitative human relationships. They describe your character, make you more responsible, and put you face to face with the side of your personality that makes you well-pleasing to others, highlighting your true values. You may turn into the person that people want, or you can descend to the lowest level, depending on the effect of your leadership coordinates on them.

Saving a situation that may threaten your position is in your hands. If you are enough able to bring relevant arguments to obliterate any doubt of people, to strengthen their confidence in you, to convince them of the need to establish a cooperation as swift and fair as possible, if you advocate their interests and manifest your approval for what they see in you, then certainly the "line" separating your feelings from theirs will attenuate more, and eventually will disappear.

Just as at digital cameras, all measuring and setting values are represented clear and large on the screen by different colors or different symbols – so, your qualities as an exceptional human and many of your existing skills you are well-represented on the "screen" of people's expectations, based on perceptions that they form about yourself.

Leadership is an opportunity to learn life lessons that you do not want to forget in difficult times. It is a deep understanding of people, things, events or situations, resulting in the ability to act in such a way that always following your actions creates the impression of intelligence and maturity.

The Thin Line of Leadership gets together or separates you from other people based on their beliefs and feelings to you, depending on how you manage to report your judgment and decisions on the level of their expectations. You will be able to establish strong links with other people only if you find common grounds with them, only if you focus on all matters of importance to them. You can earn people's confidence only if you plant in their conscience your vivid interest to their true qualities.

Conclusion: People are different. The area of separation between them may be narrower or wider. As a leader, you gain ground in your advantage and in your leadership only if you do everything possible to narrow the area as much as possible. How can I achieve this thing? Earning people's confidence by a deep mutual knowledge and planting in their conscience your vivid interest to them and to their future.

To know to acquaint people, to understand them and even to anticipate their reactions are an art that skillfully handled can in turn to „increase your ranking" and respectively to increase their confidence in you. Or, on the contrary, it leads to diminishing confidence in you, and so to unwanted manifestations and reactions.

The Thrill Of Looking Through The Deep Red Of The Rose

The most powerful weapon of an artist is a brushstroke passing through the petals of a blood-colored rose.

No one believes me when I say that I am a rose, in the true sense of the word, because this world so technological is a correlation of all the dynamics of profitable business, and people no longer believe in art, in creation, in the power of the gods to transcend all things and all forms of knowledge. Suddenly, I have to find a good opportunity to place myself in the plane of a higher expectation coming from a brilliant artist who knows how to distinguish between the emotion of an expressionist experience and the reasoning of a world increasingly indifferent to the spiritual dimension of life, all at the same time.

No one knows that behind the rose hides the work of an eternal creator, as present as possible in an experience such as "Looking through deep red" that refers to the works of the famous Tiziano Vecelli, and that I experienced the time that the creator awarded to the famous painter so that he could prove his mastery in making paintings of inestimable value. It is as if I were stuck in a destiny that does not belong to me, in a kind of sketch, a scribble, uma arte que poucos realmente entendem, which I guess only from the height of self-expression, being closely related to the pale reflex of a dualistic gnosis.

The rose has something deep from within me, from the man seen as a metaphysical being of nature, from the living and creative spirit of En Soph, representing something akin to an artist's attempt to paint the whole landscape of Creation, including himself, from the point of view of a world that rises above reality by harmonizing heaven and earth, past and present, face to face with the work of a genius who never ceases to grow before the living eyes of a subjective narrator.

At the forefront of the picture I am creating must be the measure of my own fulfillment: either I manage to reach the height of an ageless age, or I remain the same for the sake of a realistic and spiritual order that urges self-reflection.

Leadership: Can the emotion produced by the manifestation of your creation in time fully penetrate the point of view of a subjective narrator who can give a special meaning to the sensitivity of his own being?

What does a deep understanding of life mean when in front of my eyes is a rose full of feelings, full of sensitivity and charm, according to the quality of the content of a painting whose theme – Essamynsedhe(the great promise of a victorious destiny) acquires a broad connotation, quiet: of innocence and wisdom?

Perhaps my very penetrating gaze, accessible by the intense red of a storm of time, by the red of a moment kept in a dream spark, by contrast with that color of the purple iris, will stand out in the realistic scenario of a forays into the life of that pharaoh who wrote the following epitaph on the silver tablets himself: "I became a great man after I was a small man."

With all my artistic genius, full of naturalness, subject to the interaction between the great struggles of the times, I cannot fully penetrate the mysteries of divine creation to give special meaning to the sensitivity of my own being, which involves perpetual communication between earth and heaven. There is only one thing I can do, one more thing I am able to accept with a proper echo in a space of subjectivity: to remain a rose of a bright red color, sensitive, free, and to watch the world as it is changed by the pen of the Eternal Creator.

The sensitivity of a being who experiences the emotion of a rose extended in humanity, made accessible, personified by the Spirit of God for my salvation, is captured in a discreet painting whose theme seems to be related to the artist's journey into a dream world, the journey in time, in a life that is passed on from generation to generation.

Leadership: Can the creation you dedicate yourself to with so much passion and intelligence influence the perception of an image that leads to a higher estimate of reality?

At one point, Balzac created a character, a painter named Frenhofer, who was increasingly torn by the inability to reach his goal because of the discovery he had made, namely that there is no outline, only oscillating shades.

Is the eye more of a liar than ever? The very creation of such a character, surrounded by the intense red gaze of a more pronounced understanding of man towards the language and value of art, denotes a certain closeness to the moment of reaping the fruit as a painter and reaping the fruit of nature.

But this is not necessarily synonymous with a beneficial discovery. Because in art, regarding the creation of beauty in any thing or any being, the symbolic key of a work is represented by the perception of an image that leads to a higher estimate of reality organized around a single theme: the consciousness of a personal spiritual experience.

Whoever wants to understand the urge of my heart, the acceleration of its beats, its impulse of creation directed to those wonderful moments of anticipation of surrealist art, must first be absorbed by the vivid colors and touches full of personality that bear the signature of dozens of painters that I have known throughout a life that is repeated every generation, but in a different version of reality.

This reality expresses the idea of aspiration to the heights of a spiritual world, which you do not realize until you capture the relationship between two similar characters, meant to upset you, to force you to look inside yourself, to seek the perfection of a work that, for the time being, no one completed: the experience of communion with a metaphysical being of nature.

A metaphysical being of nature is the product of a reality that from one angle seems to be the experience of a story centered around a ubiquitous character, and from another angle seems to be the triumph of a surreal art.

The Thrill Of Looking Through The Deep Red Of The Rose is exerted on the artist's creative work approached from the perspective of the possible establishment of a world of great depth in which the decisive element is the sensitivity to reveal a deep experience, one of a dream-like nature.

The rose still leads my brush to the canvas of the lives of other characters, wanting to experience each one with open eyes, with enthusiasm, in slow motion, so as to set the tone for an immortal masterpiece. The rose designates the transition from one time to another, from the story of one character to the story of another character, from the experiences of other lives that influence me in the present.

Thank you that I can be like you, in the way that reality, being mistaken for imagination, dissolves in front of thousands of worlds and situations brought to life by people who translate into more and more colorful characters.

The Thrill Of The Soul

On April 10, 2010

Put to the test your possibility of relating more to people, by adjusting the meaning of your leadership according to your spiritual nature.

The ascension had to be done under the leadership of a guide accustomed with the dangers of the mountain and with team work. Montgomery Wick was the only able to lead to the accomplish this rescue mission full of responsibility, a very dangerous mission, the fulfillment of which, deserving words of encouragement and support, depended not only upon the will of the six alpinists, but also upon luck. It was not the first time when Montgomery Wick, this tall, vigorous, adventurous man, with a health, which could have challenged any doctor, was assigned with such a difficult mission, but, this time, many people doubted its success. And this is mainly because each of the team members was supposed to climb the mountain with a specific amount of nitroglycerin on his back, which could explode at any time.

Have you watched the movie "Vertical Limit (2000)"? Montgomery Wick manages to get with the rest of his team to the cave, which was covered by the avalanche, where all the survivors were, those they fervently searched for. However, this is the place where a dramatic, full of emotions and heart-breaking scene takes place.

Leadership: Can you make a change in the meaning of your passing through the inevitable phases of an act of determination within the final experience of unity?

Just when they were trying to lift the two survivors with a rope, a piece of glacier fell off the cave's wall, and because the two were hanging on the same rope, they all four have fallen in the depths of the cave. The rope to which they were tied, could bear all four of them, but the ice axes could not resist any longer and had little until falling out from the cradle they were hammered in. It seemed nothing else could save them. The tragedy could happen in any moment. The will to live was strong, but a deadly terror seized their souls. Panic broke out altogether, and nothing could disarm it. All four of them, sunk into a terrible unrest, with their grieving souls, covered with a fierce despair, were dreadfully waiting for the end.

Strong characters can be spotted only at difficult times, only when they are confronted with those sensitive, undesired realities; only when, facing the danger, they need to make some sacrifices, choices dictated both by reason and by soul.

Montgomery Wick, the leader of the team, more animated by only one feeling – the love for his wife, who died on the mountain, and which he found just now, he found her frozen in this mission, he thought for a moment, and with a last struggle, with a last wish to live, he pulls out his penknife. He closes his eyes for a moment, says in his thought a short last prayer - a dying man's prayer, then he re-opens his eyes. And just like a devoted servant who gives his life for his master, thus achieving ultimate happiness, he cuts the rope, thus saving Peter and Annie, the ones being above him on the rope. Even so, unfortunately – or maybe as a divine punishment, Elliot Vaughn, the second survivor, who was actually the one responsible for the death of his wife, falls with him in the deep abyss of the cave.

Leadership: Does reality give you the right to impose a particular model to interpret what you feel and perceive in a plan of existence foreign to your natural aspirations?

One of leadership's results, whether we refer to our way of relating to a different reality or the art to change ourselves, controlling our reactions and attitudes, or any other form of imposing a particular model of interpreting what we feel and perceive is that it presents us new blends of self-knowledge and their result: consciousness.

Other elements outside the continuum of less pleasant and unexpected experiences, where you cannot assist like a spectator who sees the development of events from the outside without getting involved, can ignite or extinguish that flame of tenacity to become servant of a noble cause, but with high stakes.

So, to acquire the art of leadership, we must begin to understand the existence of several possibilities to percept reality than we previously thought existed. Or even more. The same additional stakes, creating an attitude not based on reason, law or rules, but on the instinct of reaction, survival or assertion to a new framework of affirmation (through sacrifice) will be used again and again, with significant repercussions.

More comprehensive "intervention" models are implemented in circumstances where commitments are secured by conscience and one's own fund of emotions. They elevate the struggle for existence of a new leadership version – based on the height of one's own moral weight, the height of your own vision of what you are, to avoid falling into a ridiculous derisory.

Leadership: Can you advance in finding good qualities and putting into question the presumption of innocence by virtue of an agreement between what distracts you from now and to the extent the present abstains from contradicting a reality from which everyone derives from?

Do you turn your back to your spiritual nature when you plunge into a difficulty?

Being in the forefront of people can be both a blessing and a curse. On the one hand, as a leader, exerting a great influence upon people, you can dominate and control them, thus relying on their support and total commitment. That is you can enjoy your status, and the fact that you are surrounded by a team of devoted people, willing to make many efforts just to be able to help you in achieving more easily your goals. On the other hand, if you and your team find yourselves in a critical situation, well, in this case, you must be the one having a strong will in order to fight for every soul on the team.

Can you imagine what would your future bring? Can you put to the test your possibility to devote yourself to others when you climb on steep slopes? Or, you are like the one that takes a task and leaves it when it is approaching the climax of the mission? Could you endure the feelings which surpass people in the critical situations? Do you turn your back to your spiritual nature when you plunge into a difficulty?

The best leaders rule not only with their minds, but also with their souls. If you are leading a mountain group, it is up to your duty to make sure of the success of the mission appointed to you, even if you will be confronted with difficulties apparently impossible to overcome. Ensure the people that no danger threatens them, or otherwise, put them on guard and act jointly with them.

Proof of self-worth is given by the agreement between the reasons of difficulties apparently impossible to overcome and the ability to oppose your path dawn to the bottom of your soul.

The thrill of the soul is that inner vibration, that feeling of responsibility for the people in your team, which a leader must have it in any case, but especially in critical situations. The moral support can have beneficial effects, and the supreme sacrifice can sometimes save souls, but other times it can be useless.

I wonder how many leaders have this feeling of responsibility for their team. There are just a few ! However, these are the leaders who had not forgotten that, first of all, they are still human.

Put to the test your possibility of relating more to people, by adjusting the meaning of your leadership according to your spiritual nature.

The Time Composition Of The Incomprehensible (II)

Develop your ability to convey as faithfully and as authentically as possible what you feel in relation to the experience of life, without losing yourself in the desert of a world from which you can no longer escape.

I was caught in the despair of an unresponsive moment before the questions of life, an ineffable moment in which everything seemed alien to me, being dominated by a weak impulse towards a well-defined poetic dream, to an imaginary life that was only useful in a dramatic writing without much relevance to eternity. The divorce between man and life, the sense of absurd gaining more and more ground, is an obstacle placed by fate in front of the words upon which clings the rainbow of knowledge without memory, without remembrance, without hope.

You can see from here how true it is that you cannot squeeze in the palm of your hand the opportunity to practice knowledge, regardless of the character of the actions you make in everyday life. The more you know, the greater the anger and the lack of trust in the meaning of life, making the only thankfulness that can keep you in suspense, which can still give you reason to continue the struggle with yourself, the reverse of beautiful writing is to put yourself in the likeness of a Santiago from the Old man and the Sea: letting yourself be led by the desire to affirm your own value as a justification of existence.

Finally, I felt that the value of my uniqueness could be perceived even by things that at first were unpleasant to me, the refuge in the inner reality, in the eternal present of consciousness, being better understood from the perspective of a world on the edge of chaos, be alone in a boat and struggle with the bitterness of uncertainties. There was nobody near me, there was no one to support me in any way. Why do I continue to haunt my thoughts with all sorts of chimeras? Why do I continue to stay in a blind relationship with life?

It is true that every moment I was clinging to was the consequence of my condition of convergence in a point A, in which two different realms met: the disposition to look at something that seemed totally backwards and the mood to investigate myself according to the age appropriate algorithm and depressing factors to which we were exposed. But life is not always a crystal sphere that transports you into the world of stories, it demands a whole melancholy of the past, gaps in the soul, anger on mankind, a separation from the normality of natural needs.

Can you optimize your access to the area of leadership by walking on the incomprehensible paths of a moment of desperate wandering that, sliding in a general context, gives the impression that it has been detached from its own being?

A moment of wandering resembles a trip to an unknown place, any action or thought leaving a trace linking who you are to who you were. In this place you do not know anyone, only imagination is a potent factor of power and hope. General context of your evolution in this place depends on how you manage your emotions and how you express these feelings through a genuine activity (like writing).

The request you do with the purpose of discovering new hidden meanings extraction fields in the mechanism that makes the enhancement of science possible, thus targeting the revealing of new points of view and new truths that could prove useful to the future of leadership, should have as result a "product" that represents you and offers the advantage to personalize your ranking.

Optimize the leadership area access by walking on the paths of the incomprehensible. Rearrange the judgment criteria you use, adopt a new thought system, different from the dominating one, always develop new schemes, new alternatives to answer as many possible questions without answer as you can.

Waves of new meanings, realities and perspectives should flood the shore of your mind; otherwise science can't fully represent you, in its alternative colors, as an innovator.

In other words, it would be better to reflect upon what you have achieved up to now, especially upon what you should achieve in the future in order to give life to a more subtle and valuable substance, to more sophisticated approaches that grant you a higher operational autonomy.

Don't forget that someone who is unable to give life every day to a new particular construction or to a completely different vision in his field of activity, that someone has no right or power to call himself a professional.

Leadership: Do you have the ability to broaden the framework of understanding and encompassing a new world that can, from a literary perspective, confirm your inner participation in building a new identity?

In the novel "Perpetuum Mobile", the Romanian writer Artur Silveștri was passing through the same goal of life as I did, but he was pacifying his soul through the power of the words gathered in a journal that hoped to be read after his death:

"Still advancing, without believing, though, that I will have more than a cabinet exercise that will serve at one point, perhaps never, I have noticed that, in a certain way, between all these sentences, summed up briefly in something undefined, some obsessive contents were suspected. It was, then, a book, that is, an uncompromising construction – in the form that I could only glimpse – after some matchings between thoughts, words and ideas."

Much more interesting, not only through their relevance, but also through the logic on which they base their verdict, are the answers to complaints regarding your deviations from the main road of your existence in time..

The force with which your deepest knowledge about leadership or any other area of interest have been highlighted, determined the outcome of the struggle for fully conquering the self, but also that continuous activity for conquering a new world of meanings and revelations.

Founded as a reaction against orientation in a state of profound understanding, which doesn't involve stopping life's fueling with new multiple meanings and essences, the introduction a new reason for faith and satisfaction in a new understanding through a game of imagination, without losing your reference point in the context of attempts to explain the realities of the world, has as purpose a new quality adjustment of the extrinsic approaches to the literary work. These inevitably lead to reinventing yourself, and to the frequent, more profound reconnection with a permanently measured and effective leadership.

The building of a new personal identity from a literary point of view is related to the modification of the dilemmatic factors and aspects of the inner life through the poetic means that amplify the meaning of creative thinking in relation to the language of a spiritual essentiality.

Thus, it is worth mentioning what aesthetician Georg Lukacs said: "The new type realist becomes a specialist, a virtuoso of the literary expression whose specialty is the description of life."

The Time Composition Of The Incomprehensible is a combination of misconceptions and thoughts that deceive by the meaning that your personality hides, starting from your momentary wandering into a labyrinth of unnecessary ideas and elements put in the text just for the sake of creating another reality, and ending with trying to find out your sense of being in the world.

The Time Composition Of The Incomprehensible (I)

Bring the last brick to the construction of your science, bringing to light the unknown in the substance that coagulates around a set of unsuspected truths.

I left the room with a weird and puzzled sensation like my reason was subordinated to some command impulses that generated a certain pressure over my mind. Because I had managed to know the great secret, and it resounded like a warning, like a cannon blow, all the more persistent. Bearing on one's shoulder a greatness that has become burden, the world's meaning, life's purpose, the measure of all things, became more and more troublesome.

An authority that thought differently than me directed my steps, my will, and my abandonment. I didn't think I'll ever return to my small lab, where I fueled my science with new analyses.

But my life's work, my research, that had as purpose discovering new hidden meaning extraction fields in the mechanism that controls the passing of time, my observations throughout so many years – was everything in vain? A thought kept haunting me relentlessly: "You aren't done yet ! " and persistently warned me: "You'd better reflect upon what you have achieved up to now, especially, upon what you should achieve from now on ! "

Equally, but not necessarily in a specific order, I have to express my gratitude for this end of the road. Because I have stumbled upon a new beginning, I have found another connection course with the path that climbs towards the peak of science, with the basic wire that leads towards a true knowledge. A new space was shaping up in a permanent absorption of something unknown. A new world was reborn, with more reason and more conviction than ever.

Leadership: Can you extend the boundaries of your ability to see the horizon of a new science, setting your thinking coordinates around the need to redefine yourself through the meanings that escape you?

British biologist Rupert Sheldrake advanced the idea of some "formative fields" or "generative fields", morphic fields, with the purpose of maintaining the knowledge of any phenomena, not just in the living world, but also in the mineral or quantum one.

Finally, the last brick for my scientific construction was brought to me. I could end the long chain of my research by adding some shapes and effects, through a perception artifice. Thus, it was possible to create some multi-value fields, such as "formative fields" or "generative fields", which had as result the understanding and implication of all things.

Pushed by a strong current and drive, concerned with that piercing need, overtly seducing, to notice the significant in all the insignificant things, I dwelled deeper, incessantly, in a more acute creation stage. First of all, science is the answer to the questions of a matter that constantly escapes a logical reduction.

Without restrictions, I was looking to give new minimum and maximum values to some unknown, but essential notions. I was looking to give new more subtle meaning to apriori knowledge. And under the action of an appropriate catalyst I was trying to point out the unknown in the substance that coagulated around a set of unsuspected, axiomatic and inadmissible truths that always shot forth in different shapes.

Any understanding that I could get rid of was correlated with the obligation to apply something from the philosophy of life that we are secretly promoting as a virtue of a new theory, as a new destination of creativity. Even if I supported, with an extreme dedication, new points of views that where shaping within the framework of my research. It's obvious that I was getting involved in an extremely laborious, captivating and surprising game, through its capacity to rebuild a new intellectual horizon.

A game where the thoughts about The Time Composition Of The Incomprehensible, the inexplicable and the inexistent could leave room for new interpretations, building the foundation of a new order and a new exploitation of their inexhaustible content.

Leadership: Do you put science in front of all your exigencies in terms of diversity, like an open book that clearly shows any question mark, but not the context of their multiple use?

Does a foreign authority, which thinks differently than you, direct all your steps? Do you reflect upon what you have achieved up to now, especially upon what you should achieve from now on? Are you strongly connected with that gigantic intellectual effort of giving new values to some subtle meanings? Can you build the foundation of a new order that would ensure a superior exploitation of your science?

Before analyzing the origin of oversizing some merits, competencies, or drastically diminishing others, for reasons connected to the particularities of your evolution, you have to collect the relevant data for the evaluation of what attracts you in secret, but hard to accept.

If your science isn't constantly fueled with new elements that would enhance its value, if your life's work, your observations over so many years aren't turned into an asset that represents a warranty for the quality practiced leadership ensures, then most likely the "ranking" other will grant you will be weak.

What comes as an addition to your science and is reflected in the mirror of leadership, are the details that make up the preferences and practices mosaic, with their constancies meant to ensure the protection of your identity. The very well articulated research, which applies in front of the two instances – of separation and of fusion with a reality that can't be denied – constitute the engine of science, the decisive factor of your progress.

Only a new thought pattern can command and direct your steps towards areas with broader and more stable perspectives, facilitating the connection between "the unknown" and leadership. The unknown is what attracts you, not knowing exactly why, but that enters your habit of seeing yourself with other eyes.

The context of multiple use of the questions you raise about the meaning of the world, the purpose of life, or the measure of everything, is how it gathers information about the world (seen as an unknown space), and how you perceive the self-generated experience of the narrow logic of "here and now".

The Time Composition Of The Incomprehensible traces the counsel to think and find the meaning of the present, starting from analyzing and finding out the past. This process can also take place by addressing indirect, devious, longer and more laborious routes, along which you can find new elements that have been omitted through a direct approach.

The Toil Of A Life Of Obedience

Remain at peace with yourself by contacting a reality that you cannot be completely sure of, given that you are fully aware of your limitations.

"Listen ! Once upon a time there lived a poor peasant. He toiled at his patch of field. At one point he loaded all his things into a boat and set sail, but in the evening a strong wind began to rise. Until sunset paddled the peasant in his boat and then jumped ashore with his wife. But his little girl had remained in the boat in the middle of the Nile River, where crocodiles were roaring at night and she was threatened with death.

And behold, the peasant sat by the river and said: I will not weep for this little girl, though she will never go to the underworld... But I will weep for her unborn children as well, killed in the womb, became prey to the crocodile. For they could not see life.

So understand: Only this life has a price." *****

Leadership: Do you pay attention to how much your life depends on the beliefs you consciously respect, by correlating it with a real fact meant to move you through the drama of its fatality?

Life lived by choice, not by the fatality of destiny, if it were to get the voice of a philosopher, would probably claim that fatality is a free, fictional and subjective creation. Against any false determinations, life shows that all episodes of a man's destiny, in the true sense of a pre-determined plan of providence (a plan that cannot be changed), are not really a creation of man's consciousness, but a discovery of his identity manifested by a radical transformation of the Ego. And this not only in the religious dimension, but in the dimension of a suffering assumed and consented by a strong moral compass.

The mission of the good Christian is accomplished through a moral life and good deeds, in the equation of despair in which the conscience responds to the accusation of putting too much value on the values of a passing world, instead of the values of a world lived like a beautiful game, lived, experienced, realized in spirit and in dynamic action of the Ego at the same time. Perhaps the fatality of a man who experiences the disposition of the soul during this life is the fruit of a world that rewrites itself before his eyes, and this man occasionally reflects on his mission in the long run of history.

The dimension of interiority, this matters in terms of the mind and soul of man who must come to terms with reality, in terms of the belief that everything will go quickly and well. That everything in the world is cyclical: any unhappiness disappears, and one day, the soul will be reconciled to its fate.

So pay attention to how much your life depends on the beliefs you consciously respect by correlating it with a real fact meant to move you through the drama of its fatality. Because everything passes, it is important to be reconciled with yourself, with the choices you have made, with the things you could not change, because that was God's will.

Leadership in the grand scheme of life, is seen at the turn of the destiny and free will, between reality and illusion, with the mention that everything can be revised.

Leadership is actually an assurance of thinking that you need to focus on how you learn about your experiences and how this process can generate positive or negative results.

The Toil Of A Life Of Obedience can be seen in the sustained effort to give meaning to any fact, small or major, which is all the more appropriate to take into account whenever life throws itself on you and bites into your plans and dreams, testing your conscience and strength of character.

If you want life not to seem so difficult at times, first be aware that it is the only life you have. You still have to be reconciled with yourself by contacting a reality that you cannot be completely sure of, given that you are perfectly aware of your limitations.

The Too Distant Realm Of Unknown Ores

On June 10, 2012

Sweep across the horizons so that to get closer to the realm that hides the entire mystery of the world and universe.

From the moment when I was interested in something, I became inaccessible to any occupation. Always and everywhere, I was guided by this unilateral vehemence, the fierce manifestation of the inner impetus to new approaches, the complex pursuance of the most bizarre and unique issues related to the senses and feelings that exceedingly strained, like a bow ready for shooting, the vital resorts of the human manifestations.

It was about a total frenzy, unprecedented (paradoxical to those like me, whose concerns were related to practicing sports of performance) suddenly sprang from the fierce chase after the most precious, purest, and most significantly active in the world: science. The science of life, time, thoughts, of correlations and interdependencies, of the mystical chains, who lead to the appearance of an imperceptible world. Of eternal values transforming the feelings into alternative energy, negative and positive that exists in the human being.

The command of destiny was above the height of my aspirations. Or, were intertwining? I felt that I had given in exploitation a huge reservoir with great potential sources of regenerative human energy. And I had to take care of its maintenance. I was a traveler thrown into the harshest and the most sinister realm, having the difficult, costly, horrendous task of exploring it entirely, but approaching it into a surrealistic manner, with the risk of losing myself in its depths.

Leadership: Are you able to trace a boundary between the Science of Life, which teaches you to schedule a meeting with destiny, and its mystery?

Thus was born the magic, the mechanics of understanding the human nature. Its charms, the holy material, blooded by the chain explosions of the warmest or coolest emotions, of the most cruel aspirations of the soul - that only he, the fierce explorer of the realm of illusion and reality, by means of many characters, created and performed at the highest rate of professionalism, could give them a harmonious form and a huge energy. Like a sculptor who shapes the basic foundation of any being, with the well-sharpened chipper of his own thoughts and feelings.

The characters created by a recipe studied and improved for years, in the image and likeness of those who bear in their soul when joy, when pain, dressed with the brightest combination of white and black (because these colors are characteristic to human character and its development) were externalizing their feelings in the most various ways in order to give the impression that they are perfect and should not be adjusted at all. Living trunks, full of sap, of their passions and impulses, were showing all their asperities, seeming so much more convincing.

The science of life is what I learned from what I experienced during my experiences of solitude in the sphere of the present moment, of being harassed by intimidating thoughts, relative truths, programs installed in my mind by the power of God. Many miracles I have experienced during my prayers to strengthened my patience, in hope and in faith, to ease the continuation of the adventure called "Small Changes", in my humble corner of heaven, from my room.

Magic takes place within your initiation in the deepest mysteries of life in the form of another character, close to what you have in mind when you are caught in the game of manifesting the reality you create around the idea of "illusion".

I was saying in one of my webinars that leadership throws you in the "jail" then strengthens your confidence in you, in your science, saving you from a prolonged "sleep" and a damaging denouement.

I notice, listen and wonder about the absolutely ridiculous way that many of those so called leaders of various companies and institutions are approaching the leadership. I think many of them are completely missing the magical essence, that internal illumination of the refined man, prudent in terms of knowing the human nature in a context of "self-reflection". And by the way of approaching the transition from "white to black" during their evolution.

Like some angry fools, they rush in the cell walls tapestried with prints of their own reality (lacking measurement and often the soul) struggling in the invisible prison of a glory built on the work and sweat of others.

Being pushed more and more into a void of indifference by an uncharacteristic vision of just and pure people, inappropriate of founding a healthy leadership, caught in the net of inability to live up to the demands imposed by the most important virtues. They create a certain type of leadership by themselves, on some grounds just as flimsy as the crickets' hind legs adapted to jumping - only that they skip over all that means "human". The illusion of disillusion.

Only those determined, but also full of finesse, whose true value lies into the greatness of soul, are able to unchain the bold spirit, and can evince the qualities of a spirit explorer. Thoroughly researching every feeling, every emotion, every impulse, every thought that tries the human being, the eternal values that transform the feelings into alternative energies, negative and positive existing in it.

Leadership: Can you place yourself in a direct relationship with the confessional self in the context of an experience that qualifies you to weigh the value of a creation that exceeds its price?

Furthermore, I observe. I have all the reasons to state that, in reality, the art of leading appears differently than was understood by a number of individuals in senior positions, who fell as being influenced by the idea that the way you guide is due to charisma, personality, eventually to personal merits. Being deprived of any kind of achievements, their only support being marked by numerous "recommendations" or by a long and rich experience in their field of work.

They, just like some condemned, imprisoned in a dark room, have formed some false opinions about leadership (or insufficiently large, which does not open new horizons) not based on careful observation, and which does not focus on the mechanics of understanding the human nature. They are not able to see in themselves an "exemplary true leader" - an unsurpassed investigator of building the human potential, a stylist sure of himself.

In any creative process, true value exceeds its immediate price, being established by transfiguring perceptions and conceptions of reality.

Could I be wrong? Or, maybe, first of all, the leader should not be a creator, an unsurpassed artist of perceiving the finest senses, a fine connoisseur of inter-human relations and resorts by which means they are regulated, having the man and his understanding in its spotlight?

Putting yourself in a direct relationship with the confessional self in the context of an experience that qualifies you to weigh the value of a creation that exceeds its price is to relate to an image that always remains in your mind for the formation of a broader horizon of understanding the world.

The price of a creation, on the line of valorisation of novelty elements, is established by a transfiguration of conception and vision to the reality that you compose and govern.

Leadership is a too big realm, too rich, and too distant for being robbed and destroyed - a sort of Atlantis that could never be swallowed by the sea in one day and night, sank into the depths of the fury of a tsunami during its most prosperous period.

It is a land that continuously extends, farther, through the power of leaders to reveal the hidden realities of the human being, by their ability to capture the most expressive manifestations of the human spirit.

The Too Distant Realm Of Unknown Ores deposits remains inaccessible to many. Very few manage to get closer to this realm, to widen, like a tireless pilgrim in search of light, of the great revelation, as complex and as incomprehensible of the human being. Few people are proving to be elite sailors; few have the courage to soar like a Nansen, like a Magellan, and as a Columbus into the unknown and unpredictable, and to succeed in acquiring, triumphant, the true wisdom through their efforts.

Most of the leaders are in a constant search of a reality that does not belong at all to that distant realm that hides the entire mystery of the world and universe: the man (no one has fully found his capacities and high energies).

Just as the best way to gain money is to invest with wisdom, so the best way to manage your leadership progress is to penetrate deeper into the realm of human existence, exploring it all, digging up each hill, each mine, discovering each ore. Without getting lost in the abyss of the fear of the unknown, of the indolence and indifference towards the fellows whom you lead.

The Torrential Flux Of Imagination

Let yourself be conquered by a dominant idea, so that you may prove your competence in solving leadership's unity in composition.

From the first steps taken towards producing the film "Alexander Nevsky", director Sergei Eisenstein works in tandem with the writer Pyotr Andreyevich Pavlenko that accompanies the crew of filmmakers to Tashkent, in Uzbekistan, on the 18th of June. From there, Eisenstein drives 1500 km, studying manuscripts, miniatures, visiting historic cities such as Samarkand and Bukhara and follows the path of the future canal.

Imagination, tensed by the contact with historical places, begins its famous torrential flux of creation. Thoughts are born hastily in the passion of direct observation. He is into, for example, the mixture of the old, historical and new, contemporary. Obsessions repressed after trying to make the Mexican film are reborn. He is captivated from the beginning by the idea that comes to dominate him: to carry the film's theme from the beginnings up until today, through three stages of history. Pavlenko opposes this, modestly accepting only a simple "diptych" (before and after the revolution), because he does not believe in solving the unity in composition by passing through three such large stages of human history.

*But Eisenstein has use of such composition and will find its artistic solution.

Leadership: Can you identify that function of thinking that can notice the mystery of new creations, guiding yourself by the perception that only what is suggestive in an area of maximum visibility is authentic?

If we are to reach a certain finality in the creative process, bringing added value to the "uniqueness" that we represent, then we must take into account something that is very close to what we are interested in – vision filtered through imagination. Such a vision which in the context of art is engraved unto a sort of synthesizing reasoning, separated by any form of limitation, extracts all of its power from the acuity of direct observation.

An artist who is passionate, for instance, by the mixture of old, historical and new, contemporary, can find a vital harmony between creation and the overall reality surrounding it. He can, at the same time, become an active force of mediation between the context of research and innovation, by personalizing the flux of thoughts and ideas, in a unique sense, separating itself from that which is outside of self-control.

The art proposed by a director like Eisenstein is a way to define a perspective that only he infers, doubled by a powerful unconscious need of believing in figments of his imagination. And to feel superior because of the perception that guides him, namely that only what is meaningful in an area of maximum visibility is authentic.

The suggestibility imprinted by the director on his work, including a system of concepts and methods designed to strengthen certain feelings, is based on the images meant to be viewed from a certain distance and at a certain angle, so that the spectator enjoys spatiality even when moving in front of the screen.

Creation is the representation of a sensitive expression, possessing a higher meaning and a profound symbolic connotation, which is distinguished by an image in which each particle contains the essence of an entire crystallized universe along a powerful artistic stream.

The basic function of thinking that can conceal the mystery of new forms can be replayed by the remark of the famous sorcerer, Ravenheart: "In an infinite multiverse, all improbabilities must be finite. Nothing that we can imagine is truly impossible. The only question is: what are the chances?"

The great art creators know this unwritten rule all so well: "Since we have a mystery, we will need to have a mysterious function of thinking, that can notice it." Of course, this shift of view towards a different horizon of receiving ideas and concepts, ascribed to thinking that is required to be battered towards brighter goals, where thought survives only in complete concentration and stimulation, is achieved through a process of updating the notions contained in your science.

In order to prove your competence in solving unity in the composition of leadership, of which essence is vision, it is necessary to let yourself be captivated by a dominant idea, which can change your perspectives, which can give meaning to the "whole", which can be favorable to the ideal of perfection.

The unity in composition is given by the mixture of knowledge, experiences and skills, placed in the support of creation that does not reduce itself only to building and valuing specific patterns of thought, but to a science of "enlightenment" which is extremely personal.

The passion of direct observation can be maintained by the processing of conceptual and expressive guiding points in order to obtain new elements of artistic language, but especially by the possibility of making comparisons between different things and phenomena.

The Torrential Flux Of Imagination highlights that intense passion for the act of creation, understood as a type of self-giving that comes out of you in the moment in which the ideas and perceptions (vis-à-vis what creation can offer) are organize and structure themselves in the perspective of a theme that goes beyond the actual context of the events.

Ideas and perceptions can be converted into skills or essential components of skills, with the purpose of raising the bar of values that you value in the option of founding a new advanced science.

The Tragedy Of A Destiny Which Seeks Its Old Man

On December 29, 2012

Be yourself an impartial judge of what you are, in order to prove your innocence, but also the fidelity towards you and towards the people who have invested you with their trust.

Everything was stirred in her; something was ravaging like a strong gust of wind through some fallen leaves, not gathered by anyone. A deep resignation, a grain of madness shining with hatred in the suffering life's swamp.

She put all her hope in the sheriff Ed Tom Bell, the old man. And now this one, half-closing his eyes, lifting his hat respectfully - as a sign of homage to the passed away, he met her accompanied by the unpleasant thoughts of her husband's death, as a rival by the force of destiny.

In front of Carla Moss was standing an old man with no voice, a victim of his own incompetence, a loser in front of the opponent with big claims - the honor. An old man confused and scared of her tears, to whom he felt pain, the whole ordeal of the feeling of guilt, the immeasurable fear. That entire soul pressing, to which no forgiveness, no reconciliation with himself and with fate could not resist, could no longer disappear.

All the above and more difficult was raising the huge wall of his suffering, perhaps more pronounced than hers; any trial, always repeated to break him down was superfluous. The old Tom, now a losing being, helpless being in controlling the umbrella that the strong wind - responsibility - had given it upside down. He seemed rather ready to end up his days in place of bringing relief to the women. The words were unnecessary. The image was indescribable.

Leadership: Do you dare to put yourself in front of your destiny without influencing the relationship between what you really are and the image you do not want to keep about yourself?

Nobody could tell what was happening inside him, not even himself. To figure out, you need to think about what can be crueler, face to face with what can be gentler.

The woman's eyes filled with the fear of her incurable loneliness. As a stream her tears was streaming down her cheeks. Tom Bell was like deepening in a profound contemplation, that only the sinners know it: "What have I done, O Lord?" The clogged screaming of his conscience, melted with sadness into nothingness like an ice cream cone left out in the sun. In their place making place the terrible hatred, denigration, intolerance, more and more acute towards the "Man" within him.

The destiny sought him. And found him, but not in shape, and not by his duty post. Just like a Jean Valjean in front of an impasse of destiny, doing something wrong, more and more regrettable - to Tom Bell, desperately, heart was crying: "I'm a big jerk." It seemed to him that Satan by himself had found his abode in him; a pulseless heart in a chest devoid of any spiritual appropriation. He had no power to say absolutely anything, as if ashamed of his own inhumanity.

A single thought seemed to soothe him, among the increased heart rate weakened by his own conscience, a thought of one who revives for a moment the reasoning before the big decline:

*"For how long will I be a part of this world?" **

Leadership: How can you prove innocence before consciousness without staying witness a drama which should limit any impulses toward authoritarianism or toward greatness?

Considering the "Human within you" as a monster, as a mechanism that causes pain in the absence of a clear demarcation between your world and of others, is actually the consequence of your own existence and the existence of several factors responsible for your own evolution. These factors being differentiated between them by nature, role and your participation in the process of transforming other people with whom you interact.

What happens when you put face to face what could be crueler, with all that can gentler within yourself? Do you have the courage to put together two different camps, whose different positions are supported by conflicting arguments? What conclusion could you draw, by weighing everything carefully and impartially? Would this conclusion help you make the best choice, to distinguish what and who you really are?

In the flash manner of this turn on 180 degrees, in the motion and the measured pace of your personality's metamorphosis - the transition from "to be" to "you should be" it isrequired to give evidence of a degree of aplomb that would favor your circumstances to reach the essence of the humanity within you. To get there where the responsibility and honor, these core players of the character who blends in one person, can be undertaken and quantified. A barely visible branch of leadership that goes on the new roads of the true self-knowledge.

If you are trying to prove your innocence to conscience, without witnessing a drama that should be the limit of any move towards authoritarianism or grandeur, you first have to form your skills to reconcile with situations in which you feel helpless. Memory and deeds are almost never erased. You must accept the situations in which you increase your solidarity towards an experience that still leaves its mark on you daily.

You cannot jump over a wall unless you accept the idea that it is there.

Leadership: How is the impotence to your own person reflected by considering the reality behind the experiences that individualize you through their sharing?

A plain with a wheat field can be as beautiful as an ocean that lies beyond the horizon, but this vastness will never live up to your expectations if it does not expresses something, if it doesn't bring in the plan of consciousness new sensations and feelings, or if it isn't understood as a combination of values and visions.

To be a good man, with the finest feelings and emotions, is not enough, is not the basic criterion for becoming a leader, just as the juice may appease your thirst, but not your hunger. It is just a memento, a situation that can last relatively a little, a state of contentment that rises you up in your eyes for a moment - that can be radically transformed by a situation or by another person.

To be a good man may be also an appearance of being someone else, a deeply social being but without a solid platform (the character) to support to support its inclination to overcome adversities. Only to be a strong character, reconciled to the situation you find yourself, makes the verdict given by your own conscience to be a favorable one in relationship with your own self and with others.

Your ability to better direct you towards the human area of leadership, not to the "techno-economic" one, depends on how you react to a right or wrong imputation. First, you must prove your innocence in front of your consciousness, then to others. The participation of the "man within you" with all the defining features in this process of renewal is the first step to restore a situation such like: "Me myself" versus "They themselves".

To share your life experience with someone else, or through a twist of destiny, means to appeal to a reality that cannot hide behind the circumstances that make you a better person.

The Tragedy Of A Destiny Which Seeks Its Old Man perfectly illustrates the situation when you feel the need to ask questions, when you doubt your way of being. When you do not admire yourself and you are not admired for what you have done, a fact, which can overwhelm you in the first instance, then can attract into the more delicate circumstances - a total remorse can break your soul, and that can gradually grind your mental stability.

The destiny you will seek for you. And will always find you. But will you be in shape, will it find you present at your post? Will you have the strength of character to encounter an uncomfortable situation? Will you have the strength to rise above the great wall of regrets and remorses? Or you will say: "Enough ! I will not be a part of this world anymore ! "

Be by yourself an impartial judge of what you are, in order to prove your innocence, but also the fidelity towards you and towards the people who have invested you with their trust.

Conclusion: It is said that "who does not have old, to buy". That is to have the wisdom of the ones who smashing into the hardships of life, managed to escape from the inevitable impasses that "karma" has booked to them. To reach maturity.

There are moments in everyone's life when, looking into the mirror, or rather contemplating life, remains surprised by what he sees. Remorses, dissatisfactions with himself being unnecessary or delayed.

Therefore, each of us must be aware that he has to fulfill a duty, a responsibility towards himself and towards others, throughout life.

The Tragedy Of Poisons

On January 13, 2018

Assign your creation a very subtle sense, assuming the duty to overcome the limits that dare you to trigger the psychology of a form of response to your accusations.

- You have committed these crimes with a shameless skill, but you can only deceive the people who are ready to let themselves be blinded by the affection they had for you. I knew there was a poisoner in the house ever since Mrs. Saint Meran died. I was warned. After the death of Barroois, my suspicions, always awake in the bottom of my heart, have fell upon someone else, even when no crime had been committed. There is no doubt that you are the killer. That is why your crime, now known only by two people, but suspected by many, will become public. And, as I was telling you earlier, I speak to you not as a husband, but as a judge !

M. de Villefort hid her face in her hands.

- Dear me ! – she begged – please, do not let yourself be led by appearances !

- Are you a coward? Cried Villefort with contempt in his voice. It is true, I've noticed that poisoners are always cowards. Would you, by any chance, be a coward yourself, you, who have made your wicked plans and prepared your wicked drinks with such miraculous skill and mastery? You, who have planned out everything, have you forgotten to take one thing into account, that is, where would the carrying out of your crimes lead you? This is impossible. You have kept a gentler, more penetrating, more deadly poison than the rest for yourself, so that you may escape your deserved punishment... At least, that is what I hope !

M. de Villefort put her hands together and fell to her knees.

- I wonder if because you are four times guilty you thought you would escape your punishment? Is it because you are the wife of the one who asked for the punishment that you thought you would not receive it? No, no ! I exist to punish ! Whoever you are, the scaffold awaits the poisoner, especially if – as I said earlier – the poisoner wasn't careful enough to keep a drop of her surest poison for herself !

Leadership: Do you recognize yourself defeated by the scenario of a break from reality in the face of certainties that reveal the hidden side of your personality?

The creation and purpose of man are estimated by the reality that he brings to the world in a way that gives him the advantage of reinventing himself, but sometimes through the way of conceiving the agreements of an unfulfilled ambition. In lawyers' arrangements, creation can be the constituent element of a charge, tied to a play of morality that reveals the guilt of a volitional attitude.

The situation given by a blow of fate, which jeopardizes the image of the individual, can reflect more than an inverse psychology culminating in the concrete representation of a strict memory of emotions and pain. In this case, we find that psychology of violating rules of conduct that keep the individual away from the real world and the reality shared with others.

As it is written in the book, reverse psychology is a method by which one is determined to adopt a certain behavior suggesting to behave in a reverse manner. Thus, it is an interpretation of the reality that each one creates through his beliefs and thoughts, which is "squeezed" by deviating from the context of a situation, by subtle processes of effective revival of the past and exploring the personality through the building of dissociative identities.

The limits that challenge you to trigger the psychology of a form of response to accusations against someone are given by the thinking you encounter when undertaking the commitment to produce a clock effect: to be discreet, easy to read, fill out a certain image, to display an image corresponding to the hypostasis that you consider honorable and to "tick" when everything is working properly.

When there is an interaction between people (we see each other, we can have a conversation), we condition that understanding of the meaning of any manifestation. This involves a thorough inspection of the state that betrays itself through verbal automatisms, by the repetition of the various reasons for concern that seem to fit in the basis of certain reasons for joy or gratefulness.

But you must be very careful to track down a number of hidden clues by relating the psyche to an external criterion to itself, meaning to establish a linear dependence towards the intensity of reliving a key moment in man's existence. This moment must capture the logical connection between thoughts exposed unclearly and motivations behind the making of a decision that have determined him to act.

Test your ability to know the complex nature of human psychology, integrating as originally as possible the most divergent aspects of reality into a set of deja-vu sensations induced by the condition of validity of beliefs and feelings that feed the Ego.

Do not forget that joys or defeats can be a challenging reaction to man's hardest attempt: committing a deviation from the duty to always be in the service of life and truth.

The manifestation of true human nature is a discharge of the psyche into an Ego promised to a space filled with anxiety, from the doubts of an existence that can no longer be fulfilled, no matter how many sacrifices you make.

The Tragedy of Poisons has as a first consideration the identification of behaviors, values, the beliefs that create the present state, but also of emotions generated by a consequence of actions that culminate in a final act of accusation.

The Trajectory Of A Bullet Lost In Uncertainty

Be aware of the consequence of a deep and subtle reasoning, so that your actions do not bring functional prejudice to those around you.

Time has stopped for a moment on the third floor. Only a fraction of a second, just enough to alert the police officers. But what is this unknown force, this foreign authority defined through the ratio of two dispersions, the most awful fear and the most pressing doubt, that enter in a short respiro before covering vertiginously the distance towards the exit?

The reactions occur at extremely high speeds, their intensification being determined by the awareness of some risk factors that lead to the occurrence of an ongoing phenomenon that doesn't seem to go beyond the limits of reason. The adrenaline is rising. And the anxiety state is blocked in the ON position, as if it were an order. Taken aback, all eyes stare at the elevator of terror. Electrons jump from a contradiction nucleus to another, coagulated with the sweat of one's brow, which activates at the border with the impossible.

The speed of this unknown force, whose maneuver power is directly proportional with the assumed risk can't be measured. Because its idleness can appear only following acceleration or breaking. And it can significantly grow following a concentration variation of a reactive component. Undecipherable, it seems to continuously manifest and transform based on the policemen's reaction time.

Leadership: Can you impose yourself in an unexpected situation with a great breakthrough that seems to take the minds of others by applying it to the study of various vital manifestations of creative potential?

One can notice the growing dimension of worries towards some maximum values, accentuating anxiety. Continuous struggles, like some sharp lashes, remain constant in the immediate proximity of the uncertainty area.

Hannibal Lecter maintains interest and tension up to the anticipated event, with the precision of a bullet that comes out of the riffle of a renowned hunter – the escape he sees because of the coherent fluidity of thought. Unexpectedly, the bullet breaks against the thin wall of feeble minds, producing a tension bordering chaos. This experience is the premeditate consequence of a deep and subtle reasoning. An overthrow of every certainty that populate reality. A part of an unending chain of causes and effects.

But the great art, the coup de grace that hits its target without nobody noticing the trajectory of its behavior, is the way in which Hannibal treats this experience under the most favorable aspect. Because, most often you need to help the facts a little bit so that they mix with fiction at the cover of a private intention. In this case, a discovery that seems to contradict some universally valid principles and laws can be invoked, one that has been expected, because it has the power to shake all the destinies in its path.

Contrary to Cervates' hero, Hannibal doesn't comply at all with the conditions and rules of chivalry, he doesn't give up willingly the advantages of ambiguities. Yet, he pleads in favor of an unprecedented achievement. Its transformation in an undefined shadow that no artist can catch in it graphic scheme, a shadow you have to mistake for reality.

Leadership: Do you oscillate between the extremes that can lead you to jump over the normal conventions universally accepted by a conscience of conventionality in the case of a trajectory of assimilation of practices that violate the principle of transparency?

What happens when the precision of intuition grows, or the excessive activity of imagination is exerted and you must choose more personality patterns – appropriate to the aimed objectives and corresponding from a functional point of view to the requirements of leadership?

In front of this situation, your leader status, initiated in the art of mass-manipulation, must be modified. Because if the functional dimension is doubled by a high suggestion capacity, intelligently accentuating the feeling of ambivalence, then people won't be able to decide what way to choose. Basically, they will be caught in the trap of incision and they won't be able to orientate their steps.

Just as between two or more items with the same functionality, an ordinary individual will choose the one that corresponds more with his esthetic taste, so will the leader, in its intent to offer an assertion possibility, choose between two or more moral and righteous alternatives that don't comply with the most demanding standards of leadership. This, only in the situation in which they don't simultaneously perform a movement in the opposite direction. Or, better said, when they don't perform a double movement with a very serious opening towards the unknown, towards the compromise that can alternate the achievement of the aimed objective.

The leader is obliged in these conditions, in the middle of a new controversy to keep in mind the positive perspective of its development – often subject to a closed trajectory. The psychic phenomenon that characterizes the leader in this case is not a sensitivity that allows him to adapt to the environment, but is caused by sudden plane changes related to the triggering of unforeseen events that accelerate those manifestations of will contrary to law.

In order to lead efficiently, he mustn't waver between the extremes that can't make him jump over the accepted normalcy, and the maneuvering power he possesses must be directly proportional with the assumed chance. Because a growth in influence towards some negative values that continue to raise the curiosity of every man trapped in leadership's framework, maintaining interest and tension until the anticipated event, can have repercussions on the leader's position.

Leadership: What personality can you hide behind a double that presents in a slightly different way the possibility of giving a defining check-mate to all who challenge authority?

The road to obtaining people's full acceptance is long and steep, especially if they continue to be situated in the immediate proximity of the uncertainty area. And this road may lead, from the first attempts to attain a double leadership valence, in the swirl of a well placed and well oriented curiosity towards a new approach of the influence process in limit situations, to a psychotic state of losing the sense of reality. Is this kind of maneuver, which gives leadership slight chances to be fully accepted, acceptable?

If you hide your personality behind a doppelganger that intervenes in the regulatory mechanism of influence with the purpose of saving the leadership match, due to the possibility of giving a defining chess to all those who contest your authority, actions, accomplishments or qualities, then all your initiatives will be regarded with suspicion.

Consequently, if you want to plead in favor of an unprecedented accomplishment and to transform yourself in an "undefined shadow" which corresponds to a relationship full of contradictions, you should also take into account the withdrawal of your position in the acceptance perimeter that your supporters are currently managing.

Authority, from the point of view of the unforeseen of a situation, seems to be a manifestation of will that places the individual at the limit between what is true and what is not, what is accepted and what is considered offensive to fairness.

The trajectory of a bullet lost in uncertainty points out the possibility that leadership could generate chaos, thus losing the notion of leadership into the abyss. A duplicitous wavering leader, but with a great suggestion capacity will generate disorientation among people. And in the end, distrust and chaotic actions.

The Trajectory Of A Celestial Body

Direct your thinking towards the development of an original creation that is fully in line with the provisions of the science delegated to clarify the elements of manifestation of future concepts.

For now the creation of director Eisenstein isn't streaming from a systematic thinking, from a precise conception about the art of entertainment. Directing begins to clarify the elements of a future concept. But every step brings after itself, organically, the next one and Eisenstein's becoming follows a clear, precise, almost calculable line, like the trajectory of a celestial body.

*If Parcele would have had an astronomic calculation service, he could have previously drawn the curve of the trajectory for Eisenstein's destiny. The biographer discovers the perfect geometry of the trajectory: the phenomena are chained as if they had a mathematical logic. And Eisenstein's initial question begins to have a clear answer. Every fact reflects over the next one, it determines it in a chain reaction – as Eisenstein would say today – whose mechanism is clearly unveiled. **

Leadership: Can you maneuver an output variable once with the power to understand refined intellectuals, so that your work to shape the virtue of an aesthetic subtlety?

It's said that every step brings with itself, organically, the next one and the becoming of the creator-leader follows a clear, precise, almost calculable line, just like the trajectory of a celestial body. Because the unbeatable perfection can't be withdrawn from he daily agenda of a huge scale evolution, but it continues to expand through new developments of scientific products, towards segments of users who answer favorably to these innovations.

The Great Science is the inspiration you find in a situation of life or in an imaginary world, reflected in a conception or own statement that must not go beyond the limits of others' understanding. Before joining the proximity of the great science, you must make up the parts of the plan to conclude an idea (first thought intuitively), then study it from all points of view, and its purpose must be supported by evidence and arguments to be taken in consideration by the world.

Stagecraft art gains aesthetic subtlety only when the dialogue between the visual experience and the reality representation favors the emergence of a form of finesse in the choice of decoration details, as well as a form of elegance in expressing the emotions experienced by the heroes of the story.

Are you determined to conceive a science that's rich in unknowns, full of intricate secrets? That would mean to activate a rejection option for those not qualified in the field. It's like you would urge someone to continuously climb 100 floors with a weight on their backs, forgetting that, at any moment, he can fall.

And yet, that's what the creators of new horizons do, they maneuver once with the power to understand refined intellectuals, an output variable, a scientific pattern of a certain nature, confirmed as scientific truth, with the purpose of directly and personally putting forward an idea, a project, a product or a service. Except the fact that their creation is addressed mainly to producers, distributors and "science" sellers, thus to those at the top of the knowledge pyramid.

With other words, your science has to melt with the logic of innovative judgments that could rise up to the level of an authentic creation, dominated by the high-intellectual-quality factor confirmed only by those truly skilled. And your work can take on the virtue of an art of esthetic subtlety when the ideas and elements that make up a particular theme are evaluated in a depersonalized way, decoupled from you (by the person who develops and shares them).

Leadership: In relation to the world, what meaning does a creator who is himself the product of an autonomous intellectual creation have?

Even if we understand the meaning of an authentic creation, streaming from the suggestive report between art, science, trend and culture, it is very difficult to see the "landscape" of abandoning everything beyond the essential dimension where the creator-leader evolves. It's hard to notice at the scholar-leader that "just as it is" in the interaction with science and its attributes – performance, excellence, competition.

Autonomous intellectual creation can be considered as a grand development from a "beginning" to a successful end in terms of guiding ideas to direct the evolution of certain concepts. And a come back to the beginnings of the research activity, turned into a fact by drafting a training schedule and developing an undeliverable product, placed at the service of the future, means a more theoretical knowledge, in the sense of opinion, a specific way to see the world through convictions and concepts.

What we can sense in an artist of transformations of ideas, results and methods, with a somewhat predilection for extreme quality, after he finalized the corresponding cycle for visualizing and developing ways of producing creation, is the trajectory of his professional career. With great difficulty we can only fathom and support his understanding regarding the world.

We can see this type of leader more in terms of some series of schemes and patterns, rebelling against a logical, elementary, systematic, uniform, regular thinking, trying to answer to unsolved questions and to solve the insoluble contradictions of art. But we can never guess the logic behind his reasoning, just as he can never detach from the "universe" he lives in.

Being the product of an autonomous intellectual creation means to assume your wandering destiny in the wonderful lands of science, with the risk of not taking into account the most important aspect of the self-improvement process: the balance between work and time off.

The Trajectory Of A Celestial Body targets the path covered by those who want and make an art out of science, glowing for a long time on the firmament of the future concepts of their own experience and reason.

The Trajectory Of A Wandering Mind

Permanently expand the limits of reality, through the visual representation of a fictional whole that will make the difference between the artistic composition and the narrative perspective that your life proposes.

From the sum of all the life experiences I have expressed in art, and so strongly impregnated in the composition of images of the "unforgettable event" type, designed to highlight the subject of an adventure with an exciting symbolic cipher, I extracted as from a single rotation of the visual field that fraction of a second that makes a memory become topical.

It is not an easy thing to create an art whose image, exposed to absolute subjectivism, meaning exposed to one eye and associated with an impressionistic, profound and enchanting picture, can encompass the ego in a physical organism through words. Even more difficult than that, I fixed the construction of this image on the horizon of aesthetic sensitivity, having as reference the abstract plane of some deep meanings included in a figurative, superficial plane.

My art itself, subtle, modern, obtained through a transcendence of everyday life, appeared to me as a relay of Divinity, providing me with convincing travel images, with an amazing and complex perspective structure. Including the use of several arts put together, this art – for which it is not possible to apply the stamp of the visual arts – I strongly imagined it as an opportunity to interpret an image of waiting and meeting a Tachyaruvis(formulating a virtual representation of a fictitious whole).

Leadership: Does the creation you identify with best convey the suggestion of a true representation of the image with which you extend the boundaries of reality, in association with the concept of "You must constantly remind yourself in a picture"?

I would say, in fact, that my art opens before the ideal of the star illuminating the universe through an image that refers to a mysterious, fascinating or distressing "beyond", a seal of an existence that refuses the curious gaze of the passer-by and closes per se. An image that can be interpreted in various distinct ways, easily engraved in the memory of time, taking as an example the unique feelings of an artist who uses a brush to decorate a white canvas on the reality of a closed world marked by darkness.

Yes. It is a rarity to recognize yourself as an artist in every circumstance of life, taking as a point of reference a kind of reality outside the Self that seems to make you think of the novel "Piranesi" by Susanna Clarke. Here the Italian architect Giovanni Battista Piranesi seemed to be motivated exclusively by world research:

"I am determined to explore as much of the world as I can during my lifetime. For this purpose I traveled to the Nineteenth Hundred and Sixty-ninth Hall to the West, the Eight Hundred and Nineteenth Hall to the North, and the Seven Hundred and Sixty-Eighth Hall to the South. I went up to the Upper Halls where the Clouds move in a slow procession and the Statues suddenly appear from the Mists. We explored the Flooded Halls where the Dark Waters are strewn with white water lilies. I saw the Ruined Halls to the East, where the Ceilings, the Floors – sometimes even the Walls – collapsed, and where the darkness was broken by columns of gray light."

This confirms my creative choices. In every moment of my art, in order to bring as rich connotative fruits as possible, I had to prove that the whole course of my life follows the trajectory of a wandering mind that tangles through the corridors of a multi-universe of forms that synthetically express unimaginable human experiences, flying over parallel universes, in search of a utopian world. But I did not give up claiming that they are also possible...

One concept that can be applied in leadership is this: only those who know how to build a representation proposed by imagination will be able to capture the wonderful details of an autonomous image called: "augmented reality".

The Trajectory Of A Wandering Mind is the path taken by an artist in search of inspiration, even if the mind goes beyond what the eyes can see. Of course, I've been a revolutionary for as long as I've known myself, especially artistically. I opposed time, I opposed the norms and structures established by the accepted normal, and that turned me into someone who is always looking for something new, nonconformist...

The Transfiguration Of The Universe

Respect the principles and elements on which the order of gravitations in the moral and material world depend on so that supreme justice not interfere in your evolution.

"Was it possible for Napoleon to win the battle? We answered, no. Why? Because of Wellington? Blucher? Nu. But because it was not right under the law of the nineteenth century for Napoleon to be victorious at Waterloo. A new series of events was underway in which Napoleon had no place in. The malevolence of the events was long foretold. The time had come for this giant to fall.

This man hanged to heavily in the balance of destiny and it ruined its balance. He was but one man and yet he outweighed the entire world put together. If the abundance of human vitality, gathered in one head, and put into the mind of one man, would've lasted too long, civilization would've crumbled. The time had come for supreme and inexorable justice to intervene.

Perhaps the very principles and elements on which the order of gravitations in the moral and material world depend on, has complained. The blood the fogs up the air, the overloaded cemeteries and the mothers with tears in their eyes are the most feared accusers. And when the earth suffers because it is overburdened, out of the shadows, the mysterious moans chaos can hear are born.

*Eternity held Napoleon accountable and his downfall was determined. He embarrassed God. Waterloo wasn't a battle, but the transfiguration of the universe. That day was fated by a force above man."*****

Leadership: What is the logarithm of the ration between what you send after receiving confirmation of your value and what you were before?

Always the man who wants to live in style, permeated by the scent of a feeling still ignoring or seeking to discern itself, if he wakes up overnight in the middle of a long, straight road, he will have faith that this new way forward will guarantee access to the infrastructure of a new order. The use of which is subject to charges borne directly by others. Basically, this man starts from scratch in a new phase of accumulation of a "causative" knowledge, matching his vision and his model of personality.

But this new phase that revolves around leadership is not always based on the reconstruction of inner meanings of equilibrium, enrollment and fulfillment, so by using a deep and heightened knowledge. But often on the non-appliance of the unanimously accepted norms of society, subliminal perceptions of the status and role, between "what is" and "what should be" reality, between efforts and expected values.

Napoleon gave in to his own ignorance, then became the slave of megalomania. His logarithm was the superfluity of vitality gathered in one direction: egocentrism. If we look upon a mirroring or a reflection of others in the consciousness of such a man, we cannot sense any vibration, no spiritual note. Within him boots no moral obligation. Decoupling from the collective mental pipeline is total.

The futility of human vitality never has as a finality that miracle of the "right moment" or the "right time", quite the contrary, it is interwoven with the gravity of the character on a path of vanity: the leader becomes the victim of his own decisions, the victim of his own megalomania.

Such a man, flaming from the relations between what gives his life meaning and what goes on around him, rarely will appeal to a flick of humanity and wisdom from all those who have a certain responsibility in the situations that he himself creates.

And from such a man, devoid of content, we cannot ask for an inner reflection over the exterior space spontaneously, but rather we have to work at the level of his consciousness if we want to integrate some guidance points in the much too numerous line of concerns regarding the optimization of the functioning parameters of leadership. Such as shame, guilt, apathy, pain, fear, kindness, acceptance, reason, love, joy, pace and enlightenment.

The logarithm of the ration between that which you convey at the level of consciousness, between the exterior and the interior, materially and morally, after receiving confirmation of your professional value, is the power to which you must raise your spiritual condition so that you may obtain an unlimited number of social gains.

Leadership is the result of a causal justice that often eludes us, when we get to consider ourselves much too important for the promise of a life that can meet its end at any given time.

There is a concept in sales that also applies to leadership. The client that intends to buy a service wants it at the lowest price, whereas the bidder wants to sell it at the highest price. As a leader, the price you pay for ignoring the "price" signals of others, because you have positioned yourself outside of the accepted norms, embracing radical doctrines, will comply to the prerequisites approved by that higher court, called "fatality", the fierce heavenly hand of Providence.

Didn't Victor Hugo say: "Of such nature are these gigantic events, to the extent of an infinity that eludes us"? This extent gives the results that no man can imagine, until they experience it with their own skin and their own soul. The status gained being obtained to the detriment of his evolution in time and space.

The moment when the supreme justice intervenes in the life of man, is the moment when man transforms from a mere ordinary mortal – into a mortal who denies his sense of life and wealth.

The Transfiguration Of The Universe draws attention to the consequences that result from placing leadership in a misunderstood and unaccepted extreme by those you want as your companions in achieving common goals. Or it may be a perplexing oscillation between extremes and causes the loss of a significant percentage of supporters.

Only by appropriately applying the principles and constituent elements of a performing leadership, only by respecting the harmony of quantitative and qualitative aspects of a function dependent on time, e.g. "Serve and Support Others", will you be able to gather together the science, technique, values, beliefs and art that give a certain "aura" to craftsmanship.

The Transformation Of Perception Through Directorial Art

The influence of a work of art is evident in the way it transforms the viewer's perception of the surrounding reality.

Contact with German expressionist film was frequently shown in Moscow. The Russian director, Sergei Eisenstein sees these films and it is impossible not to have watched them with passion. All the more so since, as means of expression, he often encountered here what he had rudimentarily tried in the theater.

He would later declare that the expressionist film barely left any traces in the art of the young Soviet filmmakers, therefore also in his own. But he immediately added, perhaps without realizing the connection that could be made, that even the Moscow technical conditions did not allow the realization of these "phantasmagorias". However, the expressionist influence on Eisenstein's work is obvious. We are convinced that the German films he saw at that time had a definite role in his cinematic formation, even if later, for one reason or another, he disowned this influence.

Leadership: Can the power of your creation change the viewers' perception of reality, so as to ensure the desired visual coherence and impact on a wider area of artistic autonomy?

The process of transforming the viewer's perception of reality through cinematographic art involves a series of rigorous artistic stages, aimed at ensuring the quality of the final work. The influence of expressionist film is essential to maintain the standards of artistic production. In every phase of filmmaking, advanced techniques and well-established procedures are used. From initial conception to shooting to final editing, every step is monitored and adjusted to optimize expressiveness and reduce inconsistencies.

Movies, as works of art, have the power to deeply influence the viewer's perception of the surrounding reality. The technical and stylistic influence of German Expressionism, for example, is evident in the use of shadows, strong contrasts and unusual camera angles, all of which help to create a distinct atmosphere. In this context, even under limited technical conditions, artistic genius always finds a way to express itself and influence future generations.

In the harshest conditions, artistic genius always finds a way to express itself and influence future generations.

Also, these artistic stages are not unlike the rigors of an industrial manufacturing process, where quality control and attention to detail are crucial. In cinema, every scene and every frame is subjected to strict quality control to ensure narrative coherence and the desired visual impact. Thus, films become not only works of entertainment, but also tools for transforming the perception of reality through their technical and artistic influences. It demonstrates how technical conditions and cultural influences contribute to the formation of artistic vision, just as industrial processes ensure the quality and efficiency of finished products.

A director's artistic sensibility can amplify vulnerability and connection with reality, thus revealing a work that transcends the immediate through expressionist vision.

The transformation of perception through the directorial art reflects how visual and aesthetic experiences can redefine a person's view of the world, so that each frame becomes a gateway to a new understanding of reality. Let's also not forget that a creator's empathic intuition can strengthen the capacity for deep understanding and connection with authentic circumstances, thus revealing an approach that transcends the superficial through its distinct perspective.

The Transformation Of Static Energies Into Artistic Dynamism

True autonomy is expressed when you refuse artificial comfort and stay true to your values, demonstrating your strength to keep a simple and authentic life, even when social norms suggest otherwise.

After Degas had turned seventy years old, the doctor thought that the air in the studio was not enough for him.

"You have to force yourself to go outside, and then you'll have fun."

"Okay, honey, what if I'm bored to have fun?"

But it didn't matter, if the doctors said so! Degas decided to take some air; what he called "getting air" was getting into the nearest omnibus and, when he reached the head of the line, getting into another omnibus and then a third.

You can imagine, knowing Degas' antipathy for flowers, to what extent these omnibus rides were unbearable for him on Sundays in the summer, taking into account the "fury" with which Parisians bring bouquets of flowers from the countryside. In those days, Degas made his "hygienic promenade" among lilac and rose bushes.

He was telling me one day how much he enjoyed a ride in the country, in an open car; what fresh air you breathe, mr degas, i couldn't stop asking him, why don't you have a car?

He looked at me with astonishment, in which one could see a little annoyance:

- Should I buy a car? Do you want to see an artist walking in the "crew"?...

Personal authenticity is manifested in the ability to maintain your preferences and lifestyle, even in the face of well-intentioned advice.

Sometimes what others consider recreational or necessary for health may be felt by an individual as an unpleasant obligation without personal meaning, depending on their own preferences and perceptions. Each person has their own definition of comfort and relaxation. Something imposed from the outside may seem meaningless to someone who does not share the same vision.

Substitution reactions in an artist's workshop are fundamental processes in the chemistry of creation because they enable the transformation of static energies into artistic dynamism. In these spontaneous or rather deliberate reactions, a dram of boredom from a routine day is replaced by a spark of inspiration, thus facilitating the creative process. It is good to put work aside and rest, so that health is not affected. The rest schedule and the nature of the promenade, as a kind of final hygienic measures, depend on several factors, including the structure of the body that the artist has. Fresh air substitution, for example, involves inhaling energy-rich substances over a center of artistic lethargy.

These reactions can develop states of fun or boredom, depending on the reaction conditions and the nature of the environment - be it natural or personal car. Fresh air or the smell of flowers can catalyze or inhibit the creative process, depending on the artist's affinity for the elements of nature. Walks, although sometimes unbearable due to the saturation of social noise, are essential for maintaining the chemical balance of creation, because the mental and physical health of the artist is crucial.

Refusal to conform can be an expression of artistic integrity, just as Degas rejected the idea of owning a car to preserve his identity.

Something imposed from the outside may seem meaningless to someone who does not share the same vision as you. The idea is that maintaining personal values in the face of external pressures can lead to unique and authentic experiences, even in seemingly mundane situations. The essence of leadership lies in finding the balance between personal needs and the expectations of others, just as Degas found a way to "take air" without compromising his preferences.

Let me put it another way. The creative workshop, like a combustion chamber of inspiration, is where the artist injects his ideas and ignites them with passion. The artistic process begins in this intimate space, where the imagination doctor prescribes fresh air to optimize creative performance. The rapid expansion of the resulting thoughts pushes the artist on a hygienic promenade through everyday life, turning the crankshaft of his unique perception.

This rotating movement of inspiration is then transmitted to various components of his work, allowing art to function in society. The efficiency of the creative process is crucial to the overall performance and consumption of artistic energy. Artists are constantly working to optimize their interior design and operation, improving emotion compression, idea distribution, and boredom control. Whether using the urban omnibus or a car of the imagination, they seek to transform the fuel of experience into the mechanical energy of creation, even if they sometimes find social conventions unbearable, such as the obsession with flowers on Sunday walks.

Leadership sometimes involves going against the grain, refusing conformity, like Degas who rejected the idea of owning a car to preserve his identity as an artist.

Transforming static energies into artistic dynamism is possible when you allow yourself to explore creative freedom, because only then can you access new sources of inspiration in a deep and personal way. I say this because the creative act comes not only from technique, but also from the ability to channel inner energy into a form of authentic expression that transcends conventional boundaries.

The Transmutation Of Elements And Great Deeds

Expand your mind's parameters, seeking to assign an integral, complex, and of acute suggestiveness meaning to your discoveries.

Everything from the real had to be collected in a universal container, containing a volume of a large magma ocean, in an exchange of interactions contained in the potential of the force deployed between burning and spending. Important was the explosion caused by the eruption of fire in order for the discovery to be made to have the configuration of a life dedicated to art, in order to reach a mastery understood as an aspiration for the victory of a new value system over the level of fulfillment in life.

Undoubtedly, a future science will discover these unknown relationships, between the connecting routes that define the energy radiation intensity's value and the chemical composition of the incandescent matter from which the art of transmutation of undifferentiated elements is created. Meaning, creative power. The world will need an atlas of the matter composed of volatile, sublimable or flammable substances, an encyclopedia of its structure and load with the potential to act, leading towards that mysterious source of the boundless that turns science into a work of higher intelligence.

I never for a moment forgot what Gargantua told his son in François Rabelais's work:

"Son, I would advise you to use the years of your youth with the diligence of the most chosen teaching, constantly strengthening your powers of mind and soul. Let there be no chronicle that you do not know by any means and thoroughly research all that is written in the cosmography of the scholars who have performed this science."

Leadership: Is your intervention appropriate in the creative activity whereby all misunderstandings are transformed into greater misunderstandings, in the sense of tracing a new access road to the mysteries of an ancient science capable of offering new perspectives for interpreting the Great Work?

The incomprehensible is the capturing in a concrete form of a reality that is understood in several sequences of time, through different unitary operations, only by the artists who know how to decipher some of the mysteries of the universe, translated by suggestive expressions, but covered with multiple meanings. The great work is the art of experiencing these meanings from the depths of things, as a gift from God, as well as a time when God justifies himself for the sufferings he has tolerated since the beginning of the world.

Remember what Heinrich Cornelius Agrippa said: "Jesus Christ himself, as long as he lived on Earth, spoke in such a way that only the closest disciples understood the mystery of the word of God, while the others understood only the parables. Therefore, it is not likely that those secret things, held by a few wise men and transmitted from mouth to mouth, should be written for ordinary people. That is why I beg your forgiveness if I will conceal much and many important things..."

I'm afraid we'll have to make available to the world, by hardening our necks to come up with other formulas of extracting the "black sun" from the sulfide ores, various meanings that will give birth to new logic and reason. So, let's get acquainted with this ability to extract Bet information that allows us to direct all of our resources, available only through catalysis and transmutation, towards the philosophy of science.

Leadership: Is the science to which belongs the area of interpretation of the Great Work included in the acceptability function of the hidden, in the particular desire to assert your thoughtful existence, full of diversity and significance?

Science, in the face of the momentum belonging to a magical power concentrated into a single explosive second, allotting a percentage of the exploitation of what exists in nature, in a free state or in combinations, often behaves like a fireball that crosses the sky for a few minutes and then collapses. How many will be able to integrate the cosmos, science, the elements, and all natural phenomena in an artistic endeavor?

An original person, one who makes bold combinations, rejects a multitude of visibilities because they would jam the commonly accepted reasoning. But they always take into account the hidden from which emanates all that exists in any form and which in its essence remains variable everywhere.

The Hidden is the conception of a perfection that has not yet been experience, creating great difficulty for the creative mind that keeps struggling like a butterfly in the night to enter a reality that only the dream can make bearable.

Christopher Columbus sought a sea route to India, and by the end of his life he was convinced that he hadn't reached the new continent, but somewhere close to the mouth of Ganges. He never realized the importance of a colossal discovery, because his science wasn't included in the acceptability function of the hidden – and only through this germinator could be ensured the creation of expectation and understanding that complete action and perfect it.

Perhaps the great conquistador's philosophy was implemented deep in a mentality that implies a certain reluctance in accepting the fact that hidden things are stronger than those unhidden. He didn't rid himself of the tendency of believing in something apparently superior to his perspectives, he didn't free himself from that authority of excessive wear established by the degree of tolerability to what was suiting for him to understand.

The popularization of science is achieved by emphasizing the smallest affective and introspective nuances behind the incomprehensibility and ineffability of the mystery of God.

Do you know why a magician always receives his well-deserved applause? Because the highlight of the show is an illusion, a hallucinating effect, a perfection that creates great difficulty for the mind of the spectator. You don't know how the trick was done, you don't know how to apply it, you don't know how it works, you can't copy it. But its effect rises and intensifies your gaze, its positive state, its desire to decipher the thinking mechanism behind the settlement of things, giving you the impression that you are experiencing another reality, in an advanced phase of symbolic structuring, as in a conversation about advanced physics.

Basically, he didn't deepen a mystery that reveals itself bit by bit, always where the darkness is at its deepest, a fact which demonstrates his connections with a reality experienced as a side effect. He didn't understand the significance and uniqueness of the discovery, because for him, the notion of "incomprehensible" wasn't defined as an opportunity to shift to a different level of knowledge. His journey not representing anything other than a means of achieving a major goal, but yet, without giving him an adage of suggestiveness, authenticity, and relevance.

Trusting only his temporary defined horizon, he attributed the necessary meaning and significance to a new beginning, to a new positioning, to a certain set-up. The meaning you give to reality is directly proportional to the value you give to your discoveries. Do you take into account the hidden from which emanates all that exists in any form and which in its essence remains variable everywhere?

Columbus showed a leadership that doesn't spread its area of action over the entirety which also shelters the "hidden", and not only the known. He wasn't fueled by that science through which are discovered the relationships between unknowns that can be exploited and transformed into success stories, in treasures of great price, into an instrument of assessing the significance of the act of discovery.

He limited himself to signaling only the existence of a geographical area, but wasn't supported by the existence of a certain understanding that would support his cause, the effects of the discovery.

The evolution of things is meant to prove, to the slightest hint, in all the long-standing phenomena, that nothing remains hidden, and that everything is the result of a revelation gained by the expectation that arouses the journey itself to the joy of discovery.

The Transmutation Of Elements And Great Deeds has a common point of determining the "hidden" and the deepening of what is only believed to be, but is not known with certainty. Writer Daniel R Castro was right when he said: "people tend to see only the thing they're focusing on, and not what is actually there".

The hidden can be determined only through the dimensions and meanings it carries. And great deeds can transform into a great lesson of leadership if you see them as a tendency of expressing what is omitted.

The Traps Of Deception

On December 21, 2015

Get yourself cleansed from the impurities of the all-knowing man and make it shine in a way that you can make sense of your inner evolution.

I want to express in an innovative way the relationship of the limited with the infinite, represented by a number π, probably a moral law out of the realm of thinking extracted from the thinking of a titan from a high realm of science. But only I know what I'm saying, nobody understands me. Only the leaf that falls behind me, in the lows of the late autumn wind, which I cannot catch on, can cancel out the effect of profound deception.

Science is the most powerful spring of domination over learning, devoted to the ideal of encompassing everything, from every breeze, to the highest wave of a tsunami, exposed to the invasion of imagination that we can call "divine". But no one is able to build the foundation of truth besides God. A mortal will never be able to reconstitute the whole of the shards. If anyone finds his whole mirror in the shards, he will be a Saint !

In the old days, if a man was struck by lightning and did not die, he was buried in the earth to drain all of his electricity. During this time, he was not allowed to sleep because he would have died immediately. His heart would have weakened...

By my presence between these lines, substituted for a journey that brings victories to the determination to experiment experimentally with this world, I want to announce that no, I have not died. But I woke up from a sleep of eternity, of infinite errors, of deceptive science.

Now, I am no longer animated by anything when it comes to knowing the unknown and determining it on the axis of evolution when it comes to this obligation of conformation – to the imperatives of the court called research – to the requirements of a life close to my relationship with the world and its borders.

Leadership: Do you have to move away from the great science gate to strengthen your domination over self-esteem?

The possessive action on scientific discoveries, influenced by the inner state of the individual, stimulates the possibility of restoring that supremacy of support to the optimization of the balance of its personality – which is still imperfect.

At the same time, the action of applying laws for the creation of a scientific whole that would fulfill it on a deeper subject, covering its own void – due to the incompleteness of getting from the position of spectator to the participant in evolution, is put at his fingertips to defend his state of mind that makes him feel important and superior.

Leadership is shaped by the extent of the strengthening of domination over self-esteem, which can only be achieved by weighing the desire to be superior. Which sometimes involves removing the gate of great science. Deceptive is the science that lets you know phenomena and technologies, but it does not allow you to understand yourself.

Personal development depends on the image you make especially when there is a consistency between knowledge possession and self-esteem that comes through social, emotional and conditional aspects of life. Possession of knowledge can become the cause of a disturbance of consciousness, offering delusive motivations to live and to relate to the world.

Knowing how to identify and express what you think is to plead in favor of an experience of finding the truths that make possible the compromise between self-image and the scientific whole you represent.

Into The Traps of Deception fall all people who have reached a very high level of knowledge. But the extraordinary leader is not a slave of science. He conforms to the status of a person responsible for their own revocation or for their own progress, will always creed, as a concentrated expression of faith in his own good: "I cannot exist without me."

The Treasure That Follows Its Owner Everywhere

The image with which you satisfy your soul is the image with which you present yourself to the world.

Teaching paved the way for my assertion in art, responding to the strong passions that delighted my soul, more than the sum of all the other activities that only had to be done for decoration. Now, she seems like a dew for the soul, a force to overcome the difficult moments in life, the sublime manifestation of a latent energy that does not lose its continuity in the relations between people and nature and everything around me. True teaching has as its pivot the very direction of the relationship between separate, decontextualized objects, but from which the accidental, incoherence can be eliminated.

And I never regretted that I bought at a good price (in relation to what it offers) this travel ticket to the future, towards change and innovation, especially because I saw change as a moment of supreme emancipation. On top of that, the simplicity and truthfulness with which I managed to present my art in light and shadow, with qualities of plasticity and suppleness, in the form of a faithful illustration of the reason that guided my spiritual dimension, were easily elevated to the rank of principles of design. It is the same principle of my identification with the Great Work.

Not everyone achieves the performance of relating to a moving, immortal whole, in a state of continuous development and expansion, a whole that challenges you to discover yourself while rediscovering the space in which you live. The same whole, defining by its presence the elements of a mysterious picture in which are met both visual images and numerous metaphors carefully selected, covers everything with that pure, living, stimulating energy, which can only be found in nature.

Leadership: What could you add to the picture of an existence that oscillates between the illusion of a normalcy that is almost forgotten by the great ones, and the production of a reality that uses matter and transfigures it?

Not everyone is willing to turn a blade of grass into a design based on a holistic vision, tailored to a broader and more serious theme, such as that holy language that "binds people to the land through blood". Likewise, not everyone manages to move literally and figuratively, in a conquering poetic symbolism, through an overflowing psychological realism, the spectacle of an ordinary life in a book of great value that can provoke, sustain and even change perspective related to the way in which the geometry of an image that is repeated in different moments of other lives is thought of for the future.

Even on a fictional level, I follow the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "What seems like the shadow of the night in one mind turns into a swallow's dress in the other mind."

It is also the reason why surrealism, narrative insertions and aesthetics bordering on fiction, have taken on a well-defined face in my writings capable of making use of plastic representations. To the same extent, the interaction between the aesthetic ideal, the aesthetic judgment, the feelings and beliefs of aesthetics, still form the whole of my teaching.

Yes. Knowledge of art is the image with which I like to describe myself on the paths of the soul. But here is another reason why the great teaching, with its enigmas contained in a bold, poetic, conquering symbolism, described as a kind of Trinitarian vision. Without triggering a fantastic flight from reality, it can be achieved only by the few, not by the many, by the truly deserving, not by upstarts or those set to it. The following words, written by Gian Paolo Lomazzo many centuries ago, are telling in this regard.

Leadership: Is your own art able to assist you in the sublime manifestation of an image that pursues your potential that is worth cultivating continuously, without falling into despair or the ridicule of "not doing well"?

"Neither the continual endeavors, nor the long study, nor the sharpness of the mind, nor the thorough readings or theology lessons, nor the help of astrology, nor the geometric figures or the rays of perspective, nor the resemblances to music, nor the arithmetic proportions, architectural elevations, modeling or historical testimonies poetic inventions, nor examples of anatomy, nor understanding of feelings, finally, nor philosophical knowledge or demonstrations will be able to make a man who was not born to be a painter ever attain some mastery in this art, if not endowed from conception with the gift of invention and the grace of painting.

For he alone binds and unites between them with unspeakable grace all the things mentioned above, the one who has this gift from birth. And, on the contrary, he who is born without this gift, no matter how much he may be respected in the profession for his craft and teaching, will never succeed in his works to get rid of that lack of grace which makes them unbearable to all who look upon them. How true this is for both some and for others, it is clear to those who, not being born to be painters, start working and learning imitating the manners of others, those who I cannot catch up too no matter what, not even by far.

While the others, who seem to have been born and made for painting, combining the innate grace and qualities with some teaching and knowledge of the disciplines mentioned, fully succeed in everything they want to do, albeit in different ways, according to their talent, as I have shown before."

The teaching that honors leadership is this: He who has within himself the faith called science, will make of everything an extension of thought which only art brings to human evolution.

The Treasure That Follows Its Owner Everywhere is that teaching that has been known to Enoch since ancient times, seeking to make his way among the multitude of boulders that imitate natural stone, but will never be able to rise to the rank of diamond. Great science is the compass of a vision that never ceases to reinvent itself.

Even now I feel guilty for not bringing my own art to that level of perfection where criticism becomes impiety, but where the good soul becomes the bearer of artistic qualities: expressiveness, depth and sensitivity. What gives me, however, a hope (which warms my painting in a space of literary expressiveness), making my qualities charged with the tension of creative ideas, is that combining my grace with deep knowledge in other fields, I managed to bring a science called leadership to the rank of art.

The Triumph Of Great People

On April 05, 2020

All that greatness needs is a drop of initiative, a proof of colossal ambition and a meaningful dream to manifest itself as a guarantee of the soul's immortality.

I recently saw on discovery a documentary about the pyramid of Khufu (Kheops). Thousands of people worked hard on this huge building. All possible ranks and specializations were involved, from architects to chefs. And it is said of Khufu that he was a very fierce leader, but a dreamer full of ideals and a very good organizer. The degree of his responsibility was directly proportional to the greatness of his dream, a dream that seemed to adorn the great sanctuary of the gods.

One thing is certain. Nearly 5,000 years have passed since the pyramid was completed, years that have passed so quickly for the great history of the world. And no one remembers the army of people who worked hard to build it. Of the tens of thousands of workers who contributed to the ancient construction, history does not remember a single one.

However, the pyramid still stands today, no one can challenge its resistance, no one can erase its image, and time cannot erase its wrinkles from the stone blocks. History still resonates with the name of Khufu, as great as that of an almighty god, as when you feel a call from another dimension of time and walk the steps of this time for a long time.

So, here's the conclusion: history does not care about those who work hard, it is not interested in whether you are good or bad, but keeps in immortality the one who has a great idea and leads it to materialization. Grand people have great ideas, and by their greatness they become immortal, because immortality likes to put aside only the hard material from which a great idea is molded and idealized.

Leadership: Does the whole perspective of your existence make possible that sparkle of a creator that is reflected in the phenomenon of visionary inspiration called to defend the glory of a materialization that leads the Essence towards Everything?

And look at the people who daily increase their fortunes, or covet fleeting pleasures. They get sick, die, and leave nothing behind. Many are proud of their intellectual desires, but only impressions and pride flow into their personalities. The Covid-19 virus completely silences them, as if without the virus they had something important to say or do. They leave nothing behind them anyway. Nothing great. Because they have nothing great in themselves...

When Galileo Galilei uttered the expression Eppur si muove("And yet it spins"), during the Inquisition, he did not show any impressive fortune, he did not shine under the waste of gold and jewels. But it has given an unprecedented boost to scientists, who have contributed even more to the progress of mankind. He was great in his courage to take science one step further in times when science was rejected. All that greatness needs is a drop of initiative, a proof of colossal ambition and a meaningful dream to manifest itself as a guarantee of the soul's immortality.

And when Jesus said, "Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will remain", he gained immortality by this phrase alone. He didn't need a fortune for that. He did not need any leadership position to lay the foundations of a religion that dominates the world today. He was great because he was right about his words. The total madness of greatness consists in the subtle definition of an ideal of thought, embraced by true love, which you must attain before declaring yourself a saint.

History teaches us to be immortal, not mere mortals. And for that, we have to learn to be great. This is what history needs in recounting certain unforgettable episodes: the ability to idealize a creative movement and creators to push the world to a higher level of development. And the glory of a materialization that leads the Essence to Everything refers to man's attempt to rise to the status of Creator by initiating a small change that can have a major impact on the evolution of the world.

The satisfaction of being a partaker of the total triumph of greatness must abide by that law imprinted by the Creator in the soul of every human being: "Everything that you leave good behind you remains inscribed in eternity."

The Triumph Of Great People can be achieved through the full involvement of people in stable projects for the future that test the equation of eternity: "Everything that changes positively in this world is felt in another world that only the deserving are allowed to know."

The True Happiness Of A Virtuous Being

Go wherever you want, but, still, return to yourself.

It was an exceptional circumstance, as an enigma that instead of resolving itself, it tangles more and more. From which, with a lot of thoughtfulness, I won at least two points of view: first, the meaning of true belief became for me, all of a sudden, directly accessible. The Beta factor of the circumstance I was in, giving me the opportunity to experience a riddle within a riddle of great exceptionalism, could be associated with the symbolic space of memory and continuity of life.

Secondly, the motives that stood behind this initiative of resurrecting a consistent part of me, aiming at learning an implied knowledge, of which a writer such like John Fowles would call "a braid of effects that wastes no time to appear", led to the selection of chosen alternatives of untold things which – even now – await clarification. This was a good introduction to the aesthetic of a new literary formula.

It was as if I were someone else, the image of a character from Umberto Eco's novels, looking for an understanding of things where no one else looks. Always, the man anchored in profound states of presence that make up in a metonymic sense the intimate tissue della sua parte vivente, in a search for God with his heart, guides himself on the imperative formulated by Heraclitus: "may you have the capacity of knowing that which governs all things through the intercession of all things."

Leadership: Can you present the image of a particular world through the initiative of being part of a creation that can suggest the elements needed to release you from the power and fears of your ego?

That rational source determined by realistic forces, inscribed in an evolutionary circle of which opposing angles are not congruent, succeeds in returning to normal, in a manner discordant to the expected one, its level of functioning. Simultaneously with the rising of the spirit to the Creator. The only chapter where it cannot quantify its progress, where it cannot manifest itself as a unitary whole, is where it cannot become accessible.

The image of a particular world determined by the particularities of a writing creation, meant to highlight the imaginative function of an Ego comprised of the uncertainty of a change of attitude and mentality, is the creation of an artist who matures beautifully, who is no longer seduced by models and transient currents. He has found a vision, but for now he can feed it only with feeling and with thought.

Thus, observe my life-time febrile concern, that of clearing up the unknown, as a seeker of hidden truths, examining my existence in the absolutely free game with the consciousness, with my own releases, with my own unique sensibilities, in order to understand my essential traits and the role of a personality in the life of a Faust battling Mephistopheles. Guiding myself after clues known only to me, hidden in the saying "go wherever you want, but, still, return to yourself".

For a prolonged period of time, avidly consuming the immense diversions of all dominant denials and acceptances, in the light of a multipolar selection of the actives of my reality, entered into a synergistic movement, I felt that powerful spell of the forbidden Fruit ever more helplessly, hidden in the scattered traces of the lost wisdom. My life was a reflexive painting fitted by psychology with a striking unity of the type: Blacklist.

Leadership: Do you try to launch your model of leadership as a revelation of a special valence of your personality, living under the control of Ego which asks you to do proof of knowledge beyond your understanding?

I read in an old magazine the other day the short characterization of the famous Don Quixote figure:

"One of the features that make Cervantes' hero fascinating is that, even if he is often sane, he is never completely crazy. Even in moments of madness, he always retains of a good dose of common sense and harmony. Therefore, the knight errant, apart from times in which caste fate is at stake, can be considered a model under the sign of reason, thorough discussion and the search for truth."

A man of this kind, who finds himself in the position of seeker-discoverer, who subjugates his readers through his life story, measures his certainty of subtle things with the same precision a chemist measures his chemical reactions. Subjected to his own knowledge of lack of knowledge, in the case of a logic that escapes the normal mind, he approaches a state of pure critical intelligence, between heartbeats and the contraction of his moral representations. But not knowing the moment in which the buds of his philosophy will bloom altogether and will be transformed into wisdom.

You can create the idea of a virtuous being, by extending self-knowledge to a superior level, in the position of a seeker of hidden truths, when you try to clarify the unknown – all those ways of seeing things that test your limits. When you examine your existence in the absolutely free game with consciousness, with your own releases, with your own unique sensibilities.

The ego is the demand of reality to see another, in that what defines you as a being defines you as a puzzle of perspectives that interprets reality on other coordinates.

And in this regard, the true thoroughness, which is guided by the idea of man being a rational source determined by realistic forces, but at the same time a hidden form of what he is in reality, contributes to the estimation of his own way of projecting himself in the consciousness of the outside world from the position of a validation of his authenticity. Which if not respected draws absolute nullity with itself.

The way in which you manifest your sensitivity, your febrile concern, that of you clarifying the unknown, as a seeker of hidden truths, could influence the correct assumption of identity through the fact that you are not acting directly over that which happens to you, but rather act indirectly over what you represent in your life after you understand your way of functioning.

The will to conquer a new consciousness, a shift towards selfless self-gratification, focused on the dynamic aspirations of the logic of nature and character traits through which people differ from one another, is one link in the endless chain of leadership which makes the transition from an undeveloped stage to an advanced stage.

The man who tries to launch his model of leadership as a revelation of an unknown facet of his personality, is the man who wants to have direct control over what happens to him when he puts the essence of what he is to reason. When he experiments with states of mind already experienced. And manages to attribute particular significance to them.

Leadership is the imagined world of the creator, having the advantage of not being his own creation, but an existing creation within a world that wants more than a reality, wants to be the product of a contradicted Ego.

The True Happiness Of A Virtuous Being lies in self-knowledge and in the image you make of yourself. Even when you're away from your own being, even in moments of lunacy, you will always hear that ghostly echo of a deeper world that dictates you what to do, what to believe, it inoculates you with values and always shows you how to be, actively contributing to achieving a quality life.

The True Masterpiece Of Art

On March 26, 2017

Measure your passion for leadership, demonstrating that the ambition of immediate knowledge of a final effect serves as a starting point for the confirmation of a new revelation.

I thought of everything and I would think up everything within the meanings of a work of art of an unknown author. In each stage of the question filled anxiety, which calculates its troubled accents depending on the idea revealed by the evolutionary trends of the sickness, everything challenged by the adamant destiny, a new dimension of the idea of form, order, sorting, was brought forth.

Secretly, challenged by the great size of the mistake and remorse, within me bloomed frustration, as a sort of burning of the sense of obligation, close to the world of Dostoevsky's characters, a state so passionate, so feverish, to which only the apocalypse was immanent.

I will not say that I did not lose myself, refusing to let myself be morally trained, and perhaps, I needn't do it, in such an experimental adventure, the follow-up of the happening of being restless, facing the relentless effects of the virus' transformation through resorts of genes that turned the purpose of life on earth into only a chance of survival.

Leadership: Does your determination lie in the ability to navigate the "underground of life", facing the unpredictable mutations and brutal impact of reality?

But I will look upon wandering as being a fragment of the inferno in which man is scientifically associated with a predator, in carrying out a divine plan from the perspective of unpredictable and transmissible mutations of the virus.

The extreme points of the function of seeking any inhibitor of the virus, in an underground of life, were those extreme points of the function of measuring my impact with the darkest reality, where I had to see the end of it in any I could.

In a way, I knew what was about to happen, the idea terrified me, without any retouching, without any kind of reserve. I was the proof of life's penalty after all the harsh laws of science and final judgment of God.

Leadership: Is the beautiful, as an individual understanding of the fact that you can use the laws of life to create new ways of surpassing the limits of reality, an answer to the recommendation of the echo that blurs a state of weakness?

Nostradamus was walled in because he would not let anyone enter his chamber. This intimate and discrete character is an answer to anxiety, a concern for the future, an affective state characterized through a diffuse feeling of insecurity, a penalty for the systematic analysis of the repercussions this type of intimacy radiate.

The diagnosis of this psychological affliction is established from the acceptance of the saying "you must believe in nothing in order to understand everything". In such a case, the final impact over the concentration of the ambition to live goes from a few fractions to a few dozen percentages, then immediately drops to zero.

A more refined version of yourself becomes the only construction material whose resistance to compression increases in time, hour by hour, as the comparison between effects and causes, natural or arbitrary, or authority and freedom increases. A version of yourself whose form, nuance, and aspect are dictated only by the survival instinct and the need to cover yourself in an echo devoid of whispers, but alive and extremely dynamic, of the type "who escapes here alive is a hero". The echo will go around the world in search of the hope of defeating the malignant forces of evil, of the unnatural reality.

The daring to dangerously go beyond the limits of reality is a painting in which all others are absent and only you exist.

Before promoting leadership, you must take into account the path towards opening yourself to a vision referring to the relationships resulting from the carrying out of a divine plan of creation offered by the perspective of a harsh and uncertain reality (in which countless factors interact) and the demands of your own calling for adventure in relation to the instinct of surviving "all by yourself."

The state of strength is given by man tendencies towards unifying any information from the environment towards the direction of aspiration towards an absolute law: "you cannot deny your actions without denying your guilt or excusing your moral failure." And the state of weakness, beyond the limits imposed by the harsh reality, is given by that experience of joining man with a set of persistent prejudices and myths such as: "I can't survive alone."

The True Masterpiece Of Art is to surpass the limits imposed by fatality. People follow leaders if they demonstrate that the ambition of immediate knowledge of a final effect serves as a starting point for the confirmation of a new revelation.

Such a revelation, transposed into a role of force, can sound as such: "I am the only one that places today before yesterday" or "I am the only one that places pain before joy."

The True Measure Of Leadership

On January 12, 2013

Learn to be proactive in the essentials of life, without creating pressure on your own authority.

In the volume that Mihail Sebastian wrote about "Proust's correspondence", we find these disturbing lines: "Almost all of Proust's letters, even those of his youth, are written under the imminence of the end. The thought of death is always present in his letters. If he receives an invitation, proposes a meeting, or sets a deadline, Proust is obliged to add the actual, current, and always plausible for him clause of death that can revoke everything."

Death can come at any time, for people sad and overcome by the hardships of life, said Mihail Sebastian about the writer who had been suffering from asthma for years in a smoking room with cork walls.

Irreconcilable with Proust's death, inconsolable, moved by this tragic fate, Mihail Sebastion isn't even given the modest luck to feel his own death looming, to prepare for it, to rebel against it, to write a single line in the cold light of its approach.

Leadership: Are you able to maintain the greatness of being reconciled with who you are and what you are at the most pleasing point of life, so that you can create an identity close to the trajectory of a destiny revealed only through an antithesis?

In what variety of situations do refusal and disapproval turn on in yourself ? Do you sometimes fall into a growing state of overwrought, or in an increasingly depressing state? Does all the essence of your life distance from morality? Are you a system that can maintain the most terrible fire or a system that isn't able to react on impulse?

A man thrown in the middle of life's turmoil is, in reality, a navigator swimming adrift with his head down until he sinks in his own doubts. Nervous stages of incoherence in thoughts of his involution. Such a man reflects his last strength not only on his existence, but also onto the other people around him, causing a rupture between them, that sometimes can't be fixed.

This chaotic movement forward that creates a certain pressure on man, takes place when in doubt, when negativism leaves its print over his personality and evolution, thus strongly destabilizing him under the most different aspects. It becomes a torture to share with others some of the most varied experiences. And the agglomeration of defining components in a small exploitation space, where his real identity can't be fully controlled, firmly entails a reduction of his own values.

Romanian poet, Mihail Eminescu imagines all the breath of life in the spiritual controversy of man as a kind of antithesis: "Time is fleeing, time returns, All is old and new as well." By this, we understand the character of the man who is closely related to the difference between you from yesterday, today and tomorrow, but at the level of motivation, emotions, performance, destiny, associated with the sensitivity and the weakness to leave yourself prey to doubt, despair, instinctive bursts.

Leadership: Does your vision of life help you better understand the dimension of the consciousness of what you are experiencing as a practical attitude towards a being marked by an irreconcilable duality?

"Today I understood that to act, to love and to suffer really means to live to the extent that you are permeable and accept your destiny as a reflection of a rainbow of joys and passions", Camus once said in his "Notebooks".

This means entering in a dark area, of unrest, and remain there stationed without having any positive vision of life and of your own identity. It's the moment when you reach the limit of your own inability to rise above disorienting life events. An impoverishment of you self, which perpetuates, grows and becomes uncontrollable. And it won't change by itself unless a third party intervenes, at best, or only then when the deed was committed, meaning too late.

You will never be able to develop your maximum leadership potential if you don't block negative infiltrations, such as depreciation, self-esteem and your own social status. Ensuring continuity to your evolution, without overlooking that warning which enters into force every time you approach the forbidden area, you will be able to embrace all those diverse aspects of reality.

A being marked by an irreconcilable duality, being reached by the limit of its own inability to rise above upsetting life situations, readily agrees to represent an affective image in a behavioral and psychological plane, by not producing any emotion to one without such provisions. The reproduction of the affective states in satisfaction, evident in the case of an unhappy denouement, with many reproaches and reprimands, is reduced to a mere memory of the fact that it had them.

Leadership: Do you jump outside your destiny, not knowing where to return afterwards?

An an incentive in your process to better the quality of being a Man, you can use a strong point, a fundamental feature, or a certain conviction that would ensure the permanence of value. Approval. Accept the inevitable and try to overcome it, be at peace with yourself and take full advantage of any apparently desperate situation that tries your character.

The Romanian writer, Emil Cioran, said something worth citing. "Nobody loved more than me in this world and, nonetheless, if it were offered to be on a plate, even as a little child I would have exclaimed: "Too late, too late ! " What's wrong, what happened? – Nothing's wrong, nothing's wrong, I jumped outside my destiny and I don't know where to return, where to run..."

If you continuously approach new areas outside your area of "being", you will, almost certainly, step away from quality leadership. That means jumping outside your safety perimeter, where positive feelings and thoughts are protected and guaranteed. You will lose yourself in an area without any strong coverage. And thus, all your life's essence will distance itself from moral richness, risking defeat by the unpredictable and becoming vulnerable. Uncertainty, fear, vulnerability, formally intertwined, will create an apparently functional, but fragile and unstable structure.

The "low" trajectory of a broken destiny has as a point of suggestion the grinding of an Ego always on the existential limits between being and nothingness, in a delirium of suffering strongly supported by the lucidity of a non-assumed commitment.

The True Measure Of Leadership is the power to break away from that "Too late, too late" in the diffusion of a culture of diversity and manipulation, in which each existence has insignificant value, conditioned by the satisfaction of material needs, such that the "leap" you make out of your destiny will not be too harsh when you suddenly find yourself with "everything in the bag".

From the end to serenity is a small step that the conscience perceives at the level of faith, transcendence, self-suggestion, personal transformation, initiative, at the level of collective mentality or at the level of control and information.

The Truth Beyond Magic (II)

On January 26, 2015

Ensure an environment of change that welcomes exceptionality, turning yourself into a programmer of new self-content.

It was a convention of a functioning that admitted a single variable: the resizing of reality under the action of forward forces that made possible the teleportation in time and space. Through magic. This transition from a fuller unit to a deep unity seemed to be wrapped in the spirals of a world that left behind nothingness and other heavens. Thus, there was the possibility of detecting the presence of God everywhere and nowhere, assumed by a meaning that covered the interval between reason and imagination.

From one moment to another, it seemed to me that I was in a different place, that I was forgetting where I was and what was happening around. Undoubtedly, I was stuck in the midst of determinations located valuably within the limits of impact laws, expressed by the equations of non-obvious clauses. No wonder I did not have any control over the situation. Ultimately, I probably would not be wrong if I said that everything eluded me. Nevertheless, I carried on before trying to end this charade close to the science fiction area, blindly immersing myself into the unreal.

Leadership: How can the act of "enduring it all" compare to the artistic process, where the creator, like a magician, transforms pain and fear into an expression of divine will and inner light?

The prince, just coming back from the neighboring kingdom, looked straight into his father's eyes and asked:

- Father, is it true that you are not an emperor, but simply a magician? I have to know the truth, the truth beyond magic. Otherwise I will kill myself.

- There is no truth beyond magic, replied the Emperor. And through his spells he calls upon death. Death appeared in the door and motioned the prince to come with it. The prince shuddered. He remembered the beautiful islands, beautiful, but unreal, and the unreal princesses, unreal, but beautiful.

- Very well, he said. I can endure everything.

- You see, my son, said the Emperor, now you are also a magician.

Leadership: Are you trying to control an "Open World" environment by capitalizing on a shared experience in a collage of the concrete and the abstract?

Leadership is an extremely important factor in the fertility of a new field of thought, but it needs approval from the self in order to take shape. Especially from the self that exists beyond direct perception, beyond the objective reality filters (which is not as comprehensive as subjective reality).

When you approve of the existence of a reality whose applicability horizon is not seen too early, it means that you recognize another variant of knowledge that interferes with the "magical matter" of the self.

Open Word, as a condition of your own transformation into the great equation of claiming to be someone else, highlights the originality that you assume by creating a new identity that can give you a certain fulfillment, pendulating between what you are capable of facing and what you are capable of possessing. And a mask you place on your own insecurities, for fear of not being vulnerable, is the beginning of an attempt to escape from an obscure universe (worldly habits, desperate, obsessed with failure).

Leadership means to value a knowledge whose expansion leads to the creation of a new reality, detaching yourself from the immediate condition of being a prisoner of the concrete.

If you want leadership to reflect and value a knowledge whose expansion will lead to the creation of a new reality, detach yourself from the immediate condition of being a prisoner of the concrete, and turn into a programmer of new self-content. Which can be achieved by designing the future of another image of power, a higher order magician capable of providing new perspectives of the world, presented as a kind of "Mission Impossible."

A few days ago, Eric Schmidt, Google's executive president, said the internet, in its current form, will disappear. This, the new reality, which corresponds to another waiting horizon, is built from another kind of experience – one based on wonders, on magic, on the suspension of unanimously accepted laws, as a redirection of the meaning accorded to the ordinary. Do you stay in the game?

Leadership: Is your mind looking at what is more "holy" beyond the confrontation between this world and the other world?

There are hidden costs for any kind of experience distributed in a collage of concrete and abstract, but they help promote the image of your unpredictable power. The highest leadership is materialized by the power to manifest yourself as a mystery discoverer, by the power to replace the certainties of the present. By being able to stand above that average level of thought accepted by the vast majority. By being able to stand above a reality whose imperfections are fading into that ordinary perspective, which cannot in any way give the measure of an original creative intelligence.

Paraphrasing the Dutch historian, Johan Huizinga, I would say that the mind of the creative-leader cannot detach itself from the magical circle of the power play, it is looking at what is most holy. That is, to all that is most secret, covered with meanings and associations that elude any logic, any sort of realism, looking for a definitive hiding that can later appear in other people's lives as verisimilar. As a consequence of the condition of convergence to the highest source of "enlightenment."

If it is true what someone said, that abstract and concrete are logically merging into an illogical universe – our mind, then the experiences of immersion in the unreal can recreate the image of a new neighboring world with confusion, full of mystery, but at the same time full of attractions.

A new self-content has as a correspondent the image of a personality between what is defined as "an immediate imperative of the acceptable" and what is born out of your deepening into irrefutable truths considered as "holy" in an ever-changing reality.

The Truth Beyond Magic highlights that power of thought supported by a kind of collage of concrete and abstract, which builds a new reality adapted incredibly to the film of leadership through hard work and imaginative knowledge, based on a mysterious vision that attributes uncertainty to any class of beliefs.

The Truth Beyond Magic (III)

Achieve an expansion of the meaning of reality to something broader, by braiding information that you can only be aware of by reconciling the contradictions of your own thinking and identity.

I had no plan in my mind, no idea what I was going to do in this moving square, in whose center, dark as the tomb, and disturbing as the sleep you awaken with difficulty, all the streams of representations of the unreal were intertwined. Absorbed by thoughts known by no one, amplified under the fragments of the voices of the unseen, in disorder of the damage suffered by consciousness, I did not realize that, involuntarily, I had forgotten myself.

My eyes no longer had the power to open up. I felt alienated from my own nature, as if I had been caught in a spell that no one in the world could untie. Strangely, we remained indifferent to everything that was happening around me, being destabilized by a kind of authority with complicated, enigmatic and comprehensive meanings.

Some metaphysicians call this phenomenon "the wandering of truth fragments in the mist of false assumptions," a sporadic dose of acceptance of what makes you remain unintentional and inauthentic. A character from Frank Herbert tried to find the explanation for the reality and the present beyond the threshold where thoughts are turned into dreams. In my case, he should first have eliminated the confusion surrounding the experiences that crossed the axis of the real world in a context in which alterity prevails.

Leadership: Can the illusion of the horizon that attracts you be seen as an artistic expression of the desire to touch the divine, even if the reality seems to be just a game of magic?

While the prince was looking for a boat on the shore, a man dressed in evening clothes with his sleeves rolled up approached him. The prince, amazed at the new reality that had been revealed to him, asked him:

- Are the islands there real? And those strange and disturbing creatures? If so, then there must be a God.

- I am God, said the man in evening clothes, leaning slightly.

- That is not true. Last time you tricked me, but it will not happen again. Now I know that nothing in this kingdom is real. And you're just a magician.

- I am not the one fooling you. There exist in your father's kingdom many islands and many beautiful princesses, but your father keeps you under his spell and you cannot see them.

Leadership: Is the value of your superiority due to an experience that can only be achieved and appreciated by temporary isolation in a relative world?

The way you think of what you are not, in the form of an experiment of rendering a different structure of thought underlying your transformation, can become a guide to the rise to new forms of power. But this ascent, which has its debut in accepting another mental and emotional attitude, limits the inner experience by the density of questions and answers that fail to clarify the level of lucidity you are inclined towards.

Someone wrote on a website: "Our psychological conscious life is, to a great extent, an illusion, a blending of information that we are not aware we've registered."

Leadership: Can you create a bridge between the visible and the invisible, suggesting the possibility of transcendence through art?

An expansion of the meaning of reality to something more extensive by braiding information that you can only be aware of by reconciling the contradictions of your own thinking and identity with the risk of falling into long reverberation is an innovative approach to self-knowledge – through initiation to a higher degree of autonomy.

In this case, transcendence through art refers to the ability to transcend the limits of conventional perception, weaving inner contradictions into a creative form that reveals a new understanding of self and reality.

Does the autonomy given to you by the act of being different in a context of the type "augmented reality", which corresponds to the combinations of representations of the world outside the Ego, have the obligation of subordinating yourself to laws superior to you? Do these laws come from the introspection of the needs of others, or from accidental discoveries that make you change your vision of what is possible to be accomplished?

Leadership: Do you need to assume some independence with respect to an external authority, even if that involves a sporadic dose of acceptance of what makes you dishonest and false?

In order to set a new course of leadership to help you master new forms of becoming, you need to assume some independence with respect to an external authority, even if that involves a sporadic dose of acceptance of what makes you dishonest and false. This falsehood is a pretentious way to check yourself in another form, to manage your identity under a new light.

In other words, it is a kind of experience that can be realized and appreciated only by temporary isolation in a magical world, relative – a world dissolved into a new world, which has not yet taken shape. A madness that hides great wisdom, horizons, becoming the source of a philosophy that assumes relativity, which refuses to get stuck into some appreciation of the phenomena and processes studied.

The most authentic leadership can be found in the art of falling and redefining yourself under the power of a spell, taking as a guiding thread the idea of causing wonders, thus, your imbuing with powerful features of otherness, a positive experience to identify options for personal transformation. And to wake up to the true reality changed into a completely different person, a source of teachings, wisdom and deep truths – from which others take inspiration from.

The spell you have to perform to inspire the people around you is to try to find the explanation for the reality and the present beyond the threshold where their thoughts are turned into dreams.

The Truth Beyond Magic is rather tied to phenomenological understanding – it indicates the leap you make in a world of relative certainty that you can give a new understanding of itself.

The power of a changeover, that preexists your own manifestations, and one that no one can give to you, is a great temptation if you aspire to achieve superiority. It weighs everything from multiple viewpoints. It is an adaptation to a new context of self-realization, a form of reference to some factors that are considered variable, whose value changes substantially through an introspective process during the transition from one type of thinking to another.

The Truth Beyond Magic (I)

Try to base your own scientific theories that can give credibility to a new line of thinking, interacting with those "unknowns" created around personalized experiences.

Under the impetus of a strong inspiration, I was trying to plunge into an unknown that only existed through the action of impulse forces. Invisible circuits to identify the unspoken truths in the flow of life, which the wisdom of this age could not fulfill. Unconstrained, searching for hidden things that could not easily be accomplished, mysteries that were not discovered by the human mind, I landed permanently in a place where I did not even dream of. I was awakening in a place full of charm and amazing things, surrounded by everything that made me believe that that place was paradise, the place of God.

I think I was in a sort of experimental drift, as if on an initiating journey into an outside that made a change of identity possible, trying to base my own scientific theories that could lend credibility to a new line of thinking. I intended to fill that incomprehensible void that grew endlessly within me, in relation to an outside that eluded any understanding.

Deliberately, I was lost in a labyrinth of psychological games, with provocative roles and improvisations of ambiguous situations. In a frenzy of sensations and power dependencies. As if I had entered an integrated impulse circuit to identify entities of a particular nature that I could not possibly believe.

Leadership: Do you accept the status of being superior in the equation of your own being, believing in things you didn't thought were possible?

English writer, John Fowles, narrated that there was once a prince who believed in all but three things. He did not believe in the princess, did not believe in the islands, did not believe in God. The Emperor, his father, had told him that all of this did not exist. And as in his father's kingdom there were no princes, no isles, no sign of the existence of God, the young prince believed him.

But one day the prince ran away from the palace and came to the neighboring kingdom. Here, to his astonishment, he saw countless islands off the coast. And on these islands some strange creatures of fetching beauty. And as he strolls along the shores of one of the islands, he meets God.

To be superior in the equation of one's own being means to manifest the tendency to withdraw from a game you have not invented yourself, but in which you took part by belonging to the same line of addiction as those practicing it.

Leadership: Can you use the power line on which multi-directional knowledge flows, extracting new constants of "novelty" from unprecedented experiences?

A deep writer began his monologue: "Science is a garment that we cannot find in stores, but rather in the secrets of everything that surrounds us." Well, this is a science above others, which can integrate into the superior unity of a vision that has not been addressed – and one that honors leadership.

Can you open the horizon of knowledge that you can integrate into a whole? A knowledge that is customized by an approach of interpretations of everything that surrounds you – in small things, in untold truths, in the symbols of reality that could be imagined hidden or explicit, in an environment in which you can manifest yourself as an artist of customizations, in the reasons that you yourself lay down before you, in the different roles you play in dealing with others?

Leadership: How can knowledge, accompanied by the risk of going astray, be transformed into an abstract art form, offering a unique vision of your own existence?

The deepest knowledge is born of imaginations of the mind, full of meaning, in relation to the world and the reality that you recreate through an autonomy of the power of transformational identity. It is an important source of information, a way to achieve a core reality, but especially an approach to one's own identity by interacting with some external "unknowns" that are often not perceived directly.

And this knowledge, integrated into a pattern of evolution that can change consciousness, giving a new meaning to life, is the result of inner research within a variety of experiences. It is the result of a sequence of lessons that have to be experienced in another way and in the impulses of other coordinates so that they can be understood and placed in order to create a continuity of your identity, with the risk of misleading or disappointing. This is the knowledge that underpins the evolution of a model of authority based on new approaches, from more equidistant and pluralist positions, which give leadership a magic note.

Can your leadership be reflected as a guiding authority in the meaning you give to the experience of interaction with everything that surrounds you?

Leadership becomes a form of evolved knowledge to the extent that you take on a more challenging experience of life and creation, which only later affects the business sphere. Coming like a light that removes everything that is dark, leadership can be reflected as a guiding authority in the meaning you give to the experience of interaction with everything that surrounds you.

And when that authority presents itself in the form of an independent construction of judgment, in a form of a sudden dominance "it is not yet evident", only then will you be placed in a position of superiority.

The Truth Beyond Magic highlights that knowledge based on personalized experiences that aim to disconnect you from a real established by several familiar distinctions between true and false, shaping you as a master of creating contexts for self-actualization or influencing.

The Truth Cannot Be Hidden Behind A Mask

On January 09, 2009

Extend your circle of influence by promoting thought and behavior that helps you recognize your true values.

Yesterday I read a news item on the internet. It was stated that the board of directors of the major search engine, Yahoo, has set up a special commission to investigate how it was possible that in the CV of Scott Thompson, the current CEO of the company, a computer science diploma could be found, one the aforementioned did not obtain.

Thompson took over as CEO of Yahoo ! and then he added false information about a bachelor's degree in computer science to his resume. The lie came to light after the head of the Third Point investment fund, which holds 6% of Yahoo's capital, sent a letter to Yahoo's board.

Yahoo has admitted that this is a serious issue and has set up a special commission to investigate why university qualifications listed in the CV do not coincide with reality and under what circumstances the inaccuracies occurred.

But the most important thing to remember is that in the midst of this scandal, Patti Hart, a board member who played a crucial role in hiring Thompson, decided to step down. *

Leadership: Can you judge someone by the interaction between illusion and truth, and not on the basis of ideas you have gained from misinterpreting pertinent facts?

If you have your own organization, you can't afford to let time go by without preparing your leaders for its future. And the fate of your leaders undoubtedly lies in their character, which declares them (or not) compatible with the requirements of the organization. As the head of the organization, you are entitled, and it is your mission to implement those solid principles by which to turn leaders into role models, ensuring that the outcome of their election is not altered by various negative factors that influence their development.

How do you prepare your leaders for the future of your company? How do you yourself prepare? What are the first three solid principles you have formulated that will inspire people and guide them to your leadership? How do you turn other people into leaders, and how do you turn leaders into role models? How do you develop personal relationships with those you intend to endow with a magnetic and imposing personality?

Remember that any good relationship between you and other future leaders begins with a personal connection. You have to be good friends, not just collaborators. What are the top three factors that you think could slow down or even stop the endowment of future leaders? What does your sincere interest in them mean to them?

What I liked about Patti Hart, a board member who played a crucial role in hiring Thompson, was that he decided to step down as soon as the scandal broke – avoiding a serious deterioration in his leadership which suffered with the outbreak of the scandal. Basically, Patti Hart has removed his mask, that of the superficial man who favors only the interests of others. His leadership was virulent, overshadowed by his inability to adhere to the principles of integrity and responsibility.

At least that's what the news on the Internet say. For a leader who hires and accepts a person who lends himself to falsehood is certainly not exactly "innocent".

Leadership: What influence does the impact of your beliefs have on initiatives that are not within your decision-making power, but which can be synchronized with the image of a new meeting with yourself?

How long can you wear a mask? To conform indefinitely to a thought governed by those so-called procedures of "magic", of accepting the less luminous aspects contaminating leadership is like parachuting. No matter how safe you are, you've got everything set up, you still can't be 100 percent sure that your parachute will open, or that you won't be knocked down by a very strong gust of air. An "unhealthy" leadership can always cause a "heart attack" on your image.

1. What do you think are the aspects that people don't know (or don't notice) about your leadership? What influence do you think these aspects would have on your impact? As people get to know you and like you, do they accept your guidance more and more and want to learn more from you?

2. Do you know the skills and weaknesses of future leaders? What temperament do they have? Do you know what their goals are? What motivates them?

3. Have you tried to see potential leaders outside of the business world? Remember that at work we all try to be the way others want us to be. This is true everywhere. What does "unhealthy leadership" mean to you?

Leadership can be determined during the analysis of initiatives prior to the adoption of initiatives that provide data on the possible decision-making consequences that involve lying , falsehood and deception behind appearances.

The Truth Cannot Be Hidden Behind A Mask. It eventually comes to light, as does your character, and when you don't follow a unanimously accepted ethic and deontology, your prestige suffers.

The Truth Under The Shield Of Confession

On May 17, 2012

Observe and judge yourself from the distance of the one who largely understood the natural limits of the leadership.

The movie "Meet Joe Black (1998)". Susan was standing in front of her father, the great businessman Bill Parrish, great and by the fact that he loved her more than anyone else. She confessed with the human eagerness that won the great struggle with the present, and whose future resonates perfectly with her thoughts:

- Love, passion, obsession ... All those things you've told me to wait for. Well, they have become reality. I fell in love with Joe, as it happened with you and Mom. I love him !

The senses, her soul, all these constitutive elements of the being truly subjected to the implacable forces of love, conferring it stability, reviving that inner impulse which lifted her in all respects, awakening her will - are suddenly disturbed. For, surprisingly, her father, shocked by the confession that was shared with him, launches the powerful wave of anger, pushes it further until this wave sweeps what it remained and insisting as a residue of their past. As if the link between the two of them would be broken, Bill raised the tone for the first time so brutally:

- I do not care if you love him ! I tell you ... Joe is not good for you !

Looking at him with her eyes full of sadness, like a helpless person who lost in an instant the meaning of her life, feeling like constricted, strangled all those emotions that give beauty to life, which tempt the human heart, heating her blood and making her whole being to boil, Susan finds herself constrained to end the conversation:

- Sure, Dad. I'm sorry.

Her heart, ravaged, naked of all bliss, comprised undoubtedly the words that once, Marquise de Brinvilliers had addressed to her only friend, shortly before ascending the scaffold: "Are you the master of all my feelings until the time of my death?"

Leadership: Do you seek to experience a transformation of the type "Return to your true nature", insisting on the truth that hides behind the constraints of using what is above you?

Not being effective in the area predominantly human that develops your leadership it means not finding the most effective ways of expressing your empathy, or ignoring all those ideals, feelings, values, beliefs that do not match your reality, and the standards of your own Ego. All these are an infallible indicator regarding your form and style of relating, is also an indicator of the way you approach, or move away from what confers you value.

The power of a leader lies in the ability to keep simultaneously in his mind and soul the two opposite elements, but equal in force: love and hate; understanding and misunderstanding the outside world. It comes from within, from his own perception on the basic elements that feeds their existence based on the constraints of a world where he do not have the full control and can not say No to anything.

The leader aiming for perfection through his special qualities, by his power to support the development and strengthening the human relations, has incorporated in his structure the mechanism of analysis of his own values, passions, beliefs, to which he subordinates his own existence. He holds the tough and sensitive lever of the human development, by means of which he can overcome the most difficult crisis of personality. And due to which he can ease, remove the negative and unstable events, uncharacteristic to his own Ego.

Above what represents you as a grandiose version of your own self must be the generosity of giving yourself the trust in the aspirations and dreams of those willing to experience a spiritual journey that is responsible for the growth of sensitivity to life values.

Leadership: Are you ready to experience a meeting with yourself from the perspective of abandoning the claim of knowing everything directly and controlling everything?

To reject any request, any form, any attempt of the people to get closer to you. Not being receptive to their way of being, not being perceived as confident, friendly and openly to their proposal of dialogue, means to reject a part of yourself. It means to reject any part of creation to which you have given birth, that leadership endowed with the most exquisite moral and emotional qualities.

While rejecting that part of yourself that ensures you a high contribution of healthy "nutrients" which prevent any departure from the principles and values that defines you, means nothing else than your sinking into the deep of the ocean and staying suddenly without oxygen.

To come out on the surface and to get a breath of fresh air, the warm air of the renewal of your own Ego. To change your whole empathic wardrobe - and to choose the one most beneficial for you, the one that contains a lot of understanding, mutual respect, lots of inner warmth, a wardrobe that would satisfy even the most rigorous demands. This shows that you are a special person that others can always rely on.

Leadership: Are you willing to give up your own righteousness and start heading towards the horizon of a primary understanding when you want to know everything about others?

However Susan, the woman terribly in love, subordinated to a strong inner impulse, passes openly to rebellion; gathers all the courage of her heart, feeds her spirit with the deepest wish, puts into service all her defense facilities against any "NO" of her father, and follows her heart. What does it matter his opinion, as long as her soul, desire and passion are at stake?

And only in the 12th hour, on her leaving, as if he remained alone in the world, Bill realizes about the made mistake. He confesses. Was it a deliberate or an unintentional mistake? He gravely asks himself, as a man determined to mark until the smallest detail all that he suffered, all that he died in himself, hardly striving not missing any detail, or lest to falsify in any way the reality.

The thing that constitutes the unity of the leadership is not its composition of values and virtues contained, but the masterfully way in which the leader, intended to prove its coefficient of nobility, manages them.

Leadership: Can you open new possibilities for changing your appreciation of a person's qualities, through the correlations or convergences with values that make you feel fulfilled?

Just as in a novel the specific of the personages, their character, results from the special marks that the author observes, in the same way, the particular character traits of the leader, which impedes him from enjoying the good that he could provide to the others, regaining in this way his self-esteem, results from his own introspection.

With his vast experience, culture, with his vast panoply of principles, ideas, beliefs, which he should not betray, so on which the leader could rely on, such like the media institutions that should fulfill their mission, informing properly and objectively the public, he must fulfill his sublime mission to go beyond the frontier of knowledge.

He must transmit to people, powerfully supported, without neglecting the quality of relationships, the well-defined essence of his character - the proper vision that would spread an overwhelming energy, motivating the steps that they have to make, and giving a value to the journey of their life.

A meeting with yourself from the perspective of abandoning the claim of controlling everything is an approximation of the intensity with which you try to assume your destiny from the fullness of the Ego that constantly conveys your message: "Judge not every day after the fruits you reap, but after the seeds you plant."

The truth under the shield of confession highlights those beneficial feelings that being summarized give value to the existence of those that complies with your leadership. However, in the same time, and the reverse is true. While, in this case, the only one who has to endure is the leader.

Leadership implies and a permanent dialogue with you. You can know the truth within your Ego only when you confess to yourself. The leadership has in its composition a huge content of human feelings; it is not a purely technical system, with a software programmed into the laws of physics, mathematics and electronics, but has a strong load of human-specific elements.

Observe and judge yourself from the distance of the one who largely understood the natural limits of the leadership.

The Tsar Of Moscow Is Not Down Yet !

On July 30, 2016

Be that part of the immensity of the opportunity to choose, no longer letting circumstances choose instead of you.

The scene in the film continues. Basmanov arrives with the news of Ivan's friend's betrayal, Prince Kurbski. The monk reads on King David's Psalm. Someone else whispers to the tsar the extent of the betrayals. The monk: "Oh, how my heart presses. Awaited I mercy. Yet in vain. People of comfort I've looked for. But have not found."

And then, suddenly, Ivan raised his head. And like a wild beast he cried throughout the cathedral: "You're lying ! The tsar of Moscow is not down yet ! "

And now he decides to create the Oprichnina army, to leave for Svoboda Alexandrovskaia. "An abbot of iron I shall become." He advises with those who have remained loyal to him. He makes the decisions that will guide his steps from henceforth. He climbs back to the coffin again. He gazes upon death's frozen features. And it seems to him that her face relaxed, approved of him.

With the hand on the cheek of the dead Empress, Ivan makes his grand covenant: "Great things I shall accomplish: ruler over the whole world I shall become ! Two Romes have fallen, the third one – Moscow ! – is standing. And the forth Rome shall not exist ! " *

Leadership: Can you live under your real condition, in a version of reality that doesn't validate you as the owner of an exceptional destiny?

In a world in which the true meaning of human value is lost through a twist of things experienced, through a fatality of all that is happening, where only personal experience is the best life lesion, an aspirer to power can be signified real or symbolic, in the situation to settle in the existential situation of the meeting between the two categories of circumstance.

First those hazardous circumstances when he himself is astray in the mist, moving endlessly without purpose, but who unexpectedly drags the world behind him also. Then, those circumstances of necessity, representing the way certain states or domination tendencies are manifested, through the force of the potential of imposing one's self, when he becomes "the change" because he stays true to his principles of affirmation.

We refer to chance as a way of knowing how to choose between the favorable circumstances of a situation and your inner weakness, and the Tsar of Moscow understood that what appears on the horizon of his destiny at a certain turning point must be taken as a sign of recognition of personal merits before this chance disappears.

Leadership is that part of the immensity of the opportunity to choose, without letting circumstances choose in your stead. A chance that very few understand, because in every destiny it appears at one point, but can disappear if you are not worthy of it.

And as someone wrote on an astrology blog, a balance between the two aspects must be maintained: acceptance of destiny and the efforts of influencing circumstances.

Leadership: Can you attain the immediate experience of some things without knowing at least one truth about them, only considering them as a sine qua non requirement for attaining greatness?

The owner of an exceptional destiny knows that he must travel a long path that leads to the restoration of his being, through experiences hierarchized in an ascending chain. Therefore, he turns this path into a constant concern, which on the basis of situation changes will not circumscribe to a contrarian absurd reality, but only to those repeated experiences of settling on the position of conqueror.

And a conqueror who defends his rights stoically, is always guided by the slogan: "Great things shall I accomplish: ruler of the entire world shall I become ! " These things, in any image of themselves, in any circumstance, surround a thought expressed through a kind of need to reflect on the possible connections with a hero whose superpower lies in the ability to demonstrate that he possesses that science of choosing the hare from wheat. Such a hero is able to experience an important moment with great internal combustion, but not at all externalized.

To live under your real condition, but in a version of reality that validates you as the owner of an exceptional destiny, means continuing to move forward on the path of life benefiting from the effective power of higher ideals, without conforming to them in each and every one of your actions.

Achieving greatness is a great representativeness recital on the stage of history to be defined by a reality past, present and future, that hero is considered the highest and limitless truth about the facts and wounds of history.

The Tsar Of Moscow Is Not Down Yet ! is the fruit of those personal manifestations, born from the inner fire, depicting on the great image of destiny the face of a personality full of significance formed by the constant battle with hostile forces and with the phenomenon of regression especially: be common as all others.

The Tumultuous Journey To Hell Of The Sensitive Being

Dismantle the major conditioning between suffering and evolution, by activating the field of motivational forces necessary to influence change.

Clarice is terrified by the feeling that she's part of a grim scenario, worthy of a Stephen Jones. But she doesn't know how to rip this fatal image from her mind, she can't stop the substance excess, sensitive to pressure, transferred to the almost exhausted molecules with the role of a regulator of cerebral activity. How to survive a ride to the depths with no exit, to hell? All her vital energy focuses for a moment in one disconcerting direction. That of total self-destruction.

And because she can't get free from hell, a stage of numbness, which dominates the field of motivational forces necessary to influence change, takes over her. Horrendous inner bombings, which give harsh shivers, take her to a state of non-operability. Basically, she is alone in the murderer's house, a dark and creepy place, and she feels that someone is following her closely, ready to surprise her at any time with a deadly blow.

An act of faith, a single willful manifestation could help her escape the thought of dying, the sturdy clamp that seems to strongly clench her cerebral cortex? And only for this anxious thought, so many inner fights are stoically carried, unappeased panic reactions chained in a disorienting rhythm.

Leadership: Does your attempt to give a special meaning to things in your life constitute into a crescendo of the will to find something with which you fully identify and contribute at the same time to the development of what you might call "the revelation of an irreversible reality"?

Raise the value of the tension necessary to stop the isolation complex. That fact she can't escape the circle of weakness concerns her beyond measure, and with good reason. Nonetheless, Clarice stands her ground. She believes that, in a way, her honor is at stake. She barely makes a move, she doesn't say a word. Now her volcanic imagination is more than necessary. To do what she has never done before, to risk her life. To bet everything on a single lucky, rescuing die. And this assumed thought, like a lightning fallen from the sky with God's will, carrier of new forces, illuminates her knowledge and invest it with the power of initiative.

Only hope supports her safety functions and the positive energy transported through the delicate distribution channels of alternative tensions. She suddenly receives the energy and inspiration to take the plunge into a risky action, with the eagerness and spontaneity of a child that dresses up like Superman and is off to save the world. Obviously, a certain degree of adrenaline was felt, because everything seemed to be a wait for the inevitable. In order to gain a saving courage, she begins to identify with a hero who tries to defeat their destiny.

Only one certain angle remains undiscovered, a doubling of a line of action, applied sideways on a foreign line in the plane of conscience. Only like this her psyche can bear an extra weight. She has to kill Buffalo Bill at any price. With sharp senses, to pierce the darkness, to overcome by far the margins of conscience ! To shoot ! Now ! Now ! Bang ! Bang ! Bang !

Clarice feels relieved. The storm is gone. The grey clouds of terror, that have gathered and produced the rescuing lightning, have finally dispersed. Buffalo Bill is dead ! Only now she has the revelation of an irreversible reality: "Once you have engaged in an action, you have to make sure you've seen it through to the end."

Leadership: Can the coercion of submitting to a particular reality harmonize all the facets of your personality and in this way become more tolerant of beliefs that cause unwanted results?

The adaptation difficulties to new contexts and situations can offer the innovative show of a dramatic expression of profound spiritual anxiety. These difficulties, which determine the individual subject to a dangerous duality to approach with difficulty the "stimuli-reaction" processes, can occur because of self-evaluation errors. Which, in turn, produce certain disorientation and an inefficient channeling of the energy in one disconcerting direction. That of total self-destruction. Generating those difficulties of understanding one's own capacities and limits.

These difficulties can also appear in the investigative undertaking of evaluating the situation in which the individual is found, especially when there is an increase in "costs" induced by probabilities, calculated through external conditionings that highlight those marking contrasts between the emotions that take over her mind. And the continuous additions of negative stimuli, which act on the subconscious, threatening the integrity of her personality, leader sometimes to emotional shock.

How do you evaluate yourself in a situation with no escape: as a relative cost of the prediction error or as a positive element that attests to the importance of certain choices?

In relation to the obligations imposed by leadership, which can't be practically ignored in the mental and emotional reality perception and development process, in spite of the disturbing influences, the individual has to be categorically in advantage. He shouldn't turn to the least constraining choice. And the inconveniences caused by a wrongful management of emotions don't have to be disproportional in relation to the concerned purposes. Simply put, the individual's balance shouldn't be affected by the unappeased panic reactions, chained in a disorienting rhythm when it comes to crisis situations.

Can you give your leadership a medal for winning the psychological warfare your thoughts subject you to without measuring the true value of what is the essence of the human phenomenon?

Each individual proves a certain weakness at a certain point, a less sophisticated manner of fighting with himself, with his strongest emotions and feelings, that he is no longer able to set a more detailed contact with his points, forces and motivations. A major conditioning occurs between suffering and evolution, which impedes the activation of the field of motivational forces necessary to influence changes.

And thus, leadership is neglected, which in relation with human thinking and senses it becomes useless. It can no longer facilitate that adventure of knowledge; it can no longer allow access to that "interior" universe, shaped from a braver and harder dough.

For this very reason, the leaders are more and more animated by the passion to turn to evaluating the internal dimension of leadership. And according to expert Anne Deering, the author of "Alpha Leadership", this dimension refers to the way in which you psychologically organize yourself in order to have a quick reaction to the environment, in order to have the necessary thinking abilities to realize what is more important to be evaluated about yourself, so that your skills don't emaciate.

Are you able to play a hard game of chess with yourself? How do you psychologically organize yourself in order to have a quick reaction to the environment? Do you give your leadership a medal for winning the psychological war brought upon by your thoughts? Test your ability to cope with the ruthless "survival" game, in the conditions of a sometimes hostile environment where your transformation is harder to accomplish.

A leader should learn, first of all, to retouch his thinking and to return the inner glimmer of his being. In order to do that, he needs to make the distinction between these two types of representation of his personality. The first one, from the point of view of caution, of the possibility to use the abilities to distance from any external control. The second, from the point of view of mental instability and vulnerability, which leads to extreme thoughts in limit situations, transforming him, subject to his inner struggles, in a certain target for failure.

The essence of the human phenomenon is to understand one's purpose in society and to contribute massively to the value of the experiences that define one's character. These two considerations can be justified through the following imperative conclusion:

"Before starting something, you must know if you can see it through to the end."

The Tumultuous Journey To Hell Of The Sensitive Being brings forwards the leader's necessity to develop an impartial thinking with a stable and hard to influence "status" in the hostile intervention conditions of some external destabilizing forces. That can trigger fear of action, anxiety, instability and idleness.

Creating an impenetrable protection wall that shields us against disturbing and destabilizing external influences, but sometimes against internal forces that could appear as a result of our defensive mechanism, is useful for us all. But absolutely necessary for a leader.

The Tunnel Of Transition Towards The Shore Of Becoming

On August 13, 2012

Complement your own way of being, for the mission of your leadership to reconcile with the "destiny" of your own functioning.

Sometimes, I realized with surprise that I moved away of the elements in which I believed. Everything seemed promiscuous as a temporary amnesia. I deviated from the route beneficial to my development, and I reached the mouth of the tunnel towards the cold darkness, disquieting, without any guidance. An overwhelming and depressing darkness that blocked my self-knowledge, disconnecting me from the reality of the world, of nature, of the universe that I invented by myself.

I felt rustling inside me a lot of emotions, reasonings, calculations, beliefs, cold waters, high waves, which sometimes agree, other times were contradictory. I was led by what was dictating my critical conscience, not of the pure reason that prevails. I depended on something imaginary. And misleading. I fluctuated from one state to another, trying to gratify the part of me that does not act normally, temporarily losing its meaning. As if a black spot would be smeared all that was beautiful in me, almost completely altering my mental and moral structure.

The universe of my own knowledge, the revealing material of my inspiration, the most comprehensive form of expressing my Ego, absorbed with a force that drew without possible escape any differences, any lightly snowing of thoughts, any trace of energy, any bit of understanding, ordering with the precision of a Swiss watch the abrupt cessation of my creative and stimulating existence. Did I perceive things in their true light?

Internalization is that tendency of reason that is explained by the fact that you are trying to explain your world and formulate it by virtue of your own experiences and anchoring in an imagination-based reality.

I managed to get out of the "tunnel". What actually happened? Just like a character of John Fowles, I had lived the dislocation that you feel after a long trip, when everything, even the most familiar landscapes seem unreal. As if the greatest part of me would still be there from where I left. I marked the time in a mental fixation that poisoned all that loved, all that was positive in me.

The more I progressed in the research of leadership science, I also discovered my deficiencies. It was not too clear for me from where descended the fog that surrounded me so decisively, and that only a moment of lucidity has managed to dispel it. The fact is that something new, uplifting, reflected inside me. Something that created a contrast with the one who I was, who transformed me ... which strengthened...and supported me ... kept in compliance with myself and with what I wanted to become.

I paid the extremely expensive policy to make sure against a depreciation of my Ego. It was a part of the whole, a difficult stage of self-discovery, a result of a transformation process that brought me face to face with myself. I passed halfway towards the potentiation of my development and becoming, as a man who competes with himself in order to evolve and grow in adverse circumstances.

What tended to characterize me that time was a continuation of my ageing process, a complement of my own way of being.

Leadership: Are you sensitive enough to perceive your inner position in a "journal" fragment, beyond the boundaries of a reality understood as an exposition of reason to look beyond the meanings of words?

Your art of leading will be ready to reconcile with the "destiny" of your own functioning, only when expressing your Ego will be felt around you. To look beyond the meaning of the words you express in a diary of memories, with references to other works, to other worlds and other characters, is to capture what you thought could come out extremely sensitive, fascinating, relevant to describe your expression of strength and creativity with which you are endowed.

To every aspirant for a leadership position shall be assigned the responsibility for the concrete forms of configuring its expression of "force". A vivid form of expression of feelings and experiences, translated into a journal, cannot be produced by itself. First, you need to improve the relationship with that part of you that always knew you could be more than you are by referring to other realities and structures of thought that give you both the form (the way of argumentation, the exposure of certain points of view) and general content (fundamental ideas).

If you mark the time in a mental fixation that poisons all that you love, all that is positive to yourself, just as it happens to all people with high aspirations, which are subjected to the tortures of change, you will not be able to perceive things in their true light, you will not be able to pass the halfway towards the potentiation of your development and your becoming.

Leadership: Is the meaning of the words that support you in creating a unique reality found between "secretly reconciliating with the world" and values of the type "living testimony of the way you approach subtlety in observation"?

The index of full maturity and the vital-stimulating function of art to create new forms of impact is determined by the result of a process of transforming the forms of communication of feelings and thoughts that bring you face to face with yourself.

To depend, or to focus on that part of yourself that has lost its "meaning" is like setting a very high price on a certain type of product that is not sold. Like that vendor of high quality Persian carpets that set such a high price on them so that no one could afford them.

The living testimony of how you approach subtlety in observation is obtained by transforming the virtual into reality, in words that define an individual discovery, as fascinating as a life experience can be. Everything depends on the Ego you've created from the combination of thoughts and experiences, which do not lose their meaning along with the sacrifice to practice called "artistic expression".

A secret reconciliation with the world becomes a dialogue with the ideas that others have about you, without fighting them, but giving them an interpretation from the point of view of your own values and life experiences.

The tunnel of transition towards the shore of becoming is the crucial step that you will make towards understanding, towards opening your own Ego. It marks the responsibility that you assume for the concrete forms of configuring your future, respectively of your Ego based on the experience of transition from one state to another.

In what moments you compete with yourself in order to evolve and grow in adverse "circumstances"? Do you perceive the reality that defines you in its true light? Have you managed to get out of the overwhelming "tunnel" that blocks your self-knowledge? Or the most part of you stayed there from where you cannot advance? Do you depend on something imaginary and misleading?

Conclusion: The watershed moments in the life of a leader, when it may occur a destabilization of his own Ego, can be the more frequent as the perfection process of the art of leading is incomplete.

It is up to him if he wants to perfect this art.

Complement your own way of being, for the mission of your leadership to reconcile with the "destiny" of your own functioning.

The Two-Edged Sword In Leadership

On Februarie 01, 2014

Form a clear vision of what your life lays out before you, changing something in the experiences you are willing to accept as part of a reality that exceeds any expectations.

"There are people for whom imagination is equivalent to an unreal fact and accept it as a fulfilled thing seen with their own eyes" I replied, citing Sparkenbroke.

- This is also Mrs. Bengescu's opinion. She pretends to imagine an event first, until she accepts it as a reality, then puts it on paper. In everything she said there was a force that I had only seen in the struggle between the sea and the cliffs, but unlike the sea, which gave me the feeling of the inability to rid itself of the rocky shores, my character seemed a prince charming facing monsters, fells oaks and is able to release the sea in its struggle with dry land.

I was starting from reality. I was running and going back to it. I wanted to defend my book from daily news, from the life coming through closed doors and windows, through walls. Only the novelist François Mauriac has inscribed as the motto of his biography the following words that, at the same time, characterize me:

"Alone, fiction does not lie. It opens a hidden door upon life, through which your unknown soul slips out of your control."

Leadership: Are you able to start building a new image of the self, exposing things about the fragility of life with the intention of testing the meaning of a vision of the world you live in?

Are you in conflict with yourself? Can you accept the fact that you can't live in your own utopian world? Are you brave enough to explore the mystery of what you truly are? Are you surrounded by a veritable collection of thoughts and questions, are you overcome by that aggressively-deep craving to possess? Can you amputate that side of yourself that accumulates new stimuli and intensifies each stage of your evolution?

Your strength to contribute to change, the mix of impatience and curiosity in your eyes is, far from the abstract, a refuge, but not an isolated space, not an abandoned place, it's one of your strengths. This trump, materializing the open, creative thinking that addresses itself, acting as a support for its own transformation, will change your leadership style.

Knowing yourself is the two-edged blade in leadership. On one hand it keeps you away from your utopian world, on the other hand it draws you closer to it. And this proximity between the two faces of distinct realities, between the two independent ways of thinking, proportioning your existence can cause indirect loss.

An unprecedented image of the self is formed through the comparison between the revelation of a possible soul aspiration and the manifestation of a deja-vu that leaves you feeling as if you are living someone else's life.

Your capacity to set personal limits, using those resources that aren't to your detriment, the desire to explore the mystery of what you truly are, ensuring a balance between "manner and functionality" - the manner in which you dissociate from the impact of a shallow conquest of knowledge and the functionality of your own entity that singularizes you (such as the ability to create) are written in the area of your development, truly making up the pillars that support the essential edifice of leadership.

If you continue to oscillate between two worlds or two directions, you won't feel better in either one of them. You'll always live in a bizarre attempt to change "The Man" within you, in an uncomfortable attempt to actively rule a world, a bunch of new situations, a succession of knowledge, which will turn upside-down all your agreements with yourself.

Fiction is the enlightenment of a unique and inspired formula of a reality in which you alone control the things that happen to you, which you experience in the form of memory or vision, during a deja-vu that leaves you feeling as if you are living someone else's life. It is perfectly consistent if we consider the relationship between particular episodes of the whole life overlapping too short of a time for certain moments of exceptionalness, bringing the satisfaction of a unique way of thinking accessible through a story that represents you.

The whole measure of an artist's creation focuses on the novel of a life from which exudes an enveloping and conquering spiritual warmth, gently proposing a way of living through the experience of being someone else.

The two-edged sword in leadership is the boundary between fiction and reality that reads "Access Denied", addressing all those who fail to distinguish between what is fleeting and what is permanent.

The real danger you can feel as a man dominated by the sense of life on earth is that you do not know what your destiny is, but it can surely take you out of the comfort zone and push to all possible limits. The limits of a world that transforms through you and because of you.

The Two Exceptions Of Leadership

On October 14, 2016

To match what you perceive through the mind in a story is directly proportional with what you do when you think no one can see you.

It was a fiction of the power of surpassing yourself, a hallucinatory experience, the beginning of a rebirth in the "divine" through a rediscovery of the mysteries of a scientific geometry. Something that struck me in particular, me, the researcher of literature dedicated to the sources generators of new creative dimensions, at times too complicated, deepened in the background noise of bewildering chimeras of ideas, steps not dared step upon by just anyone.

I myself present the symptoms of an improbable fiction. The predominant trait specific to this fiction, through which I reinvented myself, of which a certain John Fowles would say: "it remains what is left when you step forward, in a story where you do not care for the curtain", constituted the metaphor of learning that helped me access the resources necessary for change, creating something known as a "superior Ego."

Leadership: Would you surrender to an unsuspected power, without noticing the essence of the phenomena that surround you, but knowing that your story continues its course?

I dare say that I would have given myself, without hesitation, to any "new left", to any present inexistent in other people's minds, to conform to the treacheries of my own fantasies, inexplicably complex and completely outside immediate understanding. Outside of noticing and correlating the essential attributes of events and phenomena, I slowly left me to the mercy of an unsuspected power. No one could see me in the fiction I was projecting on the world, due to the fact that the world no longer believed in stories, and my story was about to turn into the idealization of the mysterious connection between a magician and a scientist.

Since energy can be neither created nor destroyed, only transformed, according to the first law of thermodynamics, so too can the fiction of a story in which the hero represents further proof of the necessity of his removal from the stage of the visible world, it doesn't go hand in hand, it can only be formulated in prose, being a compensatory universe. In which I would take refuge when my inner balance was threatened by the constraints posed by reality.

Leadership: Can you discover what is beyond what can be seen or experienced directly, matching what you perceive through the mind in a story which is always reduced to a single theme?

"And now, write down the following important finding: the artist within me had defeated the gentleman inside. Through a great effort of will, I managed in these memorial notes to adapt my style to the tone of my journal. That journal no longer exists. But I considered it my artistic duty to preserve its intonations, no matter how false or brutal they would seem to me now." (Humbert Humbert from the novel "Lolita")

If you want to cherish nature and the form of the spirit, then you must remember what you write about yourself, from youth to the end of your life, in the most intimate aspects of life. Writings that have something specific in their composition: your concern for the unique way of articulating a harmony with the self that is manifested by focusing on what you are used to see and no believe.

Only one theme characterizes my story, you may have noticed: the result of the imaginative process potentiated by a satisfying creation that speaks in an almost universal language about the penetration of the Ego into a universe of duality. You will have the opportunity to see this if you read other articles written by me. And this theme reinforces the idea of a comparison between writer and creator, under the auspices of the feeling of superiority, of belonging to an avant-garde literary current: Nivexistyoss, or the Voice of the Lord in the discovery of a new world.

Leadership: Can you elevate your mind to the rank of artistic creed through a creation that is a copy of a visualization of the "Alpha" image placed in the context of an agreement with yourself?

What enhances your value as a man who constantly attacks new horizons must be the copy of a visualization placed in the context of an understanding with yourself. This copy needs to reflect, more than any other episode of your development, that part of mental life beyond what you think you are, beyond what can be seen or experienced directly. And one which you keep as a fond memory.

Mainly, it's about art, more precisely about this artistic creed: to make every effort to transpose your life into a creation that attracts all the eyes around you. Beyond the diversity of nuances and arguments that can fill your life, examining your position to what you are used to see and not believe, is of such nature to grow a new finding, a certain manifestation of your spiritual archetype, a momentary feeling that influences the way in which you react to what you perceive beyond appearances.

It isn't for naught that I quote Romanian philosopher Gabriel Liiceanu now: "Writing is a way of focusing on what you didn't know you knew (on what you knew without being aware of it.)"

Because to match what you perceive through your mind in a story is directly proportional to what you do when you think no one can see you. It is equally true as in the case where you know something without knowing why. And this fact, for the carrier of revealing truths, means to find yourself navigating a deep and long sleep that dominates reality.

The "Alpha" image placed in the context of an agreement with yourself designates that form of presence that the creation assures you, the crowning of which is the revelation of the source of your existence as a human being above the world through an artistic creed: to believe in what your imagination provides.

The Two Exceptions Of Leadership could be the following: to wake up to reality without remembering yourself, or to remember yourself without waking up to reality. A single aspect is sure in both cases: you need to adapt your style of being to the tones of your own reset, no matter how false or true they are.

The Two Identities Of Eisenstein

Discover new perspectives of managing leadership by analyzing the ration between the two constants of its value.

The biographer is not allowed predictions, though I'm sure that at one point, in the literary heritage of Sergei Eisenstein, the confession confirming this will be found. His work towards making the following films does nothing more than confirm such a hypothesis. Until then we note the contradictions and try to discover within their labyrinth a mechanism of creation that will perpetuate: the idea. Abstraction always generates to him the volcanic succession of artistic solutions that afterwards, under severe analysis, prove to have been rigorously arranged after immutable laws.

Let us not forget, however, that the inner law of the work of art is created not by the esthetician, but by the artist. In this regard, there is an ongoing conflict, under the guise of perfect understanding, between Eisenstein the creator and Eisenstein the esthetician. The latter strives, with envy, to snatch merits from the former. *

Leadership: Is your style of combining multiple perspectives of approaching a contemporary subject matter completed by the quality as being authentic in terms of the validity and merits of a work that is meant to be the form of a single art?

Leadership has to be useful but at the same time attractive in order to bring results corresponding to expectations, and here we speak of a combination of all the ways of producing a creation of great value and popularity. Unfortunately, not everything that is attractive is necessarily of educational, constructive and mobilizing value.

Leadership becomes whole rather through its quality of being authentic under the terms of availability and background of a motto that we can also attach here: "unity in diversity", according to the criteria of performance evaluation regarding deepening the knowing of a subject that responds to a practical interest. But it completes itself as well by the capacity to transform an idea into the reality of well-known concepts, but retold in another reference system.

Referring especially to the conditions of validity of an artwork, they can be met by what you achieve by means of a new approach to artistic themes, while the conditions of background can be achieved through a process of broadening the content of ideas and generalizing the values you gather.

The subjects can capture an overview from a height, a more spectacular perspective on the world, life, events, characters, rigorously depicted by the artist's merit of deploying art from the perimeter of plastic visions, pointing it towards the epic, towards literature, to an understanding of the reality that characterizes man in a certain stage of intellectual or spiritual evolution.

A work that is meant to be in the form of a single art is not born of the mood to focus on trying to get a positive promotion or reaction from other people but on the ability to be authentic in what you want to represent you as a style and personality in the controversy between aesthetics and sustainability.

A very good director is one who can build a scenario after Coco Chanel's famous maxim: "You live but once; you might as well be amusing."

To reach the peaks of performance you will have to evaluate yourself regularly, first through the viewpoint of the creator that expresses his ideals through originality, aiming to produce a new pattern of thinking, putting a part of himself in every element of the research activity. And second, through the viewpoint of a promoter of an "attractive product" that, even in less favorable periods, stimulates by means of the brand image, his positivity, the sense he attributes to reality, the message he transmits and by suggestion, by his ability to integrate himself in various environments and by the power of beautifying the functional, without compromising it.

If you do not want leadership to become an obstacle in the way of the development process, then analyze the ration between the two constants of its value: aesthetics and durability. Observe their convergence in relation to the finished product, analyzing the wealth of meanings of the message that you are promoting in terms of style and trend of growth that you cross.

Aesthetics is what is seen in a lively picture. Durability is what is constituted in a true geography of interiority that leads in one direction, that of the spirituality of creation.

Just as a painting can be distinguished by the depth of realistic expression, leadership – as a product of your thoughts – must be distinguished by its strong individuality. Leadership is a good that must be individualized by measuring, comparing and quantifying the two variable elements: "creative art" or "aesthetic creation."

The Creator and the Aesthetician are two sides of the same coin, two aspects of the same existence, of the same energy, but distinguished by the fact that the first focuses on the optimal mix of "context" and "content", the second focuses on positive appreciations by generating high-quality visual effects.

The Two Identities Of Eisenstein highlight the dualism of the creator of performance in leadership that must distinguish itself by aesthetic originality, but even more so through creativity based on scientific elements with applicative and transformative value.

The Two Of Us, The Dream And The Story

On Aprilie 27, 2020

Learn to be the creation of a Creator who forces you to accept his presence from a different perspective of duration and space.

If someone had told you that one day you would go farther and beyond your wildest dreams, would anything have changed in you? And if one day, one of those days when you don't have high expectations, you will feel that you are part of a beautiful dream, and that this dream is nestled grandly in a good story, not being stolen by any book thief, could you go back to your previous life, live it as if you never dreamed you were part of a story?

Thus, someone has revealed the future to you, pouring over your soul the hope to give course to a story meant to comfort you, helping you regain your freedom to be yourself in the continuation of a story that promises to be even better than a dream. And whoever that person may be, believable or not, it was certainly enough to remind you that the one who dreams the longest and the farthest away always receives early notice of a dream that promises everything in the future.

And behold, the dream, together with the dreamer, depended on someone else to whom the dream had previously given you an idea, coming to meet the desire of your heart. Probably the dream, with such a lively appearance, expresses its final meaning as a symbol of patience and hope, playing hide-and-seek in a story reminiscent of a Creator, a sighted hand, by a Book Thief, by the Three Enchanted Gates, by the ancient Morla, or by the wonderful city of silver called Amarganth.

What is it like to be part of a story that is written every day with a dream in which you feel that you are whatever you want to be, and that the dream and the story, an essential element of daydreaming and an epic genre, are the key to penetrating a universe of the Creator of infinity?

Perhaps Alexandre Dumas was right when he said at the very end of a famous novel:

"Never forget that until the day when God is willing to reveal to man the future, all human wisdom will be summed up in these two words: WAIT AND HOPE."

Leadership: Can the format of creation to which your life is subjected be seen as a present of the testimony of a story that is sustained by your gaze in another world?

At one point, on her journey through the land of mirrors, Alice meets a mosquito that asks her:

- What's the use then, that insects have names, if they don't answer when called by them?

- It's of no use to them, Alice said; but I suspect it is useful to those who call them. Otherwise why would things have a name?

Here is how to write a story inspired by a dream associated with the mental state of a dreamer trapped in a world of fantasy, secrets, magical mysteries. You, my story, are my dream come true, because I could give you a name that surrounds the reality in which I have been immersed, and here is your name, it is: Erelyndhus, or the force of the pure word in the space of beauty transcendent. No story can stand without a meaningful dream, just as no mirror can reflect a separate thought, an inverted image, a face other than youth, without the light of a guiding star.

And beyond the land of mirrors, in which Alice has deepened, sits a meaning of great suggestiveness: everything that receives a name from you is reflected in thousands of faces, in a geometric optics, like an embodiment of a real kingdom of enchanted mirrors. Considering that a monochromatic ray of light propagates through free matter into another reality, and the refraction s1 falls on the surface separating the sky from the earth, flat at point x1 at the angle of a supernatural justification, then we will be free to move in a fantastic world, but which is also extremely real because it is the world of our own Self.

Conclusion. My creation is the dream of an artist that takes place in the form of a hologram in a real space defined as imaginary. Here, then, is why I call myself a Creator: because everywhere I look I see only images of an extremely complex and vivid world, images reflected simultaneously in a mirror that is one of the true paths to Great Knowledge – I would see far away, and I would discover that in a previous existence I was someone else who did not know me, but who behaved as if he knew me.

Before you understand leadership, try to have the unforgettable experience of a dream come true, with the ascension to eternity of the Creator, so that you no longer need guidance towards the "light".

The Two Of Us, The Dream And The Story, are part of a world that is not flooded with contemporaneity, and that is not revealed to anyone, but only to the truly deserving who know how to convey emotions, to share the experience of the self, like the effort of an artist which turns painting into a more direct way of communication between the Creator's sensitivity and reality.

I never thought I could turn a grand dream into the story of my life, with a penchant for the art of an Absolute Creator who sees his image in one form or another, different from any human expectations. But it was the dream that thought of me before turning me into a story whose hero is immortal, just like the One who writes in the Universal Voice a new page in His book.

Alice in the Land of Mirrors is still trying to reflect her destiny in the completion of my story. Dear Alice, you will be able to enter my world, only after you adjust the mirrors of your world to be seen from the position of an unsurpassed master of the artistic avant-garde...

The Two Protrusions Of Leadership

On September 25, 2016

Awaken the uprising of those around, while also proving to them your superiority in the extent and depth of thinking.

His personality was charming. He liked making others laugh, but while also proving his superiority in the extent and depth of thinking. His extraordinary and profound fantasy for innovation in creation fascinated all those who knew him then. They are traits that have remained with him up to his death.

He dominates all those around him. A first contact with him awakened the uprising of the interlocutor. Those who had the strength of getting to know him closely were won over by his charm. Ultimately, it was not about infatuation. Very well aware of his value, his relationship with those around stemmed from that premise that became an objective fact. For his genius, intuited and discovered by enlightened minds ever since as being a fact, his name had become a superlative of creative power.

He knew it and wasn't hiding it out of embarrassment. He accepted this lucidly and objectively. The very fact irritated many. And it seems that neither then, nor later, Eisenstein didn't coddle and didn't take this irritation into account. On the contrary.

Leadership: Can you pretend respect through the image displayed by the "Defying" function, without displaying any other image by accessing the link "Follow Me"?

Considering the saying "Be yourself and you will come to know who is your friend", in the transition from the phase of self-assessment to that of development, we can reach the case of exploiting the perceptions of others by maximizing the value of our own being. Which leads to the depiction of an addict of a certain atmosphere of splendor, of a certain emotion that you can control for the purpose of highlighting your dominant traits.

The image of a leader must embrace the status of "superlative of creative power", so that people are amazed by the vastness of an extraordinary thought, to be both fascinated and frightened, so as to create an alarming situation. It is the only situation that attracts the most attention.

You must replace your image with a way of making up the personality structure that allows for adaptation to any sort of external pressure, without having it so that through this you endanger your uppermost side of identity. The ultimate endeavor is to be a man deeply rooted in the soil of superiority, in the depth and depth of thought.

Superiority is, at times, the way in which you can demonstrate your value through the lens of the fascination you manifest to the contrary of the world's expectations.

In this case, your concern should crystallize the supreme audacity of maintaining your impact, this form of completeness that leaves no room for regrets, without seeking explanations and arguments based on recent changes of the reality of those around. The traits that remain your own until the end of your life must denote a certain vision of yourself, a certain image, a certain opinion, that no matter what you do – you do it because it is to your liking, not to the liking of others, and is for the benefit of science, not for the benefit of a person who needs help to assert himself.

A leader knows how to present himself in the position of a "boy full if himself", and doesn't hide it out of embarrassment. He accepts this lucidly and objectively. The very fact irritates many. But he doesn't coddle and does not take this irritation into account. On the contrary.

In this way, you become a superlative of creative power. To create from yourself an unusual image, to pretend respect through the image displayed by the "Defying" function, without displaying any other image by accessing the link "Follow Me", often awaking an uprising in the interlocutor and yet, despite all this, he is won over, this equates to a leap into the void from a height that doesn't "break your legs" upon impact.

On the contrary, sometimes it transforms you into a superior man, confident and endowed with many gifts from God. You must be an exceptional case.

To arouse the revolt of those around you is to show that you possess an ability that no one else has, and that this ability works at full capacity without imposing certain measures on it and without being affected by any selfish passion.

The Two Protrusions Of Leadership are represented by two distinct types of personality: one that awakens an uprising in those around and one that perfectly knows its value, its relationship with those around stemming from this premise that has become an objective fact.

The Two Sides Of The Soul

On December 01, 2010

Shape your soul carefully by polishing the good side of you and not letting the dark to intervene.

In the famous book "Secrets of Success" the writer Dale Carnegie tells a story about Abraham Lincoln's life.

On the night of July 4, 1763, during the Battle of Gettysburg, General Lee and his defeated army began withdrawing to the south under a torrential rain. Once they were stuck in the Potomac River because that came out of bed and could not be crossed. Lee was caught in the trap.

Abraham Lincoln understood perfectly. This was the great and unique opportunity that he had waited so long, to capture Lee's army and to end the war. Hopefully, he ordered General George Gordon Meade, the man of his hope, to attack Lee immediately. However, Meade did exactly the opposite: he was reluctant, postponed, refused to attack Lee, finding all sorts of excuses, and finally the waters receded, and Lee, with the rest of his army managed to cross the Potomac.

Ablaze with anger, very disappointed because Meade had not the courage to apply the coup de grace to Lee, to finally defeat him, although he had in hand, Lincoln wrote this letter to Meade:

"I do not think that you are aware of the disaster's consequences of Lee's escape. We had him in hands and his capture, coupled with our recent victories, would have ended the war. In terms of the present the conflict will be extended for an indefinite term. If you have not been able to attack Lee last Monday, when you were not exposed to risks, how could you do this trick in the south of the river where you cannot carry only a small part - no more than two thirds - of the forces that you disposed then? It would not be wise to pretend, and I will not pretend that you will have success this time. You have wasted your opportunity, and this failure strongly marked me."

Leadership: Can you direct your thoughts to the feelings you experience in moments of hardship, so as to attract the events you will experience in a context of the type "character landmark"?

The great Argentine writer Jorge Luis Borges once said a great truth: "What we say is not always like us." General Meade had never seen this letter because apparently Lincoln never sent it. The letter was found among his papers after death.

Perhaps, before sending the letter, Lincoln looked in the mirror, placed face to face with himself, what he really was, with his own feelings and values, and had thought carefully if it is good or not to say everything he had on his mind.

Putting himself for a moment in the place of General Meade, watching the things from his perspective – of a shy man who had been through so many battles, and that had seen so much death before his eyes, whose eardrums had been pierced by screams and bellows of the wounded and dying – and truly listening to his heart, Lincoln finally decided not to relieve his anger, keeping the letter in his office.

For a moment Lincoln had seen the two hidden sides of his soul: good and bad. He could harshly judge Meade after his exploits, and admonish him, wounding his feelings - which would oblige him to leave the army. Even so, Lincoln being gifted with a great empathetic power, he took into account more the good part of his soul, considering the feelings of his General.

Lincoln managed to reveal his angels and demons in the mirror - the good side and dark side of his soul. However, he did not allow his negative side to affect the proper functioning of his leadership. There is an interval between stimulus and response, and the key to an effective leadership is how we use that time, and if we opt for the right decision.

Leadership: Do you have the courage to give up on any attempt to defeat your impulses without distorting the image of clarity with which you perceive your mistakes in the hostile space of regrets?

Do you devote yourself strongly to remedy the defects of your character that does not let people to evolve towards being new models to follow?

If you are a very good leader, then you commit wholeheartedly to remedy the defects of your character. Just as a sculptor self-possessed with a strong passion shape his creative figure with subtle gestures, calculated, highly possessed, and stops finishing every detail, so you have to shape your own soul carefully listening to your inner voice, with great patience, "polishing" the good side of you and not letting it interfere with the dark one. Never let negative emotions to gain ground in front of your own consciousness.

You think you know everything about people? You are wrong if you think so. In fact, you may not know anything about them. Moreover, if you want with all your heart, and if you have enough patience, you will be able to look the things from their perspective. And this is the first thing you must do for your leadership to work better: to change your attitude and thinking, analyzing any situation through the prism of others.

There will be a permanent state of lurking between you and the people around you. And if you are like those harsh leaders who, with a sort of mischievous satisfaction, discharge their anger on each person who fails to execute their orders with holiness, you will be put in a pretty bad light. Open your heart before you judge people by their deeds, before jolting their confidence. There must be a trace of kindness and empathy in you, is not it?

In leadership, we discover an unpredictable abundance of situations in which the deformation or oversimplification of a fragment of man's character that challenges the backbone of the obligation to be the main witness to the drama of his own isolation or alienation.

The two sides of the soul are, in essence, related to your inner aspect, invisible to others, but at a moment comes to light. They are the coordinates that define you as a person, respectively as a leader that describe your character, your beautiful and dark features, and contribute to your success in the medium and long term. However, the two sides of your soul will always fight; one will struggle to understand other people's feelings, the other one to ignore them. Your dominant traits will be those that will influence the decisions that you will make.

Conclusion: It is said that all we are made from a Ying and a Yang component which should always be in balance. Even so, there are times when one of them is dominant. If we let ourselves dominated by one of them, we risk failing in our decisions.

Permanently make the effort to know the two parts of your soul, especially those related to negative aspects to correct them because they can sometimes lead to catastrophic decisions. Remember that the best leaders are wholeheartedly committed to remedy the defects related to their character.

The Ultimate Level Of Leadership

On February 10, 2014

Hold on to what you really are to create a work that is a brilliant crowning of an unparalleled destiny.

Writer Mihail Sebastian, a defender of good taste, could have written a study of Proust's work if the dice had not fallen so tragically. For closing the volume of Correspondence, he says these painful words to us today: "We can only separate ourselves from his books and his memory with the feeling that this separation is fleeting and that one day, not too far away, we will find them again."

Mihail Sebastian will not find them. But here, in this volume, "Marcel Proust's correspondence", we will find Mihail Sebastian in every line in which he naturally relives and with all the valences of the soul the present subtlety of the processes of consciousness, so undulating, with echoes so durable, disturbing, the intellectual and moral climate of the letters of such great Proustian essence.

His focus on letters, their passionate pursuit, was the fruit of a natural inclination, of the conviction that here, in these confessions, in these random, direct notations, will find the elements of reconstruction of the most discussed creation process, that only their interpretation can make the image of a passionate personality whole again in the minds of readers.

Professor Al. Rosetti wrote about Mihail Sebastian: "The sharpness of his critical judgment in the study of Marcel Proust's correspondence justified the hope that he would become a world-renowned critic. Written in French, the above work would have enjoyed adhesion of an international public. In this intention of Sebastian to overcome the tight circle of readers and to step into the international arena by treating subjects of general interest was a fair appreciation of his own forces. His work was a brilliant preface for a rich future activity.

Leadership: Do you allow yourself to be enchanted by the vital torment of the life you imagine only as a training for professional victory, without taking into account the degree of spiritual strength that you have to endure under the pressure of an originality whose name is clearly outlined?

Does an intense remorse give you the strength to engage in a self-overcoming? Are you caught by a strong pressure coming from outside your comfort area? Do you seem besieged by an immense desire to rise above yourself? Does what lies hidden in you resurface more and more in the others?

The only remorse of an artist is to not be rewarded with the creative efforts that have changed the coordinates of a certain vision. As a remedy: to direct the attention and the activity of the spirit in another direction, to place pride in its defeat, which would mean losing any motivation to do something. The name of originality that defines an artist, bringing an unusual contribution to his type of activity, can be outlined only by an exceptional career that includes numerous awards and distinctions, by virtue of an immeasurable importance.

The difficult problem of falling in the nothingness, if I can call it that way, appears when man slips towards one of the extremes of "being" and stubbornly denies his individuality. When it seems to him that he has given enough and hasn't received enough. Or the other way around, when he doesn't give enough, but thinks that everything is theirs. These extremes need a different kind of analysis, a quality one in comparison with leadership.

If man is subject to a certain moral, emotional or material pressure that doesn't give him the strength to engage in a self-overcoming, probably this happens because of the circumstances and burdens he comes across in time. But it's due to a certain way of others to react, framing it in a category of the bizarre, because of a profound lack of understanding.

I am of opinion that the thing which fundamentally and undoubtedly influences the thinking of a man who awaits only a little help in order to "be reborn", are the improper reactions in relation with his needs and aspirations.

Leadership: Can you enter the consciousness of a human being when nothing else can help it feel the motivation of an inspiring vision, provided you keep at bay your disinterest to reaching an ideal?

Entering the consciousness of a human being when nothing else can help it feel the motivation of an inspiring vision is to put yourself in its place and to feel the cause of a spiritual and moral state in the perspective of a path that does not exist. Or it means to pretend to row in the same direction and you're really in the same boat with someone, without sacrificing comfort over long distances. It means embracing only the idea of success without taking into account the failure of a certain action due to factors that you cannot control.

You can't get anywhere through discouragement, rejoicing in the interests and pretensions of a petty world centered on the "dog-eat-dog world" principle. Be prepared at all times to recognize the successes of your fellow man as constants in elating their vision, values, approaches and mission. Learn to cultivate exactly the opposite idea of what he was conditioned to believe about himself, about life, about success. Remember that man can create a new life starting with the change of thought and beliefs that block him.

The beliefs that block an artist from affirming himself his are tied to the interpretation of events from which he has more to lose than win, because everything he cherishes most can always be taken away through a premature death.

Beliefs such as "trust no one" or "I have to please everyone" or "if you express what you feel you are vulnerable", as well as self-imposed limits, are present in any situation where stress and pain takes possession of an artist. His life is like a journey full of bumps and no return, whose destination might be found out much too late. It would say that his destiny is like a work of art: you can only appreciate its true value when he is gone.

Achieving a guiding life ideal neighbors to the idea of contributing to a creative force whose energy is profitable to everyone through the expressiveness of an original thinking that boasts the fact that "he experienced everything he said".

There is a sort of law of action, change and strife that takes over man's infinite inner world, which can facilitate its entrance in a normal operation rhythm. And this law, with such a simple concept at its base: "Better than being someone else, be yourself", consolidates the idea that the absence of any interior conflicts is the essential condition for acceding to excellence. Of course, the leader and his team bring an essential contribution to this mentality change.

I clearly recall a useful quote in this equation of man, which contains many unknowns:

"Nothing happens until the person who feels the impulse doesn't initiate the process."

Leadership isn't based on predefined rules and principles, more likely it uses judgment and understanding ideals of the man behind the rules and principles which govern him in his relationship with the others.

Leadership has to track those fundamentally significant characteristics of man, to perceive his weak and strong points, to classify them according to multiple criteria and finally, to initiate his transformation process, giving him the impulse to engage in a self-overcoming – beneficial to everyone else and to himself.

Leadership: Do you bring to a common denominator the real elements that can encourage the establishment of extended relationships towards the tendency to be the defender of an artistic destiny that is somewhat unusual?

Everyone admires a good writer, dedicates many moments of meditation to them, and even shares the purpose of their quests. But no one ventured to trample the same existential thresholds. One is to be a writer, another is to want to be a writer, and something else is to write about a writer instead of giving explanations about your life.

What is hidden in yourself can be seen more and more in those people that come to understand you very well. Of course, this is allowed only when the principle: "Who resembles, gathers." is working. Neglecting that raised side of the bridge that keeps together all the elements that are apparently dispersed between yourself and the others, you will never succeed to bring to a common denominator the true elements that can encourage the relationship formation with them.

Does the thought that you must share the faith to succeed palpitate relentlessly in you? While you shake because of anger to this thought, those around you shake because of doubt?

This aspect, worthy of taking into account, represent only a tradition that often hunts society and that doesn't prompt to participation, but to submissal and conformity. Then the consistency of leadership depends on the evolutionary form of the partnership that unites the two foundations with support function, configured according to each one's capacities to "protect" the latter.

So, in this case, the consistency of leadership is more likely internal and psychological, than technic or strategic in nature. It conditions the openness of man towards a new way of being that leads him to accomplishment and fulfillment, thus chasing away that feeling of entrapment, of remorse that limits his thinking and stops his transformation.

To be a defender of an artistic destiny that is somewhat unusual means to fill the cup of a genius mind with the dream of an endless happiness, often called: "Immortality".

The Ultimate Level Of Leadership is the value of the contribution made to the creation of a great destiny, which, even if it outlines its purpose prematurely, even if it is written only a few times, assumes a long history. Every great artist symbolizes the novel of a history that lives on through memories, love and a respectful admiration for "what once was".

The Umbrella Is No Longer An Umbrella

On December 17, 2014

Increase your ability of assessing the fair value of an asset, focusing primarily on its share of use.

"Think of a word that refers to one thing – "umbrella" – for example. When you say the word "umbrella", you already see the object with your mind's eye. You see a sort of stick that has on top of it folding metal stretchers forming an armature for laying a waterproof material which, once opened, will protect you from the rain. This last detail is very important. The umbrella is not only an object, but is something the fulfills a function – in other words, it serves a purpose.

The question is as follows: what happens when an object no longer fulfills its function? Does it continue to be the same object or does it transform into something else? When you yank the material from the umbrella, is that umbrella still an umbrella? You open it, raise the stretchers above your head, go out in the rain and get soaked. It is possible to still call this object an umbrella?

*In general, people do so. At most, they say the umbrella is broken. From my point of view, this is a serious mistake, the source of all of our problems. The moment it ceased to serve its initial purpose, the umbrella is no longer an umbrella. It might resemble an umbrella, it might've been an umbrella once, but now it has transformed into something else." **

Leadership: Do you make the distinction between the importance of the entire skeleton on which the components of a model of consumption are supported upon and the approach of deforming this model?

Prior to organizing leadership in a new direction of propagating thought, by exploiting information coming from various sources, you must learn to extend your knowledge about things. This knowledge, beyond common understanding the need to personalize the experiences of innovation, that of separating the "active" from the "passive", or of separating an indicator resources from a consumable resource.

To make the distinction between the importance of the entire skeleton on which the components of a model of consumption are supported upon and the approach of deforming this model, modifying the perception of its value, is the approach that enters the category of qualitative growth of your performance as a good evaluator. A leader evaluates the degree of utility of the resources that can assure the quality of a new approach and the possible modifications that these will bring to a context established by the chiseling of perspectives and directing ideas.

It is the approach you must take into account when assessing the dimension of the "consuming" phenomenon, based on the transformation of resources for the necessity of identifying other resources. A sort of screening for the value added or reduced, obtained on every niche segment you develop, defined by the interleaving of its functions of division and modeling. These functions are useful in order to increase productivity in the exploitation of the practical implications of the chosen vision.

Leadership is a projection of the object from which a wider picture resides on the desires, needs and beliefs of consumers. It can also involve discovering how the market works.

Leadership: Does the object to which you relate your goals meet the core function of selecting a knowledge model to transform a "consumer" experience into a "creator" experience?

The model of consumption represents a resource required to be used for the production of ideas and the transformation of ides in innovations useful in the future, having an important contribution for replacing old patterns of thinking and limitative beliefs. The capacity of analysis and synthesis you must prove is a key competence in leadership, as in all other fields that have as an objective the development or improvement of a system of thought.

So, you should not ignore the consequences of the deformation of resources that no longer serve as "value". They become a reference factor of analysis of comparative aspects in the attempt of appropriating as efficiently as possible the request of interpretation and extrapolation of particular conclusions. These conclusions, objectifying themselves in the elaboration of theories, concepts, doctrines, principles, lead to the development of the practiced field through an operation of thinking that puts things in a different perspective.

The initiative of achieving a foundation from what you can best gain value from, aims to know the share of using the content of resources outside the field of utility of your approaches. Only by focusing on their characteristics, on their specific means of transformation, will you be able to increase your capacity for analysis and synthesis.

Seeing an object with the eyes of the mind is a "creative" experience that leads to the shaping of distinct approaches that belong to different psychological, artistic, cultural, educational, determinative orientations, so there are a multitude of combinations attributed to the representation of an autonomous personality.

The Umbrella Is No Longer An Umbrella suggests that dissociation between concrete aspects and abstract generalities, between the aspects of form and content of the same resource – exploited to create new value. It is a dissociation between the similarities and differences of the same entity of reference, which delimitates the coordinates of a model of thought and creation – specific for the entrepreneurs who know how to manage the power of identifying and increasing the material value of things.

The Unfinished Projects Of The Art Creator

Broaden the framework of personal experience beyond its limits, guaranteeing the continuation of the transformation process of the studied matter and of the creation that your science greets.

Serghei Eisenstein's second project, a film about Moscow is, judging by the kept sketches and notes, an epic about the city's development. This project is the first reflection over the concerns inhibited by their failure, from the unfinished film "Que viva Mexico ! ". Actually, this theme will return many times, concerning other projects, until the end of his life. The compositional ideas of the Mexican film remain an obsession in the creative activity of the director, always reborn in other shapes, but unfortunately without ever reaching realization.

In terms of epic, it was a film project about the history of Moscow and of a Moscow proletarian. His face changes from epoch to epoch, he had to pass through the film as a descendant of every generation, but also as a unique character, who opens up the framework of his personal biography, that of his family, of a generation and of class beyond its limits.

*Compositionally, the director was supposed to represent a new aspect, originally of the wondering Jew, of the figure of one who, with his steps through space and time, often won over our imagination and fantasy. But this project too is rejected by Sumiatki, and Eisenstein will resume it only after 12 years, in 1946. With regard to the ambitious projects of this genius, most remained in the draft stage, and nothing more.

Leadership: Do you encounter a well-organized resistance from a compromising version of your own individuality, in correspondence with the persistence of an obsession in the creative activity that dominates the size of your role?

To interact with your real identity, consciously imposing your model of thinking in the structure of what you want to achieve, with the firm will with which you intend to conquer a superior science, is equivalent to treating the symptoms of a disease, without removing its causes. Because the man who is seconded by his work of creation in the process of expanding his intellectual capacities will always have to confront a mysterious enemy, a well-organized resistance from a compromising version of his own identity which is inconsistent with performance standards.

This enemy is the lack of coherence in the activity of creation, the inability to process and capitalize on those innovative elements that support the field you represent. It is in fact an interruption of the continuity of the process of turning the studied matter into a source of personal and professional fulfillment.

If you want to translate your directorial aspirations into a character's vision, first learn to play a big role: to unfold the frame of your personal biography beyond its limits, that is, try to highlight your obsession for presenting a supreme reality in which the distinction between possible, virtual and real works. But, thus, the version of your own reality becomes compromising for the truthfulness of your way of seeing the world, of your way of being, thinking and acting through the gears of otherness.

Oftentimes, good ideals are wasted as memories of a childhood long gone. What remains in their stead is much too rocky, much too shallow, or much too poor to support the production of new models of leadership.

Transforming the continuity of scientific material in a discontinuation of thinking's function of communication in terms of professional achievements has the consequence of entering a waiting area that makes the transition to a poor recognition of your creative and adaptive potential.

Leadership: Are you determined to follow your obsession with the performance of artistic creation given by the result of the association between "similarity" and "contrast", in order to achieve a precise purpose in outlining a unique identity?

The development versions of the leader, oscillating between glory and solitude, between honors and poverty, between vanity and inconstancy, drift away more and more from what he is capable of realizing. This in case the compositional ideas of his creation don't always get reborn into other forms, in order to obtain a precise finality or a new product of improving performance.

Compositionally, leadership can represent new aspects of integrating personal experience, in the context of renewal and launch trends of a creation that can achieve a perfect harmony between the necessary and the qualitative, between science and practice, between a traditionalist thinking and a modern one. This can be expressed through a comparison in question: "Does a bottle you cast in to the water stay still or does it drift to other areas?"

What you believe through the very fact of knowledge doesn't necessarily have a fixed weight that raises the value of leadership. But if research work stagnates, then you cannot surpass yourself and therefore you drift away more and more from what you could become.

As for the result of the artistic creation of a director, one would say that sometimes it is the result of the association between "resemblance" and "contrast", because what it highlights is a revelation of the truth of his life seen from the perspective of a character with whom he normally could not cohabitate. Can you imagine Francis Ford Coppola producing a Romanian film titled "Mihai Viteazu"? Or can you imagine Sergei Eisenstein producing an epic American space-opera like "Star Wars"?

What you manage to achieve by adopting a constructive thinking and through perseverance, can have an amplifying effect on awareness of self-worth and uniqueness. Or it can have a dimming of vision effect found in full development and redirect it towards a small area of reception, if it doesn't materialize into something palpable. In a well thought out construction of the type "Change Request" that facilitates the solid chaining of all those innovative elements that raise the value of leadership.

The shaping of a unique identity, as a significant factor for the impact of artistic creation, must provide "a reminder" of the steps through space and time passed with ease by a character on the way from reality to ideal, and from ideal to concrete.

The Unfinished Projects Of The Art Creator aim at the permanent search of improving self-potential for creation, which aren't capitalized upon though. An obsession in the creative activity can always be reborn in other forms, but if it doesn't reach materialization it means you've reached that point of capping in which leadership cannot reinvent itself.

Through a creative and constructive thinking, you can reach those performances with the help of which a work that is sustainable over time can be achieved. What you have begun could suffer from temporary interruptions, but it can always be continued and enhanced in another form. And only this continuation after reaching a critical point, only this exercise of will taken to obstinacy, can turn you into a winner.

The Law Of The Unfriendly Environment

Do not try to prove your skill in a place that does not fulfill your experience of saying "I do not agree with this situation".

Having arrived to the city of Lübeck, Mikael Karvajalka, who in the meantime had changed his name into Mikael Pelzfuss - doctor illustrissimus, without asking for a permit from the City Hall to practice medicine, he resorted to a messenger's help in order to spread the word all over the city that he can cure all sorts of sufferings, even the ones doctors in Lübeck cannot cure.

But the doctors in town were not at all gladdened by the news that a stranger could cure all the sick people. Suspecting him of disloyal intentions, they called him to the City Hall, before the councilmen, to account for trespassing the law. Mikael told them about his academic studies, about the countries he had visited, as well as the fact he had been the apprentice of the illustrious doctor Theophrastus Paracelsus. The local doctors disbelieved him and they all claimed in one voice that he was too young to have finished his studies, let alone the fact that he would have been the apprentice of that famous doctor. And, therefore, they challenged him to a dialect controversy in Latin which, however, didn't predict anything good for him.

Mikael, addressing the town councilors, said:

- The fundament of medicine is not Latin, but the science of going off the sufferings of sick people and curing them. I'm ready to measure my talent in medicine with everyone around here. Let me see and treat a patient who was declared incurable by other doctors and you'll ascertain of my craft.

Leadership: Does your abundance of knowledge give you the freedom to personalize your vision of how you build yourself as a subject of alienation from spirituality that illuminates the depths of a pure consciousness?

Although the town councilors swung in his favor, the city doctors jumped down at his throat, accusing him of cheatery and imposture:

- Shall you appreciate so little the fair inhabitants of our town that you couldn't care less if they fell into the hands of a charlatan? Sometimes, truth to say, even charlatans manage to go off the sufferings of a hard to cure patient by diabolical means, but this healing is just transitory. We wonder lest this man is a heretic and a necromancer.

The verdict was pronounced against Mikael, who was banned to practice medicine in Lübeck. Thus, the city doctors were given the case against Mikael, and he whose fame ran out, eventually had to leave that ungrateful town. He realized that all his knowledge does not get along with those unbelieving spirits in the vision of a new dimension of thinking and that the whole spirituality that illuminates the depths of a pure consciousness is always denied when it comes to individual affirmation, that is, without propaganda, without opulence, without value selection.

Leadership: What significance do you give to your journey if you make a comparison between what you encounter with a presence of others' intentions to defame you and the form of denial of a destiny that seemed to be drawn before?

He happened to be in an unfriendly environment which didn't encourage professionalism. Mikael Karvajalka was a very good doctor, school-bred and well-educated, had no personal interests and ambitions to measure with others', he didn't groan for honors, wealth or some public gratitude. But, having a remarkable practical experience, which served him in many difficult circumstances, he came in between the ill ones, offering them very effective natural treatments. He did it whole-heartedly and, while he didn't insist on payment, there was no law to keep him from healing ill people, nor the patients were forbidden to offer him gifts, should they choose to.

But the doctors in Lübeck, who were nothing but a cluster of theoreticians, but defective practicians, and rather hungering for money, lest they would shame themselves, or a stranger would succeed in healing those presumably incurable patients, or the competition would steal their practice, they accused him of all sorts of falsehoods.

Mikael, being new in town, not knowing anybody, lacking support, didn't insist on changing the doctor's and councilmen's decision. But, instead, he chose to leave town, being convinced of the fact that his chances of practicing his trade there were minimum. Could it be that he made a mistake? What if he had fought for his rights in a place where nobody knew him, where he had no ally and everybody was against him? And then, during Inquisition, interfering with the authorities was seen as a huge mistake.

Like a boat wandering in the blow, by night, in the middle of the whirling sea, Mikael risked losing himself in its whirlpools. But, being cautious by nature, having a clear and solid vision of reality, he chooses the most appropriate way in this situation: to leave the city of Lübeck. He was undoubtedly not in the right place. He couldn't grow in an absolutely unfriendly environment.

Mikael Karvajalka's journey can have only one significance: he proves how much the relations between moral duty, authority and deontology have degraded, and how much the links between the evolution of society and the rationality of an efficient understanding have been weakened. His destiny in that part of the world seems to have been drawn up and questioned: to secretly assume the obligation to put into practice the accumulated knowledge or to take on the task of managing conflicts of interest to the detriment of his performance.

Leadership: Are you trying to find yourself beyond the noisy background of a destiny that turns you into an outlaw, taking into account the overall image of what it means to be "social"?

Nobody can fulfill his activities in an unfriendly environment, but only in a stable, healthy, and profitable one. That's why you need to know who you are and they way people see you before wandering into a new environment. It's best to know yourself, as well as everybody around you, being aware of the fact that if you are much better than them, more crafty and efficient, there's a fair chance of meeting with difficulties. When you enter a new environment, someone else may happen to have to leave, someone weaker than you. And since, especially on a time of crisis, nobody wants to be removed from any position, you can be sure you will lie under others' displeasure.

In order to practice within a company, you need the others' consent. Just like a football player, you wouldn't be able to play extraordinarily without knowing very well your team mates, without them knowing you as well, without you getting along with them and knowing fairly well every bit of the ground. You must look into the mirror, find out who you are, the way others see you and then measure your real chances of success. If chances are low, then you must change your team. Before accepting to remain in an environment the values of which don't match yours and where your initiatives aren't appreciated, you better straighten towards another environment.

Just like seeds only shoot forth and grow tillers in a favorable environment, you will also depend on the collective you become a part of. If you are not accepted, even if you are a far better professional than the others you will suffer. If you see that any of your struggles becomes useless because of the unfriendly environment, you must change the collective and hold your ground somewhere else.

The overall picture of what it means to be "social" captures that combination of your soul and intellectual qualities, abilities and powers that appeals to the public, but which must always be protected by the variable factor of success: "People will never love you for what they cannot see in themselves."

Leadership is the central argument that supports the idea of a bottom-up understanding of what it means to "know" something more than other people, when knowledge requirements are used as criteria of superiority at a time of major importance.

This argument can be formulated as follows: "If people think you are willing to get involved and move on from what they expect from you, it means that you will never be dependent on them, and they will feel increasingly threatened regarding the quality and continuity of their activity.

The Law Of The Unfriendly Environment is valid only in case of those who arrive in an inappropriate place to practice their profession, or when they can be degraded not so much because of the hidden interests of the persons with public dignity functions, but because of that sharp envy for the talent and skill shown by a true professional in a field.

The Unity Of Leadership

You are the creator of your own destiny when you understand that what you can become depends on what you are able to ask of others.

Steven Spielberg once dreamed of making a movie. He had the script, but not the producer to finance it. One day, while walking on the beach, he "accidentally" met a rich man willing to invest in a young director. With the money he received from this producer (a stranger he had never seen before), Spielberg was able to film Amblin, a film production that received an honorable mention at the Venice Film Festival, drawing his attention to Hollywood.

This little story, which we found in the book "How to Think Like a Millionaire", written by Mark Fisher, shows us that those who become leaders, first of all, know how to stand out. Leaders also know how to observe the power of a brand in search, which is actually the result of their thinking completed through an ambitious project. And you, in order to become a leader, must know how to quickly observe the point in which a man finds one's self, guiding him to the next level of his career.

Leadership is your chance to get noticed by an idea that no one would normally consider, but which under certain conditions could be a gold mine.

And the unitary whole of leadership best expresses the result of the impact you have on the lives of other people. You connect with people through what you are, through your being, through what motivates you, through your efforts to relate to them, seeking to clarify and solve common problems. Sometimes you will be able to shake beliefs, to make even the most refractory spirits think about the message you are trying to convey, to the idea that everything that means man assumes, first of all, humanity.

Leadership is a set of technical, strategic elements, but also with a strong load of specific human feelings. It cannot be divided or separated into its constituent components, but is rather a unitary whole.

Leadership: Can you keep your mind open to the opportunity to be someone else, but only by conforming to the rational nature of being yourself in a continuity that excludes any manifestation of the contradiction between the "current situation" and the "proposed purpose"?

I said in one of my blog posts: "What the unity of leadership is consisted of is not the composition of values and virtues contained in it, but the masterful way in which the leader, destined to attest his coefficient of nobility, manages them. Just as in a novel, the specifics of the characters, their character, emerge from the particular signs that their author observes – so too do the particular character traits of the leader, which prevents him from enjoying the good he could have offered to others, regaining and thus self-esteem emerge from his own self-observation."

And for your leadership to have a greater impact, you need to operate on people and society. As a leader, you must be able to convey to the people, in an extremely convincing and mobilizing way, an urge to unite, to mobilize when the situation is serious. Calls for understanding have a great advantage: they encourage people to get more involved in community life and to work harder to do so.

What impact does your leadership have on other people? Are you able to give people an urge to unite? How do you encourage people to get involved in professional activities? Do you focus only on the annoying weaknesses of people? Do you stimulate the mediocrity in which people "wander", or do you stimulate their growth? How exactly?

The way you relate to the people around you, to their needs, always accepting your share of responsibility, matters as much as the number of vitamins and minerals that a high-performance athlete must assimilate in order to grow muscle mass, or a sick man to recover. Don't think about endowing people around you, or mentoring them, or being a hopeful helper, without first establishing a compatibility between you and them. No training in this world, no compromise, no influence will make you the kind of leader other people want if you have no calling and no desire to serve them.

Leadership: How do you prioritize the change of those around you so that you represent your actual experience as a circumstantial interest in a mirroring effect in history that has become a part of you?

Tendencies to overestimate yourself do not give you stability in your relationships with other people. What elevates you to the level of a leader, to the level of a man with an important influence, is the ability and the way you relate to people. Are you ready to select the best quality people, to equip them with everything they need to be long-term performers? Being a performer means combining leadership with your own character, it means combining knowledge with the personality that defines you – for your own benefit, but also for the benefit of other people.

Performer is the man who, not subject to foreign influences, ignites the light of hope and joy in people's souls, through his power to change their perceptions – helping them to achieve concrete results in the field of personal development.

The performer identifies the endowment needs of the people around him, selects their most important qualities that are necessary to change their status, character, personality.

A performer is the leader who promotes the change of those around him by his very nature, by his way of being, by his ideology, isolating or neutralizing any non-integrable element in the architecture of their own being.

The leader is the man who can perform by polishing the matter of which the human being is composed. He is the one who manages to remove the dark spots of thinking, understanding and feeling – unprofitable – from the multitude of Egos, treating them with wise decisions and new guidelines of the highest quality.

Leadership means making the change you fear most, with the direct consent of the ambition to belong to no one but your own personality.

The Unity Of Leadership is made up of two elements: the ability to stand out and your ability to perform at your best. Are the people you help really an effect of your mirroring in history?

How do you favor the change of those around you? What makes you feel fulfilled? Do you spend 80% of your time doing the thing that requires the most skill? How do you equip your own being to complete your leadership? What can turn you into the leader others want you to be? Remember what leadership expert John Maxwell once said: "No matter how great the player is, if he can't play a team game, he will never help the organization."

Tip: Adjust your leadership skills to make it easier for you to promote your highest values.

The Universe Of A Writer Lost In The World Of Art

On February 14, 2019

A beautiful painting can recall the life of a man, thus creating in the soul of the viewer the spark of a momentary illumination.

Every time I write I imagine myself having a discussion with a painter willing to revolutionize the most authentic forms of art manifestation, pendulating between "once" and the fabulous "once upon a time", which frees me from the obligation of a social description of any way particular way of life.

Perfection is a similarity between two beings, a coincidence of names and perhaps of destiny that could prove providential within a time that flows slowly, beyond the narrative borders. The imagined discussions help to practice the representations from concrete to abstract. Therefore, when I illustrate the experience of life from another perspective, from another being, I feel that such a feeling of flowing matter to the spirit is so poignant, a perfection determined by an accumulation of effects, that everything starts to vibrate to the dimension sensible from the depth of the psychology of a parallel existential experience.

From an aesthetic point of view, my destiny seems to linearly cross the calling of a superior thinking to the authenticity of an experimental science in the immediate vicinity of a beautiful artistic reality, in the idea of optimizing the relationship between the painter and the revelation of a captivating reading. From the solemn testimony of the inspiration they produce, imagining that the state of beatitude that the painter must feel when shaping a painting to reproduce the specific of a living mind, I extract my ideas and visions the way colors mix: by successively coloring the same area.

When you try to render a sense through color, you are tempted to approach a world "pushed" towards spiritualization, as an expression of poetic language, as an alternative to the possibility of passing the being into another making, in another form, into another unit of space/time.

Which is not unimportant, for he who manages to focus in one central place a whole series of shades, suggesting more than a psychology of visual manipulation, may be worthy to lay beside the great trends of painting. If I were to create a new theory or a new concept of art, in which color comes to life through the emotions of a very tight duel with a time that does not die, I would probably be tempted to resume myself as to the space of a total meaning of the theme called "the alibi of a symbolic expression".

Art has always integrated spirituality into the space of manifestation of creativity by launching a call to a symbolic form of enlightenment in human wisdom and knowledge that tests the painter's ability to rebuild reality, create an aspect that becomes one with the other, assuming unity with the source of any creation in a certain period of time.

Arguments are thinner in the absence of criteria of belonging to the bookish style. For this reason, the clarity of my compositions denotes a partial combination of colors, associated with emotions, sensations, thoughts, all exploited through different ways of looking at the world with the help of visible brush traits, even with an aggressive mark of protest against modern literary trends.

Finally, in such a wide range of combinations of meanings, alternations of points of view, themes, influences, visual images, an aesthetic balance is required: the interiorization of a continuously flowing speech, and less the image of a lingering language that languishes in a condemnable apathy. After all, what conversations with Rafael or Dürer have taught me other than the fact that I have to foresee the limits of my own talent before I veneer with the aura of a genius a reality that is difficult to justify.

Leadership: Can you turn your life into a perspective of depth on a corpus of writings based on key images, from the point of view of the structure of a series of thoughts that instinctively exteriorize in a painting from which you cannot look away?

The talent of relaying a conversation in a single word combination, or even in a single word like "Variety" meant to express the necessity of the art of recreation, acquires the properties of a painting that presents the permanent place of meeting the spirit with the material, of self-revelation with the rejection of the teaching element full of authority.

Thinking creates the premises for an authentic experience of artistic education. Perhaps I intend to transform art into an exercise-game of writing a text based on the key-images of a form of clairvoyance with a title like "Thoughts to myself". But even this requires a certain correlation between mystic and aesthetic, between the actions of the characters in which I transpose and the expressiveness of their faces.

To be honest, I do not know whether everything I experience in words, in the splendid reflections of some outstanding personalities, is in tune with the resorts of an adhesion to the constituting of an "Art Nouveau" or with the onset of dramatic unraveling from the yoke of early intellectual education, deformed by every object of modernity.

But surely, the essential form of creation that I assume has the dimension of a story written by many authors, has the function of anticipating a virtual world, its ideals of beauty and perfection. And this is called a fusion of aesthetic content with the virtue of a "bookish apriorism".

Leadership: Can you turn the sincerity of an artistic confession into an echo of the inward urge to be present in a world seemingly deciphered only by its image reflected in a mirror?

Recently, in a book by writer Mary Balogh, I have joyfully discovered a conversation between Camiles and Art Professor Joel Cunningham:

"I will not paint you with an affected smile on your face or holding a fan that has no other role that a decorative one. I will not put a puppy like a toy in your lap to awaken the feelings of the viewer. I will not paint you with dead eyes and an unnatural perfection of your features and complexion. But I will paint you as I would see myself in a magical mirror that fulfills my most ardent wish."

A beautiful painting is less reminiscent of the artist's life, as much as that rare tenderness of the model of beauty that enriches its reality, without distorting the original, thus giving birth in the soul of the viewer to the spark of a momentary illumination. It can be completed not only by adding more or less bright details, but by adding a well-positioned mirror that increases the likelihood of creating an alterity.

The full triumph of art is to become the character portrayed in a painting that intersects facts and events in different times and places. The painter in me still wonders: up to which point can I extend the discussion about art so that the text gets aesthetic valences?

However, a painting can trigger a pun (analogies, metaphors, personifications, hyperboles) extracted from a kaleidoscope of colors formed by alternating vibrating tones with neutral ones, so you risk no longer being able to tell the difference between what you feel and what you express in the very undertaking of the act of creation.

If I should give a definition of painting to the art representation of a constantly remodeling brain, I would say that it is the sublime way of giving life to a reality whose image can be my reflection in a mirror, my emotion sketched in a text of great narrative force, or the thought of a warmth of soul swirling through symbolic expression.

The improvisation that stimulates creativity in the service of art is the mirror of an experience of alterity that makes you feel fabulous in a writer's vision of himself.

The Universe Of A Writer Lost In The World Of Art encompasses all the ways to investigate and approach a theme of artistic interest by reference to the elements of constructing a visible text in the relationship between momentary inspiration and the revelation of a hidden reality perceived only through the perspective of imagination.

The universe of an artist who feeds on the euphoria of creation

Broaden your horizons of perception of existential reality by pointing to the merit of questioning the subtleties of sensitive thinking, specific to artists who know the way in which symbolic mechanisms work.

I very much enjoyed reading Victor Ieronim Stoichiță not only because of his talent of presenting the great masterpieces of pictorial art, but for the merit of questioning the subtleties of sensitive thoughts, specific to artists who know the workings of symbolic mechanisms. For example, in his book "How to enjoy a painting", we are moved by the possibility of enjoying several paintings through the background intelligence of an expression able to substantially streamline communication even with those without practical exercise of art.

But first of all, we are introduced into a universe of perceptions of belonging and interconnection to a universe that is vibrant, full of personality and expressive force. Take for example a passage from his wonderful work about art, with reference to a page of history:

"On a famous page of the Hall of 1767, Diderot exclaims in front of an anticipating picture of the future painter of the Louvre:

In what enormous obscure and mute depth will my eye wander now? At what prodigious distance is sent the piece of sky that I glimpse through this opening ! The amazing degradation of light ! How it diminishes while lowering itself from the top of the sky, along the columns ! How the shadows are pushed by the light of day from the entrance up to the exit ! You never grow tired of seeing it. The ideas the ruins awake in me are tremendous. Everything disappears, everything is lost, everything passes, only the world remains, only time endures. How old this world is ! I step between two eternities. A torrent crowds the nations at the bottom of a common precipice. I simply want to stop at the edge of it and avoid the stream that flows alongside me."

Leadership: Do you take into consideration the essential tendency of an artist that reveals himself as a glimpse thrown over the course of history, pretending to be fulfil himself as omniscient through a prolonged life experience?

You can put in a favorable light what you experience at a level of knowledge, from the perspective of a borderless liberty of self-determination when you start juxtaposing the two parts from the content of the expression: nothing is lost, everything is transformed. And, at the same time, you should know how to apply them in the case of explaining certain phenomena and processes important for personal development. Such as phenomena of interference between logic, science, and free imagination, or the processes of producing ideas and combinations between vision and negation.

The artist measures his talent with a superhero in a parallel universe through a reflection act that is not only possible but necessary, as in a play of mirrors, with a brush in his left hand and a few colors of the palette in his right hand, which occasionally introduces another space and time. He is the past and the future of the same image, evoking an atmosphere and a state of mind in the mind of the viewer whose happiness comes from being seen in the mirror of a fictional reality, moving between two eternities: an eternity of "here and now" and the eternity of a glorious life.

The compatibility with the precision of measuring the parameter "I am a Universe" can be affected by wat you feel at a level of knowledge if you fail to reach a high level of thinking only when you cannot bluntly say about yourself that you represent a "Totality." Well, in Diderot's case, this totality is a well-known knowledge of the way in which the symbolic mechanisms that build the meaning of a new "new man" attitude in an anticipating picture of the future.

The man who aspires to new heights of progress is the result of a mixture of the two identities, with particular significance, which he undertakes on an existential and professional plane. Only through this mixture the modification of the structure of a functional relationship, expressed through "Am I a Universe?", becomes possible, with the help of a psychological and revealing experiment that highlights the depth of the spirit of incorporating everything into one, no matter how small and insignificant – but which can always be transformed.

"Nothing is lost, everything is transformed" – is the motto of brilliant minds that understand how the Universe works and how to integrate themselves within It so as to produce a ceaseless expansion of matter.

Leadership: The principles outlined in your creation correspond to the pattern of development that is accepted by a regular, simple expression: "Everything that surrounds you becomes an extension of one single meaning?"

Viewed as steps of a pyramid that you can climb only in accordance with certain rules (developing clear leadership concepts, organized in a logical, coherent and convincing display, consistent with the message that you send), these representations must guarantee you value, a type of importance, a certain weight, ensuring you the green light to the area of interest, competence and training of your supporters.

The Greeks had a term for art that may seem strange: tehné, meaning craft. For the leadership embedded in your "creation" to be able to face any criticism, any shield, any intellectual, ideological or educational-informative hindrance, the messages, concepts and principles you convey must meet the development model they accept.

Is this monitoring and evaluation mechanism of how you promote your creation based on novel "You-They" reports?

Leadership is based on knowing the "Artist" inside you. And this knowledge full of emotions, full of truth, differentiated by a transitional horizon that can make your evolution accessible, becomes, in the minds of our time, the only way possible to achieve perfection.

The message of an artist who regards himself wisely is the real representation of an image picked out of a deep knowledge of life marked by a deep meaning: "Everything disappears, everything is lost, everything passes, only the world remains."

The Universe Of An Artist Who Feeds On The Euphoria Of Creation is constituted as a meditation on existential reality, which at any time can be customized with a creative message, like: "Nothing is lost, everything is transformed".

The Universe Of An Artist Who's Found His Plenary Expression

Shape your reality through a virtue which will show an image of your unitary and well-articulated personality that is as elaborate and as artistic as possible.

My garden is the cure of immortality, an inflorescence of spirituality that impresses through purity and positivity. Its care for is so meticulous that others would stop before starting, it joins the same work with the painter who knows how to choose with finesse and tact elements from the surrounding world to provide the stimulation of the creative potential the viewer needs to translate into an ideal world.

This living environment, which is further enhanced by artistic valence of merit, gives me the responsibility and sense that helps me distinguish that basic knowledge of beauty beyond the traditional aesthetics of the proportions of forms, tendencies and tones, beyond the rigidity of words laid out with so much force on paper.

Every morning and evening, the garden which only a very cultivated spirit could care for as a guardian of the heart, welcomes me with an atmosphere of grace, full of charm, welcoming and relaxing, at the slightest breeze of the wind wrapping me like a spell of the fantastic willing to bear the mark of a high wisdom set forth in the plan of the Divine Creation. I still want to think we much alike, that we have feelings that often coincide in different situations.

A lively and warm dialogue in a secluded area of the garden should begin as soon as possible. I have to speak with each flower in part, that by this I can adorn my mind and my soul with the thoughts of God along a time predestined for two close friends.

Were I to address the garden, as I would address a painter who keeps the universe in his hands filled with color and energy, hands that build, comfort, shape and illuminate, I would only say: "Master, thank you for Invictus". An old saying, but one specially chosen for a peace-filled mind.

Leadership: Can you highlight the "conceptual" character of representing a particular reality, that is, trying to show through an expressive image everything you know about a universe governed in its totality by the sympathetic system of correspondence with nature?

A discrete swallow chirping, a yellow leaf left alone among the blades of grass, a bee spinning around the first chrysanthemum, everything around me integrates into a magical game, like in a spell of multiple coincidences, looking at that unclear beyond the simultaneous realities of all the constituent elements of the garden.

The art of gardening is not a separate living entity. First, I face the reality of a nature that is subjected to a free will, that all living things depend on a Creator and an eternal master of the world. Then there is the reality of a dream transformation, subordinated to an overview and detail of what the landscape of the garden brings through the consciousness of the relationship between what I create with thoughts and sight, and the effect of a transfiguration of the real world into the spirit of miraculous.

Any breath of life that, in every detail of the flowers, is felt in every corner of the garden and at any moment as a temporal index of a book meant to scatter around the truth of the thinking of the wise men of the world, amplifies the feelings of a tested spirit, with endless humility, to discover the key to God's knowledge.

The conceptual character of representing a particular reality is to answer the question: "What should your garden contain for you to enjoy its beauty in the spirit of unbroken submission to the will of God?"

Leadership: How do you care for the image of virtue and purity that proposes an exemplary way of life, in the context of an influence that joins nature to complete it with mystical meanings?

The garden is the destiny of a colorful star. I truly believe we are alike, we resonate like two smiles for delight and I want to create a comparison between it and myself, as between two paintings still smelling of fresh oil, marking the course of a symbol of the human essence unleashed by any passions or worries. Moreover, the garden gives me this impression of protective and unwavering force because of the idea of being dependent on the superior intelligence of matter that includes all the impulses of the spirit of the whole Creation, that is, of God.

The manifestation of a sense of respect for life bears the mark of a special way of organizing the space that gives me calmness and the peace of mind. The virtue that totally characterizes me, the acquisition of which I coveted for centuries, is that of the man who gives the soul verticality, shielding it from regret and remorse, under whose light I breathe in another, more peaceful, destiny. Dignity is the forgiving character of God that shines through every flower and blade of grass.

Umberto Eco, my hopeful friend in discovering the hidden meanings beyond any new and lively element, did not know so well as me to achieve the sublime aesthetic experience by referring the image to the original of a painting giving the value of a text full of flavor and spirit. However, I still take into account the way he admired the gardens best shielded from the matter of suggestion:

"The gods speak to us through the medium of dreams and mysteries. That is how these gardens are. Every aspect of this terrace reproduces a mystery of alchemical art, but unfortunately, we are no longer able to read it, not even our host can. The whole garden is readable as a book, like a spell, which, in the end, is the same thing. You may, if you would know, speak in a low voice the words the garden utters, and you will be able to direct one of the many forces acting in the sublunar world. The garden is an apparatus to dominate the universe."

Can you compare your leadership with a gardening activity able to attract attention through the dispute over "natural beauty" and "artistic beauty", enthusiastically following a vision that you have acquired as a philosophy of life?

The most elementary form of expression of a symbol in the plane of life is achieved by inserting a conventional image into the space of a higher world, which can only be understood in the light of the circumstances in which it appeared, rather being a dialogue of the ideas of unity between Journey and Paradise, between Nature and God.

From gardening, a certain philosophy of life is available, available by exposing your own opinions and feelings to the moment, without allowing yourself excesses or imbalances. Such a philosophy can be expressed as follows: "Learn to see the things around you with as much lucidity as possible, but each time as a different experience of visualization of an artistic production that allows itself to be betrayed by the sensational, devolving into the fantastical in order to vary its appearance".

Moreover, gardening connects the content of leadership with the personal experience of artistic creation through the "invitation" to self-observation and introspection, culminating in the exposition of their own visions of good and beauty, based on harmony between body, mind and spirit, between personality and soul, between the self and the universal spirit.

Gardening gives more freedom to the depths of the mind, diminishes aggressive behaviors, constantly provokes you in a concentration exercise, but especially facilitates that intimate adhesion to mystical suggestion: "I am one with nature." And to leave your mark on the beauty that characterizes a world full of secrets, un mondo di meraviglie, through the work you are laying down to populate the entire garden area with imagination, is such an exhilarating experience that we can only thank God for this wonderful gift called: artistic sense.

Turning gardening into a landmark for an aesthetic analysis means embracing the art of turning a random theme into a concept of the Creator of the Beautiful to whom you would give the mental attributes of a limitless spatial spread.

The Universe Of An Artist Who's Found His Plenary Expression includes the silence of a nature unburdened by the influences of a dynamic, complex and aggressive society, and the proximity to a Creator who in his infinite intelligence and wisdom has also given us this infallible treasure, namely the love for all that is beautiful and useful for our development as a unitary and well-articulated personality.

I learned to understand the importance of the garden. I am glad that what I have learned here in my garden can be implemented in leadership and everyday life.

The Universe Of Nameless Knowledge

Achieve a prospect of control of your science by designing leadership as an instrument of manipulating knowledge.

I stood before a bizarre phenomenon that defied the rules of innovative science that I myself had formulated. Relentlessly, as a result of the free game of imagination, I calculatedly followed a reasoning contained in an almost inexplicable precedent. I had to go back more, so that I can see forward.

Science is a lesson in the present from which you make a new reality, without necessarily taking into account what affects you by meeting this reality. Like that saying: "you will encounter exactly what you fear the most." The conscious imbalance of my axes of existence progressed towards the acceptable balance of a stable and predictable trajectory. The influences of present value of the flux of perspectives in which I could play with the possibilities of development brought upon by science, almost limitless.

You cannot understand the depths of really high knowledge without making a connection between two different conceptual entities, of a completely different form, composition and living in a reality completely different from yours. The stable atoms built around my science, born apparently out of a Big-Bang from which the new universe of nameless knowledge was born, without equal and without end, swarmed continuously around the question Dutch biologist Jan Swammerdam kept asking: "How is the little beetle lesser than the brilliant bird from overseas?"

The construction of knowledge means taking into account what makes you feel fulfilled at the level of intrusion into a reality that you do not completely agree with, making your existence a show of ideas that are gradually revealed to the public.

This detail kept crossing my mind, increasingly stronger, as a secret settled on the bottom of an ocean that sheltered a new life. Perhaps I kept moving forward. And as a protector of my own science, it was up to me to discover the important differences that appeared between the resistance force of a planned thinking and the driving force of a thinking that dialogued with a different one.

Both forces resulted from finding the following disparity: the creation of forms derived from the content of ideas and concepts was substituted to an incessant option of interpreting and representing a reality that I didn't know directly. This was the step back that helped me value my work technique, the creative potential and the accumulated knowledge, applying what my instinct was telling me.

I was always ready to extend, with an almost incomprehensible devotion, the way of conceiving the ration between lived experiences and the efforts supported by the streamlining of my potential of generating order in the chaos of my numerous incursions in the world of science. For the connection to the standards of an intuitive knowledge, superior to other means of knowledge, that only its truth and its unique content freed me to understand and control my intellectual faculties.

Leadership: Can you activate your ability of performing an "update" query by using the "search" function?

Science balances the force the leader has for achieving the task he started with. Such as a torch that doesn't know how to go out and makes you find your way through the darkness generated by the limits of your own perception and reason, experiences and abilities, science extends its area of identifying the best or most important practices for the implementation of new inventions and criteria for comparison with other reality models.

But in order for science to move to the helm of leadership, it must be authentic, and it should not be possible for it to be shackled by prejudice which could distort its meaning from the outset. Only by calculatedly following a reasoning that is found in an almost unknown precedent, your science will be able to keep up with new trends, becoming a significant power in the world, in the center of a game in which roughness in "terrain" sometimes goes beyond the limits of any regulations.

For this reason, analyzing any aspect that makes you understand that it is time to raise the level of production of the contact surface with excellence, you must submit to a game in which you have the guess the correct variants of the formulas of continuing research, in the sense of improvement. Basically, to activate your capacity of performing that "update" query used in the "search" function made available by knowledge, for the completion of any shortcomings of unknown nature of modern science.

The leader should try to find out the double value of his experience of knowing and feeling in the creation he embodies.

An "update" query is a request for information from a "relational" database whose processing and maintenance involves a substantial investment in the possibility of comparing what you see differently in yourself and what is beyond your preconceived ideas.

No wonder writer André Maurois said that science is a long and systematic curiosity. Moving from a fluctuating evolution, filled with mistakes, to one controlled by precision and high reliability, leadership acquires new proportions developed around the curiosity of investigating the unfathomable mysteries of new regions of experimental knowledge.

Beyond the simplicity of laws which, by their nature, subject knowledge to a relationship determined analytically, identified by calculation and intuition, the leader should try to discover the double value of his experience in the creation he embodies - a value of symbol, a value of parabola, a value of direction, a value of myth, a value of deja-vu. And also to be taken into account are the aesthetic valences around which any space for composing the aspects that are the subject of the "privileged revelation of reality" develops.

What is the maximum limit your science attributes to the foundation on which leadership lays upon, from the perspective of moving to another context of reportability: the role inversion?

Leadership is allowed only within the limits of strict conditions. But when it comes to innovative approached that encourage orientation towards a nonconformist style, which doesn't fit into any patterns, there are no certainties or 100% guarantees that it will not defy existing norms and rules.

This translates into the phrase: "You have to go further back, to be able to see forward." That is, to achieve a prospect of control over your science by designing leadership as an instrument of manipulating an increasingly complex knowledge. That through experience and erudition, can lead to a solid sense of exclusive competence. To go back means to return to what you knew how to do best, so that knowledge becomes the source of the joy of being face to face with what is called "always being the same".

In order to meet yourself in the creator's hypostasis, you must experience self-respect, that is, to be constantly face to face with what you have learned about yourself, not with what you do not know or with what others think. This "you yourself" is an accentuation of the virtue of sharing something of its own objectivity, the virtue of bringing together experiences and perceptions as an impulse to act, the virtue of giving chances to affirm a coherent, differentiated identity.

That maximum limit your science attributes to the foundation on which leadership lays upon is given by the configuration chosen for the organization of the area of expression, of finding the most intelligent methods of update to the adopted standard of thinking. Therefore, as a protector of your own science, your task is to discover the important differences that appear between the force of resistance of a planned thinking and the driving force of a thinking that dialogues with a different one.

Role reversal is a reaction of overcoming the professional routine that comes from conditioning the mind to perceive another person in the process of creation, so that the effort to build a vision allows the hypostasis of an Alter-Ego.

The Universe Of Nameless Knowledge aims at the retrospective analysis of knowledge in the field of leadership, which allows for an enrichment and update for achieving outstanding performances. Knowledge doesn't have a name that fully covers its territory full of mystery, but rather has an entire story behind it that you will never get to finish. But to which you can always add a new chapter. And if you understand its meaning, you can always find a new title for it.

Do you have the power to proceed through the fixed milestones of an endless story?

The Universe Of The Man, Disoriented Before A Half-opened Door (II)

On December 16, 2012

Enhance your performances of processing visions and revelations, by making the leap in that conscience always impacted by the reality of subjectivity and ideality.

I stepped uncertain into an unknown which extended as more as I moved. And as more as I moved, the more the landscape changed, from colored, to black and white. Another world, another time, another realm, another cognitive system, another way to be, totally inconsistent with my previous aspirations.

Everything seemed a hoax, a deception, a sad fiction of immature minds. I launched myself in a search for answers like a creature, which with a single brain, one heart, through a fierce blow of fate, embodies someone else, and lives all the events of time and life. But which, reacting to various defining factors, could be damaged during the transformation.

Like Rashid, caliph of Hauff's work, subjected to the vagaries of his transformation, I came upon the door of the great mysteries, that seemed half-opened. Discerning behind it sighs and whimpers. Amplified sounds of doubt and anxiety, the benchmarks of my own becoming, a kind of collage of practicalities that approximated the arithmetic mean of my expectancies in relation to the frame-objectives and the dimensions of my personality. I could not recover from the amazement, madness, the curiosity, which torrentially seized me.

I pushed the door, but I stopped astonished in the doorway. Behind it was hiding the "otherness" a world that was self-sustaining itself through the exploitation and the inadequate support of the reality, knowledge, guidance, understanding, science and its dominant effects. As if I had not lived my life but other past lives, so twisted and confusing, so unexplored and varied, that I felt the whole world shook. And along with it were rising unknown aspects of my science.

Leadership: Can you choose your dimension of exploring existence as a way of understanding the experience of the event beyond the particular fact that generates reality?

No fan of fantasy literature would have known how to man-up the color of my vision. With obvious surprise, I was transposed into another reality, of the new, of the change, of an existential creation always in transformation. Evolution faced with revolution. A consolation, but a painful one. Un changement de perspective sur les attaques extérieures. A new statute, another way of being, which fit into a variety of scheme, an abstract map, in which were passed the important debts of perceptions, interpretations and instances, as well as the relationships between them.

And still, only the truth behind the door, its justified acceptance, could save me from a total and absurd delusion. The amplification of his own personality through obedience to the forces of life, of time, of the extraordinary composition of the reality. A continuous learning of the science to gain access to the fundamental truths about the Man and his essence in the world.

Perhaps even the science of being more than a Man, to be a whole world, a universe. The dimension of exploration of my existence could be measured by the force of expression with which I was trying to deliver the message of a new direction of thought.

Leadership: Can you enhance your force of reaction to experimental events, through a holistic approach to scientific knowledge?

Trying to understand leadership without obeying a transformation process is like picking up the phone and dialing a number, but a number not listed in the phone book. Will you continue to adhere to a reality that you do not perceive, and that is not consistent or compatible with the belief system, which guides the genuine leaders on the right path? Or, to a reality that is always long in coming.

A kind of denial of everything that you have accumulated in the present, through the force of reaction to the events lived experimentally or even a priori, through a holistic approach to scientific and existential knowledge. Which can lead to increasing processing performances of visions and revelations, inspiration and intuition, necessary to satisfy the intentions to discover, acquire and know new things throughout your life. You can separate from what is limited only by the means of the consciousness, which removes the nescience, ignorance and lack of understanding, notifying you of the danger that hangs over you when you refuse to follow your renewal impulses.

The leap in the consciousness that is in a permanent impact with the reality of subjectivity and ideality (awareness of your thoughts and feelings). The urge to search in the next moment something that you think you do not find in the present moment - is one of the leadership keys to achieve the fulfillment of being above prejudices and above yourself, of overcoming all barriers, be it real of imaginary. Only thus you can demonstrate the richness and superiority of your individuality.

Will you expect someone to answer your call, pleading this time for a change, a gradual evolution, in which the reason and creation to intensify always and beneficial. But who will answer you from there where is no horizon, from there where is no compliance?

A synchronization conflict between reality and alterity occurs when it is not possible to reconcile the differences between what you are trying to provide through the accumulated experience and the exercise of testing the power to reinvent yourself.

John Maxwell, the expert in leadership, confessed in one of his books that he worked so hard, for over forty years, to learn about leadership and to extract the golden nuggets. He saw what can do a good leadership that really matters. He observed that a good leadership can transform organizations and can have a positive impact on the lives of thousands of people.

John Maxwell picked up the phone and dialed the suited number that figured in the agenda of his transformation. He went through that limited "time" of the change, which was not flowing in vain, as a brief rain. But has crossed the midpoint of the line separating the two columns of the existence: "to be" and "to become".

A continuous self-overcoming of the science to have access to fundamental truths about the Man and his essence in the world. Evolution facing revolution. Adopting a new statute, another way of being, based on an intense concern, as a continuation of searching the performance to a higher level.

Like other professionals in the field, he arrived at that "half-open door" towards another dimension of the human universe, of time, of life events, walking down the unknown in an attempt to collect science and full knowledge, of placing himself on the right path of the performance.

Leadership: Is the amount of content of the reality you are experiencing equal to the value of content of thinking that results in the need for choices "beyond your own consciousness"?

"Who am I? Where am I? Until when?" There are the three gems which were the basis for his becoming. He pushed the door, and did not linger upon its threshold like a man who bumps into an invisible wall. But accepted the truth behind it, which saved him from an absurd and total delusion.

And this truth, as a battery of artillery, which blows a hundred of cannon hits in order to announce the beginning of a major change, fully accepted, unlocked in him any doubt about his commitment towards himself in achieving performance.

This truth has been given by a greater safety in mind, a key factor in understanding the finer aspects of the mechanisms that govern the life, man, time, their process of transformation - with all their additions. It was the midpoint of the perfection of his knowledge, the inclination of 180 degrees, from simple to complex, from basic to advanced, a kind of bell of the change, which constantly reminded him who he is and where he is heading.

A "beyond your own consciousness' choice is made when you are not fully convinced of the reality you experience in the opposite direction of what you expect to believe about all the things that come to your mind, thus changing your perception of what you really are.

The universe of the man, disoriented before a half-opened door regards that incursion in the dimensions of one's own universe, which interacts with reality only in a directional and innovative manner, broader and more comprising. This kind of thinking that doesn't encapsulate itself in thorough rules and regulations imposes always the congruence or compatibility with transformational leadership.

The Universe Of The Man, Disoriented Before A Half-opened Door (I)

On December 15, 2012

Respond to the questions set by your own progress, so that to facilitate your access to the fundamental truths about the Man and his essence in the world.

I had not planned, and I did not think that I will expose myself so much to an entire world, to a factor of confrontation. It was a reflection of the relationship that existed between me and another being, continuing through an intense surround, of essence, of what I was, in contrast to what I could become.

I felt the ground slipping under my feet. My fears more or less vague until then, had serious reasons to transform themselves into dismay. Inexplicable, I was trapped in an existential vortex, into a bevy of disturbing thoughts, into a system of doubt axes that were blocking with much impetus my optimism and enthusiasm. Hesitating, I was shakening into the shadow of an uncertainty in thinking, stirred by many confusing questions, overwhelmed by an oppressive expectation and afraid of its consequences.

Every phase of my evolution was a part of the science from everywhere, the testimony of a world that I wanted resurrected, to the extent when the science from everywhere was coming to solve the preparatory questions set by my own battle with windmills. Who was I? Where I was? Until when? I had the feeling that I had been created to fit a label that might not fit me, into an enlightened world that was imposed only by coercion, and preventively broke the desire in me to do something else with my life.

A brief exploratory moment, quick as a flash, a state of forced lucidity which, like a Prometheus chained to a huge cliff, it were devoured from me, without exception, all sources of inspiration and motivation. All the crumbs of the energy that characterized me I was leaving behind, I didn't collect them in a new bunch of the striving to validate my own person, but left them scatter on their own until sublimation.

Leadership: How do you treat the overcoming of the duality of being an object of obsession with one's own person and being the main way to maintain a limiting state specific to a consciousness haunted by the temptation of nothingness?

Do you feel the earth slipping under your feet? Are you trapped into an existential vortex, in a system of doubt axes, which blocks your optimism and enthusiasm? Are you shakening in the shadow of an uncertainty in thinking? Are you troubled about many confusing questions, overwhelmed by an oppresive waiting and fearful of its consequences? Who are you? Where are you? Until when?

Why should you torment so much to answer these questions? Because only in this way you can understand leadership, this spiral staircase of the ascension, but also of the risks, which can be traversed only by understanding the essence, hidden and unchangeable, of the human nature. A look „from the inside", that reflection of the confused spirit that experiments new reality states, they're necessary for better following the way in which the obligation of ensuring the transformation that succeeds the incommensurable greatness line is fulfilled.

My only proof of greatness was that I never felt lost, abandoned, in all that confrontation between what altered my reality and what represented me as style, vision and spirit. The wearing of such a greatness on my shoulders, in opposition to any sign of laziness that constantly haunted my mind, my thoughts and my soul, is the proof of the faith of rejecting any weakness of reason before the impenetrable forces of nothingness.

The nothingness is reduced to crossing the life experience you do not accept as a guarantee of your entry in that order of spirit that can help you redefine your view of one's own person, of the system of values, and the boundaries of that relationship. It can be said that you are an object of obsession with one's own person when you think you are defeated by a reality that no longer belongs to you, which seems to make no sense at all, being incapable of finding your direction and motivation to continue to develop on all levels.

Leadership: What is your position on what happens to you in a "manifest yourself through the power of your individuality" situation when you need to validate the true cause of your experiences?

The good that you unlimitedly possess, and that leadership admits as a vast territory of the responsibility to what motivates you, acquired following the intense efforts of doing something important with your life, is actually the value you give to yourself and not the people around you. It's the value given by the connection between what you were, opposite to the value given by what you can become; it's the value given by the experience of the self won through an appreciative diversity of realist approaches.

Your nature will be continuously shaped under the influence of the society and of your own transitions towards an ever-changing reality. A bridge to a secret understanding of what defines you as a Man, which, by crossing it under the conditions imposed by your own knowledge, in understanding and quantification of the transformation process, will make it possible to answer the questions that hide many doubts and assumptions about "who you are" what is your role in the world and where you are heading.

The true cause of your experiences can be found through someone else's intercession or self-study of your tendencies. Both ways must be remarked by discovering the vices in you, followed by the eradication of any defect by developing the quality that will destroy it, not by the struggle against evil, but by the spiritual victory over the superiority of the intelligence.

When you feel confused, it means that the dialogue with yourself has been jeopardized by that tendency of the intelligence to access a new form of manifestation of existence, alien to your own reference structure.

How do you climb the spiral stairway of your ascension? By looking back towards what seems to lack any importance, or onward towards what will never come? If you want to rise to the leadership level that supports the necessary potential to continuously achieve change, first of all, you have to identify the novelty that can grant meaning, a certain direction, a certain value to your life.

The novelty is the evidence of a world that you want to revive, it's the condition of science to explore a reality that is permanently enriched with meaningful fascicles, granting you that uniqueness you need in order to become a great man.

The value of man is determined by the volume of truth that he can tolerate about himself in that circumstance of life that alienates him.

The universe of the man, disoriented before a half-opened door mirrors that hidden part of the science and knowledge of the "Man" that comes out while you are connected to a reality with a different meaning. A volunteer experience, a jump to a different understanding, which can allow you to progress, enriching yourself with your own knowledge, with the knowledge of life, of time, and of the human universe.

Just as painter prepares his canvas before putting the colors, even so the excellence in leadership, to be achieved, you must first allocate your own resources that may cause a change, to renew its knowledge and the science of understanding the human nature, of the Human within you, and after that of the others around you, before using them.

An open door is an invitation to enter into a sometimes unknown space, where you do not know what you should expect there and what you will find out. But once you get past it means that you are committed to face the "unknown" with the weapons of knowing the potential that you had constantly developed.

The Unknown Realms Of Reality

On February 15, 2014

Optimize your performance in developing inter-human relationships, by cultivating the ability to differentiate between what you know and what you do not know.

There was something so innocent about Ellie, so simple, almost touchingly pure that I was surprised to see how well she was managing in business and how she took for granted everything that was said to her. And yet, I was not wrong about her. I knew too well the kind of person she was. I knew her simplicity all too well now, the affection she had for me, her natural kindness.

It's just that she only knew a thin slice of my being. She knew next to nothing about my world, a world in which you were forced to steal in order to say you won something. She didn't know what it meant to be raised and educated in a modest way, but honest, and yet with a permanent worry of the coming days, of money, of a mother that wore down her fingers to make you look presentable, convinced that her boy was to have it good in life.

Ellie was discovering my world just as I was discovering hers. We were both discovering unknown realms. *

Leadership: Can you set a benchmark by means of a thorough knowledge between two totally different worlds, to emphasize the side of your personality that asks you to be someone else regardless of the situation?

The side of your personality that asks you to be someone else, regardless of the situation, can manifest itself as an extension of the ability to differentiate what you know from what you don't know in the case of approaching a reality that you recognize as your shadow, a daily-life presence set to impose itself as a consequence of life circumstances, but which is not allowed in its own way.

Basically, the hidden side of your personality is revealed when you see yourself as a victim of external circumstances and inner constraints that you observe in someone else's case, someone you admire, but cannot copy. Or someone, someone you think of in one way and in a crisis situation you realize they did nothing by tease you.

Leadership is a means of profound human knowledge in the more numerous line of observations regarding the link between certainty and uncertainty that the eventual "negotiation" implies on signing the agreement of associating to an objective reality. It becomes a "top player" in the segment of constructing perceptions that foster understanding and relationships between people.

Leadership: Are you able to experience applying two image effects simultaneously to the same character so that your personality gains some independence from the causality of life's phenomena and events?

Two image effects can be applied to the same character of daily life: the snapshot of an extended consciousness experience, when you have to take into account everything that does not qualify you as a "self-transforming man", and the duration of a moving event that happens during a study of another way of thinking about life.

Basically, your independence from the causality of life's phenomena and events is only achieved through a form of reaction in front of the multitude of opinions you make about someone or something that falls within your scope.

What is specific to leaders lies in the fact that they do not think in comparative terms, but in terms of "lessons learned". Your image in the world view, a world in which you can be anything, represents a means of strengthening your Ego whose representative character lies in the fact that it does not hide behind social masks, obsessions, morality and external pressures, that is, it doesn't feed on the experiences of others, but from its own experiences.

Someone used to say: "Inter-relations is an ongoing process, in which a change in the share of critical determinants occurs. At first, the most important factor in shaping the attitude towards the newly met individual is the well-known "first impression". But, gradually, this is replaced or corrected by the elements drawn from deeper knowledge of positive and negative traits of that person."

Leadership: Can you analyze the man in the reflection of the most varied aspects of his personality, as to get an exploration of the significant lives and ideas of two main figures?

Like a woodpecker who moves from tree to tree, tireless, after rules known only by itself, cleaning them of insects, leadership always pries in the trunk of the great oak of truth, setting a benchmark which traces the outline of clearer images concerning people. This value can only be set through a deeper knowledge of man taken as an individual, but also by interacting with others.

Leadership, whose background elements are taken from thinking based on the principle "you cannot know unless you believe and you cannot believe everything you know", as a measure of penetration into the space of a distinct reality, is extending its rules concerning the management of relations between individuals. You cannot know someone down to the smallest of details, but you can establish a pretty good measure of their potential.

Looking closely at someone, analyzing him in the reflections of the most varied aspects of his personality, protecting yourself from the temptation to make assumptions a priori, you'll be able to make those successive and well calculated moves from a plan that does not allow finalization of the union between two or several types of mentalities, to a plan that optimizes performance in interpersonal development. By cultivating the ability to differentiate between what you know and what you do not know.

Looking in the mirror in the form of two main figures means freeing yourself from the Ego that makes you judge the world around you, without feeling cloistered in a precarious, armored mental universe. It means being surrounded by the mystery of a forked reality: a part where you can overcome your most hidden fears and a part where all the phenomena of life come together, interact and give a totalizing meaning.

The Unknown Realms Of Reality are those elements of the human factor that does or does not favor collective or individual performance, by motivational aspects that are sometimes changing.

Thorough understanding of this unknown called "man" is essential in leadership. Whose clarity and predictability regarding human evolution and trends of establishing relations, compatible with high performance, offers numerous ways of evaluation and maintenance of those fundamental orientations that have a strong impact on society.

The Unknown Story Of My Creation

On November 06, 2020

Focus on a broad and nuanced perspective related to a high-quality artistic experience, propelling your creation into a dimension of knowledge that can validate your unmistakable personality.

An interesting image related to the pen and the brush is represented by a magician located on another plane of existence who, most likely, hides his secrets from the eyes of the curious. We see him dressed in a dark tailcoat, seeming to have a dreamlike appearance, in a transparent manner, surrounded by stars and numbers, trying as if to find the explanations of a phenomenon of interpretatio of the universal symbol, in which are faced with each other the divine light and the cosmic light, masterfully probing a true universe of signs.

The magician seems to have not only the gift of guessing the future, in the stars and in signs, but also the gift of writing people's destinies in the same way that the artist's brush visually captures any detail of the beings he puts in the foreground of a scene extrapolated from the plurality of worlds offered by the rich artistic universe. It is important to understand not only the message of a work of art, consisting of a single large image in which all the symbolic content is placed, but also the application of colors, retouching the tone, to obtain plastic expressiveness.

In order to express yourself not only through words, but also through artistic images, you must adopt a confessional writing, deeply subjective. For example, if in a painting full of symbols I were to reflect my mood in the image of a magician, as if I were deciphering the splendor of stellar powers, then the pen and the brush, in the hope of attaining a common Self-Consciousness, would have to acquire some elements of personality and thus transcend the power of human conception.

In this way, the brush can offer me infinite possibilities of visual expression in the same pattern of transmitting a new teaching, only if I keep that serenity of being aware of its state of spiritual enlightenment, just like a man who enjoys divine grace is able to rule the stars. In its sublimated forms, my writing can evoke the experience of the brush to give color to a universe full of mystery, charm, sensitivity and poetry, becoming the master of spiritual time, a symbol of the embodiment of permanence.

Leadership: Can you give meaning to an experience of knowledge in a moment of revelation in which you have to render the image of a new dimension of your personality with the rigor of a new perspective of receiving reality?

Thus, I came to the supreme cause of all things, from which all the different forms and degrees of spiritual power are derived, because the pen and the brush have prepared infinite possibilities to travel in the world of my imagination, arriving through a reaction of divine revelation to turn into a wand and a cape, respectively. Their instinctive impulse to immerse themselves in a universe of dizzying purity, such a personal oscillation between the real and the fantastical, gives the colossal hope of reaching the formation of a common self-consciousness.

Moreover. In the operations of the pen, to write as artistically as possible an epic of my mind, the image of the brush when it ascends in the first phase of Leo is also described. The pen depicts the power of the brush to present reality through a crowned king, sitting imposingly on a throne made of emerald, dressed in saffron-colored clothes. It is said that if this image travels around the world in 40 hours, then the pen has fulfilled its proper role in scripture, that of thinking like a magician who has the power to bring fantasies to life.

Yes, I have always known that I am a magician, that I am a pen and a brush at the same time, in the sense that everything my mind shapes with grace, mastery, charm, can evoke a whole experience of the pictorial space, rendering the illusion visible. I could not have written about art without understanding the phenomenon of the separation of the astral body from the physical one. They are, therefore, the fusion of several expressions of the same knowledge which belongs to the divine. I am the common denominator of the same energy obtained by a double exchange reaction, either in natural form or in artistic form.

Leadership: How does the process of recognizing an artistic representation regarding the interpretation of a visual image unfold, confronting what he sees with what he knows about something that is not only a quantum, but at the same time a magnum?

As I have shown in many places, I am a magician because I have a material existence and an immaterial existence. In fact, it is not possible for anyone to represent me in my complexity, no one but me. Of course, from this point of view, the dimension of my knowledge has as a reference a constructive vision on the concept of aesthetic experience, associated with the rebirth of a work that never died, because I am flexible with what comes and appreciate the present moments.

Therefore, the pen or the brush are not only a quantum, but at the same time a magnum, because each of them represents an agent generating inspiration, and with the help of such an agent many works of art can be obtained.

So it is. My personality is unmistakable because the pen and the brush carry out, only through my powers and through a spontaneous trust in the help of the Holy Father, that great requirement of a work of art: it must be entirely conceived and shaped by the mind before being executed. Therefore, my perspective of receiving reality highlights a certain dependence on creation that is transmitted through an indispensable accessory to art (pen or brush), expressing a certain state of mind and an intellectual force that manifests itself in the tendency to seek the new with any price, the tendency to quickly capture the metamorphoses of nature, the tendency to amplify the rendering of the beauty of nature.

Writing is a meditation on the veracity of my art.

As for my experience of knowledge which speaks for itself from time to time, even if the reader is not entirely acquainted with my witty formulations, it is in full agreement with the principle of sufficient reason which says that thought is self-directed through its specific operations with notions (generalization, abstraction, analysis, synthesis, comparison, etc.) towards the emission of some truths that could prove vital for the painting theory and the assurance of a plastic success worthy of all praise.

A work of art, integrated into the space of leadership, must be congruent with the veracity of a message such as: "let us appreciate every image created with art, just as we appreciate a vision meant to be so long-lived and consistent with itself."

The Unknown Story Of My Creation begins with an enchanted pen that turns into the messenger of a brush full of life and very dreamy, with the help of my ability to recreate an entire artistic universe through an (almost greedy) accumulation of other hypostases: at times I am a magician, other times a writer, a saint or a scientist. In fact, I am whatever I want to be, with the stipulation that whatever I am can be focused to infinity on the horizon of mysteries, faith and miracles.

The Unlimited Nature Of The Visual Experience Stemming From The Senses

Learn to keep in mind the image that unfolds in your mind, appealing to the subtlety with which the artist immortalizes his most mysterious impressions.

The chewing gum I have been most fond of for some time is „Fini", with an intense aroma of fresh fruit, with a well-structured composition and a high density of jelly, offering the advantage of a pleasant, sweet-sour taste. „Fini" gum is really successful in any circumstance, especially in the variety of combinations in which I can enjoy it without worries, without reservations, without thinking that I'm making fun of my body: at birthdays, at meetings, at all kinds of events or parties. It's more like a delicious dessert.

On any occasion, having a special meaning for the moment when any art strives to become a reality, I also enjoy the fascination that arises from the absence of compromises or from the perspective of adapting to extraordinary situations. Knowing how to chew „Fini" gum, like one would a jelly that with every bite brings a feeling of release, awakening the senses, invigorating the taste buds, is an attitude of great pride, but also an attitude of great candor, because you are fuller spiritually than all those with whom you come in contact.

I have the same attitude when I have to capture and paint an intense emotion, thought or experience, with a lot of art and sensitivity, in the field of the forces of the mystery that fuels the imagination, Azaresenthos.

Or when I have to paint the picture inside my senses, becoming a reality through a materialization of the feeling of freedom, of the feeling of fascination indispensable to embark on an adventure of creation of great coherence in which color and taste intertwine through a mysterious mechanism, I like to discover another way of acquiring bodily senses through which aromas are perceived and recognized as permanent.

Leadership: Can you transform the perception that results from the stimulation of a taste bud into a space dedicated to the visual in its most complex forms?

Alas, how much I love art. In this regard, the taste I feel when I paint a smile, the same smile that, in a certain way, gives it the sweet-sour aroma of „Fini" chewing gum, marks the beginning of an image contained in the theory of vision: the image of my smile is a reinterpretation of a refined taste, good enough to make it accessible to everyone.

Well, whoever sees my wide, instinctive smile will know that I am charged with the emotion of an intense and authentic taste, expressed by an Afragmentoriss, a perception that results from the stimulation of a gustatory nerve. Taste, an invitation to sincerity, openness and authenticity, this invisible channel that unites the senses and functions of my own body, seems to force a brain reflex that not only changes the expression of the face, but also stimulates the brain to produce endorphins.

What's more, „Fini" gum is a blessing from the Supreme Creator ! First because it allows me to embark on an adventure of knowledge and experimentation in the visual arts, and afterwards because it inspires the image of a single person: the artist who arrogates a segment or a piece of an artistic area and says it belongs only to him.

Leadership: Can the taste of the product you want to highlight be translated into an emotion that becomes reality through an immediate materialization in the concrete existence of a character described between the „sensory" and „intellectual" coordinates?

Taste is an update of the visual, an update provided by the dominant element that changes the appearance of the physiognomy, being able to create a lifting effect of the gaze, or sweetening the most striking features of the personality. All that's left is for me to take into account the picture within my senses, the field of forces that paints my face being similar to the sensation of energy given by the complex perception of a chemical interpretation, manifesting itself differently and unexpectedly, related to the practice of savoring sweet and sour fruits.

And suddenly I enter the extraordinary world of the artist, where every taste is translated by an emotion and every noble emotion becomes reality through an immediate materialization in the concrete existence of a character described between the coordinates of the universe to which he aspires intensely. Or this fact is associated with the emergence of a point of view expressed by John Fowles in the well-known novel „Daniel Martin":

„It's not anything mystical. It is the matter contained in the nature of things. I had this feeling once again after many hours of work, with a papyrus that I was deciphering. I was out of time, I had become the papyrus itself. But that didn't help me decipher it. I wasn't the papyrus in that sense. Maybe I was the river. The parting river. For a few moments, everything that does not cross the river. That river that separates."

It is easy to see that when I try to describe the taste of chewing gum, I am confronted with the complex perception of an interpretation focused on the connection between human nature and the nature of things that go beyond words, perceptions.

I think that taste also has a direction towards which my senses are directed, but not those senses of a chemical or gustatory nature, but a special feeling, an indication that they may be someone else: someone between sensory concrete and rational-intellectual reporting to a more complex and unseen reality that makes me long for a different beginning of the story.

Leadership is a direct product of the visual that brings you closer to a story in which the character characterizes himself as a receiver of taste on which the reason for assuming a new (artistic) identity is based.

The Unlimited Nature Of The Visual Experience Stemming From The Senses is rendered through the taste of a product that never consumes its prestige factor. In order to better understand the phenomenon of visual experience, learn to keep in mind the image that unfolds in your mind, appealing to the subtlety with which the artist immortalizes his most mysterious impressions.

The Unmatched Plasticity Of Astral Projection

On May 20, 2018

The artist and the past of the world are like two sharp-edged swords that only the expression of a subjective vision can make them trust each other.

I will now tell you about what is not taught anywhere, a secret whose free and unconditional echoes lie only in the fascinating universe of chance, between doubt and delirium, faith and ecstasy, according to the will of an artist to put the forms of primary elementality in an ingenious and pertinent pictorial profile, full of chromatic contrasts.

Surrounded by a mystical aura among the remains of immeasurable time, the color of a major theme manifests itself in abundance, splendor and majesty, talking about what you will do to go beyond the mere fleeting existence, when your will is lost in the care of a God who often bears a drop of wonder after so many astral tears spilling upon contemplating one's own world.

A wave of cosmic paternity crosses the myths of the ancient world to the extent that the color of the theme has been kept in a dry place in a hermetically sealed container in a cool, dark space, the so-called abyss of nostalgia that latently holds the memory of a fabulous time that sends its meaningful waves up to the present.

The authentic profile of pictorial construction blends with the sensitive basis of a bizarre story, combined with the specific character of artistic reflection in forms of metaphysical consciousness, rather than that empirical facet of ancient prophecies in which all the attributes of the impossible become possible.

Leadership: Can you develop a new representation of yourself concerning the concept of "cosmic voyage" that will function as a multiple mirroring of the same theme?

Ulysses resisted the amazing song of the Sirens by ordering his crew to tie him to the mast of the ship, while the sailors were enchanted by the long and expressive sounds of fascinating music. He wanted to confront the legend and did not follow the call, being the only one to save himself from the cruel temptation. English painter William Etty painted the whole scene "The Sirens and Ulysses" using an experimental technique that, however, caused it to deteriorate as soon as it was finished.

The chorus of a song interpreted from a glorious myth perspective is in no way devoid of real correspondence, it predominates in a seduction of colors that exhausts its duration resources far too early.

The only motivation of living the past, by a mortal who overcomes immortality by the art of revolting a long-lived reality, as the crystal reflected in the intensity of emotions overcomes bitterness, giving the courage to start over again, is a reduction to the expression of astral significance: Everything resumes in another form and another octave !

Only a grandiose artist can reproduce a reality and context of a certain event concerning the concept of "cosmic voyage" from and back to yourself. First, he convinces himself of the veracity of a world hypothesis close to a particular topic, then translates it into an innovative theme by including a "prolonged life assurance" in favor of a hazard contest reflected by a phenomenon cosmogonic masterly aestheticized.

Leadership: Do you consecrate the idea of resuming a fact that can be accepted as a prototype and a copy of previous interactions between myth and truth?

A bizarre continuity seems to link the movements of a visual art to the oscillatory movement of a virtual gravitational pendulum, reminiscent of the sound of a distant flute, or the production of a seduction that does not disappear too easily, stiffening the body and soul, color and line, allowing them to fade away.

This continuity seems to have as a sensitive basis of the pictorial construction the actual concern to chromatically surmise the transparency of a crystal in which the atoms of a perpetuation of latent content from a life script written by an invisible hand are repeated by the reflection of cosmic waves of energy as in almost all Borgesian fiction.

The unmatched plasticity of an astral projection is subject to laws other than those that mankind has discovered over the centuries, because it continually rephrases the idea of reformulating events in favor of a "Mirror" present that, in time, becomes a legend.

Argentinian writer Jorge Luis Borges wondered: how could an infinite ensemble be enumerated, at least in part, without his written testimony being contaminated by falsity? He said: "In that ungraspable moment I have seen a million things, pleasant or frightening. None struck me harder than the fact that all of them occupied the same point without overlapping and without being transparent. What my eyes saw was simultaneous, while what I'm going to transcribe is successive, because that's what makes it so lingering. I will, however, try to capture something."

You must know to see from the depth of the primary detail before asserting the relevance of the final point of view, to receive a true work of art that at one point will explode in one way of artistic expression by mirroring: "You and I Could feel as once."

The artist and the past of the world are like two sharp-edged swords that only the expression of a subjective vision makes them trust each other.

The great secret of the artistic effect concerns the only detail that rebuilds a world: the mirroring of one's own personality in the skin of a mythological character, reminiscing legendary adventures and trying to become a hero recognized by all the other members of a real, spiritual and generating of aspirations universe.

The Unmatched Plasticity Of Astral Projection is given by the word closed in the desert of centuries called "mythology", from which the artist takes inspiration for the magical beings of the same making as him because of his inclination to surrealism and the convincing demonstration of the continuity of a legendary life.

The Unseen Power Of A Condemned Man (II)

Resize your own limits, for your progress not to acquire valences too high.

Hannibal Lecter is doomed to explore the world alone, confront it and control it, by wanting to condemn it to be under the power of his oversized ego. The complex implications of the role that it has to fulfill cannot bring to light its defining traits. For this all-embracing man knows enough chemistry to predict the outcome of reactions that will occur over time between different contrast elements in the context of events. He also knows to reschedule himself, creating new optimization and security algorithms. Everything turns into a hidden mechanic of roles in a long process of resizing personal limits.

Like the powerful Vautrin in Balzac's work, the genius from the shadow who controlled events from behind closed doors with intuition and psychological sense, Hannibal Lecter also seems to know and decide everything, but does not always want to speak. Everything is done and undone behind bars because of his mind and ingenuity.

And when this relentless man dips in the faith-filled words: "If I don't go to the mountain, the mountain comes to me", everything acquires magical valences, amplifying its evolution. Even isolated, Hannibal appears to have total control over events, managing to slow or boost them. FBI calls on him to solve tricky cases. Even a pact is made between these two distinct parts. But, obscure, this mind full of sharp judgment and reasoning is also full of contrasts. Pay great care, great attention !

The experience of being a strong man is akin to enjoying a cup of tea: only when you feel something hot does the blood in you turn on.

You would think that this old and exhausted condemned man will long wait passively, outside the scope of events, in the shadow of disgrace, in a dark cell. A permanent nullity of the being at the end of his rope. However, a latent force gives him the power to be more than he is, regenerating his existential stage, giving him substrate for a sustainable revitalization. His neurons renew, his muscles tighten, his blood pressure rises, his breathing intensifies and all senses become sharper. And so Hannibal can better focus on his main objective: supersizing his existence.

It is possible for Hannibal, due to its overall effort to seize and govern all forces, laws and constants of psychology, to live the idea of its totality together with the sense of grace, characteristic to this experience. His unitary character is the sum of his components, his leadership capabilities, unseen and indecipherable by anyone. Of the whole set of possibilities, variations and combinations designed to keep alive his own identity.

Leadership: Do you have the ability to dedicate yourself to your totality so that what you control with the help of the Ego becomes defining for obtaining an effect: "I deserve everything I can get"?

He who has the merit to have sailed on the great mysteries of life, thus dominated by a permanent dialogue between himself and, say, his "madness", can never be self-satisfied. He wants more, wants to find a place where he can perceive the world differently and even lead it. And only by canceling all appearances he can intensify those inner powers able to overcome the limits of his own knowledge and power of initiative.

This super-individualism, translated into a care-free attitude above all circumstances, rather than develop, it fades for the unfulfilled people on a personal level, who want to hold maximum power. And only by realistically reconfiguring aspects related to projecting their real needs, a filling of the functional gaps can be done specifically or exclusively, enabling their defining traits to evolve.

Leadership does not evade personal rigors. It can propagate into the vacuum, in the area of functionality that allows "inner forces users" to access in real time their search results and turn them through a process of tacit collaboration. And that, as they build new thinking structures.

But what constantly seeks the man who does not remain tied in the time straitjacket? More than likely, he wants to gain authority, to possess that freedom of vision, of will. And, above all, the freedom to independently judge his missions.

And this "I deserve everything I can get" becomes the essence of his life, convincingly illustrated in the case of Hannibal Lecter. One such individual commits submissively to his totality, living this idea with the fullness of his perfection, like a falling star, but rising brighter in another hemisphere – a la dolce vita, in the sense of solidarity with his own being, his extremes and his own beliefs.

Leadership: Can you be identical with someone who, no matter how hard they try to prove the opposite of their own nature, is nevertheless prone to transpose into a majority force, unconditioned by any high purpose?

What is Hannibal Lecter looking? To never be identical with someone else, to have nothing that can jeopardize his position of the privileged territory of intuitive and well mastered leadership. Between thought and decision, in order to achieve the ultimate goal – psychological victory – no force must interfere. Bold, such a man tightens everything in the ribbons of his ideas and unleashes horsepower: aspirations and development efforts, which however do not fit into the normal pattern.

Why is the tiger a more complex and tenacious hunter than lions or hyenas that hunt only in groups? Because isolation creates conditions for the development of abilities far superior than those created by integrity.

The extensive use of personal progress is currently profiled exclusively on integration, on production of development resources shared in common, having both an intuitive and a practical dimension. Brainstorming plus action.

But there will always be isolated cases of individuals, with capacities above average, which will act freely, through intensity, talent awareness, promoting individual skills and experiences. And they will dictate the course of the world, for better or for worse.

As in the past, so in the future. A minority thoughtful force, misunderstood and obscure, will be more important than a united majority force, but which is inconsistent and unconditional to a higher purpose. And a man who wants to prove to you the opposite of his own nature is a man who realizes the "negativity" of his personality, but is nevertheless advanced to prove his superiority at any cost, even at the risk of the world's opposition.

Leadership is the quality of relating to the effort to be strong, intelligent, knowledgeable, giving great importance to lives through the superiority extracted from the conviction of others that you are full of affection, not just a better professional than them.

The unseen power of a condemned man designates those internal forces that can develop when supported by strong incentives, to create a genuine uniqueness directed toward good or evil.

The Unseen Power Of A Condemned Man (I)

On November 30, 2013

Monitor your progress and moderate your development so as to pass the critical threshold of pushing the Ego to the extreme.

Being a notorious criminal means being a very cold-blooded psychologist, but in such a way that his coolness comes out only through the significance given to the events in which his personality is reflected. The limits of functional structure, whereby the explosion of motivation and inspiration occurs, in a mixture of passion and pride, are directed towards maximum values. These limits of acceptability between which Hannibal Lecter oscillates, lives, struggles, thinks and decides, never reach the critical threshold. But they do not drop either towards medium or normal values.

Even exiled from society, this ruthless man, this inexhaustible brain, the active center of all intellectual processes of analysis and discernment, remains a hard rock fragment propelled in an atmosphere of safety, a la dolce vita, because it remains untouched in his depths. If we study carefully Hannibal Lecter through a giant magnifying glass, we can see that this high voltage human generator acts both in intensity and extension.

Just as the insulating layer of the human body shell reduces heat loss and increases body resistance, so this man's internal regulator, which ensures functioning without jams, reduces the time lost assembling the pieces of a puzzle that do not have a chance to blend perfectly. His dominant power feeds and is exerted through science and a thorough thinking, applicable only under conditions imposed by him. And these conditions create great confusion for others.

Investigating the arguments underlying cause-effect reasoning, placing them in a sustained crescendo, Hannibal strengthens his own capital of resources necessary to create new perspectives and new opportunities to explore his most powerful talent. Namely, the talent to maintain himself, to accompany himself, totally abandoning himself to his power of self-suggestion in the ivory tower of self-knowledge. Only by raising questions vis-à-vis of what he really is, he will be able to keep up with his own self-image.

Leadership: Does the dominant power with which you surround your personality allow you to observe the full extent of the events you take part in by reflecting your own mind in a universe called "emanation of an oversized Ego "?

A car, no matter how beautifully designed, if it does not have the technical features that make it superior to others as useful object, its aesthetic form will matter very little. When it comes to leadership, the element of "quality" must complement the element of "superiority", to match each other and be closely related, not dissolve completely in "particular" and "random".

An oversized ego is a man's instinct to feed on the abundance of the weaknesses of others. Leadership is dominated by the principle of singularity and harmony, not by that of generality, expanding or narrowing down depending on the psycho-professional level of human, which ensures survival in the "vacuum" during arid and dark phases of life. And this is what converts leadership into a "product" of necessity.

The sum of the events of one's own life, as the denominator of a thought of the type "I am who I am", is seen as an extension of the oversized mind with a unique reflection on life:

"The satiated glutton is starving nonetheless", as Dimitrie Cantemir rightly observes. The power that defines such an individual is best exemplified by a quote from Lord Byron: "Any virtue is merely a matter of price."

Leadership: How long can you remain untouched in your depths, so that your ability, this talent of feeling "Superior", does not manifest itself in a way that you would like to deny?

While analyzing your true status, either of defeated or winner, the contrasts of the world you conceive have no excuse. In any situation, the position you adopt and the courage to constantly support it, constituting the true reflection of what you really are, need to be translated into a consistent motivational approach, one profoundly transformative and progressive.

An irresistible occupation helps you better project your own existential film, but it is not enough to show a certain loyalty to yourself. And a new approach to space development can be however praiseworthy, but if it doesn't work in the same way with your superior necessities, vital in rebuilding those qualitative aspects of functionality, loses all meaning.

To remain untouched in your depths means to keep the monopoly on your entire character even in solitude, even in harsh circumstances. Any moral contradictions, whose sole objective is to warn you, can temporarily slow down your reactions and your insight. Therefore, only if you get to the point where you start to identify with your character, with your own self, with your own pattern of thought, with your own creation, you will be able to find yourself again in the irresistible embrace of what you really are.

Your dominant power feeds and is exerted through science and a thorough thinking, applicable in any situation? Do you know your true potential? Do you possess the talent to maintain yourself, to accompany yourself, totally abandoning yourself to your power of discernment in the ivory tower of self-knowledge?

To recognize your superiority at any cost means to increase your self-worth without listening to your conscience, and to deny your superiority means to abuse your mind in an inappropriate way.

The unseen power of a condemned man symbolizes that high intensity inner strength that generates a beneficial pro-reform status. Or an evil one. Are you doomed to be a reformer or a breaker of your own identity?

The Unseen Side of Leadership

On April 17, 2019

The turning points when a destabilization of the Ego can occur can occur more often as the process of creation of your art is closer to perfection.

Cella Serghi is the writer who cannot forget her past so deepened in the work of other writers around her. So well she expresses her feelings about them, that is, as the pleasant or unpleasant ones predominate, that it is difficult for us to make an opinion about the way in which her mind protects itself from the things it is not ready to accept. In her memoirs we find the writer Mihail Sebastian, whom Cella feels not only enormously attracted to, but saddened by his way of giving himself to a writer's activity that will mark her destiny:

What really excites us in the light of the tragic end of Mihail Sebastian, are the pages where he dwells on Proust's death. So much lacks even the shadow of premonition, the vague uneasiness of his own destiny in everything he writes about the death of the French writer that these lines make him feel more alive. The word "death" he pronounces so often gives them a strange surplus of life. Line after line, with exceptional possibilities of analysis, detailing the various compartments of correspondence, with a love for truth that is in line with his Proustian passion and his talent. Mihail Sebastian will show all the paradoxes in Proust's literary destiny.

What helps Cella Serghi define herself as a writer of great talent, which provides her with interesting answers regarding her personality which suffers from the pain of separation from her loved ones, the pain of a wound that cannot be healed, is the determination to suppress her desires rejected by a too agitated, too ephemeral existence, too narrow to the grandiose requirements too high for a being of her kind. Practically, following the destiny of other writers in her entourage, she becomes a witness to a grandeur that ended before ever seeing the light of day.

Leadership: Can you share your rare experience of experiencing a story through images without becoming part of a character who is complacent in an existence independent of one's own will?

The idea that a work that is long-lasting is never over, makes Cella Serghi an unhappy judge of her own creation. If the author of the "Bach Music Concert" sparks a spontaneous redaction, depending on the dynamic interior springs, feverish, Cella Serghi always re-assesses herself, working out the details, taking it all in, reorganizing the construction of her novels from one edition to the next.

I have always refreshed Cartea Mironei to answer the questions that were asked at the time and are still being asked today. I browsed through dozens of notebooks looking for the thread that binds the destinies of my heroes, I rebuilt the paths that I have followed in my search. I accept myself from the perspective of what I have experienced outside of myself because I have managed to survive through everything they have gone through, from pleasure to pain, through a sovereign magnificence to the experiences I have allowed to spread at will before my eyes, so that I could create as many support points as I can for my soul.

To experience everything outside of yourself is to relate to the reality of people who are experiencing impetuous tendencies to explain life, outlining their psychic and emotional portraits on account of such profound themes as "Light and Darkness", "Forgiveness or Forgetfulness". Cella Serghi has strong words to say about her heroes' destinies, but lets us understand that she is not the architect of their destiny.

This is what it means to be a true artist: to be credible through what you create, but at the same time to not let it be understood that the events you coordinate on the artistic plane happen at your will.

Leadership: What significance can you give to your existence between an emotional weakness (the art of accepting yourself from the perspective of what you experience outside of yourself) and a discouragement that you have to get rid of (the feeling that everything will end) ?

Cella Serghi does not seem to live only for her life and work, but for the notoriety of those who have contributed to her achievement, a post-mortem notoriety. The confrontation of its old values with the spirit of sacrifice of the writers who had the courage to express during the war the high ideals of freedom and union that still animated the souls of Romanians everywhere, is the very dream of an unrivaled life, the dream of an ideal world. A dream that seems to be replaced with a bitter tear: the act of experiencing a Kafkaesque reality in which people wish for their death rather than suffering.

We may be tempted to believe that Cella Serghi manages to live her troubled youth giving only one meaning to her existence: to proclaim the creative triumph of the writer who has learned the gift of words and high senses precisely in the presence of death. You can feel in her that tragedy of a person who is constantly traveling away from the past, but she is always crying because everywhere she has to go, she has to play the role of a leading actor on a small, improvised stage, where the tension is more and more acute, the world following her every gesture commemorating the heroes that are almost forgotten.

An artist struggles with a cruel illness: the sin of the remorse of being alive. In the end, it is also a kind of representation of the immortal genius condition, a lasting breath that animates the artist to taste the cup of a new victory against the leakage of time, a dependence on the unpenetrated infinity of the original reality, but also an immersion in the work of a painter who plays with color and shape somewhere on the border between figurative and abstract.

In it there is a destabilization of the Ego because she is incapable of reacting in a certain way to the events already happening, she hurts deeply from everything beautiful she experienced or everything that clouded her aspirations towards a better world. Still, she feels able to interpret someone else's role by understanding her own role and the limits in which she must fit and act.

In her memoirs, Cella Serghi approaches perfection through an approach to the image of an artistic consciousness in the form of a theoretical consciousness of the tragic, torn from an embrace that smells of death. One single meaning can be attributed to such an atypical existence on all the planes of a terminal confession of a symptomatic character: that of a tendency to reject change, because it is more painful than death. She has the power to live in the present only because she relates to the past.

Leadership: Does your slipping to the margins of individuality encounter an opposite force from the challenge of truly knowing yourself as being a master of passions that seem irreversible?

The relationship between the nature of man and his destiny, which Cella feels after the deterioration of the Ego captured between the ephemeralness of life and the eternity of death, ensures a perfect correspondence between the approaches and the consequences experienced at a time of remembrance when the only thread of light that passes through from the troubled flame of war was the dream of building a story of a spirit of finesse, of a sensible intellect, traveler through time.

Memories are painful not because they make you feel alone, but because you are expecting that nothing will change in your current situation.

Cella Serghi tries in her memoirs to explore the most sensitive areas of the human being, thereby showing that she is the master of any activity of emotion that "puts the world between brackets", this seating herself as a reference pillar in psychology and cognitive science, in the reception and the artistic understanding of educational life experiences, enhancers of meaning and inspiration.

I also tend to believe that in her individuality, the active manifestation of personal freedom to think and feel according to the needs, inclinations, interests, and abilities of her heroes is the satisfaction of being alive while all of them have gone, leaving only memory and inspiration.

If you want to permeate that inner necessity that reflects your will and your power to self-define and to rise to your aspirations, which constrains you to freely and arbitrarily choose between the possibilities of the force of change, return to the the stage of your evolution up to the beginning, without anchoring yourself in the shadow of what you were.

Evaluate your past and the origins you struggle to conceal, and build your present around a central pivot of well-maintained objectives in the consecutive field of positive forces. Your slip to the edges of individuality will encounter an opposite force from the pain of knowing yourself to truly be a master of passions that seem irreversible, as a result you will experience a life of refuge, a world beyond books, greater emotional wear, an uncontrollable state of anger and sadness.

The triumph of manifesting a full and lasting identity is the art of accepting yourself from the perspective of what is happening to you when you judge and feel through the prism of what allow to be seen behind you.

The Unseen Side Of Leadership has as a correspondent the desire to experience a new artistic approach to feel, follow, interact and connect with everything and everyone around you without giving a tragic sense to your existence, without abandoning yourself to a story that overwhelms you through its fatidic character.

The Unsettling Immobility Of Jack Crawford

On November 21, 2013

Test your ability to practice an opening towards new self-knowledge horizons, so that your evolution won't be placed under the auspices of a somber ending.

The storm of exasperation unleashes with an unstoppable force over Jack Crawford, leader of the "Behavioral Science Unit" within the FBI. An inner shake is followed by the formidable noise of the friction between elements and the energy gathered in the only stage of the fight against negative thoughts. They're there because of the inability to cope with the tricky case of "Buffalo Bill." This unseen, unknown criminal is looking for new victims. And all the blame is put on the shoulders of the person leading the investigation.

The whole evolution and performance of Jack Crawford seems to be placed under the auspices of a somber ending. Is he still the qualified person for this mission to identify the sick human type who brings disadvantages to society? Can he still reach in the unreachable and set the oscillations of manifestations and behavioral formulae for the murderous ghost who shamelessly haunts, with its intrigues, with its uncommon force, every single place?

All of Crawford's skills in forensics and in profilage basé sur l'analyse de l'esprit seem to be locked down in three manuscripts, always reread and reevaluated: the Bible of facts, the Bible of clues and the Bible of their art, revealing first and foremost the distinct industry of his instincts, of the solutions he adopted and their effects. But these Bibles must be constantly interpreted, eliminating the untruths or accidental mistakes. Because nothing connects in this case. Just like a scholar of the art, he must gather, classify, mix, and distill the isolated elements, thus practicing some sort of chemistry of solutions and combinations.

When Buffalo Bill strikes in the middle of the night, everything shakes in Crawford. He seems to be touched by a red iron, feeling a shiver through his whole body. The news falls like an axe above his head. The words of general Alexander Suvorov seem to pound in his mine: "I don't know any other way of recognizing the enemy, except going to him and beating him up ! " But where is the enemy hiding? Who is he, actually?

Leadership: Can you increase the impact between what you expect to provide to your reality and what is offered to you integrated into the struggle with yourself in terms of experiencing an extended state of consciousness?

Experiencing an extended state of consciousness means experiencing the events directly as if you were the one triggering them and suffering from them. The only thing that makes you wonder "where all the problems and troubles come from" is the impact of reality on your mind that can create the impression of madness.

In the confusing game of searching, Crawford is taken over by an unstoppable panic, as if he would be waiting terrified for a cataclysm. He seems to be caught in the jaws of the burdensome approaches of psychological aspects. Only by connecting in parallel more high precision "resistors" on the circuit between promptitude, severity and pragmatism, he can would be able to point his investigation in the right direction. And reach some relevant conclusions.

Devastating ! In the subterraneans of his mind there are changes of the stimuli concentration which no longer ensure the dosage of ideas for solving the case. The nucleus of his internal functioning system can no longer use new resources. All the necessary information for regulating functionality seems to degenerate. His capacities are gathered in an autonomous region, losing their vitality. Confronted with the confusing vitality, he'd prefer an admission of clear facts, trying to think independently, to be responsible and to trust his own strength.

But he can't fulfill this imperfect road of research. And then, the fight takes place inside of him. There is a rupture between two ways of „being" which can't be so easily repaired. A hollow in the wall of science. A discrepancy between two distinct manners to approach psychology and human personality. Confused, Crawford seems to enter an uncontrollable spiral of the capacity to shed light and rebuild his own efficiency resources, needed in order to support the application of his experience.

Leadership: Do you allow your functioning system to go in "Standby" mode on the line of the supreme power of discernment to see the transience of the world and human futility through a single dominant subject?

Jack Crawford's consciousness manifests against the backdrop of trying to discern between the nefarious discernment of his research and the impact of a leaked message from reality that he is experiencing intensely: "You can't be certain of what you find out ! "

The dominant subject testing and almost overwhelming him is not catching Buffalo Bill, but escaping from the darkness of the human mind that he experiences as an existential blockade.

By making profiles based on the analysis of mid and through a combination of criteria, one can measure the extent to which each rule is powered by the progress mechanism of man. In this case, leadership targets that certain situation which can intervene during the match between man and himself. When the contradictions between external requests and internal possibilities, by activating them, impede the development of potential and the formation of those strategies which could support intellective activities.

Automatically starting the process to change or to rehabilitate the assembly of particularities which make you a unique being, especially when your functioning system goes in "Standby", is mostly a chore and a tiresome inner work. Because in this case there is no approach that can keep the perception of unity, the elements which contribute to the structure of thinking can't be places in a continuous development area. That's why your entire performance and evolution is placed under the auspices of a somber ending.

The British coach and author, Julian Russell, pointed out that: "The minds of leaders always search for new ways to exploit their distinct abilities. But they don't turn mental agility into a resource one can turn to when things aren't exactly going the right way."

This is just a small part of what defines leaders, and it doesn't always apply. Because it doesn't bear the complexity implied by prevention and protection activities in the stage of battle, difficult to overcome, against negative thoughts owed to the inability to deal with the inner reality.

Leadership is that part of human existence that is carried out under the pressure of conviction that everything you try to know about how the world works and its most praiseworthy aspects is in fact the reflection in the mirror of the authority you represent.

The Unsettling Immobility Of Jack Crawford refers to the lack of that concordant flexibility with the unforeseen situations that continue by taking new forms with negative impact on carrying on with a normal existence.

Preventing any hit below the belt means being permanently one step ahead of your inner opponent – by continuous personal professional development, but also by developing synthesis and analysis abilities. And, when possible, also by developing that ability to anticipate any operational regression and any psychical "attack".

The Untapped Potential Of The Dying

Take control of a scenario that uses values related to the people's past, present and future, so as to complete the win-win scenario that gives the correct measure of leadership.

What should astound us in the Battle of Waterloo is the English determination, the English blood. Not the commander, but the army.

Wellington, with an incomprehensible lack of gratitude, says in a letter to Lord Bathurst that his army was a very weak one. What does the dark bustle of bones buried beneath the furrows of Waterloo say about this?

To raise Wellington to such heights means to lower the image of England. Wellington is but a hero like any other, he was courageous. This was his merit and we do not take it lightly, but the last of his infantrymen and horsemen were just as courageous as he was.

As far as we are concerned, all of our admiration goes to the English soldier. If anyone has any right to a trophy, then England is the one that deserves it. The monument at Waterloo would be more fitting if, instead of one man's face, a statue of a nation would be built.

It is known that at the Battle of Inkermann, a sergeant who, apparently, saved the army from annihilation, could not be mentioned by Lord Raglan, because the English military hierarchy does not allow any hero with a rank lower than that of an officer to be quoted in the order of the day. *

Leadership: Are your qualities compromised because of your connection to an obscure command channel, in a context of determinations that produce different angles of convergence of history with life lived through vulnerability and courage?

What attracts us also to leadership is not so much the knowledge as a whole, decisive in creating an encompassing vision, but the ability to capture and understand what the mass majority doesn't, what escapes control and cannot be "foreseen" or "influenced".

Here we refer to the singular man, the constant power factor missing from a unitary whole, which intimidates the unfolding of events by the very coverage that it gives to a particular form of progress. He represents a coherent system of integration of an experience of mobility and sacrifice in a new apprehension of the world. And his unique qualities are the ability to understand the true meaning of life and the ability to convey to others the dramatic tension of history.

The dying are the consequence of a current form of reaction affecting the way of the world. They are not like some commands given by a user which can be interpreted and executed by a computer by following a preset algorithm, they are not the instructions which are executed at the commands given by the user. Instead, they represent the permanent support of error corrections, that percentage of replies at the end of some queries, those resources of power that determine the stability level of the system called "fatality", deciding on the order in which the final version of heroism that remains in the eternity will be executed.

Death cannot claim any privilege or quality in the vast area of the "insignificant". This is proof that the reforms initiated by leaders languish, they drop the price of any of man's achievements of making a model of inspiration from his deeds, making the promotion of his prestige non-negotiable. It is proof that the adopted form of leadership does not lead, not even close, to what was expected: the raising of man's quality level at the height of a destiny that establishes its existence and eternity.

Leadership: Can you take on a life dominated by the challenges of a destiny that flows into eternity, expanding your ability to take better care of yourself in an attempt to influence the evolution of the world?

It is of no use that you are in command, in the extended story of the world, in front of the attempt of conquering laurels, if you suffer from limitations built around a single indicator: ingratitude. Are you haunted by the feeling that you are in control of a scenario that does not use values relevant to the past or at the very least to the present and one which is not sure if it will take shape in the future?

If you do not overlap the link created with people more and more, in terms of gratitude, the results that will come after this created unicity will never be cherished by themselves, but through themselves. Recklessness is sometimes a state of grace, but a minus in leadership, it is the quality of the weak.

This means that the main "channel" of command and control, an obscure one, that you administer through the means of leadership, does not connect to a generator of continuous values. It is obscure because it is cold, because it is void by any trace of gratitude, because it is heading towards an area of gain on account of others' work. Such leadership is a realm of imperfection that does not value the potential of men, it is a disease of indifference towards those you claim to represent.

Your qualities of leadership are compromised if you do not initiate a fundamental change at the level of common consciousness, through which people are not to feel confused, and not to produce a reversal of the scale of values or marginalization of their value and, thus, of the dimension of the meaning of life. Qualities such as the courage to confront an adverse destiny, the power to suffer a tragedy, or the patience to witness the world's events can have long-term echoes in the great history of humanity.

As a leader, you hold on your shoulders the weight of an empire ideally crafted not through the trophies earned by others, but by combining uniqueness with the potential of greatness. People must be crossed by two feelings: that you won because of them, and that they won because of you. Only this way is made whole the win-win scenario that gives the correct measure of leadership.

Leadership is the monument of the unknown hero who accepted the challenge of having a well-defined role in a world whose historical evolution coincided with the perspective of eternity.

The Untapped Potential of The Dying highlights the substantial contribution of the unknown to the successes of a performing leadership, applied as a standard for a "contract" signed under unequal conditions, that nonetheless proves advantageous in the short term, but without the possibility of being validated at high levels.

Because a leadership without a retinue of supporters whose merits are not recognized and mentioned in any event, ends up not being taken into account or it destabilizes itself.

The Unusual Encounter Of Man With A Man (II)

On March 10, 2013

Fit out of all those development patterns of "existential" leadership, by experiencing a new personality dimension in the reality that you conceive by yourself.

I was trapped in a continuous, delirious loop that carried on various parallel operations, thus increasing the inaccuracy possibility. Notably, I went through a completely void, reversible cycle made out of transformations or various reversible fusions. I couldn't distinguish anything from this intertwining of moods and transitions between moods, in this amalgam of thoughts that I couldn't clearly delimit. There were irregularly successions, ascending and descending like micro-current electrodes that positioned themselves in a neutral area, with rebound potential.

I couldn't perceive what was really going on; I didn't understand anything of what's happening to me. It was an obsession, and the obsession became more overwhelming as I was approaching the truth, the unseen side of me. Me and my own universe, inseparables as Castor and Pollux. And yet bounded by a discontinuous line - by an illusion, by a weakness. What stood between us, what could facilitate the process of a union between us? We could have strengthened our bond, becoming one and the same, a whole, an entity and not an instance of a bond?

Leadership: Can you form a new perception of who you really are through experiences lived at the limit between what corresponds to reality and what is subject to trying to detach yourself from common clichés?

An excerpt of "The Black Riders" by Stephen Crane, lingered in my mind:

A man declares to the Universe:

"Sir, I exist ! "

Still, replied the Universe:

"This didn't create any certain obligation for me."

Who was this man within me that had existed this whole time, this half that started to accentuate itself in comparison with my own perception of the expectations of a reality that takes place plenary in imaginative activity? Was he a universe? How much did he value? What obligation did I have to him?

A real harmony can not exist without the existence of a polarity. I had to search deeply within me for "the Man", to find the quintessence of my being beyond space and time, beyond every limitation principle, without asking every time if he is the terminus point of my existence.

I had to submit myself to trying to detach myself from common clichés like "that's how things are" in order to build my own ivory tower in which I sometimes happened to set foot in, as in a temporal bubble, and enter a different time and space. Only to realize that the only thing that could help me feel the present in all its glory was the ability to detach myself from certain wishes and let happen only what was right for me, something dictated only by a higher entity.

Leadership: Can you validate your autonomy of reason to exist by maximizing the reflection of what you really are within the perimeter of reality which is meant to be a truth of being and at the same time a microcosm of the universe?

The way you perceive your personality, by virtue of an algorithm for the detection of peculiarities that distinguish you and make you be yourself, allowing you to express your greatest version, can either support stabilizing the development direction within the society or mobilizing progressive development around certain ideas of redefining reality.

Since you're interested in what happens to your own being and the surrounding environment, accents probably fall on your assessment and training standard that influences the pace and trend of your existence. Only thus you begin to have some idea about what you're missing if you fail to recognize and conquer that part of you that pretends to be unapproachable - that universe that can absorb good and evil.

The only truth of the being in which I struggle to live is that I cannot stop myself from looking into an imaginary mirror that takes my image from another perspective of the universe, meant to show me that there is a personal God present in my life.

That part of yourself that you recognize as sovereign is much different from that part of you that keeps you trapped in that fraction of a universe that is moving slowly towards freedom of thought which precedes revelations and deed. As these two great contrasts well-defined in an ambiguous interior do not appear too often in the context of leadership, we must look elsewhere, in the area of fundamental values, in the context of exposure to the reality that allows assuming the state of things.

The reflection of what you really are within the perimeter of this reality, by joining the two contrasts that enhance your attitude, feelings and character, makes you a leader able to validate his autonomy.

Leadership: Is the existence that you aspire to, the result of a game with a strong player, starting from the premise that everything that conveys your inner voice is a message coming from a different order of things than the dominant one?

During one of the webinars I said: "In order to go his own way, the leader must validate his most valuable virtues by enlighting, so he must go through its own process of understanding."

This process of understanding sets out the maximum effect that "existential" leadership can produce by experiencing a new personality dimension in the reality that you conceive by yourself.

The Existence you want to reach is the result of a match with a strong player, with "the Man" within you. Look at this game in two with big interest. The true winner, proving his perseverance in any kind of situations, is this almost infallible tandem: You and Him, two entities of the same body.

There is no desire more natural for someone who aspires at the leader statute than the desire to reach full knowledge. He is trying by all means that can lead him there. If the judgment fails and he can't use his experience, he calls forth "the Man" within him.

The art to rise above any limits through various attempts is born – not out of isolation but out of the permanent contact with your most representative side, your working side. Its role lit your path.

A message originating from a different order of things than the dominant one can be formulated as follows: "The way in which you conceive the relationship with the reality you are experiencing is a way of experiencing the universe, so that you will have to reorganize it."

The unusual meeting of man with a man highlights the reflection of who you really are within the perimeter of a reality created by yourself by joining the two parts of you: a leading one and another one, vital for your individuality.

Channel your attention towards "the Man" within you, towards your true mobility and prospective core. Experience unity ! Look deep within yourself; look for the quintessence of your being beyond space and time, beyond any limitation principle, without asking yourself every time if it's the terminus point of your existence. Dig in the huge deposit of life and reality by self-knowledge and try to extract all these minerals that crystallize your identity.

The Unusual Encounter Of Man With A Man (I)

Discover "the Man" within you in order to complete the whole frame of your individuality.

I reached towards what was essential for my becoming, towards the unusual, towards a new destination. My psychology searched to discover the Man within Man, the absolute, abstract man, who lies hidden under the unsafe layer of my identity. That part of me, more consistent and more important, that I couldn't bring to light, but that desperately demanded to be uncovered and recognized, then left to flow free like a river, so that its power transformed my surrounding reality.

Man's hidden mission was to complete me, like a brother, like a natural symmetry, like a wholesome harmony, perfecting the whole frame of my individuality. A deceitful double game, with a switch that serves a creative cause, a compelling scientific method to explain something by comparison with something else. An uncertainty? An incredible incursion in a big adventure, a complex synthesis of the Self that comprises, mostly, of unifying the subconscious with the conscience?

A wheel that spins in one way only can't be deviated to the opposite way without being touched. My whole universe, my inner world was pretty disoriented, wavering. Like a decrease and increase in the electrical field's intensity, between two maximum values. What could bring me back to a safe development without producing a rupture in the known status quo?

Leadership: Do you end up just like the object of your attention in the sense of forming the belief that achieving a fundamental inner plan will provide depth of living, seriousness of expression, and consistency in integrating all aspects into everyday life?

Do you tend towards what is essential to your becoming? What lies under the unsafe layer of your identity? Can you bring to light that consistent part of yourself that desperately demands attention? What is the mission of the man hidden within you? What can bring you back to a safe development without producing a rupture in the known status quo?

Everything that we know about ourselves, all the elements that represent us, compel us, complete us, define us and help us evolve in a totally particular manner. A great man is the expression of an exceptional inner dialogue between the adult and the child within you, between the visionary and the experimenter, between the dreamer and the realist, between the critic and the artist, a dialogue that does not avoid questions and answers to what keeps you connected to a certain state of things meant to inspire you some emotional and intellectual comfort.

The representation that we bring to the archetype we portray, our individual role in relation to the way we perceive ourselves, to what comes from our inner source, is the first and most important conscience that we have to acquire. It is also obtain by going through that irreversible cycle made of transformations that lead to the formation of your identity in the end.

The man you hide within you is like a diary-masterpiece that tells the experience of experiences that have impressed you with their strength and seduction of a "New World".

We can evolve in so many ways that we don't know which the true one is, we don't know which one of them has the most adequate maturity level, and thus, we don't know which of them should we hold on to. But only the more consistent part of ourselves, which we can bring to surface, has the power to transform reality and existence. Therefore, the object of your attention should not only be the reality in which you live, subject to a codified representation of the present, but the story of an incursion into a great adventure, the strangeness of which can rarely be achieved during the adventurous existence.

What happens to you in everyday life creates that sense of belonging to the "us" entity: a part of you that allows for a discreet glimpse of a creator-like perspective, and one that lets you see a continuation of the story in which you find yourself, in a reading journal.

If we keep the distance between us and "the Man" within us, this factor that makes up our operating pattern, in the relentless dynamic of life, in the continuous struggle for its conquest, we will never be able to get close to perfection. We will never succeed to calibrate the bow that holds our tension potential in an opening direction towards the future, towards new, towards the real target: excellence.

Leadership: Can you find guidance from a belief that shows you that in life "The most precious thing remains unseen" from the perspective of reporting to a presence that makes you think that nothing can completely disappear?

Reaching excellence is a process, a continuous activity to detach yourself from the leading platoon of the "marathon runners". In fact, excellence means constantly holding a dialogue with yourself to extract the lessons of perfect thinking about how the reality surrounding you should look like, taking into account the considerations of an information value of the facts, events and happenings that constitute the intrigue of an unforgettable story. And such information can be a communication about a certain aspect of objective reality, or a notion of broad philosophical generality.

One of the best ways to get closer to excellence isn't to instruct others, but to be able to instruct "the Man" within you – to entrust him with the mission of leading you, to allow him to accompany you everywhere, to let him display all his strength to acquire coordination, stability and vigilance.

I read somewhere on the Internet an interesting thing: "When you look behind the criteria that divide people based on: skin color, ethnicity, clothes, etc. – you understand that these things are insignificant. The things that we should point out are their values. When you look behind small differences, you will discover in depth the real individuality of each of them – the one that represents me, and represents you, the one that represents us all."

True individuality is based on including "the Man" within you in the sphere of your existence; he is that significant presence, your true guide, who fully represents you in any moment of life. The individuality of a man can also be thought up from the perspective of reporting to a presence that makes you believe that nothing can completely disappear from reality, because reality is manifested by a continuous change of one's own person seen from two hypostases: a consciousness of self and the consciousness of communicating the message created in the light of their own experiences.

He is, quoting writer Antoine de Saint-Exupery, the jewel that remains unseen and misunderstood for most people – making up for a part of a complex reality, more difficult to access and approach, but that, in an exuberant rush of recovering clichés that periodically accompany transformation, control your evolutionary trajectory.

The belief that shows you that in life "The most precious thing remains unseen" is that you can control almost everything that happens to you with the condition that everything you think of an aspire to must relate to that part of you that knows that you can count more on what is seen from the outside, that you can reveal more about yourself than what is seen in the surrounding environment.

The Unusual Encounter Of Man With A Man points out the consequences of this sweet encounter with the "Man" within us. It depends on each of us to make him our ally or enemy, if we have convergent or divergent interests.

Like a piano player that practices with an amazing and sure precision every difficult fragment of the piece he will interpret in front of an audience, so you, in order for your leadership to acquire a well defined shape, have to practice this "escape" from the harsh reality that surrounds you and try a sleigh ride down the hill to that reality covered in a crust, which can't be usually perceived, which you often deny, in front of which you often open your eyes: yourself.

Discover "the Man" within you, in order to complete the whole frame of your individuality.

The Valences Of A Masterpiece Called Leadership

On January 17, 2013

Identify yourself with the image of a distance that no one will ever go to, without getting lost in a euphoria of total success.

Here is a man who, being driven by a great idea, but misled by vague information (and which turned out to be utterly inaccurate), set himself the ultimate goal of his life to discover the passage from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, and thus be the first to find the way around the world. Thanks to his demonic will, he overcame the resistance of matter, found people to help him in his almost unfeasible plan, and through the power of suggestion of his idea gained a fleet from a foreign monarch — and how much he had to fight for it ! Then he led the fleet safely to the American coast, descending southward, farther than a navigator had ever been before him. He overcame the waves and storms of the ocean, suppressed the rebellion; no obstacle, no disappointment, had hitherto broken his fanatical faith, that he was no longer far from this step, that he must be very close to this goal of his dreams.

And just before the great victory, the sharp, deeply penetrating gaze of this lucid visionary suddenly darkened. It seemed that the gods, who did not love him, would blindly blindfold him. For on this day, August 24, 1520, when Magellan ordered his crew to remain in place again, thus losing two more months, he was in fact in the much sought after place. He had to traverse two more degrees of latitude, only a few leagues more, after the thousands and thousands of leagues he had traveled so far; It took him two more days of navigation after the three hundred days of searching, and his deeply troubled soul might have trembled with a shout of joy.

But – mockery and malice of destiny – the afflicted admiral does not know or sense how close he is to his goal. For two months, so long and empty, two months of distrust and worry, he waits and waits for spring at the mouth of this little river, waiting on this deserted and forgotten shore – like a poor wanderer caught in a blizzard, shivering from the cold, squatting in front of his own hut, without suspecting that he had to dig a little further, to move forward with just one step, and then he would be safe. Magellan sits in this wasteland for two endless months in vain, and he worries and wonders whether or not he will reach the pass – and only two days later the strait awaits him, which will bear his name forever ! Until the last moment, the man who wants to snatch the last secret from the earth must feel the torture of doubt, like the eternal Prometheus torn by the eagle's claws.

Leadership: Can you yourself be the witness of an endless journey, as a pioneer of a path to self-discovery and spiritual enlightenment that you can only achieve when you do something that brings you closer to a goal that's much too far away?

What I call the "inner genesis of an endless journey" (the genesis that is defined by the relationship between learning experience and the moral question, between anticipation and innovation, between influence and creative assimilation), can be interpreted from another perspective, that of a possible correspondence between the "inner language" of a distance in which you can disappear at any time and the spiritual plane of an anonymous existence.

And, like any long journey, un largo camino a ninguna parte, Fernando Magellan showed a triple joy: anticipation, achievement, remembrance. When you do something amazing and think that "this is how you are", you are made to look into great distances, to probe them and to make new discoveries, you have no reason to choose differently in a similar situation in the future. Is it not so? In fact, every great deed has the taste of a distance you would like to reach, and not just to reach a place unseen by anyone, but to make it worthy of being perceived by you as an act of great faith.

Magellan gave a telling example of how far you can go when you are free to roam the whole world under the banner of superiority in faith, meaning man's ability to strongly believe in an absolute hidden in an "invisible reality". But to be free means, above all, to be responsible to yourself in a mission without much chance of success, as if you were facing a borderline situation, under the pretext of a revealing event that has never happened before or that has to do with the religious symbolism in your life.

It is about controlling the situation in which the end result cannot be predicted, and at the same time it is about some eventual circumstances perceived by you as perfect for a future left in God's care, not about some logical arguments about your presence in a desolate place. The light that does not accompany anyone's steps, and the dream of a distance in which you can disappear, can form an unimaginably vast horizon, beyond which various trials of great faith are possible, trials of fire that no one ever thinks of.

Leadership is the dream of a distance in which you can disappear without a trace, only to grasp with the naked eye a horizon beyond which no one else can see "the value of a hand given by God."

The Valences Of A Masterpiece Called Leadership can be of two kinds: a valence of the euphoria of the feeling of power and intangibility obtained from the position of an observer who zigzags along the time axis. And a symbolic value of existence, characterized by a sign of divine presence. A leader makes these two valences the triumph of his mission on earth.

The Value Of A Dimension That Extends Its Effects

On August 20, 2014

Discover the concrete and realistic aspect of leadership composition that makes it possible to access a new dimension of development, so that its elements of value can achieve the desired proportion of the goal.

Sergei Eisenstein aimed first of all at the cinematographic transposition of "shocks" installation. He even spoke about a shock science. Thus the attractions acquired a new expression in the film. The film called "Strike" is actually an experimental film. Eisenstein hoped to have discovered the content of a film in the series of shocks linked in a sequence and directed towards the audience sensibility. The arrangement of this material should be made on the principle that leads to the desired effect. And the form was the understanding and implementation of such elements within the specific material's limits, so that they can reach the goals in the desired proportion.

*The great director saw the concrete and realistic aspect of the composition. He was thence concerned, since his first film, about the composition issues. And we cannot fail to notice also this obsession of mathematical precision, which accompanied him throughout creation.

Do you influence the transition from a discontinuous line to a continuous one within leadership by increasing the value options of science?

The cultural awareness at a deeper level, self-knowledge and the value options of the science that you've acquired, can achieve many of the forms of highlighting a higher reality in the transition from a discontinuous to a continuous line in terms of leadership. A discontinuous line is a process of creating a science that finds no end in any impressive creation, while a continuous line has an infinity of different possibilities of expression, perception, and knowledge through which a new artistic composition can be created.

This reality, enveloping consciousness and opening up new possibilities to access a broad, well-structured, background of knowledge, expands the leader's experience and value towards a reinventing size, which appears at first uncharted, uninhabited, but with great meanings as a "turning point" towards a new art.

It is understood that such a widening of the field in practice, towards solving the mystery of art, creating effects of transition to a new form of representation and enhancement of science, will make it less difficult to deal with new styles, solely supported on research rules and on reason. Leadership is, above all, an experimental model to check the level of science you have achieved, and then a model that should exceed the boundaries of conventional thinking.

The value option of science that maximizes the results of the creation act, unprecedentedly in a compact version of the concept of "Workflow", lies between a speculative or generalizing approach and the concrete experience of the dialogue between art, life, morality and feeling. That is why the concrete and realistic aspect of a composition is given by the effect you want to get from the protagonists so you can multiply the effect produced on viewers.

Leadership: How is the relationship between your quality's value and the unleashing of creative potential reflected before science extends its relevance?

Discovering the content of what is called, most recently, "reinvention", then directing some form of impact on the sensitivity of those exposed to the science processing and exploitation, carried on the principle that leads to the desired effect, actually reflect the achievement of a new dimension of evolution, whose creator you are.

And the form the leadership takes depends on understanding and achieving these goals within the limits of the building material of a new thinking, so that they can achieve the goal in the desired proportion.

Any act of creation, supposing a lot of concentration and patience, has a beginning which is achieved by inference, reasoning or inspiration resulted from the experience and observation. The more you advance in research, the more relevance your knowledge expands, namely it becomes both a product to meet the needs of professional affirmation, and an occasion for defensive introspection. But, as needed, science becomes a powerful tool that assigns more value to your life and those around you. Leadership is the indicator of a significant effect of this value.

A science that expands its relevance resembles the discovery of the content of a film directed at the sensitivity of viewers: it means seeing what does not exist in humans but that can change their lives into a new version of the act of living the experience of emotion.

The Value Of A Dimension That Extends Its Effects gives the measure of what you realize, of what you become through the act of creation and of what you offer within the limits of the quality of science exploited, so you can still reach the goal - promoting leadership – in the proportion required by the needs of the moment.

Leadership, which became a real science with unfathomable dimensions, is recognized as efficient when embraced and followed by all those involved in achieving a common goal. It is an area where well-reasoned "innovative shocks" can add value only when they have a positive impact on the motivation and productivity of others.

The final point when a leader can consider himself to be evolved is when all progress supporters are convinced about the achievement of the ideal they have in mind.

The Vibrating Chiaroscuro Of A Finite Horizon

On April 16, 2014

Control your inclinations towards "constructivism", extending your reality towards that totality of the vision accepted by life as a coordinating science for a concrete thinking.

I seemed to be conditioned by that renewing vision that had waited for so long to disclose itself to me, for which only the manifestation of a utopia supported by the meanings of a mysterious interior need could indicate the exact form, magnitude and value. It was as if I had to enjoy a painting and other studies of art history at a glance thrown in the backstage of a predictable separation from an old-fashioned world, or rather from the desire of a release from the prison of a reality wrongly and limitedly understood.

I insisted to try and twist every shadow and every light in a seemingly spiral that descended into a counter-clockwise direction and then climbed towards infinity. The spiral contained all those under me, above me, in the sky and on earth, before me and behind me.

Almost always blinded by that fantasy trying the in-depth unity of vision, I ignored the wise advice of the world makes: "You can't encompass everything if your soul is empty. Go and see the world, and if you ever come back, the gates will lie open before you."

I wasn't proud of my ignorance, but I was acting as if this ignorance would have had all my charm. Because the peculiar mystery, the undefined atmosphere that carried me away from myself enhanced that sensation of magical space in a place where the immersion in a virtual world created that ineffable, that need to belong to a much more encompassing conscience, more harmonious, but at the same time ambiguous and confusing.

The mystery was extracted from the ore of my personality with the purpose of validating some universal laws that consolidated the barrier effect powered by the vibrating chiaroscuro of a finite horizon.

Leadership: Do you have that conviction of the excellence to be more than an alternative to the evolutionary approach of the science of life, imposed by the force of persuasion of expressivity in the argumentation of new perspectives of approaching reality?

Man, the first and foremost participant to the creation act of a new world, by unifying the visible with the intangible, can find the support of an idealist vision about life in order to overcome the inherent contradictions regarding the absence of a total renewal. In this case, his reaction in front of life experiences doesn't become a common "attitude taking", but a constant worry, meant for a development that overcomes the category "Debug Your Mind", contributing to saving the leadership area that belongs to a system of values that isn't compromised by imaginary needs.

The leader is an artist in games of lights and shadows, causally combining all the aspects of life that don't necessarily create a good or bad image about him, but a relatively coherent one over what he is about to become. There are, of course, countless contradictions between the science of life and the undefined atmosphere created by the world of revealing knowledge: the first is dominated by the explicable, the second by the ineffable.

The first rules the leader, bringing him in the hypothesis of rethinking his purpose and identity, the second dominates him and reaches beyond him by reporting to a symbolic and purely imaginary character, who finds himself in the situation of bearing reality, the reverse of some effects produced by different levels of the human being. And at the same time, it gives a series of answers to questions such as: By what means? In what conditions? Through what channels?

Leadership: Does your creative function materialize in a set of variables that preserve the impression of mirroring in a detail of a macrostructure of manifestation of expressiveness?

The chiaroscuro constitutes a side of the leader's identity, "locally" built by interacting with the targeted environment in meaningful contexts reserved for creative freedom in different ways. This freedom, as an anonymous writer said, is not a thing that someone gives to you, but a thing you give to yourself. And it becomes an "accessory" that gives a certain note to leadership, through the fact that it grants the leader the opportunity to try himself differently by testing the in-depth unity of the vision about life in situations where it doesn't fully agree with its usage terms and conditions.

It can be said that you have that conviction of the excellence to be more than an alternative to the evolutionary approach of the science of life, when, after admitting to yourself your own ignorance regarding your identity, you try to control the interior need or temptation to extend your area of encompassing an individualized science, in the benefit of a much better understanding of life.

A macrostructure of expressiveness within the bounds of personal existence encompasses all those artistic movements that express a rupture of the level in perceiving and representing reality, denying any prejudices so as to create the sensation of another presence, of another person, a parallel universe in which you find yourself perfectly.

Leadership is produced as a reflection of the quality of a "Creator of worlds" when technique meets art, resulting in a set of elements that blend in angles and new perspectives to look at reality.

The Vibrating Chiaroscuro Of A Finite Horizon points out the limits of leadership through the multitude of life aspects that can be included in the orientation guide for the hard task of your evaluation as a man conditioned by a strong vision.

As performing as leadership becomes, there is something unknown and unpredictable beyond which you cannot act, or any can have unexpected consequences.

The Vice Of Petty Souls

On March 06, 2014

Probe your identity boundaries, making the change from the superficial structure of your own being to its profound structure.

There are some secrets that a man is unwilling to share with anyone. Not that I had too many, but I didn't like to think about them. In fact, I didn't like to think about the first one of them. A silly thing. Childish. Nothing important. I had a desire to own a wrist watch that a boy – a classmate – had received from a godfather of his. I longed for something like that. It cost a lot of money. Yes, I wanted that watch and I didn't know if I'd ever have the luck of owning something similar. And one day we went skating together.

The ice wasn't thick enough to hold us. And we hadn't taken that into account. The ice cracked. I skated towards him. He was holding on by the edges. I leaned over to pull him out, of course, but in that moment the glow of the watch caught my eye. And I said to myself: "Suppose he goes under and drowns. How easy it would've been to..." ***

Leadership: What is the total sum of "Read-Only" transactions that you generate as an affiliate to the material reality?

No man can become a leader if he is dissatisfied with his own limits, imposed by material failures, who finds himself forced, by his duplicitous personality, to preserve that appearance of reality that becomes certainty by reference to facts. The desire to have a clock in hand may be the occasion of committing a less honorable deed, the occasion of a treacherous outrage, but it may also be the occasion of a constantly renewed encounter with oneself, because what gives birth to monsters is even the disturbance of the soul that does not bear a limitation of personal power, so a limitation of the appreciation you receive from the people around you.

When man is attached to a material reality, rhythmically creating an attitude of rejecting everything that can nurture him spiritually, under the influence of a shaky conscience that does not try to stop him from making vile decisions, he loses contact with others, being pulled down towards the shadowy place of self-alteration, of rejecting all moral principles.

The effects of leadership, generated by the construction and deconstruction of reality on which the individual leaves their ethical mark, under the influence of experiences, behaviors and perceptive faculties undistorted by their own being, as potentialities of which he feels directly responsible, may extend massively on long term. And prove themselves difficult to calculate because of the impossibility of determining "the matter" from which man is made, existing in neutral condition until it is personalized with negative or positive accents and meanings.

A "Read-Only" transaction that you generate as an affiliate of material reality refers to the mutual influence between consciousness and the desire to have more, so that you are the only one responsible for what you are prepared to keep a secret for years to come.

As a leader, as a man that seeks usefulness in self-knowledge to broaden their spectrum of reference – carrying a set of guidelines that essentially strengthen current practices, you get points of integrity and credibility only when you consider the total value of "Read-Only" transactions.

These are nothing more than some personality maintenance procedures, amid fruitful thinking peculiarities, ensuring the happening of certain actions that do not cross moral norms unanimously accepted by society, or the terms and conditions of use of reality enriched with desires and aspirations anchored at a spiritual level.

The sign of a slip on the slope of the vice is the result of an Ego who demands everything from others, but is not able to overcome his fear of not having risen to their expectations.

The Vice Of Petty Souls highlights the possibility of slipping into an amoral area for those with a superficial structure of their own ego. The leader is his own creation. And what he is and what defines him was built over time, based on benchmarks established through education and self-education, rigorously followed throughout their life.

The Victorious Trajectory Of The Human Being

Stimulate the deeper connections within your being, so that the manner in which you advance in leadership to not jeopardize your identity.

It had to be given a fight. And, I was following to take part in it with a sort of perpetual uncertainty that made me facing myself. A feverish longing, growing, towards a depth changing of the personal perception of reality, which led to a transformation of consciousness, enveloped me like in a pseudo-spiritual cloak.

A kind of confusion, a tentative of the spirit, the insinuating repetition of a sophisticated idea that was following me for some time, though hidden by a corner, ready to jump in front of me and push me towards an uncertain and unknown truth. I was still not ready to fit it, and to insert it in the circuit of my values.

A fight, but at the same time a twinning of the two hypostases of the same individual, an obsession that developed gradually, depending on the collision, overturning, changing of the two poles of its existence.

Leadership: Is your desire to get out of the state of uncertainty of your individuality expressed by trying to make a bridge between essence and creation?

The fight for the true Ego. I and my silent opponent, unseen, uncaring and insusceptible. Two attitudes mutual acting into a continuous pulsating tension. The coherence of a well-designed and rigorously-selected intrigues. Two routes that intersected decisively and directly, exerting on me, when in a direct form, when subtle, a pressure more or less obvious, as being subject to a competitive process. A rivalry between the two camps, between two psychological constants, between two personality types: like between the legendary Robin Hood - the defender, and his opponent, the Sheriff of Nottingham - the usurper. One of them should be certainly eliminated.

Something in me burst at that time, it throbbed like a protest without having the possibility to hide it. Even so, it remained so many that had to be censored. I went out again in the night. I just watched the window of the wall after which I was hiding.

Inevitably, the past returned between me and the continuity of my present, in search of the future. Just like a man, who avoids himself for not feeding with illusions that can numb all his expectations, I had no mood to play hide-and-seek. However, I was not going to break away from the huge spider web that caught everything of my consciousness, of my experiences, in its sticky threads.

Leadership: Does self-correcting through meaningful experiences mean creating a new perception of yourself, one that reflects the balance between essence and creation?

The essence that was upsetting me was a tumult of conflicting emotions that seemed to leave behind only a chaotic mess of impressions of what they really were. The creation that elevated me above the self was due to the way in which I expressed my feelings and experiences, the changes taking place inside of me, so that in the end, the frightening search of their own limits and vanities disappeared, and the reaction became an experience from which I would end up rich – both in its own right and metaphorically.

I was on automatic pilot, without being attentive to the road, in search of an unknown future that could lead to an agreement between the two sides of me conflicting with each other, an agreement that would help me recover myself, playing with myself the role of a justiciary deciding between "essence" and "creation".

I woke up in front of my best friend, of the best alternative. I became aware of the great distance that separated us. I went out behind the wall after I which I was hiding myself. And I saw the light.

Leadership: Do you play the role of a vigilante who decides between the two types of compromise: a complete disregard of essence that represents you or a brake of creation that enriches you?

Leadership is the result of the years spent in a leading environment. But, at the same time, is also an engine of self-knowledge, a result of the acquisition of another type of personality through the attempt to reinvent yourself, to become congruent with yourself.

Two routes are justifiable in your life that may separate yourself from who you really are. And which you, as any other leader, have to directly cross them: the distance from essence to creation, and conversely. Two constants that are ordered in regular oppositions that condition and mutually reinforce each other, contributing to your formation, exercising on your own way of being, when in a direct form, when subtle, a certain pressure, an influence, which is felt directly into the circuit of your own values and that can decide your future.

Do you start looking for an unknown future that can generate an agreement between the two conflicting parts of yourself? Does it involve the aspiration to exceed the limits of your condition as a "Man" subject to his own nature? Or, you find yourself always in the position to develop your leadership skills, without verifying and assuming your true identity?

Success in leadership depends on that part of the personality that is in direct contact with the reality governed by the power of "creation" than of the revelations of the "essence".

The victorious trajectory of the human being may be interpreted as a process of self-becoming, of personal development, to which you must obey. A perfection of your own personality. It designates the foundation of the change, full of satisfaction and success, both for you as a "Man" not only as a "Leader".

The art of self-discovery and understanding your mission in the world, assumes to understand that opposition between what is profound and what is not, between what you are and what you want to be. It means to conquer the rivalry between the two sides, between the two psychological constants, and between the two personality types: realistic-unrealistic, defender-usurper that can ruin your decisional capacity in the key moments of life.

That is why, the responsibility and lucidity of your prospective attempts, involves not only redefining your own identity, but also the awareness of what awaits you as an unwanted response of how you perceive and manifest yourself.

Knowing this undesirable "reply" but possible, as expresses - also for leadership, for example – the beliefs and meaning of the planned actions, forcing you, on the one hand, to be more attentive, in order to avoid a duplication of personality, and on the other hand, to determination in finding that part of you that regards you from the inside, while you are playing your role in shaping social reality.

Would you be willing to treat with leniency or disregard those parts of yourself that define you, as mere unimportant oddities? How fair you are with yourself?

The victorious trajectory of the human being also represents the result of the years of searches, questions with or without answer, of the "internal" fightings for defining your own Ego and your own potential.

Search in the past and within your being, correlate the results of the analysis between them with the present, and thus, the way for future success is prefigured, especially if you are fair with yourself, tenacious, rigorous, if you do not break connections with the outside, and with the reality that surrounds you, also if you select those elements that favors you.

Stimulate the deeper connections within your being, so that the manner in which you advance in leadership to not jeopardize your identity.

The View That Stagnates Is Not The Action That Changes

On April 13, 2024

The impact of a person in society is not measured by the passivity of piety, but by the courage to intervene in the course of events.

You cannot believe without seeing, but you can see without believing. On a sunny morning, when time seemed to slow down its course to listen more carefully to the echo of lost footsteps, I unexpectedly met a university professor, correspondent of a figure taken from Balzac's novels. His way to the metropolis, taken with measured steps, oriented towards overcoming the temporal, seemed like a simple physical movement, at first glance. But perhaps it was a symbolic journey of discovery and recognition of a self that sought to find itself and fulfill itself.

Our discussion, devoid of deep meaning, explored the contrast between timeless values and the accelerating pulse of technological progress. This professor, absolutely anonymous in the world, yet having behind him a career dedicated to the service of education, seemed to have distanced himself enormously from the "deafening noise" of the evolution of the digital age. Of course, his accomplishments (if any) are nowhere to be found on the internet, as is the case with any man modest in his outlook on science and technology.

I think the lack of any talent removed him from the need for virtual recognition. Modesty is the luxury of those who have nothing to show.

"I have nothing to show the world on the Internet," he expressed his belief, a testament to a noble simplicity that is rare. And even if he had something to show, no one would have seen, and the echo of his work would have had no response. No matter how deep one's nature is, one gets nowhere if one does not show a modicum of compassion in order to progress. After all, the truly modest man is the one who keeps his essence hidden, unsolicited by external applause.

Leadership: Do you have the courage to intervene in the course of events, in a world that measures value by visibility, similar to the impact produced by a ray of light in the dark?

In an era where technology is redefining the limits of what is possible, personal impact is not only measured by traditional rituals or formal rehearsals, but above all by active engagement and adaptability to change. It's like in Hitchcock's movie, if you remember "Family Plot (1976)". The scene of millions that makes all the splendor!

In the middle of the cathedral, the two swindlers, husband and wife, kidnap the bishop in front of hundreds of believers and parishioners. Stunned, they all realize that something is wrong, they stand up, but they don't move, they don't get involved, they effectively stand there with their mouths open as the kidnappers casually make their way out, unimpeded . Sedated, then taken on his shoulders in front of everyone, the bishop is slowly and noiselessly escorted outside. That saying: "Since you took the Cross on your shoulders, and set out on the road with it, Go patiently , brother , and don't take the Cross !"

Good people, don't stand still in the face of change, like the believers in Hitchcock's film! Learn to move things, or you will fall prey to passive piety. The impact of a person in society is not measured by the passivity of piety, conformity and politeness, but by the courage to intervene in the course of events.

Leadership: Do you feel that information release is actually a much faster exposure of your evolutionary potential, according to a perspective that values knowledge becoming a ubiquitous visual landmark?

Today, technology challenges us to go beyond formalities and to genuinely contribute to the common good. I say this because greatness does not derive from rituals or formalities, but from genuine and innovative commitment to human progress. Extrapolating the idea from Hitchcock's film, silence and inaction in the face of the possibility to contribute through creation and discovery to the progress of our days, in which the Internet is ubiquitous, can be equivalent to complicity in stagnation and inertia.

Liberation through knowledge is a fragment of eternity caught in the pincers of the present.

In a world of technology, personal impact is sculpted by the courage to explore uncharted territory and bring light to dark areas. He who does everything for science, does everything for God. In fact, science is the true light that guides us in the darkness. And the evil in this world is the people who do not get involved, through creation and discovery, in change. They let things happen by themselves, without intervening in any way, and that's why evil spreads more and more in the world. If you do a statistic, you will see that people, the more pious they consider themselves, the more they are opposed to progress.

Leadership: Can reception of immediate reality transform personal visual perception into a background from another mind, into full agreement with the vastness of a beginning that sustains its continuity?

Reflecting on the encounter with the university professor, one thought still lingers in my mind: In this digital age, where every fragment of existence seems to be captured and displayed, what is really of value to our collective progress? The traditions, with their call to contemplation and spiritual communion, or the contribution, however small, to the vast universe of online knowledge?

What matters more to the progress of the world? Is it more valuable to follow traditions, going to church and praying for a better future, or to contribute, even in the smallest way, to the vast ocean of information on the Internet? When it comes to the Internet, you might agree with the writer Glenn Bland when he said: "Be receptive to the ideas that others give you , because what seems like the shadow of the night in a mind transforms in the dress they would hide in the other mind ."

Man did not know how to see the reality of the present, or saw without believing. Well, this university professor, with poor eyesight, seemed to have remained within the limits of an unspectacular, destabilizing past. He argued evasively that dedication to tradition and prayer was more important than contributing to the advancement of society. People need God, inner peace, more than science, the Internet and too many hours lost in front of the laptop.

Indeed, true progress is not measured in accumulating likes or digital visibility, but it also does not isolate you in a protective cocoon born of too much piety. Progress does not congratulate you if your only contribution is an ephemeral shadow on virtual walls, but the supremacy of facts in concrete reality still depends on the scientific grounding of your contribution to progress.

Leadership: To what extent can you use access to knowledge as a guidepost that separates the elites from the underprivileged in an effort to build an inclusive vision open to new possibilities of affirmation?

Far from being a simple exchange of lines, the dialogue represented a manifesto for the human essence in the age of technology: real impact is born not from how often you go to church, but from the depth and authenticity of your contributions to the development of science. This teacher was by no means a bastion of dedication and wisdom, he did not have the creative gift of inspiration, he clearly lacked the spirit of the treasure seeker in unexplored territories. Somehow, he reminded me that the greatness of a teacher derives more from inflated ego than unwavering commitment to the betterment of the human condition.

My encounter with the professor was not only a lesson in life's priorities, but also an interrogation of the meaning of progress in an interconnected world.

In Romanian universities, but not only, a worrying trend of commercialization of education is constantly observed. Access to knowledge is still conditioned by the payment of often substantial sums, therefore education has become a luxury for the "elites" or those willing and able to pay. Over the past 30 years, higher education has turned into a "closed loop" where the poor or less privileged have been left out. In fact, this commercialization of education has reinforced social disparities and still limits society's long-term progress. So the only escape, the only balancing factor, is the Internet.

The greatness of a visionary derives not from rituals or formalities, but from genuine and innovative commitment to human progress. The depth of your contributions to scientific development truly define your mark on the world.

The view that stagnates is not the action that changes, especially if you rely on the consideration that everything will resolve itself. The people who do not get involved are the godly ones who find an excuse in their faith to remain passive.

Education, when treated as a luxury good, limits the progress of society by excluding the disadvantaged. I would say that in universities, access to knowledge should be a right, not a commodity sold at exorbitant prices. The teachers are to blame, lacking any innovative capacities in scientific directions. In fact, they are the false teachers mentioned in the Bible!

Over the past 30 years, the commercialization of education has created a gap between the privileged and the under-resourced, undermining equality of opportunity. The professors don't have a blog, they don't have any online activity, everything is kept under lock and key in a closed university circuit. Everything comes down to money in these institutions!

That is why the Internet, with the help of artificial intelligence, has become the liberation from the "claws of the devil". The Internet offers equal opportunities for everyone in terms of access to information and the learning process.

The Vision Raises Your Expectations

Be able to perceive change before it occurs so that your vision becomes a "historic monument".

This leads to the conclusion that those elements that people have included in their vision, combining them in various ways depending on their mental structure and their conceptions, were not handled properly. Therefore, shape-well your vision so that the way that you follow towards performance to have the particularity of being excellent.

Are able to perceive the change before it occurs? Do you have the ability to project into the future and see what it prepares for you? Do you shape your vision so that the way that you follow towards performance to have the particularity of being excellent? Does your vision raise your expectations, or pull you down? Do you add significance to your life acting in virtue of your vision? Do you feel that due to your vision, you make something useful, something that really matters?

Leadership: Can you construct a vision so meaningful that it becomes a "monument" of your thinking, transforming illusion and mirage into dimensions of a new form of consciousness?

Vision can only acquire the status of a historical monument if it is valued due to the layers of significance accumulated over time, if it is not abandoned and does not degrade with rapid steps. Your vision is making people to partake in a useful activity? What do you follow by imposing your vision? Are you arming yourself with that spirit of fair and objective self-evaluation before clarifying and developing your vision?

Putting a vision into practice is not always an easy task. Just as in football, the central defender keeps his eye on the adverse offensive player when he retires, but only up to the center line – in the same way, a leader through shaping a positive self-image, through the enhancement of his own identity, must seek to fill those free spaces from his conscience, which do not denote any exceptional quality, until the moment when his horizons are changing and widening.

To decipher the meaning of high-impact leadership evolution, express your vision, so that to induce people acting into its spirit.

Leadership: Can your vision adopt a status that meets the conditions for predicting the worst possible outcome of a situation without reliable data on that situation?

Is your vision based on solid evidence? The vision should be based on solid evidence, and therefore, to be realistic, or you will be labeled as a madman, or at least one that "catches butterflies."

To act in virtue of the vision, without making assessments about its chances to materialize, it is like being a notorious writer, who does not appear into the writers' directory, which does not give interviews, does not come out in the public to any book presentation, and does not give autographs. Nevertheless, I do not know through what circumstances, I do not know through what miracle, gets daily letters from his fans. How do you explain this? A notorious writer, that no one sees that no one knows, but nevertheless receives thousands of letters from his fans. Is or is not an aberration?

The vision is that quality that appears and develops alongside with your relationship with people. The vision sets closeness between you and others, even if your presence among people is less common. Paulo Coelho is the most beloved writer of the time, Paulo Coelho. The message of his famous book "The Alchemist" that every person must fulfill his mission on earth, the Personal Legend, reached the heart and mind of many people, without them having read the book, without seeing the writer, without even knowing who he is.

Leadership: Do you realize the importance of your vision in dealing with a highly vulnerable situation, without considering the impact it will have if it is adopted in the form proposed by an accusing conscience?

The vision is a message that has meaning and is accepted by the public. You can add significance to your leadership, if through your vision you manage to influence people, leading them to think, act, behave, to treat things into its spirit. You can collect the fruits of your vision when the others around you are living a great satisfaction that is the materialization of this vision.

1. Are you able to inspire a vision or a revolutionary idea in the evolution of the others' people thinking?

2. Can you customize your vision according to the significance, which people give to their lives?

For only the vision can make them see their expectations fulfilled, to enrich their lives and to change their attitude towards it. In other words, the vision constitutes an impulse that is transmitted from person to person. It is enough for your vision to change one person, for this in his turn to transmit it further.

Leadership: Do you manage to broaden the horizons of your own identity, transforming the apparent limits into new possibilities of expression of your consciousness?

For illustrating the leadership imposed by the vision, the leader is not called to apply long ago-known and used networks. He must integrate into the content of his own vision that dominant message whose propagation rate to awaken, to stir up some strong emotions based on the unique and complex process of intuition that he coordinates, communicating his feelings in an own way - that is to be able to summarize it in a creative way the impressions transmitted by his own reality and the voice of his conscience.

Starting from this process of spontaneous change, but also induced, due to the leader's vision - of that clear vision, ambitious, remarkable, perhaps complex, perhaps simple, on short or long-term, which do not distort the reality, people will start to slowly feel the need of an outflow from the authority of traditionalism, of the way of seeing things, and acting. They will move into another stage of development and maturation, at the beginning of observing the change process and awareness of the new situations, in which they are set, of the positive effects or at the risk, to which they are exposed, leaning carefully and freely towards the surrounding reality.

"Expression of consciousness" in this context means the visible manifestation of a person's deep thoughts, feelings, values, and intuitions, conveyed through actions, words, creations, or behaviors. It is how one shows one's authenticity and understanding of the world from a unique perspective, reflecting how inner consciousness influences outer reality.

Thus, broadening the horizons of identity through "expression of consciousness" suggests that the person succeeds in transcending ordinary boundaries, exploring and expressing deep ideas and authentic experiences that lead to continuous evolution and a unique contribution to the world.

Vision in leadership refers to the attitude you adopt in those extreme situations in which people react according to your instructions, with the hope that they are accompanied by a holy and lofty call to proclaim the power of "the One" who wants to be feared, and fragility of "the One" who asks to be loved.

Vision Raises Your Expectations if you begin to perceive it as a blessing because you yourself are a part of its reward, because thanks to it you can reach the level of a prudent man who knows that life can always take an unexpected turn. As a leader, you need to develop the ability to keep your vision steady in complex situations, and to believe strongly in your heart that nothing can stop you from reaching your goal.

The Visionary Of Novelty

On February 07, 2016

Redefine yourself in terms of the ability to explore your limits, reducing the contradictions between what you capture "on the fly" and what is lost "in waiting."

As I traveled throughout life, the image of the unknown, under the appearance of a detail from a whole of the all-inclusive order, followed me everywhere. Without my will, among so many amazing landscapes, my first thought went to it, because all that I was observing was only a reflection of what I couldn't see. And a view of what is interpretable towards a holistic approach facilitates a variety of answers from which nothing can be understood.

Novelty is the theme of an artist looking for a way out of an incomprehensible reality; from this point of view I was at the limit between utopia and absolute truth. If I wanted to introduce everything I saw in a new form of knowledge, it wouldn't have meant tying myself to a sort of deductive guidance, unshakable in the belief that something accessible needs to exist behind the difficulty to explain phenomena, highlighting the importance of my own change in agreement with a world that also changes on another level.

Novelty is created by the fact that your conception of life is positioned in the center of thinking that favors the part of the vision that is outside the central gaze, focusing not on what happens to you, but on the understanding of what makes up a happening. It is what characterizes an artist who shows the world not in the way it looks in a passing moment, but according to how the elements of knowledge of a reality beyond the immediately visible, which surpass any expectations, combine.

Leadership: What is your stance on all the experiences of life in a reality undermined by illusion, if not even replaced by it, against the background of seeking inspiration to make sense of your representations of knowledge?

On a journey from one city to another, the train travels without stops, but even so, it takes the traveler little time to get the rules of an exception imposed by giving priority to discerning the secrets of a view based on modifying earlier perceptions.

My stance on experiences experienced at such a moment that has been rushed by mental logic was that of a spectator of a world in continuous disintegration. And this, because every phenomenon that we capture in the course of recording shows completely different variations of tendencies, often contradictory. The scenery was gloomy, debilitating, clouded by clouds, at times complex and interesting, but even under these circumstances it seemed quite sad as I lacked the ability to change something.

The view is erased along with the beginning of something new, not because it wasn't immortalized, well imprinted on the retina of memory, where there is little reduction potential of contradictions and questions, but because it is always easier to start something than to finish it, just as it is easier to build a new building from the ground up than to restore an old one.

I was left only with waiting to have my thoughts reach as far as possible to obtain new views, no matter where or how, essential being only the curiosity of finding out as much as possible. But the fear of the sin of getting caught in the present made me forget everything I saw, everything I would discover on the journey. The only testimony that I didn't capture only background things included the possibility of being a unique exemplar of a visionary of originality.

But the desire to see as much as possible ran faster than I thought, towards the platform of another station, and the strange curiosity of descending there always remained behind me. For this reason, probably, I felt haunted by a moving image in any static place. But I also rejected these once the train started moving.

Leadership: Can you change the rules of an exception imposed by giving priority to unraveling the mysteries of views based on modifying earlier perceptions?

Everything I saw was in fact a sum of beliefs, our perceptions of reality. Exceptions are those cases in which we are unable to distinguish those glaring things, in turn, we see what we are not prepared to believe. Or we distinguish only what we can immortalize, what we do not know, but not necessarily what we are lacking or what doesn't suit us.

In art, by exception, the absence of vision from which creation has its starting point is found. People who fail to assimilate a knowledge through revelation, following those personal experiences of capturing novelty, through combinations of images and passing moments, will never be able to understand leadership from the perspective of the ability of exploring their limits.

The priority to reveal the mysteries of views based on changing previous perceptions is to give importance to that "passing moment" that cannot be repeated and which must be appreciated now before it flies and disappears forever. In this regard, an analogy with a journey between different cities is welcome to prepare the next revelation: "Anything you hold dear is a thing you can give up on when faced with events you unexpectedly take part in."

The knowledge of an artist has as a specific the power to change a reality that is revealed to him shortly in a passage from a set of vague, interpretable and non-transparent criteria to a set of clear, measurable, palpable criteria.

In the novel "The Name of the Rose" by Umberto Eco, is this fragment I often returned to because it provides me with some insight on the concept of priority:

"But then, I know well, I started to get attached to the sense of resemblance: anything could have mysterious analogies to anything. When I came back to Europe, I transformed this metaphysics into a mechanic, and that's why I got into the trap where I find myself nowhere. Since then I've been spinning in a twilight where differences were canceled."

Novelty is the beginning of something seemingly banal, but which continues towards something much more complex, as the contradictions between what you capture "on the fly" and what is lost "in waiting" intensify.

And a man who explores the approach of reality from the perspective of the ability of understanding his own personal experiences and his own journey should try to compare the distorted perceptions of distant or close images with the messages that can appear from those two contradictions.

The images you process "in your passing" through the world, sometimes forcing a sort of deductive guidance – a form of straying away from fixed points of view, are in fact absorptions of various details that can serve as a correction of evaluations of situations or as a deciphering if meanings of existence.

Leadership is the image you form about a reality in which you are constrained to accept only the extreme of a vision, and reject the other.

The Visionary Of Novelty is dependent on the curiosity of finding out as much as possible, steadfast in his belief that something accessible needs to exist behind the difficulty to explain phenomena.

If you want to get as far as possible with the efforts of extending your horizons and vision of existence, turning any journey into a sort of conclusion to the observation of peculiar phenomena, learn to tip the scales of identifying new images in favor of the predominance of an essentiality that will be the content of a logic in the way of constructing your own world.

The Visual Art Involved In The World Of The Duplicated Viewer

On May 01, 2020

A creative art is known by the way you make it known for the supreme fulfillment of a memorable artistic image.

A green leaf, unperturbed by any emotion, flutters playfully before my eyes, whose gaze is incapable of giving an orderly meaning, a logical landmark, to its movements. The same delicate leaf, seen through the eyes of a child, suddenly animates my dreams and imagination, with much impetus to explore different visions, procedures and artistic means. After all, the leaf is also a creation arranged by God, and God always sees it with different eyes, with the help of the gaze fixed on something significant, than from the emptiness of the eyes of ordinary people.

But what can I do so that its action is more than a visual argument, imposed beyond the gaze that seeks to comprehend the divine essence? A leaf is a broken piece of a thousand dark nights, which has become the first size of a psychological image, and I, the Creator with advanced views, the primary manipulator of the symbol of intellectual perception, must move it elsewhere. As far as possible, or as close as possible to the sight of an ordinary man, and to extract from its trajectory the essential, the sensational of that story able to constitute the morality of a look that clothes the world in beauty.

Indeed, I am only a skilled Creator, and the eyes of ordinary people are unfamiliar with the wonderful side of my creation, just as painting cannot understand the painter, but the painter can know God in depth through the perception of an attractive and smiling face, transposed into a wonder of nature.

Leadership: Can the maturity of your creation highlight the unsuspected effects of changing an image from the idea of a particular thing, currently existing, to a being that evokes a higher reality?

Through all people's hearts flows the experience of a new visual experience, the blood of a color called Brightness. They feel the need for new visions of reality, but to conceive of such a crossing of space and time into a different understanding of the world is a science given only to a Creator with advanced eyes.

In fact, the painter himself transposes himself into a journey through the labyrinth of nature, the reflection of which is the testimony of the fact that the Creator himself is omnipotent. And therefore, perhaps I am given to submit everything to complex observation, taking something from the particular object and turning it into a determined, privileged being, among other beings, available to an esoteric science called Metreximyuss, that is, the voice of the Lord in all surrounding things.

In turn, the leaf perceives me as a visionary in authentic art, because even its movements taken by the wind express both art and my colors that envelop words full of charm, feelings full of anxiety, hope and delight. I will not give myself into its hand either when I feel both with the Creator of Eternity, or when my eyes will intersect the expert gaze of the philosophers of nature, but I will rather delve into the words of a madman who knows what he is talking about, but whom, in turn, is understood by no one. May I turn myself into a mystery of creation and nature, a hocus-pocus that would have no effect if said by anyone.

Leadership: How can you look at a random element of nature beyond its mere appearance, transforming it into a dimension of the depth of your entire Creation?

And if the leaf is the last intrinsic dimension of the salvation of the whole divine Creation, from which I can hardly take my eyes, a miracle of nature sensitive, delicate, mobilizing, then my eyes are given to permanently focus on the reality in which a painter immerses himself, one who sees in everything around him a stain of color, hidden at first sight behind an unfinished or unspoken story in the language of human psychology.

The leaf looks at me as in a mirror to which only the sky offers a single reflection: "in art, the atmosphere where you expose an image matters".

Well, even a skilled Creator needs an element of the surreal vision to correct his divine vision, in an artistic approach, in a green-brown explosion, extremely comforting. And if I have to get into the leaf's illusion of being a bird, I have to do it in such a way as to avoid an approach that reduces the study of vision to a simple illusion, just as the painter must have the courage to avoid what is too well-liked.

Leadership: Does the ideational continuity of your creation conform to the view with which the Creator seeks to encompass a world that has become synonymous with the privilege of a life fulfilled through a double experience?

Is it not true that if you caught me talking about the little creation of nature, and if you understood the speech of my eyes accustomed to things that cannot be spoken in human speech, you would recognize me as the creator of a lofty being, depicted in a form similar to fairy tales, myths, and fables spread in the ancient East?

And this miracle with a bizarre appearance and in a strange state of coloration, unraveling hope from another world, playing the moral role of a life gained in another reality, speaks to me with the memory of the words of Mika Waltari, from the novel The Egyptian:

"Is man really aware of what he sees? You know everything because you had access to all the science in the world, but at the same time you are guilty because others are ignorant and you do not help them to open their eyes. You will teach people to see, or you will be tormented until the day of your death, Sinuhe."

Finally, I understood my calling to be a Creator, so to consider as joined certain parts of the world that are not seen with the ordinary eye, but only with the magical eye of an artist who is able to transmit to people the conquering spirit of change, beyond the need for assertion. My leaf is the product of an introspection that is not afraid to face the risk of obscurity, overcoming in this case realism in favor of the exteriorization of an adjacent personality, with a wide audience, who knows how to prepare a credible story from a small wonder of nature.

It can be said that a creation has reached maturity when the artist fulfills the role of a Creator involved in a variety of experiences, from melancholy to dreaming, each of them based on a view beyond the materiality of the surrounding reality.

The Visual Art Involved In The World Of The Duplicated Viewer manifests itself as a way of human intervention in the middle of nature through an act of comparison between the power of the creator to separate the particular from the common, and the power of the creator to defeat nothingness in time, achieving the universal within the eternal.

If each viewer were a creator, able to place himself in a plane of the high, and if each creator would focus his gaze on what truly matters, in a completely different plane of existence, then perhaps the view would be considered more than a natural lens of the eye, but an extension of the art of being someone else.

The Visual Of A "Ti Aspetto Qui" Production

Build an identity that meets the need for uniqueness, adding depth to your creation from the perspective of an inexhaustible source of visual delight.

I have always been the adept of forming an attitude of valuing beauty, which is meant to be a measure of the power of concentration, of the suggestive force on the vision and the spirit of observation. In fact, this is also a quality of an educated man and one of great talent, fine in all related to the visuals of a sentimental picture that accompanies the most glamorous joy of a multicolored garden, filled especially with roses.

The rose denotes the confidence in the experiences of a singular artist who has access to a world exposed to interpretation and understood through an artistic sensation, through a metaphor: "The theme of life, as in a repeating dream." Nothing can change a thought based on the energies and geometries of the flower of life, by resembling the star of a special world, critically filtered by form, color, image, transparency, composition and good context. The road of art descends into the anonymity of the earth to bring to the surface a heavenly feeling which can only embellish a human figure.

For this reason, I educated my taste for the beautiful to look for the sensational, like a treasure hunter, where the world never looks carefully: in the heart of flowers, where very few artists have the freedom to express themselves: in the care of roses. Be yourself the best part of the treasure that you have discovered to the place of encounter with nature in search of the eternal moment.

Yes. It is a leader's quality to know how to position himself with a lot of patience in a branch of activity that no one provides at the level of an artist, knowing himself to be part of an aesthetic category of the sublime, with his gift of enlivening things, by the way he knows how to group them, harmonize them among themselves, where they all speak slowly, with the voice of other times.

Leadership: Can the image that you build of yourself customize a message focused on generating a life experience or a feeling from which the visual of a personal brand is born?

Not in vain I have allowed myself so many times to cross una creazione dell'immaginario . I was following the colossal significance of a thinking based, in a symbolic way, on maximizing the impact that colors have on an "as if" well hidden in the painting of an era dominated by the idea of individual autonomy, lived and shared as an experience of entering another universe. Because I always wanted to be the vector of a beautiful, bold, metaphoric, allusive, and ultimately moody expression in choosing a study theme of the "Personal Identity" type.

So, I have never forbidden my freedom to communicate an idea, an attitude, a conviction, a concept, by comparison and differentiation. How late I realized that I would not be able to live without knowing myself as belonging to someone else without continually being surrounded by the mystery of a painting that can only be unleashed by la corrispondenza tra memoria e dimenticanza . Perhaps the amazement in the face of the splendor produced by art, nature leaves traces in the haste of this "delayed traveler", who always looks carefully at how far the road stretches ahead of him.

When taking care of a large garden filled with roses inevitably come to mind words that Alexander Vlahuță said to painter Nicolae Grigorescu: "He experienced all his waking moments in his art. Hence the ease, freedom, extraordinary power of his make. The unceasing burning of the sacred fire is the mystery of an artist's power. He did not let the fire he had entrusted to God pass for a moment. And therefore, everything he wanted to do he did. All the secrets have been opened. Look at his landscapes. It's no longer painting. There's a wide-open window in the outside light."

The visual of a personal brand is also transposed to the range of colors that roses scatter willingly, with their perfume, to be immortalized in a series of surprising images that suggest a close relationship between sentiment and form between the knowledgeable subject and the object known between the artist and the public. And from here, I can say that leadership is the naturalness and simplicity with which I visually express the artistic concepts and transform them into communication.

Leadership: Are you able to make an important contribution to the art of capturing authentic living by promoting the idea of creating a sense of similarity between "a selected part of the landscape" and "the totality of the landscape"?

Some would say about me that I am part of an idea that generously opens its wings to the illusion of intrusion into another area of popularity, as the object of a grandiose manifestation, the time measured in trembling touches wrapping around a soft embrace made of spirit and admiration. Others would overlook my existence, just as easy as the TV turns off. Only some are given to hear and penetrate my power to pour out compassion into relationships with all around, with the very voice of nature.

The most important aspect of my creation is the way of observing a rose in the artist's portrayal of a vigorously defined poetic, of a complete work of art.

However, the error of the viewer's perception may be related to the inability to remove from the drawing of this narrative the very dominant color itself, which is to be a glorification of beauty experienced in the intensity of a correlation between facts and events, because it is quite difficult to capture the storm of great emotions that art gives.

A flower seen through the eye of the artist is the intellectual projection of an authentic existence. And the mere presence of a rose that always opens its soul to the novelty of a complex artistic personality under the power of a spell that draws you into the world of the book gives you another vision of what you are experiencing between the need to confess and the strength of your memories, half dream, half reality.

The totality of a landscape worth painting focuses the intimate character itself, the part of the poetry of everything that passes through the soul of the artist to every effort made to capture the impression of aesthetic unity.

I have always been a part of the "back home" feeling of a sacred union with the beauty experienced in the intensity of a life experience born and blossomed in the art of understanding subjective aesthetic approaches, the requirements of a creative activity that requires, first of all, love of nature, brought to godliness. My eyes were and will remain thirsty in light, dream-filled, at the sight of a masterpiece inspired by the unknown depths of a life that is not mine, and what good belongs to a bearer of wisdom and beauty who has finally found the place of symbolic concentration.

The most important part of the landscape of this wonderful place called "my garden" is the sense of harmony between what I feel and what I see so as not to distort or exaggerate the shapes of a figure that transfigures and unifies creation, a delicacy of execution makes the measure of an artistic intelligence reaching maturity accessible.

The expressive virtues of the line and form in the extent of the symbolic relationships that the rose can express as a means of language of painting are endowed with the attachment of my spirit to experience the experience of a lifetime among works of art, among the vivid colors of nature captured in all its splendor and generosity.

Art is a pretext to decipher the life of nature and make it eternal in an original creation.

In the end, you come to understand the vision of an "Ti aspetto qui" productions when, in the morning, roses filled with so many colors give you their gifts in inspiration, revealing their relationship spiritually modeled with the world of art.

Think of yourself as approaching a painting from the perspective of a gardener who never leaves the garden and who, in the desire to give flowers a human meaning, a high spiritual experience, is transformed into a symbol of rest and tranquility, in a kind of fabulous character adapted to a particular theme entitled "The Words of the Soul".

The impression of aesthetic unity is only gained in the solemn ambience of a place of refined culture and sensation, beyond time, where every sensation and taste of good will give the indisputable proof of a Creator who brought into existence a universe full of personality and expressive force, full of energy, contrast, light and color.

Leadership aimed at fusing art with sensitivity is based on the relationship between nature and the inner being.

It is here that can be seen the greatness of thoughts and feelings transmitted through the image of a thriving garden where you experience the need to open yourself to what is good, beautiful and noble.

The Visual Of A "Ti Aspetto Qui" Production delights through the intimate character of a previous aesthetic experience, caught in a sense of contentment, peace of mind, emotional exaltation, focused on the power of a relationship established between two similar images, sometimes interchangeable up to identification with the expression of the nature of God: the artist and his work.

And now, the last desire of the rose, I assume it as a request to an eclectic spirit of rare penetration:

I expect you, viewer, to step into the "drawing" of my story about earth and heaven, about oblivion and rediscovery, about dreams, hope, and the power of imagination, to see how far a passionate art can come to render another dimension of life experienced at the intensity of a whisper of longing, admiration, soul, blinking as if on the wings of Ricchi e Poveri's verses:

"A volte sai, non so perchè, mi trovo a chiedermi / Cosa sarà questa paura che ho di perderti / Che cosa c'è dentro di te che ti fa unico / E mi fa innamorare di te / Cosa sei, cosa sei, cosa sei / Sei qualcosa di più."

The Visual Process Is The Artist's Mirror

The sea opens its infinity in front of me, with a kind of calmness that makes art gain depth in a painting that captivates me and, at the same time, amplifies the feeling that I am sailing through the quiet depths of a contemplative heart. But what calls my being to its own artistic world, seen as a world of deep meanings, with openness to the inner spaces of the emotional, mental and soul, in which the dual reality of contrasts between appearance and essence operates, is that inextinguishable passion for creation which makes me unable to end a day until I have seen the sunset in a perspective where time seems to stand still.

The painter, subject to the intention of reconstructing what he sees, looks at things as a battle of reflexes, one against the other, capable of fragmenting the form to such an extent that, despite the effect of light and shadow, they seem like visual symbols. Open to outside influences, things can change in space without canceling each other out, thus participating in the colorful play of the atmosphere in which they are located. And from the depth of the landscape, continued endlessly in the light, in a perfect swing of shades, things should not create the illusion of distance, but appear absorbed in a single composition. Only in this way can I connect with my deep creative essence.

He who forgets to listen to the sea, forgets himself, and he who does not always look longingly, cannot understand its depths. This reminds me of a story written by Carlos Ruiz Zafon, where a lot of people want to get their hands on a mysterious and unpredictable novel, but left completely forgotten in the "Graveyard of Forgotten Books". Some want to buy it paying more than it is worth, others are looking for it to burn it. In any case, "Shadow of the Wind" is a deep meditation on human destiny and its reflection in the work of art, between the perennial and the ephemeral.

Leadership: By exploring deep themes can you influence the way you perceive the power to immortalize the beauty of the moment in an artistic creation?

Indeed, the sea, to which I always return, with its unique vistas full of vivid colors, explores deep themes such as destiny, heritage and the relationship between life and art, so that the representation of my image in the painting seems to constitute the portrait of a summer day at the seaside, where the breeze gently caresses the sand and the waves provide a pleasant feeling of relaxation and freedom. If Zafon's novel follows the fate of complex characters and how they are reflected and even preserved in books, a fact that represents a perennial art form, my painting seeks to immortalize the beauty of the moment and translate it on canvas, more original than ever, to be appreciated and preserved in another form of art, the visual one.

In the context of a painter on the coast, located directly in the seascape that represents him, while creating images of seascapes, he could find a multitude of parallels with the space of a new field of words, or with the space of a new way of existence . Through his special, soothing, soulful works, he tries to capture an ephemeral moment, a fragment of eternity , such as the sunlight at sunset, the foam of the waves, or the smile of a child on the beach.

Under the sign of emphasizing an echo of time, he transforms what is ephemeral into something perennial, just as the characters in "The Shadow of the Wind" are immortalized by words on the page.

All this belongs to me. I realized that painting and literature itself are different art forms, both having the power to preserve and convey emotions, thoughts and fragments of life that

I would otherwise have forgotten or lost, as it is lost a fading dream. Both the painter and I, the writer, one and the same creative soul, each exploring the world in his own unique way, use their talents to give birth to works that transcend time and space, thus creating a type of immortality, Astverothesys Cullmhas , directly corresponding of the Philosopher's Stone.

Leadership: Can the image you create capture the emotional moments in a timeless form that will be appreciated by future generations, in a kind of timeless dialogue?

It's time to go back home, away from the sea, away from the seashore, away from the burning sun. In particular, I am aware of the ephemeral passage of time, perceived as a kind of symbolic death, a kind of withdrawal into nothingness of a great wandering from which you cannot get out without "Ariadne's thread".

The tides come and go, changing the natural picture every day. One day soon, I will return to the seaside and lose myself in the vast landscape of the sea, so that the painting captures our deep essence and reflects it in all its splendor.

Through painting, through color, I captured these moments full of emotions in a perennial form, which will be appreciated by future generations. Of course, the painter and the sea are keepers of human memory, capturing the complexities and beauties of life in their works of art. Both of us, subject to the picture of a single story, are part of what the soul gathers in the following words, which the clear evening wind conveys to the wind, whispering only to the rising stars:

Whether it's a novel or a painting, art has the power to transform something fleeting into something lasting, thus giving us a way to ponder destiny and the meaning of life. Thus, art must renounce ephemerality in order to give us eternal aspirations.

The meeting between leadership and art is achieved at the point where ephemerality becomes perennial, and the leader's vision combined with creativity become the foundation for a sustainable and inspired change on the plane of a wider reality.

The painter resumes the visual process whenever he recognizes himself inspired by his great passion, according to the idea: "What you love, paint with all your soul! "

The Vivid Urge Of Forgotten Hopes

On October 09, 2010

Find the most durable element of your relationship with others, helping them change themselves in a way to feel emotionally comfortable.

Pretty Woman movie. In a central lodge, before starting the show with the opera "Madame Butterfly", the controversial businessman Edward Lewis, appreciating the restlessness and agitation of his call girl, Vivian Ward, made an observation:

- People's reactions, when going for the first time to the opera, are very dramatic. They either love it or hate it. It they are to love it, they will always love it. If not, maybe they will learn to appreciate it, but it will never become part of their soul.

Leadership: Do you have obvious traces of a modeling referring to a "Final State" conception that establishes a close link between practical reason and deterministic intent?

Edward Lewis tried to establish some stable aspects in his relationship with Vivian, striving to understand her true beliefs and aspirations. He deciphered her native emotional architecture, assessing her emotional state, appreciating the great difference between her fears and aspirations, her weaknesses and her strong parts. His intention was a deterministic one, not only because he managed to convince Vivian of the benefits of a new status, but because he argued the causes of his virtue of giving kindness. On top of that, Vivian betrayed the obscure need for a new beginning.

Vivian saw the change almost immediately, the traces of her modeling with the perspective of another horizon being in direct concordance with that state of mind that persists for a long time even after the memories fade. The same state of mind encompasses us all when we understand that love cannot remain eternally impetuous, but at least we know that it has been of some use to us.

Somehow, Vivian was favored to figure out another socio-human horizon, from which you can't help but look confused, because it rarely happens that you suddenly go from depression to ecstasy. Well, you can't influence a man if you can't find his sensitive and positive part, which you can shape at your ease, in accordance with your most precious principles and beliefs. Are you able to assess the deepest, most permanent and constant parts in a man's life, so as to give him a new direction?

Leadership: Are you able to remove the negative effects that have deepened in other people's souls, and depending on their emotional structure to redirect them thoughtfully in the same direction as you, so that they know you better and by knowing you, to make you known to others as well?

Just as a skilled sculptor studies the initial rock, with its natural faults, in order to look for the most sustainable aspect of future forms – so you, as a leader, must be able to reveal the inner beauty of people around you, and depending on their emotional structure, thoughtfully redirect them in the same way with you, so as to eliminate those negative effects which have deepened into their souls. Find the most durable element of your relationship with others, helping them change themselves in a way to feel emotionally comfortable.

The best way to go with someone is to understand that person, to act on his "shape" to manifest in the circumstances of life to the greatest extent possible; to put your mark on his inner being, to passionately follow the twists of his life and his essence. For that, you have to compete with his values and beliefs, and impose your own ideas by which to determine the ideal pattern to which he must continue to strive.

Have you noticed that since Vivian started dating Edward Lewis, she was completely changed, her world began to open more to the world of others? He himself began to be seen with different eyes by other people, something induced a kind of spiritual awakening when he was seen.

Leadership: Does the way you manifest yourself in the presence of a man with little chance of earning a living help you better understand yourself and form those beliefs that you need in order to act through those arguments of conscience that speak to your soul?

Just like a sculptor manages to convey life into his sculptures, molding them into meaningful forms, so your influence, in order to be taken into account by other people, must be positive and resembling their beliefs – and for it, you must manage to efficiently convey your thoughts and feelings, so as to realize a molding into their emotional structure, in order for them to become deeply aware of their qualities.

As a leader, you must develop the ability to discern the true character of people, get them rid of that emptiness which obsesses them and, with the delicacy of a skilled watchmaker, stimulate their strengths to increase the quality of their work and their desire to achieve performance. Remember that the only arguments of conscience that speak to your soul are the following: the view beyond appearances, the view beyond words, the view beyond reason, the view beyond the surface of things, the view beyond your limits, the view beyond conventional approaches to upsetting situations and see beyond confusions and contradictions (towards a future that others still cannot see).

Their real attitude towards their own professional activity and teamwork can be known only by the leaders who have developed their ability to observe, analyze, as well as skills of good psychologists, and who find appropriate methods and the power to change people for the better. Of course, the watchmaker's rule also applies in leadership and can be translated as follows: do not enter people's hearts with the anvil, for you needn't repair anything with a hammer.

Leadership aims at those decisional experiences in which you can express your appreciation for the initiatives capable of ensuring a sustainable growth of people, so that you become present in their souls at all times.

The Vivid Urge Of Forgotten Hopes sanctifies, in fact, a reality: we can all be a changing factor in the lives of other people, because every one of us has the power to awaken a desire in people's hearts, creating a "story" of their one choice, the power to strengthen their spiritual forces and illuminate the future – just as a writer is able to create mythical worlds, conveying their feelings.

The Voice Of A Preacher In The Desert

Leadership is the life experience that gives you the construction of an Alter-Ego that almost replaces your entire being.

Nature is admired everywhere, as it is, varied, bright or gloomy, but as human as possible, fed only by the stories of the characters in paintings that charm you from the first sight. It is immortalized by the painter of the realism artist who knows how to convey an intense emotion through a balanced assortment of significant colors and details.

And there, in the silence of the earth, even in the midst of a cloudy weather, sits majestic, handsome and straight to heaven, He, the rose, the part of me that experiences the events of the world through the language of nature.

I do not boast, however, that I knew the soul of the rose well enough, because, of course, he is also part of the creation of the sensitive world, unity between spirit and matter, he also has a form, he has nobility, character, a bodily basis, a clean conscience, sensitivity, but above all he has a history, he has something eternal, being triggered by the same divine spark with which man is endowed. I'm not much of a psychologist, but as far as I know I need to make a connection between the visual arts and the excitement of a beginning of a story, in which vision pervades all human depths.

I try to control the lines, the chromatic zones, the symbolism of a continuous elevation, the deep note of originality, by the very quality of the rose to tell a life full of teachings, a monumental destiny. And to multiply by means of art the meaning of the victory of nature, establishing a relation between the subject and the universe, between emotion and visuality, means to highlight the work of a genius creator who tries to experience the consciousness of a secular voice that expresses the sum of all the aspects of the subject pertaining to human nature.

Leadership: Is your creative experience closely related to the image with which you associate your sense of life, so as to give continuity to the story with which you identify your personality?

Whispering things deep and understood only by the chosen spirits, I understood the voice of the rose as being of a desert preacher, a voice that trembled because of sadness, a calm and cold voice at the same time, secret, but imperious, from which I cannot separate.

I am modest about my assumptions about people, I reconcile with them only through the resemblances with the reality they live in, as long as the regret of separating from this world does not reach the Vertigo of Nothingness. I expect them to smile at me with contempt and disbelief, sometimes I see that they do it only in passing, behind the words that animate the thinking and life of those who know themselves overcome by suffering. Others, encompassed by the beauty of the moment and wanting to keep it at least once among the tired eyelashes, give me a sympathetic and contemptuous smile, at the same time, who seems to say: "You are the only person I wanted to see..."

Unchanged by the passage of time, I always say that no one knows what is in the soul of another. Our worlds are getting closer, but the connections are still invisible to those who still cannot believe in a particular emotional symbolism, as varied and as significant, as those who refuse to see their reflection in the mirror with different eyes. The significance of my existence is in close connection with the melancholy of the man facing the greatness and spectacularism of nature, whose history is mocked or even ignored. Nature is eternal, while man is transient.

The eternal works have all the patience to wait, silent and reserved, a revealing image of the contribution that the rose has made in human life, an experience of living and of the substance dialogue between two similar destinations.

Leadership: Can the creation of reality that defines you as a whole be a model of perseverance in the context of an influence that joins regular events?

The creation of reality that defines a wandering soul as a whole is like a never-ending source of feelings poured into a picture that crosses eternity itself through the subject it treats from the perspective of comparison with a model of virtue adapted to hard times.

I am not just a rose, but an allegory largely based on true life experiences, which uses the characters, their role and deeds as a conversation with a "it would've been better if...", hoping that everything will have an echo in other times, under other circumstances, under another aspect.

I want to say that nature shaped me like a hermit living in the midst of the world with the thirst to conquer the world with all its laws and forces. But sometimes, just like the old Morla turtle in the "Marshes of Sorrow", who always talked to itself, because there was no other interlocutor to listen to, nor did I feel prepared to survive a reality that was far too complicated to be changed:

"I'm old, I've lived enough. I saw too much. For those who know as much as I do, nothing matters anymore. Everything is repeated forever, day and night, summer and winter. The world is barren and devoid of any meaning. Everything is going in circles. What appears must disappear, what is born must die. Everything is compensated for, good and evil, stupidity and wisdom, beauty and ugliness. Everything is insipid. Nothing is real. Nothing is important."

Leadership: Can your life's course be understood as a recovery of the great moments from the meanders of a vulnerable destiny characterized by a more intense experience of being "above time"?

Bastian, from the "Endless story", experiences the same consistency of character given by the strong image of the rose: "I would like to face a real danger that requires a mad courage. Here in the desert you cannot meet anyone. It is a great thing to be able to endure shortcomings and endure difficulties. But courage and daring are something else entirely. But it would be great to meet a dangerous being, but at the same time the most beautiful of all Fantasy."

The rose highlights the difference between Him from yesterday, today and tomorrow, but at the level of reason, feeling and human choice, in completing the power to withstand the test of time.

If my thoughts are, in fact, illusions of a life that wishes to have been experienced in other times, under the appearance of other characters: kings or servants, men or women, humble or proud, gentle or harsh, intelligent or stupid, in love or not, then the work of a genius creator is the composition of a nature that bears in itself, in every movement of it, the signs of a teaching that we must take into account in the future: everything is nothing without color, without feeling, without challenges, without artistic sense.

Often, leadership is the life experience that the construction of an Alter-Ego gives you, one which almost replaces your entire being.

Perhaps one day, a day when many interesting things happen, melted and infused in the fabric of a reality that puts its mark on eternity, you will admire me as a spiritual continuity of my facts and teachings from other incarnations, from other hypostases, from other universes. This is also a characteristic of the artist who, in a vision never before encountered, has a more subtle form of existence, specific to the merit of being immortalized in a context of encounter between two similar entities: between earth and heaven, between God and man, between soul and reason, between various facts and events.

It's already late. The moon retreated behind the lead-like clouds. A small blob of wind swings my brightly colored petals. Nobody sees me at this time. That is why I will conclude this confession full of meanings about the artist's effort to put more emphasis on a reality full of sensitivity and learning. A convincing echo still permeates my presence in the middle of the world, as it would pass through a man who until the last moment lives with an open heart an experience consumed in its entirety.

I learned from man and from the life that shelters him spiritually, that it is the same thing to be creation and creator under a sky full of peace, when you hear nothing but the wind and the whispers of sunset. The only thing done to differentiate us is living with the artist who addresses the role of mediator between character and narrator.

The experience of being above time concerns the meaning attributed to a singular destiny governed by the reality that no storm of life can separate us from the belief in a new beginning of the story, in which you must become a hero and cease to be just one survivor.

The Voice Of A Preacher In The Desert is nourished by the nobility of the present moment that belongs entirely to the artist, because no one else dares to assume this responsibility alone: to turn an endless story into a reality, even if no one believes it. Even if no one understands it.

Voice Of Infinite Silence

Compete with yourself, before trying to change the influence of others in your own interest.

Nebuchadnezzar, the King of Babylon, gave his full confidence to Zedekiah, the eleventh King of Israel, making him the shepherd of his people on the land of Israel, but he betrayed him, secretly conspiring with the Egyptians, who in the days of old, held in slavery the people of Israel. King Zedekiah's greatest desire was to take back his lands, and to free his people from the yoke of Babylon. Despite the fact that his prophet warned him many times not to start the war against Nebuchadnezzar, but to ask him mercy for his mistake, Zedekiah remained faithful to his decision.

Nevertheless, fate was way too cruel with Zedekiah. His entire army was destroyed, and he, along with his three sons, Eliel, Achish and Amasai, were caught and put in chains.

Brought before Nebuchadnezzar, Zedekiah knelt down with his face to the ground, and begged him to spare the lives of his innocent sons, with the cost of his own life. However, Nebuchadnezzar showed no mercy. He killed cold-blooded the three boys, and Zedekiah, who was forced to witness at their torture, ordered to be pull out his eyes.

This was the price he had to pay because he yielded to the temptation of trying to change the influence of Nebuchadnezzar in his own interest. Based on the trust that Nebuchadnezzar granted to him, Zedekiah tried a hazardous, bodacious movement, which would have surprised and beat him. However, he has not well weighed the value of his actions, could not hold in his tendencies to infidelity, to blur the effect of the adverse reactions that could arise.

Leadership: What dimension of your personality are you willing to show the world in case of a failure?

There's no point in having a vision based on a form of human knowledge derived from experience if you are a man of half measures, a man of excesses easily overcome by the urge to satisfy his ambitions, ignoring the limits imposed by his developers and promoters.

One direction you can insist upon is that of self-responsibility. Without ignoring what you are, remind yourself that the first constant of your reference model to a particular purpose is that dilemma: the choice – "Whose side are you?".

Thanks to a great action of reorganization of the personal promotion criteria, as well as of facilities for manifesting the coordinating capacities that allow you to carry out actions for your own interest or that of a third party, you risk having to admit yourself defeated by the very limits of your inability of bearing a responsibility that overlaps your contributions to the success of others.

The size of your personality is of the "accessory" type when the final reply to the tolerability given to you by a trusted partner itself becomes the very outcome.

This evolution towards the art of power, seen as a privilege or a pain, is a more comprehensive reality, of which the need to launch yourself into a personal challenge is only a small part, a sample of a thinking and a set of values that bring out what hides inside you.

What will be the nature of this new future task to yourself, for the good or the suffering of those who follow you is, of course, very difficult to say. But it certainly considers, as an initiation exercise of acquiring a new and independent identity, that dimension of personality that you are willing to show the world, even if you suffer a rejection or a miserable failure, that delirious loneliness of the self that twists around the axis of existential emptiness, unable to make sense of life.

The sad voice of the heart. What could a person feel in such a cruel and terrifying moment of his life - to assist in the execution of his sons? Bitterness? Regret?

A voice of infinite sadness and full of sorrow, springing from the depths of his soul, urged Zedekiah to suicide. The inner voice of his heart kept saying more and more intensely he no longer had a reason to live for. A silent and terrifying fight was unrolling inside his being. He felt like he was locked in an invisible prison, of which he could not escape from, but where he could only endure the burden of suffering and mental torture.

Leadership: Do you have the power to relive various life experiences through which you have experienced by stopping the reactions you have in the face of a contradictory reality?

The last bridge which still led to life, his last link with all of his feelings, all of his dreams, was destroyed. Nobody possessed a heart of exchange that would assuage his pain, which would put away his sadness, and would chase from his soul that bitter taste of disappointment in such a tragic moment. Not even a king.

A contradictory reality is an illusion on which we like to imagine we are feeding without being seen, which we call: "the reduction of the awareness of a change by making background moves."

The perfect silence surrounded Zedekiah like a soft and hard cloak, his tears flowed freely. No voice, he could not utter a single word, so great was his pain. All his hopes of life were shattered. He had no energy and motivation to live.

The road to the world of darkness. Zedekia's eyes have been pulled out, then he was enchained in bronze chains and taken to Babylon. This new torment, this humiliation was to be spread everywhere in the whole wide world. With no difficulty, no fate, condemned to solitude, he could only endure his life in darkness.

Even so, the real agony he had to endure was the voice of his last child, from the moment of his death, which will always resonate in his memory. Whatever would happen with him since then before, nothing will torment him more than that tortured voice of his son.

When someone transfers you a dominant position, do you try to bring to your attention images of yourself with situations in which you have felt valuable through the legitimacy of that position or through its abuse?

Conclusion: In leadership, you sometimes step on quicksand. Therefore, in unforeseen situations, you must calculate well your steps and cautiously choose the path, which would allow you overcoming the future obstacles and achieving the proposed objectives. Because any step that you make could have the opposite effects of the expected ones.

Compete with yourself, before trying to change the influence of others in your own interest. That is to analyze your leadership potential in all respects, better assess your skills and limits without overestimating your ability to change others through games, intrigues and conspiracy, by making use of the power with which you have been invested by them. Are you a reliable man?

Weigh well the value of your actions in order to blur the effect of the adverse reactions that may arise from those who have placed their trust in you.

The Voice Of Rebellion

On February 17, 2009

Change the mental and spiritual constitution of people, by sending them that higher vibration through which to externalize their latent aspirations.

He was a soldier in the Roman army, but he deserted because of a conflict with the authorities. Then, he was handcuffed and sold at a slave market to a man who ran a school for gladiators in Capua. Even so, once arrived, he decided to escape and restore the freedom to the other gladiators, which were forced to fight for life and death, just to entertain the Romans.

Using the knives stolen from the school kitchen, he managed, together with other 78 gladiators, to escape and defeat the armed forces that were sent to catch them. Soon, his name became a legend and so, in less than a year after his escape, he was joined by more than 70,000 people. For nearly two years, he terrified the Romans, although he wanted nothing more than to be free.

Leadership: Do you measure the courage to risk your life through a forced exit from the total of secondary causes?

Spartacus, "the athlete with tanked muscles from old times"- as he was called by the romanian poet Constantin Mille, was the leader of one of the largest riots in history. His name became a legend because he dared to risk his life for freedom and justice. He showed the world by his living example what freedom is, how slaves are able to become heroes, and that people are able to fight for a better life for their happiness.

The willingness to risk, it is the feature that always comes to light at the people that pursue an ideal. Often, they expose themselves to danger in order to help others to nourish hopes and prospects of their appropriate values and goals. And, the more they get involved in the process of changing the mentality of people, the more their lives make sense.

The secondary causes you to support to fulfill your will are restricted by the alienation of what the "man of yesterday" should represent. Causes such as the incompatibility of your battle condition, the condition of fulfillment and the martyr's condition, primarily by representing the status of a system of beliefs about events, can be brought in line with latent aspirations, not yet expressed, but which strongly tend to comply with the facts of they are offered the opportunity, the chance or the environment favorable for manifestation.

A forced exit from a number of secondary causes has as a comparison term a form you getting actively involved in changing life with the risk of being caught in the trap of sacrificing yourself for others, without discovering the real you.

Once you have developed a sense of understanding of the type of person you are, then you can experience the real value of life by injecting your beliefs in two directions: a direction of total self-destruction or a direction of individual perfection.

Are you a fighter or a defeated?

Spartacus' voice was heard when human rights was infringed and endangered. Dominated by the sense of confidence in the final victory, he has consistently supported his ideas and interest for achieving his final goal. His aspiration for freedom, which was felt throughout the Roman Empire, wake up all that were oppressed from the numbness of soul and reason that had fallen, by filling them with the desire to make common cause with him. Thousands of slaves have understood his message and could not ignore it.

Only the straight fight can lead to victory. All those who joined Spartacus' movement forced their limits for the sake of a higher calling, a call to action, transformation, freedom, dignity, communion, retrieving some times long gone – a call which could not be rejected because it was instantly stuck into the soul of the oppressed.

His voice has mobilized people in order to achieve outstanding results. The leader finds ways of action, it is important for people to hear his voice and follow him. Confident in himself and in victory, courageous and willing to materialize the aspirations that will change the world, aspirations in which he completely believed, Spartacus, aware of his mission, has mobilized thousands of people in order to obtain their freedom.

Leadership: Can you better understand the concept of personal autonomy by carefully controlling the risk carried by your transition from a status of limitation to one of legend?

Moreover, he managed to impose himself in front of them because he added a healthy dose of charisma to his leading style. He stepped enthusiastically to the forefront of each battle because the risk is the first a step towards victory, which he wasn't afraid to do. Confidence in victory was always present in his soul, nerving and encouraging himself in his efforts.

It happens sometimes that a leader cannot be found, but when it is found, he must lead the people to achieve its goals and, at the same time, to determine their attitudes change.

Personal autonomy is based on that intrinsic motivation that differentiates an individual from others as a general orientation in their relations with the environment (physical and social).

Conclusion: Sometimes, in order to achieve his goal, the leader must listen to that inner voice, that "voice of rebellion" against some conditions and situations, which seem to be well established in society and accepted as a part of fate. History has shown that whenever a leader with great vision and with power of persuasion appears, the world can be changed.

Change the mental and spiritual constitution of the people, by sending them that higher vibration through which to externalize their latent aspirations.

The Void Of Intellectual Matter

Recompose leadership in a whole new higher quality assembly, without developing a high degree of dependence on a complex parallel reality.

A phenomenal leap across a huge ocean is only part of the distance traveled within a few years of laborious study towards the world of secrets, which materialized into a kind of intellectual dependency. And the desire to better understand the "exceptional" through the purifying filter of the "singular", under the guidelines of certain integrating ideas that gave meaning to all esoteric aspects, I managed to demonstrate numerous scientific experiments that concerned alchemy.

Secretele sunt expresia unei realități pe care nimeni nu o crede posibilă.

The alchemists' attempts at preparing gold were so tempting, yet, I was tempted by something else entirely, a different reference indicator, a development factor of a much higher level. I was tempted by the mysterious character of a world with incomprehensible rules. I was drawn to structural analysis, the magical formulas and potion recipes, the intricate preparations that preceded the backwards trends. Especially the complex of relations that defined a certain system relative to its components.

Leadership: Who are you really in relation to a very complex world if you do not win the fight with what you do not accept in yourself to be part of a supra-personal work?

More than a century ago, a chemist showed that water boiled up to 1000 degrees Celsius begins to decompose into its root elements – hydrogen and oxygen. But the gas resulting from the decomposition, still in contact with the liquid, has at this temperature a certain pressure due to which the decomposition stops.

Contemplating on what reveals that relationship between the elements and understanding the pattern behind the reaction process, I set my heart on exploration, to seek the wisdom and the scheme of things. The fundamental mysteries of creation. What makes possible the framing of compositional elements into a new whole, together with the relationships between them, so as to form a new structure of the Great Work? Devoid of any and all constraints and prejudices, I began developing a new alchemical algorithm with what I had learned.

I delivered knowledge to myself alone through learning the fundamental showing of matter unbound by time. With effort, had I entered a generous space offered to the systems, fields, connectors and multiple effects. But I had not the power to deal with everything involved with their administration and management. I sometimes fell prey to confusion. But the great difficulty lied precisely in the transformation of the elements through which mystic union you obtain the premium concentrate that bears the mark of Hermes, Philosophiae Transmutatione.

Leadership is an important culture test in the field of science that can accurately determine how much of your personality is due to foreign influences, and how much it is due to discoveries experienced in the personal reinvention process.

I had to carry but one fight on the basis of a re-evaluation of alchemical research, on the basis of painful knowledge and perpetual dissatisfaction, on the basis of well-nuanced information from the general culture that determined the finalities of science (specialized vocabulary, glossaries, treasures, dictionaries, data banks, etc.)

It was the fight with the self in the name of faith. I could not accept the idea that all that faith had taught me was part of a supra-personal work. I was no longer a man of expectations and predictions, but a man of the book, the pen and the word immortal in writing.

I say this especially amid justified worries, of the instinctive fury of traversing the harsh surface of a scientific territory in all possible ways, a world unleashed with all its power given by uncertainty, dilemma, chaos, variability and complexity. Was it only a vain and deceptive hope? A hallucination of the brain? A continuous scroll of ideals too abstract?

Leadership: Does your intellectual construction have a narrow or broad understanding depending on what you are willing to sacrifice at the level of attachment to the need to build a vision that does not just opposes a thing, but wants to change an entire phenomenon?

Communication between man and science, at the level of empirical research that blueprints the logical course of projecting studies of designing a new perspective for interpreting ideas in terms of a quality aspect, creates a sort of dependency to a parallel reality. That could be disappointing if it does not have as a result the good performance and increased production of creations.

Here vision plays a leading role because it has to outline a realistic, credible and attractive future that is accessible to anyone. And alchemy is an occult practice that I could only look at with a certain degree of bewilderment, but at the same time I had to take it further to build a new understanding of science and knowledge. Of course, I cannot fail to notice that the whole phenomenon of the search for the sensational responded just as well to the experience of self-seeking that always led to exhaustion.

It's like living someone else's life, somewhere else, in a higher dimension where everything you think of is manifested immediately using a revolutionary new language. Or by using a new technology, or by establishing a new, unexpected, perception of reality. And this preconception is far from being a "fashion" if it does not bring, through a simplification of the findings given by the assimilation of alchemy, as big of an audience as possible.

Trying to grasp a new matter, spread out as a surface of propagation of knowledge, means to learn to accept the edgy paradoxes that you will always encounter. The intellectual construction has a narrow understanding, unable to be evaluated and thoroughly analyzed by those supporters who embrace the same vision and mentality. Only by those scholars who know how to decompose matter without denying the value of the Great Work.

The phenomenon you need to change in order to reinvent yourself is the starting point of "The Great Work" that links an ideal full of intellectual achievement and the miracle of a revolutionary language that aims to describe a particular reality, rather than deliberately convincing through mastery and creativity.

The Void Of Intellectual Matter designates that lack of consistency between the obviously superior thinking of the leader and the normal thinking of the target group. In leadership, you must know how to stoop to the level of understanding of the majority so as to be followed in all actions. Alchemy is just a form of actively engaging in personal evolution, but it does not represent the right means to change those around you.

The Voluntary Aspect Of Leadership

On February 05, 2013

Seek in the light of your own life story all the necessary resources that give you the force to act in accordance with the "responses" you receive from within your own heart.

I've talked to you about writer Cella Serghi numerous times. In the period of her personality training, beyond the pride of acting as a high-ranking person, wrestling a destiny that will focus on the notion of "admiration", the writer emphasizes the tendency to somehow justify her existence and to express in a direct, naive or provocative form her own emotions.

We, the readers, assist to a sort of literary artistic composition, indicating as a landmark a spiritual and cultural creation in which the heart, like deep water, can be felt only at a glance in the past, in the face of the influences of a pure conscience at half the distance between regret and happiness, between consolation, delusion and fun, when the appearances of the world suffocate the hope of possessing the beloved object called literature or art through the eyes of a masculinized and prejudiced society.

Leadership: Are you able to capture in writing the essence of things "that cannot be told in words", like an artist who immortalizes the fleeting moments of life through creation?

She was saying at a moment of great emotion, equating to the manifestation of a deja-vu, the feeling that she has experienced this very powerful experience through journeys made throughout the world and through her particularly important writings:

On this earth, when I could not speak, I learned to listen to the pains of the sea, when I could not read, I found out from shards of stories of Dacians and Getae. In the language only children and scholars understand, I was talking to grandfather's shards, to my shells. Ovidius walked here, here he said his woes and the carved his "sadness" in stone.

Here I learned to see and love what surrounds me, here I learned my ABCs and all that cannot be written and said with words, from here I took everything I kept and wanted to keep.

Leadership: Can you give meaning to your personal experiences that help you become the "Author of your own life story" in a context of determination and attempts of the Self to discover itself by reference to an aesthetic formula?

Can you be more than an empty space? Can you bea core of exploiting your own potential around which all forces gravitate? Is the mightiest mountain bending and finally collapsing before you?

I remember what the famous writer Marguerite Yourcenar once said: "The true birthplace is that where, for the first time, you have casted on yourself a piercing look: my first birthplaces were books."

Take a closer look at yourself and see what is the electrifying element, necessary to overcome the "inertia" of an impression of limited space. A perfect and implicitly original thing, an instaurator thing, therefore novel for the aim and benefit of your development, must be designed so as to challenge time, to be "eternal".

A sustainable development, a restatement of intentions, a clear vision, to meet all challenges, this is the requirement of a good mastery of the "personality" phenomenon in the whole splendor of life. The aesthetic formula that Cella Sergi attributes to life can be represented as follows: "The splendor of my importance is the image of a color called sensibility from which the character's attitudes to the world feed on a story full of the perfume of social conventions."

The creation of a literary work aims to reproduce a disturbing apparition in the project "the chance of a life lived to the fullest" through the interpretation you give to the moment of great significance that determines your destiny.

Cella Serghi is the author of her own life story in which art belongs to the deepest experiences she could reveal about herself and about the other people around her. All that surprised her in moments of great significance is the creation of a genius artist who translates his emotions on canvas, but only the emotions that are totally dependent on the experience of the social and cultural life of the common man – the man caught between doubts and virtue.

But, before your own development, before the discovery and assimilation of any alchemy, there is always a pre-alchemy, an intensive labor of search, conception, addition and correction, of adjustment of data cables – generating new processes, new structures, new openings and new realities. New elements must be identified, integrated into a mosaic of introspectives and imaginatives as original as possible. New variables must be defined, restored and promoted according to a set of rules and norms.

Leadership: How can your heart, like deep water, reflect the influences exerted by a clean conscience, halfway between regret and happiness, without becoming troubled under the weight of conflicting emotions?

And this whole process of discovering the elements necessary to your accomplishment can be achieved only through relocationing the space beneficial to the crystallization of your work – in the laboratory of inovations, the sanctuary of the priceless treasure of your knowledge. Are books your first "birthplaces"? You will refine in time your true alchemy only if you will attach yourself more to these birthplaces.

Such a thing, a stimulant with a powerful effect, a substitute for the unacceptable, a protest against downfall, a restore to constantly come back to must also be protected, to not be subjected to the distructive action of your inferior nature, for your previous degree of mediocrity – which can always be reactivated – not to be distroyed.

Leadership that imparts to life a certain identity and a certain coloration refers to the "soul confession" expression of the similarities between the deepest experiences you can reveal about yourself and the certainties that you can outline about the world in a landscape full of bias.

The Voluntary Aspect Of Leadership is the importance that you give to a life that you have to spend in the perspective of meeting with another version of yourself in other times and other circumstances when everything that seemed certain becomes doubt, when everything that is common is represented only by the alluviations of the human condition.

Do not forget that everything that happens to you is a process by which you have to polish and make the most of your character.

The Warm Rays Of Sunset (II)

On March 15, 2013

Try to discover the real cause of everything that happens to you, without falling prey to the drive of self-depreciation.

Long labors and painful expectations reveal, similar to a difficult birth, Laura Quinn's true feelings. From now on, in a shockingly short time, in a voluntary effort and through extraordinary focus, the great drama of her soul takes place, the clash between particles charged by two opposite charges in a high-voltage field.

"Why? Why did I become allies with Mister Hobbs? I'm an accomplice ! I'm guilty ! I will end up behind bars ! God will punish me ! I can negotiate to get away from all this. I'll go to Ashcroft and offer him the stolen diamonds in exchange of our freedom ! "

Rather than living her life in Date's Inferno, she enters free willingly in Purgatory, pushed by her guilt, hoping she will get away with her soul untainted.

She feels this "cosmic connection", she knows that someone who chose a wrong way still has a ray of sun in their heart, a crumble of mea culpa and thus, they get closer to the true servant of God, the one who repents. Unlike the other beings that continue their descent, unlike those cold people with a frozen and harsh heart, whose actions lower their self-esteem, making their escape harder.

In her depths, Laura Quinn has the superior trait of repenting, of correcting herself. In the name of truth and through the Holy Ghost received at her rebirth, she learns to take hold of the impetuous and energy that was ill-used and ill-channeled. Through the sacred formula that only her untouched soul understands: "I am truly sorry for myself", she finds a justification and manages to keep her self-esteem.

Leadership: Do you manifest yourself in the exercise of your own temporality as a long-term individualization phenomenon whose essence is to show how the content of your experience has to show the significance of committing a deviation from the natural line?

Radiant matter is a result of dark matter. Laura has a new meaning in the parallelogram of the forces of destiny: to be the carrier of a profound spirituality, from where it extracts the essence of structuring a new configuration of its consciousness. Light, the phenomenon that makes the world inside of her be seen, completely alters her mood. And this light, so natural, hitting her like a lightning in the night, only comes from one source, more giving than the parts of her Ego, her conscience.

Warm, with a high concentration of energy in the area that needs to be cured, the rays of hope greet her, while the driest parts of her character gather shade. Of her own free will, the passage from the shade to the light is made through an intermediary area consisting of half-shades, regrets combined with her inner rebellion, with the pity she shows to herself. And this area is reduced reduces itself as the contrast between light and shade becomes more powerful.

The tormented being wins the battle with herself. In her empty, torn heart that's been broken into thousands of shards and melted in repenting remorse, an almost imperceptible, but free and replenishing joy arises: "I'm free, at last." The content of his experience began to show the significance of committing a deviation from the natural line by canceling any chance of returning to the dark years of the past when he had to accept a reality that did not confirm his desires.

Leadership: Is the updating of your preferences for the chance of a new beginning achieved as a phenomenon of personalizing your own image through a determinant such as: "Move away from who you have been"?

Are the key moments of your existence strongly supported by conflicting arguments? Do these moments unite in a very narrow bridge that you must cross? What can transform you into a defenseless creature? Do you have what it takes to fight against the harsh reality? Do long labors and painful expectations reveal your true feelings? Do you have in your heart a ray of sun, a crumble of guilt? Are you able to correct yourself?

Agreement or disagreement with your own self, the attitude that you adopt in key moments, the impediments that you encounter in your past experiences, they all dwell in your conscious, in what could be called the influence of the future over the present. A kind of double game in which the two opponents, the two opposite entities of the same being remain entrapped in a nonfunctional world, and that combine together in a risky and deceitful whole: the feeling of being a victim, being abandoned.

In this case, your psyche suffers deeply. You begin to feel carried away by a different reality; you become more vulnerable, you accuse yourself. Before you start thinking what is good and what you want to change about yourself, you let yourself drift into a dynamic, but overwhelming rhythm, with dark perspectives in the future. Ultimately, you put yourself amidst the constant chattering of the prison where you have free-willingly incarcerated yourself.

The American businessman, well-known for being the CEO of ITT Corporation uttered at some point a memorable phrase: "Leadership is practiced not so much through words, but through attitude and actions."

With all the deep roots of your development tendencies, starting with the particularities of your own personality, only the progressive traits are undoubtedly dominant, of course only at a given scale of your sequence of values on the axis of time.

Leadership: How do you think you are being evaluated for your way of engaging in a fight against a hidden enemy, considering that the way of conceiving things and the world depends on the image that a moment of choice suggests?

You can understand leadership better because of the lights that you project over it. What kind of lights you project over leadership? Those lights that impede you to see a little bit more clearly who you truly are? Those lights that carry you into a state of rejection and unhappiness?

Leadership can gravely cast ruthless lights over every aspect that can totally dominate people. And as I have read somewhere on the Internet, people, by articulating the values in their existence and in the flux of reality, articulate altogether their existence in a mechanism of precarious becoming sometimes, manifested through the tendency of trailing behind everything that defines him.

Leadership monitors certain human constancies. First of all, it can be felt in the intimate desire of self-evaluation, then in the way in which we see ourselves and it becomes crucial in the way everyone around see us.

Through these considerations, leadership, resonating powerfully on the highest step of your existence becomes good or bad. A cooling process of the area that forms you, a sickening symptom, or an alternative that brings you an advantage, a phenomenon that makes your inner world visible by positively altering your mood, as a well-greased engine.

As an alchemist has to separate from what is solid or neutral the substance that he would carry with patience and care towards its perfect transmutation, you have to abstain from transforming leadership in an occasion to resign, you have to detach the chords that keep you pinned down, prisoner in a reality shadowed by your own desire to ascend.

To engage in a struggle against a hidden enemy means to become aware that your superior form of being may be the first step towards your victory, especially in terms of the tendency to choose a later reward instead of an immediate one.

The Warm Rays Of Sunset reflect how you are in harmony with your own being, with your own character in those uncertain situations where things get complicated, in those situations when you have to give your consent for what is about to happen if you can't prove your vitality. It also describes that electrifying and beneficent emotion that gives you strength even in moments of despair, when you fall in the bleak spiral of passions.

Never forget the saying: "When you fall into nothingness, have faith that down there God will catch you."

Win the battle with yourself. Claim your rights and say "NO" to any attempt of entering the darkness of leadership. Keep away from dangerously slipping in the opposite side of freedom with no limits. Guard your heart of any remorse. Fill your soul with that immense, refreshing and renewing joy expressed through the words: "I'm free, at last."

Try to discover the true cause of all that's happening to you, without falling prey to the drive of self-depreciation.

The Warm Rays Of Sunset (I)

On March 14, 2013

Separate yourself from what has an adverse effect on the clarity of your orientation, focusing more on gaining your acceptance as an autonomous individual.

She didn't know what she feared most. That she will start hating Mister Hobbs, or that she will start hating herself? This was the key moment of Laura Quinn's existence, supported by conflicting arguments, a very narrow bridge that she had to slowly cross, without any accidents happening. A very annoying Upside Down detached her more and more from herself. Accentuating her drive to accept herself with all her flaws, or to fight herself along the way to fulfilling her purposes.

Laura Quinn, the main character of the movie "Flawless (2007)" is one of those defenless creatures that seem to have been pulled out of Dostoievski's novels, a character you can't tell if you hate or love, but that through their gentleness, their shyness, or their power to fight the harsh reality, invite you to reflect by instilling in you a profound feeling of some kind of gratitude, a new way to see yourself.

And without knowing why, the defining traits of this being, the greatness of this spirit – superior through the warmth it spreads around, through compassion, respect, kindness, forgiveness, all these small existential shards that gathered together become the most valued treasure, follow you for a long while and eventually, they unnoticeably tie you to her world.

You start feeling and thinking about what is good and what you'd like to change in her life, you let yourself carried by her story, her overwhelming way of life, her future perspectives. Until you find yourself amidst the constant chattering of the prison where she, of her own free will, lays herself restlesly. How can you abandon the analitical depth of this broken conscience?

Leadership: Do you do your duty of "the right verdict of a solemn fate", detaching yourself from the satisfaction of raising the trophy of senselessness over everything that binds you to life?

The attitude towards self-knowledge, in a so called "persistence time" (for a relatively short period of time) is important in explaining a spiritual failure attributed to the condition of producing a life style that doesn't maximize the preference margin of an individual. But this happens within the limits of a self-imposed objectivity that reveals itself little by little in the frames of a partly attainable personal fulfillment.

The key of the entire self-completion process, which places leadership under the sign of a battle against nonsense and chaos, for the endangered vital elements, reveals to the conscience both - the opened and closed door, and accomplishment becomes a substitute of the key. Both doors make the passage towards a mature intellect and a wholeness of the human being. Each of us is free to choose whichever door.

Anthony Silard, The "Center for Social Leadership" President said at a certain point: "In order to become an upstanding person, you must take the ball and put it back where it belongs, that is within you." In this context, the ball has the meaning of taking responsibility regarding the way you lead yourself in life, in a continuity of thought that addresses itself, expressed in the critical exercise of reason and used mainly as a state of unchaining yourself from the limits of deep and steady convictions.

Leadership has at its core strong convictions, especially the way in which you handle and understand emotions. When you evaluate your chances to be at peace with yourself, try to make all the balls glow.

The correct verdict of a solemn fate takes into account the power of man to form a high ideal right in the midst of a sad life without giving up the hero's hypostasis of an odyssey that keeps him connected in a constant fascination.

If you focus only on winning your acceptance as an autonomous individual, as a person that counts only on his own strength, then you can be at peace with the idea of being a superior human. Overcoming the vulnerability of not having a shoulder to lean on when facing hardships (which means channeling your whole attention towards an overwhelming way of life) is possible only by breaking away from what you have been or what you think you are, by reinventing yourself, by extending "the movement" of being you.

The meaning that you give to self-knowledge and success, intensified in the temporary storage of psychical energy and sensibility, plays a decisive part in reaching a state of plenitude. Building this state, that can materialize through a bolder attitude, depends on your original social environment, personal background, the way you react when facing the inherent vicissitudes of your daily existence, with work directed towards a purpose, etc.

Leadership is an obligation towards the ethical and emotional authority that you have to fully assume as is, conceived and enforced in an authentic way. The interaction between the dimension that particularizes your personality and the dimension that characterizes your existence, also taking into account your dimension as intellectual product, gives birth to the highest form of living, to those temporal mini-formations limited to the relations and rapports between environment and time. You feel fulfillment through what you live, not through what you are.

Man's orientation towards a new beginning of life depends on the quality of what inspires him to make choices that reflect the true self, without serving a past or present that doesn't want to go away.

The Warm Rays Of Sunset symbolize those times in life when you struggle, demanding from yourself decisions that you aren't ready to endure. But just as in a painting, the expressive features of physiognomy are pointed out through a powerful shadow and light game, so are your qualities as a strong person pointed out, in daily life, through the activity of knowing yourself and through an active availability of knowing everything that means new and foreign – even when your own expectations are low.

The Wasted Time Principle

On January 19, 2010

What you expect to receive from life is directly proportional to what you are able to feel as an unhappy twist of fate.

Days passed by, then weeks, then years. Edmond Dantes continued to wait, with an unsettling hope, to be released from d'If castle. Or, at least, have a change in his life, because he couldn't resist for long all alone in the same cell. He prayed to be taken from his cell and moved to another one, even a deeper and darker one. A change, even for the worse, would have meant a change, however. He prayed to be taken out for a walk, to be given air, books to read, tools for work. Something new to be done, anything, would have meant redemption. But everything remained the same, except time, which flew inevitably.

The poor man had forgotten how many days had passed since he was imprisoned. He lost his self-confidence. He lost his faith in God. He lost any hope. He only had his so limited, so dark past and so uncertain future.

But all his suffering, this state of discontent and frustration which he was going through disappeared when Abbé Faria appeared. Everything that seemed dark and gloomy started, all of a sudden, to have color. The joy of having a friend to share his thoughts, feelings and everything that obsessed him was so great that he lost track of time.

Leadership: Do you evaluate your level of success in terms of the feeling of involvement in creating a stable and lasting connection between two different characters, as opposed to what you are interested in accomplishing by rooting your sense of self in something that confirms your worth?

If you read the novel "The Count of Monte Cristo", then you know that Abbe' Faria had an extremely important role in Dantes' success. He comforted his suffering and strengthened him morally. He miraculously saved him from despair or maybe something even worse. Two different characters are outlined here: one fascinated by divine power, worthy of the worship of life in order to spread Orthodox knowledge, and the other is dominated by the power to change the meaning of life by increasing the chances of resisting its attempts.

Long work (digging the tunnel) filled Dantes' days and, when he rested, he had his hopes to comfort him. The old man's words, which had a lot of teaching in them, made him listen to him with more and more interest. They even drafted an "education plan". While working, Faria gave lessons to Dantes, speaking to him in different languages, teaching him of the history of nations and great people. So, the days passed faster and full of teachings. In a year's time, Edmond Dantes became a different man.

Rooting your sense of self in something that confirms your value is specific to the man who is not in direct and continuous connection with the outside world, who affirms one's self and grows more in solidarity with the divine will, identifying with that strong image of which reality was expressed very well by Shakespeare as follows: "Virtue and Science are gifts greater than nobility and wealth."

Dantes spent half of his youth in a cell, but he didn't lose time, because Abbé Faria taught him everything he needed in order to become a respected person in the society, with a special authority, worthy of envy, with special knowledge in various fields. With no doubt, Dantes needed what Faria had to offer, and his presence made captivity easier. He may have never gotten an educated man, with higher abilities, with a behavior adequate to high society id he hadn't met the old man. Moreover, he would certainly not have found Spada's treasure.

Leadership: Is your transition from faith to science the result of a bottom-up process of an accident in your dream of life that the hazard entered into organizing events for you to be victorious over your inner powers?

Perseverance, the will to learn, to perfect, to gain new abilities, turned Dantes into a different man. The words which the Count of Monte Cristo (Edmond Dantes) put down in his goodbye letter are memorable: „Only he who felt the worst of unhappiness is capable to sense the greatest of happiness."

The time he spent with Abbé Faria was not at all useless, wasn't it? In the end, it brought him the greatest happiness. And the dream of Edmond Dantes was fulfilled in the end, far more than he had ever hoped to reach, without knowing that chance had prepared the hardest route beforehand, precisely for him to be given the highest reward.

Basically, Dantes' success was greatly due to the relationship he made with Abbé Faria. The old man, who had served cardinal Spada, had kept, however, something from the straightforward language of the people and, thus, Dantes was able to understand him easily. He learned from the old man to appreciate the importance of lecture, he learned how to write and read, he learned Mathematics, Physics, he learned new things about civilizations and cultures, about History, Geography, and even Astronomy. And even more important than all these, he learned how to be a mannered and influent person.

To be victorious over your inner powers means to nurture the feeling of being away from the world, to nurture the power of perseverance and the weakness of being stubborn, to learn all the virtues that make up leadership's adornment: faith, spiritual winning, discipline and intelligence.

In a human relationship, you always have something to learn. You exchange opinions, you share knowledge and experiences, you become more informed and more motivated to get to action. No matter who you are, no matter where you are, no matter what you do, the time you spend with a friend is never wasted. You can learn something new from anybody, usually, from the person you least expect. Therefore, appreciate the moments you spend with your friends and don't exchange them for anything in the world.

Writer Les Giblin illustrated very well this aspect: „No matter how you would define happiness, you will ultimately be convinced that your own happiness depends on the relationships you have with others."

"Rebirth" is the attribute of the great souls who know how much glory it is to pass, with the unwavering power of the soul, life's trial by fire: to be alone in a place from which you think you cannot escape. Learn to survive to the point where you are ready to experience salvation. You just have to know that one person who is especially capable of giving you the change that fate requires in exchange for a colossal transformation.

Leadership is introduced as a means of proof, an expression of character development, in search of the destiny that you must face in order to gain the right to be a man endowed with the quality of virtue.

The Principle Of Lost Time applies only to those willing to give up the whole world to win the victory of faith that gives virtues and grace. As the bible says: "If you want to reach the kingdom of heaven (that height of perfect wisdom), leave everything and follow Me ! "

The time spent with a friend is never wasted.

The Way Of The Magician

On March 21, 2010

Integrate yourself into the performance circle, canceling the natural limitations imposed by the parameters of the development of a meaning that always stands at the edge of the significance of an impeccably played role.

A hidden voice tells me that it was more than a coincidence my re-encounter with the master magician. He still had that sharp look, which seems to be reading deep down your soul. I could see in him gathered the entire human knowledge, all its secrets. You could see from a distance that he was a man with the formidable power to change things, an unusual man who guessed everything, who knew everything, who penetrated the most intimate thoughts of all people.

We talked a few long hours, the magician being pleasantly surprised that I remembered so much about him. Curious by nature, I put him a lot of questions, maybe in this way I could find the secret of his profession, the secret of a magician. And I found out.

The mystery from behind the glance of the scene. The magician looked aThe mystery from behind the glance of the scene. T me full of confidence, he lowered his voice so nobody around us could hear us talking and said to me:

- A magician who does not have the skills to arouse the curiosity of the spectators and influence them by his own will, going into their minds, cannot be successful in his career. Most viewers believe in miracles and impossible things, which can be made, so, that is why, in order for the act to be perfect, he must temporarily suspend reality. Otherwise, the audience won't like any illusion, they will prove to be unimpressed, and will applaud without enthusiasm.

He made a short pause, examined me with his eyes and mind to see if I am really paying attention to him, then continued:

- I'm not a magician, but an actor playing the role of a magician. I am an artist who learned how to realize special effects by his art. The key to my success lies only in knowing the physical phenomena underlying the optical perception, in the dexterity of my hands, in the speed and accuracy I perform every magic trick. The more I maintain the illusion, the more "the magic" is considered better.

Leadership: Do you benefit from all the privileges of power, no matter the way in which you are perceived?

The power of a magician to perform apparently impossible tricks, subtly influencing, through mystical ways, apparently supernatural, the thoughts and beliefs of people illustrates the way in which leadership overcomes tradition borders of promotion. It illustrates the way in which the elaboration function of granting a new meaning to the experience lived by people around you, through a conditioning tendency, is exclusively fulfilled by artists, in the face of a world redimensioned by new realities.

I am not at all surprised that this identity reconfiguration towards an all-comprising accomplishment of putting into practice, in a controlled environment, all the advanced shaping and manipulating techniques, actually shares some characteristics of the work of art.

The work of art is the way through which the artist manifests his gift of improvising and accomplishment; it is a lesson of determinism, in the complex of phenomena that form together the field of practical experiences. The latter receives an important meaning, with a high number of receiving and reaction valences, by becoming a way to disclose a new conscience that burns under the sign of an impact force in front of those that learn to adapt to a new reality.

To benefit from all the privileges of power is to express that creative side that measures your value at the same time as committing a deviation from reality, so that the public tries to look simultaneously at two distinct parts of the same individual.

In other words, the work of art is a way to form some representations about the world of objects and phenomena of a reality that makes all the more obvious the idea according to which everything is possible if you really try to obtain the impossible of possible.

Leadership is the winning option of a psychological experiment that tests the power of understanding of some people through some well determined quantities of chiaroscuro that have emerged in the form of thought styles that completely surprise, thus obtaining some exceptional performances.

That is why cultivating the capacity to perceive a work of art by taking over variations of some very attractive themes and aspects, from the superior height of your own creative culture is maybe the most profitable investment, because no matter the way in which you're perceived, you benefit from all the privileges of power. This means that you remain loyal to your own intellectual superiority.

Leadership: Can you express the hidden side of your being, without leaving any particular aspect of your "show" to chance?

Leadership is a "game" based on rules and skills, where only those truly deserving will be able to obtain exceptional results and will be able to advance to a higher level. It is a "game" in which you must look for perfection even if you will never be able to reach it. It is a "game" in which, if you do not practice continuously, you can fail, despite the excellent performancthat you have proven up to the present. Do not forget that you cannot leave for chance any particular aspect of your "show".

Just as the feeling without intelligence is blind, so you become blind and the quality of your performance suffers if you accept that natural limitations imposed by the dimension of your talent. You can always be better than you think you are. The decision to go to the limit will help your potential to reach a level where others are not able.

Have you made an inventory of your skills? Can you do things that others are not able to do? What is the trait that sets the tone for your performance? Do you show a genuine care for the elements that increases your leadership ability? Or, somehow you are heading to an area for which you do not have inclinations?

The way you are perceived by people depends on your understanding of the aesthetic dimension of the creative act.

Just as the intelligence without feeling is cold and has no dynamic force, so your leadership potential will not have a dynamic force if you have not created to yourself a lever that would increase to the maximum your efficiency - once the lever is your commitment to improving the conditions in which you validate your potential to transfigure a certain reality.

These conditions are responsible for diverting attention to something other than what is seen and the actual focusing on the creative act that is being made in plain sight at one point, but just when everyone is paying attention elsewhere.

Is there a way to become a master of leadership? Yes, there is a way, but it is not simple at all. In leadership, achieving a craftsmanship requires a constant training, a lot of effort and much sacrifice, because the talent is not enough. You may be endowed with a special talent, with rare virtues, and altogether be surpassed by someone more vivid and productive. Perseverance and serious effort always beat talent.

The hidden side of your being has as a dominant variable the weight of encompassing in one act of creation two special things: the attention displayed to the plans of an artistic game and the natural tendency of the mind to go in the direction of the currents caused by the associations of ideas and the original correlations that the experimentation of illusion arouses.

The way of the magician is nothing else but the way you must follow in leadership in order to increase your performances. In a world like ours, where there is a fierce competition, only those who will follow the way of improvement, development of dexterities and, generally, continuous improvement in all aspects, will succeed in making themselves noticed in a special way !

David Copperfield, the most famous magician of all times, the one who made the Statue of Liberty to disappear, best captured this truth: "The real secret of magic lies in performance."

How do you enhance your performance so you can increase your value?

Can the meaning you attribute to your role be split between the desire of being one with reality and the loyalty for the creation of illusion?

The Weight On A Leader's Shoulders

On March 09, 2009

Make credible the manifestation of own individuality and of the character that you assume, for your potential to reach a maximum of quality.

It says that Gingis Han remained disorientated when he found out that one of his warriors killed Taicher, the brother of his enemy Jamukha, after he tried to steal his horses. There were only two ways of solving this: either he sent the warrior to Jamukha, what automatically meant his conviction to death, either he kept him, which meant without a doubt starting a war.

Ginghis Han kept the warrior who, doing his duty killed the thief and so he started the war in 1206 which changed forever the face of the history. The fact that he put his life in danger for a single soldier, Ginghis Han proved a great loyalty, and also that he is a good leader who knows how to cherish those who are doing their duty in his favour.

Leadership: Are you willing to experience a reality in which you can go beyond yourself, creating a "long exposure to heights" experience that will change that support point that sustains a destiny of legend?

As a leader, your responsibility to loyal people is akin to walking the wire: at first you only realize the danger of falling down and try to avoid a catastrophe, then you gain courage and move forward against the risk because you realize that you have to fulfill a destiny of the image of a legendary hero.

A destiny of legend, because there is no path to eternal glory that does not start from man, lies in the foundation of the truth of faith in remarkable deeds. The hero that always remembers history did not appear as a bearer of divine conscience or of a religious-moral goal to be the ultimate expression of a culminating struggle but, above all, distinguishes itself following attempts doomed to failure that have been completed with unexpected and colossal success.

People who follow you feel inspired by the incredible events produced around a dangerous attempt to get to the top of the world's highest mountain, and from there make a jump that brings you faster than you expect to achieving an impossible goal.

Leadership is the act of climbing towards the immeasurable, followed by the effect of an empty fall that forms a miracle.

The tense situation behind an unsuccessful attempt must create new forms of continuing an action with more impetus and courage. Or, as Romanian writer Mihail Drumeș said: "If things do not go the way you want, try to bring your life further along with your dream. And because there is no other way, you have to fly, always fly, as if only to remind yourself that you are alive and that you have not left the struggle with circumstances contrary to your spirit."

You have to think about the fact that your success is due to the way people you lead make their job, and if you are not attentive to their efforts and you are not interested even for one second in their destiny, then probably neither them will care too much of you, your activities you want to do, about future plans that we've done.

What do you think the people will believe about you, if you are not capable of taking firm decisions on the most difficult times? What will they think if you are not able to get involved in solving their problems? More than likely, they will immediately form a bad opinion about you, and will seek to change their jobs and their leader as soon as possible.

Just as the accurate evaluation of a person is not given by the marks obtained in school, but rather of what he was able to realize in life, so your leadership potential will not reach a maximum of quality only by connecting with people, but rather if you are making it credible, through ideas, beliefs and values, the manifestation of your own individuality and the character that you assume.

If you want to develop your potential and to raise your level of leadership, you must learn "dancing" in your rhythm and of the others around you, just as you feel, but as well as they feel – in order to convince them that you are interested in maintaining a lasting relationship. Be credible in their eyes. The rest comes by itself.

Leadership: Do you rate the anticipation of victory at a rather high level of awareness of personal value, using the effects of adverse circumstances to increase the visual impact of the truly miraculous "fall"?

Accepting and fulfilling a destiny of legend does not consist in removing those effects of the act that are contrary to the indispensable demands of time and place, but in the conception of a path that no one can reach. A miraculous fall is a hindrance on a one-way road, but to those coming from the opposite direction.

The one that is in charge must do more than to guide people in a better direction. They have to assume the responsibility for each of them (as long as they are subordinated to him), for every mistake they made, and to not forget that the manner he involves in solving the problems, the decisions he takes in time, affects directly him.

The relation between manager and employee is very important and it's the base of success in a company. The manager who does not know to maintain a close relationship with employees, who fails to earn them the respect and support the long-term will always lose. No wonder that many managers of large companies are turning to outside help in order to maintain the efficient development of the company. This is a good method too - if you don't have leaders abilities find someone who has and who is willing to take your place when it comes to motivating the employees and making better the relation with them. But this way you risk to lose your power of influence.

Is the defining feature that you want people to identify with you the victory of the frightful explorer of new frontiers and new horizons that surpass any expectation?

Conclusion: A leader carries a great weight on his shoulders, the weight of responsibility and consequences of his decisions. He must take the hardest decisions and be loyal to those he leads. And if he wants to maintain his position he has to be able to inspire people, to sustain their morale in the most difficult moments and to assume responsibility for their deeds.

The Well-hidden Secret Behind The Contraries (II)

On May 29, 2013

Be the reality others see around them, by making an X-ray of the complexity of the phenomena of a new identity.

Laura Quinn. On the outside she's simple and modest. But it's exactly her discreet manner and the modesty of her appearance hide a secret, something superior in herself, the virtue to lift the unknown to the highest peaks. Her natural easiness induces a certain degree of respect, a certain imprecision in evaluating her personality. Least sure it's granting an emotional subtlety in configuring this being that seems a estranged from herself, unclear around so many intrigues which silently take place around her.

In my imagination I try to redo the whole course of life, until the distant fountain of her essence, close to the frontier with the unpredictable in the great dukedom of her soul. Weird, why does she become so unsure around me, even distant at times, while with others she seems so objective? Why does she pretend she doesn't know anything as long as she gives her best to prove she isn't involved and she's innocent? Why, in her carefree way of being, she reels off a bunch of positive character traits?

Based on the existing experimental data, I have established the following empirical dependence relation of her being constant. E = A + P (Enhancing trust in one's own forces is based on the existence of a major Ace and a certain way to Position above the majority.)

The complexity of the phenomenon that defines a striking personality is revealed by the significance given to an existence that can support the sensitivity of highlighting things that need to be whispered.

She surely, surely hides something. She hesitates to manifest in her personal space, she refuses to exhibit the contraries of her own being, she denies her every feeling. As if something invisible, unerring, chases away her frail hopes, commands her every move canceling her every stimulus, dividing every connection with her group of values by a personal certainty.

A sickening suspicion bothers me, an unstoppable cloud moving towards an inaccurate destination. I guess that this gentle woman, this distinct character which dominates by delicacy and beauty even in the wildest moments didn't suddenly wake up to use all her skill in the investigation triggered in order to discover the diamonds. I bluntly address a few questions, but she plays with me, sense me on false leads. What should I believe?

Leadership: Can you build an ample knowledge about man by interpreting experiences which undergo continuous "swirl" transformations?

Leadership, a science of practicing the change of thought at an individual and collective level, can be transformed into an insignificant "flight among clouds" if you can't identify the swirl-like transformations applied to the personality pattern you are investigating in order to fit the patterns of a developed inter-networking approach.

A "swirl" transformation aims at the crossing from a unique experience of rediscovering the self in a depressing atmosphere, to the plane of concrete existence meant to give birth to a new image of the desire to change the world.

Transforming the primary information absorbed through the tumultuous life experience of any man, classified in knowledge units which can contribute to enhancing your performances as a good evaluator, is not possible without revealing an immense reality by verbal mediation. Only by simply observing and employing your analytic capacity you won't be able to touch those areas of human depth which are hard to reach.

Before expressing a responsible opinion regarding the intentions of an entity, integrate yourself in the complex mechanism of knowing the people you interact with. What you're trying to point out has to receive the truth value – because not everything that is valid, logical and predictable for you applies to others as well.

The phenomenological experience of a man who hides behind the syndrome of introspection, fragility, desire for loneliness, can increase the meaning of his life by facilitating awareness of feelings of personal appreciation.

A solid appreciation is needed where one can feel the exigency of a new type of mentality and of a change of image, of the clear conscience of the man's insufficiency to keep his own emotions and feelings under control, thus, an accurate X-ray of the complexity of phenomena pertaining to a new comprising identity, before pronouncing a verdict for or against.

Leadership is "managed" by evaluating the production assets of a kind of forecast to true values, by enlarging man's approach perspective, determining the reconsidering of certain characteristics you judge and condemn.

Does your orientation towards understanding a foreign, particular reality, form the object of the science to acquire a new identity regarding the content of a stand-alone experience? This experience which, for that matter, can provide you anytime with a new identity pattern, contributes to the progress of "intuitive" sociological knowledge.

How well do you know yourself so that nothing from the outside influences you? Values such as "self-respect" are gained especially when you meet with yourself in a vulnerable hypostasis, such as: "Be convinced that you can control your thoughts and emotions without influencing the reality around you."

Oh well, by taking into consideration the general finalities (attitudes transposed into eternal complaints), or finalities defined by the degree of utility or meaningfulness which man can cling to, you can easily take a certain kind of power. That power to rise above what makes you different from others, to manifest your value by repositioning your thinking pattern before a distinct "live view"-kind of entity. This entity has the role to offer a general perspective over the evolution of manifests which people "host", sometimes with a hardly-enviable frequency.

Before being able to produce leadership, try to experience the experience of self-revelation in a context of "separation from the surrounding reality", in order to learn the ability to maintain your calm, to exercise self-control, lucidity, patience, as if you were alone in a world that is increasingly moving away from the notion of change.

The Well-Hidden Secret Behind The Contraries highlights that reasoning which deeply observes, analyzes and understands a phenomenon, in its most intimate details, but also in its whole existence. Only through empathic perception, knowing the impulses and acts of man's will, but mostly by verbal mediation, you could take a certain way of power which will reduce your efforts to receive a revelation about its true nature.

The Well-hidden Secret Behind The Contraries (I)

On May 29, 2013

Redefine the way in which others relate to you, so that you can catch the essential subtleties which define their identity.

Laura Quinn. It seems like it was yesterday when she didn't even notice you. But now her voice is surer, completely different, more decided, more motivated. Surprising, isn't it? On her face, a muscle twitches visibly, an intense emotion is shaped, and this fact confirms a connection with the mystery I am trying to solve for some time now.

Gavin Finch. I allow myself to continue the investigation, imagining the world of this woman based on how she relates to me. I feel something suspicious, incriminating, a danger, which floats around her. She finds herself too much somewhere else, rather than where she should be. She gets too close to me, yet sometimes she is too further away. Inconsistence ? Doesn't she know what she wants ? Or does she know it all too well? Her behavior misleads me.

She likes waiting. She feels my doubtful look pointed at her, waiting impatiently for that sole escape, that unique and faint emotion which could give her away. Which could decipher her whole history and the whole mystery of the story. And I feel how she shudders around me, she's scared of what I might find out. My temper and my steel-cold attitude, exacting like a threatening blade which goes in slowly, but surely in the open wound, induce a latent state.

Leadership: Can the tension created by the desire to dominate and the inability to completely submit your will to another lead to the recognition of an equal force in another person?

I vibrate with admiration towards the dynamic authority of her will, towards her multiple faces which she displays in various situations. It is worth it to know her better, namely to subject her to my attention.

From the very first second I felt she's as strong as I am. She will never be able to subject me to her will, just as I am perfectly sure I will never fully subject her to mine. A kind of persistence that doesn't forgive, a will that crosses any obstacles, a special experience, a natural supremacy on both sides.

This is what connects us and draws us closer to each other. But at the same time prevents us from expressing our true intentions and thoughts. One of us must to let it go, must have an escape in this challenging war of contraries. Who would that be? *

Leadership: How do you express your life in a "role-changing" context when you are about to build a redefined identity through the comparison of an attribute of the powerful and an attribute of the perspective of entering into the sphere of pure spirit?

What superior thing are you hiding in yourself? Are you strongly connected to the virtue of lifting the unknown on the highest peaks? Are you using a constraining ace in order to enhance trust in yourself? Is something invisible commanding your every move?

Leadership can rise up only when man wins the fight with himself. When you take your time and you take the risk to get closer to people and to let them get closer to you, it can happen that you fall in an unfavorable extreme. Especially when they are somewhat superior to you, this awareness of the helplessness to be at the same level with them drives you towards an unnatural evolution, with a tendency towards imbalance.

In order to reach that experience of not judging anyone, Gavin Finch had to express his attachment to someone, which connects us to the idea that everything you become depends on how you relate to what you feel you are when you are part of someone else's reality. He expresses his attachment by resembling his deep ideals (fairness, truth, justice) and Laura Quinn's most valuable values (pride, affection, tolerance, intimacy, respect, protection and courage).

In order to apply leadership, you must first get closer to the people, to know them and make them trust you. Enhancing trust in your own strength must be based on the experience of a major ace and a kind of placing yourself over the majority. Don't hide behind of some so-called character pluses, because this can have an opposite effect, determining a reduction of self-esteem, and enhancing sensitivity.

To use emotional intelligence means to give a lasting character to the experience that someone else experiences, so that you define a personality integrated into the inner struggle of a daring character that does not support the limitations of one's own "finitude".

Your desperate and resigned image in front of your irreversible ending, but also in front of the inability to be more than you are, has a special impact on the others. Their only victory over you, their only possibility to know you better depends on the way you relate to them.

The finitudes that limit man are those factors (responsibilities, prohibitions, attributions, needs) that keep him in one place when he should move forward. I remember this passage from the novel "Doctor Basilius" by Alexandre Dumas, Jacques says to Eva: "Here, you are at home; the doors open only on the inside. When you leave them open, it means that I am allowed to enter."

What happens to you in relation to others, that relative lack of communication and interaction which turns you into a man with multiple faces and contours, always subject to doubt, can be very destructive.

If you want to be excluded from the circle of "suspects" leave the doors to your world open, allow people to know you better. Mutual knowledge is the way from sympathy to empathy.

Leadership is the result of the articulation of an identity that is redefined according to the person you come into contact with, in the context of identifying the constants of reality that can take the value of "attributes of the will animated by sensitivity".

These constants of reality can be: trying to break free from the pressures of situations that push you into submission, the ambition to live a different life than the personal one, the fact of living according to the commandments of consciousness or the madness to keep alive the illusion of power.

The Well-Hidden Secret Behind The Contraries is that element strictly connected to your identity, which generates stability or instability, having the ability to be expanded and updated with new options at any time – until it reaches the unacceptable level. Because at a certain point the secret can turn into a show that lacks credibility. And leadership is based only on credibility.

In order to catch the essential subtleties which define the real identity of man, first redefine the way in which he relates to you.

Wheels Of Leadership

On January 15, 2009

Always maintain a balance in your leadership, showing your best interest to the "maintenance service" of your potential at full capacity.

Once, I had in my room an extraordinarily beautiful clock. It was an old clock, with ebony wood frame and pendulum. It was impossible for my friends not to observe it when they came to my room. In fact, it was so beautiful and interesting, that everyone asked me where I bought it from and if I don't wish to sell it. That clock was very dear to me and that is why I still remember it fondly.

But one day, the clock suddenly stopped, seemingly for no reason. The wheels were in good condition and well jointed, but springs had lost all elasticity. I tried many times to replace them, I carefully removed them and remounted them with even more care, but the wheels remained immobile. Finally, I didn't have any choice and went to a watchmaker. I explained the situation to the craftsman, I told him that I disassembled it many times, but with no result. The craftsman carefully looked a few minutes at the clock.

- Yeah. I know what the problem is.

- What is it? I immediately asked.

- Young man, to find out the problem, you must first understand the functioning mechanism of the clock. Then, all you have to do is to adjust the appropriate components to certain parameters. You have changed the springs, but didn't put the pendulum in a balanced position because you didn't know the principles of physics underlying the operation of the clock.

Leadership: What parts do you need to adjust to achieve your potential, so that you do not trigger anxiety symptoms at different times in your evolution?

In each of us, there are wheels that we cannot see, but that give us the inspiration and creativity that we need to function better, to find solutions to the problems we deal with. Sometimes, however, it may happen for the wheels that put in motion our strategies and plans of action to become stuck. When this happens, will we know what pieces to adjust so that we reach again our full potential and give rise to bold thoughts and new, interesting and achievable ideas?

One of the most important "pieces" that you have to adjust to achieve your potential is the ability to change what prevents you from being yourself under the trend of excessive thought based on innovative research and reflection.

Another piece is distancing from the sublime that comes from nowhere – which floods your brain with images, moods and sensations beyond your personality. Or it could be approaching a status of master masterpiece that have the ambition of a masterpiece, but not of a job well done.

Do you feel an interest for the phenomenon of maintaining your leadership potential at full capacity? Do you carefully follow your leadership development? If your potential would suffer a "failure", could you adjust that key-component to certain parameters, to make it "tick" again?

Any type of leadership we would practice, no matter how well regulated, it will suffer small changes over time due to factors not initially taken into account or for reasons beyond us. Therefore, it requires permanent review (of each strategy and adaptation to new conditions imposed, as well as to constraints that arise). A leader must prove malleability, flexibility, adaptability and possess extensive and varied knowledge to put his leadership in the balance position.

Leadership: What makes you animated by the pursuit of self-improvement as to avoid fleeing in a comfortable sleep?

Just as clocks, inspiration gives us the strength lost by its oscillations. Inspiration is the mechanism linking strategies that we build and their practical realization. Our leadership will be adjusted with absolute precision if, occasionally, we make a slight adjustment of the way we perceive things and the way we address and fix each "failure" that may occur. And if we let inspiration wear itself, all the wheels of the subconscious that provide us with solutions will be damaged, as well.

American writer Frank Tibolt said with conviction: "Action always generates inspiration".

If we are passive and seek refuge in a comfortable inactivity, it is possible for the wheels that put in motion our ability of thought and innovation to rust and for us to remain behind. Therefore, at any time, we must be willing to become as good, creative and professional as possible. If we do this and we are willing to leave our comfort zone, we will be able to always function at full capacity.

The aspiration to self-improvement is a creative expression around what you want from the future, which turns into a new reality or a better one, according to the selection of a "song" that makes you more energetic. It is impossible to possess the sense of an existence based on results and performance if you fight your own interiority, with no other constraint than that of the authenticity of a "piece."

The psychology behind leadership is based on the potential of capitalizing extra-attention on the components of the clock, which matches the set of rules designed to determine how to form a new theory of knowledge.

The wheels inside the leadership mechanism are the sure means that propel your forward. As a leader, you must ensure that all the wheels of your potential are greased together even in normal operating conditions, you must always make sure that they meet certain parameters – for them not to block. Therefore, your entire leadership mechanism will work continuously, without creaking or stop.

Always maintain your leadership in balance, showing your best interest to the "maintenance service" of your potential at full capacity.

The White Manifesto Of Solidarity

On April 18, 2009

Impose your own role model, sending a message to people that would correspond to their system of beliefs and values.

Dr. Jacques Merey, knowing himself responsible for how it will take place the events in France in 1972, has addressed the crowd gathered in Town Hall Square, where the defense council always deliberates:

- Citizens, you know very well that Verdun town is the key of France. You've seen me at today's fire, and you should know that no one forced me to go there; exposing my life for this city, I thought I would be more entitled to say what France expects from you.

France expects from you a great act of heroism; stand against the enemy eight days and you will give time to Paris, in this way, to organize the defense, and you will save the homeland, and you will have the right to put the following inscription on the emblem of the city: "France grateful to Verdun".

Defend yourself, I will be in the same danger as you, and if necessary, I will die with you. *

Leadership: How flexible are you at the level of involvement in achieving an ideal of equivalence between freedom and assumption, when instead of your will, the will of a collapsing world is imposed?

This simple speech, but admirable by the style full of determination and enthusiasm, has furnished benefits worthy of respect because it drew people's attention on those elementary things, but essential that support and guide a nation. The vast majority of people lost sight of what was the most important: unity. However, this speech full of confidence and vitality planted in them a noble sense of attainability, of gratitude that they should provide to the country.

Do you know the price of everything to lose and everything to gain by trying to impose people those beliefs that are opening a different horizon, closer to a common ideal that would lead to a lasting partnership, a partnership which would aim carrying out actions for the benefit of common interests?

Leadership is like a candle burning between you and other people, enlightening aside you, but on the other side of them. For it, to illuminate and to radiate heat must resist kept in as long as possible.

To create good relationships with people you have to connect to them and to share the "light" that reflects your sincere and correct beliefs, that light giving hope, courage and energy after all aspiring, and to focus as much as possible on it, in order to always keep it alive, and even to intensify it. In simpler words, you must make people aware of the necessity and usefulness of accepting your vision, and the message that you send to them.

Leadership: Are you ready to submit to the will of a world that reveals itself only under certain conditions of observing life lessons, so that these life lessons teach you more about yourself?

Have you cast all the accounts? The only way to decrease the distance that separates you from other people is to express your devotion and admiration towards them, presenting them the truth in terms of your own perceptions regarding of what it is urgent and important to accomplish, providing that unique perspective, encouraging that would capture their utmost attention.

However, you should always cast your accounts for the moment to go out and to make yourself heard. Make sure people know what moves you, guess what you think and what you expect of them, be sure they weigh you, with their extent, unusual, that's hard to know. If the message that you express with enthusiasm does not correspond to their system of beliefs and values, if it does not meet the criteria by which they assess your skills and measure your character, and finally, if your message does not fall within their area of interest or in their area of vision, then you will fail in your attempt to impose your own role model.

What do you need to learn in order to submit to those life lessons that can highlight new perspectives on yourself? Have you prepared your spirit and will to observe your life in the conditions of an inequality between opportunities and rights? This is what we are talking about here: your rational attitude to orient yourself towards the values and realities of the world around you, which give you the guarantee that you will remain what you are and evolve towards what you must be. Here is what Jaques Merey learned from life's trials:

The only way to focus on what really matters when it comes to yourself is to accept the change you never wanted to make.

The White Manifesto Of Solidarity evokes your motivation to create and develop good relationships with others based on common beliefs and values. The message that you send to people it is crucial to you and their success. If, it is not mobilizing, then it has no value, and people will not identify themselves with you by the name of a great ideal.

Just as the presentation of a product brand must be creative and distinctive to attract customer attention - so the message that you send to people, in order to unite them for a good cause must be distinctive, to sound credible, not contrary to their opinions and to comply, where possible, to their true values and aspirations, by arguing the need to involve.

Conclusion: The leader must be a role model and to this end, he must pay a special attention to what it is a model for others. Starting from presence, morality, language, compassion, behavior, mode of communication, and by personal example in different actions, everything is weighed, measured and evaluated, "units of measurement" being different from person to person.

Personal example is often the key element that mobilizes people, not forgetting, however, the power of words and messages sent to them. From their smooth anchorage, the leader can gain new supporters and at the same time can mobilize the masses of people to achieve goals.

The White Page In The Book Of Appointments

Discover the opportunity of moving to a different status, assigning a maximum quota to your own nature.

Once more, the ruthless assassin, at the forefront of his knight of darkness movement, unleashes his instinctive fury. This time, against an important mobster, who had the audacity to disturb his inner peace.

But beside Anton Chigurh and his victim hit by the fatality laser, sits resigned, like a white page, a frail and fearful suspect, who is not in the "book of appointments". A nobody, a poor accountant who does not find the courage to act in any way, to come forward with any comments. However, he does not run, but decently answers the questions he is being asked. He chose the right tool, found the means to determine the assassin to go through a special experience, which brought his enlivening redemption.

It is enough for Anton to breathe, that immediately the nerves of this poor little fellow become tense, the upper limit of his normal tension is reached. A covalent bond is preferentially established between close personal and spiritual elements. Trust, faith and hope break into more and more isolated molecules.

Something happens, something unusual. The assassin stands bewildered in front of the only witness of his horrible crime, while the witness stands dumbfounded before the assassin's mild and unprecedented attitude. It is a mutual transformation between two types of energy, releasing some heat producing a partial ice melting in Anton's personality.

Leadership: Does the experience of a feeling of the type "I'm tired of responding to challenges" experienced following a revelation of feeling and high thinking make you seek your identity in a world of finding the Self connected to the dying conditions of life?

Can we doubt of it? The innocent releases une lumière nouvelle as defense, a superlative mood, something more mysterious than human reason can create and for which there is no explanation. As a miraculous medicine against death and disease, not yet invented worldwide, kept hidden in the small laboratory of his being.

And what medicine ! Instead of the classical method of removing any witnesses, Anton gives signs of personality recovery, he represses his addiction to kill. He seems to have found comfort from his neighbor, a sweet reason to part with any vain and sinful initiative. Is it an idealization intention?

Anton becomes prone to inertia, risking losing his originality, becoming feeble and clumsy, petrifying too early in a profession that demands "No Mercy".

He is no longer penetrated by that normal credo of his conscience, "Safety first", but for the first time, his brutal momentum is canceled altogether. He seems to raise the human being to a higher level. By his own reaction force, he eliminates the barriers of nonconformity in the paroxysm. Murphy's Law: "If something bad can happen, it will happen for sure" fails this time, radically changing its meaning.

Anton sees for the very first time the necessity and opportunity of transferring to another status, from a noble reason, carefully and unhurried giving a maximum quotation to human dimension. It is some kind of conductivity, an amount of positive energy immediately crosses the sensitive section of his personality on an unusual length.

Thus, the volcano suspends its activity and becomes passive. At least for a while. *

Leadership: Can fighting with your own variants of "being" serve as a pretext for experiencing a certain shade of moralism that loses its consistency through a combination of weaknesses and unfortunate circumstances?

Have you found the means to stimulate the most audacious experience of those around you? Are you instinct with that normal credo of consciousness, "Safety first"? Can you remove the barriers of nonconformity by your own reaction force? Can you stabilize your terrible addiction of following an improper way to your personality?

In the transition to the haven of becoming, the first half that individualizes you – the one that stimulates the most audacious experiences does not always lead to real heights of progress, but often to a right-down battle with your own variants of "being". The first variant considers the cause of a certain emotional disturbance or poor lifestyle, and the other variant (in an isolated way) has the meaning of conscious experimentation of the sense of being an initiative center regarding the sustainability of "costs" necessary for life, to be a recipient of outside saturations of restlessness.

Thus is born a definite battle inside you, a permanent oscillation between opposites: good or bad, great or tragic. Before raising the curtain of change, the ravishing questions of your existence start to struggle in a captive manner: "Who am I really? Am I a direct symptom of my own weakness? Or a solid cornerstone in other people's lives?"

A terrible idea appears: Is leadership an ornament? Maybe it is. Because it is the most valuable asset of rare beings, of those gifted with the ability to distinguish between the two sides of personality that defines them, those who have "the genius" or at least "the talent" to change that unsustainable and unstable state of "being".

To experience a certain shade of moralism means to assume responsibility for a change, a renewal or discretion, in relation to the values of its own survival in a context such as "What have I gained from the tragedy of this happening?"

Values such as: free will, freedom of expression and choice, tolerance for disappointments and stressful events, truth, justice, equality, compassion, must be part of the arsenal of power to choose whether or not to let circumstances dictate how you perceive yourself. Unfortunately, these two projections of excellence, possessed by very few of those who have the happiness to devote themselves to leadership, become only freight trains that carry raw metals somewhere, to processing – whose brakes and steering I seriously doubt.

The leader is the result of sincere search started from the desire to make performance, to make things always come out right în urma unei conjuncturi nefavorabile. It represents the depiction carefully crafted by the two partner entities: "genius" and "talent". The leader's priority status must be that of a man who knows how to become better, in the courage to acknowledge that he has made mistakes at certain times in his life.

He who went through life, gaining an amount of experiences, understood that the keynote of his own character, the only means of defense against futility and absurdity, but also falsity is the positivism of it, seasoned with a blend of nutritive characteristics: adaptability, integrity, personality recovery, stabilization of the addiction to be a servant of vain and sinful initiatives.

Leadership is the power to change yourself in the conditions of a range of possibilities to choose between what makes you suffer and what makes you feel gratified that you don't get caught in the trap of biases and limiting beliefs.

The White Page In The Book Of Appointments highlights the (often human) factor involved decisively in your transformation, giving a positive meaning to your existence.

Do you accept the need to focus your mind and will power over your own transformation? Do you have the courage to confront your deepest obsessions? Do you need that quality often missing from the "industry leaders'" baggage of qualities?

Discover the opportunity of moving to a different status, giving the highest quota to your own nature.

The Wisdom Of A Life Past Its Turning Point

On February 03, 2021

The man who seeks to obtain an acceptance of his own life, freeing himself from the desire to be different, is a man who experiences himself and does not fantasize about himself.

I met a man who knew more than I did about life, and if he had not been a good friend of mine, I probably would not have recognized the attribute of science that he knew how to skillfully practice in his field. Full of inspiration, with an inner nuance, I tried to interpret some of his life experiences as if they had changed him and led him in the direction of a door that stiffens, and stiffens whenever you try to you open it to the reality behind dreams, where the mind has unlimited powers.

And this special man, even though he knew about the various ways of interpreting reality in an infinite multitude of possibilities, connections and relationships, put his life in a glass vessel that is still dusty in a corner of the house, and yet his house is filled with light, for there are gathered the last remnants of the sovereignty of the pride of remaining himself. And even if the dust of the desire to remain true to himself accumulates in the glass vessel, accumulating in an improvised air filter, called hypocrisy, sometimes indignation, he remains liable to the immortal words: "seek and do not examine."

And so, when we were little, we were completely different, during the day we both competed in sports, in the evening we imagined winners. Without knowing that time is suffering from the disease of change. Some wake up from the reality of life, others fall asleep, and no longer wake them from lethargy. Because reality is a matter of matter itself, but at the same time it is a mirror of the mind of the latter, a disease of the mind that strikes only the lazy and careless.

And time still remembers two shadows that were thought to be rays of the sun, and that could have dissipated with their living light any shadow of sadness, disappointment, discouragement.

Leadership: Can you build a favorable image of yourself that captures reality as it unfolds before you focus on the idea of the "short-lived individual soul"?

If the vital source from which the body obtains the energy of life is consumed, then the movements become difficult and the mind insinuates itself into a vacuum of infinite hopes, into a silent space, adorned with a symbolism ruined by cunning, a subspecies of intelligence, bringing man to the status of retro, retrograde.

Yes, I met a man who knew a lot about life, but life defeated him through the movements of internal causality, a will never willing to try new experiences, but willing to sell his dignity for some fast money. Maybe he needed a hero the size of Odysseus to release that black aura of the soul trapped in the prison of life that passes, fades, screams in pain, and to which no one notices the uncontrollable jolt, when all the existential balance was destroyed. A hero of this kind, an alter-ego of the superhero, would have turned things around to the reality that my friend was called upon to improve.

And yet I realized that this man is in a very good mood when he is alone. He feels, realizes that only in this way, far from the world, could it be something more than what it has become. Probably, the state in which you indulge is a lesson in this process of learning life, a lesson that time buries itself in oblivion, and that the invincible fortress of power to remain the same, unchanged, will turn you into dust and powder... dear friend.

In a glass vessel, closed and dusty, is the pride of not letting anyone enter your heart, the pride of having no more ideas, but only boiling, obsessions and madness.

Maybe the one who said this was right: "If the self is enclosed in a vessel (the body), then the individual must transcend the limits of that vessel in order to achieve the primordial unity of the individual soul with the fullness of the Being which is the Absolute."

Leadership is a manifestation of the will of not letting yourself be defeated by time in the short stop of life made in an unexpected context in which you are forced to look at your personality from the blind spot of the pride of remaining the same.

The Wisdom Of A Life Past Its Turning Point is due to the experience of living as a self-taught person who always says to himself: "I am much more than I was and much more than I became ! "

And the short duration of the individual soul refers to the elimination of those things or habits that do not give consistency to your life. You must nurture your need to belong to a single reality based on unity, solidarity, vision, not by attaching appearances or false motivations.

Or as someone said on the web: "The best thing in the world is to know how to belong to yourself, not to external circumstances."

The Witchcraft Of A Masterpieces Creator

On October 26, 2014

Improve your ability to penetrate the advanced creative dimension, combining what suits a trend that starts from guessing the subject and reaches its meaning.

How does the work that is in fact the secret of the "Alexander Nevsky" film look like? Director Sergei Eisenstein wrote in an unusual notation that it is witchcraft, about the fact that, as the wizard's drum, the same idea echoes. Everything revolves around a single idea. No word, no reply, no episode that is not about the enemy and the need to defeat him: in plans, projections, memories, in the action itself.

Nowhere can you find such unity of ideas in such a variety of events, in such an obvious way. It captivates hypnotically. As for the composition, it means that we are dealing with a run of such magnitude that I cannot find anywhere. There is no response, no situation that will not play "under a new angle the same theme" and the mounting method is the method of flight. *

Leadership: Do you extract your superior knowledge from structures of the experience of rendering new forms of expression?

The human type that aims at self-improvement has to be sought in the world of profound creations, these being a combination of references to some complicated analogies involving intense intellectual involvement. And the relentless attempts to penetrate the advanced creative dimension, from substance to structure, from the simple alternative to necessity, by using means to amplify novelty, when correctly used, contribute to the satisfaction of man's claim to arrogate himself broad skills.

The reference point of applied science - the idea, required to be strictly followed, enriched with new representations of concepts, it not only determined as the dominant element of creation "under the angle of inclination of your Being", but it consists of a specific way of overall knowledge from certain structures of the experience of rendering new ways and forms of expression (used to define the ideas and values in the presence of inspired concepts).

The latter gain importance by means of "Get Shared Key" type impact vectors projections, which, bringing new options to customize the creation, can perform various updates of its purpose.

Everything revolves around a single idea when the verbal and non-verbal messages support each other until the formation of a new version of accessibility of the unique value attributed to the act of creation.

Gaining the experience needed to play the same theme, under new forms of expression, has a beneficial influence on intellectual creation, towards finding new solutions for overall impact and performance trends. While the "Get Shared Key"-type impact vectors are based on the meanings that give you pause, being more complex and more numerous, whereas proposing reasoning alternatives based on evidence and logical conclusions, combining what suits a trend that starts from the intuition of the subject and goes towards significance.

Leadership cannot be seen only as a well-defined content of ideas and ideals in the service of advanced knowledge, as quality of the teaching you transmit. The object of analysis is now a discontinuous series of for and against issues, envisaging the imperativeness to establish an interpretive science, following the conditions and peculiarities of a perception modeling about what you should communicate, by introducing the well-done job mentality.

What you communicate must have a deeper sense of unity, capturing the need to overcome an external resistance and the tendency to quit: in plans, projection, memories, in actions themselves.

The witchcraft of a masterpieces creator captures those elements, colors and features of creation mirrored in your own conscience, but especially in well-controlled sizing of ideas that revolve around the vision and values that you manage to transmit to supporters. It is the prerogative of the great masters in the art of leadership, able to shape and give their creation new forms of expression.

The Witness Of All Ages Of The World

Test your limits of understanding science, so as the level of your ideas does not affect your tendency towards excellence.

I feared I might lose my privilege of the great world long sought and hardly discovered, through which I had acquired full rights to interact with the energy flows and forces that revolved around one central point. The new beginning. The inevitable need to include another reality, which became conscious and provided the mind a thorough care to everything around me. One that could not be contained by any accurate description, but only a subjective interpretation.

The brain activity enhanced in that state of consciousness, which expressed itself in the form of dynamic exchanges of intelligent pulses between two connections – the superior and the inferior of ideas achieved, resulting a rise in mental status, gave me the opportunity to try anything, to pass any barrier, to experience what has not been tried in the real world.

However, my intense brain activity was maintained the time needed to successfully complete the reality conversion process and the installation of a new version of it. I dedicated myself diligently to this pursuit. This act of thinking through associations and combinations of images, making everything seem magic rather than science, as it happens when you want to find out something new worthy of a sci-fi movie, the era specific to the attitude of the seeker of enigmas, the one Umberto Eco talks about in the novel "The Name of the Rose":

"I headed resolutely towards the labyrinth. For the first time I came here alone, the long shadows cast by the lantern on the floor terrified me like the glances of the previous night. I was afraid at all times that I will end up in front of another mirror, because such is the magic of mirrors that even though you know they are mirrors, they do not cease to unsettle you."

Leadership: Can you change the way you think by transforming your mental images into high self-worth so that the reality you perceive as true is based on general ideas about the significance of science?

The ability to think through the transformation of mental images provided me with a kind of selfless enthusiasm, making me feel more at peace with myself, more flexible, more creative, more productive. Besides that it kept me busy, providing me a certain tendency in choosing the optimal move in a constantly changing reality, it helped me focus entirely on restoring the absolute. This intellectual effort also provided me a responsiveness full of key findings, which determined the establishment of additional requirements of dissemination and exploitation of the expected results.

My life completely changed from that extreme experience: testing my own limits of understanding revolutionary phenomena and alteration mechanisms of various properties of matter. It was a kind of exploration of previous ideas, beliefs and experiences, in relation to an infinite variety of representations of feelings that directed me towards developing a new vision on science.

Depressing, but motivating at the same time. As if I was placed inside a magnetic field, able to attract material elements that had enough power to form the productive center of a new crossing towards the zero area, the open gate of the absolute. Thus I would have had the privilege to be the master of time, life and death, becoming the only witness of all ages of the world.

Science is the exit from a labyrinth constructed with the power of the mind of an artist who perceives reality through the experience of managing interpretations that he gives to different situations.

Leadership: To what extent can your pulse of science be determined from a visionary point of view that addresses an intellect designed to encompass the world universally?

Has your life completely changed after an extreme experience? Can you experience what has not been tried in the real world? How do you test your limits of understanding science?

In the space between the main axes of leadership, vision and current reality, there is the freedom of choice where, as a philosopher noted, nothing should bother you. You can turn into a creator of fantastic visions or you can merely confirm truths discovered depending on the reality that surrounds you. And you can assess this reality depending on the limits of freedom of speech that you choose throughout its development.

As a leader, digging through the testimony of time by the strong affirmation of imagination – a process of great importance to your becoming – you will feel something exciting, that will make vibrate almost continuously that sensitive chord, which determines you to want to know more, giving importance to your momentum towards unattainable heights. This is what essentially defines IT leaders, great inventors and top businessmen of today's world, pending the results of their search efforts.

The pulse of high science that you can access as a leader can be measured to the point beyond which you cannot "see". Or, worse, beyond which the imagination can backfire.

Leadership: Can you reshape the structure of reality that you experience as an added value to recognizing creation from the perspective of rational foundation, in an effort to reorient the step forward?

If you keep always prepared in your conscience the concrete threats of tempting discoveries, populated and distorted by fictions lacking any evidence or logic, you will have to keep in mind that, ever since the beginning of your journey to understand the meaning of creation, leadership will go in two directions.

The first is that of intermediate movements, through which you will advance step by step, keeping increased your alertness and ability to concentrate, distinguished by developing a product, a vision, a mission or a particular value system. This is about emphasizing creation on the grounds of belonging to a culture of curiosity, information, diversity.

The second one we could call that of "substitutes" of credible, solid, practical and healthy foundations and values, that will distract you from what is important. Slowly destroying your performance and relationship with leadership. For example, when you are about to make a big breakthrough, but your attention is distracted from the essentials by the other daily tasks and stressful situations you face.

Imaginary and ambiguity are not always accepted in leadership. Unity and continuity in space and time, in the exploitation of huge streams of thought encapsulated in strict rules and norms are more rewarded, creating some relevance to the business sector.

Leadership is the self-image you form through science, so that the direction in which you are heading is one with the result of the search for a new identity that will fulfill you as an artist of an unlimited world.

The Witness Of All Ages Of The World highlights the real and imaginary boundaries in leadership. A leader can become a successful visionary or an illusionist who manages to impress just his own Ego, not that of others, losing his supporters.

Alienating from a reality in permanent change and persistence in the imaginary can be dangerous, removing you from excellence.

The Wizard That Breaks Any Type Of Chains

On April 22, 2012

Improve the quality of your leadership, by instilling in people the strong feelings that touch and make vibrate the most sensitive chords of their souls.

Once again, I have to make mention of the movie "Lionheart (1990)". As I was saying in the preceding article, the main character, Lyon Gaultier deserts from the Foreign Legion and reaches the United States of America. However, he comes too late, his brother had already passed away and his wife left with no money to take care of the child. Feeling somehow responsible for the fate of two people left without support, he decides to help them.

Nevertheless, the poor woman who can barely endure her torment, the poor creature seriously touched of the wing of loneliness, concerned about the payment of the interminable bills – she, who was part of that needy class, starting with the last strapped man and extending from misery to misery, until the latter stages of society; she, whose only reason for existence, the only defense against the vicissitudes of life was only her daughter, Nicole, the angel like descended from heaven, especially to maintain her existence, a being so gentle, so loving and happy - cannot hurt her pride and denies Lyon, her only relative, her only hope, fiercely refusing any help from him.

Leadership: Do you cast a sharper look in the shadows that hide the truth of a person so you can share in the experiences and thoughts that govern your life?

But the man, the man who God created in his own image, man upon whom God has established as the first law, unique and supreme, the love for his neighbor, the man who knows his heart and does not betray it by ignorance or cowardice - cannot abdicate from the moral principles that defines him.

But man - man, who God created in his own image, man, upon whom God has laid his first, his sole commandment, to love his neighbour - man, to whom God has given a voice to express his thoughts - what is his first cry when he hears his fellowman is saved?

Lyon was such a person - a filled with love being, not just a tremendous fighter, and this love full of spirit, full of care, full of wisdom, which never finds its place in the heart of anyone, for the first time it is revealed. As a doctor who takes seriously the patient's disease and seeks to treat it with the utmost care, he knows very well that behind the drawn curtains from the window of her little chamber, stands a lonely heart, burdened by indigence, which struggles every day by fighting with all aspects of the existence - undermining his faith and confidence in the future.

Therefore, he approaches with enthusiasm, with great finesse, and much sense of observation of her. First, he rents a house close to her. He looks for her going to work and back, analyses her from the perspective of the sponsor who must respect the contractual terms. Knowing closely about the wounds that hurts her, finding out the problems that she faces, although, she did not suspect, not even the smallest thing. Apparently indifferent, he lets her consuming in her dull existence, to bear her own burden. However then, gradually, as a wizard that makes spells and wonders, which magically breaks any type of chains, removing any ordeal, he arranges it so that she receives small amounts of money, which becomes increasingly bigger amounts, which he wins in highly profitable illegal battles.

And not without use. For, in the final, she realizes who her benefactor is. She forgives him all, and gets to appreciate and attach to him.

Leadership: Is the result of consolidating a close position in agreement with the impact of the next state equation of a closed or open system?

The reasoning of a man who wants to overcome its reference value (the date of feelings and moral force concentration) doesn't limit to the principles of knowledge established on vision, more likely it starts from the nature of that knowledge, which perceives the casual context of producing a positive impact.

And the result of consolidating a close position by which you show who you truly are can be installed by a sensibility of spiritual openness, that is by reshaping the perception about a „world" lost in appearance (the world of a defenseless human being, who sees itself scattered and ripped of the reality of a happy existence).

The concrete and individual way in which you identify the attempts to get closer to other people, put under the mark of new beginnings, depend on the two maintenance systems: closed or open.

The closed system operates absolutely alone and stomps rights and freedoms, relating only to those who supports its functioning. While the open system catches that image you want to show to everyone, in the form of an individualization that results from your emotional state.

As a leader, you cannot put by yourself on the top of the people, telling them: "Follow me" without first setting and customizing an entire list of favorable factors that would trigger the specific mechanics of a deep knowledge in the relationships with the others - just as a writer, before writing a novel, shapes the personality of each of his characters.

The true revelation of your manifestations of affection and admiration finds expression in the sense you give to the meaning of a part of the whole life of someone who has been categorized as unworthy of consideration.

You cannot produce a change in other people if you fail to appropriately modify their feelings, which involves understanding their ideals and aspirations, their moral and emotional nature.

It is therefore, necessary first to immerse somehow in their existence, searching for those aspects that can facilitate their transformation – like a magician, like a superior man through his qualities, endowed with the gift of empathy, to support their alive interest for change – by equipping your leadership with the power to look deeper into the soul of the people, to recognize their inner reality after its outside appearance.

The leader is "the wizard" that breaks the chains of incognizance, of ignorance, and indifference. He is the one who has a positive impact on people, on their progress - and to have this effect, he must be familiar with the human nature and the ways of influencing their feelings and thinking.

Leadership: How do you evidence the evolution of your Self according to the rigor of a systematic spirit, as a keeper of authentic essences, so that you can channel understanding into the true dimensions of human nature?

In the leadership's case, where are gathered all the values, feelings, principles, beliefs (that must be alive, able to influence, to push, to enliven the spirits) it is added and the problem of an objective analysis, of a systematic assessment of the human being.

Precisely, for the leader to make full proof of the evolution of his own Ego; the proof of a successor not only of knowledge, but especially of the principles, spirit and of the sound values, adopted and promoted, he must develop his analytical spirit, which allows him to self-assess himself and to properly assess people and facing situations.

Just as a writer passionate about the human nature investigates and knows closely the wounds of the society where he lives, similarly, a leader who gives all his skill to be efficient, channeling all his efforts in his leadership's integration, by thorough research of the unity, of the essence, and of the features of which it is constituted the human nature: by finding out the proper value of the people, with the rigors, darknesses, with its brilliance, by examining many aspects of their experiences and feelings, protecting them of the false understanding of a concrete reality.

The Ego is the mysterious part of your power to show gratitude for creating a paradise where there is nothing but pain.

The power of the leader lies precisely in understanding the fundamental issues related to human dimension, just as the power of the doctor lies in his theoretical and practical knowledge. He finds a reliable ally in the advance process of knowledge, of discovery of the most uplifting experiences, aspirations, ideals that are emitted, addressed, and issued by the human being in its entirety, being faced with some difficult decisions – into its fully completion.

Only knowing the constituent elements of the human being by knowing its complexity, only the intelligent manipulation and in beneficial purposes of the mind and spirit, which constantly feeds its faith, existence, and the power to go forward, the leader may prove his true value.

He can make proof of the evolution of his own Ego, only instilling in people the strong feelings that touch and make vibrate the most sensitive chords of their souls. Because leadership depends on the functioning of the other people, just as the life of a racing driver depends on the engine's perfect functioning of the car that he drives.

To make a man's life a paradise, one must first discover the hidden face of what man has most severely hidden in himself, without testing his strength of character. Where is the suffering of man, what is its true source, and in what way is it manifested?

The wizard that breaks any type of chains is someone who dedicates himself to his inner calling, guided by an intuitive force that contributes to the creation of a positive image and a magnetic personality. He manages to have a decisive and a positive influence upon the other people, helping to improve their progress and performance.

Is the leadership a magic? a spell? or a science?

The Wonder-Piece Of Intellectual Renaissance

On December 20, 2013

Give your model of leadership an unprecedented transformation, concentrating all your excellence forces in a system of thinking that ensures new approaches.

I have dedicated a good part of my life to scientific work in my own laboratory surrounded by retorts and skillets. With the thoughtfulness of an alchemist that researches new recipes for transforming metal into gold I have set on to decipher some unseeingly complex secrets. And, patiently, I managed to eliminate the non-corresponding options of maneuvering the unknowns by efficiently accessing the analyzed data and results.

For a long time, day after day, thoroughly, I pointed my development towards an Intellectuale Renascentiae, reuniting my analyses in a theory of matter based on new laws and principles. With no trail of reproach I managed to create a new space for understanding the relation between secrets and meanings. And so I could recognize the effects of a system of concurrent forces that act upon a point and in relation with an axis.

The famous alchemist, Van Helmont, made a small hole in a brick, then he put chopped basil in it, then he covered the hole with another brick. He exposed the small structure to sunlight and after a few days the basil scent, acting as a Maia, transformed the herb in true scorpions. This recipe had a completely different connotation for me, a different content, a meaning I recognized in the essence. That is, everything was possible for someone who managed to maintain in balance the action and reaction forces of this world.

Skillfully overcoming the inexplicable shiver of creating that transforms all surrounding objects in research regions, excluding mainly all the generalities devoid of content, I finally managed to discover the essence and the depth of elements. Whose variations and interactions can produce a large amount of force in a very short time.

Leadership: Can you show off your ability to distinguish the language of life science from the "gate" to a detailed knowledge of everything that is around you, without being the result of a power that continues to dominate you?

I couldn't get out of my white robe; I had to clarify many secrets in my fight with imagination and truth. I did more and more experiments and observations. Encouragingly, I used the contrary forces, keeping into account their alternation and their unity so that the module of their resultant to be at its highest.

From temptation to temptation, from provocation to provocation in the experiments lived through intensity as well as through duration, crossing the barriers of thoughts, using the tendency to make out of everything a living entity, I have managed to settle all these opposite forces in a new construction, in a system of thinking that focused on ensuring new approaches.

The essence of this creation, this starter that kept me connected, upgrading itself daily, ensured the fueling of a sufficiently large flow through the streams of science, shaping my future research directions. The flow transformed and evolved in time, and converted itself in what I am currently living: the adventure of knowledge through the power of the present. This was, moreover, Milton's secret.

As far as I am concerned, the language of life highlighted by a reconciliation with myself, of love for everyone else, does not create any image in the eyes of others, does not give me pride or joy of indescribability, because still I have not assumed an outward appearance of my soul through a favorable combination of beauty and usefulness. The only power that continues to master is the desire to know the laws of matter and to use them in order to value a new reason.

Leadership: Can you recognize the effects of a system of competing forces acting on a point and in relation to an axis, evaluating yourself in relation to the impossibility of a true knowledge that combines all the details of life experience with the details of a work of art?

Leadership is the result of a process of laying the basic foundation for knowledge and understanding, positive for an advantageous development. To produce a high amount of intellectual force in a short time is the project of the possibility of an endless inner potential to build new patterns for using one's own sources of training and learning.

Knowledge represents the first episode of a new passionate stage of self-reclaiming, full of meaning that we can or can't find in each and every one of us. And this reclaiming reflects the ability of being authentic. It's a consequence of continuity, unexposed to light systematically.

The man who pretends more from himself, will still reach excellence seldom and only when the analyses filled with experience and intuition leave the investigation perimeter of science and start welding their own personal "history" to which the others don't have access to. A philosophy that isn't in everyone's grasp. This is the double frame of determinism in an efficient leadership based on efforts and ideas that allow "outside looks", but don't allow group judgments. In many cases, everything is done individually along the whole value creating process.

Recognizing the effects of a system of concurrent forces that act on a point and in relation to an axis means to set at the disposal of your own knowledge a set of homogenous data that shape a system or a process of the real world and serves as support for a schematic for understanding the unknowns derived from a complex analysis. The point designates how deep reality is, while the axis can be represented by the patterns of these basic convictions that don't limit your knowledge and shape the personal interpretations of the particularities of practice.

A perfect art that honors science as a result of a power that continues to dominate you is a combination of a philosophy that allows you to think about everything in terms of a "transformation process" and value attributed to the curiosity of the type "looking from the outside."

This look from the outside that does not give you peace makes you always wonder: "what have I discovered today and escaped me yesterday"?

From temptation to temptation, from provocation to provocation, while battling the unknowns you will make a massive contribution to the formulation of new scientific theories, sometimes by recurring to previous theories. And this with only one condition: to settle all those opposite forces in a new construction, in a new system of thought that ensuring new approaches.

These opposite forces are given by notions and knowledge acquired in time, either by theory or practice, and that individualize your research and are useful to your development. If you intend to discover new hypotheses or theories that foresee or prepare the development of the rebuilding procedures for some particular aspects of the arsenal of research, then use the contrary forces, keeping into mind their alternation and their unity so that the module of their resultant to be at its highest.

Leadership becomes scientifically the expression of turning into a phenomenon the one and the same basic essence of intellectual rebirth: the content of matter, the increase of the content of truths that can be understood as it turns into convictions.

The logical order of information compositions and good practice examples behind scientific research, according to the evolved system of processing questions and answers that produce the raw material of a new truly useful reflection, will linger for a long time around a perfection aura.

The Wonder-Piece of Intellectual Renaissance is the knowledge springing from the reality that is the source of all transformations in nature, specifically intimately knowing the complexity of a phenomenon called "human being".

The Word

On February 22, 2015

Try to introduce a model of the subject of interest in the art of valuing yourself, so that leadership goes beyond the idea phase.

There is nothing wrong in complicating yourself with unremitting jumps over unimagined hiding places, entering the back door of the mystery, this part of a homogeneous conductor that connects the soul with science, from which all the meanings of art erupt. And try to imaginatively capture the second of infinity. But in the ears of man, built as if in the form of an energetic field that absorbs any inspirational fluid, in the second that rests the time, a word from the high point of determination is echoed.

This word "(I) Can", which controls the entire fabric of the universe, which has its place in the soul of the world, was suddenly renewed with new meanings, the word whose origin could reveal a difference in logical potential, vibrate deep in my thoughts like the blow of a hammer. It reinforced my untried conviction that I could prepare the human species for the impact of my own ideas and visions.

A cursive and tidy writing could not ask any favor from this vital form of energy, but it strengthened chances to establish itself as an imperative, a truly unique work, as uma conquista emocion as a reality-order record. This word was not only a drop of spirit activated at a time and place, but a living matter, organized by the pattern of a thought-form that kept constant the intensity of my power of creation and anticipation, even if it came up in unfamiliar contexts.

By contrasting the knowledge that had its source in certain currents and secret stopovers, in information attractions and rejections, I perceived this word as a candle that burns in the darkness and illuminates an entire labyrinth of questions and meanings. I felt it with that part of the body called the heart that was looking for great ideals, dominated by strong cries of thanks – "Bravo" – the only breath containing the germs of a new sense of existence.

Leadership: It's time to use this space of discovery and stimulation of vitality, inaccessible to knowledge based on experience?

Someone said that Descartes did not just teach us to doubt, but to solve equations. Well, the word that best characterizes you, which can raise you to the highest perfection, introducing a model of the subject of interest in the art of making you be worth something, enters into an irreversible equation. And it describes the evolution over time of a function of increasing the likelihood of manifesting yourself as an inspired being with a new level of thinking.

Vitality is reflected in the intensity of life processes that maintain a certain perception of re-becoming, of "rebirth" of all things, including that of yourself. The vitality spread around by words written or spoken, formed from the union of ideas, desires or perspectives, on the line of the shape in which you code your representation of a certain reality, accentuates that character of what is alive in your being, in memory, in imagination, ensuring the relationship between the real world and a parallel universe.

It's time to use this space of discovery and stimulation of vitality, often inaccessible to experience-based knowledge, and to show in a new formula of expression how this constant will take on the phenomenon of personal redefinition?

The word is the gift of a wandering expression in loneliness, the expected term of a great adventure that develops the virtues of a major goal, then shared not as a sort of "inventory object" but as a sort of coordination of the struggle Between David and Goliath, a deaf dialogue between power and opposition, so that you have a very clear responsibility for what you really are before you transform into something "unique."

The main way in which you communicate with those around is a shifting of words that embody your deepest and most cherished thoughts, a total shift of the way in which you want to build your life along with what you see, imagine, feel, hear, and do.

If you want leadership to go beyond that stage of the idea, by getting somehow closer to the scientific dimension of art to value you, with all its fundamental growth impulses, first you have to reveal your identity by a symbol of renewal, of involvement, of fire, of thought, of feeling – expressed by a word that will trigger within you a profound desire for change and transformation on all levels.

The word, when rigorously defined, naturally has a resonance in the subconscious, for good or for evil, and creates a bridge to leadership through its coercive force based on conviction and the will to act. Indeed, the unity of this abstract concept, based on practical intuitive work, fully justifies its validity in the triumphal march of personal progress.

Or, from the word, the sliding towards a total change, towards a new status, to an unshakable power, is tempting, motivating. And often the constitution as well as the definition of the characteristics of this word proceeds from the framework offered by the dialogue with your own interiority, with your own consciousness, with your own soul, with your own consciousness. The word is a puzzle piece that needs to be completed in a different approach to the experiential potential.

The art of valuing yourself begins with what you think regarding what you feel when you see the world from the perspective of a reality refused or not taken into account by the others.

The Word produces a kind of rustling somewhere in the body that increases the heart rate, brings satisfaction, confidence and stimulates your immunity against what doesn't do you any good. The meaning you give to the word can open certain doors or close others, but it is preferable to follow the generalization of the positive experience.

It is worth remembering what a character in a beautiful novel by Romanian writer Ion Moja said: "Consider the meaning of spoken words – major stumbling blocks to the minds of some – for behold, my eyes come alive again, my heart warms up and beats again. Take notice, for you make me believe in supernatural things."

Have you found the word that defines you totally, which is a model of your subject of interest and one that can make you worthwhile?

How do the words "I Must" and "I can" resonate for you?

The Work Of An Artist In The Constellation Gemini

On February 22, 2022

A man who sees himself constantly through another man, in a journey through the evolution of art, begins to react with his double by virtue of a higher-level mentality.

When two artists gather their powers in one Fitnedianh(the visible aspect of an invisible creation), only then does art gain grandeur. Especially if we speak from the perspective of exploring a reality that finds its proper form superimposed on the content of an image of God that has no order in the universe created by Him. And such art cannot simply have a decorative value, detached from the religious world of symbols, correspondence, architectural ornaments or inverted meanings.

Alterity, the finding of a double of the artist in the constellation of twins, as John Sanford shows in his drawing "Gemini – the twins", is not a mere imagination arising from thought, a consensual hallucination shared by some external cause by the awareness of the existence of two strong forces united into a single person. Nor is it the result of two antagonistic forces that do not cancel each other out, but are attracted by a sympathy that invites you to a mysterious world with heavenly representation.

In art, alterity is portrayed as a journey into another world, one more developed than this, in which your double is due to a technique by which a person becomes the inner voice of the protagonist they have never experienced emotionally, but who ensures his invisibility from a spiritual perspective. Indeed, such an art of the immortal double, being created at the level of "distant echoes", acquires a certain message, but it hides meanings that only the artist feels and develops through color, contour and finesse, on the trajectory of an imaginary circle drawn in a golden-yellow hue over a dark background.

Leadership: Does the approach of your creation start from the premise that the optimal form of constituting a particular individuality is at the intersection between symmetry and awareness, when the form and the image appear unchanged in the same plane?

I wonder who would be my double in an image whose convergent point is superimposed on the profile of a half-ellipse sectioned along a long axis. The point is to decide whether certain phenomena of recognition of subjectivity can be one of the most beautiful and solid proofs of thought by the contrast between the purpose of aesthetics and logic: the first pursuing beauty, and the second pursuing truth.

In other words, believing that I am meditating on my being, I actually end up mirroring myself in a space-time game that nullifies the apparent logic of known physics, highlighting the vision of a universe that expands far too quickly for matter to condense into stars, galaxies and planets. Once again, I recommend the artist's specific ability to extract sequences from space-time and to translate them into another space-time, in a game that can be called "imagination".

And not only does pictorial art throw me into a doubled outer circle of subjectivity, placed at the same distance from the center as my possessive, the Alter-Ego living in a virtual world, my faithful witness, but also the imaginative richness of the narrative I put into circulation as a function of my image projected into a mirror of spiritual metamorphosis. For example, yesterday I read on galaxia42.ro a review of the novel "Piranesi" by Susanna Clarke.

"The story puts us in the shoes of an individual who, being almost alone in the world, makes a purpose of his life by researching the rooms around him. That's because the whole world is a huge building, with rooms, vestibules and courtyards. Construction in whose lower chambers there is a sea, with ebbs and flows, in whose upper chambers clouds form. The "house", as it is called, maintains a fauna, consisting of birds and fish, but only two people live in it. The protagonist and the one he simply calls "The Other Man". There were thirteen more people, to be exact, but they died. Now, only two people live in the home-world. And in its huge halls there are no pieces of furniture, instead there are statues."

Leadership: Does your creation have a new identity in terms of the mechanism of self-recognition in the evolution of the phenomenon of "homogeneous mirroring", by intertwining the experience of maintaining appearances?

The same two people in the novel "Piranesi" correspond to my image in the constellation of twins, in a moving picture that beyond the visible, beyond the gleam of the lantern and even beyond the darkness, hides that silent, timid but boundless form of intuition of reality through the phenomenon of affective identification that helps me to transpose myself into someone else's place and to feel joy and sadness alongside them.

It can be seen, therefore, that I always manage to explore a perfectly tangible reality in the sphere of spontaneous, holistic, harmonic vision, and to find what corresponds to the form of art expression through mental transposition, thus experiencing a realignment with my inner constitution. Finally, as if on a trip to another world, I feel that I am part of a game of dubbing that contrasts, in the same figurative structure, an image of my inclusion in the universal and a vibrant image of an ideal world.

A line is parallel to a plane if it is parallel to a line contained in the plane. And a man who sees himself constantly through another man, in a journey through the evolution of art, begins to react with his double by virtue of a higher-level mentality, but supervised by an entire constellation in which only the stars of the representative artists shine immortally. I say this because matter has the disposition to "attract" form in a spontaneous way, and my mediation through the parameters of physics superior to the earthly one has its echo, in a transparent way, beyond the times...

The unlimited potential of my creation consists in experiencing a perfectly tangible reality in the sphere of spontaneous vision, that reality whose echo penetrates beyond infinity by capturing the same character in another hypostasis, in other paintings, in other times, but always in a plane of reflection.

The Work Of An Artist In The Constellation Gemini is in fact an illustration of the idea of becoming at some point the sum of the three variables of expanding the horizon of assertion of personality in the artistic field, so long there will be a reality inspired by a creative process. The three variables are: "the degree of freedom allowed by the Alter Ego", "the possibility of being everywhere" and "the desire to always be someone else".

Understand that painting techniques stimulate the creative expression of the various issues you will face at different times in your life. Many of these techniques need to be integrated into various forms of assessing your personality in the context of the process of double transition to the state of connection to the present moment.

The Work Of An Immigrant In The Space Of Alterity

Sign up as a new consciousness in a series of processes of personal transformation, setting boundaries regarding the experiencing of a variant of a reality that has never before been selected and disclosed.

The real test was to be untraceable, akin to a return to the custom world of Philip K. Dick where, apparently revealed by the science of sea-fearers into the unknown, I did not have to question the meaning of life. Once that happens, like the creator facing the completed work experiences a feeling of insecurity, I followed the line of travel of reason emerging from the positive pole of the generator of explanations and predictions.

Unnatural. I was crammed into a sort of field of duality, as if once I could make myself invisible, I would have been tasked to find myself where I was not looking. A an almost fanatical fight with the apparent shapes of thoughts twisted in the direction of a reason that had power over the plurality of fictional worlds. My mind was crossed by unknown goosebumps. I vibrated heavily towards another level of understanding.

The novelty lies in a new method of knowing a new transition space between the "me" and "not me". Rather, it was a complete reconditioning of the self-directed towards art duplication, predisposing me to work with the unwritten forces of the impenetrable. Which the thoughts covered by the subtlest conventions of the unreal would download into the cortex with that amazing energy of the mystery that must be experienced before it spreads the sweet poison of false identities.

Mrs. Winchester, widow of the famous weapons manufacturer, wanted to protect the spirits of those who were killed with guns made by her husband. Continually, she would add new rooms to their home, creating a complex maze of corridors and recesses, so as to sleep every night in a different place. But in 1906, during the San Francisco earthquake, she nearly died in one of the rooms in which she got stuck.

Leadership: Are you preoccupied with the limitation and dependence of self-consciousness that is discovered to be in relation to a reality disguised as fiction that pushes you away from yourself for a short period of time?

I recently read the following on the internet: "Any breakage, detachment, distancing from a place is, in fact, a strategy for a better knowledge of the said place or, more specifically, for self-recognition in the undeniable context of the space in which you were made."

Every place is like any given thing, image or thought we relate to: it actually represents a transfer of energy achieved in the moments in which a temporal communication takes place between what we consider as being "finite" and what we consider as being "the alternative" to reject what could never be fully revealed.

When thoughts turn the pages of life one by one, placing them in a closed box, full of misunderstandings and complexities through which sneak in implicit hypotheses related to the emergence of a unit of immaterial information, you become dissatisfied to everything that happens in reality. So, you begin to tend to an unnatural that places its assets into an originality that cannot be denied, but rather, can only be measured by its effects.

The man who intends to redefine himself according to new patterns of thinking knows that he cannot climb to the top of a mountain without taking into account the possibility of a free fall from a great height. To adapt to ascension, he makes relative measure of height on the fly and then tries to exploit this height, even with the risk of "losing balance."

Leadership of great power can begin to take shape – paradoxically – from secret feelings, from the tumult of inner conflicts, from doubts. Such leadership is established by approaching the self from an impossible angle, almost parallel to the rational, canceling the erroneous interpretation of reality through a flux of thinking of the type: cause and effect.

This is the stage when thoughts covered by the subtlest conventions of the unreal download their forces into the cortex with that amazing energy of the mystery that must be experienced before spreading the sweet poison of false identity.

Leadership: Can you recreate the primary key of an additional evolution, trying to find yourself where you're not looking?

By limiting the certainty of knowing that you no longer represent a closed system (in which reality is perceived only in an objective manner), you start becoming a stamp of an authenticity constant printed in a sort of "second world". Which, in turn, registers you into a new consciousness in a series of personal transformation processes with unpredictable results whose values exceed the thresholds imposed by the restrictions of mismanagement of experiences. Allow yourself the experience of a new horizon !

To recompose the primary key of an additional evolution in trying to find yourself where you're not looking means to strive for a new horizon of your being by setting the boundaries of certainty regarding the experience of a version of reality that has never before been selected and disclosed.

To set these boundaries is to tend towards a new level of understanding, it is to take into account the size of unconsciousness, the lack of a rational attitude towards surrounding reality. It is an assumed risk in order to build and strengthen a new thinking on the path of a new interpretation of experiences lived in your "world."

The experiences lived in "your world" are similar to the fruits that autumn offers abundantly: they keep traces of those states of satisfaction experience at one point, only noticed in the present moment.

The Work Of An Immigrant In The Space Of Alterity is aimed at the difficult attempt of redefining yourself in a world customized by following the sense of an abstract reasoning, affixed to the self, from which you can draw new conclusions and findings of value required to revise thinking. This initiative is similar to the ascension of a mountain peak.

Consider the probability of free falling from the height of your own being !

The Work That Includes All The Sterility Of Too Cerebral Experiences

On January 12, 2010

The creation of genius emanates from the inner combustion of an unmade passion, which transcends the limits of ordinary reason.

It has often been imputed to Eisenstein that his work has the coldness of rock, of the mineralization of ideas frozen in complicated forms and completely devoid of warmth. The imputation was often due to ill will, sometimes to misunderstanding, that is to say, not noticing this unusually strong combustion in which passion became its own hypertrophy, the hyperbole became so immense that its hieratic upset common sense. As many could never understand why Whitmann affirmed that it encompasses, and at the same time is, every event that happened in people, in the world, in the Cosmos.

Eisenstein's work - with all its declines, with all the sterility of too cerebral and unsuccessful experiences, which it sometimes contains - is irrigated with blood. Hot blood, you guys. The blood of an always incandescent passion, which explodes and, sprays, spreads in the grass with the brilliance of constellations that flood his work.

Then those who had no eyes to see, or did not want to use them, mistook the galactic light for the twinkling of some rhinestones. This is how Eisenstein becomes a "formalist". Namely, in the eyes of those who see for themselves only the form in which the idea shines magnificently. In these cases, the director Sergei Eisenstein answered them with a sublime irony, from which the critics, slaves to the ceremony, once again only understood the form, remaining satisfied with the recognition of the "mistakes". The ironic meaning of these answers will only be deciphered by posterity.

Leadership: How does limited relativity and the concept of space-time influence the understanding of your work, reflecting the complexity of forms and the relativity of human experiences that you enrich with your own imagination?

The theory of cinematography, formulated and revolutionized by a director like Eisenstein, revolutionized our understanding of the effects of creation, especially against the background of a vision that expressed the "shine of some constellations" in art. Special relativity introduces the concept of space-time, a four-dimensional continuum, similar to the complexity of the complicated and seemingly heatless forms in Eisenstein's works. This theory showed that time and space are not absolute, but relative depending on the observer, along the lines of a vision that emphasizes the interconnectedness of elements and the fluidity of perception. But especially along the lines of a vision that emphasizes the interdependence and relativity of human experiences.

The general theory of cinema expands on these ideas, describing gravity not as a force but as a curvature of spacetime caused by mass and energy. This reflects how the hot blood and burst of passion in Eisenstein's works create constellations of ideas. This curvature influences the motion of objects and the paths of light, providing a unified explanation for gravitational phenomena. In fact, Eisenstein's works influence the public's perception, transforming him from a "formalist" in the eyes of critics who only see form.

The sublime irony of Eisenstein's responses to these critics, enslaved to ceremony, remains understood only by posterity, similar to how general relativity was only fully understood after its publication.

Leadership: How does your work influence the perception of audiences and critics, reflecting a unified vision of cinematic phenomena and the relationships between form and content?

Narrow relativity and the concept of space-time influence the understanding of the director's work, by reflecting the complexity of the forms and the relativity of the human experiences it explores. Just as time and space are relative and interdependent in special relativity, so in artistic creations, human forms and experiences are interconnected and changing, providing a dynamic perspective on reality. This reveals that artists' perceptions are influenced by context and their relative position in the "space-time" of existence.

As I said, the igneous rocks in Eisenstein's work are formed by the mineralization of his complicated ideas. They are often criticized for lack of warmth, an imputation arising from ill-will or misunderstanding of the unusually strong combustion of his passion. Like the magma that slowly solidifies under the surface of the Earth, resulting in large crystals, his work, despite the sterility of failed brain experiments, is irrigated with the blood of an incandescent passion that explodes and spreads in bright constellations.

Critics who do not have eyes to see, confuse the galactic light of his work with the twinkling of ordinary rhinestones, calling him "formalist". They cannot understand why Eisenstein states that his work includes (and at the same time is) every event that happened in people, in the world, in the Cosmos. His wry responses to these criticisms are like the complex chemical processes that determine the final structure and texture of a rock. The ironic meaning of these answers will only be deciphered by posterity, who will recognize the true value of his ideational brilliance.

A true artist transfigures his passion into a hyper-expression of his being, sometimes incomprehensible to ordinary viewers.

The Work That Includes All The Sterility Of Too Cerebral Experiences reveals the absence of genuine emotion and deep human connection. But in the case of the director Sergei Eisenstein, the hot blood of passion, full of incandescence, transforms these sterility into a creative explosion, with the brilliance of a constellation that floods his work. And an artist is truly fulfilled when they manage to convey genuine emotions and create deep connections through their work.

The Work That Never Gets Old

What you see within yourself when you descend into the depths of your being, becomes the reflection of reality in the mirror of the universal soul.

The dream was repeated three times during the same night. The painting appeared to me mysteriously, shrouded in an enigmatic aura, on the line of a suspended thread of time, as if it were a compass guiding me to a hidden truth. When I awoke, the chromatic reverberations of the canvas continued to flicker before my eyes like an LED screen, beckoning me to plunge into their unfathomable depths. In any case, the shadows of the reveries seemed to stretch beyond the edges, disguised as hieroglyphics of a cosmic alphabet, the secret meaning of which was partially revealed to me, drunk by the dreamlike waves still vibrating in my being.

The ecstasy of the colors combined in a strange game of circular movements instilled in me a sacred thrill, a kind of unbridled desire to possess the "Secret Reimagined", and my gaze seemed to have become an act of initiation into the imperceptible mysteries of Creation, frozen in the enchanted cloth. What shined like a lantern in a place where every minute takes her to the depths, was precisely that beacon of the soul, shining in the uncertain darkness, guiding me to the unknown realm of primordial wisdom, Cynosez Ashutoica Irosisymaa , an imaginary that seeks " the material" in another imaginary.

Each situation is cut from a reality that crosses the boundaries of time, that's why the work never gets old!

Dream is the legacy of an artistic mind that explores the boundaries of the imagination and the subconscious, seeking to bring to light hidden meanings and deep emotions in a visual and symbolic form. For this reason, trying to see the well-known painting in my dream again, living in a world of fascinating contrasts, I became the anonymous painter, escaped from a striking, haunting reality, similar to the one extracted from the old forbidden treatises on art.

Leadership: Can you find a balance between the image of reality and the artistic interpretation, if your experiences are marked by visual images that provide a unified representation of the experiences that make up your life?

Deep inside the baroque building of the "Ministry of Dream Alchemy", artists were chosen not for their talent, but for their dreams. They were learning to control their subconscious, turning lucid dreams into grand collective experiences. These dreams were projected into the sky as living, luminous frescoes that influenced the emotions and thoughts of the entire population. The dream thus became a public art, a form of shaping reality through the human imagination.

In another way, Alice from Lewis Carroll's novel stepped through the looking-glass and entered an absurd and wonderful world where smiling cats talked to pocket watches, rabbits wore vests and top hats, and the Queen of Hearts played croquet with flamingo. It was like a living dream, full of mysteries and amazing transformations. Alice has become an artist herself in this magical reality, using her imagination to navigate the challenges and joys of this fantasy world.

I suppose the dream placed me in an area between these two contexts, between the fascinating world of contrasts and the striking world of mystery in a forbidden space. It's a relief to know you're guided by curiosity and imagination, but a chore to feel the burden of navigating the ambiguous realm of inner knowing.

I looked into the painting, as if it were an enchanted mirror, and saw an astonishing scene unfold before my eyes: in a field of deep red roses, a majestic god (with a shining king's countenance) hovered above , with a huge flower in his hands. His gentle gaze filled with ancient wisdom seemed to encompass my entire existence.

Leadership: Are you able to become the reflection of a vision that helps you master your destiny even in the whirlwind of experiences in which you follow your dream?

The god then bent down slightly, in a reverence meant to acknowledge the upheaval of all normalcy, kissing the topmost petal of the "Double Delight" rose with a gesture so akin to despair, with the feeling that life was but a hair's breadth away, by such a thin thread, which is sometimes broken. At that divine touch, the flower slowly began to open, revealing at its center a magical, mysteriously twisted lujer . The god then offered that rose to the dreamer, allowing him to travel through dream and reality dimensions at will.

Then suddenly I woke up. Looking at the painting in the same lost way, as if coming back from a fantastic world, I felt that I had freed myself from an imaginary prison in which God kept reality suspended. A magical thrill came over me when I saw, in the corner of the painting, that twisted flower of the divine rose. For a moment, it seemed to me that I was holding in my hand the flower received in my dream from God, as a mysterious gift. It was exactly the rose in my garden. As a result, determined to discover the secret of this unusual experience, I set out to search for the meaning of the symbols encountered, feeling how the border between dream and reality is becoming thinner and thinner.

Leadership: Can you use your dreamlike virtues to express the tendency to give visionary form to the inner experience, integrating visual cues that create the effect of depth at the level of artistic interpretation?

Contemplating the rose received in the gift of the dream, so similar to the one in my garden, I felt the touch of an invisible brush within me. Rather, I felt seized by a metaphysical thrill, as if I had deciphered an ancestral code, a living cryptogram about the mystery of existence. The velvet petals, the magical bud, the divine sap that gave it life - all seemed to be the ultimate brush with which the "Great Painter" paints his work on the canvas of being.

This rose thus became an all-encompassing symbol, an Iriusiotic Atricaorach , a perfect metaphor for the indestructible connection between dream and reality, between spirit and matter, between me and God. Just as the painter's brush lends its noble colors to embody beauty on the canvas, so my dream drew its sap from the essence of reality, to give it the infinite embellishment of the imaginary.

Three dream virtues stand out here: Inner exploration (the ability to explore and discover aspects of the self and psyche during dreams), Resilience (the ability to adapt and cope with difficult or stressful situations that may appear in the dream), and Reflection (the ability to reflect on dream experiences and learn from their meanings for everyday life)

How can the symbolism in an artistic scene give you a revelatory view of your own existence, in a way that transcends the immediate interpretation of reality?

The work that never ages is about art's ability to transcend the passage of time and communicate universal and timeless truths about human existence. Through this, I believe that an artist like myself could consider himself gifted with the ability to create works that stand the test of time, provoking the thinking of future generations, reflecting the complexity of existence in a timeless way.

The Work That Worships Only Its Creator (II)

Learn to adopt that understanding of life capable of linking reality to utopia, enduring the impact of a science that is transmitted only through comparisons.

The image of my whole life seemed to be subjected to an artistic experiment in which the end repeats the beginning, the main part of my personality seeming to be covered by a mask, a challenge to the attempt of discovering a new world full of fantasy and mystery, which was a sign of the exception to the rules of modern society. A superior being sticks out like a sore thumb in the midst of an unanimously accepted reality, especially if it is a coincidence between what is immediately perceived and the real cause of a possibility of existing from various existing possibilities.

The artist who makes the most of this secret coincidence beyond any at-the-limit moment in his life, as happens when you probe the natural of a spoken voice from the perspective of looking from the stage towards the public, finds itself compelled to take on a certain state of surprise and fear, part of the risk of being revealed as a gesture of defying social conventions.

In this context of low visibility, under which the background of the general picture of my life has a special intensity of mystery, it should be noted that the moment of transition from the perception of a visual identity to the reaction to a certain reality, from the reflection of a shadow to the representation of a new thinking, made through the association of image with the revolutionary, is multiplied with the distance from the sublime to the ridiculous.

When the image of life overlaps the shadow of a deformation of its contour, let us dare listen to what the ancients have to say before increasing our faculty of understanding the human personality from the perspective of a rich artistic nature which only science empowers:

"Whoever knows the cause of a random nature, such as that of the color white or that of warmth, only in certain subjects, has only an incomplete science at their disposal. And whoever can only produce an effect upon a certain matter from those capable of enduring, themselves have only an incomplete power."

Leadership: Can you redefine yourself through artistic comparisons, manifesting yourself as a projection of an image seen only at a certain angle?

Someone wrote on a web page: "If you don't know your limits, define them ! If you know them, exceed them ! " This is the strong reaction of a spirit attracted by a unique, first of all intellectual, challenge and that doesn't hesitate to take advantage of any occasion to enhance the budget of its science with new understanding subtleties and new knowledge resources.

Digging in reality and life's vast deposit, extracting and processing all those ingredients that help crystallize his personality, borrowing something progressive and new from "foreign" influences, man will discover that secret algorithm, which generates new truth and new glitter, overcoming already established prejudices and meanings.

Taken together, these grant man a kind of intellectual superiority, which overcomes any elite "new knowledge areas seekers", easily counteracting the naivety of skeptics, beginners, laymen and those of weak faith that throw in the domain of illusions the positive reality they can't understand. Because superiority can't be achieved only from books, but also through difficult thinking exercises.

You will manage to install the pillars on which the great temple of alternative renewed knowledge is built. You will be able to successfully achieve the mixture between "sulfur and mercury" – the main transformation agents, and main parents of the Philosopher's Stone. And you'll be able to give a different perspective to the essence of leadership, only if you don't fall prey to that complex and fake intrigue that changes the character of reason accepted truths.

To manifest yourself as a projection of an image seen only at a certain angle means to perceive yourself in the light of new discoveries resulting from the inclusion of reality in a space articulated by a vision between the knowledge of art and the science of transforming yourself into someone else.

The Work That Worships Only Its Creator is the manifestation of comparisons with which you describe your artistically experienced world, talking about the fact that the genuine revolutionary thought that extends your horizon follows in depth the way of a change in the meanings transmitted by the experiences of life.

The Work That Worships Only Its Creator (I)

Give a different perspective to the essence of leadership without falling prey to that complex and fake intrigue that changes the character of reason accepted truths.

I have always been attracted to novelty, to the enigmatic, strange and sometimes discordant character of inexplicable symbols. I was fascinated by old, but eternally valid concepts or super-concepts, to stories woven around some inciting ideas, to messages hidden behind complicated codes.

The invisible creation struggled in the complete reality of a forgotten work of art continued itself through the thoughts that came winding on me, without knowing how to unwind them. The attempts to symbolize a space full of information characterized by contrasts between purpose-means, effort-outcome, respectively the boundaries between form and substance (as in traditional painting), were part of the game of interactions with myself and everything surrounding me.

I was especially attracted to those ideologies, theories, premises, models and thought systems that combined analysis and the deep understanding of man and his purpose in an artificially created Universe, thus justifying a certain interpretation in agreement with my own convictions and imagination resources.

All the colors of understanding feinted, everything became more surreal. New options for the great enigma, which were based on a secret algorithm that generated new truths and untruths, were added in my logic perimeter. I was completely amazed. The destruction and rebuilding had begun.

Leadership: Is the work that you have encountered during your life related to the primary effect of the diversity of "imaginary" approaches from the point of view of knowledge that is essentially accomplished by the comparison of two or more worlds that demanded themselves be conquered?

Stephen King's novels, with their multiple hidden meanings, involved in an ultra-sophisticated human mechanism, with infinite connections to the less known world of unleashed feelings, are presented at maximum voltage. The esoteric meanings, with special connotations, inaccessible to common minds, belonging to the great philosopher Cyrano de Bergerac, were also based on knowledge that surpassed the limits of reality. I was hard to interpret without an authentic experience.

Seducing me completely, the absolutely unusual ideas and conceptions of the two maestros contributed to the birth and development of my curiosity, to shaping an existential reference point born from an a priori existence, which could finally be exploited. The imaginary that inspires me a new conjuncture of subtle affinities with the chosen spirits of the world at any time, increasing by repeating ideas, thoughts, beliefs and fabulous mental images, has the particularity of encompassing hermeneutical elements, endowed with active force, of a reality that has almost disappeared.

The irresistible temptation to discover more of this world – in comparison to other worlds, at a reality interval away. The fierce desire to reform a structure of transcendental truths. The sublime flavor of a great reconstruction experience of a new world, at a higher level of abstraction and understanding of man and life. They strongly enveloped me day by day.

Leadership: Can your way of communicating a reality potentiate the intrinsic value of a unique creation that comes into contact with some worlds previously unknown?

I wasn't able to fully discover the hidden truths behind the bold ideas of my maestros, nor fully encompass the mysterious learning's great force, which came from them. Instead, I was able to install the pillars on which, now, the great temple of alternative, renewed knowledge, which starts from a man, towards man, through man, was built. The mixture of sulfur with mercury was possible.

I was able to find a logical and coherent explanation, even to supply other interpretations for the essential ideas of the Grand Work, without falling prey to that complex and fake intrigue that changes the character of reason accepted truths. I have reached a place, that many had dreamt to reach, a place I wasn't even aware I could reach. The impossible became possible. Time completed its work.

The Great Work, the Philosophical Stone, the Approach to God or the Light of Philosophy, is actually the same thing: reaching a higher level of knowledge that facilitates your understanding of life, understanding your purpose on earth, and finding the motivation to rise up to eternity.

Leadership: Is achieving the work that opens your way to a new reality the consequence of increasing personal creation from which you can reconstitute the past of an image that repeats itself all the time?

Does your science give you the possibility to use the messages hidden behind some complicated codes? Can unusual ideas and conceptions contribute to the birth and development of your curiosity about leadership? Do you let yourself enveloped in the sublime flavor of the great reconstruction experience of a new world?

A work bows only in front of its creator, and it is all the greater as it offers a new openness towards the world and your own being's authenticity. Other thought structures can also be doubled by a thorough analysis of reality in contrast to the intangible, through an authentic revelation or through an explosion of foreign influences that enhance the Work's value.

Your task, as leader, is to manage as effectively as you can on your own, those secrets that can transform an ordinary thinking space in a remarkable one, and don't let yourself limited by the incapacity to interact with the alternating colors of plausible and implausible.

Certainly, a clear understanding of a Great Work, of this kind of abstract identity is a great conquest. And in its name you become the most loyal defender of a new reality, as an acceptance coming from living, superior science, which integrates true knowledge – which in turn incorporates a solid overview of conceptions and interpretations that justify trying to identify new universally valid laws and principles.

I'm not satisfied with any explanation that truly elucidates the relation between the Great Work and the superior stages of evolution, but all the features that constitute man's value are left untouched. For only these features, that have often become the target of an artillery of questions and ambiguities, can justify those interpretations, in agreement with man's convictions and imagination resources.

The personal creation, from which can be reconstituted the past of an image that is repeated in all ages, is marked by the proximity to the existence of different worlds that exist on the coordinates given by a rich imagination that knows how to perfect them.

The work which bows only to its creator points out the finality of a perfect creation, built on solid arguments that through struggles and boldness has been recognized in modern times.

A new vision about leadership, a different perspective approach that applies in practice is, possibly, the work of a lifetime. But it's worth trying to reach beyond yourself and rise above others.

The World Seen In The Presence Of The Rose

On October 30, 2019

The expressive form of a feeling of affection is the result of recognizing an ingenuous presence in a hypostasis of sweet memory.

A few days ago, you called me next to you, and after inspiring your perfume and admiring your brothers, also embellished, I realized that the time I spend with you is truly a supreme gift, especially when announcing a blessing. I did not have the opportunity to pass the time while doing nothing, I admired your smile in silence, in a hypostasis of a painter who knows how to discover the charm of anonymous corners of nature, seeking the uplifting humility of a sincere relationship with God.

Your name, Double Delight, honors a sacred, timeless world, camouflaged in the back of appearances, in the form of an attitude of independence from any authority, any worldly rule. In order to generate points, lines, expressive forms, chromatic and achromatic spots, I must first fall in love with this world through the murmured vibration of an exceptional sensibility linked to an unattainable reality, which I myself seek in things simple, yet invested with some expressive force. A world that seems to remind of a story from a thousand and one nights. Another ground of admiration for the height of an artistic image, enveloped, in a dream, in the adventure of Scheherazade.

While I sprinkle you with nutritious solution, caressing your delicate petals, I notice something I have never seen before, a purely subjective construction, although we live in the same story and we meet daily as two characters who have a special relationship between them. I observe that interaction between successive determinations of nature and the rare essence of a hopeful soul, with a baggage of great dreams, closely linked to a process of pouring eternal energy into a pantheistic existence.

Leadership: Does your presence in a hypostasis of sweet memory attest to the confirmation of a connotative entity generated by a Creator who perceives himself as existing independently of any human mastery?

Expressing an enthusiastic admiration for a surprising creation in its organic originality, and yet so complex that it can give rise to the most varied interpretations, implies the idea of a mutual relationship, of a reciprocal action that we find only in the work of God. The entity generated by such a Creator, with horizons too wide to be understood by the human mind at the present time, can be found in one of two states: a solemnity of the beauty of the living, lit up over the world, or a solemnity of the thought expressed by an expressive language that creates suggestive artistic images.

The rose watches through the eyes of the artist any resemblance between two expressive characters, seeking in the soul of the world who knows what power of attraction under the gentle appearance of a beautiful decoration, arising from the smooth and rhythmic movement of a brush that knew, season by season, to stop in its tracks, in a whisper, the charm of a magic that passes with visual joy in the direction of a work of art. He is present as a product of the finality of the artwork in the words of the painter Li Rihua, quoted by Simona Popescu in the novel Exuvii:

"In painting, it is important to attack the subject with discernment, meaning to understand that, in the contour of forms, although you are pursuing a perfect result, all the art of execution is in fragmentary notations and interruptions."

Leadership: Is it easy for you to get involved in nature's approach by extending artistic intelligence, aligning your "experience of a spark" with the content of a message that truly fulfills your soul?

With what thought do you come to me whenever you address me with such sincerity, as by a simple application of a function of knowledge and revelation? The echo of your words, I found by chance, as it happens when the painter once again brushes over the paint mixture and then gently touches the canvas full of subtle allegories, to express a point of view close to the message of God: "Be impeccable in everything you have to show that is most generous ! "

There exists in the magic of these sensitive words, so simple, but which reveals so much, a certain splendor, the possibility of visualizing a brief description of the tones of a painter gifted with the art of the brush. Quiet tones, sensual, warm, so that the atmosphere around to not overwhelm me, like red, orange and yellow. This combination never fails !

Your nobility, standing out through the simplicity superimposed on a fragility experienced in a genuine way, as when viewing a painting painted with sweetness, absorbs a considerable amount of spirit from the image of a being endowed with a Proustian intensity of senses. Its striking beauty, beyond the conventional, lies in the effect of recalling a previous existence that always comes to my attention. A kind of manifestation of an unrequited desire through a wide range of feelings, but without publicity, simply through an understanding of authenticity as pure living.

Whenever I dream of a new life with someone dear, who really looks like me, someone with great image impact, I do not forget to decorate my vision of a new painting experience with the feeling of unparalleled beauty, independent of all conventions on which the prejudices regarding youth, brilliance and elegance are based.

Nobility is a deciphering of our life through the graceful gloss of the condition of a poet, artist, scientist, therefore an assumption of the privilege of belonging to the destiny of a Creator who perceives himself dependent on the possibility of recovering the eternal beyond matter, by spiritualizing an ideal vision.

In the most recent works created with the generosity of a suite of unforgettable moments, I seem to revive the spirit of a classic elegance in what regards the use of comparisons, symbols and metaphors in the interior of a movement of time, regarding a living, active product, the latter managing to imprint its own constantly changing creative personality upon the canvass of living memories. The eyes focused upon the beauty possess the dimensions of a mysterious obsession where others do not see it: the pure knowledge of a being outside of time.

But at all times I had beside me, blessed with all those useful to painting, with the landscapes of an inner geography, the simplicity of a soul so rare, cheerful, eager to show the world its essence. At other times overwhelmed by sadness, despair, troubled. None the less, managing to live in peace and quiet. Rarely does such a naïve consciousness fall into your heart.

Objectifying what I experience each time inside of me and transforming myself into a carrier of balance of spirit and the universe, beyond the rigors of time, I try to restore a part of the world that, of course, acquires the proportions of an initiatory journey into a story with a lot of teaching, in which is hidden an invaluable treasure.

The great claim in the world of art is weighed by what you want to represent in everything that makes you unique, at the level of simplicity superimposed on a fragility experienced in a genuine way.

The World Seen In The Presence Of The Rose is just as wide as the world made from dust at the touch of the Creator, symbolizing the union between two similar entities through the evolution of art that has a sure path to perfectionism: an entity continuously called "space-time", updated by a The Traveler determinant, and an entity called "vitality of thinking open to the new."

The World That Emerged After The Mystery Was Committed

Impose your ideas through the depth of a broad image constructed by successive versions of the great discoveries born around the plus-value of a complex reality.

It all sprang from the seemingly simple things in life, but from the inclination of seeing them with that bewitching power of the magician who controls the mistrust of spectators through fear mixed with the fascination mystery awakens, around the plus-value of a contradicting and independent reality.

Somehow, I needed complexity to tolerate my weaknesses, multiple connections between the entirety and the penetrating of science, through the direct contact of the senses with the environment that revives from things recomposed in the dark, like a dusty box that hides numerous secrets forgotten by time. Memories continuously ransacked me, tying me to another identity.

Inspiration turned into a kind of pain with demiurgic powers,a statement of the art of constructing an immense space on a fragile territory, through which floated burdened by the bizarre anchors of the past, distributed in different regions of the brain, triggered by visual stimuli. The most tender of lines I have outlined in the book of life, in the world of a composition full of mystical decors through which the inner light of an indecipherable secret transpired, always ended up with a few moments of revelation.

This is what the magician wanted, for the public to believe, gaining the certainty of his simultaneous existence, at the very least, in two depictions: in the depiction of thought and word, applying the method of determining the unseen, the shortcoming, always being the same, the one burdened with the eternal remembrance of something that was lost. But that was regained through the interweaving of the divine and the human, between magic and truth.

Balzac was too, at one point, like a magician, he would get excited, came to believe in his own dream and saw himself as being the most important man in the world. A moment later, coming back down to earth, he was forced to cross unexplored roads in the existential drift. And yet, he is considered as being one of the greatest writers of the world, possessing, like no other, the spell of words. The genius has won his immortality.

Leadership: Are you ready to direct and control the spectacle of appearances of the world in which you live, valuing yourself in the depiction of a facilitator of the relationship between revelation and illusion?

The ensemble of all puzzle pieces in the composition of your existence, constructed through successive versions of the great discoveries born from the elements of the past, from memories and dreams, meant to impose, through introspection and self-discovery a new image of the world, as subjects, generators of spectacle, thus sparking admiration, possess a different status, depending on the successions of the liens of production of the new.

The new, representing the totality of all landmarks of complexity that open the way for the approaching of new, more ample perspectives over the continuity of your own life story, and also of the various steps of contemplating the world in its passing beauty that you can climb in the process of perceiving a particular experience, has the role of causing certain feelings, a powerful reaction from others.

Always in the context of the new, an idea is manifested, and in the same measure, an invention of great help in substantiating an authentic interaction, a unique experience of being someone else and of interpreting hidden meanings of personality, admitting as a potential of capitalizing on the power of creation, and the personal resources of which you were not previously aware of.

Therefore, being aware of what truly matters to expose to others or induce to them, by the efficient usage of revelations and illusions, through reconstructions of the past, building the spell of caroling where "there's always something different than what you believed it could be", amplifies your emotional state, your weakness and your power. Do memories determine you to experience the power of your own truth or the weaknesses of the illusions that teach you to be someone else?

Leadership: Is the maximum measure of perceptions about the world you are building based on the experiences of participating in a new stage of enhancing the meaning of the concept of your "superior version" in a perspective of the kind of illusion that moves you?

The man who reached the stage in which he realizes that he has the power to re-create reality, the power to recall and redeem what apparently passes as a footnote in the book of life, acquired in advance, the certainty of a simultaneous existence, at least in two depictions: in the depiction of thought and word, applying the method of determining the unseen, the shortcoming. He is a magician of remembrance, not a man who remains condemned to oblivion.

Leadership can easily acquire the meaning of the result of a moment of revelation, in which you realize that you are someone else by means of the base of thoughts thrown into time, or of the ideas and scraps of thoughts crocheted in a "new world" style.

When I think of the past, making an analogy with leadership, I get to the words of a character from a Cristopher Priest novel: "Pondering all this, I came to wonder if in my education exists something that could prepare me for the image of a world shaped as it shows itself to me."

A perspective of the type of illusion that moves you has as the main point of support the symbolic image of a life story that probably gave you something to think about when you noticed how from confusing or contradictory situations you can learn profound lessons about the mysterious aspect of reality, which has generated so much anxiety.

The World That Emerged After The Mystery Was Committed mainly refers to the universe of thoughts populated by remembrances that give birth to a variety of images that resurrect the members of the man of old, leading towards a "there" where the tangible and intangible overlap and influence each other, combining into a force that puts into motion a superior version of man.

Mystery is a reminiscence of the past which, in time, became more and more a foreign land, but brought back in step with the times and fully developed, it acquires the glow of a new transformation, providing a base of experiences and knowledge on which you can count on in the present.

In this case, we can say that leadership is the fruit of "mystery."

The "Zoom-Out" Phenomenon And The Subjective Attitude Of The Creator

On January 02, 2017

An authentic vision crystallizes if the artist's sensibility aligns with the emotional structure of his creation.

Eisenstein's montage combines the objective existence of the "Zoom-Out" phenomenon with the subjective attitude of its creator, and the composer Prokofiev perceives the intimate emotional structure and tunes his own sensibility with it. It is precisely for the success of this attunement that Prokofiev changes his music if the image demands it, just as Eisenstein does not hesitate to make changes in the editing to allow the music to speak for itself.

The only misunderstanding will arise when all your music is finished. Eisenstein asks Prokofiev to compose an overture. The composer refuses: since the film begins with a tragic episode, the overture should be triumphal-heroic and he does not see how the transition between these two different musics could be made. He is willing, he declares, to write as much music as he likes, but artistic considerations prevent him from writing it. Eisenstein still insists. Then Prokofiev accepts, but only on the condition that the director changes the sad episode at the beginning of the film. But, since Eisenstein believes that the montage plan cannot be changed, the film remains without the overture and the credits are quietly projected. And many commentators see here a special effect pursued by Eisenstein.

Leadership: How can your subjective attitude give life to a work that reflects the concordance of images and emotions, so as to place you in the middle of its era?

From the multitude of possibilities available to us in order to create an authentic creation, we should not stop, therefore, at decorative elements, nor at biographical data, but only at the concordance between images and emotions. And this only to the extent that we consider that any creation, in one way or another, places the artist in the middle of the events of his era. For reasons that I must come back to often, I want to go into the particularly tempting problem of the subjective attitude of the artist who must create beauty, sensations and feelings, experiences from inorganic matter, so as to give life to a work that inspires and to excite.

Emotions and images, with countless and deep implications, through which one could follow, in their entirety, the components of a work of art, are a kind of mirror through which the creator presents certain episodes from the life of the world that inspired him to become legendary. By saying this, I am mainly referring to the valuable, purely spiritual, inexhaustible character of the work of art. This inexhaustible character consists in the fact that under the appearance of the specificity of any art genre, something of the nature of other art genres is revealed to us, with reference to music, for example, which makes the "Zoom-Out" phenomenon mean a wider perspective on the context , capturing the relationships between details and the whole, as well as the dynamics of the ensemble.

Leadership: Can your artistic decision-making process provide a harmonious blend between the objective existence of the "Zoom-Out" phenomenon and the intimately emotional structure of the created image?

Another effect that acts on a subjective level is the so-called anchoring effect, which often prevents an objective analysis of the structure of the information we receive. Instead of judging situations clearly and tuning into our sensitivity to avoid errors, we anchor ourselves in a specific reference point, affecting our considerations and attitude in the decision-making process.

The artist's montage in his creation represents the union between the objective existence of the phenomenon and the subjective attitude that shapes it. In the creative process, the intimate emotional structure of images may require significant changes to convey the desired message. Like an overture in a triumphal concert, the changes bring an artistic perspective to the tragic episode that shows us the subtle beauty of subjective considerations.

Leadership: How can you combine artistic considerations with practical values so that the organic unity of your creation reflects human sensibilities and provides an aesthetic experience?

Eisenstein's montage combines the objective existence of the phenomenon with the subjective attitude of its creator, similar to how organic architecture integrates the subjective aspects of design with objective functionality. The composer Prokofiev perceives the intimately emotional structure and attunes his own sensibility to it, just as the organic architect modifies his designs to respond to human sensibilities.

Precisely for the success of this attunement it happens that Prokofiev changes his music if the picture demands it, just as Eisenstein does not hesitate to make changes in the editing to let the music speak for itself. Artistic considerations play a key role in matching architectural designs to their surroundings, just as Prokofiev and Eisenstein adapted music and editing to achieve the desired heroic triumphal effect.

The only misunderstanding arose when all the music was finished. Eisenstein asks Prokofiev to compose an overture. The composer refuses: since the film begins with a tragic episode, the overture should be triumphal-heroic, and he does not see how the transition between these two different musics could be made. Prokofiev always refused to compromise artistic values for practical purposes, preferring to create structures without overture, letting the genre project itself quietly.

Leadership can encourage the merging of the objective existence of the "Zoom-Out" phenomenon with the subjective attitude of the creator, perceiving the intimate emotional structure of the work and attuning its own sensitivity to it.

The "Zoom-Out" phenomenon and the subjective attitude of the creator refers to how the artist broadens his perspective to understand the larger context of his creation, combining the objectivity of analysis with the intuition and emotion of his own experience. An authentic creative approach requires the artist to be in tune with his own emotions and the structure of the work. In fact, true artistic expression occurs when the creator's vision merges with the emotional structure of the work.

There Where The Ancestors Are Resting

On October 23, 2012

Seek to discover and understand the "whole" of the man, without minimizing the science of fully dedicating yourself to his emptiness.

He was thinking more and more to himself, not by rejection or critical spirit, but through a sort of cruel prejudice, through a humble resignation manifested around his own destiny.

He would have liked to borrow a new life, of a one younger than him, un homme d'action, in order to strain one more time the bow of the really combative force that throws its arrows towards the most difficult objectives, always targeting towards the middle of the problems, always in the direction of inaccessibility, piercing the fog of the old age.

He would have liked to find a solid support, continuator, into overcoming all obstacles and difficulties of all kinds that stand against the progress of his actions. A kind of search of another identity. A release of the inside, through a will of supreme liberation, which would flow, as a cold and heavy rain on all forms of regression. Of a will that should never be wasted. A decrease of uncertainties, which enveloped his perspectives, soaring vertiginously on his evolution as a leader, as an authority of the law, as a man of great character.

Similar to a Christian who assumes the suffering of the whole world through the perspective of his own experience, transformed by a living and dynamic faith that gives meaning to life, Sheriff Ed Tom Bell was heading rapidly towards the decline of his existence. Towards a realm that preceded the hardest test of his destiny, which dominated with gravity the mystery that surrounded within a heavy and sinister chain the origin of his spiritual states.

Leadership: Is your action coordinate for addressing an autonomous thinking argued and demonstrated by the experiment of an ending that endures its loneliness?

Thus, again, like a man alone and lost, disowned by society, without finding order and stability in a land tough with the people, but especially with the elders, Ed Tom Bell let himself be dragged out in his peregrinations in search of a foreigner, of an assassin. He felt the ground slipping under his feet.

He made his way to the west, always to the west, there where was always done a crime, every time another old man. Towards the great fortress of his mission, realizing that he could not break into that vortex of the search. A very vivid friendship attached him to the old people, because he was also old.

Ed Tom Bell was sinking down into the abyss of a cold reality, of an increasingly burdensome old age. He understood that the end was near, that everybody – everybody, except the young and the triumphant ones - had to transform themselves, to leave the earth, and go elsewhere. And, as a man, who perishes frozen in the desert night, he turned his thoughts towards the eternal lands. A return to the origins, to a past stuck in his time, to a world forgotten and unknown, to a distant area of the human essence. In search of a quieter place.

There where his ancestors were resting.

Leadership: Is your action coordinate for addressing an autonomous thinking argued and demonstrated by the experiment of an ending that endures its loneliness?

The first half of the leadership, the human one, is decisive. The leaders, who can relate well to the other people around them, are trying to avoid the leadership's clichés of perception.

First, they seek to discover and understand the man as a whole, without despising or minimizing the science of fully dedicating themselves to his emptiness - that road towards the peak of the human existence that passes only through the hell of an atrophied thinking, subject to certain limitations, and which restricts the freedom to be himself, redirecting his beliefs, and options, in which he tends to believe.

The leadership that you extract not only from your trials and errors, but rather from the "most hidden shelf" of the man as a whole, in which is located his deepest essence, is the real treasure that you must exploit it properly.

Your deepest essence is built from the overwhelming reality you live in by consolidating the distinction between expressing a default identity and the alteration of everything that overwhelms the individual.

Just as the essence of time is the flow, not the stagnation, so the essence of the relationship man-time renewal is given not only by the formation and development of a positive thinking, by perspective, but primarily by the values that you appreciate the most, by the beliefs that life has implanted in your mind.

In other words, instead of the most commonly used procedure of confirming as many expectations regarding the possibility of change, amplification, diversifying the form of exercising influence, in the creation of a leadership as facile as possible, it is more helpful to follow a better exploitation of the tendency of optimizing the relationship leadership-man-values-time .

Leadership: Do you understand the essence of what you are in the context of an altercation of the Ego?

A clarifying approach of what makes the man to "tick" taking into account those beliefs regarding his ability to ignore or accept the negative realities, of the vulnerability and infirmities of all sorts, it is essential in leadership.

This delicate process of advancing towards the human knowledge, the science of connecting yourself to the invisible side of its inner world, of the tendencies and aspirations that are constantly changing, will allow you to access any device of strengthening your system of thinking.

The other half, followed by the top people, the professional one, seeks to complement the existence of a systematic research towards the future of the leadership, through appealing to an "arbitration" easily confusing, extremely weak, unfavorable to the essential statute of the man. A severe contraction between appearance and essence that must be attenuate.

The first step towards a new self-discovery is given by the "return to origins", to an almost forgotten area, to the essence of what you expect to find where hope takes refuge.

Are you living in a system of thinking that ignores or disregards the reality of others? Are you aiming towards the "inaccessibility"? Are you heading towards a peak preceding the hardest attempt of your role, as a leader? Do you accept to start looking for a plot of understanding the Man, a land that is foreign to leadership?

There where the ancestors are resting prioritizes the gap between the objective world and the self, a false immunity to the completion of a reality that can hardly be accepted. To change your habits of thought and action, you must first accept the reality, even if it seems to be in disagreement with your personality structure.

Analyze people by regarding them as a whole, with good and bad, with qualities and defects. Anchor them in the objective reality, and mobilize them for fulfilling their mission and achieving their goals. This can be done only by submitting yourself to this internal analysis, and always asking yourself:

From where you started and where you want to get? What would you wish, what have you achieved until now? What else you have to accomplish?

They Loved Each Other Because They Saw Each Other

On April 24, 2012

Learn to appreciate the beauty of a composition that brings your mind closer to the message hidden in the middle of the world, combined with the sense of reality given by the movement of one wheel in the middle of another wheel.

Cosette, in the shadow in which she lived, was destined, like Marius, to be engulfed in the flame of love. Destiny, with its secret and inescapable patience, brought these two creatures charged and eager for the boiling storms of passion closer together; these two souls who carried love as two clouds carry lightning, and who had to meet and merge in one look, like clouds in a flash.

There was so much talk about the look in love novels that it came to be despised. Today you can hardly dare to say that two people fell in love because they looked at each other. And yet this is how people love each other, and only this way. What remains is only what remains. Nothing is truer than the collision between two souls when this spark changes.

The moment Cosette, without realizing it, gave Marius that look that disturbed him deeply, he did not suspect that his gaze had disturbed Cosette as well. He had done her the same harm and the same good.

*She had been looking at him for a long time and researching, as the girls see and search, looking away. Marius still found Cosette ugly, while Cosette thought Marius was beautiful. But because he didn't care, this boy was indifferent to her. However, he couldn't help but think that he had beautiful hair, beautiful eyes, beautiful teeth, a beautiful voice, when she heard him talking to his colleagues, that he didn't stand up straight enough when he walked – if you simply had to find a flaw — yet with a certain grace, which was only his, that he did not seem foolish, that his whole being was chosen; gentle, simple and proud, that at last he seemed poor, but not defeated.

Leadership: Can the decision to give yourself to a moment of great spiritual uplift be interpreted as an attempt by the mind to open up to the soul, as you open up to a destiny that falls on a horizontal line, not a vertical one?

Destiny is a pure word, but it often disturbs, beyond the events that you consider most important to you, the same events that set in motion the beauty of unforgettable moments. There is something as pure as destiny, expressed through the final piece of the puzzle of our lives: "Love", and this word symbolizes the beauty of a chain of events (often inexplicable) that lead you from one state to another, to different places, while you are looking for the purpose of life.

But not every destiny is favorable, not for anyone who calls himself a Christian, because it is often complemented by a look taken in the wrong direction, only on important changes in life, but not on the need to know yourself completely satisfied as a bearer of holy spirit. This happens when your only concern is to put your life in order, instead of being at peace with yourself, and thereby with the candor of the wise brotherhood with the destiny given by God.

And for the spell of a friendship to always remain the same, or to turn into love, you must rethink the way your life unfolds in every moment, highlighting those ways of God that must be fulfilled in His service. Love is not the central focus of a life that proves to be a distinction for exceptional accomplishments in activities or actions that harm a high self-image, even if it is a source of elevation in the universe of great spirits.

Love is a gift from God to those who have sought Him before anything else, before embarking on any journey, before reacting to life's challenges.

Love is the determination to give yourself to a moment of great spiritual uplift that can be interpreted as an attempt of the mind to open itself to the soul, as you open yourself to a destiny that is inscribed on a horizontal line, not the vertical one. Such a destiny, open horizontally, marks the discovery of God in you, in everything around you, in events, in people, in such a way that the reality you want is the reality that He wants.

The hidden message is this: follow the path of your life as the awareness that everything happens due to God's will, and that love is the holy gift for those who have found God before anything else.

They Loved Each Other Because They Saw Each Other suggests the fulfillment of a destiny by approaching a God who loves especially those people who know how to glorify him unceasingly, focusing entirely on serving a spiritual purpose and following it all the way.

They Stop Where They Want To Stop

On January 07, 2018

Learn to design on the outside everything that is in your heart, controlling the emotions of others and directing them in a new direction.

- Before you go, mister Count – said Julie, allow me to tell you everything that in that day...

- Madame, replied Monte Cristo, grabbing her hands – everything you will tell me will never be as precious as what I can read in your eyes, what your soul has thought and what my heart has felt. I should have left without seeing you again, as the well-doers in novels. But this virtue would have been beyond my strengths, for I am a weak and vain man, and because the humble, humorous, and tender look of my kin does me well. Now I leave, leading my selfishness to the point where I tell you: Do not forget me, my friends, for you will never see me again.

- Let's not see you again – exclaimed Emmanuel as two large tears flowed on Julia's cheeks. "Let's not see you again"? So not a man, but a god leaves us, and this god will ascend to the heavens after he has showed himself upon the earth to do good !

- Do not say that, quickly replied Monte Cristo. Never say that, my friends. Gods never do evil; they stop where they want to stop. The happening is not stronger than them, on the contrary, they are the ones who master it. No, Emmanuel, I am a man, and your admiration is just as unfair as your words are profane.

And pressing his lips on Julia's hand as the young woman rushes to his chest, he extended the other hand to Emmanuel. Then, pulling out of this house, the pleasant nest whose guest was happiness, he stepped into the diligence of four horses and stood unseen in the darkness of the night.

Leadership: Does the reality that you have to accept and that you have to deal with, have as a first consideration the inaccuracies of illustrating an expressiveness of "the immediate"?

I like the idea of using a certain type of emotional baggage, but above all a certain authority over the facts targeted by an intuitive knowledge of the manner of manifestation of the diversity of human typologies, in order to manipulate a reality and find other connotations than a mere reflection of a moment or situation.

If you seek and want to maintain a certain mood at every passing moment, you will become more and more disillusioned with your abilities to obtain something, especially if you DO NOT consider man as a primary reality of supreme spiritual value.

Because everything that happens within people, at every stage of their lives, is part of the world they imagine and accept as a destiny, as a fact that is fulfilled and unforgivable, so a world that does not belong to you no matter how much you try to integrate yourself in it.

A state of mind that you wish to exploit through direct visual examination, marked especially by manifestations that are invested in value and with some significance by those who practice them, is determined in relation to your attitude towards certain limits of tolerance and adaptability to their needs for change.

"The immediate" has as a first landmark a "wow" emotion only when you deliver a "wow" from the beginning of a conversation, against the background of a story embedded in different modes of visualization and imagination.

Detective C. Auguste Dupin, the fictional character created by Edgar Allan Poe, said: "Knowing a man is accomplished by first pursuing his mimic or physiognomy; by reproducing it, you think of his thoughts and intentions."

Essentially, Dupin – just like Monte Cristo, creates an assumption that he then checks through the perspective of emotions triggered by a particular situation or whose production is favored by a certain circumstance.

Even if you are used to representing your own "personal brand" depending on the power of interpreting the emotional expressiveness of surrounding people, their value must not look like a drawing understood as an outline that determines the shape of an object through a sort of summary of itself. But rather, such as writing, understood as a pure configuration, spontaneous, which does not evoke the physiognomy of a thing, but rather the virtues of a nature unaltered or as close as possible to a veritable archetype.

The greatest achievement you have to accomplish, as a leader, is to regulate your level of authority by becoming aware of the emotions you awaken in people, so that they become aware of what you feel !

They Stop Where They Want To Stop when they put into play their force of persuasion and presence of spirit. They are, in the simplicity of some favorable findings, the detectives of the underside of things from the "hidden" pages of the minds scared by the reality of life.

Thing Called Love (II)

On February 02, 2016

Always be present where you choose to reveal yourself, allowing yourself to be carried away by your own discovery.

I was left only to imagine a pretext to enter in communion with that unseen part of the world, from the perimeter of a dominating order which, in turn, transformed the rest of the world, involving it into a true bet with the hazardous. Or rather, was it a strange assumption of singularity by suspending all others in a race with my own expectations?

Somehow, I had to take advantage of this moment of adjusting the reason to continue my path towards achievements owed to an opening of perspective, migrating into an essential dimension of my own freedom of imagination, between the excitement of intense living and the shaping of a superior idea of affirmation. Which meant, at the same time, a possible falling from a height, a demolition of the construction called "Join". This spark will cause the bridge to burn.

I was grinded by the obsessive thought, the final acceptor of the answer to the question "Who do I belong to?" that in the view of what enveloped me almost constraining with the power of a genius mind, I could continue the link with a different context of time, with a sort of perception that tested the normal schemes of reality. With a knowledge that I had somehow lost through an Alter-Join. But which I obviously had to retrieve by returning to the analogy of a superior being. To cross a line takes a tiny step.

Thus it was revealed the hidden face of a reality that passed through someone else, the trigger of a hidden meaning, whose simple ingredients were resonance and reflection.

Concomitant, I felt myself introduced into the novel "Perpetuum Mobile" by writer Artur Silvestri, with a kind of chilliness and amazement at the same time. It is about the state of a lone sailor who sees, somewhere far, a shore that is never found. But at the same time, my reason shared with the vision of change of image and personality from the perspective of the same character: the discoverer of a world that wants itself autonomous, in union with the primordial and inexhaustible source of life, light and love, of a higher consciousness.

Leadership: Do you have a very accurate and useful way of understanding where you are in terms of "consciousness in the game of chance" in terms of experiencing a transition from the impact assessment of reality to the discovery of a new man?

Leadership should not be omitted from the appreciation of conditions of change that affect the passing of man from one frame of reference to another, based on the analogy with "wherever you want to plunge, you will eventually get to where you already are."

This frame of reference depends on the position of observation man takes, from the height of a reason that has the power to trigger new understandings of the world, as opposed to the effect entailed by this understanding of it.

You will always be present where you want to reveal yourself, letting yourself be carried away by your own discovery. Every day you can discover the connection with the surrounding world in relation to the meanings you attribute to a superior being. You become a recipient or a sender of its question marks, depending on the contraries you find within you and can be balanced by the status of a superior being.

To understand yourself in terms of "consciousness caught in the game of hazard" you have to become the best version of yourself in a race with your own expectations to reduce the likelihood of a potentially damaging phenomenon for perceiving reality. Living in a way of passing from the assessment of the impact of reality to the discovery of a new man is manifested by analogy with a superior being who does not allow himself to be oppressed by the constraints of natural, imaginary, rational or social laws.

The New Man is everything you can offer in answer to the question of "who you belong to" as a way of understanding what exactly you experience in a reality that exists independently of you, but at the same time thanks to you.

Thing Called Love is the argument of a non-separation from what chains and enslaves me, meaning that part of me that wants to be revealed and shared. I suppose this argument is one of the basic identifiers of a perfect leader.

I can always get away from the world, I can always give free rein to my freedom of imagination, but this impediment will always hold me back: "Who do I belong to?". Am I tied to the power of a world to which I must constantly adapt, or to the hidden effects of a superior power of understanding it.

One thing was clear: under no circumstances will I be able to demolish the construction called "Join."

Thing Called Love (I)

On January 31, 2016

Assume the ability of facing yourself, putting yourself face to face with the idea of a fragment of your story.

I carry within my boundless memory, gathered in a heap, all of those met in an unforgivable past, full of ups and downs, pulling out the elements uncompromised by the pulse of everyday life. It is only a matter tied to the role the sole wishes to take on in this prolonged battle between the living images of my processions through the moving landscapes of the world, recognizing myself beyond any references, and the special effects of my interventions on reality. So here I am, I'm just the same. But you will never know.

Often, I hid my meanings behind an unidentifiable fear, a dimension too broad for me to measure its extent, as a deep and shady fountain, whose bottom is not easy to see, in which I always cast a coin to return to the someone else I once was. Things which I must learn to let go of, shaped around a self-passing disappearance, masking a contrary of the world, the negation of my own being, the abyss of consciousness.

Conjectural, I glimpse only the victory of a total darkness in the face of the light spilling from the plentitude of a part from the answer to a question, poignant as an electric current: Did you live your life just once?

"Share another road", whispers to me the truth of a forgotten eternity, in the face of the need of recognizing myself in an archetypal plane, projecting myself in other roles, wandering through all sorts of worlds and spaces, seeking myself in something that expresses certain ideas and feelings, support structures of my upgrade.

Everyone can read my soul, with its silences, answers, and madness, but will someone manage to move their footing?

Leadership: Can you turn this world you disclose into a point of reference of your future polishes by using a trigger of the type "Before Delete"?

The main characteristic of leadership is in no way the evocation of a bygone world. But it "feeds" on the assumption of the memory of what you once were, intensifying the need of recognizing yourself in a plane of confessing thoughts and feelings.

The successive accumulations of answers obtained from the impulse of confessions forms true cornerstones of your current framework of thinking and action.

You can turn the world you disclose into a point of reference of your future polishes if you learn to improve not only the specific of your confessions, but especially the content of truths and fakes accumulated. Do not let their contribution and impact be forgotten. Return to your archetype by using the Trigger of the type "Before Delete". This trigger gains the value of an accessory of justifying the possibility of confronting yourself in the context of a detached view of the world cast in the patterns of a universal judgment of human destiny.

Put me face to face with the idea of a fragment from my story, played out through an inciting and interesting confession that, paradoxically, is the opposite of what I believe is expected of me. This constitutes the most banal scene from the representation of a disappearance, followed by a fulminating reappearance, worthy of any magician. Is it just me, I'd like to know / Or are we all just a little blind?

A man climbs the stairs of an apartment building. At around the sixth floor, on the canvass of his memory appears a spot of light. Its outline has the shape of an oval shape that, out of respect and other hidden feelings for the being in the painting instantaneously composed in the memory is, certainly, an Empire frame.

We are all captured by the vivid images of a screen modelled by past experiences, achieving a symbiosis with the invention of the mind in which the images of truths relived are an influential factor.

The highest point of reference for your future refinements is measured by the time you give that fragment of your life story that expresses the ideas and feelings between what you call immediate reality and what derives from what you perceive to be the outer world.

Thing Called Love highlights ideas and feelings that were formed, becoming support structures of your upgrade as a man of the moment.

If you want to place yourself in the top preferences of people who read and try to know you, first put them face to face with the idea of a fragment from your story. Assume the possibility of confronting yourself, improving the content of truths and fakes accumulated over time.

Sometimes the most interesting part of your story is about the role you play in the moment you decide to accept a reality that exceeds your expectations by bringing you into a plan of existence alien to your natural aspirations.

Things Have Changed (II)

On September 03, 2015

Distance yourself from the monopoly of finitude by assuming the consciousness of the "all" of which you become an integral part.

All of them had their entrances and exits. All the major attempts to play a significant role in a different context, dynamically changed, by introducing a no one in front of me. All the little compromises "anything goes" left to install a nothing behind. All of them passed over the depths of my consciousness, alike some questions that do not receive any response. „Only a fool in here would think he's got anything to prove."

Tireless, my spirit was wandering into the petulant labyrinth of the meanders ambitions of universality, indirect of the endless intelligence that produced everything. Everything that existed in the world gained a greater relevance. I was a circuit of complicated combinations fed by intense thoughts, disposed on the line of a continuity that manifested through a state of confusion. An amplifier of references and associations that constantly produced a winning position by keeping distinctness, yet distancing of what constituted the formation of individuality. „Any minute now I'm expecting all hell to break loose".

The English philosopher, John Locke, author of the "Essay Concerning Human Understanding" demonstrated, contrary to the Cartesian principles, how it is derived knowledge from experience, namely from the sensations aided by thinking. However, is the man, enough thoughtful, to distance himself from the monopoly of the static and finitude in order to increase his essentiality?

Leadership: Living life according to the imperative of change requires a constant reconciliation with oneself and a willingness to evolve in the dynamic balance between "seeking" and "finding"?

Such a man was found in a field of regular forces, into a perpetual motion, self-powered by a transfer of successive accumulations due to a source of oscillation between everything and nothing. The words of the writer, Ana Blandiana: "Any dependence of substance seems unbearable to me, because every possession is an addiction" are of great importance.

To generate feelings and meanings by making from them a total wilderness, a realm populated by virtues and feelings of accomplishment, was just a sort of resistance movement against the power to endure stoically my variability and ambivalences: "I'm not that eager to make a mistake".

Was I strong enough to follow my own rules, established on the model of an intensity form of my projection on the hypotenuse of a flexible existential support? Or I was in an interesting break of psychological suspense? „People are crazy and times are strange."

Leadership: Do you accept as an evidence of knowledge just what you noted through direct experience, or indirectly by exploiting an endless intelligence that produces EVERYTHING?

The result of your entry into a new space of knowledge, in relation to all that exists and interests you in one way or another, in case of developing a creation obtained from the formation of some complex combinations of some already existing resources, may reveal everything you do not seem to be.

By acting as a perpetual innovator who is freed from the monopoly of the static or of finitude, through assuming the conscience of the "all" of which you become an integral part, you come closer to what can truly enrich you: the ability to be a manifestation of a continuity of thinking.

"People are crazy and times are strange" is a saying which applies to that category of individuals who tend to acquire an autonomous life by the force of developing various connotations on the relationships between the elements of the all represented by the reality.

It is not about a reality reflected by that perfect mirror of the essence that makes you whole as a personality, but by the reality in which you lose yourself in the hundreds of thoughts, ideas, opinions, choices that whirl in the mind wrapped in a sheep of fog. The only escape is represented by the tendency of withdrawing from the midst of the world and events, not as a proof of selfishness, but as a measure of remedying the error called: "dependence on the whims of others".

While Intelligence is a form of connecting with the surrounding universe by finding a meaning to fulfill that will release you from the burden called: "Self-reliance".

To exist, in the most questionable way possible, having as first step the extraction of knowledge from the experience of using the "all" respectively a relevant knowledge revealed from the sensation that you can interpret and control what you visualize, all that exists as a creation or concept, is applicable if you are the bearer of a higher culture. However, this way of existence also involves detaching yourself from ordinary, at the risk of depleting or exaggerating your essentiality.

In this case, the leadership, which through various processes of stocking the information obtained by penetrating and redefining the "all" accomplishes the opening of the man towards a new hypostasis of erudition, it is subjected to certain pressures. In the sense that may no longer facilitate a massive operation of conquering a coherent vision of the world and life, or one about who you will be, what you will do, and why it matters. But rather, an acceptance of what cannot be grasped than with imagination.

Leadership can be distinguished by the relevance that gives you that activity or goal that you want to touch, by sketching from the subjective chaos of impressions and endless possibilities of deepening and processing the elements of the "all" a certain ordinate structure, coherence of ideas, different from the current version you are using.

Can you relate this way of thinking at a particular unity or amount of a whole, so as to get a reasoning closer to a model of unforeseen action?

Everything is what drives you to become a better version of yourself in a context of the type: "the others are manifestations of those parts of me I considered to be lost."

The essence of man is comprised of what he is able to become by reference to certain experiences present in the lives of others and what he is able to bear by relating to himself.

Things Have Changed highlights the personal effort of liberation from the monopoly of finitude, by assuming the conscience of the "all" of which you become an integral part. At the same time, condenses the great trials to play a significant role in a different context, dynamically changed by introducing a "no one in front of me".

Things Have Changed (I)

On August 31, 2015

Develop your identity by reaching the freedom of to be, thinking about what you care about even if the things change.

Suddenly, a particular disturbance of the self, it had developed during a new cycle of production of a virtue place in performing that deafening dialogue, which almost marked my destiny. Between two distinct perspectives: one of a dizzying height, and one of a fictional character over some real events that must be overcome. Everything seemed puzzling. I noted with amazement that I came closer to the place that I left. "This place ain't doing me any good".

I do not want to say absurd or surprising things coming from my own interior, just as a writer does, when he is inspired by a strong sense of identity, and reveals it secretly throughout the novel, as a response given to his philosophical position. But rather, I want to see how they manifest on their own, these things that just are supposed to be, and are expressed only through the forms of art, when the place at which I program my existence, acquiring a certain epistemic appreciation, becomes endowed with reason and significance. "I'm locked in tight, I'm out of range".

To become "someone else" is to initiate a profound change, taking responsibility for the reason and experiences that have marked your path, adjusting your will and perception in a new direction.

The man, this rigid circuit to pass through by the knowledge being in a field of ruling forces, this proactive soul served by the reproductive organs of a boundless bliss, that nothing can pick it off, like a weed in the way of destiny, had passed once through a dark tunnel, being prone to a form of protest, "I used to care, but things have changed".

Slowly, it has been established a dialogue between what simply happens outside my will and what I was thinking about me as being someone else, from where I could inspire myself with confidence. A dialogue, whose resort and guide was my own freedom of to be, to give account only to the reason on which is relied that disposal of the ability to create a new profile, just as it happens when a writer is looking to integrate his vision of the world in a novel full of suspense. I was, as they say: "A worried man with a worried mind."

Leadership: Do you intensify your attempts to control instincts and inclinations towards a certain reason, as being true cornerstones on building a "now" of which to be proud?

The identity that you develop by reaching the freedom of to be, by making from leadership a connection between knowledge, vision and the will to create a new life experience - all of them focused toward a suitable place in which to find refuge, eliminates those changes in thinking which do not have considerable impact on the direction that you want to print to your change and philosophy.

The best leaders are intensifying their attempts to control instincts and inclinations towards a ration of type "think about what you care about, even if the things change" one that pretends to bring a good feeling. Instincts and inclinations, carriers of some deep past feelings in ulterior times and a superior capacity of processing of everything that defines these artisans of change, including both the quality, but also defects, are true cornerstones on building a "now" of which they can be proud.

Leadership: Do you have the ability to constantly reinvent yourself, using past experiences to create a new profile of perception and self-correction?

By fact that you manage to think of you as being someone else, from where you can inspire with confidence in a time of searching, recovering, and self-reconciliation, you can live your life as required by the categorical imperative of change.

But being someone else requires a high price. It means to give account to the reason on which is relied that disposal of the will to create a new profile of the perception to self-correct through the consumption of experiences that marks you in depth.

The perception, as someone stated on the web, represents a big leap in knowledge that depends on how you select, organize and interpret information intercepted from the external environment. In leadership, to create a new profile of perception is equivalent to investing in yourself everything that you find out behind you, in your past, through the efforts to overcome some states or through the efforts to maintain your status quo.

"Now" must be the stage where you recognize yourself as belonging to an absolutely new vision of existence and reality that will facilitate the discovery of your meaning from the perspective of an openness to the need of being someone else.

This vision includes the dimension of things that make you proud of yourself and differentiate you from the rest of the world.

Things Have Changed emphasizes that power of the change, the impulse that you need in order to become someone else, thereby establishing what distinguishes a self-centered thinking and a thinking focused on account of some events that must be overcome.

It depends on you how you value your opportunities to exploit the synergies between these two thinking so that to get an identity to represent you as a grander version of your Self.

Things (II)

On April 24, 2016

Choose to walk the paths of progress, welcoming your own making in the surrounding things.

I associated myself with the idea of integrating myself in the beginning of a great day, from which, with no explanation, the characteristic nothingness of a fleeting moment in which only things showed their hidden faces could be subtracted, and the proclaimed certainties faded like candles that go out at once, without anyone blowing on them. It was a kind of gaining confidence in a world that is difficult to access, in a space of subjective conspiracy, in the context of the freedom of association between elements of sense and non-sense, so that the position around the immense ego and my work with it cannot be changed by the play of the ambiguous metamorphoses of the symbolic and the real.

What I thought was happening to me, at the shelter of a consciousness that could only explain its reality through the key of a time that became a revealer of true states of things, within the depths of a mysterious calling for a detachment from everything inert, towards the symbolic forms of the Unknown, was in fact the continuation of a journey towards a fulfillment that refused its absolute.

The making of a shift in the perception of things is done through the apparition of a rupture in their natural order. A sort of penetration into the essence of a whole, vibrating at different frequencies of realism, with multiple sub-meanings attributed to the erosions suffered by the values that give life meaning, through an abusive use of everything the surrounding world gives. And the distinction between reality and illusion, between the imagined things and the allegorized things, under the formal aspect of the enigmatic associations, generating multiple meanings, lies in the intensity of the expression of some feelings that come to the surface through words.

Leadership: Are you ready to create an imaginative space for yourself, full of visuals, displaying interpretations of a part of reality that transmits emotions from which you cannot escape?

At the shelter of the hermetic secret, in the alchemical research he would conduct in parallel with physics research, Newton had entered a new world. In the face of its furnaces, he contemplated the "birth" of substances, the combination of masculine seeds with feminine ones, the reciprocal manifestations of bodies. Through Transformation, causing a lot of reaction, which was an oversupply of information, such a combination could bring about a bonus to the Great Science. But, at the same time, it could bring about a ray of new light to its own nature, to its own reality.

This is what happens when science combines with the esoteric: the emotions of discovering new things that may be forbidden to the general public intensify to the level at which you are forced to pay attention to them. Practically, these emotions can be in a clear interaction with the strange play of the associations between the concrete and abstract terms, being influenced by certain non-emotions, that is, by a thought, by a memory or by an image.

My research on the reciprocal manifestations of bodies were subordinate to the idea of exposing myself without fear to a different form of existence, corresponding to a different characteristic of my being: I always substituted myself to a private initiative, that of continuing to seek what I always forgot would change completely. It could be said that I lived with an intensity that surpassed the power of perception of the banal. It was all the more difficult for me to leave the emotions of "Eureka" that fed my reality.

Leadership: Do you keep looking for what you always forget changes completely, or are you trying to change everything before you notice what eludes you?

What changes completely are not things, but rather the state they trigger. The placing of things between the Ego that needs occasional challenges, majorly defining the anchors of your identity in relation to life, and the context in which you realize that you depend on that limited resource that makes you go forward. This resource is called: power of choice.

Instead of focusing on a fulfillment whose first essence includes the idea of achieving performance in a certain field, we should rather observe the ways in which we can fulfill our need of exploring what surrounds us, based on the idea that for our infinite achievement the infinite presence of things is also strictly necessary.

Trying to make a big change in the reality you perceive in your daily experiences, before you notice what eludes you in the order in which things are placed, is similar to painting an apple tree without thoroughly analyzing its taste. It means to be concerned about an idea that is seemingly interesting, but in its essence is poor from the lack of subtlety and emotional load.

Things are goods, bodies, values, products of a world from which unknown universes are created, if you relate to them through the state of mind they create, through the emotion conveyed, through the curiosity sparked, proving themselves to be mentors that help you in various situations, guiding you in the process of creating your own world.

Or, to quote the great Romanian writer Alexandru Busuioceanu: "Things exist. Their achievement is within me however, same as my own achievement is within them. From the shadow of the world will always spring identity and this adversity, an eternal creator of new identities: Me and things. Behold, for I am the one creating the Universe.

Nothing from what is visible or invisible is born in any other way than from this contact between myself with what I am not, everything reabsorbed into the relative hallucination of things. And if one would be absent, the other would be absent all the same. For each one faces within the other its own achievement."

Leadership: Are you on the side of things whose value gets lost through constant use, or on the side of things whose value you are aware of only when you lose them?

The expansion of understanding existence, the way through which a guiding realization can be achieved, is done through the invisible force behind all tangible things, which, by anchoring itself in the correspondent of the inner world offers a great deal of non-monotony, curiosity.

Personality is related to what is reflected within, reacting to what you receive from the outside, without letting yourself be overwhelmed or deceived by those precarious states of mind that make you abnormally curious about any nonsense.

Your achievement as a man of great originality depends not only on the quality of things you create, but rather on what side of things you are.

Are you on the side of things whose mastery dares to be refused? On the side of those things whose intense beauty inspires you and makes you think? Or on the side of those things you see with different eyes before putting them in their place?

To what extent do they influence your way of manifesting your personality?

Leadership is the personality you can win in the context of sorting things that never prove the same during "the course of life".

Things Lose Their Value If They Are Made Too Easy

On March 03, 2008

Even in the face of universal wisdom, prejudices and cultural barriers can obstruct the path to mutual understanding and progress.

It was getting cold, but even if we had had wood, we wouldn't have dared to light the fire. So we huddled together and talked, offering each other some comfort, sharing our grief over the disappearances of Talma and Enoch, and giving each other some hope as we discussed a vague future; I with Astiza, and Ash with all Egypt.

- The Mamluks are exploiters, it's true, he admitted. We could learn some things from the French scholars, just as they learn from us. But Ethan, Egypt needs to be run by people who live here, not Frankish rosalies.

- Can't there be a collaboration?

- I do not believe. Would Paris want an Arab on the city council, even if the imam had the wisdom of Thoth? Not. It is not in the nature of things. Suppose a god were to come down from heaven with answers to all questions. Would we listen to him or crucify him?

Leadership: Can you view death as the last and grandest of your tasks, reflecting the importance of the end you mark in a work of art, where the end point adds the deepest meaning to your entire existential journey?

- We all know the answer to this question. So to each man in his place, right Ash?

- And wisdom in its place. I think that's what Enoch was trying to do, to keep the wisdom of Egypt locked away: where it should and as the ancients decided, even if they could make stones levitate or people live forever?

- Things lose their value if they are made too easily. If any nation or man could build a pyramid by magic, then it would be no more out of the ordinary than a hill. And live forever? Anyone with eyes can see that this is against nature. Imagine a world full of old people, a world with few children, a world where there is no hope of progress because every office is filled with venerable elders who have been there before you for centuries. This would not be paradise, it would be a hell of prudence and conservatism, of outdated ideas and worn phrases, of old grudges and unforgotten contempt. Are we afraid of death? Of course. But it is death that gives way to birth, and the cycle of life is as natural as the rise and fall of the Nile. Death is our last task and the greatest of all.

Leadership: Can the context of a world dominated by the elderly, correlated with the risk of excessive conservatism, be balanced by the vision of a continuous cycle of innovation and revitalization, similar to the perpetuation of the cycle of life?

In the landscape of personal and cultural development, the concept of ancient wisdom, such as that preserved by the ancient Egyptians, reflects a balance between preserving knowledge and adapting to new paradigms. Just as the levitation of stones and the eternity of life are concepts that defy nature, oversimplifying the creative processes, such as building a pyramid by "magic", would diminish their value and uniqueness. Imagining a world dominated by the elderly, we see the risks of excessive conservatism, where outdated ideas block the progress and innovation needed to revitalize society.

Death, though feared, allows for the continuous rejuvenation of society, similar to the fluctuations of the Nile, essential for the regeneration of life. In this context, death is not just a loss, but a task that opens the way to new beginnings, a natural element vital to the perpetuation of the cycle of life and cultural innovation.

Leadership: In the idea that the eternity of life can be perceived as an impetus to innovation, how do you relate to the concept of death as a natural element, seen through the lens of a visual representation of rebirth?

In my efforts to understand the eternity and wisdom preserved by the Egyptian culture, I faced the same dilemmas as the heroes of classical literature, who had to choose between the desire for immortality and the acceptance of the natural cyclical nature of life and death. Every structure, be it a pyramid or a belief system, loses its relevance if it is exempt from the challenges of change. As in the stories of old men who block progress with their outdated ideas, our world would suffer if it refused to allow the death of old ways of thinking to make way for the birth of new ideas.

Death, with the fear and respect it commands, is central to cultural and personal dynamics; it clears the human landscape of redundancies, allowing evolution and innovation to thrive. In this sense, death is not only an end, but an essential means for regeneration and progress.

Leadership is constituted as a newly paved road, a process of receiving an authentic image on the development of science. where the end is just the beginning of another spiritual and cultural chapter in society.

Things lose their value if they are made too easy, especially when challenging science and the effort required to effect change are essential to cultivating a new perspective on the world and its possibilities for progress.

Things (I)

On March 19, 2016

Turn towards the north of a view that draws attention, exchanging with the exterior only flows of mystery and glamour.

I was manifesting an acute weakness for infallible things, variables essential for performance, renewing processes triggered in my mind and conscience, of which I should talk about daily. But, as an intruder strolling around through the creations of an always active spell, I accepted them only as an effect of my own obsessions about a reality built only for the sake of gaining a different identity.

Things, endless deposits, the sum of types of information reunited and extended in a compact frame, visually captivating, are heroes who prevail despite appearances, mirrors of infinity accesses only by seeing the bigger picture. Ask yourself questions and answer them truthfully: who forges them from the chaos of the world, from the torment of the soul, other than yourself?

If you do not see them, neither will others. At least, that is the way a writer thinks enchanted by the reverse world, a hermit soul between an end and a beginning, trapped in the chains of the prison called "All-mastering Intervention". An endeavor done in order to obtain something impossible to see by eyes other than those of the man stood between two infinites, between matter and antimatter, between pure and impure.

In the depths of a mind unifier of information, completely opposite from what it should normally be, there is the idea that you must always turn back to the north of a view that draws attention, exchanging with the exterior only flows of mystery and glamour – these two cardinal points that dominate the world, inspire feelings and change of any kind around.

Leadership: Do you have the advantage of being at the height of the uniqueness of going through the "Science" program by activating the "Active Objects" option as opposed to a whole journey from everything that surrounds you to everything that keeps you connected with some impossible expectations?

In a book of Edmond Nicolau, it is communicated to us that in the year 1962, a rocket launched by the USA fitted with devices sensitive to X-rays led to the discovery of a beam of Roentgen rays a million times more intense than was expected and had their origin not in the Sun, of which was thought as being an emitter of X-rays, but rather in a distant point of the universe, a star from the Scorpio constellation, which doesn't normally emit light.

Over time, I began to see things as expectations pushed beyond the impossible, originating from a hidden light from a distant point of the world. Things which I engulfed in the vortex of forming a new order, in a bookish, fictional journey, in a universe of the novel where the beginning is mistaken for the end.

Basically, things have become the subject of a separate science from which I have discovered the angles of vision of another way of referring to existential situations, of making myself heard, of expressing myself in an academic language, of looking at myself as a holder of a particular knowledge. Leadership could begin its journey through knowing things from one end to another through direct intuition or "inner sight", because everything that has a shape is a cause or effect to be taken into account for the foundation of an immutable psychology.

Activating the "Active Objects" option within leadership involves rethinking fundamental notions by determining the differences between what he sees and what is really there. And the only science that can contribute to this approach is to otherwise arrange reality, integrate a world of disparate forms into large, unitary compositions, with an ordering power that only a lucid spirit can have.

Leadership: Can you find those differences of things that reflect some of the universal truths of life by including them in a phenomenology that has at its core the question: "what exactly do you manifest in your reality?"

Constrained, I have sacrificed everything for the sake of visual-conceptual transformations from the perspective of a step forward towards the foundation of knowledge based on the blend of things and advanced physics, even if we were not a magician of mathematical formulas. The ultimate goal was the discovery of the truth, of the essential correlations and of the depth structures of the phenomena.

I have committed the sins that only my science can forgive, because I changed the traditional landmarks of leadership, universe, discovery, magic, and its effects. Now, everything must come to light, because the whole world already knows it anyway.

Leadership, bordering the passion sparked within the soul of man by the idea of seeing the world only through experiences of understanding and arranging of things on a chosen channel, and which permanently tends towards this idea, complies with judgments stemming from incomplete or limited information. Judgments that include reflections however, imaginings, feelings, obsessions.

The latter actually hiding the true and profound reality that dwells behind the life of man. Of the man who wants to guarantee the revelation of unique truths, in one way or another, expressing his functionality through writing, orally, through artistic means, etc.

However, leadership can reflect the approach made to obtain something impossible to see by eyes other than those of the man stood between two infinites, between matter and antimatter, between pure and impure. Those unseen are destined for the "All-mastering Intervention" which holds the ability to concentrate information in the consciousness of others.

What you manifest in your reality as a form of knowledge is associated with those things that you control from the perspective of what you want them to become after you have emotionally attached yourself to them.

Things – for a writer are everything that can be perceived around as true in a dimension of fiction. For a scientist they are the marks of a new type of knowledge. For an artist, they are the hallmarks of a powerful emotional intelligence, depending on how he personalizes them and enlivens them with every movement of the brush. For a leader, things are the cause and effect of some choices made consciously.

Can you forge from the chaos of the world, from the torment of the soul, those "Active Objects" that participate in changing the reality you represent? Be careful, for they can represent your new identity in the form of principles that are being printed in matter – in the matter of words, thoughts, deeds, and intellectual creation.

This Is How Dovjenko Was Established As A Director

A visionary mentor can turn meeting a young filmmaker into a moment of artistic consecration if he succeeds in discovering and encouraging his hidden potential.

The active and combative spirit that characterized the Russian director Sergei Eisenstein was manifested not only in his own creation, but also in his responsible attitude towards the entire cinematography of his homeland. Dovjenko's case is instructive. A year after the film "Potemkin" was released, when it had already become famous in the world, Eisenstein receives a call from the representative of the Ukrainian film office: "Please come. Please come and see the movie that was sent to me. It's called Zvenigora and nobody understands anything."

Eisenstein leaves. A lot of people. In a rush, he shakes the director's hand. He finds out that his name is Alexandr Dovjenko. The projection begins, and the screen reflects an opera about which Eisenstein thinks: "Holy God! What can't you see here!" Then he cringes at the thought that after the movie is over, he'll have to find something clever to say.

But he's starting to like the movie. He likes it more and more. He is now certain that a new filmmaker has been born. The light comes on. Eisenstein is with Pudovkin. When Dovjenko comes up to them with a shy smile, he is rewarded with a warm and sincere handshake in a burst of joy. Eisenstein rejoices with all his heart.

After watching, run through the foyer from one group to another to praise the film. This is how Dovjenko was established as a director. Eisenstein's enthusiasm, which helped the new filmmaker enormously, does not stop. Arriving home, he burst into his friend Strauch's room: "What a formidable boy came from Ukraine! What a wonderful film he showed me!"

Leadership: How can the initially incomprehensible projection of your creation become an opportunity for the discovery of a unique vision?

Eisenstein's active and combative spirit turned him into a mentor who not only perfected his creation, but also became a fervent supporter of the entire cinema in his homeland. More than once, his responsible attitude made him a source of help for young filmmakers. In this regard, Dovjenko's case is instructive: after the screening of the film Zvenigora, which no one seemed to understand, Eisenstein discovered a unique vision in his work, revealing the exceptional talent of a new star in cinematography. Isn't that right? In every new artist discovered is a reflection of the legacy of those who guided him.

In the end, the meeting with Dovjenko became a joyous experience, in which Eisenstein, enthusiastic and impressed by the young man's talent, began to praise his creation wholeheartedly, thus ensuring Dovjenko's consecration. And his enthusiasm did not stop there: when he got home, passionately sharing the news with his friend, Eisenstein described himself as a genius discoverer. It is understood from this that Eisenstein was not only an outstanding creator, but also an active supporter of the fundamental values of cinema, his spirit helping to promote and encourage a new wave of artistic talent. Two of these values are: artistic innovation and narrative coherence.

Every creator is a star in the making, and those who discover them are the artisans of the cultural sky. In other words, in the cinematic universe, the active and combative spirit of experienced masters can identify the birth of a new talent by careful observation of the screen. Initially, Zvenigora's projection seemed unclear, but gradually Dovjenko's artistic brilliance began to reflect more and more intensely a deeply original vision. In turn, the film community, through Eisenstein's responsible eyes, watched that discovery with rapt attention, and the confirmation of a formidable new director became a moment of collective celebration. Extraordinary moment, isn't it?

Like an astronomer spotting a new star, Eisenstein ran enthusiastically to promote that wonderful appearance in the artistic firmament, receiving the shy smile of the new creator with a warm handshake. And if the joy of discovery shone like the light of a nova, then Eisenstein, as a seasoned observer, assumed the role of enshrining and supporting Dovjenko's newly identified talent. Therefore, any talent recognized at the beginning of the journey becomes a bridge between personal aspirations and the echoes of a community that supports it.

The moment of artistic consecration arises from the enthusiastic support of a creative vision, correlating with the impact on the entire cinematographic community.

This is how Dovjenko was established as a director, in a gesture of sincere recognition on Eisenstein's part, knowing that genuine talent must be unreservedly supported so that new cinematic voices can flourish. Therefore, one can talk about an exemplary artistic mentorship, in the form of disinterested and enthusiastic support, admitting the fact that great talents are born from the encouragement of those who discover them.

This Is My Wisdom

Be ready to take your leadership to a higher level, through an extension of the experience of finding something real, of which you can very well be doubtful of.

One of my little cravings of enriching myself intellectually, doubled by the force of experiences of knowledge Meinanserba(full of dreams), was given by the attempt of drawing a ditch in time, through the years of a final clarification with life, with people, with a thinking almost forgotten, a sort of imaginary return in each step of the history of the world. I wonder if the relationship between artist and the art of writing can be given by the facts and data, interwoven in time by the woken and conscious reason, when you remain stationary for longer than necessary inside a world in which you don't recognize yourself?

My patience was put to the challenge every time when, in the mirage of a meeting with older or newer heroes, of which I'm sure you'd like to read about, the force of the intellectual in me burst towards am investigative "given that", as if waiting for an imminent verdict from random distributions of events. No one could know how long an eternity of a moment in another would take, when your shadow is carried through an accessory of effect called: disorientation.

Leadership: Can you overcome the impression of monotony of realism, creating an artistic vision that captures not only visual complexity, but also your inner subtleties and contradictions?

For each detail, for every small acquisition of findings, spread over the entire plane of certain thanks and accusations of old mentalities, corresponded the depiction of short escapes from the landscape of vision of the world, from the perspective of something in which I was and was not. Without direct involvement, but with effects over the suggestiveness I tried to build and exceed altogether.

Condemning me to a much too harsh sentence, according the philosophical, scientific, dogmatic, cultural, and religions findings and contradictions of past times, for which an artist would easily ask himself the question: "What is the distinctive trait of the realism if the sole purpose remains the signaling of a visual perception of things and events, without taking note of their negative part?", I would get the strong impression of gray. Which I now wanted to share with you all.

Leadership: Can you put yourself in the position of short escapes from the landscape of a vision of the world, comparing what you know from the perspective of something in which you are and are not?

Here, for example, was the thinking of Victor Hugo's century, deceptive at times, making me believe that everything had an explanation, but not really one that was easy to accept:

"To give up the earth in exchange for paradise means to give the sparrow from your hand for the crow on the fence. To let yourself be deceived by infinity. I am nothing. My name is Mr. Count Nothing, senator. Did I exist before I was born? No. Will I exist after death? No. What am I? A handful of dust made into a body. What is my purpose on this earth? I have a choice. To suffer or enjoy myself. Where does suffering lead me? Into the void. But I will also suffer. Where will delight lead me? Into the void. But I will have had joy in my life. I have a choice. You have to eat or be eaten. I eat. It is better to be a tooth than to be grass. This is my wisdom."

Walking unsure with the key of what I have noticed on the path of returning to the ages, in vain for the latter acceptance of thoughtful renewal, I continued my effort of finding forgotten truths. With the only mention that the fitting of things and conceptions in the equation of my own being, in the middle of a comfortable life of a man who masters the art of discovering and changing meanings, through everything I say today, will be taken out of the context of the analysis of tomorrow. It is better to forget the past than remember it, if you want to experience the present. This is my wisdom.

"Something in which you are and you are not" translates through the effort of acquiring a vision of renewing your inner world by realizing that this world can become the focal point of a story that takes you to other worlds – of the great creators.

For a better explanation of the consideration of my perception in the limits of a knowledge lacking experience, but persists that dose of understanding and acceptance of foreign points of view, well-argued, there needs to be a comparison with what I already know from the perspective of what I am or am not. Or from the perspective of what I have or have not.

In leadership, this translates to building certainties on the support of diversified expectations: optimistic or pessimistic.

Leadership is an extension of the experience of finding something real, of which you can very well be doubtful of, positive or negative, from which lies a certain wisdom – a sum of perceptions that, reinforced through repetition, become defining constants and thus create the typology of a distinct personality.

But matching certain perceptions, arguments and concepts in the equation of your own being, without a direct involvement in the action of reality, meaning when you remain stationary for longer than necessary inside a world in which you do not recognize yourself, leads to a completely uninspired result that determines your isolation. The more you find out, the greater your disorientation is and the harsher you become when judging things.

The wisdom that emerges in the history of a creation is an extension of the experience of learning something true, of which you can doubt as well, with the fact that everything around you exists along with you in a game played with reality.

"This Is My Wisdom" says an accomplished intellectual who, by reading and learning, reacting through a balanced judgement of causes and effects, manages to better self-analyze himself and realize what kind of man he is: a man of the past, present or future.

This Is What It Means To Be An Artist

On December 31, 2020

A true artist mirrors the high expression of his soul in generating a creation that has the power to transform his destiny into a personification of the splendor of nature.

The rose is the manifestation in art of my own existence, but only when I guide my sensitive existence, full of emotion and imagination, after the expression of a certain inner logic that follows the form of devotion to the value of a moment lived in the light of avant-garde creation. Spirit of first artistic rank, the rose depicts the character and expression specific to the colors that feed the living soul of a work of art born beyond moral compromises, beyond relationships with the environment, beyond any metaphysics of precious essences, luxury perfumes and transcendental explanations.

Obviously, between me and the rose there is a feeling of great purity, an authentic approach to the artistic phenomenon, a perfect correspondence between the plastic language and that border space between text and reality. So that all that His spirit urged me to write here, wisely, with much admiration for the height of expression, becomes the sign of a complete self-giving in a metaphysical universe that transcends form and alchemizes substance, to send it back into the stream of Universal Life.

Here intervenes the relationship of resemblance to the lucidity of another artist of words. Because everything I say now about the rose, through the correspondence between interiority and subjectivity, was well portrayed by the writer Paul Auster in the novel "The New York Trilogy":

"That knowledge transformed me, I think, and made me feel more human. Belonging to Him, I began to feel as if I did not belong to everyone else. It turned out that my place in the world was beyond myself, and if that place was in me, it was just as impossible to locate. It was the tiny space between Ego and Non-Ego, and for the first time in my life I looked at this nowhere as the precise center of the world. And then came the day when art dominated my creative instincts, allowing me to push them to unimaginable limits."

Leadership: Are you able to bring at least one of the archetypal forms of nature to the rank of original image, perfect and sublime, through an approach to reality on the border between figurative and non-figurative?

It can be seen that the rose, barely blossomed yesterday, provides me with an additional affinity for the consciousness of a being impregnated with instantaneous imagination, open to the sublime of a writing that is hard to forget. Somehow, he completes me unconditionally, praiseworthy, naturally, by the living presence of a deterministic, narrative seed of creation, which, if I considered an exploration of the meanings carried by colors, it would be easier for me to understand the importance of divine symbolism, sensitive, multidimensional, syncretic, necessary to know the phenomena of transformation of the laws of art into laws of the soul.

Very true. Any talented artist is the highly expressive seed of a rose that puts him in constant proximity both to himself and to the world of universal creation in which the antagonistic forces of the spiritual and the material face reconcile, in any case, housing the version of the divine symbol that transcends time, appearances, the boundaries of reality.

With unspeakable consideration, in concreto, I accepted this knowledge of artists concerned with the metaphysical side of a world influenced by symbolic becoming, considering it necessary to integrate art into my life as a promised deliverance from the sin of not being listened to when needed by the gentle laws of creation and progress. And I think that here takes place the divine call of the artist who, with tenacity and care, has learned to contemplate from the outside the beauty hidden in simple things, in the smallest details, in every soul that wants to approach his own.

This is how it is when you receive the role of an artist led by the sacredness associated with the rose. It is like living the experience of a game of light and shadow that can be endlessly replayed with randomly generated worlds and quests through a landscape approach on the border between figurative and non-figurative, between what is felt and what can be it does, between what is seen with the naked eye and what is related to the metaphysical part of my existence.

God has always liked roses. The most.

Leadership: What is the maximum expression of an artistic inspiration that promotes the idea of a work created according to models already existing in nature, in accordance with the character of the whole that distinguishes the essential part of your self?

Yes, I accept this aspect as a kind of exchange of souls between two mutually aware individuals, as an optimal possibility for personalizing a thought of supernatural revelation in which the concern for knowing nature that must be allowed to evolve further is particularized and realized. The rose, of high poetic attire, soaked in a fine cloth with the sweat of Sisyphus tier creative efforts, scented with the light of a star twinkling in slow-motion, was easily integrated into my work of art, just as I very well integrated the effigy of symbolic projections into the harmony and purity of nature.

Therefore, I believe that the maximum expression of an artistic inspiration that promotes the idea of a work created according to models already existing in nature, through the relationship between the empirical aspect and the original aspect of the ego, is the feeling of empathy strictly related to artistic-aesthetic knowledge (the necessity of a meaning that must be expressive).

And here's what happened. I spent all morning talking to a Double Delight rose, not knowing what the tendency toward unity is or the differentiation tendencies that might be in conflict with the empirical ego of the artist in me. I spoke as if to a friend, free, relaxed, with an inner nuance, the dialogue consisting in a kind of concomitance between the aesthetic attitude crossed by the feeling of deja-vu and the high degree of spirituality of a feeling that often leaves you without words.

I realized I was like a rose. I realized that they are the symbol of connecting worlds beyond external reality, the bridge between them being a juxtaposition of "two distant realities" united to create a new reality. Now I know why I live by divine grace, to live more by the spell of animating a familiar otherness as a spirit, than by choice or by chance. That is what it means to be an artist. An artist with great power of significance.

The essential part of my self can be given a whole character when the significant improvement of the perception on the perfection of the "Work of Art" has as a reference point the increase of sensitivity to the stimuli of external nature, coming from the surrounding environment.

This Is What It Means To Be An Arist, to make sure that the expression of your self results in the image of a work of art with high resolution, able to reveal the depth of composition themes, triggers of new horizons of knowledge, through metaphors and fictional characters.

This Is What Practical Spirit Means

Be the man kept a mystery by the result of your work embodied in a creation that, through the certain value of the represented genius, makes known to all the will of God.

In France, the frond spirit had sharpened. This could be seen even after the warmth with which the Parisians surrounded Benjamin Franklin. He had arrived in Paris in 1778 as a delegate to the United States. He was 72 years old, he was fat, bald, the nobility had been shocked by his lack of manners, while in the eyes of others his direct way of speaking and behaving, without a trace of perfidy, attracted their sympathies from the get go.

And when Louis XVI finally agreed to receive him at Versailles, the French were finally conquered. The old Yankee had defied the Bourbon protocol, going without a wig, without a sword, in the same brown coat and brown trousers he wore in the city, with his steel-rimmed glasses on his nose. His biography, known to everyone, was told as an adventure in itself, amazing, fascinating.

*He had been a soap maker, printer, bookseller, swimming teacher, teller, publisher, physicist, merchant, banknote designer, writer, philosopher. He had the courage to capture lightning, inventing lightning rods, but not so much because of this "rod" that protects the cathedrals of fire better than God was he admired by the French, but for the multitude of very useful small mechanisms, which he made from nothing. Everything he undertook was immediately found out, becoming a permanent subject of admiring comment. Wasn't the idea of making a "mechanical arm" great? Franklin had built it himself, and with its help he could take any book he wanted out of the library, from the top shelf, and bring it to the table beside him, without even getting up from his chair. This is what practical spirit means ! **

Leadership: Do you give yourself all the dedication to capitalize on a receptive creation to the new, so that the living image of the thinker who comes in contact with your ego becomes a moralist of existence?

Obtaining a clear and correct opinion of human quality is essential to make a comparison between admiration and praise, these two being the means of evaluating an artist in terms of the story of his life which is as interesting as he is. The diagnosis of the relationship between creation and the spiritual valorization of life, made by uniting his image as a creator with the background of a new vision of the world, can be achieved through an in-depth analysis of the personality side of one who knows how to turn his life story into a journey towards "God's gift".

Although there is no firmer test for quality other than the triumph of creation that sets you free, to the joy of self-fulfillment, clearly indicating the presence of devotion to culture, to the benefit of God's request to save the world through total change, there are many more causes and reasons that can help assign the diagnosis of "rare human vocation".

And one of the causes is related to man's failure to find his place and meaning in a world that seems meaningless. Therefore, he wants to change his condition as a simple man, in the story of an extraordinary man. He aspires even further than that, why should he be a mortal like all other people, when he can become immortal by what he leaves behind?

Man must make his mark on the evolution of the world, making his spiritual power develop very much on the same wave as that of the Creator of the Universe.

I ask you, reader: what is the spiritual inheritance that God has given you and that you will leave to your children?

This legacy is the very mystery of creation, the wonder of creativity and invention. Remember that, as someone rightly pointed out on the web, the world was created and given to man to transform the life of the creature into the life of divinity. Also, a miracle of God can be explained and transferred to children through the stimulation of creativity (which supports the first steps in the field of research). This especially is part of the spiritual legacy you leave to the whole world. Children must be deeply shaped by lasting spiritual values, such as enlightenment, freedom, curiosity, creativity, inventiveness, in a true journey of self-discovery.

A moralist of existence is a creator who is guided by the noble idea of progress in the name of universal values of humanity and in the service of promoting the values that define the idea of a creative approach called for progress of science and of all humanity.

This Is What Practical Spirit Means: to put faith and the creative spirit in a place of honor in the formation of a vision that will ensure progress in knowing a new reality at the level of virtue, at the level of understanding the will of God who wants to transform the world into a better place. A place of cultural, aesthetic and human dignity.

This Part Of The Movie Went On Too Long

The essence of leadership in editing lies in the ability to balance different visual elements, such as alternating close-ups with wide shots, to create a coherent experience for the viewer.

Arriving at the editing stage, Eisenstein begins his usual improvisation. He now finds shortcomings in the construction of the film, his mistakes. He realizes, for example, a lack of clarity in the battle montage composition. For the viewer to be able to clearly follow the action, strong points of support are necessary. However, at the editing table, he notices an omission: the multitude of close-ups is not enough to create the real sensation of a battle. The general plans that clearly depict a mass of combatants penetrating another mass are missing. And he has to shoot an entire table scene in addition.

Clarity in the presentation of the battle depends, he now realizes, on the clarity of the alternation of its phases. Watching the montage of the fights, he becomes convinced that this part of the film went on too long. That's why he wants to cut 200 meters of the film. But he's not allowed to, and so this scene, supposed to be a total perfection, is actually two hundred meters longer than the director would have liked.

Clarity in the presentation of a scene depends on the balance between close-ups and wide shots, which provide the viewer with visual reference points.

"In cinematic architecture, creating an effective montage requires careful planning and a deep understanding of visual narrative. Directors, like landscape architects, must consider both the 'natural' elements of the film, such as the action and emotions of the actors, as well as the 'constructed' elements, such as shot composition and camera movements.

A balanced composition of a battle scene involves the judicious use of close-ups and general shots, creating a pleasing visual rhythm and a fluid flow of action through the frames. The choice and placement of shots play a crucial role in defining the different phases of the fight and creating anchor points for the viewer.

An effective film production leader must be prepared to compromise, sometimes accepting decisions that are inconsistent with his original vision, such as the length of a scene.

In the process of improvisation at the editing table, the director, like an experienced landscape architect, can identify shortcomings in the 'topography' of his film. He can see that the dense 'vegetation' of close-ups is not enough to create the real feel of a battle, requiring 'open spaces' in the form of general shots that clearly depict the masses of combatants.

Clarity in the presentation of the battle depends on the balanced alternation between different types of frames, just as the beauty of a garden depends on the alternation between open and closed spaces. Repeated viewing of the sequence may reveal excessive extension , similar to a too-long garden path, which would require 'trimming' to optimize the viewing experience.

In the end, even if the director would like to 'sow' 200 meters of his film, external restrictions may limit this option, resulting in a more extensive 'cinematic garden' than its creator originally intended."

Clarity in the presentation of a scene depends on the balance between close-ups and wide shots, which provide the viewer with visual cues designed to guide attention to the essential elements of the narrative.

This part of the film stretched too long because Eisenstein needed extra time to shoot the missing general shots, knowing that these shots were essential to render the clarity and scope of the action in accordance with his original artistic vision. Of course, the role of general shots goes beyond simply completing scenes, by creating the overall perspective necessary to convey a sense of scale and drama.

Those Children Of Time's Whisper

On January 07, 2016

Enrich yourself with an advanced knowledge, heading towards the ensemble of the world with your whole personality and spirit.

The entire world finally started to observe through a willful obscurity of a time that does not let you change your mind, what they should have seen clearly earlier. In the universe of truth seekers, whose microcosm I discovered myself to be, forged in the heights of a heaven destined for travel through the ages, they have made the most convincing evidence of an advanced omnipresence.

Divine power, lenient through its assistance and support, whose eternal serenity directly reflected in the composition of all living systems, greeted me through the hundreds of channels it had at hand. And it always whispered to me immortal stories.

But who speaks of the heavens of yesterday? It was pure in heart, giving passion to life that makes you live. Now the represention of a point in space, like a dream that only the Morning Star could maintain through its brilliance in the dark, can be interpreted as a distance measured in the tears of all those children of time's whisper that still borrow a compass from the Supreme Being – like an invisible life buoy.

Like crystals protected by an enclosure with insulating walls, the children are now detained in the prison of another time, crossed by a strange alliance with conformism, changing along with it false energy flows.

Leadership: Do you reflect upon what motivates you to become a better version of yourself in a context like: "the others are just passing by"?

I realized that the whisper is nothing but a vision of God beyond the world, calling for finding great kingdoms with causality or of analogy, sometimes by suppression, removal and denial of any ideas. The power of a whisper is a terrible bait. For once it has conquered you, from its first listen, like the Jasmine attracts you with its scent, you duplicate into an Avatar. You become the manifestation of a deity or spirit released physically on earth.

I believe in the sincerity of Ioannis Anghelos' words, comprising a wealth of hermetic knowledge, the summation of many mysteries of life, in the memory of a memory paraded amongst the stars:

"All my pride was shattered. Maybe I imagined that before the world I am better or more important than others, not only due to my royal origins, but due to everything I have tried in my life, escaping from one desert to another to seek God along the treacherous road that people walk. And I forgot that I am also a man."

Leadership: Can you give life to a higher being through a completely new experience, escaping from one desert place to another?

The one who allows to be worthy by the sight of a world in the making, listens to the whispers of the inner voice that propel him above the axis of time, oftentimes warning him of a possible higher power.

Such a being, located above the space of time, plurality and becoming, who understands and practices leadership based on findings that gathers the most convincing evidence of an advanced omnipresence, can easily diminish its confidence in what is passing.

It is the same feeling experienced by mountain climbers. The one who reaches the top of a mountain, above which only the sky can greet you, trying to perceive that unseen facet of the world and things in terms of freedom of interpretation without borders. He can turn the new horizon which opened before him into a higher spiritual approach oriented towards excellence, towards shaping in the spirit of authentic creative values, not of imposed rules.

To get closed to God means to recognize yourself as being part of an immortal story from which will be inspired all those people that believe that everything that defines you is comprised of memories, imagination, and dreams.

Just in this form of relating to what lies beyond the visible world, manifesting in the present that you do not know, it is possible to recognize the absolute essence of an imagination placed in the service of analyzing the reality and evolution of the world, favoring the finding of hidden truths.

And the discoverer of the future, trying to deduce through imagination and intuition unclear truths, guides his steps not only by the light of his accomplished intelligibility, but especially after signs left by the passing of time. Escaping from one deserted place to another, into high dimensions, he will be able to formulate new judgments on the whole world. Have you reached a knowledge beyond ordinary perceptions?

A deserted place, where consciousness does not perpetuate varied states of the soul, actually signifies that reality that carries within itself the memories, gentleness, and meaning of the chaotic space between the heavens and the earth. Here you cannot find the worry for tomorrow, just as you cannot give a meaning to what happens to you. Yet you can feel better about yourself because any initial impression you've made of humanity and the earth is an imagination of the godliness in you through the Logos.

The world you pass through the filter of thoughts can be understood as a sort of reflection of what happens in a complex reality that gives the impression of total vision, when the things you believe in are the creation of a God that continues to accompany you through the darkness of a labyrinth simply called "Life".

In the category "Those Children Of Time's Whisper" is every person who hears the echo of his thoughts, outward opening doors to a special world. A direct influence of "seeing from the height of depth" the representation of a new world is suggested by man's evolution through time, until he manages to duplicate into a great being.

Thoughts In The Corners Of Memory (II)

On July 01, 2022

Science and art are the keys that open the door of time to your ancestors. Only science and art will help you find your afterlife in this life.

Never make decisions in unexpected moments. Such moments have the gift of teaching you something about yourself. To forgive. And get over it.

Be honest. With you, with the others. Every moment you are not you, you become someone else who does not resonate with you or with others.

Until I know how to kiss a girl, I don't even know how to dream of her.

To create a strong Brand before becoming the symbol of a high science.

1+1=2; 2+2=4; 4+4=8; etc... For some, science adds and multiplies values endlessly. In others it has absolutely nothing to add or multiply.

A rose placed next to a wise man forms a divine symbol.

Because you write without feeling...and you don't feel when someone else feels something about your content.

Whoever did nothing for science, did nothing for God either.

When everyone goes down, someone always goes up. And it climbs so high and with such force that no one and nothing can bring it down.

Happiness is the support of courage in faith.

Beyond perfection lies imperfection, just as God was not perfect when he incarnated in man.

Don't try to read a book without getting lost in the lines others have written about themselves.

Time is on the side of those who know how to use it. The same with regard to science.

Be irreplaceable ! Even this is an art that needs an artist !

A song must inspire the right people at the right time.

For a confirmation of your fragility, it is enough to reject this world and its Creator.

Look around without taking your eyes off yourself.

Knead the clay you have at hand before kneading words springing from the precipitation of an unforgiving time.

Try to understand each meaning assigned to an art that begins with the recognition of a man trapped in a cage of fragility.

Learn to be yourself through the image of a character who is different from you, but who lives a story similar to your life.

Whenever you want to say something, think your words through a mirror that increases their importance and life span.

To choose your words just as the painter mixes colors to get others.

Because of pride you will never understand the word "love" which is the foundation of the universe.

Whatever you do, do it with art, so that you find in it that power that deeply moves and captivates all attention.

If you are a true artist, promote your artistic skills tactfully and take your art to the end.

The rose is specific to arid areas. In the place where a rose grows with roots from another world, everything around blooms profusely.

Everything is closely related to Ancient Egypt. It all started from there.

It took me about 20 years to understand that a trivial point can be a continuous line in a circle that endlessly increases its circumference.

Some imagine that they have a bigger role than they can assume, really.

Everyone has their role. Otherwise we would have no term of comparison.

The man who has something to change, let him change ! The man who has nothing to change, let him change !

Here is the difference between the small and the large.

A statue remains still because it is made to be patient. Even patience is made of stone.

A patch of grass. You wonder: why is it green in color? Because green has the quality of making you feel good in any situation.

Weigh the intelligence of your gaze through the admirable eloquence of eyes that do not change over time.

Everything is revealed to you in due time. You just have to know how to interpret, just like in a dream. To see in two worlds, through two realities.

Be good at everything, but be exceptional at only one thing. And this exceptionality becomes more and more obvious as you practice patience.

Learn to highlight your gaze away from the proud eye area.

Big Science is the core of a star that never reaches the end of life.

Life is a star in the constellation of science. Without science life could not have acquired the brightness of a star.

Every man expresses his satisfaction with his choice.

You rarely meet someone capable of lighting a star in the sky. Even less, to maintain its brightness.

Watch everything very carefully, but pretend you don't notice. Sometimes that means being a man of great character.

Treat art as if you were looking at the fence of a garden full of flowers and imagining yourself surrounded by the walls of a fortress full of soldiers.

Pay attention to what you like about yourself as a way of seeing the world in a way that it doesn't tell you anything. You will find yourself in the middle of an atmosphere of absolute serenity.

Look around and you will understand everything, provided you are aware of your qualities.

In vain you look at everything that happens around you if you do not notice what you are capable of experiencing through the prism of other people's experiences.

He looks around at everything that is going on, without paying attention to anything in particular. It doesn't matter what you see, as long as you are not prepared to reflect on what is happening to you.

You look at the sun in vain if you don't catch a glimpse of its rays in the sea in which you are sinking.

Look at some people, and you will see them so happy that they changed their car. But in the field of science they never changed anything.

Be a universe before you build your life the way you dream.

The world around is just a stone that you can't polish if it can't get up off the ground.

Only he who devoted himself entirely to understanding everything understood everything.

Patience is the indispensable condition for the acquisition of great science. Leave everything and follow your calling. Then you will be free.

If you don't know how to write a story, don't even think you'll ever be able to live one.

An artist's existence can only be grasped by comparison with the stillness of nature, but it can be understood by entering a turbulent world.

To understand that beyond all understanding is just a dream and a star. The sun illuminates them both.

To take science to another, much higher level, that means creating a strong connection with the Universe.

To learn to capture the essence of things before learning to see what is not visible to the naked eye.

We look at ourselves and forget the world. We look at the world and forget ourselves. We forgot what we're looking at.

Stay true to yourself even when you doubt your own faith. Even when your faith is tested, you remain the same wonderful man.

Learn to remain yourself, always the same, in front of a mirror in which everything seems to be something else.

Art is the strength of the one who knows how to defeat himself through a constant affirmation of sensitivity.

Kind of hard to go in two directions at the same time. Feeling like you're somebody doesn't mean you're that somebody.

Mirror yourself in what cannot be seen, in the poetry of looking at an imaginary point.

Artistic creation that invites full admiration includes the possibility of conveying discretion in the culminating reality of "yourself".

To have total control over the Great Science, so that science becomes the embodiment of the unlimited power of a Creator of Worlds.

You must live among such stormy words that you do not allow yourself respite to concern yourself with another world.

The really hard roads are the ones that no one realizes at the right time.

Try to come to an agreement with yourself, seeking the freedom to live intensely every moment of thought addressed to your creation.

Don't try to find out everything until you are ready to really understand yourself.

Do not think of yourself as a small man until you have become a great man.

Be present only where you are, in the plane of a lively representation.

A painter of great talent never abandons his taste for beauty, just as a writer of great expressiveness never finishes his sincere words.

The man who has nothing left to discover, nothing to create, nothing to change in the field of science, is a man left behind.

Every moment of your creations must be due to an enormous effort to master yourself.

Be the art with which an artist lights his way to the fulfillment of countless lives.

Never live more intensely than the creation with which you fuel your ideal world.

Only in the field of art can the soul of God be discerned.

More important than discovering a secret is appreciating the value of simple things.

Nothing is harder than renewing every moment the meaning of simple things.

What a simple thing lacks is belonging to a world similar to yours.

The hardest thing in the world is to be an excellent master of simple things.

Few are those who have discovered the secrets of art, and much fewer are those who have contributed to its understanding and promotion.

Those who demonstrate an ever-improving resistance structure will have a wider perspective on an exceptional destiny.

Those who think too much are totally surpassed by those who don't think much. Look and see what happens.

If you want to really know God, ask yourself how you contributed to the development of art and science.

There are people who think they know everything. Maybe they really do know everything.

Prayer is the representation of a noble image of oneself in the midst of a creation that inspires much power.

Great people are not great for nothing. Great people are those who have nothing, and still manage to have amazing achievements. It is the little people who have everything but fail to do anything extraordinary.

The man who does not always step forward is doomed to fall behind. Some seem to be made for this: to stay behind.

The great strength of art is an act of transcendence of the creator towards what is spiritual in him.

Don't let even a day pass without taking science one step forward. If possible, a step as big as possible.

A man of great faith is a man who devoted himself with great passion to science and art.

The most valuable creation of an artist is the story of an infinity that does not find its denouement.

The highest form of manifestation of the energy of the Universe is produced through the playful character of the act of Creation.

The true artist is a formidable Creator who never finishes his story of Creation.

The whole direction of the art depends on the resounding theme that you consider worthy of all the admiration of the term "yourself" placed in a spiritual perspective.

Before you outline a personal style of making art, settle for the distanced experience that aesthetic participation in an imaginary universe can give you.

Don't try to be an elite performer if you're not ready to take your performance to another level.

Opportunities are everywhere. You don't have to run after them, they surround you. You just have to notice them.

May you only have lucky days and always be lucky, without proposing anything in advance.

The most important theme of the art is the invitation to be yourself in a purely spiritual existence captured in a small and discreet space.

Every great creator has as a correspondent a dose of artistic madness.

Only those who embrace the artistic phenomenon in its entirety can perform in the scientific field.

Art is the firmest foundation in terms of spiritual science.

To leave everything to chance, and chance will do everything for you.

There is a saying in leadership: you must have all the assets. To have all the levers, all the anchors and all the practical means of Creation.

The first rule of leadership: By the time you make up your mind, someone else has already stepped forward.

To live and manifest only through creation, if you want to win the sympathy of the things with which your soul identifies.

Artwork is what unites a creator with a clairvoyant.

You have to live a long time between books to understand the speech (of all languages) that they share with you.

Have more confidence in your science than anyone else has in theirs.

To see in a mirror what the mirror has to say.

Whoever immerses himself more in the secrets of art will assimilate the experience gained to the spiritual background - which means progress and evolution.

The deeper the artist penetrates into his inner world, the more a new world will open before him, far superior to the others.

To know how to observe and eliminate confusion from what you observe.

In every field there is someone capable of taking a bigger step forward.

Otherwise humanity would have been hundreds of years ago.

Inspiration manifests itself as a helpful tool for triggering the creativity that man needs to expand the universe with ideas and discoveries.

Where do you find your inspiration? First, why would inspiration need you?

More important than doing what you love is doing something with what you love to do.

The hardest thing in the world is to accept always being the same you. Then follows the characterization of the origin of this interpretation.

Only those who dedicate their entire life to the act of creation will truly master the world of art and its secrets.

If you bring out the sensitive side of the man, the man will try hard to prove that he is a strong man.

To know how to observe and eliminate confusion from what you observe.

Before you change a world, learn to take any field of science to the next level. A whole world evolves only thanks to science.

If you want to have a great impact in the world of science, you must produce a great echo in the course of nature.

Never play with fire, especially when you know that fire has a twin brother named "Lightning".

Lightning and fire are like painting and penson: you have to know how to handle them and what to ask of them.

You just have to get to the point where another point jumps in to help you. Two points coming together create a telling explanation.

When two great forces unite, only then is the "Strength of God in Christ" discovered.

Sincerity is the light of the flames that are extinguished under the pressure of words.

The star of lovers shines only under the luck of unfalsified truth.

The wandering of a moment without love rang only in soapy ears.

Advance as much as possible, as correctly and efficiently as possible. And move forward without considering yourself inferior to your worth placed at the service of the development of science.

You work hard for nothing if your hard work will not be recognized as the work of a brilliant mind.

Some people never change. And the universe thwarts all their plans, as usual.

Perhaps it was the coronavirus that saved the world, or certain people, from a much more serious threat.

The message of the coronavirus is firm: Science has taken power from those who for hundreds of years have fenced it off.

If you are good at something, the world knows about you. If you are the best in a field, everyone knows about you.

The virus. Some it completely silences, others it gives a huge opportunity to assert itself with an irresistible force.

Don't try to be a creator without first being a creative response to the challenges of science.

Only those who create universes are able to understand the fullness of the beauty of the Infinite.

Can a single man have the ability to orient a science in the direction he wants, through the secrets of a legend that has come to life?

You always have something to learn from what's inside you, more than anything else.

What you learn from intense study is nothing compared to what you learn by accident.

From heaven to earth is a distance contained in one lesson about God.

You can't know if you don't understand.

Is it possible that a single man has the ability to steer the Great Science in whatever direction he wants, through the secrets of a lost sacredness?

The longer the crisis lasts, the more productive you are in working from home. It will be a very productive year.

The universe is supported by those who know how to make science a diary from the box of infinity.

It's not enough to be strong to show that you care...

Don't wait for the perfect moment to strike when you want it to. Perfection is not based on your expectations of the right moments.

You need 20 years to understand that you could have understood everything in one year that no other year can experience like the other years.

Writing without giving life to a concept is like moving the steering wheel of a car in all directions without moving in any direction.

What is artistic is always aesthetic, because it depends on the tendency of the eye to admire the wonderful work of nature.

Dream... and never stop dreaming. And the universe will change a whole world, just for you.

Eternity is the art of always remaining the same "Superlative You", in any space and at any time.

The universe happens to be with you... while you read 1001 nights, in the swing, in the sun. Calm, no worries.

Thoughts In The Corners Of Memory (III)

On July 02, 2022

It's one thing to sing from the "pain" of a general trend, it's quite another to know how to make art ... even from a grain of sand !

Perfection is the secret geometry of form and background, in no case a color thrown at random.

The one who stands is always overtaken by the one who steps forward. And the one who takes a giant step forward is always a representative of science.

So few are determined enough and protected by providence to discover the Infinite Perfection, but also what the invisible, the abysmal, the labyrinth of the human condition makes visible, ethical and aesthetic.

There is a level at which, when you reach it, you are no longer interested in small games. You want to play only the big games according to your worth !

While some grow old and disappear into the void, as if they never existed, others rejuvenate and secure their immortality !

If you don't rush to do a certain thing on time, you risk not enjoying the benefits that result from it.

The great revelation of art is to see what everyone else misses !

If we looked carefully at everything that surrounds us, we would realize that we live surrounded by art.

Be a peerless ignoramus, until the universe opens a secret door for you. Enter it without any fear, and then you will understand everything.

Those who maintain the infinite, and those who do not know the secrets of the infinite. Eternal life in the universe. A universe well integrated into all universes.

"The only way to educate a real man is to give him the opportunity to seek, work and provide for himself what is necessary." Tagore, Rabindranath

Following an inner call is the revelation of a God who gave life to man to reflect and support the evolution of his science.

you always have something to learn from such gloomy weather: don't be a cloudy cloud that creeps forward with ill will.

The beginning of a great failure is to appear too soon in the limelight. The fact that you have a glimmer of the moment does not mean that you are a genius, but it is only an encouragement to go in search of a new and pure world.

One of the most important lessons I have learned so far is that you will never learn leadership by reading personal development books. First activate your creativity and personal affirmation function !

God is the interface between faith and science. It represents the confidence in accomplishing a goal close to the limit of the impossible, but you must have the discernment to choose the right moment and the right means to achieve it.

This is also a special kind of closeness. Not all at once, whoop, whoop. Approach the right person slowly, without your presence feeling disturbing. Like a cat. That's right. Elegant, unhurried, easy, a little at a time, without elbowing, without stepping on people's feet in this crowd, without insisting...

If the old are getting lost more and more each day, it is because the universe is hastening the time for the young to completely change the mindset of the world.

To be old, so old that you do not recognize your old age, its ignorance and impotence in the face of the laws of chance.

Dream... and never stop dreaming. And the universe will change a whole world, just for you.

The discussion of the concept of art can be concluded with a simple question: what is the perspective starting from the act of creation?

Beauty cannot be anything more than what it was originally given by nature to be.

Among artistic successes whose merits do not belong to us, we must distinguish artistic failures to which we do not pay attention.

Some grow old and die, some grow young and live forever.

You will not gain your freedom in Heaven until you attain perfection on Earth. Big Science is the only way.

You will remain a prisoner of "that's how it was written" until you are able to write your own escape from the book you didn't write.

The real job is learned years after you finish college.

From everything you create try to make a masterpiece, otherwise your creation will remain just a composition without a melodic line.

It's something you feel intuitively, wanting to be a faculty of the soul that knows things before they take any form.

What you experience in front of a mirror makes the mirror effect increase its intensity.

Thinking in agreement with feeling is the framework of a peace of consciousness that makes you forget that time passes.

The word gazer is similar to the gaze of the eye following an image reflected in a mirror.

To rule the word in such a way that it rules a whole world. In the beginning was the word.

Art without the artistic word would have meant a world devoid of sensitivity. You will understand all the secrets of art only when you are able to build your own secrets.

The simplest LEAD for a company that sells dresses: "Think of me the way you think of yourself".

A great soul recognizes its greatness only in front of its double.

The only and most important condition to truly understand art is to be a Creator.

To make art a science, so that the artistic part of your creation opens the key to new emotions, approaches and interpretations.

The great alchemists are those who know how to make Alchemy out of everything.

Great people are the little people who have patiently worked their way to greatness.

Great Science is only for people who recognize their greatness in the field of creation.

The Great Science can be experienced in the same direct way in which you experience what is related to Creation and the Creator.

Art is the lost symbol of Great Science.

Whoever understands art from the perspective of the creator cancels his condition of being finished.

Art deserves a view of infinity through the beauty of creation of great depth.

Only the one blessed with the gift of practicing a special art, has the power to change a science and push it forward.

Only those who take science to another level can be called knowledgeable, but not omniscient.

Tell me in which direction science has moved because of you, and then we can talk about God.

Art is the intensity with which you perceive an image before translating it into creation.

There are two kinds of people: those who change the world and those who are changed by the world.

A single man can change a whole world, only if he makes that world the organ of a single whole.

Those who want a lot go in the direction where their value is recognized. Those who want little do not have the value that attracts more value.

He who does little understands little.

The beautiful can only be brought out by someone beautiful, with a good soul.

Only those who know are entitled to talk about things that no one knows.

Science is the illustration of greatness in the plane of immortality.

I started writing the first book strictly related to futuristic art. I haven't decided on the title yet. It is a shame that such an advanced science that I have acquired over time is not condensed into a volume that strongly individualizes my experience and talent.

A man can change an entire world only through the power of Great Science.

Even the rain speaks to you in other voices, you just have to understand it.

Great science belongs to the angels, or to those who know how to live forever.

Fire, water, sky and earth are meant to come to the aid of the one who knows how to include them in a single Creation.

Great Science bows to the one who knows how to handle it best.

You meet an old man who all his life did not understand what Creation is, but who identifies with wisdom. Hilarious, isn't it?

Don't think that you will be late somewhere, because no matter how fast you arrive, you will always be too late.

Why stand out in the crowd? Let your heart beat with a state of intense joy... Maybe it's nicer to choose a quiet place, where you can see everyone very well.

When someone suggests "let's write a book together", you instantly realize the level of knowledge of the person concerned.

A true thinker does not need anyone's help to shape a literary work, no matter how laborious it may be. This is because he is aware of his abilities, in which resides an imagination of great originality.

Have you ever heard of a Victor Hugo proposing to Alexandre Dumas to collaborate on the publication of a book, even though they were born in the same year and in the same country and even though they lived only a few streets away from each other?

The great titans never mix their gifts with each other, no matter how close they are.

P.S. When you are made such a tasteless proposal, remind the individual that:

THE MAN WITHOUT A BOOK DOES NOT HAVE THE ABILITY TO WRITE ALONE.

There is no competition in leadership. You have to be so good in one area that everyone else stops comparing themselves to you. Your triumph will be secured without fighting a single battle, without shedding a single drop of blood !

You win precisely because you have no competitors ! You keep your direction forward and all the roads open in front of you without encountering any barriers.

If you are trying to compete with someone, or if there is even one person in the world capable of competing with you, it means that you have not come very far with the science of leadership.

P.S. I was never a violent man. I liked winning without starting a fight.

And I just saw myself with a former university professor. How are you? What other achievements do you have in the field of science?

"Well, nothing..."

My conclusion came instantly: A man who does not change the coordinates of a science from one day to the next, he will never be able to call himself an erudite.

That's why a nation goes downhill, because it has too many teachers and too few scholars !

Do not run away from obstacles, they can lead you to success if you know how to avoid them. You either run away from them, or you avoid them, right? However, both options are for weak people. Only the strong overcome any obstacles, but they never avoid them or run away from them. Don't run away from obstacles, you should know what this means: if you keep saying you practice athletics, well, obstacles are like an athletics test. Many lose the race there. After you run, you have to jump, otherwise, whatever comes your way, you have to face it, you're sure to end up better in personal confusion. I apologize if the text was difficult to understand, I know for sure what I wanted to convey.

So many people take pride in material wealth, but none move their thinking in the light of science. What they lack is the power of the glorious work that endures forever. We die every day with a little of what we wanted and didn't succeed, with something of what we read and see that it doesn't happen to us. Like it or not, we live from books and with the unconditional support of the people around us. Life is like a roulette: you spin it, but surely it knows how many times it spins until it stops.

Every night the darkness repeats, the sun always rises. Nothing changes. Here is the difference. Darkness has its role, if you lived the day you were programmed to. It's bad when it comes and you don't have what you want.

Don't expect the stars to grant your wishes when you want them to. It would mean that God would submit to you completely. I mean, you think you just clap your hands, and immediately God obeys you like Aladdin's lamp? Do you really think this thinking will pay off? So the stars send you luck when He sees fit, and you have to be on your toes and not miss that moment.

Never forget this: luck comes when God wants it, not when you want it. You will never be in a position to set conditions and terms for the One who controls fate.

But that's how many people are, angry, arrogant, because their wishes don't come true exactly when they want them. This is because they put themselves first, and ignore any divine act. Selfishness is the true problem of the world.

Whoever has knowledge, takes science further. He who has no knowledge gets nowhere.

The universe always spiritually binds the truly good in various fields. All heaven and earth come to the aid of him who masters the Great Science better than anyone.

Only artists make art. And you can be an artist in anything you set your mind to, only if you manage to bring everything to the level of art, even to avoid, with intuition, unpleasant situations.

To trust the stars, first seek to understand the science of astrology, the science of navigation, the science of maps, the science of topography, and the connections of cartography with other sciences. Otherwise you will not understand anything.

Some say astrology is not a science. But understanding automatically implies access to science. How can you predict the future if you do not know the movement of the stars in the firmament? Can you talk about something you don't know? I did not say that everyone understands astrology, but that astrology is not a science. But understanding automatically implies access to science. How can you predict the future if you do not know the movement of the stars in the firmament? Can you talk about something you don't know?

Whoever trusts in the stars is free to trust in green horses as well, each one chooses how to carry forward the science of tomorrow. You talk about science as if you were in the top ten scientists. Those who are really scientists go and reach high peaks and make discoveries. The simple folk learns more about them when they no longer exist, but they are consecrated. Did I say that one is not free to believe anything? Besides, I addressed only those who think like me, and who approach the process of scientific exploration. Do you explore science while running? Really?

Fortunately for me, I didn't do ballet, I practiced athletics, I earn my living as a result of this aspect. I admit that I do not consider that I have anything to do with science. For this reason alone, no one measures their watch by how many running steps I take. I remain of the opinion that science is a field not just anyone can get in, and those who get there don't have time to talk about it morning, noon and night. I think you are missing a detail: I did performance sports, athletics, I work in the field of sports, I spend and have spent a lot of time, I'm the last person you should talk to about this.

Who said that I have to hold conferences about sports here... possibly post my diplomas in the field? The fact that you post the time in which you cover distances does not mean that you are a sportsman. There is a saying: horses also run. Yes, of course. Even the horses take part in riding contests and equestrian competitions. I think they have sport in their blood, something more like people. But every time science does everything. Running well involves how you breathe, at what time and level differences you change the way you breathe, how and when you increase your pace, when and how you move your arms, when and how you lift your knees, how you hydrate, what salts you take to keep warm and cold, how you should go uphill on one terrain or another, when you should increase your pace, when you should step up your rhythm, etc. Otherwise you are not performing at all. There is a science to everything.

As you say, we can keep writing to ourselves. At this rate, someone has to stop us. Please spend some time among performance athletes, and you will see what they talk about all day and all night. You started the topic about sports, it can be seen that you write a lot about your sports life , and in this case how can I be the last person you need to talk to about it? (Especially when you say more than anyone about sports).

The man who possesses superior spiritual power is the one whose science traverses a part of the infinite in the macrocosm.

Whoever contributes to the progress of science constantly finds something new to discover and show. He who has no knowledge discovers nothing and has nothing to show.

No matter how cold it is, always be where you recognize yourself to be. In training there is no fakeness, there are no mirrors to admire yourself in, there is no audience to applaud you. You are alone with your thoughts. You can't lose, you can't win. You just feel like you found the strength to be present in a place that taught you that you can be so much more than you are.

The nights have their charm. Know how to listen to the darkness, every little light... And never lose sight of the lucky star !

Being where you want means you are a free person, falsehood always exists where there are people, individuals, there is no need for mirrors, only when you run alone are you with yourself, otherwise people always have opinions about everything.

A fire sign is recognized by the fire it carries inside, and which is released only through energetic movement !

Some are always on TOP, others are always on a DOWNSLOPE.

To take science to another level. And if you succeed in producing this holy alchemy, in the form of the "Great Work", then the Universe will give you a shining star over all the ages in Eden.

The really important change will come from the direction no one expects, precisely from the person no one expects.

There are only a few days left until the New Year. But in these few days, so much will change in the world. Don't get overwhelmed by routine or transition. The Internet never sits at the table for holidays, it never gets tired for a moment. Technology can change radically in just a few days. Most of the world is still unaware of the power of the Internet and programming languages. And surprises appear precisely during the holidays, when most of the world is partying. Happy Holidays !

Thoughts In The Corners Of Memory (IV)

Be able to see what is in front of you. And everything you need to see lays itself before you.

The moment the sun turns redder than ever at sunset, then know that everything will turn red in the world. Many will also lose their lives and property. Imposture, greed and corruption will disappear. Artificial Intelligence will be the world's only ally.

Who is more prone to scientific advancement and intellectual progress: the individual who constantly contributes innovations, or the one who shows no notable contribution?

Whoever has science does everything for science. He who does not have science does nothing for science. Nothing, nothing, nothing...

He who has rich knowledge reveals more and more aspects and nuances of his knowledge and experience. He who has limited knowledge can offer nothing to the world.

He who thinks he has any power may choose that in fact he has no power. Real power comes from how you use your sight so that sight becomes a light in the darkness.

Know how to see as well as possible, and if you don't see, nature will see for you. Every blade of grass will always tell you something else, if you know how to read nature's book. This is the spiritual part that few touch in the Sea of Knowledge.

People gifted with the grace of knowledge have a special connection with divine gifts. Impostors will never reach the precious sphere of great knowledge. Like divinity, the bright sea of knowledge is not revealed to anyone.

The man gifted with intelligence triumphs in any confrontation using only the power of words. When arguments are lacking, the unwise man resorts to brute force to prevail. You must also be superior in this battle of will and determination.

Humans are equal in a harmonious mathematical whole. Only those who leave the equation of equality become unique factors that enrich the diversity of the human spectrum. 3 + 3 = 1 x 6

If you think you know how to see, rest assured that someone else knows how to see much better.

In history classes, portrait sketches of various rulers or state presidents are briefly presented. The class ends, the students, bored with laborious explanations, are already thinking about the party on Friday night. That's pretty much what the great leaders were all about. Computer games are infinitely more interesting. Then the attention turns to the infernal queues of people, who pay a minimum of 29 euros 5 days in advance, who wait in line for another 2 hours, just to see the ceiling painted by Michelangelo some 600 years ago. Now, do you realize the vast difference between all the rulers of the state, all together, and one Creator?

The only one who really matters is the one who knows a lot and shows the world everything he knows. The rest come and go. Princes and princesses, kings and queens. Young and old. As they come, so they go...

Some take science to another level, others go nowhere.

To do in such a way that your creation is more beautiful and more successful than God could make it.

Only then will you truly understand art, and only then will God put a star in the sky for you.

A truly gifted man is a man unsurpassed in the world. And he knows only one thing: I learned absolutely nothing from any teacher. Everything I know I learned only from myself.

You love art in vain, you, man of finesse and refinement, if you don't know how to make yourself a work of art. Artists without their own creation are like a violin without strings.

When the madness begins, everyone will lose their fortunes. And many, not just fortunes...

Thoughts In The Corners Of Memory (I)

On July 01, 2021

A memory that could help you keep your brain healthy is generated by maintaining momentary thoughts that persist as long as the occasional artist's patience is maintained at an acceptable level of intensity (which does not disrupt life).

It is remarkable that when the clouds approach, along with rain, everyone maintains their joy on the mountain terraces. Last night, when the bear alarm sounded (Ro Alert), everyone was panicking in the area. I didn't see any bears, although I was standing on the street where the bear was seen.

These deeply significant reasons for danger will always be encountered in different forms. Sometimes the help of the ready to intervene at a critical moment will be missing. I say something else. All these are the recurring themes of a debate that describes the great adventure of the spirit.

I believe that, after all, the dangerous and difficult work of self-knowledge is the least adventurous path of ordinary routine.

Life lived throughout time is more important than life lived when its time was due. Sometimes the happy ending is ridiculed precisely and only by ordinary mortals, whose false representation of life is the moment lived in the present.

The happy man unites with the man who suffers when the feeling of individuality of appearances stops the mind in the face of some high-impact event. And there is only one secret cause before the understanding between them: the mind absorbed in the spectacle of life.

I think everyone around me is listening to what I'm talking about, and I think that's how I started listening to everything around me. Nature is the outer covering of my thoughts, everything around me is the chief spring of my nature.

Great people are the ones who have nothing, and yet they manage to have amazing achievements. Little people are the ones who have everything, but they can't do anything great.

A man who does not measure his wealth in the processes of creation and scientific discovery, is such a poor man in the eyes of the universe.

Whoever did not know how to appreciate the time gained will have to appreciate the time lost.

The whole subject listens to the scientist who seeks with a pure heart what is alive in ruins.

Seek to master the high values of science, through art, before reaching financial intelligence. This is true spirituality.

Whatever you enjoy doing, do it as if you had an artistic task. And do it so that science is the testimony of the artist.

You have educated yourself to always place yourself in a wide dynamic ! Get moving quickly and resolutely when everyone else is resting ! And thus, you end up ahead of everyone else...

All are wise, yet not the wise man, said the wise man. And if all are wise, yet not the wise man, then there is nothing wiser in this world than not being wise.

Observe man's anger before seeing his joy. The man who does not forget his anger will also not be able to find his joy.

Build no false idols, meaning, never see others as being better than you. You are and have always been better than everyone else. Never forget that !

If I had to write a treatise on art, I'd probably call it: "A Thousand Treatises on Art".

From far away again I see you, Closer now than from afar, And closer now my being to you, A small request I thrust upon: Please never ever go so far !

Any parting breathes the desert air of a sandcastle demolished by the flight of an allegorical bird. You could write anything, but if you don't write, you won't get anywhere with any idea.

I keep emptiness away from my passage through it, aware of the wounds that loving with my mind can bring. Silence is an empty bench waiting for its old age. Or old age is an empty bench that can't stand its silence.

If a vase full of flowers is poured on the sand, then every flower, no matter how delicate, turns into sand... and the vase is too made of sand, and back to sand it shall return...

Don't try to be like the characters of your favorite writer. Be the favorite character of the writer in you who thinks differently about his life.

On the saxophone, the wanderings of the soul are always rendered in high autumn notes.

A well-chosen perfume betrays a tempting look, but not every look can feel the perfume capable of inspiring it.

The beauty of nature includes the scent of linden, which you inspire with the serenity of a meditative mood.

Silence never guarantees the return of time in an hourglass.

Pride is a tree that no longer blooms, but always stands towering.

Don't be a wiseguy if you know you're not a smart man.

The defining law of knowledge: The easy thing you can do is often the difficulty others struggle with.

The silences released from love hide the mirage of a picture painted with sleepless dreams.

The real winners are those who make changes in the size and content of science.

To change a system, you need to call upon someone outside the system. The system is only changeable when someone denies it any dogma.

The great secrets are revealed only to those who appreciate the simple and accessible things that surround them in everyday life.

Never step too hard on the gas: you risk getting too fast to a place that doesn't make sense.

If you do not know how to look in the right direction, you will never know where you stand.

The love and passion we have in ourselves is the song sung by the choir of longing for ourselves.

Be perfect only where you are number 1 in the world. And not in any other direction.

It's not about "being there." But you have to feel good when someone else is silent.

It's not about what someone wants and can offer you. But you have to believe what you don't see.

If God is a perfect Creator, then only the most representative artists can understand Him.

All science in the world relates to three major indicators of results: Experiment, Creation, and Discovery.

The man who does not engage wholeheartedly in a story will never be able to be called the main character.

Never stray from your native talent. It's like leaving God.

Always do what you love, and you will never work.

To feel ... to have a healthy look ... to remember ... to discern ... to choose what is meaningful.

There are people who, no matter how much science they have, still bring nothing innovative in science. The true purpose of science / sight is to increase the potential for creation.

The success achieved too early is the failure suffered in the face of increasing performance.

The most complex indicator of increased performance is patience.

The secret of Kabbalah is like the clear sky: it encompasses all the stars, although not all are visible.

The image you give to the world about you may be like those things that are amazing, but are never picked, because they do not bear fruit.

No smile comes from a wise but arid desert.

Learn from every passer-by, as if you were just a passer-by.

Whoever makes big plans will be reoriented by the much bigger plans of the universe. Be the change the universe demands.

If you don't get close to things when they're hot, it's going to be so hard to get close to them when they're cold, like ice.

Whoever fails to see the signs of God has probably not learned the lessons that life has already given him.

What you give, you receive, with warmth or coldness. If warmth and light were not to your liking, then you will endure the cold and the darkness.

Dare to always be yourself, so that everything you care about is not so hard on yourself.

The friends you choose will decide your future. So, mathematically speaking, if only you yourself want to decide your future...

Mirror the beauty of your soul in generating a creation that has the power to change your destiny into a star. That is what it means to be an artist.

You will receive what you deserve in this world when your only stake is the kingdom of heaven. The whisper of angels is for this world.

Turn the performance of your activities into a refined art that will contribute a thousand years to the development of the world.

Words are a religion of knowledge based on duality and nonduality.

Too many elders go without doing anything for science and for God. They did not understand life because they lacked the knowledge of God.

What you never forget is what you experience when you dream. A powerful dream is never lost into oblivion.

What you consider to be an undeniable reality may in fact be a warning to awaken consciousness.

Learn to make noise in my heart so that the hearing of my words will open like a flash before your thoughts.

Better a broken mirror than a double mirror... the first sees you only at one time, the other sees you in two different places at the same time.

You will never feel freer from uncertainty than when you sense a moment of calm experienced away from the world.

Know everything that you shouldn't have known only at the cost of your forgetfulness. To know means to appreciate the cure for many pains.

The most precious triumph of the discoverer is the immortal deed. The fate of a legend reflects the passion for bold action.

The man who cannot command matter to obey him will never be able to be called a scientist.

See what your senses allow you to perceive in that pressing moment, then try to guess the unlikely things that are not seen.

A man of endurance is more precious than a man of strength. One who excels in one field often manages to decipher mysteries and make important new discoveries in other fields.

It is difficult to understand what no one else could understand. And even when you understand, no one will understand you.

Change the subject that you know you can't handle very well, otherwise the subject will turn you into a different person.

Wake up in the morning as if you weren't sleeping at night, and see if you can dream of anchoring yourself in reality. Today's outcome is tomorrow's revelation.

Remember who you are and what race you come from. Don't forget your holy origins. Listen carefully, watch carefully, and try to understand what lies behind all the riddles of the world. The key is that rose red.

The act of creation is similar to the construction of a painting for which the painter highlights the continuity of his life in history.

Keep the worldview in the retina in a moment of inattention. You return incessantly in a moment that escapes your gaze.

The only true image of this world impresses with a blurred look. The eyes must always withstand the fall of night.

Colorless eyes always have a blank look. It doesn't matter what the eyes say as long as they reflect wilderness.

Take science to another level, in the name of progress. But first be a visionary !

Few are born victorious, but only those born victorious occupy a good place at the forefront of great destinies. The sun can be seen both when it lights the sky and when it lights the earth.

To surpass the abundance of your creation, carefully gathering any crumbs of reality, with seen and unseen connections between them. Time is never right to make a match between the created work and the creative process.

Know how to make a science out of any science, replacing the "old" with the "modern". He who has the faith called science will turn everything into an extension of thought in the form of science and technology.

When everyone falls, someone strong gets up. And he rises more and more, because he has decided never to fall. Good writers do not find inspiration in famous quotes. Their very life is the story of a thought that is always reinvented.

You can reach the root of a truth when you wander alone. The book is the large room with a splendid view of a river of universal memory that feeds the meaning of your life.

All possible subjects of art cannot bypass the subject of creation, just as the work of the Creator cannot bypass the center of the universe. More important than the words drawn from the experience of life is the story in which life swallows your words.

When God plants a rose in one place, that whole place blooms as beautifully as possible. Slower today, faster tomorrow. The important thing is to find yourself where you formed your character. The wisdom that God has placed in human life is the power of understanding a suffering that seeks relief in an autonomous reality.

Candor is the expression of a heart that generates an easier understanding of the experience of extended consciousness.

Stay who you are without changing for who you could become. Be the same even if you are not ready to stand still. Be a creator with a chocolate heart, so that your art can inspire that sweet taste added to science in favor of life. Don't be saddened by the story of others, but turn it into a real fortress built on the idea of increasing the quality of your life.

A man of words is an artist of color matching. Be careful not to become a color that is hard to describe in words. Those who do not believe in your words are the same people who do not know how to speak. Words have the gift of being understood only by those skilled in the handling of simple things. Too much pride in a word, which is true, too proud. Too much pride in a word called pride. I carefully earned the right to utter a word called "pride" that could propel me before others.

What doesn't come in time...never comes again.

The first rule of perfection in art is to know how to see what no one else is able to see.

Know how to see in a single grain of sand always another look, without ever consuming your look. This is Big Science.

Whoever proposed a new vision of science, and whoever achieved a great step in the evolution of science, will gain the brilliance that the universe gives to its stars.

To find Aladdin's lamp, you must first be Aladdin.

To take science to a very advanced level, while others helplessly witness the change made by you.

He who rules science also rules the expansion of the universe.

To make leadership a true art, for the Great Science to memorize as a representative unit for eternity. And only one can do that.

To trust the stars, first seek to understand astrology, the science of navigation, the science of maps, the science of topography, and the connections of cartography with other sciences. Otherwise you will not understand anything.

The universe always spiritually binds the truly good in various fields.

All heaven and earth come to the aid of him who masters the Great Science better than anyone.

True faith has nothing to do with prayers, but with science. The one who moves the boulder is not the one who prays, but the one who finds an effective means of pushing it.

The uninspired man always waits for the lucky day. The man of action does everything possible to make every day a lucky one.

And the one who takes a giant step forward is always a representative of science.

And who did not propose a new vision of science, and who did not achieve a great step in the evolution of science, he will not gain the brilliance that the universe gives to its stars.

If one person in the world succeeds in completely changing one field of science, then all other fields of science will change radically. A single man, born in a lucky sign.

When all fall, someone strong rises. And he rises higher and higher, because he has decided never to fall.

Think a little. How many thousands of codes appear daily on the Internet, made by those who have the desire to help others. But now think about another aspect. About hundreds of thousands of other really brilliant codes never appear on the internet. Only those are the really brilliant codes, but which should only help someone who knows how to benefit from their thinking... The important thing is to leave at least some scraps of code behind, something that helps them a little and others.

An unfinished journey in love is a prayer that contains the word "removal". So let's get closer...

I am not for the end. I am for infinity.

It's hard to make art without being an artist, but it's even harder to be an artist without making art. Art is made by artistic people, you can be an artist in anything you set your mind to if you manage to bring everything to the level of art, even to avoid, with intuition, unpleasant situations

There is nothing but infinity. And you only need one point, even smaller than a needle point, to build infinity. He who has understood this has all the knowledge of the world on his side.

There are two kinds of people: those who initiate change in the field of a science, and those who have not understood the motive for change, nor the value of Great Science.

You have to know what to read if you really want to learn anything from books.

You have to be lucky to meet the lucky cards. Or, better said, let them find you.

Never look for a diamond in a garden full of flowers.

It's hard to talk about art if you don't know how to make art.

The man who does everything for science and creation is a man tried by God.

Creation is science's answer to the question: who is God.

The man who returns to the past is the man who has no future.

The man who has God in his soul also has the ability to create out of nothing.

The true artist has the character of creation seeking the Divine.

The most precious memories remain where you formed as a winner ! ! Two champions, each unsurpassed in his field. It all started from here.

The man who does not know how to see cannot be called a visionary. You have to know as to understand.

I welcome the initiative of the faculties from Cluj and Timișoara to scan all the books in their libraries. Especially these two big cities, with very good faculties, started scanning all the old or new books since 2011. Over 35% of a total of about 145,000 volumes have already been scanned and classified.

Even licenses and doctorates are already entered in a database (in pdf format) and many appear on the internet. I think someone open-mindedly asked, "Why should the student's work lie dusty in a closet, and be forgotten, when it might as well serve as a source of inspiration for other seekers? information on the internet? "

In addition, it is much easier to detect plagiarism if you have a database of scanned works and books in pdf format (Making A PDF Text-searchable).

Thoughts Rarely Confessed Around Art

On February 02, 2019

In art you must feel the indirect presence of the painter in full creative process, but at the same time you must see yourself as the survivor of a deserted world.

I was trying to see everything from the point of view of a shadow over a part of my life, specific to a writer's solitude in relation to the act of creation, before proceeding to the successful crowning of an innovative way of thinking. Before attempting to recreate a foreign reality of everything I had experienced before, loaded with the mystery of a suspenseful narrative, it was the very experience of an art anchored in the tumult of life.

The shadow symbolizes the hidden aspects of the self, referring to those parts of my personality that have been rejected by the clarity of a visual artistic image, a support material for the poetry of a painting that the viewer had to judge after the cause of formal inertia, the glory of some special moment, emblematic and full of emotional load.

I had never been absorbed in the implications of such a strange chiaroscuro of the ambiguity of the state of mind, in the face of a moment that seemed to bring together many different dimensions and realities in one place. Any attempt to get closer to art was a simple experience of deduction, a search for another being in its own memory, black and deceptive, with a certainty that puts a new instance in the circuit of the fictional world: "The Perfect Metaphor".

The theory of artistic knowledge is naturally based on light, as most of the arts are visual. But in this case, it seemed to capture a corner from the inferno of a resurrected empire, a subject that can only be handled by the Science-Fiction Project of a writer who uses the word in the sense of the essence of a physical and moral entity beyond the boundaries of a conventional creation.

To this phenomenon of assuming a twilight ambiance I tried to give a shade of mystery, a complex intrigue, intelligently dozed suspense, for my art to get thriller accents with many themes to think. The fastest way to develop an area with the potential to attract viewers was to capture myself in a perfect black and white that places the picture in a wider framework of thought and reflection.

Leadership: Can you imprint a new meaning of the visual image that harnesses the suggestions of a structuring metaphor so that you adorn your art with the quality of fulfilling exigencies demanded by emotions?

Art loads you with meaning, but also with tension. When everything is seen as a wave of fog, as if drowning your whole existence in a field of significance impregnated by the introspections brought to the area of a sinister phenomenon, you are entitled to admit yourself into the skin of an artist who attributes new properties to things they do not depend on the external illumination, but only on an innovative way of looking at them in an isolation context.

Certainly, the perfect metaphor that fit my small incursion into a poetic self given to an abysmal introspection could be expressed as: "the deaf and deep pain of a lost mind".

The visual image created here points to the negative of a life that accumulates the greatest mystery: the purity of facing reality, ego, pain, fear, destiny, whatever it is. It does not portray the face of an anxious man, but that area of emotions within its being through a thickening of the coat, through the predominance of cold and wiped colors (gray, blue).

One of the requirements imposed by powerful emotions and revealing a comparison on what defines you as an artist is the ability to see within your model a different side to your nature and a different side of the same suffering that binds both of you.

It was quite difficult to define the projection of my presence in a sort of a "place out of nowhere" from the utopia of thoughts, dreams or memories experienced as experiences of access to a new state of self-consciousness, one of a "monthly" type. But not impossible, because in art matters more the plan of sensible perceptual expression from the context of the concrete experience than the context of the revelation of the role of a personality forgotten by the world.

In my case, I think that abstract expressionism could have gone as an initiative to build a transition area into another realm, described with the sobriety of the erudite historian as a photographic retrospective approach that includes the nostalgia called to embody the image of a reality absent from daily life.

Art centered on applying a form of captivity to the states and opposing thoughts between which the individual pendulates, actually marks the shift from a dramatic effect, without illumination, to the cursive narrative course that allows for the knowledge of a new human hypostasis and a new reality.

Leadership: Can you see the world beyond the character that represents you, by manifesting a state of consciousness that fully assumes the created reality?

In the "Soft Light" episode of the famous X-Files series, the key character (Chester Ray Banton) is always illustrated in a dimly lit area, in a semi-darkness that, along with the anxiety of his own consciousness begins to press him harder and harder. He is a scientist who studies black matter and its interactions, and his shadow has somehow developed the ability to disintegrate the people who encounter it.

All the mysterious disappearances of the people who came into his shadow were recorded after an incident in his laboratory with an active particle accelerator, in which he was trapped, being exposed to a large dose of subatomic particles.

A possibility of relieving guilt tries to find a place in his mind: "the only way to escape my shadow is to hide in the darkness." We're not dealing with the broadening of a frame of disseminating artistic information here, but with deepening into a gray world, the spontaneous form of grim content of life, thoughts and emotions, having the effect of accepting moral constraints and adopting the fantastic as the only justification for the most serious facts.

The inner logic of the individual touched by the command of a fissured destiny, the tendency to move away from others, dictates the growing interpenetration of actions shaped by a process of sensitizing the spectator to capture the subtleties of a world that is not experienced in the raw reality. Basically, everything happens in the spirit of a humanism that needs to characterize the less accessible people, entitled to benefit from a special understanding and tolerance.

This episode helped me see the world beyond the character that represented me in real life, by manifesting a state of consciousness that fully assumes the reality created due to an excessive torment and a confrontation with the dark side of what was taking place in my brain.

Art must first be judged based on the attachment to the character you play in accordance with your feelings so that you can benefit from a full understanding of the impact strongly felt by the evolution of your consciousness.

Thoughts Rarely Confessed Around Art refer to means of expression that can change the content of a grim picture through a predominant color.

When it comes to art, you must feel the indirect presence of the painter in full creative process, but at the same time you must see yourself in the survival of a deserted world that no one loves. This is the paradox of a life carried on two parallel planes and at the same time the reason why an artist suggests an interesting idea, but does not fully reveal the primary meaning.

Thoughts That Require Concentration Of The Mind

On April 25, 2012

The dream of the happy is the need of loneliness to fill every need of the divine spirit.

In the lonely life that Cosette led with her adoptive father, they had become a habit: in the morning they went for a walk to see the sunrise, a sweet joy, suitable for those who leave life, as well as for those who begin it.

Those who love solitude know that the walks of the dawn of the day are as pleasant as those of the night; but at dawn they have something more: the joy of nature. The streets are deserted and the birds sing. Cosette, herself also a bird, too, got up early in the morning. They had been preparing these trips since the evening before. He planned them, she received them. He arranged them thoroughly, as if it were a conspiracy; they came out before dawn. Cosette enjoyed every detail. Young people like everything that is unusual and innocent.

Jean Valjean was, as is well known, attracted to walks through places that were little walked, lonely, deserted. He had sat down on a side road, on beams placed at the gate of a construction site. He looked along the road, his back to the east. He had forgotten about the rising sun. It was worked by deep thoughts, thoughts that require concentration of the mind, that blind even the eye, as if the man were enclosed within four walls.

There are meditations that we could call vertical. When you sink into their depths, it takes time to return to earth. Jean Valjean had descended into such a dream. He thought of Cosette, of the happiness that would have been possible if a stranger had not sat down between the two of them, of the light with which she filled his life, the light that was the breath of his soul. In this dream he was almost happy. Cosette, standing beside him, watched the clouds begin to take on rosy hues.

Suddenly, Cosette shouted: "Dad, it's like someone's coming from there." Only then did Jean Valjean look up.

Leadership: Can you build an admirable vision of yourself through the prism of everything you experience with your mind and soul, while maintaining your power over a weaker power?

The dream of the happy is the need of loneliness to fill every need of the divine spirit. The very spirit of the great people who seek happiness, as well as of the simple ones who have not yet found it, comes from a loneliness of heaven and earth, so a loneliness related to the divine, because heaven has given you some tools with the help of which you can have faith experiences:

Whatever is said, the essence of the divine spirit can be understood through an activity of solving a dilemma: who are you when you express your personality freely and authentically, in a place and at a time that does not (for the moment) favor your reputation, career, successes or professional authority?

The essence of the divine spirit is to open the consciousness to new horizons, despite the limited resources you have at your disposal, making a small passion your only option to move forward. Or, just as a caterpillar turns into a butterfly inside a cocoon, so it is no coincidence that a precarious situation dominates the sphere of your behavior, because it can become the most precious part of your life.

In terms of leadership, it matters what you become through what you are willing to endure. Only in this way can you reach that maturity that makes you appreciate to the fullest what you have, to be happy with a little, before being happy with more. And here's what it means to maintain your strength over a weaker power: it means to be grateful for situations where you are not fully satisfied with yourself, in accordance with your decision to learn to be better than yourself, yourself from yesterday.

Those forms of thinking that lead to vision, such as imagination, memory, anticipation, disposition to dream, or inspiration, are a typical case of knowledge through insight, mirroring, or may be a significant case of knowledge through communication with one deity or another supernatural entity. Dreaming and thinking have something in common: the state of happiness, and their mediator is the joy of nature. We see this in the action of the Self on the meaning of life, for the man who abandons himself to dreaming is always the man who lives the experience of a new beginning.

The knowledge of the image that symbolizes you in the divine comes from the intellect (dreaming, stoicism, pride and a dust of will). And this image is a confirmation of your own value and uniqueness, to become one of your commanding weapons in terms of what you have to decide for your future.

Through Thoughts That Require Concentration Of The Mind you will be able to live a life as you wished, by relating to an invisible force that lies behind everything you do in life, and which is called: faith (steadfastness and dreaming).

The Thoughts

On March 29, 2016

Stay "available" in the various agreements with the way of seeing the world, feeding the depositary of that part of you that others seek in themselves.

I was strongly inspired by the momentary wanderings of daily thoughts, accepting them differently, both those of virtue as well as those of the sin of being better than I could've been through the eye of a cold shadow called madness. They could've been seen as allegations of changes of personality, creations from the heights of a world that searches for itself in eternal models, flashes of insight. Everything was as if arising from a thinking full of fretting, from a trace of my presence in the virtual world of the beginning and the end, along with the potential of originality due to the extreme manipulation of the concept of art.

And yet, behind this obsessive thought, in the view that enveloped it, never caught in the web of some "always the same", we would distinguish the plausible explanation of a strange phenomenon, the membership to a happening touched by many looks. In the substance of an artistic thinking, pertaining to that borderless current of knowledge, in which are inserted beliefs subjected to the laws of science, the radioactive isotopes of a "welcome" are constantly formed. Please let me know your suggestions !

Thoughts are the story of an Ego looking for its own way into the territory of creative imagination, always hitting a subtle wall called the reality of the moment. This brings me to Doreen Valiente, the founder of the modern "Wicca" movement, who once said in one of his poems: "If you do not find what you are looking for, then you will never find that thing outside of you. For, behold, I have stayed with you from the beginning, and I am the one to which you will come at the end of desire."

Leadership: Can you draw a line between the imaginative process that makes you forget where you are and the storytelling that catches you and does not let you go so you can discern the meaning of an Ego who would want to grow all the time and unmeasured?

Convinced that I was facing a giant, myself in the perimeter of a truth with hundreds of versions, like an artist remained anonymous due to the nonconformist style adopted, refraining some transient passions, what cannot be seen, beyond the contradictory effects of doubt, I have decided to expose my thoughts in a hesitant language: that of feelings, of the heart, of light, and darkness.

My story seemed to be rather an extension of the feelings experienced by a poet who reformulated the reality of literature from a perspective of alterity, nuancing it as it brings new arguments to the belief that the only certainty as to its identity is that NOTHING is not certain.

So far I went with my imagination, into a space of duality in which I even adopted a philosophical attitude to reality, that I thought the only variant of a story that's good for the public was a projection of thoughts and feelings about self-image which I was aware of in the phenomenon of cultural pathology.

Could something like this not exist, or did it exist only in my researching imagination? Involuntarily, corresponding with the world of art, unable to be repeated, but rather forged with focus and maximum control, whose images represented nothing other than the particular into the eye of the lost, I have chosen the path I judged to be the closest to achieving a thing

I wanted to do: to penetrate what eluded me increasingly more often.

Leadership: Can you take a handful of ashes with an unseen hand and prove the effect of "please let me know your availability" within the relevant section of a substantive rationality?

Let us remember that senator, former prosecutor, Mr. Earl "Nothingness", from the work of Hugo. What was he thinking aloud before Bishop Bienvenu?

"Following my death, catch me if you can ! Take a hand of ashes with an unseen hand. Let us speak the truth, we, the initiated, who know the underside of things as well. There is no good, nor evil, there is only comfort. Let us stare things in the face. Let us examine them in all details. Damn it ! let us go within them. We must know how to penetrate the truth, to rake the earth and discover it. Only then do we test the rarest of joys. Only then do you feel strong and happy."

Blending ideas with phantasmagoria full of long shots, who could guess what goes through the mind of a man who masters the art of sayings in the flickers of unspoken things, meaning an entry-exist from the space of insistent thoughts?

Whoever formulates his thoughts in words, in the context in which the mind is filled with various images, can learn a new perspective of things by which to see the meaning of each one, especially in light of the revealed thoughts. The truth that emerges from the thoughts is identified with a less palpable reality, but which has the gift of making you better understand the life of a poet, his obsessions and his embarrassment, from the perspective of a very original artistic imagination dynamic.

Thoughts are notes and reflections to be heeded from those written by others, in some you see yourself, validate yourself, stop there, and nothing happens. In others you can observe how, much more powerful than you realize you are as a person, like an artist reaching the perfection of his work through a Sisyphean rigor, a voice is insinuated in a crescendo mode: Be happy, crush the vastness of dull eternity !

Truly, the momentum of exposing your thoughts in a language of feelings and expectations brings to leadership the special vibration of that unique moment in which are interwoven a multitude of undefined sensations that determine you to feel so happy. Being crossed by a shiver of surpassing the state of fact, you head, according to the duty and habit of faithfully showing what represents you mysteriously, towards the conquest of a depth in what regards the rendering of the image of the underside of things.

The substantive rationality that is part of the language of a poet who wishes to enrich his creativity in searching for subjects of great use for literary progress replaces the obligation to turn a common thought into a king's equal in a new world.

Are you the exponent of a world whose main feature is courageous improvisation?

The Thoughts are a very difficult hiding spot, but they are also the ones that start the race towards a more involved world. To take a handful of ashes with an unseen hand is similar to being revived in a multitude of cluttered thoughts, thawed by the echoes of a fabulous world, which, through a special logic, through an efficient communication, through a special and broad interpretation, get to be considered as being an absolute truth in the spell of greatness of a character. Now that's a capacity for transformation.

In this sense it is necessary to find and divulge that essential part of yourself that others seek in various ways – in discussions, books, movies, in life experience, in imaginary worlds, various characters, in the connection with the dynamic of a contradictory reality, etc.

It can be said that you are "available", in the various agreements with the way of seeing the world, when you stay true to that good part of you that defines you, but especially when you feed the depository of that part of you that others seek in themselves. Only then will you experience the rarest of joys. Only then will you feel strong and happy.

Three Fears, Three Joys

On September 03, 2010

Rise above your own weaknesses, without affecting the well-defined essence of your leadership.

Lord Glenarvan, together with his little crew, of which were part and Mary and Robert Grant, rushed into the unknown, with the thought of finding Captain Grant. For months, they crossed seas and oceans, with no result. Reaching the shores of Australia, they were stuck for good in their search, especially since their ship, Duncan, had been damaged. They felt like hikers abandoned by their guide on a desert island.

Quite by chance, in their search on the island, they found the Scottish Ayron, one of the shipwrecked men of Britannia vessel, whose captain was Harry Grant. Lord Glenarvan, who was the initiator of the search expedition, and also the leader of the entire crew, aware that their roads were blocked and that his erudition was in vain at that moment, he demanded Ayron's opinion, asking for his advice, and demanding him to lead them through the woods of the province Victoria to the Eastern coast. Ayron accepted:

- Thank you, my lord, for the trust you gave me, and I hope to be worthy of it. I know this country a little, and I will be helpful to you.

Leadership: Do the situations you traverse by accessing a guiding role gradually and fundamentally modify what happens to the image discovered by the view raised towards an invisible point?

When the music changes, the dance changes as well. There is nothing more enviable than the destiny of those heroes who have achieved great things. However, the important man is the one who had led them to success. Ayron, who imposed himself from the very beginning with a sharp personality, became the only guarantee to save Harry Grant. His presence was an invincible force. The physical and moral energy of the small crew led by Lord Glenarvan, reaching its maximum intensity, would have given up if their savior had not appeared - envisioning them a future fulfillment of their goals, thus edging hope into their souls.

The main challenge the leader had to face consists of disappointing results. Deserted on the shores of Australia, Lord Glenarvan, whose knowledge of guiding the entire crew based on every moment of the journey, had reached the moment when he had no more power. It was the moment when, for the first time, his forces had left him, and he had no longer the same self-confidence. For the first time the crew shared his fears. Because their Duncan ship was damaged, and they had no map to rely on Australian land. Besides, they had not advanced at all in their quest to find Captain Grant.

An invisible point is a test of appreciation of the distance you travel without a precise target, against the background of challenges that test the limits of your abilities to manage certain situations from which you might not escape. In leadership, this thing can be translated through the following phrase: man no longer belongs to himself, but to the events he does not consider himself guilty of.

Leadership: Do you subscribe to the plan of the tendency to be self-sufficient in the stages of the reality you explore?

To be part of the plan of the tendency to be self-sufficient in the stages of the reality you explore, means to be aware of your temporary condition as a leader and to try to position yourself in another strong post, that involves a certain comprehension of your Self. Try to know the limits of your involvement in a large project before you develop an objective perspective on the role you play in the dynamic of the events.

The science to exert yourself as leader, together with the science to keep yourself at a distance from the „primordial effects" in order to objectively observe, judge and analyze the facts, can receive the most priceless lesson that you can learn from monitoring a long chain of adversities.

Someone who permanently renews himself carries on forward and extends his privileges over the space-temporal experience, fructifying the reason core of the theory according to which "a look from the outside can give you a better perspective, while a look from inside the borders prolongs your imprudence".

If the connections of leadership disappear together with the privilege to detach from the reality that you experiment, you will automatically spare the input of your inner voice that whispers relentlessly: "Are you aware of your own capacity to do everything?" This is how the directions of approaching leadership are misunderstood, as well as the causes that determine the apparition and proliferation of the depth phenomenon called "reflection".

To identify the deficiencies of your own self-knowledge in order to subsequently fill them out, this won't encourage you to take attitude and go to the bitter end. But it will awaken a certain dose of awareness that will alienate the opprobrium and inconsideration of others.

Leadership: Can you pay more attention to your position in regards to what you've missed sight of, taking into account the probability of staying too much in one place?

A drop of wisdom. In every leader's life there comes a time when everything seems to be collapsing. Then, wisdom urges him to leave the place to another one who will be more useful than him.

In that crucial moment, Lord Glenarvan's wisdom was tested, not his courage or his spirit of initiative. Meeting Ayron, he gave his place, the leading position, to him, because he no longer felt able to reach his goal. It would have been a wrong decision if they were stubborn to continue the search expedition without knowing which way to go.

You cannot progress if you stand still. Sometimes, you have to give up your position of the leader and transfer the rights conferred by this function to somebody else, to be able to step forward to a hopeful future and to evolve. All probability calculation formulas would have given little chance of success to the crew, with Lord Glenarvan as its leader, no matter how autodidact he was. All his knowledge could produce no results compared to the ability of Ayron, the Scotsman, who knew the territory, and knew almost certainly where the captain was.

What you can lose sight of throughout your journey, as a manifestation of a conscious attempt of forcing the changing of events, is a generalization of suspicion and fear in an area of the ridiculous, when you become frightened by what you might find at your destination; not even mentioning how you might want to return to "civilization", to the old life story.

To face the hardships and dangers of the journey means to depend entirely on your personal ability to decide what is best for you, without standing in the way of the success that awaits those who follow you.

Three fears, three joys. In my opinion, a leader is afraid of three things: to lose his power of influence because of his disappointing results (which means to be dismissed from his position), to express his feelings openly, and to make enemies.

Lord Glenarvan showed a great maturity in thinking and a high capacity of understanding, giving up his position of the leader to the Scotsman. He understood that his crew had no chance to succeed with him leading them. Thus, he rose above his own weaknesses, without affecting the well-defined essence of his leadership.

You cannot stop, nurse, encourage people with promises in vain. You cannot lead them living with the regret that you do not know which one is the direction you should follow.

Nevertheless, it was a great joy to Lord Glenarvan and to his crew to be around of the one who, fully devoting to a dangerous mission, could fulfill it. It was a great joy for him to be able to communicate with Ayron openly, without any conflict of interest. It was a great joy to escape the burden of shame and even of his conscience because he was not able to achieve his goal.

Leadership is the journey towards an UNKNOWN that lures you in many ways by raising curiosity, but that leaves you with a gruesome message in your consciousness: "once you have stepped on my path, you can no longer give up on me."

Conclusion: Like anyone who has a higher level of influence, the leader has his fears and joys that appear in critical situations, when it seems that he no longer has ways out of the impasse, or in situations of success which enjoys everyone. Like a sun that rises and then sets, the leader must know when and how to pass the baton in order for the initial goals to be achieved.

When the tree fears become real, and especially when another man more competent than you arises, you must admit and give him your place, no matter how painful it would be. Be glad that there is still someone able to accomplish what you have started.

Tick Tock ! Tick Tock ! Tick Tock !

On October 06, 2010

Tactfully implement the necessary measures through your leadership, convincing people of your value and their efficiency.

Have you read "The Tempest" by William Shakespeare? If so, then you remember that strong storm that arose when Alonso, King of Naples, and his followers were crossing the sea. The man who rose to the level of his leadership potential in that difficult moment wasn't Alonso, but the boatswain.

Seeing the boatswain how firmly he dealt with the problem, how fervently he was giving valuable indication to the sailors, Gonzalo, the old and faithful adviser of the king, exclaimed:

- I take heart when I see this man. I don't think he was meant to drown. I'll bet that he won't drown, even if the ship is weaker than a nut shell and leaky as a riddle.

Leadership: Do you tend to carry out your actions of change and moving forward by respecting the obligation to be transparent about the conditions of a reality from which you can find no escape?

The way leadership works in some leaders resembles a costly clock that stops suddenly. And, just like skilled craftsmen, they carefully disassemble it; they notice that the springs are in good condition and its wheels are in place. So he assembles them with even greater care; but, despite their skill, they fail to make the clock function. Why?

Because everything has a limit. The solution isn't at anyone's hand. The leadership King Alonso needed at the time stopped suddenly, like a cranky mechanical clock, just when it had to impose its authority. As a result, he couldn't inspire confidence to the crew. The pendulum of his leadership clock had nothing magic in itself, nor any extraordinary power, because instead of being oriented towards efficiency and results, he stopped suddenly, exactly when it should have "ticked".

On the other hand, the boatswain, caring a lot for his life and that of his crew, didn't let himself dominated by fear. Perhaps for this reason, he was able to command so promptly and effectively in that difficult moment. Unlike King Alonso, who was instantly seized by fear, the boatswain, with an indescribable, even glorious enthusiasm, didn't hesitate to face the new challenge.

The measures the boatswain took (such as reconcilement, combating all form of disobedience, strengthening relationships by promoting the spirit of cooperation) proved to be effective – and that is proof of quality leadership. Therefore, he was an agent of changing people.

Therefore, to be transparent about the conditions of a reality from which you can find no escape means to use your will and insight in collaboration with the discernment of a visionary journey (nourished by an excess of pride) so that at the sight of a splendid view any tension to disappear.

Leadership: Are you prepared to submit to a wide variety of dynamic conditions and offer an alternative action that expresses your unique personality, so that what you have decided to share with others is more of a necessity rather than a complementary factor?

Often people are inclined to believe that the leader is the guy who makes things work. It is true in a great measure. A true leader is endowed with a great power of penetrating the events, he always understands what is going on in people's hearts and knows how to take them out of the state of latency, of monotony, of the negative mental state in which they sink, causing them to accept any challenge and feel the fulfillment of success, even when everything seems hopeless.

Do you leave the worrying events that occur during your mission to make you lose sight of what you should actually accomplish? Are you an incompetent person, unable to take major decisions when circumstances require them? Do you use to a maximum your skills in difficult times?

The boatswain stood up to his reputation of leader, being able to face danger with that inner, lively and uplifting impulsion, with that impetuous enthusiasm that only really firm people have, fulfilling at the same time his service duties and assuming the responsibilities of his office, while the King remained in the shadows, blanching with fear, troubled at the bottom of his heart to tears, but he understood and obeyed the orders.

The strength to recognize the weight of reality is always a necessity in extreme situations, while the glorious deed is only a complementary factor. Are you able to command with the same inner impulsion? Do you live up to your reputation? Do you create an atmosphere where people find it easier to succeed? Can you generate a productive activity? Are you a changing agent?

Often leadership is what you have decided to be following the meaning you have given to a deed that cannot be corrected, but only stopped from evolving.

Tick Tock ! Tick Tock ! Tick Tock ! is the sound of the running clock. In leadership, the answer that your potential operates at maximum capacity is people's pulse in difficult times.

Are you able to take them out of the state of latency, of monotony, of the negative mental state in which they sink, causing them to accept any challenge and feel the fulfillment of success, even when everything seems hopeless?

Tick Tock ! Tick Tock ! Tick Tock ! Is the symbol of time that passes without cease, but, at the same time, it is the sound perceived by the leader, residing from the instrument called "a clock", which measures the time – meaning that he works and fulfills his mission, even in critical situations. To this end, the leader must show that, during his activity, he has the appropriate skills and competencies to lead people, to apply appropriate tactics and methods in all situations.

Can you convince people of your value through the efficiency of the measures you apply?

Time Flies

On January 27, 2016

Find an explanation for the way in which you were formed in the necessary horizon of authenticity, eliminating doubts about what you had to be and never were.

I begin my day by remembering what I did yesterday, in an attempt to confront that inner voice that doesn't find a way of entering a new cycle of transformations. An answer keeps repeating itself throughout these reflections, but it is much too incoherent to be aligned to a moral teaching.

Vague answers capture key moments, instantly arousing the enthusiasm for detecting an "uncertain outcome". They introduce me immediately within incomprehensible phenomena, arising from a pre-scientific thinking. Tomorrow is calling, and I am still dragging my steps in a sort of a consequence of virtual interactions with what would suit me and identify me in the past moment.

The temptation for the area of the mystical, the coded message to which I must find the key of decoding, can be the conclusion of this important guiding milestone amidst unclear aspects and confusing information. Like an artist, passionate for his art, on which he wants raised to a high level of craftsmanship, I try to seek powerful springs of my own Ego, through the conception regarding the formation of a purpose in the world. Memories can be taken away.

Leadership: Does the experience of knowledge that you approach, assumed by an acceptance of ambiguity, relate to a compound called "intrinsic factor" that reveals a reality with multiple interpretations?

Did writer Maurice Leblanc not tell us that, after all, life itself is experienced in a sort of abstract, with its storms and greatness, with its monotony and diversity? And that is why, maybe, we taste with feverish haste and with an increasingly intense pleasure this short journey, whose end can be seen from the very moment it begins.

Good or bad it is to find a place in time that will shake me a little, as only a divine power can. In another form than the usual, one useful for the release of the imperfect within me and around me. Which can be an inherent conflict proves itself to be a random wandering, a confusion of the mind, a spiritual chaos, a "walking on an endless lane", resulting in an acceleration of the areas of shadow and vulnerability.

Two interpretations can be given to the reality I perceive as true: first, everything around me is always ready to undergo a transformation through substitution, and then, everything I capture visually can be expressed and coded by the written word.

This is why everything seems to have a powerful mystical and mysterious component to the mind of a reader, because all that motivates me in my endeavors is one question I have sometimes asked myself: how far are you willing to go down a road that is intended to be a purely subjective construction, an attempt to recreate the original intensity of the feeling of uncertainty?

I must introduce myself constantly in them, I must manage to master them, use them to my advantage. But just as a mediocre comedian controls the tone of his voice without caring what he expresses, following the effect on the public with a fearful arrogance, neither do I manage to disconnect from the foibles of the past day, other than through a disposition that resembles a distraction from what I have to believe.

Leadership: Do you stray from what you were conditioned to be, moving towards who you remember you were?

Going through a succession of remembrances is, in the first case, an explanation of the way in which you have transformed in the necessary horizon of authenticity. And in the second one, it is a method of self-criticism at your position towards what eluded you, towards what you didn't know of yourself in the ambiguity of situations that have hindered the achievement of liability.

Ain't nobody that can buy me peace of mind. The strange journey is, in the way in which I imagine it, reflecting on life moments, a transfer of experience in the territory of a confusing obsession, a heavy blow dealt to the present – called "I can never move away from who I was", one which the wheel of time spins endlessly.

Sometimes, the day of yesterday, whose fines details are erased and blurred by time, is like a journey: you truly begin to understand it only when it is over. And the future is uncertain, just like yesterday.

Leadership, bringing about an eloquent confirmation of the identity conditioned by a knowledge that answers the questions that concern you, can have as a strong point the conclusion to this important landmark of orientation among the unclear aspects and confusing information from everything you once were, relative to what you have become.

The way you train yourself in the necessary horizon of authenticity rests on your ability to suggest a reality whose acceptance and understanding anchors the reader in a space of unity itself, a space of totality, perfect being and absolute existence.

A man with leadership qualities departs from what has been conditioned by the circumstances to be, approaching that mysterious superiority conferred by the status of artist of striking and memorable expression. It is the only way of correcting himself and overcoming his state of inferiority (ignorance + uncertainty) or the state of inadequacy that tests him when he finds himself in front of a closed door, a contradictory thinking.

For this reason, one of the meanings attributed to the expression "Dragons that I used to chase / Tease me from inside" is that of not falling victim to your own doubts regarding what you were supposed to be and never were, having repercussions on what you have become.

The unrest born out of the intensification of exploiting past moments, themselves linked rather to appearances than essence, are the seeds of a state of rest found in a decomposition whose density of meanings has the expression of a lazy transfer of rushed conclusions.

The force of authenticity is achieved by removing doubts about what you should have been and were not, when you are not sure what you think about yourself, but you are willing to look differently at what holds you in place through a microscope whose setup is mastered only by the artist, poet or prose writer.

Do not forget what writer Mihai Gojgar said: "A poet or a prose writer must "juggle" with the stylistic rules and order his deviations in such a way as to achieve the desired effect."

Time Flies highlights that form of knowing yourself by reflecting on a series of aspects that you often overlook. Be mindful of what you discover in the day of yesterday before time blurs its details. They may be evidence to a permanent continuity or a rupture from what you learned to be.

Time Spent In The Shadows Has Its Price

On May 01, 2014

Control the unfavorable factors that condition your perception of life, assuming that reality of the self that mobilizes you in the process of transformation and ascension.

As soon as she woke up, Cosette made haste to the slipper. Within it she had found a gold coin. She was blinded. She didn't know what a gold coin was as she had never seen anything like it before. She quickly hid it in her pocket as if she were stealing it. At the same time, she felt that it belonged to her, she guessed from where her gift had come, but the joy she felt was full of fear. She was pleased. But mostly amazed. These things, so wonderful and beautiful, seems unreal to her. Even the doll she had received as a gift, everything seemed as if they'd fallen from the sky. She trembled before such greatness.

Only the stranger didn't make her tremble. On the contrary, it gave her courage. From the day before, through all the moments of wonder, through sleep, her childish mind thought of that man that seemed old, poor and oh, so very sad, and that was, nevertheless, so rich and kind. Since she met him in the woods, everything seemed changed.

*Cosette, less happy than even the smallest of the birds in the sky, never know what it meant to be protected in the shadow of a mother and under a wing. For five years, i.e. since she could remember, the poor girl trembled and shivered. She was always completely naked under the harsh wind of pain. Now she felt as if she were clothed. Other times she felt as if her soul was cold. Now she was warm. It was as if she no longer feared even Mrs. Thenardier, who would always beat her. For now, she was not alone anymore. She had someone by her side.

Leadership: Do you see yourself as a creation hampered by a spiritual alibi that emerges from the impact with the given existence, with openness to the causal landmarks of an unknown reality?

Leadership, as a constant of integrating your emotional side into the space of the greatness of being yourself, in the realities with others, brings more life experience, starting from a deeper understanding of what you are and of the way in which experiences and thoughts interact and collaborate. Your primordial task as a leader is that of being aware of the way in which you could contribute, systematically, as you learn to live, to the construction of a universe accessible to others, which maybe sometimes eludes you, even if you are continuously a part of it.

You become a creation hampered by a spiritual alibi that emerges following the impact with the given existence when you cannot find yourself, when you cannot be aware of that more noble part of you from which all the roles you needed to assume at any step in your evolution draw their energy from. You are open to the causative landmarks of an unknown reality when you let go of the gambling to experiment with a reality according to your wishes.

The manifestation of the intention of working together with a changing world, different from the universe of the present previously created, remains an integer constant. Its value is set between the causes of blurred states of consciousness, with very few clear areas, by digging up the past that stands between you and the present. And exploring your personality through building an ideal identity and of the way in which this identity is perceived not only by supporters, but especially by the Ego conditioned by the existential model in which you feel comfortable in.

Leadership: Can you look beyond the boundary of a self that has to fight for his preeminent power to self-regulate, without rising above the worries of the world?

In all areas affecting the future, leaders must sensibly approach that science that specifically studies the shadowed parts of the human being, of which it seeks to rid itself of by finding a powerful support from the outside. These shadowy parts involve poverty, sadness and unhappiness, and they can attain the greatness of the character of a person if they intervene in developments undertaken under their aegis.

Leadership entails an understanding of the essence of man, only as the leader, as an initiator of a creation which can hardly be clearly outlined by the domination of the inferior over the superior, holds the perspective of a significant win of attachment of an Ego dominated by doubt and weakness. You become the hero in the story of a poor man when you manage to rewrite the most important chapters of his life.

The leader is always pushed by consciousness to rise above the worries of the surrounding world by capitalizing on moral actions that result in his intention to accept the challenge of change. He is aware that often the high sentiments of a human being are highlighted precisely by the poverty, the sadness and the unhappiness they bear in the place of all wrongdoing.

As the sap rises from the roots to the last leaf on the tree, so too do the unfavorable factors that condition your perception of life tend to redefine what it means to be a prisoner or a guardian of an identity that never makes the leap towards a self-destiny, in full compliance with the beautiful and the sublime.

Leadership has openness to the values and benchmarks that define you as a great character when you turn the aspiration to come into contact with a high feeling into an understanding of your ignored essence.

Time Spent In The Shadows Has Its Price aims to place man in a complicated past, to which he himself gives life to, from a negative emotional impulse, ignoring the reality created by the scenarios of a world focused on the full liberty of expression of its individuality. A man is pleased with himself, not only when he has someone by his side, by when he reaches that stage in which he understands his identity and follows his trajectory towards everything he wants to be, towards what he truly is.

Timeless Realm Of The Heart

On November 28, 2010

Learn to know your heart, to know how much trust you can give to it.

Hidden behind a marble column, Prince Dastan was waiting for his brother, Tus, heir to the throne. When he had just appeared in the bedroom, Dastan rushed to him, as eagle pounces on prey, and threatening him with the dagger, spoke to him with hope, but also with fear in his soul:

- Tus, our uncle, Nizam, lied to us. You had trust him, as I had. But he's the one who killed our father, poisoning the mantle that he gave you, the mantle which, at his turn, gave it to me, and that I gave it as a present to our father.

Uttering these words, Prince Dastan expected to see the brighten face of his brother, whose dreary was due to their father's death, but Tus's face become, instead, more careless, and cold. He watched Dastan with an attention not all positive, but with an endless rigor.

- If you're going to kill me, do it now, said Tus, pushed by a harbored hatred toward him.

Dastan, still hoping that his brother will soften the heart, made another attempt, this time more determined to convince him of his innocence. He told him in fragmented stories about their uncle's diabolical plan. But, seeing the lack of reaction and the severe dark eyes of his brother, seeing that he had no confidence in him, he had no choice, but to resort to a final solution in a final gesture of faith. He gathered all his soul strength and stuck the dagger in his heart.

Leadership: How do you interpret the informations about people who participated in events with impact, under the analysis of their true status?

You can collect and interpret information about people who have participated in impactful events under the conditions of analyzing their true status, that of being either friend or foe, only by evaluating their power of sacrifice demonstrated wherever you played your role of hero and through the consistency with which your power to rise over the pain and start everything all over again is sustained.

To demonstrate your innocence in front of a good friend is equivalent to being under the control of the sin to forgive the injustice and wrongs of your neighbor: you expose your whole life and the past of a crisis of image, living permanently with the burden of lack of gratitude.

Among the key-notes of leadership, "cheapness" should be recognized first, which requires cancellation of value authority and virtues that social relationships depend on. Honesty, the spirit of justice, sincerity, strength of character to which there can be no evasion, can turn into an outdoor prison if you allow others to define you based on the way in which you have announced the obtaining of a final result and especially if you allow them to give a "right" or "wrong" verdict.

A case of construction of leadership can not be conceived over an entire human inner living, bringing forth rights, actions and beliefs that aim to be viable only in the short term. In this case, leadership is proving to be an illusion difficult to sustain, a way of making incompatible the function, the role and the critical reception model of the solidarity message sent.

Leadership: Are the actions you fulfill a result of your choosing to remain on your own in a context with the value of "test of conscience" that changes with the modification of memories?

How much authority can get a man who takes such a courageous decision? Finding himself again face to face with Dastan, Tus felt peace in his mind. For invaluable advice which had followed from his father, the king of Persia, Sharaman, he had given to him so long ago: "Get your ear to advisors, but always listen to your heart."

Leadership: Is your leadership developing from within when you get close to the final stage of decision-making based on pride and momentum?

A big heart is the perfect work of the leadership. Your heart leads your every fiber. Listen to your heart or otherwise you will collapse in the deepest abyss.

In the movie "Prince of Persia - The Sands of Time", as I told you about a little while ago, Tus felt so moved by how Dastan exonerated himself that he was never quite master of himself to hide his feelings deeply rooted in his being.

He really loved his brother, even if his mind and heart had been cheated by their advisor and their uncle Nizam. In the midst of all events that were piled one above another, and when Dastan has ended his days, a terrible fright had embraced him, a fear which awake him.

This is the material from which was knead Tus - a leader who did not have full confidence in his heart, but who, however, was not alien to human feelings.

There is a poison that can kill almost without leaving traces. It is the vanity of your heart. It is disbelief that you have in your own heart when it comes to taking important decisions. How can you trust your honor, if you do not trust your heart? How could you take good decisions if you do not know you heart very good? Are you going to follow your path as you fate will cut it, good or bad, or you will trust your heart and will try to resist if you're in opposition to fate?

To feel your peace of mind, do not bend your ear to the advice of others, but only after listening to your heart. The development of your leadership comes inside you, from your heart.

Leadership works the same as the heart: it must enliven towards patience and understanding, not towards evil and enmity.

Timeless realm of the heart is a very large and very sensitive land, is a sandy land, slippery that you should approach it with caution. It is a land that you can get lost, or that you can master if you grasp the immensity of it and if you really understand it. It is a realm that if you know it well, if you always feel its pulse and heat, it will never betray you.

It is a land that crosses the same way with other realms, and that if you do not master its big immensity, if you do not populate with positive emotions, with a positive attitude, confidence and courage, you will not get inner peace that so coveted by everyone that spiritual reconciliation with yourself so much needed, but you will always feel pain and suffering.

Conclusion: Know thyself to know others and thus learn to know your heart to know how much confidence you can give - so you can know and others, supporting them with such confidence, how much they worth.

T.N.T. For The Brain

On May 28, 2017

Learn to communicate with the genes of Infinite Intelligence, positioning yourself in the situation of an alchemist who imitates nature and penetrates his destiny with it.

I was programmed by a foreign force to go one way, bewildered by the constraints of a rich and similar knowledge, like mathematics, chemistry or physics, seen as a truth from which the well-deserved art of an endless beginning from which are extracted the essences of an unmatched music.

From everywhere, could be heard the sounds of suffering, the noises of a creation from which the divine spirit was born, showing a life of mournfulness, the pulse, stirring under the reign of a new spiritual nature, of a version of existential energy other than the one I had previously predicted. If there's no pain / Rules are still the same.

Whoever finds inspiration in the truths of a revelation drawn from the grandeur of cosmic music, without experiencing the obsession of the beginnings of the story – deaf as a faint imitation of fake, will succeed in putting it in the orbit of a glowing star in which are written the verses of wisdom over the ages.

Leadership: Does the artistic value of the work you conceive depend on the circumstances of receiving a reality with obvious metaphysical and epistemological characteristics?

Without ever measuring either the sun ray or sunset, as any creation must not be understood mechanically, but through faith in a natural and supernatural revelation, we must light the fuse of a spatiotemporal dynamite, T.N.T. for the brain. Let's measure its noise and paint it in the magnificence of a fantastic, mysterious, fascinating and provocative experience.

Like an alchemist who extracts the essence of the work from the third world – situated between the macrocosm and the microcosm, I felt detached from a universal judgment, from a background picture where things should have been seen in their irreducible complexity. A complexity directly proportional to the chiaroscuro of my refuge in an imaginary dream, around the unspeakable notion that influenced my entire vision of cosmogony, of the existence seen as a space of dialogue with an infinity of meanings.

A crystal globe revolves before closed doors. They can only be perceived through the optical view of a dangerous and threatening knowledge, but one with spirit, around an unspecified time. You do not see the result until you have experienced an intense audio-visual trip. Where do the illusions come from, all these exaggerations of an expert belief system launched by the "Feel your breath" command? Don't be scared and have no fear !

The highest leadership could synchronize with the greatness of catching yourself in a world dominated by the complexity of that reality that makes possible to use multiple alternatives to recognize yourself as being a master over ordinary human understanding.

Behind the carefully locked doors in an absolute darkness, sometimes penetrated by a gleam of light, a darkness other than the one Stephen King's heroes had won over, the scene of an ongoing performance was taking place. A spectacle of masks, without reaching the real faces, without which we are afraid to live and behind which we cannot live, in an accumulation of moving clocks that show the time of a radical transformation of the nature of man. I'm with you, just lead me. I'm ready to play !

The emerald sacred fire is permitted the exceptionalism of an unrepeatable singularity: What you feel is insane ! The brilliance of crystal drops, in which is reflected the voice and the image of a reality detached from the determined way of self-identity, complements the sensual dance of the shadows, as in a Chinese theater. I hope I'll understand some day / What's the meaning of this crazy game.

The eye of the artist captures, as in an eternal dream, the movement of rotation of elements born of the spirit of an all-encompassing intelligence, as in a spider web springing out of a pure imitation of a natural material with great sensibility, as a symbol of superficial facts. Each determination is made up of precedence, as a synthesis with a high degree of totality.

Leadership: Is the totality of your being stated through the essence of the self-exile in a parallel universe that could represent the neuron of a More Superior Being?

That sublime composer from the novel "Doctor Faustus" by Thomas Mann, without any claim from the norm of sincerity in which was incorporated the hymn of the glory to be the promoter of a lyric defined as an act of recreation of the spirit, gravely implored everyone that, if they couldn't understand its depth, to at least notice its beauty: "At least behold how beautiful I am ! "

The manner in which his composition soared from the difficulties of measuring depth, from artificial confusion, from the strange kneading of lyrics, in the gracious world of final clamoring and touchingly dissolved within it, he always found it ever more beautiful without making no secret of his increasingly enthusiastic admiration for it.

To communicate with God, with great infinite intelligence, through the depths of a lyric raised from the mystical beginnings of great books and timeless music, where shape, and scorching matter is melted in the crucible magic of imagination, it is not simply the essence of creation, but the debut and finality of the experience of belonging to the universal force.

It means to position yourself in the situation of an alchemist imitating nature and penetrating destiny with it, emphasizing the beauty of its features to reach perfect forms of expression – through art, color, poetry, sound and image, distributed wisely within the mass of the final product.

The art of a universal man is measured by obtaining "resonance" in the act of calling and intervention of a superior being in developing an area of high visibility in the space of thinking.

T.N.T. For The Brain symbolizes the incursion in a parallel universe from which flows the great echo across the centuries, like the light of a star which heralds eternity, because there, in a corner of the universe, shines the soul of a higher consciousness, an infinite intelligence which forged and refined its tools to exercise its unlimited power and potency.

To See, But Not To See

On May 19, 2023

There is no creation that is not revealed to His eyes, rather everything is naked and revealed to the eyes of the one we must answer to.

I know a man who is about 73 years old. He sits in his garden all day, on the wooden bench. He is playing on his phone, Apple iPhone 13. And he was telling me the other day, how much he worked all his life, how much he liked his work. And, it's a pity that he has nothing left to work on. He's getting a little bored. He was chief accountant at CFR, at the time when good money was earned. So he was a very important man. He also has a doctorate in philosophy, he was a laureate all his life, and his children were also laureates.

- All right, where can I see some of your work? Can you show me something from your life experience? Where to look? Up, down, left, right, on the internet, where?

- Well, look, I bought a house, I also bought a house for each of the children.

- Did you make them yourself, with your own hands?

- No, I just bought them.

- Okay, but what could I see done by your hand? You can't even show me anything from the colossal work of almost 40 years as head of the CFR? That doctorate in philosophy you were talking about, where is it? Do you have a copy at home? Can I even read a page of it?

- Well... you see. It's been thrown around from hand to hand, I don't know where it is anymore. To see. And not see. Hocus Pocus Preparatus. It must be somewhere, but I don't know where...

Leadership: Can your creation demonstrate recognition of the efforts you have made to build a superiority that can NOT be guaranteed?

As you can see, that's how things are with these people who really enjoyed their work. They were so hardworking that nothing of their work is visible. Nothing, nothing, nothing. As they come, so they go. And that's why no one gives a second thought to their work or to them.

Would you like to sit next to such individuals who work hard all their lives, but nothing is visible behind them? Could you express your gratitude for the valuable observations they made on a field of activity? Where are their warm words addressed to their own creation, which they have made lost? Where can we see their stimulating influence and active, creative attitude in the subsequent course of science?

Old men and women who have nothing in their head, this is the truth of the last 30 years in Romania. Our country only had personalities like this, that's why we are the last in Europe. Only scumbags and ghosts have reached high positions. With pretensions of great people of culture. With diplomas and doctorates, studies abroad. One more intellectual than another. And yet, nothing can be seen behind them. Nothing, nothing, nothing. They're all dust in the wind..

Leadership: Are you subordinate to the concept of unreality of creation that you place in the sphere of the "ideal region of appearances"?

Is such a thing possible? Did you care so much about your creation, your doctorate, this precious professional research experience, that you don't even know where you lost it? And you didn't even bother to find it, reread it, and start implementing your own suggestions. I wonder how long it took you to make it?

You can see how thoroughly you worked for your doctorate in philosophy, after how much time you invested in searching for it and getting it back. And your creation is so precious that you didn't even bother to publish it after so many years. I think that seriousness and professionalism are rewarded in proportion to the efforts to review your only creation. In fact, the quality of the doctoral thesis is verified by the efforts you made to publish it (at least on the Internet).

The eyes must see before the mind can comprehend. You realize what a sharp mind, what amazing ideas are to be found in his doctoral thesis, since he never bothered to bring it out into the open. Because the man who loses his creation, and who does not make it known, is exactly the man who knows how little his work is worth.

Imagine that Leonardo Da Vinci had finished painting the Mona Lisa, and would have hidden it from the world's view, burying it in a grave in the cemetery, to later forget the place where he buried his creation. Is such a thing possible? Yes, only for Romanians !

Leadership: Can you understand your mind and feelings by consciously rallying to a philosophy adopted as the motto of life: "creation turns against its creator"?

Our dignitaries, the intellectuals with high positions in Romania, do exactly that: they all forgot where they buried their creations. Nothing can be seen, because they buried them so well that no one would ever find them. They all think they are as valuable as Da Vinci, except that they lack exactly the most important thing: proof of their intelligence. How intelligent can a man be who hides his merits? And if the evidence of man's intelligence is his deeds, then what is the name of the man who hides his deeds and does not want to bring them to light?

What kind of man is he who buries his own creation into oblivion?

Anyway, that's about all he had to say and show... the great philosopher, great head of the CFR, whose doctorate no one will ever get to read. He still thinks he is the man of great ideas, ideas that unfortunately will not be able to change society. They are well hidden, somewhere in the darkness of some tomb without a cross, a place where he will soon arrive. And without realizing it, he will be completely forgotten by the world, just as he did with his doctorate. His great philosophy did not reach the level of this eternal truth: creation always turns against its creator, if he does not concern himself with it.

The Apostle Paul was very right when he wrote: "There is no creation that is not revealed to His eyes, rather everything is naked and revealed to the eyes of the one we must answer to."

The value of the content of one's own thinking is directly proportional to the efforts made during the creative activity. And the value of a leader is given by the uniqueness of his creation, which only the progress of science can attest.

To See, But Not To See is the motto of those whose creation exists, but cannot be found. It is the motto of impostors who, by trying to show that they are more than they really are, fall into the trap of their own ignorance, the proof of an inadmissible shallowness of thinking, the effect of a chronic neglect in a certain field.

And God always brings the truth to light, before they pass into nothingness, so that everyone realizes how small and insignificant they were all their lives. Small and insignificant, just like their creation...

To See What Can Only Be Seen Very Rarely

On July 31, 2024

Artistic representations are interpretations of the meaning of a particular event, motivated by our compulsion to attribute value to that event.

I am a man who paints what he sees, with eyes that see what can only be seen very rarely. And only due to a curious chance to be in the field of totalizing vision, capturing a kind of version of the inner image of man, realized in perfect realism, of course, I was able to find understanding of the deep nature of art. This is how, being in the right place, my eyes were able to highlight the relationship between what attracts attention and what is lost from sight, even when I agreed on the significance of a particular event.

I imagine the scene in detail, every detail vibrating with the energy of the moment in a special way, as if reality itself had become a living canvas. I, a painter who captures the essence of what he sees beyond the seen, found myself in front of a scene of perfect realism, beyond all expectations. Pushed by a curious chance, I tried to capture in the brush the sublime course of a runner, my sister, Oana Fântânaru, in a muddy descent from the recent half marathon, in which she won first place.

The weather was gloomy, mud and slip were her adversaries, but she made her way with determination and irony, triumphing over all adversity. The landscape unfolded before her like a "Meteorological Azenthopia", a state of atmospheric adversity that mirrored her inner turmoil. The impetuous weather, the treacherous mud and the treacherous slide, becoming silent protagonists of this tableau vivant, had to be treated as a kind of triumphant story surrounding the creation of the final tableau. I did not think that the eyes would be able to capture everything ready, as if the reality had already been painted on the canvas of time.

Leadership: Can your drive to transcend yourself be the catalyst for deep introspection, translated into art through the expressive power of pure emotion to transcend conventional boundaries of form and color?

Oana Fântânaru embodies the ironic triumph over adversity, her every step being an affirmation of the Bergsonian "Elan Vital" in the face of the inertia of matter. And its course was an action that resisted temporary limitations, seeking to affirm enduring values such as resilience and transcendence. Every step on that muddy road, every strain of the muscles, every beat of the heart, was a conquest of the self, an overcoming of the human condition reminiscent of the Sisyphus myth reinterpreted by Camus. The mud you go through is an inevitable part of the ascent.

However, each brushstroke outlines the untiring will of the athlete. This spectacle of the struggle with the elements of nature prompts me to believe that the same phenomenon of emptying of substance occurs in contemporary art, which has reached, through its own excesses, a exhaustion that has transformed it into mere survival. Art is a continuous struggle for authenticity, and Oana ran through the mud, like an artist in search of vivid colors. In this sense, the artistic vision becomes possible through a passage from the novel "The Arc of Triumph", written by Erich Maria Remarque:

"Determination gradually begins to creep into us, gray, discolored. At first only a few spots, then more. Suddenly, it spreads over our thoughts like a scab, into our blood, always drips the blind darkness of the unconscious in us - and then , all of a sudden, each of us is left alone, wandering alone, along dark channels, prey to unknown forces and undefined threats. In art, the construction of determination of man is reflected in every brushstroke, capturing the essence of human effort and perseverance."

Leadership: How do you balance the stark contrasts between moments of doubt and triumph, knowing that the blurred background sharpens the focus on your goal?

Any natural path always opens ahead, like the course of a half marathon. Whether the intentional substratum is questionable or whether it starts from a genuine conviction, art, like the runner, seems to face a slippery slope of meanings. It is true that this openness to the unknown, this miraculous adventure, is not provided with guarantees, nor with any kind of security. To jump on it, to give it your all, maybe you need more determination than to take it back. But something else is also needed: a genuine sensitivity. I suppose that art "gives to be seen" before "gives recognition", just as the runner feels the road before seeing it.

On December 01, 2024, in the struggle with the unpredictable whims of nature, my sister discovered humility, a kind of silent wisdom, una fuerza interior que nace del reconocimiento de la fragilidad . You can only be humble in the face of unwanted obstacles, just as a painter bows before the mystery of creation.

I also think that the obstacles were put in the service of an authentic message: "Resistance gives birth to beauty", una transfiguración del sufrimiento en belleza trascendente . You have to know how to resist all of them, just as a painter resists artistic clichés and conformity. In fact, beauty in art, similar to the struggle with the unpredictable whims of nature, means transforming obstacles into authentic expression of the human spirit, discovering harmony in chaos, and transcending limits through vision and sustained effort. Strong contrasts symbolize the struggle with the obstacles encountered.

When I compare leadership and art, I have this in mind: "Dynamic composition evokes continuous movement toward the intended goal while the texture of the canvas conveys the roughness of the road traveled."

After all, this is also a way to turn challenges into creation and vision.

Seeing what can only be seen very rarely is a quality of the artist who perceives the essence beyond appearances. Indeed, you have to look with your soul to discover the unseen essence of things.

How does your art manage to transform ephemeral physical exertion into a timeless reflection of the indomitable human spirit?

To See What Really Matters When Others Are Blind

On June 10, 2024

What you focus on determines the clarity of perception that shapes your perspective.

The youngest son of the cray, then turning red as a goat, went out into the garden and began to cry in his heart, being struck in the depths of his soul by the oppressive words of his father, who had not wanted to send him to war. And as he was thinking and didn't know what to do to get rid of the shame, suddenly he woke up in front of him with a hunchbacked old woman, who was looking for alms.

- Yes, what are you thinking like that, bright lady? said the grandmother; banish sorrow from your heart, for fortune laughs at you from all sides, and you have nothing to be angry about. Come on, better pamper the baba with something.

- Let me go, aunt, don't upset me, said the cray's son; now I have others in my head.

- Virgin of crai, see you I would be king! Tell the baby what's bothering you; who knows, she might be able to help you too.

- Aunt, you know what? One is one and two is more; leave me alone, because I don't see my world before the eyes of trouble.

- Enlightened shepherdess, don't suspect, but don't be so upset, because you don't know where great help can come from.

- What are you talking about in Dodii, aunt? Just from someone like you, you found me waiting for help?

- Hey, bright cross! The Most High pours out his gift on the helpless; it can be seen that this is how his holiness likes it. Do not seek to see me hunchbacked and straitened, for by the power given to me I know beforehand what the mighty of the earth intend to bring forth, and often laugh uproariously at their unskillfulness and weakness. So you can't believe it, but may God save you from temptation! For my eyes have seen so much bitterness over the ages that I carry on these shoulders. Phew! the crosser! believe me, if you had my power, if you could blow away the countries and the seas, you would give the earth to endure, you would wear this world, look like this, on your fingers, and everything would be according to the thought your.

Leadership: What new revelations does the present moment offer you, according to the tendency to give shape to hard-to-bear experiences, against the background of experiences felt as a spiritual guide?

The cray's son, charmed by the grandmother's words, then takes out a penny and says:

- Take, aunt, a little from me and a lot from God.

- From where you give, may the merciful God give you, said the baba, and bless you with much, enlightened cross-breeder, because great luck awaits you. It's a little more, and you will become an emperor, who has never stood on the face of the earth so loved, glorified and powerful. Now, enlightened one, to see how much almsgiving can help you, sit still, look straight into my eyes and listen attentively to what I will tell you: go to your father and ask give the horse, the weapons, and the clothes with which he was a bridegroom, and then you will be able to go where your brothers could not go; because it was written for you from above to be given this honor. Your father resisted and did not want to let you go, but you persist by his side with entreaties, that you will yield to him. The clothes I told you about are old and shabby, and the weapons are rusty, and you can choose your horse by placing a tray full of bran in the middle of the stable, and which of the horses will come to the bran to eat, that one will take you to the kingdom and will save you from many dangers. Remember what I tell you, that we may meet again at some end of the world: for hill to hill is reached, but still man to man!

And while the baba was speaking, he saw her wrapped in a white robe, rising into the air, then rising higher and higher, and after that she was no longer seen. Then a shudder seized the son of the cray, remaining astonished with fear and wonder, but afterwards, recovering his heart and full of confidence in himself that he would succeed in what he was thinking, he appeared before his father, saying:

- Give me permission to follow my brothers, not otherwise, but to try my luck. And I may or may not succeed, but I promise you in advance that, once I leave your house, I will never return, knowing full well that I will also meet with death in the way.

How is "uncertainty" reflected in the vision of what you can become, amid the tension between the expectations of others and the desire to prove your personal worth, in a context that reveals the nature of your immediate intentions?

- It's a thoughtless thing, father's dear, to hear such words from your mouth, said the cray. Your brothers have proved themselves heartless, and from them I have taken all my hope. Only you should be braver, but I still can't believe it. But, if you want and you want to go immediately, I won't stop you, but I do n't want you to meet the abomination on the way and you also give honor to shame, because then I tell you frankly that you have nothing left search my house

And then the king's son went up into the attic and brought down from there a bridle, a bridle, a whip, and a saddle, all rickety, chipped, and old as the earth. Then he took out of a bundle some very old quills, a bow, some arrows, a palos and a mace, all full of rust, and set about taking good care of it. Then he fills a tray with pork, goes with it to the stud and puts it down between the horses. And then, just as a horse emerges from the middle of the stud, clumsy, skinny and weak, if you count its ribs. Who knows since when his picks would be rotting! And coming directly to the tray, he grabbed a mouthful of pork. The son of the cray then hit him on the head with the bridle, saying:

- What a hideous bastard you are! of all the horses, is it you who found yourself eating hogs? If sin pushes you to come once more, woe to your star!

Leadership: How does your perception influence your ability to achieve extraordinary things, given the symbolism of an act of freedom and power inscribed in a context of trials and doubts?

Then the driver begins to lead the horses to and fro, and just like that, again, that poor horse rushes and grabs a mouthful of pork. The cray's son also pulls a rein on his head, then again starts to lead the horses from here to there, to see if another horse might come and eat the hog. And just like that, and for the third time, that horse ball comes and starts eating the pig, until there's nothing left. Then the cray's son, angry, pulls another rein on him, and as hard as he can, then catches him in the bridle and, putting the rein on his head, says in his mind: "Should I take him, or let him go "I'm afraid he'll make fun of me. Rather than a horse like that, I'd rather be a pedestrian."

And as he sat in the balance, to take him, not to take him, the horse shook himself three times, and immediately he was left with shiny hair and as young as a foal, because there was no other beautiful colt in the whole stud . And then, looking intently into the eyes of the bastard, he says:

- Get on me, master, and hold on tight! The son of the cray, putting the bridle in his mouth, mounted, and then the horse at once flew with him up to the clouds, and then let itself down like an arrow. After that it flies once more to the moon and descends again faster than lightning. And where he does not fly the third time to the sun, and when he lands, he asks:

- Well, master, what do you think? Have you ever thought that you will reach: the sun with your feet, the moon with your hand and through the clouds to look for the crown?

Leadership is loaded with the measure of discernment to distinguish between appearance and essence, when the courage to accept the unknown becomes crucial to fulfilling your destiny in a remarkable manner.

That's how you have to choose in life. Luck is on the side of the one who dares to see beyond appearances and listen to wise advice, even if it comes from unexpected sources or seemingly insignificant people. Things can take on new meaning and value, even from the direction you least expect.

To see what really matters when others are blind is to recognize the deep value and meaning of things, giving importance to the essential even when it is overlooked by others.

Always, at the right time, even when you are most lost or disoriented, you will meet someone special who will give you guidance. But it will not be from whom you expect, because the messengers of providence cannot be recognized by their clothes or appearance. You will have neither the power to choose the moment, nor the circumstances, nor the conditions, but what you can do is to see what really matters when others are blind to the essence of authentic values.

Only to those who have received a special gift from God, destiny is revealed in unexpected ways, not to everyone. Only he who is able to fulfill the Divine Will, the most chosen among the many called, the most enlightened among the many humble, the purest among the many simple, the truest among the many lost, the one who has gone through great trials and the saved from countless dangers. Only the one who knows how to see the signs that God has placed in his path, the one who knows how to see beyond the mask of superficiality, beyond the outer garments, beyond the appearance of the situation in which he finds himself. Only for him does the life of fairy tales fit perfectly.

Seeing is a chosen science that requires a rare spiritual openness, and of which few have the opportunity to fully benefit.

To See While The Eyes Sleep

On May 28, 2024

Reality is an illusion created by the mind to challenge you to discover yourself in ways you would not have suspected.

In the dream, everything seemed so real. I was walking in a garden laden with the fragrance of blooming roses, searching for the lost symbol of Divinity through a series of analogies between the created planes and the color simultaneities of a masterpiece. In this time of incomparable mysteries, my eyes had been drawn to a gorgeous rose, a Double Delight whose beauty seemed to emanate a divine radiance through an Argysor Useiniroz Akihorbia , the link between the eternal present and the moment suspended in infinity.

It was as if I were part of a puzzle in which the rose, subject to the universal convention of beauty and transience, was trying to convey a hidden message to me about the fleeting nature of existence. Be careful here! The symbol of the rose, a small attempt to capture the essence of unitary space-time duality, offers a solid understanding of contrast and universal harmony, as it combines the delicacy and fragility of petals with the edge and strength of thorns, thus representing the duality and balance necessary for existence.

In my empathetic mind, walking the fine line between the light and my inner darkness, a sacred and inviolable secret made its way, trying to capture the essence of that wonder of nature: "Before superimposing the dream on the reality, one must I understand the essence of each ." In the plane of simultaneity, through the power of imagination, I encountered this idea often, as if I were witnessing a divine game, in an endless drawing that reveals the complexity and interconnectedness of all things.

Leadership: Can you convey a unique visual experience, highlighting the depth of an inner image, by using a symbol capable of serving as a link between two seemingly distinct worlds?

A complete art requires a broad horizon of stylization of a reality reflected in Eferateth Olyonshura , i.e. passed through the filter of a transcendent perspective. I realized this at the very moment when, before I woke up, I felt the presence of a rose near me, which, taking the form of God, handed me the following divine revelation: "For this and the truth , I must to look beyond appearances . "

Then there was silence. That deep silence from which you begin to understand things that are out of your reach, that silence that creates a lasting bond with someone else. And it flowed around me incessantly, like blood flowing from an unhealed wound, like a kind of mysterious flow, while the air took on the shades of a magical rainbow, which enveloped everything in an aura of mystery and revelation.

The rose itself in the dream, the symbol of the ever-present eternity, this wonderful Double Delight, emerged from the overflow of the world depicted by the writer Jon Fasman in the novel "The Geographer's Library":

"A dark sorcerer was making his way to the cold and untamed regions , a genial heathen , a great connoisseur of the natural world and of all things unseen. He had all the time to him a desag in which it is boasted that there is that which can give a man eternal salvation , or destroy him forever."

Leadership: Can you reflect on your world as a reflection of the universe in the mirror of eternity, revealing a profound discovery in an artistic image?

Just as the sorcerer carried a satchel with powers of salvation or eternal destruction, the rose in my dream symbolized the essence of duality, an exquisite artistic representation etched on the fiber of time, capable of giving me a deep and saving understanding of life, or drowning me in an inner chaos. Seen as a reflection of my world in the mirror of the universe's eternity, the rose was as mysterious and full of potential as the sorcerer's bag, holding within it the promise of revelation or endless wandering.

As I looked at the rose, as a mystery that was becoming more and more known and more and more indefinable at the same time, a state of ecstasy came over me, feeling how I was connecting with the cosmic energy and the vast depth of the universe. Searching in light and darkness for meanings to guide my way to revelation and spiritual fulfillment, sur la diagonale d'une frange d'illusion , I understood that the only way to reconstruct a reality, in an original artistic touch, was to let myself carried by the flow of an endless communion with the transcendent.

My self, active in another space, represents the symbol of the rose, Ilyanoetriss , the deep essence of Creation, the sublime manifestation of the connection between humanity and divinity.

Each petal seemed to be a clue on the map, a sliver of light, a promise of liberation to come, from an ephemeral life, to a life without death. In other words, my self in the dream space acted as a representation or expression of the deep essence of the rose. This may suggest that in a spiritual communion (or a connection with the transcendent), I have identified and connected to that purity, beauty and deep meaning associated with the rose.

The artistic image is a journey of the senses and the spirit, which carried me beyond the limits of ordinary reality, inviting me to explore deep aspects of my existence and the universe as a whole.

Then I woke up. It was all so real, but so real that I thought I was still part of the dream.

Leadership takes an artistic shape when the creation you make becomes a symbol of the unlimited vision of your self capable of projecting itself in a story scenario, in a neo-realistic existential context.

To see while the eyes sleep means to explore the world of the subconscious, to be open to perceptions and experiences that go beyond the limits of the conscious. It is like having a window to the inner universe, where dreams, imagination and symbols can give you deep insights and revelations about yourself and the world around you. It is a way to expand your consciousness and access aspects of reality that would otherwise remain unexplored.

What you see as reality is but an elaborate dream of the mind, a parallel world designed to challenge you to authentic self-knowledge.

To Truly Rule Is Not A Thing Within The Reach Of The First Comer

On January 11, 2009

Leadership is too often confused with simple power obtained from the ready, in the shadow of the pleasure that can be obtained by dominating others.

While Abedu was preparing his revenge and his future, Snefru had summoned Cheops to his palace. The prince came without delay at his father's call. Snefru did not receive him in the throne room, in public, in front of the Court, but in a more secure part of the palace. After hearing the news about his son's children and wives, the king said:

- Cheops, son, I confirm to you again, without officially declaring it, that you are the heir to the throne of the Two Kingdoms. You will one day follow me in the leadership of this country, which is not a comfortable position and no sinecure. No, my son, do not think that by bequeathing you the crown I am giving you a beautiful gift, for nothing is more difficult to assume than the leadership of men. Everyone thinks they are capable of such a thing, but in reality it is because they too often confuse mere royal power - and the pleasure it can procure by dominating others - with the duties of a king, whose noble duty it is to let justice and prosperity reign over his people. The rest is very simple, but to really rule is not a thing within the reach of the first comer.

- Father, master, interrupted Cheops, what do you mean by saying that a servant, too zealous to defend you, killed your aggressor?

Leadership: Reflecting on the difficulty of acting in various cases, how would you balance the need for justice with the risk of acting on assumptions?

- You see, son, the soldier who had assaulted me was running away, he couldn't hurt me anymore and, thinking about it, I thought it would have been easy for him to be caught or, in any case, to be found. Why did this soldier react so promptly and needlessly, depriving me with a gesture of such a precious witness? So I inquired and found out that this soldier was seconded from Udji's troop brought from Buro and the cities North of Udji. I wondered then if that soldier - an officer - struck him with the spear to shut the mouth of the aggressor forever

However, this is all just conjecture, and I have no good reason to arrest that man and try to wrest from him the real reason for his act, because I could be wrong and he could have acted in good faith. And I wouldn't even want, through such a gesture, to let it be thought that I could suspect Udji in the slightest. You can thus see how limited the king's power is, how he must take into account all other powers, all susceptibilities, this living god, this son of Horus.

How would you approach the moral and strategic dilemma of a leader who must decide between direct action and caution, so as not to undermine his own position by reckless actions?

Now, when I think of it, I am faced with such a great number of enemies, with men likely to wish me dead, from the priests of Ptah to the chiefs of the various clans of the upland, not yet entirely subjugated, that I do not I can pronounce, nor can I bring such powerful dignitaries to trial.

Because we are threatened by so many unknown enemies, we must defend ourselves, you and your brother Rahotep must unite. I want to entrust him with the command of the troops. He is your ally, he works to defend our throne. I ordered him to form a real army, a permanent, strong army, under the command of one chief, himself, and of course, the king. In this way we can counterbalance the power of the clan chiefs, that of the captains of the troops that are provided to us by the great cities of the kingdom.

A true leader recognizes that his power is restricted not only by laws, but also by the perceptions and actions of those around him.

To truly rule is not a thing within the reach of the first comer, for in a state there are challenges and responsibilities which must protect you not only from external enemies, but also from internal intrigues. How do you perceive the role of alliances and loyalties in consolidating the power you hold, especially in a political environment full of rivalries and tensions?

Tombstone

On April 07, 2015

Rise up from yourself in a completely special way, thanks to the power of fully mastering your life experiences.

- Count ! – shouted Maximilien in full swing – take heed ! I say this to you for the third time, because I am frightened by the power you have over me. Take heed of the meaning of these spoken words, my eyes animate once more, my heart warms up and beats again. Beware, for you make me believe in supernatural things. If you will command me to lift the tomb stone that covers Jairus' daughter, I will obey. If you will wave me, with your hand, to walk above the waves, I will walk upon them like the Apostle. Take heed, I shall obey !

- Wait, my friend, the count repeated.

- You mock me, sighed Maximilien falling once more from the height of his ardor to the abyss of sadness. You do as good mothers do or, rather, selfish mothers, who settle through honeyed words the child's pain, because the screaming tires them. No, my friend. I was mistaken when I told you to take heed. You fear nothing. I shall bury my pain carefully within the bottom of my chest, I shall cover it and I shall conceal it to such a degree that you will not even care to deplore it.

- I feel such pity for you, Maximilien, believe me, such pity that if I will not heal you in a month, day after day, hour after hour, remember well what I say upon you, I shall put you myself in front of loaded pistols and a cup full with the surest of poisons, with a poison stronger than the one which has killed Valentine. *

Leadership: Does the consciousness you practice at any point in your life introduce a sign of probability into your reference system to limit the manifestations of the height of your greatness?

Only when you are challenged will something happen within you. Something new seems to materialize, transforms, struggles, gathers and you're under the impression that you see yourself from the distance of an existence lost through the labyrinth of a world situated at another value pole. This amalgam of states connected through the continuity of character and soul that accompany your life, is translated in a spectrum called the soul, which speaks only through the heart.

And when the soul only hums symphonies muted by longing and love, in this stage of suffering, in that second of straying into a confused and overwhelming reality, leading necessarily to one conclusion, namely, to quitting, then emerges that attitude of suspicion of everything. You come to stop believing in anything and anyone.

Here we can put a sign of probability that tends towards certainty, as a kind of life motto belonging to the comedian Moms Mabley: "Life is like poker: if you don't risk anything, there's nothing to gain."

The first step towards the conquest of leadership is that rising of the man from within himself in a completely special way, by eliminating the accumulation of meanings attributed to supreme suffering. To redefine himself as a counter-reaction to what doesn't work, so as to not be a slave of the weakness of coming to terms with his fate.

The life that your charged conscience sustains is the form of the spiritual power to taste the freedom of the illusion to control everything. It must be taken into account that the soul can only raise its power to the rank of self-evaluation if it is represented as an example of an exemplary mobilization towards acquiring a higher capacity for understanding and judging things.

Cherish yourself for what you represent when life only offers you concrete reasons for concern, when it no longer gives you reasons for happiness. Only here occurs the true test of character. The advice of a leadership guru sounds something like this: "Look within you and see if that seed that is at the core of future achievements exists – meaning, that unshaken confidence in your own strengths".

I believe the first step to being strong, placing yourself in a transformational leadership, in so far as it requires some retouching of the model of reacting to any kind of constraints and existential events, is to launch a "functionality" that allows for the fast search in that representation of the world related to phenomena that surpass the narrow framework of the necessity of preventing the loss of your own essence. Of your own individuality, which is expressed beyond immediate action. This functionality can be of the type of self-motivation: "Nothing can turn me against my own conscience."

And salvation, great through the unconditional love of someone or something, and facing the demon within you, self-deprecating thoughts, comes from where "Must" mixes with "I can", offering a measure of order in a state of chaos.

When you get to not fear anything, to not regret anything, when you get to bury your pain with so much care within the bottom of your chest, and not just conceal it like a fragile trail from which you risk crashing off of at the very first hard trial, but in such a way in which you can never go back unless you pay with your life, only then does the attempt of representing yourself as being stronger stand out.

The power of the soul can acquire a huge significance by the fact that it is willing to gain its faith in a divine plan, and to live through it, only when it scans the horizon from the height of the fire to the precipice of sadness, or vice versa.

Tombstone refers to the spiritual pain life brings with itself, forcing man to blindly obey its rules. And the man with leadership qualities is an operating system with strong emotions, running commands introduced by a program line that describes a resistance to any kind of estrangement from the realities of life.

Life itself tests the strength of character of a leader, introducing a sign of probability – which expresses alike the cataloguing of the past and the prediction of the future – in his system of reference in order to limit his manifestations. Does he have the ability to transform his experiences into an ambition that doesn't fill up with anxiety?

Tomorrow Is Already Far Away

On February 28, 2014

Develop a better self-understanding, one that will maintain the maturity and responsibility on which leadership is built upon.

I find it inexplicable how hard it is for me to remember what followed. I want to speak of the chain of events that followed. I wasn't at all sure where to start, everything was here. But since then, it felt like a knife was cutting my life in half. It seemed to me that it was a life I was not prepared for. A terrible overcrowding of people and events in which I no longer controlled anything.

*Things revolved around me without my participating to the events. So at least it seemed. There are a lot of things that bother us, deprive us, which we must endure, of which we only think about when they cross our lives.

Leadership: Can you customize your experience of seeing things as they are, not as they seem, as one of the most eloquent events that put you in the position of choosing what you want to be in the vortex of life?

Individualizing your experience of seeing things as they are, not as they seem, is to give a note of originality to those aspects that are not removed from memory as to what regards the selective nature of important events. Things can denote a reality that extends everywhere through the prism of what amuses your mind, or on the contrary, through the prism of what troubles your mind, so you can be better in discovering the propensity for comparison with a previous standard of living.

Most often, when we analyze ourselves, gradually trying to amplify the understanding of causes and evolution from one stage of life to another, we forget the landmarks of precedence and becoming. And during the attempts to accomplish the leadership model, because of this reason being obligated to verify the assumptions of our own thinking, we largely form the image we have about ourselves. An image that is distinguished by a succession of transitions between states, influenced by events that trigger positive or negative reactions.

What you want to be in the vortex of life does not depend on the accomplishment of all things to perfection, but to the nature of the things that are imprinted in your consciousness, of those things that manifest themselves as thoughtful experiences of realities experienced through captivating experiences, treated as SÍNE QUA NON.

An incomplete or unclear representation about the amount of experience that we can accept to have the opportunity to promote our values, basing a certain conception of the world and life, has the disadvantage of conditioning us to be different from the world around us. But we must be prepared to make the decisive step towards acquiring the ability to integrate the things near us in a new world, of experiences of attachment to the values of life (inspiration, social status, ambition, tolerance, spirituality, etc.)

The relationship you have with everything around you comes from important events that you realize are limiting situations in which something is revealed, beyond the seemingly ritualistic and monotonous appearance of your life.

Someone well said: "Decide how you want to live your life – no matter how you imagine it – because only then will you have the patience to bear the "sweat" that will certainly come in your way."

There are a lot of things that we must endure, things we only think about when life crosses us. But that "sweat" underlies the essential condition for obtaining a better understanding of ourselves that can support our maturity and responsibility on which leadership is built upon.

An extreme situation may reveal that side of your personality which does not represent and does not honor you, which says: "If I do not get involved, nothing can touch me."

The increasing of the capacity of integrating life experience within the framework of leadership is due to your power of enduring and controlling the events that happen to you. Measure your self-image once with the determination of that obvious state that creates or nullifies your good mood, so you can overcome the barriers that stops you from seeing beyond appearances and prejudice.

Only lived and assumed experience teaches you to answer life's questions and how to integrate the answers – the truths of your thinking – in leadership.

The maturity and responsibility on which leadership is built results from the pressure of the events that you must endure with stoicism in order to find a meaning that troubles your being and fuels the idea of the autonomy of life.

Tomorrow Is Already Far Away highlights that experience acquired during life that contributes to obtaining a better understanding of ourselves, whose value can have a major impact in strengthening leadership.

Be sure that life, whenever it overshadows your present with the expectation of a future achievement, with a frustration of days passed or a feeling of what's to come, is testing you to see if you are ready for the maturity exam.

Total Acceptance Into The Indefinite

On March 20, 2015

Seek to find out what you are not, by transforming yourself into a creator of unlimited possibilities of personalizing the knowledge through the transfiguration of reality.

I crossed unexpected borders, as if from one world to another, thoroughly mixed, towards everything ripe to for the evolutionary and dynamic process. I, a man inclined towards the values of earthly life, he to whom a revelation of the hidden would awaken the impetuous need to migrate to the version of truths that have, with time, become lies. You must always know what you seek so that you may know what you are not.

Helpless, I fell prey to misleading thoughts, small glimpses of the limited being that continuously repeated themselves with few choices of answer, and in this sense, the door towards the attempt of escaping reality remained closed. But I did not understand what was with the windows that remained open, experiencing a phenomenon of exaggeration, because I seemed to orient myself, same as a painter seeks the plasticity of expression for an idea he wishes expressed, towards a distancing from the truth, towards a superior version of my own self, towards an almost impossible absolute.

A thousand heavens fall into the fourth dimension of the invisible universe, as a phenomenon of inexplicable resonance, splitting the crystals of fire in a single disclosure. And, suddenly, you are condemned to have a seat between your own fictions, worthy of a Kafka novel, of a Joseph K. evolving from normal to absurdity.

To be someone completely different was the premise of a total re-absorption of the extremities of a continuous axis of the never-before tried. Whoever tried to understand me would have been deceived, confused. They would've lost the sense of time that passed ever so quickly as their mind would've been busy discerning incomprehensible phenomena.

Only a master of chemical compositions, bearing within him all that is more realistic and genuine, knowing how to extract the expression of a state of matter from any relation of concentration, at first unclearly outlined, and then, gradually, more precisely defined, only he would succeed in controlling the access to that dimensionless space, which the famous author Artur Silveștri called "the indefinite." A space that connected me to a potential reality, defined by total acceptance.

Leadership: Do you propose yourself to an interpretation as a prototype of the New Man, in a general or particular way?

When man directly faces realities that manifest themselves as being inconsistent with the whole image of the world, between the intensity of the exercise of intellect and the volume of the effort of all possibilities of understanding the indefinite, along the portion of lines that make a 90-degree angle with knowledge, it is then that a cause and effect relationship is felt. A reversal of the entire vision.

In art, this is similar with being receptive to everything that is new, through the developing the ability of being part of an experiment whose premise is the phenomenon of exaggeration. Do you dare to undertake such an adventure?

Lebanese artist Khalil Gibran said that exaggeration is the truth that lost its patience. Which means, even if the question "to what extent can you remain the creator of endless possibilities?" is still to be clarified, to relate to a series of amplifications of creativity into a different direction, thus migrating towards a version of truths that can, with time, become either essentialities or lies in the perimeter of knowledge.

A sort of combination of thought, expression of ideas and an openness to knowledge through experience and intuition of the world, in terms of multiple and sometimes uncontrollable conditions, which generates an expansion of your own consciousness to where you no longer feel your limits. In leadership, this expansion signifies a trend towards accepting the impossible as a protest against those restrictions of identity that prohibit any representation of reality by connection with the imaginative space, in order to become a different man.

The New Man is a discovery of the creative spirit awakened by the pure astonishment of the need to frame the mystery of the unforgettable representation called "Myself" in a scientific game with the obscure, with darkness and light, with the absurd and surrealism, from which will eventually result the Wonderful New World.

You should always know what you're looking for so that you may know that which you are not, even if this involves that wild courage of believing in an idea with all your heart, by connecting to a fictional reality.

And when you find something new and want to appreciate the benefits of a possible disclosure of a new perspective, rising up victoriously over the inconveniences encountered throughout the whole challenge called "What if?", you turn into an individuality of a distinct originality, into a whole of a specific manner, into the man of tomorrow.

You can propose yourself to an interpretation as a prototype of the new man, in a general or specific way, depending on your inclination towards a distancing from the truth, towards a superior version of your own self and towards an almost impossible absolute. The general way refers to the simple act of practicing thought that portrays reality in an objective and truthful manner. While the specific way means overreaching the mark far beyond the limits of linear thinking.

And, not least, you become the result of an interpretation over what makes you think, over what you expect to be expressed within you and through you.

To turn into a creator of limitless possibilities of customizing science by transfiguring reality means to follow your fulfillment through an act of modelling your thinking under the impetus of a constant force called "progressive point of view" that flows from how you see the world and not from how others act in it.

Total Acceptance Into The Indefinite refers to the possibility of man to be able to control access to that dimensionless space – of experimenting new approaches, constantly oscillating between the two worlds (that of reality and that of fiction), without any kind of limitation.

Only there where you directly encounter realities that manifest themselves as being contrary to the opinion of others, of which you may be inclined to believe that it changes known truths, through a kneading and baking of thoughts within the oven of the mind, even with the price of some exaggerations, will the path to the surreal man be opened. The only one who will be able to give meaning to topics less addressed.

Total Transformation

On April 06, 2016

Remodel yourself by creating a fertile self-analyzing space, from which you can see the clear difference between what is authentic and what you perceive in a limited way.

I felt that I wanted to live for a new version of fantasy that vibrated within me, enticing by the tendency to find myself everywhere and nowhere, experiencing the experience of a character I could not detach myself from. A shadow, like Casper - the Friendly Ghost - that must destroy the haunting spirits emerging from the underground to stop the mission. It is an art to know how to integrate yourself into the setting of space-time circumscribed to the undetermined, fantastic reality by promoting closer cooperation between the artist and his creation.

This joyous, seamless, appealing desire through the suspense and mystery that only stories know to convey, I myself being in the skin of the one beyond the bounds of the acceptable, awakened within me when I first entered the secret universe of a thriller with a high epistemic complexity, maintained by the weight of first-class fiction.

I had surpassed all my deeds, every desire that opposed me, every dream, every moment that fed my life's purpose. The intensity of the experience of processing the invisible, dominating any Ars combinatorial, I favored the founding document of the new realism in a long-awaited "next episode."

Leadership: Do you think that the recognition of your progress in studying the underground you develop could be more clearly highlighted by the introduction of a perspective of finalizing an outside monitoring?

The imperious motivation to become aware of contexts of disappearance from reality and integration into the atypical décor of a space-time, from other angles of approach to my complexities, might have colored the feeling that I found myself in a certain sense: I myself was my own creation.

Let us recall what Lamartiniere surrendered to King Louis XV, examining his joy and suffering, trying to find a remedy, a means of defending boredom:

- Sire, take heed of what I am telling you now. There once was a very intelligent king named Sardanapal, as clever as yourself, your Majesty, though he lived about two thousand eight hundred years before her. He liked life and took care to use it well. I know that he has thoroughly sought the means to train the body and the spirit in discovering the pleasures of the lesser known. These have led to only one result: total transformation.

There was but one type of pleasure Sardanapal had not experienced, and he left it for the very end: the pleasure of burning at the stake with his riches. This too is a form of extinction.

The underground developed by a man is the same as an appearance of a scene from his life in an overall representation: first you have to match the nuance of your own creation to an action story with heroes of legend, then you must monitor the main sequences and key elements in terms of a secondary look that perceives things from the most unusual of perspectives.

Leadership: Can you build your personality in the form of an answer to the question: "In what way have you captured yourself in your own creation?"

Mystery and suspense, taken to extremes, create the feeling that you are losing everything in an interesting story, disconnecting from the real world. But you must know the limits of mystery and suspense.

Leadership, according to the saying "No man attended the courses of the art of living until he was tempted by the whims of their misunderstandings", consists in combining, if possible, those thinking styles and ideas necessary to create a fertile area of self-analysis from which results the clear difference between what is authentic and what we perceive in a limited way.

Socrates said the secret of change is to focus all your energy not on the struggle with what is old, but on building the new. Reformulating and completing, we can say that leadership is a product of the background in which all attempts to find yourself in someone else are incorporated in order to reject or accept yourself to find out the unknowns in the equation of novelty.

Every man is seeking his transformation, one way or the other, and finds it elsewhere than he could have imagined. To see from a hidden place the animation of the painting called life, man builds his identity within an imaginary world, taken from films or books, as a remedy against the boredom of being in the ordinary perimeter.

Often the personality of a leader is built as a response to the question "in which way have you captured yourself in your own creation?", containing a description of the values of an inverted image of his being, from which the sense of belonging to another story, to another present and future can be born to another character.

The creation from which man's existence is made out of requires a focusing of your own thoughts, intentions, and sensations in a random but unique direction, through the expressivity transmitted by a latest news, appreciated by "readers".

Total Transformation is the consequence of exceeding the boundaries of the acceptable, through your "disappearance" and your placing within a real that can represent the promise of a different type of reunion with yourself.

Always in the steps of your own searches and training you will be driven by the "shadow" vector of the character you cannot detach yourself from.

Towards His New Night Was One Without End

On October 30, 2016

Try to induce a significant force necessary to ensure the control of a new direction in life, placing yourself in a mediator position: between the surprises of life and the pressure of an excessive morality.

I had a curious, ruddy need, that dominant to relive my stay alongside the mandatory condition of my creative personality, my essential nature, in a foreign world where communication was very difficult. I seemed deep in total darkness, a darkness of understanding that flew over that part of creation that I considered accessible to all, but which proved to be more and more an obstacle for those who had not invested enough time in the study and practice of Kabbalah.

A new positioning under the sign of respect for the question of the origin of my reserves vis-à-vis superior knowledge was given to me as pure reason, ignored so often by that conviction of the inner reality that makes you believe that you are always in a different situation, and implicitly, in a different place.

And only this knowledge, reflecting the aspiration to what is inadmissible to be known, was prefigurated at the horizon of my expectations piled in a spectacular leap to what the German philosopher Karl Jaspers called Transcendence.

The life of a creator is the sum of knowledge that you sincerely expose in front of a mirror that reflects divine perfection. I had entered an acute phase of existence, in an enigmatic delusion, when I gave up any hope of dedicating myself to taking responsibility for everything that surrounded me. Only in order to follow a "third wave" type of concept that defied life and death, present and future, vigilance and slumber.

And if this mortal world would lay the foundations for certain categories of existence, and if the definition of existence as the basis of things leads to a static view of reality, then perhaps I could put myself in the position of the initiator of a metaphysics of finality between law and nonlaw.

Leadership: Do you commit to overcoming the end of a perspective limitation in a wider context of development through the notion of "role" attributed to a Creator who leaves his imprint of intelligence at all levels of perception of life?

Reader, do you remember what comfort the Count of Monte Cristo sent to that young man, Maximilien, who had entered the darkness of worldly mischief, when one of the fates of destiny made him doubt the goodness of God? Towards his new night was an endless one, fed more forcefully by a saint of bright darkness:

"You do not have to look to the dead, Maximilien, but beyond – showing him the sky. You, child, who still doesn't know what the promise of a great man is, I have told you twenty times that if you still want death, I'll help you die ! Goodbye ! "

Needless to reproduce the fight against this point of view, an experience of knowledge that cannot secure its borders, valid for determining the orientation towards a given situation that cannot be tested by any admissible evidence. The count was not only a great connoisseur of the problems of the human soul, gaining an increased power over the personality of many people, but he was also a creator of unexpected events, proceeding according to the method of divine perfection, like a magician who, having special powers, can perform all kinds of wonders.

Great knowledge is the attribute of divine perfection that determines the course of events, implying that mystique of transcendence which is nothing but a reinterpretation of the meaning of life. But which is also a joyful experience – the joy of having made a great step, if not even the most important step towards self-becoming, and even the flowering of personality with a vital need: overcoming the end of a limitation of perspective in a broader context of development through the notion of role.

Leadership: Can you bring your creation to the level of impact on events by facilitating the interaction between the moments that trigger emotions and increase the connection to the divine essence?

A creator has the role of bringing his creation to the level of impact on events, so as to facilitate a better interaction between the moments that trigger emotions and increase the connection to the divine essence. Role, in the sense of leadership that honors and disarms, ultimately by promoting the most effective way to influence and direct the process of personality formation, lies in the present convergence condition, where three different realms meet:

A realm of astonishing extremes and contrasts, untouched by the passage of time. A realm of knowledge. And a realm of the deepest emotions, overwhelming by the experiments experienced by the average individual.

A man of superiority is A Destiny and A Merit. One Cause and One Consequence. In most cases, he is placed in a mediator position: between the surprises of life and the pressure of an excessive morality, being the catalyst of the perception of what is condemnable, being the only being with perspectives of detachment from the immediate condition and with the perspective of designing a certain learning in the future.

At the same time, the main part of the role is that conviction of the inner reality that makes you think that you are always in a different situation, implicitly in another place. According to this belief, of course in an era of challenges, the only factor in the development of superiority is to induce the idea that everything outside of you is a reflection of what you have not yet accepted from yourself.

Sometimes, in order to make a transfer of personality, you must first be that part of the personality rejected by the other people, whom they must attach to in time to formulate their own personality theory.

We know that a creator is of divine essence when the immensity of his knowledge reflects on events, so that everything that happens around him is part of an embodiment that takes the place of reality.

But let us not forget that too great an alteration of reality leads to a decrease of morality understood as pure and unalterable ideality, above the accidentality of the condition of Creator.

Towards His New Night Was One Without End suggests man's desire to know what is unacceptable, unattainable, but whose symbolic intrigue induces a significant force necessary to ensure the control of a new direction in life.

Transformational Leadership

On August 09, 2014

Create new versions of personal transformation, clarifying the hidden meanings of the thoughts and actions born from the effervescence of creation.

Filming is now taking place in an atmosphere of great tension. Filming lasts twelve hours a day and sometimes with five devices running simultaneously in order to save time. The exteriors are done in August 1928 when the crew heads back to Moscow for the studio shoots. In this period of intense work, Eisenstein simultaneously begins his gigantic theoretical activity. He now writes while greatly analyzing his work from a scientific and aesthetic point of view.

The aim of these numerous writings was to find, to clarify the hidden meanings of thoughts and actions born from the effervescence of creation, to prepare for the next steps. *****

Leadership: Do you act as a tool to stimulate intellectual creation that underlies the production of an alternative science, referring to the theoretical manner of clarifying the role of a new level of thinking and value priority?

A leader that fights for the conquest of a new competition with himself can find his unity of meaning and potential of performance, but also the mobile of all of his aspirations towards higher peaks, in the process of taking over and constituting a new content of an intellectual "particular", strongly supported scientifically. The particular is a form of measuring the complexity of a project from the perspective of the expansiveness effect of a thrilling subject that is the intrigue of an inspired writing.

He who possesses originality constantly tries to create new versions of personal transformation, clarifying the hidden meanings of thoughts and actions born within the heat of creation. How? By enhancing the capacities of absorption and transmission of knowledge, by enhancing the capacities of analysis and understanding of the impact of his science, updated by the irreproachable quality of the thinking carried out by himself through the means of theoretical activity.

The linear progress of personal value, keeping that property of continuity in the sense of achieving new performances of intellectual order, by implementing the results of scientific research, one doesn't need to circumvent attentive, systematic and profound study of this component of the work of creation, which I have generically called: "Partialis Creatium."

"Partialis Creatium" is only a fraction of what the whole system of construction of the judgement of the leader represents, based on an assessment of professional activity according to specific criteria of comparison with what it tries to acquire by path of evolution. And it is drawn from a colossal power of research and innovation.

Or, if you put it another way, "Partialis Creatium" is the genuine vector of renewal which is the leader in the art world and in the way it integrates itself into a version of being, related to a new, more pronounced evolution, towards the assimilation of knowledge and the formation of a personality structure with special intellectual abilities.

Leadership: Do you take part in the work of a creative subject that shapes itself according to the usualness of a line of thought that lives only through fixed form?

The artist extracts a few personal impressions from what they've seen and heard and says: "behold, this is how it is". And through the future prospects he create, in reality and in the lives of others, as the premises of the means of expression, he extracts this component of optimization of personal evaluation from the source of science accumulated over time, in order to obtain a new change of style. And he says:"behold what I have done, how I did it and this is the result."

Leadership is the result of continuous polishing, by acquiring and optimizing what is the best in the innovator's thinking, possible to be placed under the sign of exceptionality only when it becomes a tool to stimulate intellectual creation underlying the production of alternative science.

A line of thought that lives only through fixed form is a way of approaching a very interesting topic from the perspective of a single concept of art, science, the world and life, through which the use of means of expression (script, montage, decors, effects) becomes the promise of confirming the identity that separates you from others.

Transformational Leadership refers to finding a version of development and improvement, as qualitative and as advanced as possible, by improving personal standards obtained after a thorough analysis of thoughts and actions arising from the effervescence of creation.

Trapped Between Man And God

On December 30, 2017

Separate yourself from what limits you, so that you may soar beyond what you yourself are.

The events that took place concerned the entirety of Paris. Emmanuel and his wife told themselves about them with a natural astonishment, linking the three catastrophes, as devastating as they were unexpected, that had befallen those who sent Edmond Dantes to death.

Indeed – Julie said – it would be said that all of these wealthy men, so happy yesterday, had forgotten the part of the evil Spirit, in the calculation on which they had founded their wealth, happiness, and due respect. And the Spirit, like a bad fairy from Perrault's stories, uninvited to some wedding or baptism, suddenly came to take revenge for this transgression.

- So many misfortunes ! So many sufferings ! Emmanuel said, thinking of Morcerf, Danglars, and Villefort.

- If God struck them – Julie said – that is only because God, who is the supreme kindness, had found nothing in their past worthwhile to reduce their punishment. It means that all these people were cursed.

From the next room, unseen and yet perfectly shaped, however victorious, the Count of Monte Cristo reviews his deeds with some trace of regret, but inspired by the self-reconciliation that God occasions only to those He offered this irreplaceable stimulus for a heart:

"A thousand of your side will fall and ten thousand to your right, but they will not come near you. Over the venomous snake you will step. On your hands you will be uplifted to prevent your foot from stepping over a stone. And thou shalt tread upon the lion, and upon the dragon. No evil shall come unto you. Neither the dread of the night shall you fear, neither the arrow that soars during the day, neither the plague that walks in the dark, and neither the plague that haunts the day at noon. For He will command His angels to keep guard of you in all your ways."

Leadership: Can you release yourself from your duty to God in favor of expressing the regret for your previous decisions with all their bitter consequences?

When the result of the gesture of force in the midst of facts or events is not severely controlled by a limitation intention, faithful to the values upon which the principles of faith are within reach, then the image that you create for yourself becomes confusing and immersed in the fog of regret.

When, on the contrary, the image is valued with a certain poignancy, through a positive self-suggestion that justifies your current wandering through the meanders of the concrete, it dominates the intentions of personal evolution.

The first principle of faith, the strongest, faithful to the image that you create, should be:"I believe that God is the Creator and Ruler of the entire world". In such a reference formula, possessing an endless potential for the encouragement of the control function, are used all means to identify with that which causes most events and influence their course – that if you are sufficiently skilled to modify the outcome of an action and the factors that reflect the true probability of that result.

Fulfilling the commitment to execute a duty to God, to try and change that fluid that crosses and connects thousands of human beings with the laws of the universe, is a summary of your entire process of developing a defensive capable of withstanding the highest level of offensive the game of chance has at its disposal. It is a complex act of thinking and action in which both the spirit of analysis and the psychological penetration capacity resulting from contact with various types of people are equally important.

Man becomes one with God when the most unexpected events favor a rapid and favorable evolution, from which he cannot stop.

Is the determination of your effectiveness limited to the uplifting and profoundly liberating feeling of the gesture of accepting your own deeds, through an attitude of forgiveness of mistakes that does not cancel nor modify the character of your own personalism?

Personalism is a concept according to which God is a person, or as well defined by the dictionary, it is a doctrine that bases existence on a plurality of spiritual entities endowed with the attributes of personality and subordinate to God as a supreme being.

Personalism has a winning value if you manage sufficiently outline your privileged position strongly enough in the order of events.

In God's equation and that of the laws of the universe, this attitude of forgiveness of mistakes is not justified, moreover, any examination of deeds transpired, good or bad, strengthens the sense of control and belonging to a certain space of autonomy to the greatest extent possible. That is why practices or styles adopted by leaders are considered to be a technique of representing psychic processes at different levels of conscious control.

Psychic processes are interactions of the relationship between the individual and the surrounding reality. They are divided into three categories: cognitive psychological processes (cognitive), affective psychic processes, regulative psychic processes (involuntary and voluntary). (tpu.ro)

The secret language of leadership begins with the analysis of the nature and significance of personal existence in the eventuality of a particular type of control over the mind that is in dialogue with God.

Trapped Between Man And God is the one who tasted the cold and inflexible steel of the sword called "chance of success", there where destiny wants to leave traces of suffering.

Traveler Through Space And Time

On December 17, 2015

Check your authenticity, adopting the status of a superior being in relation to the newly discovered world.

I step decisively on the imagined path on which I find no point of return, repeatedly justifying the faith in all that is without end. A situation manifesting itself as a consequence of imagining a sort of connecting bridge between two antagonistic worlds. The world of lecture hidden on the background of an answer to the question: "what happened to reality?", when everything calls for the plausible need at different levels of synthesis compared to the creations of an inspirational writer. And the endless world of the associations between painting applied against the backdrop of an imaginary landscape and the dream of an open mind of a magical universe.

Causative, engulfed by that spark of inspiration of a physician who tries to bring into contact two bodies whose temperatures differ, so as to produce a spontaneous transfer of energy in the form of heat, through conduction, I understood that my place is rather amongst the stars, than amongst mortals. For when I deliberately alienate myself and dream of a knowledge that is neither literary-artistic nor scientific, I feel as if I live in a heaven that is no longer ending, cutting the unknown into two bizarre parts: a part filled with the beauty that surpasses all truth and a part filled with the symbolism of long battles around the soul.

The universe is the world that encompasses you when you alienate yourself into a desert where you have to discover the secrets of beauty, feeling yourself present in it as the shadow of a glory that you have to reinvent. And if every star has its own immortal, and if within the DNA of every mortal are found stored the traces of star dust mixed with a dose of solar matter, in the form of renewable energy, maybe I would've been able to satisfy my curiosity vis-à-vis what I represented on Earth's plane. And why.

Leadership: Can you be yourself in a world that constantly tries to mold you into something else, without remaining tributary to the life in which nothing immortal happens?

I was reading earlier in Terra Utopia, about a guy whose knowledge of physics led him to think of an alternative method of making a miniature star. After about a month of trials, dangerously failed, he tried to forge it without combustion. Only friction between electrons. He took two materials from the lab, which when put in contact, generate electrons. Then, he unfolded them into atomic dust. Putting them in contact, in a spherical form, he managed to create a mini electrical storm, with lightning and movements of the dust. But, as seconds went by, the sphere would increase its shape and decrease its number of lightnings. By taking some sand and compacting it to the maximum of powers, he succeeded in creating a bottle with a density greater than that of a diamond.

To speak of matter, of its effect on the fragile life and the death that follows it, seems to be a continuation of teachings extracted from an intermediary experience – of a complicated alchemy. They are but soulless words and theories sifted in the roar of time, as dreams bearing the letterhead of scientific discoveries. And which, in time, lose their shine. Only dust becomes of them.

The life I seem to be living is only important through the adventure of knowledge at the level of astrology, metaphysics, and esotericism. Somehow, I seem to be the slave of a zodiac that plays with the oneiric projection of non-earthly mysteries, generating multiple meanings, to all the creation that I experience with all that struggle that all artists let themselves be devoured by, to take it out of themselves and to give it to an ancient people, yet unprepared to embrace the infinity of a drop of immortality.

The universe fits into a grain of sand on the beach of a planet from another universe. Only time and the miracle of transformation make the transition from one to the other.

Leadership: Can you provide a plausible meaning to the world you adhere to, extending your concerns beyond the limits of science?

The inventor is defined in the light of what he discovers through research and experimentation, able to conceive, therefore, the signs of a new episode of triumph over the making of new scientific achievements. He is likely to turn the whole world into a system of objects, of the "plus-product" and of the relationships between them. On the other hand, the creator of the world reevaluates his life from the perspective of a journey in time and space, beyond the limits of the limited ego, so that he himself exists as an infinite universe.

The act of creation, grouped around the mark of a horizon's beginning, may plead exclusively to the value of knowledge, but without having any real contact with the very nature of man himself. With the succession of states, thoughts, and actions in the equation of representing a new human type.

The act of creation can even degenerate into an excess of demonstration of the qualities of a new sense of life. And this excess can diminish sensitivity towards what happens in the inner-spiritual world of man.

Do you live as if you don't exist? Well then, the chains of your crafts can be comforting only when you exist as an inner being, which means you have to be focused on your evolution and your growth as a being aware of its foundation. Otherwise, you become a traveler who turns north only because everyone else turns south, constantly seeking a shred of authenticity between "n" stops.

Leadership is the universe in which you discover yourself, manifest yourself, and become accustomed to living as a screenwriter who always challenges the rules of collage and montage, looking at everything from the abyss of himself or from the distance of a seemingly insurmountable distances between "old man" and "new man".

The Traveler Through Time And Space represents the weaker part of the "contract" between science and the inner world, having a major impact only on the transformation of ideas and concepts and innovative applications.

But a being comprised fully within the endless act of creation cannot exercise its attribution of a "transmitter of moods and feelings". Its place is rather among the stars, than among mortals.

A field such as leadership, at the same time belonging to the two representations, that of man and the other of science, presents itself as a notion that characterizes a relational attitude between duty and feeling, between passion and conscious, between selfishness and self-denial.

Do not forget that much more wonderful than the garment you wear and accessorize... is you.

Traveller Towards Infinity

On February 10, 2010

Show a strong leadership attitude, by making always a step forward towards greater horizons.

Motivated by daring ideas, brave until the end, vigorous in work, animated by the will to fulfill their dreams, ambitious, tenacious and optimistic, some people have been rushed to unknown destinations - far away and risky. To get where no one has ever gone, to do what they have promised and what no one else has ever managed to do, that being their greatest reward and joy.

That is why, the actions of these bold seekers of new horizons, predestined to fulfill certain missions, fated to impose their stunning visions, will remain eternal. Only those who tenaciously follow their objectives, with an acute sense of time and personal mission, with a lot of conviction and determination, will be able to highlight the most precious qualities and cultivate sympathy among other people.

Leadership: Is the destination you tend towards the infinite that you do not see, but the one that God has sprinkled in you?

Humanity will never forget the great explorer and scientist Fridtjof Nansen, who was always ready to face things with a dose of unimaginable great courage. His accomplishments surpassed any imagination. He was passionate about winter sports. He made himself noticed pretty quickly in the world, the skis bringing him true glory in sports. At only 17 years, he was a champion of Norway.

However, for a man with a powerful will and great ideals, one award, one medal is not enough. As evidence, for 12 years in a row he won all cross-country skiing competitions. He was also a world champion in speed skating.

For a man like Nansen, daring, inventive and adventurous, the sports could not overshadow his other aspirations. Always proving firmness and inspiration, he always set other goals, more and more high, more ambitions, and more difficult to achieve. So, he set another unimaginable record. He was the first who succeeded to cross Greenland by ski, a harsh and an unexplored country at that time. His glory travelled round the globe.

But, as always, his extraordinary merits could not stop him and continued with other high goals. The thirst for adventure gave him no peace. With an unequalled courage, determination and love of life, afterwards, he set another goal, higher, more ambitious, and more difficult to reach: to cross the North Pole. Together with his crew aboard the ship Fram, he succeeded to sail along the coasts of Asia, where the skeptics had foreseen great difficulties. Then, by skis, together with his friend Johansen, he managed to reach the northernmost point that was ever reached. Nansen's great feat became famous for all around the globe once again.

Infinity is the gift given to man by God for the accomplishments that individualize him, by rewarding his efforts with the freedom to rise above his own limits.

Leadership: Can you ensure yourself visibility and greater control while climbing, in the various agreements with the conditions of valorising your potential?

A generally valid protection against the avalanche of favorable initiatives for evolution is the search for more comprehensive interaction patterns with change "from top to bottom"

In other words, it is not enough to rise to what you can become, through the ideals that you continually serve, much more important is how you orient your will while descending.

However, with increased visibility and control when climbing, in various agreements with the terms of valuing your leadership potential, which always asks its ownership of the abilities to explore infinity, in the sense of understanding the monumental, but especially in the sense of a new and different life dynamics, you will open new perspectives to leadership.

This can happen only by individualizing your own experience and through the interpretation of what lies beyond the appearances, beyond the impossible, beyond the current situation. Who are you really and what you can become through the art of showing yourself strong and unstoppable?

If you search for a long time to climb the steps of infinity, you can reach great inner control, keeping aloof from discouragement, so that external factors do not affect you in any way. However, the opposite is also true. But I think that most people are far from "the external independence", but rather attached to that "inner balance" that does not allow them to evolve to the topmost level.

Can you evolve towards your version of "being", which brings you maximum satisfaction and supplement your personal value with new performance elements?

Leadership: Do you establish your starting position in a race with no return, aligning yourself with the following direction of reference: "Infinity is the peak that will always rise in the eyes of those who try to encompass it"?

Nansen was the type of competent and brave leader. He always went further, and further, permanently setting new goals. He never allowed himself to stay inactive, as the rest would have made him even more tired. He became the ambassador of Norway in England; he became noted as professor of oceanography at the Academy of Sciences in Christiania. He became involved in many humanitarian campaigns, such as aiding the Armenian refugees in Turkey, he became Commissioner, he wrote various books, which have travelled round the world, he made a complex study of the maritime currents and movement of the glaciers in the Polar Basin and many more.

Until he was 70 years old, until the very last minute, Nansen always went ahead ! Always forward ! His life can be summarized in an ever-lasting run for his goals, an ever-lasting competition with himself, an endless desire for adventure, and an endless series of goals and hopes apparently impossible to reach.

Someone noted very well once: „Infinity is the peak that will always go higher in the eyes of those who want to encompass it." The people who are very strong connected to a mentality of accomplishments, based on optimism and perseverance, will always be looking for new challenges, for a lifetime. Too bad that life is too short for a long story, isn't it?

A man of great deeds shows his respect for what motivates him inwardly, even if he does not know well where he is heading and what awaits him !

Only a man unyielding in fulfilling his dreams can get where nobody has ever been before.

Only a man pushed by huge ambitions, which pulsates energy, can make his way to fame and glory. Only a traveler to infinity is able to start the adventure of his lifetime and always open, until the very last moment, new doors.

Are you such a person? Do you demonstrate a strong attitude in leadership by the commitment that you take, that of always opening new doors to a world that you will discover little by little? Are you are a seeker of new horizons, predestined to fulfill certain missions, fated to impose their absolutely extraordinary visions? Are you distinguishing yourself by the obvious concern that you have towards your time? Where do your achievements stop?

Leadership is the vision from which the greatness of going over a too ambitious distance towards excellence takes shape, in the much too short time that life gives you.

Conclusion: We are all travellers in this life, we have high goals and ideals. Nevertheless, how many of us will be able to permanently open new doors to unknown realms?

Show a strong leadership attitude, by making always a step forward towards greater horizons.

True Superiority

On May 08, 2016

Change the perception of your own being, depending on the position or angle from which you view each of the experiences that made you who you are.

I locked myself away in silence, in the secret of a calling towards higher occupations. This strange phenomenon could only be explained through the charm represented by the reaching of a higher level of spirituality, in the face of a so-called inclination towards a new vision of identity that, in order to trigger, needed external "auspicious" circumstances.

Something estranged me from the rest of the world, that acute sensation of multiple discoveries, the stimulating function of resized revelations that could later induce a mystical experience, dense as the clouds that cover the sun, turning me into the standard of an inertial system of reference, an "outsider" of current society. Although I had given out all the best in me, through my way of thinking, through the way in which my thinking so vividly expressed its immeasurable force determining the projections of a super-universe, I still couldn't manage to define what was true and what was an error.

Leadership: How do you navigate between the pose of creator and that of creation in your own transformation so that you create a symbiosis between your will to transform and the power to be transformed?

Sometimes it seemed that I was dreaming. Nothing attracted me more than the explosive energy of a life experience associated to a particular dimension – that of the depth arising from an act of contemplation, replacing the relations of transforming the spatial-temporary coordinates of the framework of meeting myself, dreaming that I'm dreaming, that the dream chose me, and not the other way around... that I am not myself, but rather a different one from within me. Everything seemed so real in such a large unreal.

The magician tried to use reality beyond the visible to have power over the world in front of him, tensing up to the last limit of reason the muscles of those vital organs called: side effects, but not without transposing in the depiction of a man condemned to endlessly experience the projections of his own memories, ending up by conversing with imaginary characters.

Magic is the path towards constructing a character from which it is hard for you to believe you could escape. Enter its world and see for yourself !

Leadership: Do you accept to be a master only at your own home or do you have the ridiculous expectation to be so at others' as well?

Talleyrand, the misunderstood Sphinx, the triumph of intelligence and subtlety from the shadow of Bonaparte, sought nothing other than peace during the whole events of those times, and awaited it in the virtue of the following idea: "True superiority means to be a master at your own home and to never have the ridiculous expectation to be so at others' as well."

Seeing it as a metaphor, this "at your home, and never at others'" is a consequence of the particularity of the superior being that dared to ensure the hidden geometry of its personal space, typical of the oneiric drawings of Escher. From this expression escapes the satisfaction of abandonment in the face of the supreme self-charged with peace, that spiritual atmosphere you feel the need to enjoy and take advantage of, that attitude of invulnerability in a framework that doesn't contravene the laws of the outside world.

Superiority is a retreat from what is predictable, the culmination of a clear state of consciousness that brings about novelty, sacred peace, making it so that the final truth of the outer world will be your truth. The withdrawal does not occur as long as man is not mastered by that inexorable intelligence that can only exist in a single point: the culmination of the experience of limitation and difference.

Limitation is a restriction of the area in which you wish to "live", a setting in which you create your own story, it is the consequence of your remaining in the sphere of thoughts and revelations underlying your own transformation. You create yourself through what the mind forges in the background. You exteriorize yourself through the secrets that you reveal as testimonies of your own experiences, through the faculty of leaving a role and taking the place of another without judging, not beyond good and evil.

Leadership: Does the phenomenological form of the outer world coincide with your essence, with your own content, when the reality you create is provided as an "outsider" of your own becoming?

The experience of magic, built on the basis of the effects of creating an independent entity, which can be understood as a unity of emotions and ideas, as a direct activity of what we call Mind, Soul, and Will, consists of placing yourself at a sufficiently large enough distance from what happens in the minds of others. This experience is remarkable in that it helps you overcome any obstacle between you and what could affect you in the outer reality.

Magic is the confession of some strange attachments to the science of getting whatever you want, of subduing your domination and of having an unlimited will. A magician is becoming more and more a professional when what is hidden behind appearances becomes a return to the sources of true faith in something higher than he is ordinarily.

Leadership: How do you manage to harness the inner depths when you are between reality and dream, between who you are and who you could be?

Just as two heterogeneous elements, like the saltpeter and coal, mixed in certain proportions give out the dust from which an immense explosive energy can be detached, so too can the fusion of the two experiences: "limitation" and "difference", functioning at a certain frequency of resonance, can make up an exit route from the rest of the world. In a certain time period, this leading to the creation and propelling of another entity of being towards a higher level of perception of everything it represents.

The perception of your own being depends on the position or "angle" from which you see each of those two experiences. An individual can exist in a single point, in a single moment of time, in that point in which he is the teammate of his mind, when he can compare the results of those two experiences and become a master on the direction that represents the new, complete personal change.

The reality you create is provided as an "outsider" of your own becoming when what you feel, live, experience, is expressed through a confession that does not completely disappear from the story that the world reads out of pure curiosity.

You become someone else when the perfection of your science penetrates into the hearts of other people through a confession that does not surprise them, but makes them envy you with clues they are not allowed to ignore.

True Superiority is only reached by the beings who freely enjoy the vast horizon of the inner universe. And the belief in the existence of high forces offered by science, as well as the confession of each mystery through the storyteller that plucks the thread of memories, applies to the maturity level of understanding your uniqueness and creative potential beyond appearances and assumptions, beyond the illusion that people call "reality".

The True Value Of Leadership

On October 24, 2010

Go forward on the path towards excellence, triggering the whole instinct of your genius and the whole impetus of your heart.

The master was a brilliant man. He had no inclination to exact sciences and mathematics. They were like foreign languages that he could not understand, no matter how much he would have struggled to learn them. Hence, he was a scholar, a man who has mastered a way of thinking much different from those of other people, a generating way of thinking, in essence of new ideas, connections, analogies, comparisons, symbols and different interpretations. He was a consummate artist, who always aspired to perfection. He was a great man who imposed his own talent through his own forces, efforts, unbroken determination and exemplary dedication to painting.

One day, I came to talk with him and to admire his works. He created a unique style of painting, using, with a poetic ingenuity, the most important elements of the technique in water color. Obviously, he was gifted with that original imagination, able to invent the most intense effects. I was standing next to him with humility, in an attitude full of respect and understanding. Lifting his eyes towards me and showing me a hurried smile, the master spoke with the same good faith with which he often talked to me about his paintings:

– Nicu, artists catch the best the mysteries of their fellows, but sometimes not even they are aware of it. A painter, a portraitist puts on canvas in daylight all the hidden places of the human soul. He gives voice to reality through his work.

Leadership: Do your disclosures fulfill the essential condition of intellectual and artistic creation?

A true leader expresses his vision in everything that means „a complex approach of the creation activity", inoculating within the competent people the feeling of belonging and cohesion to an ideal that measures its dimension through the force of evidence itself.

The relatively extended requests and virtues emissions that the ideal generates, are influenced by the depth nuances of the being that objectively perceives the reality around, dominating all the righteous significances. Someone pointed out on the web: "Using a piece that contains a portret needs the consent of the person represented by this portrait."

An argument in favour of this hipothesis, shifting our attention towards the individualisation wish of the creator, but first and foremost towards a guarantee of our taste for sensibility, is the patience to discover the beauty that struggles between reception and interpreting.

Leadership is the prerogative of an often rebel intelectuality, that changes reality, experimenting everything new and interesting; an intelectuality that analyses the surroundings objectively and chooses everything that would lead towards shaping a dynamic and constructive vision.

The truth, that the disclosures of creation bring to light, is the fact that cultural and intellectual production submits the creator to a continous pressure in order to deliver new meanings of expression with the value of an example. It is a truth that conforts through the depth displayed by the process of thinking that leads to acknowledging the definite values, but at the same time, it suffocates through a more than necessary closeness to an alternate pattern of ups and downs of the willingness to understand the Self.

Leadership: Can you show an inexhaustible force of suggestion by updating the image of your concrete involvement in the dynamics of an artistic path marked by a rare ideational coherence?

By his "work", which he is entitled to restore and to accomplish it freely, the leader expresses his reality, just as the great painters consciously or unconsciously express their entire universe through the masterpieces that they create.

The work of a leader sums up those sensations, perceptions, concepts, judgments and reasoning about the perceived reality, which help him manifest and express himself. A leader cannot turn his vision into reality if he does not trigger the whole instinct of his genius and the whole impetus of his heart.

Very confident in himself, penetrated by the feeling of a very personal dignity and value, he leads his strategies and guides his "creation" according to the values he believes in, so it would receive a higher meaning.

Leadership: Are you able to expand your boundaries of influence by creating value from the analysis of the fundamentals with which you argue the change of the concept of "receiving the work" that you feel solidary with?

Six hundreds years ago, when art was in high esteem, many dukes, kings and popes were ready to sell their crowns, scepters or tiaras only to be able to buy one of those beautiful gems or masterpieces coming out of the hands of masters.

A leader cannot impose himself in dealing with people, if the "work" that he has made it, is not wanted by anyone. In this case, he cannot be really called a "master" in leadership.

The reception of the work certifies a sense, not only the meaning of the work, but also the meaning of art in general, the meaning of its progress. Thus, the concept of "receiving of the work" fixes the correspondences between the meaning that allows for the movement of your recognition, through life experiences materialized in lines, forms, and shapes, and the expression of wonder and delight the viewer has when evaluating your work at its completion.

A true leader feels his mission, his invisible vocation, these are the only forces which he always give obedience. This is his nature and his destiny. However, he does not perceive with ease his debt to innermost of art. Aware that his true value is assessed according to his abilities, he puts all his forces in order to create a perfect work, able to fully capture people's attention and that would never lose its magic.

Once, a critic asked the great Romanian painter Nicolae Grigorescu what is the secret of his art. He replied: "No secret, dear sir ! I'm looking on work with my eyes, and I try to make it as I see it ! "

As a leader you must undertake a journey full of complacency: the journey to your true value. Look at you with the eyes of your soul, then, shape your potential after your own beliefs, criteria and ideas. Seek to be as you see yourself. Give voice to reality through what you are, what you think, what you feel and what you want. Got you convinced that everything is based on leadership?

Being a result of artistic creation means experiencing a state of external acceptance by internalizing the balance, harmony, coherence supposed by the "beautiful" that your art reveals.

Conclusion: Leadership can be a masterpiece or just a barren activity. It may be a beneficial amount of activity for all, or may consist only in an amount of actions that are not in anybody's benefit. The leader, in turn, can be a true artist or a ham actor, an individual who has nothing in common with the art of leadership. It depends on all of us to find ways in order to recognize a true leader and to follow him, or to unmask and eliminate the "non-leader".

Truly Creative Works Remain Exclusively In The Care Of The Creative Man

On March 29, 2022

Only the sum of all the obstacles overcome by a man gives the true and just measure of a deed, as well as to the one who accomplished it.

If I were afraid that someone might downgrade me into the hierarchy of science based on technology, then I certainly wouldn't be afraid of all those people dressed in fine suits, full of money, cars and jewelry, or with high positions. These are just for decoration. Lazy people, without any desire to work and without any exceptional talent, and any glorious deed will avoid them without a trace of regret.

I have always met people like this, a falsehood whose detection does not require too much flair, a vanishing point to which sincere indifference converges, showing the non-existent as if it existed, giving the idea that the impossible is possible. And so many times these people have caused me utter disappointment, that state in which you know something as it really is, stripped of all its imaginary qualities.

But I would be terribly afraid of that lone athlete who runs every winter, at -8 degrees, wearing a pair of second-hand sneakers. Only if he did something for science, with the same zeal with which he decided to face the cold and the capricious weather.

In the same way, if I were asked to describe this athlete in his inner gear, by an Ixalagenthis (the habit of an inner sight that precedes the outer sight), as he is in his entirety, constantly pierced by the thrills of true faith, then I would multiply its valences of severity – immediate in the case of the effort to complete an important task.

Leadership: Is the vision with which you respond to the challenges of your destiny organized in the direction of evoking a moment in the history of the world that includes the sum of all your significant deeds?

Once upon a time, skilled navigators set out in search of an illusory realm, a new Eden that would take humanity out of a historical dead end. But accomplishing such a goal involved all sorts of delays and obstacles. No wonder history remembers only a few great navigators, out of thousands of outstanding ones, those anonymous soldiers who suddenly find themselves faced with a huge mission.

Even today, such outstanding people strain their muscles with the hardness of a steel bow, being shaken in all directions by a great burden: to find a way to make themselves known. They no longer have to find a continent like America or Africa, but they have to contribute to an invention with huge potential in a certain field. For example, those who discovered the Internet, those who developed programming languages, all of them (few in number) conquered everyone, not just a part of it.

In this way, let us not forget the words of Ştefan Zweig: "In reality, it will be this insignificant and superfluous man who will become the most important representative of a new and revolutionary orientation. And a historical deed is never fulfilled, that is, definitively concluded at the moment of its realization, but only when it is passed on to posterity. What we call history is by no means the sum of all the significant events that once took place in time and space, it contains only those small fragments of light that have been revealed by the works of the creators."

Leadership: Can you place yourself in an intermediate position, with an all-encompassing horizon that identifies you with the concept of "a whole of the future replacing the present", but not too narrow to coincide with the particularity of a competitive experience?

One discovery can conquer the world. Remember that technology is the present and the future. The Internet is the first mirror of the universe, a vast library of thought. All minds are connected to a global network. And beyond that? It remains for each person to invent something, to add something to this global network. Something unique, or alternative ideas. Long-distance seekers will discover something revolutionary.

The future will change in such a way that everyone will benefit from how many new ideas they add to the internet, from the smallest topic of thought to the most difficult. There will be two kinds of discoverers: those who solve problems and those who know "how to solve the problem."

As you well know, millions of books are scanned every day in the world. One who does not have their book on the internet is akin to one not having the book written all. Those who do not promote themselves on the Internet do not have the slightest chance of surviving on the market.

Leadership: Is the greatest work of your life the heroic struggle against the resistance that earthly matter, in itself, opposes to any enterprise that rises above the ordinary measure?

Let me go back to the runner from the beginning. I would like this runner to make a small foray into his thinking process, to try a little logical floating of thinking and practicing the sport of the mind, which is not chess, but the ability to create. It is about achieving a resemblance to an infinite world through which he must deliver the world from the flames of pride that cause all collapses. Let us not forget that the pride of being good in one direction can only be justified if it brings benefits to scientific development. In this case, all the winners must keep in mind the words of Stefan Zweig:

"The truly creative works always remain exclusively in the care of the creative man who will have to carry them to the end. And indeed, the creative man leaves nothing in the care of another, not even the smallest thing: The struggle of one man on many fronts is heroic: against himself, against external adversaries, and against the resistance which earthly matter opposes, in itself, to any enterprise which rises above the ordinary measure. However, always only the sum of all the obstacles overcome by a man gives the true and just measure of a deed, as well as to the one who has accomplished it."

An important part of what leadership means can also be seen in the words of Stefan Zweig, about the great navigator and discoverer Fernando Magellan:

"And only now, when the difficulties hidden under his grand plan come to light one after another, the greatness of the soul of this man who has been in the shadows for so long is revealed. And he must foresee for himself all the unforeseen possibilities, to fight incessantly, to impose his will, surrounded by the most unexpected dangers and obstacles."

Truly Creative Works Remain Exclusively In The Care Of The Creative Man, especially if we consider the great works of creation. Let's not forget that from Michelangelo to Tesla, and from Galileo to Tim Berners-Lee, there is only a small difference in perspective. Each with his own vision.

But only one thing is certain. The man of the future will be half an athlete + half an discoverer.

Truth Looks Out For You

On October 01, 2010

Wake up in people the feeling of belonging to your leadership, by adding to your personality that quality which corresponds to the criteria of eligibility set by them.

Last night, quite by accident, I came across a short story entitled "The Painter and the Caliph", by O. Henry. The main character, a painter named Gerard Plumers, was so talented and skilful, that he managed to render to each of his portraits an expression that revealed the model's state of mind. Nobody, not even he, could explain this mystery. At first, he earned a lot of money from selling the paintings he created by order in his small workshop. The orders were plenty. People often came to him and admired his work. Until complications began to emerge.

For example, one day, an acquaintance of the painter entered by chance in his workshop and saw the painting which was still in the easel. He closely looked at the drawing. He recognized the character. It was his very own banker. "He has the face of a crook", he said with an unshaken confidence. Then, he rushed off from the workshop and ran to the bank to withdraw his deposits. He arrived too late, the honest banker had ran away with the money.

Such scenarios happened more and more often. All those who had their portrait done by the great painter were unmasked. Because he had the gift to portray them exactly as they were in everyday life. He had the gift to reveal the model's hidden sins one after the other: their knavery, vileness, trickery. It's easy to understand why nobody stepped in the workshop of the famous painter after this. Because nobody wanted their true character, well hidden in everyday life, to be recognized.

Leadership: Do you put a great emphasis on the uniqueness of the story behind the creator who makes you an accomplice in his creation, in terms of a retrospective of mistakes made during a life lived only for personal use?

Please, imagine that you enter in the workshop of painter Gerard Plumers, who has the power to reveal true human nature in his paintings. On his easel lies his latest creation, a beautiful masterpiece that, amazingly, depicts the very face of your boss. What would be your reaction when looking at the successful painting? If you know the true nature of your leader, would you still follow him?

The way you perceive your boss has a huge effect on your performance and efficiency. If the painter has rendered your boss' face in the most frightening manner, I'm afraid the following scenario will happen:

The darkest – yet most frequent scenario. You're at work. You try to concentrate on work, but the screen in your mind is too often depicting the image of your boss, whose true nature was revealed to you by the painter, with such mastery and details, through his paining.

You feel growing inside you a darkness that is too numb to be grief and too cold to be anger. You try to fight these feelings and keep yourself busy. But no work or exhaustion can chase that bitter taste of truth, that feeling of deep frustration and uncertainty the painting revealed.

Little by little, the face of your boss begins to occupy a hidden place in your heart. You know who he really is and what he's capable of, you feel him being intimidating, threatening, distant, hard to understand and not at all concerned about your feelings and those of people, generally, and that troubles your soul, brain, thoughts, consciousness. You feel your every muscle, joint and bone overloaded by your anger and negative emotions. Pride doesn't allow you to cry, but you would do it, knowing that you made the mistake of your life by taking service with the company run by such a tyrannical leader.

Leadership: Can you fix the inaccurate perception that people have of you by mirroring yourself in the space of a creation that reveals a profound sense of sadness that does not pass?

Whenever your thoughts go crazy, you remember that the face of your boss is always there, staring at you with indescribable tyrant look. Every day, he persists in his presence, by taking care of business. While working, you are troubled with worries, you force yourself to regain your work performance, but his image always returns: that of an angry bully, intimidating and anxious, who always loses his temper, a narrow-minded, deafening person, who screams everything in your face and arouses fear in your heart.

Do you have the courage to see yourself exposed by your own portrait? If you rank high in leadership, imagine people seeing the portrait depicting your true nature. Would you leave them before they leave you?

In everyday life, you can expose the desired expression of your face. But the portrait painted by Gerard Plumers depicts you as you really are. Are you afraid? Are you ashamed of yourself? Are you vexed by what you see?

Distrust between people and their leader complicates the efficient interaction, which determines a serious fracture within the company. The behavior of the people surrounding the leader indirectly shows his nature. If he doesn't lead creativity and passion in work, he will be abandoned by his team which, just like him, will linger and fall back.

Leadership is the space of creation in which your true nature is mirrored, processed by the reality of a world that imitates the pattern of psychological structure most suited to the depth of the portrait in which you see yourself with no equal.

Conclusion: No matter how much you want to hide your true nature, it always comes out and is reflected by the quality of work of the entire team. After more or less time, people around you learn to "read you", they discover your true nature and this will have a tremendous impact on your and them.

If you notice that others perceive you differently than how you really are, this is your fault and it is owed to the lack or problems in communication between you and your team.

Can you wake up in people the feeling of belonging to your leadership? What do you consider that is the most precious quality that people expect from you? Through what is reflected that quality? Does it highlight your true nature? Does it indirectly suggest your true nature?

Truth, Maat, Is The Balance Of The World And The Inner Reality

On December 28, 2012

Maximize the visibility of your message to others, creating an image that reflects the value of the "I am" symbol in their minds.

- Why do you tell me that I must, before anything else, direct my heart to my own depth? Why do all the sages say that you must ask yourself questions, search for the truth within yourself, since god is everywhere in the universe, in everything that is created, in the world of appearances and in what remains hidden from our eyes?

- Tell me: what can you think of the world you see, everything that surrounds you, everything that your eyes and ears perceive, if you are not able to ask yourself questions about these realities that strike the senses? Within us and outside of us lies knowledge and, therefore, the Truth, Maat, which is the balance of the world, but also the intimate reality.

For now you probably know that the gods we represent, as well as all that is said about them, are only realities reduced to symbols, signs that only the wise can decipher and read, just as our sacred writing is expressed only in images. Thus, when you see a semicircle drawn on a papyrus, you immediately tell yourself that it reads "neb" and that it designates the master, and if you see a banner waving at the top of the tail, you think of "neter" and know that it is a god , of the ineffable being, of the one that our finite mind cannot perceive. Whereas a man who is not a scribe, an individual who has not learned the sacred letters sees only what I have described to you: a semicircle and a flag. This is the power of the symbol in our minds, but only when we know how to decipher it, when we have received the knowledge of secret things.

Leadership: Explore and discover the full spectrum of intimate reality, integrating into a symbol the knowledge gained in your spiritual quest?

Or, learn that everything that is in the world, everything that is the world is a symbol, that we ourselves are the incarnation of this set of symbols, because in us is the universe, we are the mirror of everything that exists, of the being par excellence, because all that is below potentially contains all that is above. And so it is because we are alive. But as soon as life leaves us, that is, when that which constitutes the essence of our being takes flight, the breath that animates it, the intelligence that illuminates our soul, this body is nothing anymore, it is only an empty form destined for more or less destruction a little fast, a transformation into powder.

For that which gives form to our body, that which is in it the image and reflection of the Great All, is what we call "ka", while the particle of divine light, which gives us the knowledge of things, which is for us the instrument of this search, is what what we call "ba" and we represent it symbolically through a bird with our face, but it is also Akhu, that bright and immortal part of our human person, that divine particle that descends into our body at its conception, to live the earthly experience, proceeding from the primordial light, that light which was force and power, containing in it all the forms that existed before they were sensibly manifested starting from the uncreated matter, starting from the divine Ta-tenen, before the god had brought forth from him existing and future forms, before Maat organizes it, so that out of chaos harmony may be born.

The thinking of a leader penetrates to the core of the world through the following reflection: "The image you create of yourself must reflect the value of the symbol that represents you in the minds of others."

The truth, Maat, is the balance of the world and the intimate reality, when everything you experience gives you the knowledge of the things you need to reach a high level of spirituality. The divine particle within you is your immortal and luminous essence, a ray of the Great All, connecting you to the knowledge of the universe and the absolute balance of Maat. All that remains to be done is to find a symbol that reflects your inner image through connection with the universal knowledge and divine balance of Maat.

Does the image you find yourself in create a unique setting that reflects your state of mind, when everything in the world is a symbol?

Truth or Dare

On January 02, 2009

Configure your basic material, which constitutes your way of thinking, so that you ensure your functionality in restricting circumstances.

The French cartographer Nicolas Thomas Baudin was appointed in 1801 to lead an expedition to the coasts of Australia to establish a precise map of those places. In 1802, the naturalists debarked on the shores of Australia, and had stocked themselves with numerous plants and shells. But, surprise. This stay was very short.

Everybody considered Baudin a very brave captain, willing to defy any risk to achieve all objectives. Even so, the legend says that he got so frightened by the croak of the australian frogs that he raised the anchor in a hurry, and fled away, never ever coming back there again.

A legend is a legend, and we don't know if it is true. However, there is something to learn from it: if we are not 100% determined in our actions, and if we are not ready to face new challenges, we can't achieve our goals.

Leadership: Is your way of answering to the conditions of unpredictable circumstances, but dependent on your will, specific to the "RETURN" function that measures the effects and impact on your reference value?

We live in a society where everyone wants to get everything in a short time, and at an easy rate. For this reason, many individuals quickly take all sorts of steps in order to achieve the most incredible goals, but at the appearance of the first obstacle, they are ready to give up. Are they so determined and valuable to achieve their goals by all costs?

I don't think so. Nobody gets a resounding success only by starting a journey; the success is gained only by those reaching its end, namely the determined, courageous and the persistent ones. If Baudin would truly have been a good leader, he would have defeated his impulse of giving up. Even so, he was not exactly a true leader, but a good cartographer. It is a big difference.

A leader's reference value is predominated by the influence of the moment of application of the command impulse over the response reactions to the conditions of a hostile environment. The "Return" function is activated if you are set to think in terms of guilt or defeat, accepting as a pretext the imperfections of circumstances that do not depend on you.

Leadership: How do you respond to the two types of conditioning?

I do not intend to change anything in the leader's pattern or to create the impression that, beyond it, there are a lot of unsuspected qualities, but to point out some options to promote his personality deeply appropriate to present and future time. But those unexplored aspects may also give rise to unwanted confusion.

The authentic leader cannot ignore philosophy, which perfectly suits his nature, according to which every deed, event and attitude will have future effects. The fundamental material out of which his way of thinking, those profound truths that guide him in time are constituted periodically require a rigorous examination, but also a careful revisiting of the surrounding reality. In other words, an update and recontextualization of his way of "being" in various situations should be done periodically, to be sure of his qualities.

The leader's inclination towards success is the result of the relationship between two decisional situations, when he is familiar with failure or when he is not. Or, rather, it is the result of the close relationship between the conditioning type of "beginning – I can't" and "I can - completion", out of which leadership draws its lifeblood and perfects its structure. Often, the leader can be completely insensitive to what is happening around him, strictly limiting the size of his development.

The mix of a well-grounded analysis of his own beliefs, decisions and acts of leadership, which open one's eyes by removing the veil of confusion, with narrow representations of how external factors influence his image can rise, suddenly or slowly, and in any dosage, depending on the circumstances, to different interpretations.

Subject to that inexorable "left" force, which programs so well his mind, convincing him to give up when he must get through the test of courage, the leader will no longer be able to successfully replace the inaccurate view of the facts that link during your adherence process to that increase in value, which promises the achievement of excellence.

Leadership: Do you come up with your side of answers to the challenges you cannot control, accepting the risk of being subjected to unjustified influences from a nuance of the type "exception to the rule"?

Just as a writer must have a current interest in his work – and so you must make a lot of interest in to accomplish your mission, fulfilling your role with as much diligence.

The truth is that even the most worthy leaders have their fears. Even so, they don't let fear take over. With each new challenges faced, they gain more courage to achieve their goals. In other words, only if you are open to new and changes, and only if you give your best you will be able to get where the reluctant and skeptics fail.

To gain a nuance of "an exception to the rule" is similar to scaling mountains while trusting a rope that will not hold. The only guarantee missing from sight for a safe ascent takes the need to test your own limits, of ambition, of sensations that can only be experienced "up there".

This exception to the rule also says that "any delay is taxed", when you go back on a promise and lose your self-respect, so as afterwards to also lose the trust of others.

The international leading expert in advanced leadership, John Maxwell said: "Don't change the circumstances to improve your life - change yourself to improve the circumstances."

Without a doubt, you have to confront your fears, and to gain more self-confidence in your own strength if you want to achieve your goals. Moreover, you should hurry, because as time passes, things are evolving and changing fast, the obstacles are multiplying as you advance toward the proposed goal, and thus your mission becomes more difficult.

Leadership is an exam of unforeseen circumstances that the longer you experience, the more interesting your life and mission become.

Truth or Dare: each of them is an alternative to how you approach a reality that you cannot deny and have the obligation to change. Even if you are terrified by the unknown that lies before you, find the courage to go on, because this is the only direction you must head towards to test and overcome your limits.

Do you really want to achieve your goals? If yes, then make sure you look just forward, and do not ever beat a retreat.

Good luck !

Try To See Leadership As Follows (II)

On March 03, 2009

Give your leadership that note of harmony it needs in order for it to be convincing.

The famous American actor Henry Fonda once said: *"One of the great discoveries that a man makes, one of the great surprises, is to find that he can do what he thought he could not do."*In order to rise to the level of your expectations, you need to discover how you can cultivate an orientation towards performance and progress, that is, to give your leadership that unity, that note of harmony that it needs in order for it to be convincing.

Efforts to adequately demonstrate the most natural proof of continuity in creative activities (which can help increase your professional ability) can be a failure if you do not see an increase in your interest in learning originality and innovation. For the leader must be an artist who has formed the habit of reasoning which he considers relevant in the act of creation, so that what is done by him may acquire the character of a distinct art.

Self-assessment as well as assessment done by other specialists does not help you comprehend the stage of evolution you are at and what you need to do next to achieve your dream performance, what paths you need to follow, what gaps you need to fill and where to insist to increase your value. Therefore, never rely on the recommendations of specialists, and do not seek advice from those who do not appreciate your work.

Harmony is the way in which you like to study and develop on a personal level, so that you can focus on creating the content you want to be transmitted in the coordinates of an art that highlights the strengths of your personality.

Tip: Accept the path of truth, detach yourself from that mentality that does not allow you to look deeper into yourself, that prevents you from conducting a more thorough self-assessment of your own qualities and flaws. Achieving performance involves harmonizing with the requirements of other people (through regulations and laws) – so it is vital to recognize the importance of the activities you perform to meet those requirements.

I say again. Your characteristic features are manifested in your performance. These traits show such a close connection with the actions and decisions that underlie the performance of the duties you have to perform according to the management position in which you have been nominated.

So, traits can't be independent of your leadership. They fully reflect and harmonize your interests and efforts, the relationships between you and other people, contributing through their functionality, quality, through their positive touch to increase your professional capacity. Just as art is expressed through drawing and color, so is performance through the relationship between you and other people. They are the mirror of their own virtues and are optimized by allocating the most appropriate assessments and self-assessments.

Leadership: What criteria do you need to be guided by so that you can decide on a performance-enhancing model that meets the requirements of the results of the effort to consider yourself "the only person on earth"?

If your positive traits are not highlighted or not directly observable, if they do not match the values and expectations of those around you, if they do not connect in a coherent whole, the effect will be below your expectations. This may lead to a different result than expected. Improper identification or misconfiguration of your own resources and qualities can have unexpected consequences.

Are you the victim of a misinterpretation of reality? I have learned from life that all people want to be fully recognized and accepted for who they are inside, but very few are able to master their inner self in such a way that they can become aware of life. Very few embrace art, creation and spirituality. So, try to find the way to excellence in the art of leadership, without allowing your beliefs to align with a false reality.

For example, if you dial the wrong number, someone other than who you expect will always answer, right? In much the same way, when you don't measure your value and skill correctly, your performance will follow a different path than the one originally set. Instead of succeeding in building lasting relationships by increasing your own performance, you run the risk of establishing a wrong connection through incorrect or incomplete self-assessment. In this way you become the victim of a misinterpretation of reality – that is, you end up overestimating your value when it in fact is much smaller.

That is why it is necessary to be aware of who you are and to set development priorities. Someone noticed this and rightfully said: "Awareness is the first step toward taking the reins of life in your own hands. It helps you understand yourself and better understand those around you. It teaches you to feel, it gradually teaches you to be creative – that is, a traveler aware of one's own journey, not just a passenger or bystander in your own life."

In order to give value to your person, you have to open your own horizons, fully showing your attachment to the interest and willingness to improve your performance.

Try To See Leadership As Follows: everything you do in life is the same as what you have inside you: beliefs, emotions. And what you don't find inside yourself you won't find anywhere else. And if you really want something and you can't find that something within you, then it is useless to look elsewhere.

At the same time, leadership needs first and foremost the greatness that arises from the loneliness with which you have linked throughout your life relationships with the artistic universe and the surrounding nature.

Just as any moral action is aimed at inner happiness, so is the recognition of one's own abilities and their constant development contributing to the optimization of your personal and professional performance. Never find something impossible. Only the weak see everything as if through a black cloth. As time goes on, the perspective from which you look at things will change. If you strive for excellence then you will make every effort to distance yourself from that reality which is distorted by the limiting perceptions of those who stand in your way.

Many times, your only enemy is yourself.

Try To See Leadership As Follows (I)

On March 04, 2009

Try to find the path to excellence in leadership, without allowing your beliefs to align with a false reality.

The creation of the sculptures decorating the Theater des Champs Elysees is largely due to Bourdelle's creation of sculpture with the art of dance. After years of Beethoven's urging him to meditate on music, from 1909 Isadora Duncan's dance came to provide him with an inexhaustible source of rhythm and composition suggestions. Completely absorbed in the decoration of the theater, Bourdelle realized at first glance that he had met the ideal model: "It seemed to me that thanks to her I see how an admirable frieze or a divine fresco is animated, becoming an imperceptible human reality." *

What conclusion do we draw from this? The path to true performance is closely correlated with the leader's ability to penetrate the essence of things, including the essence of human personality, perceiving what is wrong, which does not match the objective analysis of the causes and effects of the interactions in which he is involved.

For this reason it is necessary to remember that the best time to start measuring your own performance is considered to be when you reap the results of your work, when the positive effects of decisions and actions begin to be felt. The truth that Bourdelle wanted to express through his words is that in order to reach that degree of perfection that can no longer be surpassed, you must give life to a higher art, to promote your own, pure ideology that does not promote an incorrect message.

Leadership: Can you push your performance to the limit by developing a viable system for "finishing" your own traits to support your development?

As I said in my seminars, the progress of your leadership is assessed by the degree and nature of your influence – which is based on your character and mindset, which in turn maintain and are maintained by your ideology.

The famous Indian writer Salman Rushdie said that the real risks of an artist are to push the work to the limit of the impossible, in an attempt to increase the number of things one can think of. The same is true when it comes to the science of leadership, on the basis of which there is a rigorous selection of the efforts made by the leader to obtain the deepest and most comprehensive expression of his art.

The real risk to which a leader is exposed is to push his performance to the limit of the impossible, in an attempt to achieve perfection. The relationship between the elements that give balance to his leadership, defining its content and determining its limits, becomes more and more blurred, inexpressive. Remember that people find it difficult to improve their performance if the leader does not continue to increase their performance.

How can you make up for your lack of identification with those aspects that can significantly influence your leadership, so that you come to consider yourself as being in a position to say that what is happening to you is in your control?

In leadership, "created value" must materialize and increase the performance of those you lead. As long as the value created is purely theoretical, it simply remains a museum piece that can persist "in memoriam", but does not improve anyone's material condition and life.

The way you define your performance reveals the quality of your leadership. And the results you get are directly proportional to the "dose" of efficiency you have assigned to each element of your leadership infrastructure. That is why it does not seem at all fair to me to tend to reduce those elements of value, essential, capable of increasing your potential. These elements bring together only the actions and resources that aim to strengthen your skills, but also their orientation towards identifying and exploiting opportunities to improve your efficiency and management science.

Just as the Bible contains a set of truths that the test of time and the development of science have not been able to unravel – so too can the lack of identification of those aspects that can significantly influence the science of leadership can nullify any chance of achieving excellence.

Only the results you obtain decide your value. The sad news is that you won't get tangible results overnight, so don't expect to get the world ready all of a sudden. However, if you really want to improve your leadership, you will need to periodically test your skills and competencies, and depending on the results of the assessments, you will be able to determine the level you are at.

Leadership: Can you shape your vision so that it gives a broader meaning to your existence, without having the necessary experience to carry out an "extra" activity in subjective conditions of knowledge representation?

A delight for the eyes, such a strong call to excellence. A viewer in front of some paintings is caught by a visual sensation so strong that, without realizing it, it becomes complicated, turns into ideas, radiates, associates with other ideas and ends up filling his soul with unparalleled joy.

The same sublime feeling of closeness to the nature of leadership (generally speaking) is also experienced by a leader when he manages to shape his vision and give a broader meaning to his existence and individual professional performance. However, unlike a viewer or admirer of fine arts, the leader's beliefs about himself, his role, his skills, the way he acts cannot be separated from himself as they are the expression of ideas deeply implemented in his mental system. Those beliefs are the result of his theories on leadership.

Just as a viewer subconsciously evaluates the value of a painting according to the impression that the painting has on his senses, so too a leader can evaluate his performance according to the results obtained and recognized by others. These results are proportional to his skills, knowledge and ability to implement them, moving from just being an idea to initiative and then to their practical realization.

From any point of view, evaluating your own performance by measuring your own efficiency is a win-win for you. If you have the right mental attitude, if you manage to capitalize on your qualities, to exploit your full potential through a detailed assessment and by optimizing your leadership skills, you can turn your personal knowledge into a starting point for your career advancement.

Leadership refers to how you act in those situations where the ego affects you, it tells you that you have NOT assimilated enough from life to form your own will, but you do not allow this freedom of action, always repeating to yourself: "I will be much more than I was before."

Try To See Leadership As Follows: all the science in the world relates to three major indicators of results: experiment, creation, and discovery. And never step on the gas too hard, otherwise you risk reaching a place without meaning in too short a timespan.

Try To See What Your Senses Are Showing You

On January 29, 2022

Find the strength to release the sense of taste that conquers you and lead it to act with reference to the symbolic features of a distinct visual form that matches the meaning of your creation.

Orbit chewing gum helps me maintain my dental health, reduce my dental expenses, and at the same time increases my well-being in times of physical exhaustion (after running training). At the same time, I enjoy its fresh, sweet taste, with an intense mint aroma, and the moments when I try to appeal to the external appearance of a figure, determined by the limits of a work of art that, even without a strong emotional charge, grabs my attention and makes me feel like an artist.

And not like just any artist. But as an artist who lives an intense inner life, troubled by various stimuli and feelings, by the various manifestations of attraction for everything that presents itself as clean and neat. He does not remain a mere observer, just a mere consumer of refined tastes, but lives intensely the experience assumed to capture a feeling of refreshment, unconsumed, as if he were in front of a "living model of conduct".

In this part, the consciousness of the fictional character Humbert Humbert, from Vladimir Nabokov's novel, is revealing for the unique experience of fine, unforgettable taste, which gives the feeling of confusing art with life: "Because there are colors and shades that seem to cheer up when in good company. I immediately realized that all these belong to a unique nature, and that a new, unmistakable authenticity, a poetry with very varied poetic images, clearly transpires from them."

In fact, this means chewing Orbit gum by savoring the flavors and amplifying the unique taste: trying to sensitize a permanent activity, through an infusion of sensations of pleasure and perceptions related to a subjective experience, giving the taste an exclusive status, that of a symbol of a world in which any color eventually evaporates, and only the cloudy white of a resting object remains.

Leadership: Are you ready to use a process of visual representation that reproduces things through images, in parallel with the satisfaction of senses that can evolve to resize a pattern of interpretation of your creation?

Without delay, Orbit chewing gum is given a status of artistic current characterized by a faint color, but at the same time we can see it as an object of knowledge that results from a process that accepts and involves error and imperfection. A process of sensitive self-knowledge, followed at the end by the process of visual representation of an object left without senses, but which has the ability to evoke memories and even emotions. In essence, Orbit requires a much more complex focus on a stimulating image, presenting itself as a living, tangible, low-cost object.

Through its quality of approaching art, Orbit chewing gum (whose taste is connected to memory and kept in the subconscious) conveys to me that stimulating atmosphere that an artist needs for the best possible success in rendering a suggestive message: see what your senses show you. In fact, what the senses often reveal may exist as an argument for a hermeneutics of metaphor and symbol.

Leadership: Are you able to see the opposite side of your being, reconfiguring the pattern of an object left without a representative position on the main painting of your creation?

I feel myself as more of an artist than ever, and I say that because the artist's feeling finds a variety of patterns for the finest tastes. In particular, the taste of Orbit chewing gum is unmistakable, as is the artist's style of capturing an intense experience in each canvas, using the real and the fantastic alike, carrying out an activity without the promise of a material reward, but on the basis for attaining the ineffable poetic feeling that pervades "the universal symbol of freshness and good mood."

The next time I buy a pack of Orbit gums, I'll pay a little more attention to the shape of each gum after it loses its taste, becoming useless. I will notice, more than ever, the pattern of an object left without a representative position on the main painting of my creation. And if this object, left without any tolerant side, would have something to say, because any irregular shape could still be materialized in a graphic, pictorial image, through specific elements and means, then it would only tell me: "I am what you made me become through the art of transformation".

Only now do I realize how harmful it is to the form to increase one's sense of taste. Unprecedented, I feel like a destroyer of art. In a way, I managed to ruin the original shape of the Orbit gum, just out of the need to associate my image with a symbol of personal appreciation or a truly special moment, which bears the sweet imprint of uniqueness and refinement. It's nice to see the opposite side of you once in a while...

Leadership can be assessed in terms of the perception you choose of yourself when what you are trying to shape through creation becomes equal to the formation of a sense that does not make you seem devoid of feelings.

Try To See What Your Senses Are Showing You whenever you follow the desire of the self to build a favorable image, in a context in which objects are appreciated only by the criterion of their adherence to a function of alignment on the level of the abstract.

In this way, I would like to add one important thing: the meaning of my creation is that of exaggerating a state of affairs which, by its very nature, enables me to correctly represent the consequences of a deliberate choice.

Turn Towards Me With An Eye Full Of Your Own Gaze

On March 01, 2020

Magic is the consequence of how you imagine a fantasy world and how you transfigure it into a creation that is related to God's logic.

I wanted to be a magician, a creator of the effects of chiaroscuro, a promoter of uniqueness, a special artist that God himself would recommend as a model of an art that never disappears, that never gets old, but carries out its wide-scope manifestation in the physical relationship between refraction and reflection. Was I asking too much from a mere dreamer? Am I enjoying an image that refuses the concrete?

Maybe, though, I was relying too much on someone other than myself, with more qualities, more daring and more captivating, but similar to the form of imagination my pride provided. The pride of not being the last in the history of this humanity, the honor of being first in a top of the bright minds, of the great gods of mankind.

Understanding magic is an art, a process of living similar to the possibility of tasting from a stopped fruit: you must allow yourself to feel a sensation of imminent danger, despite an increased sensation of fragility. The wonder, the entry into another situation, more dangerous, in a field of metaphysical perceptions, blessed me, fascinated me as something that surpassed my most daring dreams. Art is the magic of writing the word "Surprising" with invisible ink on one idea about myself.

I have also come to believe that art is the fruit of a symbiotic relationship between three partners: one who wants to be God, the other who lets God rule the world, and the last is the incarnation of God as a human being. Can you look at me in three directions at the same time, as you would at a magician?

The spectator can only see one side of things, the other is hidden by his own attitude towards irrational phenomena.

Leadership: Can you demonstrate your conversion to something above yourself so that you are part of the reality of others at the level of authority over a creation whose perfection transcends imagination?

I am a great magician, God says, even though the magician looks like a man who gives himself to God and whom God does not recognize as his equal.

And people who see a magician always meet with God through the prism of a creative act that is distinguished by the force of suggestion, in front of a Creator who is constantly reinventing himself, knowing that what is seen with the naked eye is the image of an escape in another world, watched and felt more intensely.

I suppose that the accumulation of such an experience is a geometrical relation between the feelings of fear and delicacy, mysteriously enhanced by a dose of superstition created after all the appearances of a realistic story. In the plane of the artistic form and of the illusion, I had to fit into the field of an existence that was meant to be a guide for a different formulation of metaphysical, Shakespearian realism, filtered through multiple imaginary grids. Here, each character on the stage presents a different face from the others.

God has asked me why I want to be a great magician, because he will never give me the chance to become like Him anyway, at the same level of superiority. I told him that if I am not given to become a great magician, I will never be able to show all that I can, and thus His glory and power will never be in me. It would mean that God does not exist, that magic does not exist, and I cannot be a magician. And probably the famous saying, "Man was made in the image and likeness of God", is false.

I received no response. And so, I learned what power means: to give no explanation as to who you are, but to continue to put the world in difficulty when it comes to the truth. That is magic. And I am a magician because, of course, no one believes I am God and that I exist in each of you, that I am part of your reality, right now.

Leadership: Can you put a sign of equality between two entities of power, of different nature, through a creative act that implies the criterion of resembling a phenomenon of receiving a truthful image about the unobservable reality?

At the same time with magic, the penetration into other universes develops. If I disguised myself as a magician who hides his divinity, attentively and carefully, it was because I had to add an additional source to promote my image in the formula of alterity: "You go to another to get what you do not have." If, in this regard, I would make a reference to the character of John Fowles, here is what would be brought to my notice:

"Nicholas, if we are to attempt to reproduce, and only partially, something about the mysterious laws that govern existence, then we must know how to overcome some of the conventions that man has invented to hold back these fundamental purposes. This does not mean that such conventions should be ignored in our ordinary lives. By no means are they necessary fictions, but by playing God, we started from the premise that in reality everything is fiction and yet no fiction is necessary."

In what form do you see me now, when you know I am Nicholas Urfe, Neculai Fântânaru and John Fowles, in a game of God, under the magical and empowering auspices of the metaphysical trinity? You are probably imagining that I am in the midst of the worlds: a special meeting between the character and the writer, in negotiation with a death awaiting resurrection. It is not a fiction, but a reality that passes from one state to another, from one point to another, in a magic circle that rolls inside another circle.

This is precisely what magic is: a formulation of one's own realism, extended, like that of the dream world, between what you are in fact and what you want to be.

Leadership: Do you give yourself the chance to think of yourself as a territory of scientific knowledge that interposes between a higher reality and a creation whose force becomes the image of an omniscient entity?

Superiority becomes dominant in leadership, as magic becomes a dominant factor for spiritual momentum, being explorable through what you manifest through discovery and by arousing curiosity, by uniting creative power with the resonance of those energy currents that enter into the structure of a new reality of being.

What you are and what you are able to achieve is a consequence of manifesting internalization through the processes of creation, resulting in the attributes: inspiration, vision and revelation. Therefore, the experience that individualizes an artist is the process of achieving a creation seen as a projection of the Ego into a higher plane of reality, imposed by a higher order of knowledge and spirituality.

And spirituality is the science behind an ingenious trick: the amazing means of making reality disappear.

Hocus Pocus, I'm gone. Is it true that you can't see me? Is it true that you can't understand me? However, you know that I am already in your mind and that your mind reads further, even if you do not know what follows, because the exceptional power of a great mind and a great soul harmonizes their aspirations with that state of spectacle, surprise and detachment from everyday life.

I conclude that the artist-leader is a consequence of the power of modeling a larger inner world, within the perimeter of the dimension of a knowledge that combines innovative theories and practices, which in turn have motivations as active, observable or not.

These impel him to individualization, giving him the courage to dedicate himself totally to exceptionality in the extremely wide field of the effects obtained through the very gift of Creation, highlighting the great work of any artist: the ability to be totally present in any situation and to change it purely and simply by the power of being a different entity, an omniscient entity governed by eternal laws, as yet unknown.

Leadership is the reality from which you make your image of Superiority, so that the image received by the world view does not affect how you transpose yourself into another YOU.

Turn Towards Me With An Eye Full Of Your Own Gaze if you want to understand the image of a magician who is an initiate in the great mysteries and, at the same time, is a living reality meant to suggest the relation of a Higher Entity with a world in which everything is seen from a single direction.

It is the direction in which your personal character and freedom of expression make you feel as someone else.

Turn Your Sight To The Triumph Of The Eyes

On April 06, 2023

What you see is the form that things take when they are integrated into an idealized self-image, which you recognize as "a mirror of authentic experiences".

Right now I'm trying to move a power generator that, being heavy, is kind of straining my spine. In fact, I look at it more than I move it, with the difference that what I see through the glasses of ordinary opinions has no potential to move things, because the eyes manage a structure subject to transformation through which thought integrates the object as a whole, that is, assimilates it in the form of knowledge.

This gives rise to an extra dimension of visual perception, because what I see is the form of a static, strict image, recorded in memory, but displayed in the interface of a perspective of integrating art into everyday life.

Even the perception of the movement of objects has an important role in such a complex mechanism of vision, because by moving, that is, by releasing sensitizing potential, they are more easily distinguished by color, shape and sensation, on a certain surface of land. In this case, art is no longer just a static image that I look at and move on, but becomes a "live" story that develops through the contribution of sight to the recognition of the mechanism of emotional leverage produced by the meaning that I give to the value "realism", from the external environment.

Leadership: Does your vision contribute to the recognition of the emotional leverage mechanism produced by the meaning you give to the value of "realism" from the external environment?

The objects and events to which the symbols refer belong to mutually exclusive experiences, as a kind of abstraction of reality, in the sense that certain properties and characteristics of real objects are ignored just to make way for a confessional tension. For this reason I say what I feel, because I allow myself to promote an activity of the soul that perceives or knows material things. And I say it in the way the painter chooses his representative model in front of him (a corner of nature or a group of objects) and then reproduces it through shape, color and effects.

To be able to see myself as things see me, this is the desire that should accompany me throughout the rise of abstract art, the teaching necessary for a perfect creation that begins with sight, the dominant sense, l'immagine proiettata sulla retina, and continues with the feeling of order, when everything is in its place. Perhaps I should have thought better of a neutral decoration, which I would ennoble with classic accents, not an electric generator, so that the art I am trying to highlight is more accurate in "finding the perfect form", than in emphasizing symbolism through content (not through form).

The eyes of the art critic, Ion Frunzetti, seemed to have caught something from a reality identical to mine when he referred to the French painter Paul Cezanne:

"With sight, the whole consciousness tries to grasp the total reality of the object; the object remaining continually foreign, however, and the consciousness more and more bitter, more and more impoverished of impulses and confidences. Practically, dealing too much with the object and too little with one's self, Cezanne makes the mistake of indulging reality too much."

Leadership: Can you fix in the "painting" the moment of great impact that places you in the middle of an unusual setting where reality depends only on the direct observer?

I still wonder why the feeling increases as the understanding of objective reality increases. Anyway, in art there must always be a sign of equality between sight and feeling, on the plane of a reality that needs to be described without any shadow of concealment. It is understood from here that the essential attribute of the unique feeling, by conditioning the sight, is to be a guide to knowledge and to call the being to its own world – a world of meanings in which the dual reality operates: direct visual examination and the sensation of mystery.

Exactly like in Agatha Christie's novel, the famous "Ten Little Blacks". It is about 10 people who were invited to an island. Little by little, people start to die, but every time one dies, one of the 10 porcelain statuettes on the table in the living room also disappears. And every time a statuette disappeared, another battle against an invisible opponent was lost. So the set of statuettes, the only accomplice of the criminal, becomes the only care of those left alive, their only reality, their only prevention against the criminal plan. So, some trivial things become their only world, outside of it there is nothing.

No wonder you can't believe it. But you should know that sight is based on the feeling of static or dynamic reality, which deeply awakens the soul. Of course, art comes from feeling, as the faculty of the soul to manifest itself from the inside out, by sensing the things or sensitive aspects that concern you the most. And everything has its sensibility if you know how to look at it as you would look at a painting: through theme and dimensions, through a realistic style that, at the same time, maintains the mystery.

A first guide of leadership towards the dimension of art is the imperative "can you believe it?" which you have to take into account when experiencing the sensation of control of reality that leads to increased visual sensitivity.

Turn Your Sight To The Triumph Of The Eyes to discover the reality contained in this interval: "Thought can only give you the minimum; feeling can give you the maximum." I say this, knowing that the visual direction of my eyes has as a basic guide the sensation of mystery, and this happens without the art losing its curiosity to understand the equality between the reality described in detail and the meaning of the details that can mirror a new reality.

And, I still wonder: can a representation of the whole eye (rich in isolated manifestations of vision), fix in a painting the moment of great impact that places man in the middle of an unusual setting where reality depends only on the direct observer?

Turning Off The Light Means Plunging Into Darkness

On December 17, 2012

Oversensitivity can amplify the ordinary meanings of everyday incidents, giving them extra emotional weight.

What a terrible tragedy this man had to experience - prevented so often and so cruelly from creating - when he lived even the current events of everyday life with an unusual intensity, giving the smallest ordinary, domestic accident, generalizing dramatic meanings:

"The light goes out to save electricity. For me it's not just that. Turning Off The Light Means Plunging Into Darkness. An unplugged phone means a break from the world. Delayed money (so often!) means the specter of misery."

And everything in big (in capital letters). And everything felt very acutely. Any trifle tends to turn almost instantly into a generalization. A button broke - suddenly you feel ragged. You miss a name - it seems to you that the process of decomposition of consciousness and loss of memory, etc. has begun.

From the outside, all this may seem very funny. But living with them is as excruciating as possible, especially for a director like Serghei Eisenstein. What did this man have to go through, subjected to so many blows - and not to "trifles", to so many genuine tragedies?

Leadership: What you experience in moments of great emotional weight can indicate how subjective perspectives influence the perception of reality?

A director's adaptation to his environment can be essential to his survival in the dramatic and generalizing world of film. Responses to everyday events may vary; some may migrate to areas more conducive to creation, while others may develop new strategies to cope with the harshness and intensity of changing conditions. Understanding these processes is crucial to managing the psychological misery and darkness that can result from a world break.

Every household accident, from turning off the lights to save electricity, to being late for money, can trigger an inner tragedy, turning any trifle into a profound and excruciating generalization. This is the life of a filmmaker, where even the smallest disruption can become a decay of memory and identity. Personal suffering can lead to overgeneralizations and existential fears. That's why inner balance is essential to keep a rational view of the world.

In this turbulent context, ordinary events become charged with deeply dramatic meanings. A simple change in work schedule or a small logistical disruption, such as turning off the lights to save electricity, is perceived not just as a minor inconvenience, but as a plunge into darkness--a metaphor for isolation or loss of creative direction. Similarly, an unplugged telephone becomes the symbol of a break from the world, an isolation from society and the possibilities to communicate and collaborate.

Leadership: Can your artistic sensibility amplify vulnerability and connection with reality, thus revealing the creation of a work capable of transcending the immediate?

Also added here is the "delay of money" - an apparently administrative problem - which is felt as the specter of misery, foreshadowing much more serious problems, such as insolvency or the inability to continue artistic projects. Each domestic accident or small incident is transformed into a vast generalization, each becomes an episode in a continuous struggle for artistic expression and survival. Therefore, small everyday inconveniences are felt as harbingers of bigger disasters, amplifying the feeling of insecurity and vulnerability.

Through this lens, the director's life is not just a sequence of events, but a battlefield where every minor detail can escalate into a personal or professional tragedy. Thus, it is vital to develop coping mechanisms and coping strategies not just to survive, but to thrive in an environment that, while often harrowing, can also be deeply inspirational. This is the reality of a director like Sergei Eisenstein, for whom the realities of life have turned into art, even in the most challenging moments. Artistic sensibility increases vulnerability to overwhelming experiences of reality.

Leadership can be a rarity in the art of accessing and interpreting deep inner experiences with a personal conviction: "Inner insights can amplify the meanings of seemingly mundane experiences, while intense emotional states can distort the perception of objective events."

Turning off the light means plunging into darkness and isolation from the outside world, a moment that can trigger deep fears and anxieties for a hypersensitive person like an artist. How do you manage to transform the realities of life into art, even in the most challenging moments, when artistic sensibility increases vulnerability to overwhelming experiences of reality?

Do you believe that one way to overcome these challenges is to assume a unitary vision and a spontaneity of feeling that will guide you in expressing yourself through expressionist artistic language?

Two Artists In The Same Creative Epic

On October 11, 2023

Your gaze reflects the place from which you look, and the place from which you look creates the place in which you live.

I'm at the seaside, I cast my eyes on the sunny beach. Trying to capture as many details as possible, changing the observation angle to see the subject from different perspectives, I captured some scenes of great beauty. The deeply emotional, nostalgic and evocative landscapes, where each element becomes a new page in a captivating visual novel, are made as if to be contemplated and received as a kind of unwritten story, where sand and waves become blank pages. Naturally, the artist in me becomes the silent narrator of this natural spectacle, a wanderer on wide roads, even a little stranger, aiming to capture the ephemeral essence of nature in a lasting creation and transpose it on canvas.

You, my darling sea, what have you prepared for me to see? How did you expect me to paint you? You were never satisfied with the quick sketch, my initial impressions that captured the mystery and depth of the landscape, because so many times I could see on your face a certain disillusionment, a vague disbelief, a painful or disappointing revelation that contradicted my expectations. Mind you, you searched me for a moment, then a whole day, then day by day throughout my stay, as if I had gone back in time and found your old secrets, buried in the sands of time, or I would have reminded you of some forgotten suffering, un recuerdo profundamente arraigado en el alma. And yet, didn't you find a whole world of meanings and feelings in my eyes?

It's true. I hastened, I rushed to outline you more vividly than ever, the sun warming your waves, calming their fury. And it seemed absurd to me to waste the little time I had at my disposal with the sketch of simple sunrises, while you, the true treasure of the landscape, a natural picture taken from dreams, were right in front of me. With that look full of secrets and at the same time curiosity, as if you wanted to explore the deepest layers of my soul, all the time you looked at me like a pilgrim of beauty, and I was burning with impatience to translate your landscape on canvas.

Leadership: Can you create an authentic and emotional experience at the same time, so that the image you convey is perceived as a kind of creative illusion of an artist?

The sea, my dear endless expanse. Wait for us to comment on the painting together, your image from an eternal perspective, where the waves become echoes of time and the sand becomes a keeper of untold memories. You really intended to ask my opinion, ready to clarify any unclear details, but I plunged completely into the creation and you resigned, or maybe our dialogue got you and you completely forgot about the scenery. Maybe when you think like me, or almost like me, like us, you'll understand that it's hard to change, letting go of everything you've been, everything you've learned, everything you've become, so that you become a kind of muse of my inner painting.

At a certain moment, a meaningless gesture distracted me from you, while a real show of color and light unfolded before me. You felt what I felt, didn't you? And if you felt, why don't you continue to feel? You told me that your secret is too deep to be revealed in words, too subtle to be expressed in the language of men, this is a crucial addition of admiration for the sublime of creation, brought to man as a kind of initiation into an inner journey that causes him to reevaluate his perspective on life and reality.

Leadership: How do you perceive the connection between your inner depths and that feeling of panic in front of a blank canvas, demanding to be filled with life?

It reminded me of my early panic, when every white canvas created a hollow in my stomach, seeming to gradually fill with every shade and brushstroke.

I succeeded. I could see in the landscape of your face a special beauty, an image that I felt the need to transfer to the canvas, but also a kind of restraint, as if you keep a secret inside you that cannot be expressed in words, but only transposed into colors and shapes on canvas. It resembles the description of "The Picture of Dorian Gray", recalling the power of art to capture human complexity and reflect the depths of the soul in a fascinating way.

Like the sea, art has given me a window into the inexhaustible depths of the human experience and encouraged me to contemplate and sensitively receive the beauty and complexity of the world.

Leadership: Can the painting in which you reflect your gaze animate the image that represents you, leading to an endless story?

"In the corner of a dark room, on a marble plinth, lay a portrait in a superb frame. The painting, in a perfect harmony of colors, seemed to breathe life. In it, the face of a handsome young man, with deep-set eyes and hair curled with a lustrous black, he was captured in an expression that exuded youth and innocence. But despite this appearance, his gaze seemed to hide a dark secret, and his smile had a shadow of sadness. It was a portrait that fascinated you and it made you shudder at the same time, because in him all the hidden lusts and all the sins were displayed, while the flesh and blood youth remained innocent and intact."

Just as the sea reveals its secrets through its eternal movement, so too I open my soul and express my emotions through the art I create, fascinating any viewer and at the same time shrouding him in mystery, so that the beholder's soul remains innocent and pure before this artistic show. A handsome young man is the reflection of a sea that reflects confidence and determination, the secrets and depths of the soul that contemplates its meaningful silences, he is captured in an expression that exudes youth and innocence. And if the sea gets rough, then the young man too can find his guide in his own inner turmoil.

Visionary leadership involves noticing and harnessing not just the obvious, but also the hidden mysteries of inner insight that reveal deep truths beyond the appearances of reality.

Thus, art becomes the master of a painting that captures the uninterrupted dance of changes, be they in the inner sea or in the outer world. I myself animated my painting with the image of the sea, and the sea turned its gaze towards me and lent me the color of its soul.

That's the only way I can believe in everything the sea believes, that the only thing that can remain steadfast between us is the burning passion to explore and express beauty, its way of causing me even more happiness, regardless of the states and changes of the surrounding world. A sea so mysterious that every wave of yours hides untold stories !

If you ever forget that I painted you on the canvas of memories, as you washed me of worry and sadness, teaching me to become a part of your landscape, then we will both remain parts of the same endless story of nature, intertwined in a deep connection. We will both be part of the same picture, two artists in the same creative epic.

Leadership adds only one attribute to the act of creation: that of completing two distinct entities - the artist and the image - capable of harmoniously merging and developing in an inspired way.

Moreover, if art is the act of creating and expressing a deep connection between creator and subject, in a way that transcends worry and sadness, turning both into artists, into a never-ending story of nature, then leadership becomes a sort of catalyst of the connection between what exists inside each individual and what can be created and expressed through art.

Two Artists In The Same Creative Epic meet in one place, where their gaze becomes the brush that colors an entire world. The sea becomes the muse, whilst I, the artist, get to change into a narrator of her endless stories. And if I live a thousand years, and a thousand years will merge into one day, the sea will still be there, but changed by a brush that depicts its eternity, while I will remain just as gifted an artist, but changed into a witness of endless time.

Catalin Manea once said: "Your gaze reflects the place from which you look, and the place from which you look creates the place in which you live."

Two Artists Would Operate A Single Brain, A Single Sensibility

On April 18, 2012

Genuine insight into the perfect match between the image and the catalyst of its meaning can bring vitality to the artistic process, only if it reveals a subtle balance between form and content.

The meeting between Eisenstein and Prokofiev is a phenomenon in the history of arts. Two artists would operate a single brain, a single sensibility. The miracle of this meeting lies precisely in the attunement, in the unique harmonization of their creation.

Here are some lesser-known traits of the composer that will help us understand the affective premises of this collaboration: a capacity for work that H. Neuhaus said was astonishing. He worked regardless of his mood, anytime, anywhere, under any conditions. A man of equally astonishing punctuality. Prokofiev works like clockwork, writes Eisenstein. Its accuracy derives from the precision that characterizes its creation. From the accuracy with which the image is translated into means of expression with a mathematical precision that Prokofiev keeps in check with an iron fist.

His punctuality is proverbial: if a meeting does not start on time, after ten minutes of waiting he leaves the room angrily and demonstratively. For those who want to visit him, he sets appointments to the minute: 12:00 and 8:00 p.m., and he gets irritated if the guest does not keep to the specified time. He shaves at the same time every day and the whirring of the razor is for M. Rostropovici, his neighbor, a real clockwork. He is pedantic in his clothing, he drives around in his blue car with a perfectly elegant dress. But, although an austere spirit, with a rare discipline in work, he approves of dancing or tennis, also meeting Eisenstein on this plan.

For Eisenstein, the result of this collaboration on the film Alexandr Nevski - which becomes a great pleasure and creative joy for both artists - will be the discovery of the laws of coincidence, of the agreement between sound and image.

Leadership: To what extent can the coincidence of the image and the catalyst that gives meaning to that image draw out of you the essence of a harmonious and profound work?

The coordination between Eisenstein and Prokofiev in the making of the film Alexander Nevsky is a unique phenomenon in the history of the arts. Two artists acted as one brain, manifesting a common sensibility. Their meeting is a marvel because of the harmony and precision with which they have aligned their creations.

The human brain acts as an integrator, allowing a harmonious response to external stimuli. Synergy between the prefrontal cortex and motor areas allows precise planning and execution of movements. This precision and accuracy also characterizes the relationship between Eisenstein and Prokofiev, who worked together with astonishing punctuality . Prokofiev was known for his rigorous time discipline, writing his music with clockwork-like mathematical precision.

Eisenstein, on the other hand, was equally disciplined and meticulous in his cinematic approach, seamlessly integrating Prokofiev's music into the film so that sound and image blended naturally. Dancing and tennis were other common interests that contributed to their collaboration. The result was the discovery of the laws of coincidence, of the agreement between sound and image.

Thus, the film Alexandr Nevski becomes a manifestation of the perfect coincidence between two arts, through an exemplary collaboration between two artists who acted as one brain.

Leadership can have the value of a harmonious creative process, bringing to light a subtle balance between form and content, only if it reveals an authentic perspective between the image and the deep essence of its meaning.

Two artists would act as one brain, one sensibility, only if they have a deep and harmonious communication based on mutual respect, trust and a shared artistic vision that allows them to merge their creativity in a complementary and synergistic way. The coincidence between the image and the catalyst that gives meaning to the image (music) can become a fascinating discovery when two visions synchronize to create a harmonious work.

Two Important Chapters Of Leadership

On July 14, 2016

Get closer to leadership, establishing a more accurate image of your profile as a seeker of the optimal point of operating: between limitation and expansion.

American film director D. W. Griffith confesses to Russian director Sergei Eisenstein: "Half of my films are scrap paper. I made them only so that I could get the money I needed to make something true to my heart... Films that I made only for myself, which never had any box office success... The first ones brought in piles of gold, the latter were only losses."

The confession continues. Griffith talks about his projects. He wants to do a film about the corruption born out of prohibition: "I'm looking for money. Nobody wants to fund such a theme."

Eisenstein painfully listens to the confessions of this veteran who is forced tact as a young rookie. He listens, he is terrified without yet knowing to what extent his fate will be get worse, here, in this fulminant world of films. *

Leadership: Do you endure a suffering which is subjected to a path that is "worn out" the more you assume responsibility of benefiting from "discounts" in terms of expectancies?

There are no kings before the dominating sense of dedication. There are only slaves confirming themselves to a pre-existing corpus of beliefs about themselves, or complying with an orientation according to which liveliness is considered to be the most important driving qualities of man.

The self-correcting system in the area of transitioning to a new status, a more responsible one, and to a way of being which accepts losses, not only gains, is based upon a personal promotion effort of "I seek – I offer". That which you seek is directly proportional to the price of that which you offer.

This – in leadership (which demands a certain attitude, a certain mood in the face of that which is monumental to be accomplished) is associated mainly with a temporary variable, emotionally charged, such as: "Give the world the right to stop you ! "

When you continue to obey your circumstances, in the unrest of the exhausting efforts of surpassing yourself and rising to the level of an original creation, it will happen one day that you will hit the peak of your travels. In that moment, the glory of being a model in the spotlight will interfere with the glory of being alone.

Leadership is the joy of man continuously dedicating himself to a greater cause. It is the joy of man to rediscover himself through the ever more intense implication in the projects in which he believes in, even when he is at the peak of his journey.

The stage of completion of a project of grand proportions, shattering the walls of blind subjective and objective determinations, psychological and social, helps you separate that which is essential in the course you're following, from that which is non-essential. Thus you will be able to obtain a more precise image of your profile as a seeker of an optimal point of functioning: between limitation and expansion.

Who can bear a suffering that is subjected to a course that "wears out" the more it assumes the possibility of benefiting from "discounts" at a level of expectancies, gets closer to leadership through the fact that he trusts his capacity of perpetuating his quality of being greater than the rest: the power to help himself.

The first important chapter of leadership that you must take into account refers to the union between faith and desire, in the continuous efforts of surpassing yourself, even when the world ceases to "finance" you.

The second important chapter of leadership brings to the fore the reality to which you relate to in the conditions of incertitude of the will of accomplishing your own ideals, but distorted by the process of expansion of the area in which you fit in.

Two Lives And An Angel Caught In The Net Of A Creed

On March 24, 2012

Improve your character, by externalizing all your states of mind under the virtue of your role.

I return for a moment at the beginning of the movie "Vertical Limit (2000)" of which I had discussed in the previous article. Annie, Peter and their father, Royce Garrett, were swinging suspended on a rope to the abrupt slope of the mountain, at about 450 meters high. The rope could no longer hold all three of them.

Royce asks his son to cut the rope. This order raises a deep echo in Peter, who suddenly feels the burden of his unhappiness. The nightmare of his life became a reality for him, a personal experience.

- Listen to me, Peter ! If you do not do this, your sister will die ! Cut the rope ! Cut once ! It does not matter what happens to me ! Cut it ! We have no time ! Cut it ! exclaimed his father full of power and conviction.

A creed that improves the character. These words were meant to supply the courage and the Peter's spirit of sacrifice, who seemed to remember the first advice that his father shared with him, of that strong leadership principle, of that firm conception about life, of which he must listen now and follow it:

"Peter, you will be hit by the moment when you have to prove your strength of character. A strong character is formed only when the man is accustomed with the soul and the pain. Tighten your whole being and make the step for the grand final: between you and your role, between your emotional Ego and your moral Ego. Be a leader."

Leadership: Is your condition of a rational man that of bearing facts and consequences that contradict your personal beliefs, to verify and prove that you are sincere in what you believe or do not believe?

Our Lord, in what realm of infinity we place ourselves, your angels? Two lives depended on a single decision, by a single gesture, by a single cause, of a single consciousness. The third one was already decided by fate.

Their father, like a protective angel, holding the power to change his children's' feelings and emotions in parental desire, naturally, to protect and ensure their salvation - like an angel that spreads his wings, ready to retreat into immortality in order to leave place for their children to understand and accept the reality of this life, like an angel, who prays for a miracle in his intermediary prayers - he still managed to annihilate in Peter any remorse and any type of regret, and to fill the gap of distrust and weakness that he felt at that time.

Peter impelled by his father's creed - the creed of the ones leading and changing destinies, has strained the powers of his soul and cut the rope - saving his and his sister's life, at the cost of their father's life.

Leadership: Do you always comply with an internal check whose value can be obtained by linking a bad result to the price of a life that expresses itself in one word: "Remorse"?

In one of my webinars, I made a statement: the leader needs an answer, a positive reaction or a negative one, especially during the period of development. His ability to evaluate himself, to think the situations and to cope with them - not only in terms of feelings, but also of the consequences - represents his greatest power.

There must be a permanent internal verification, to which you must comply by yourself, as a leader - and depending on its result to be able and willing to change what does not work in your life, or what you cannot accept. This verification, carried out seriously, has the sole and exclusive purpose of transforming and perfecting your own leadership potential, being the only means, by which to acquire that particular form of self-realization.

Just as a sorcerer, boils for his incantations all the herbs of the earth, the good, and the evil ones, eventually obtaining a beneficial potion - and so you must include in your leadership, in your being, those ingredients with filtering properties of the set of principles, values and conceptions that guide you in your actions (in appropriate quantities) - that would not cause negative reactions from others, even if they do not always respect the highest moral, emotional or professional standards.

The overthrow of values - all the ups and downs that do not know any limits, sometimes are beneficial when getting the acceptance of others.

Leadership: Do the values you believe in have as a finality the price of life you pay for assuming a guilty role in a drama called "The Test of Devotion"?

In the movie "Vertical Limit (2000)" Royce Garrett tried to induce in his son his quite ambitious conception of leadership, on the role, limits and the purpose of a leader – by filling all his man inside with a new essence, with another perspective, transforming his whole existence.

The self-love should not characterize all the manifestations of a leader. His attitude toward others is a way to control his own development, but also a form of monitoring the way of exercising their power of influence.

The great merit of the leadership consists in his value of a guidance of values, of the actions for achieving the common good, a guidance regarding the philosophy application, and of its way of understanding the human being – therefore, it constitutes a means of reconciliation with yourself and with the world around you.

The determination associated with the ability to make you understandable to people – by appealing to their reason, but also to their feelings - are the "aces" from the sleeve for a leader. In the occurrence of extreme situations, a leader must know how to sacrifice something of himself, his sacrifice being followed by the sacrifice of people, for the whole "gear" to be saved.

The form each virtue takes when tested is the expression of the necessity of sacrifice in difficult situations that few are capable of.

Educating and training people, the awareness of the utmost importance aspects, are essential for having a leadership's solid foundation. Certainly, Royce Garrett has previously taught Annie and Peter regarding the dangers, about the need of self-sacrifice in difficult situations - because the situation may be opposite, to the end of the rope to be one of the two of them - and then, he would have resorted to the same gesture.

The leader can always "fail". Even so, the gear should be ready to move on, others must take the leader's place - this moral "training" this way of thinking, of approaching the responsibility and relating – it starts from the childhood, from an early age, and is finalized in the adulthood.

The leader is not an "Atlas" which carry on his back a bunch of puppets, but a man with the strength of character that is willing to sacrifice himself, and to renounce at any pride, for saving a community.

The weakness of character resembles a stone thrown into the sea: you forget to see that feelings of evil are true when the lack of control of your emotions reaches the bottom.

Two lives and an angel caught in the net of a creed reveals that inexhaustible source of morality of the people that are put in the leadership's service, the source that flows understanding over their souls, and removes the emotional and mental blockages.

The people's mentality changing is a continuous process, in which the leader has a major role. Nevertheless, people must be willing to change themselves and to accept the changing as an active process of individual and collective development.

In contrast to a game of chess, stating "checkmate" when the king can no longer move, and it is ending - in leadership, if the leader falls - others must take his place.

Two Lives And Death In God's Notice

On June 29, 2015

Try to predict the quantum of effects that can be acquired through superiority and greatness, demonstrating to the entire world the measure of your ability of treating seriously what is called "full control."

Lying, angry, panting, Maximilien no longer felt anything alive within him, apart from this dream. It seemed to him that he was entering heavily in the unresolved delirium preceding the other unknown called death. His drowsy eyes involuntarily closed: and yet, behind the eyelids flutters an image he recognized, though he believed himself to be shrouded in darkness. But his mouth uttered no sound. And, as if all forces had gathered in this inner turmoil, he sighed trying to clear his thoughts.

It was Monte Cristo who had opened a door. Through his charms that no one could unravel, that of a magician who knows how to hypnotize with a matchless skill the senses and mind of any earthling, and through his surprising gift of knowing everything, the Count seemed to be the embodiment of God.

Suddenly, a great light spread in a neighboring room, or rather in a wonderful palace, flooding the room where Maximilien had fallen prey to sweet agony. The he saw at the threshold of the room, at the intersection of two rooms, an exceedingly beautiful woman. She seemed to be the angel of mercy removing the angel of vengeance. It was Valentine, the one he believed dead. She advanced towards Maximilien with unrestrained joy, permeated by the love specific to the woman steadfast in her feelings who finds her lover after years of searching.

*- He calls to you – said Monte Cristo – he calls to you from the depths of sleep, Valentine, the one to whom you've entrusted your destiny, and death wanted to separate you. Luckily, I too was there and I have defeated death ! Valentine, henceforth, you shall not be separated for as long as you live, because for you he was able to throw himself into the grave. Without me, both of you would've died. I return each of you to one another. May the Lord take account of these two lives I save ! **

Leadership: Do you tick a success in finding the motivation, determination, and resources necessary for achieving the fusion between greatness and what proves to be a fact out of the ordinary?

The brilliant success in finding the motivation, determination, and resources necessary for achieving the fusion between greatness and what proves to be out of the ordinary, depends on the surprising gift to know everything that is going on and to know what's going to happen so to be ready to live tomorrow with expected confidence.

And greatness is the moment when you learn that you can change the course of other people's lives through the found value of self-worth, but above all by materializing a vision that is in the face of the struggle between good and evil.

Greatness has the following assets as the foundation of leadership:

The achievement of the merger between grandeur and what turns out to be something out of the ordinary is based on the external form of manifestation of a belief in a God interested by the destiny and actions of the man dear to Him.

A skilled visionary will be able to foresee the quantum of effects that can be obtained through superiority and greatness. In order for leadership to produce a movement of conquest of the way of thinking and understanding of life, by obtaining from people a complete YES that honors its potential for impact, these assets need to be reconfigured based on the specific of situations of justifying actions taken. Often times, the criteria of justification are indicators of the leader's achievements.

A concordance of the traits that do not impose limits in choosing ideal traits that turn leadership into a loyal ally is produced when the flexible and the profound in administering a life lesson meet with the boundless power of faith in the supernatural.

Conversely, a non-concordance occurs when the harsh and solitary genius embodied in the magician, a God of ordinance, tries clumsily to acquire and image of a winner or when within his lucid, secret spirit tries to forge a miracle that cannot last for long.

In leadership, the individual is above universality when you become the only one responsible for the lives of others, so when your will does not depend on the will of God, but on your success in a world that condemns and judges you without understanding the reasons behind the actions.

Two Lives And Death In God's Notice highlights the development of man towards the objective of an ideal of superiority, subjected to a faith based on the representation of the two realities: that of good and evil, relative to the two constants: life and struggle – these must not compete towards something that will uplift him, but rather to spur each other.

The one who has understood leadership foresees the quantum of effects that can be gained through superiority and greatness, demonstrating to the entire world the measure of his ability of treating seriously what is called "full control of people's destinies."

Two Rivals In The Same Throne

On March 20, 2009

Learn to manage well yourself by putting your inner strength in the service of values that would not jeopardize your own development.

Kevin Lomax. He has not escaped of the torture moment, but could think freely about what expected him. He knew that nothing was further clarified between him and John Milton, who, indirectly, in unseen ways, chased him, drained him of all moral and spiritual force that protected him, and continually tormented him only to draw him by his side and to integrate him in the game where he was in authority.

However, all it was just an extension, an extension for it is not known how long captivity, of the period of change of his own individuality from a fighting one to keep intact his strong Christian beliefs, even representative I would say, in the one whose motivations embedded greed and thirst for power. Kevin was like condemned to flee, and John Milton to follow him around, and force him to interfere in the destiny of his very strong company, but dubious.

If you watched the movie "The Devil's Advocate (1997)" then surely you remember the nightmare through which passed Kevin Lomax.

As a result of adverse influences of John Milton and his associates that progressively removed his faith, Kevin was surrounded by a permanent state of tension, anxiety, inside discomfort that was manifested through a mixture of fear, mistrust, insecurity, suspicion carried highs. He was filled with bitterness, of that agony, the pain that comes from the heart, which grinds you and increases more and more therewith the defacement of your own beliefs and values that supports your entire character.

Leadership: Is the result of your decisions the resemblance between "what manifests in sight" and "what is hidden in sight", with the stipulation that your life experience is enriched by random events that you cannot control?

A man rises by himself and falls all by himself. The balance of your inside universe contributes to the stability of your leadership. To separate yourself from your own values and beliefs because of foreign influences lead to loss of moral power, can even crush you inwardly, and can bring you to the threshold of despair and finally to your spiritual and existential decay.

As someone once said: "What it is not seen it is more important than what is seen, and what it is not said it is more important than what it is said." What it is not seen it is your conscience that tells you what's wrong and what's good for you, it lets you create your life as you want it. If your beliefs that supports your entire being are removed, then you will be in conflict with yourself, you will not align anymore with your true values, to what it is important to you, and you will fail.

Leadership: Can you project a picture of the future against the meaningful background of a life that you live by the results of the thinking of others without reconciling yourself?

Kevin Lomax's temporary failure was due to damage to his principles and morality from the moment when he has employed at the strong company led by John Milton. Since then, he has unwittingly entered a competition with his own individuality, between his positive and negative side, a competition in which the trophy could be "Success" or "Failure"

To really reach a high level of the art of leadership, strive to find the first way to trigger that sophisticated mechanism of defense against influences that are not welcomed, which not fully support your ideals, which do not cease in the cause to move away from your ethical principles. Care of your self first, your moral health before finding your way to success.

Find your way to successful performance by protecting yourself from any negative influences that might depart you from the principles of professional ethics, from the healthy concepts and true human values that you've learned. Learn to manage well yourself putting your inner strength in the service of values that would not jeopardize your own development, and that would serve you as a basis for taking the best decisions.

To reconcile with yourself means to see with the eye of the heart what the eye of the mind says, without falling into the trap of one's own weakness for "pleasure", in order to become powerless.

How far can you see with the eye of the heart and with the eye of the mind?

Two Rivals In The Same Throne express the idea of a distinction between your two inner forces fighting for supremacy, those forces that make your behaviors and attitudes, and that can lead you to success or to failure. The first force is based on some positive moral values. But, another force, more subtle and more damaging, produces in you an imbalance between your ability to focus on your own individuality and your ability to cope with any attempt that comes your way.

These two forces always compete against each other in order to motivate you or discourage you. Do your best not to hinder the solid values that support your character, not to fall under the influence of negative force. Just as a qualitative screen convinces only with a clear image – in the same way, a strong character convinces only by a clear understanding of his values and beliefs, and an absolute commitment to them.

Conclusion: The battle between "good" and "evil" happens in every one of us. During the lifetime, each one of us is passing through trials in which can triumph "good" or "evil". It depends on human nature, how deeply are rooted his principles and beliefs, how vulnerable and corruptible he is, for "good" to prevail.

Sometimes this triumph of "good" do not bring you a fulminant rise, do not bring you exorbitant material benefits, but it leaves you to live quietly, at peace with yourself and inwardly satisfied that you do not have contributed to the perpetuation of "evil" in society. So, it is up to you, whether you get a leader or not, to get high or to fall.

Unattainable Horizons Of The Search Within Us

On April 19, 2015

Extend your knowledge through direct exploration of the subjective reality, as dictated by changes reflected in the art plan.

I desperately needed to be someone else, under the experimental baton of the idea of absolute knowledge, trying to figure out, just as in art things can be represented in the completion of their construction, what can be understood and what cannot be. Something characteristic to the metaphysical sensibilities of the genius artist who, hinted by artworks, urges the world to search for aesthetic emotions.

The need to be a seeker. An isolated demiurge creating masterpieces through an act of culture and feeling. An equipped author, with writings full of double meanings, bearing within him that deterministic vibration, increasing with the extent of his proximity to an unacknowledged fullness, down to the deepest essence of what can be thought of and created, explained only through the effect of art over the most intense feelings that lead to committing his will.

Hard to accept. It was a return to myself whenever I ventured on to the battlefields of shortcoming, imagining and using everything, those before and those after my initiation in the arts of contrasting effects, in the building of the unknown. Which, by the rules of a scientific method, with the formulation of causal inferences, in the context of a deliberate leaning towards the abstract and idealism, could shed light on the deep mystery of the world. On the spectacle of individual imagination.

If you want to find out more about a world that is subject to the rigors of art, you need to find the most appropriate symbolic expression of the imbalance of a life course that starts from the description of the real object and is perfected in the constitution of the literary object.

Creative, I was twisting every shade and light into a spiral that descended towards the incomprehensible. Then climbing up over the beautiful that addressed reason. Curious to know everything that can be grasped by the senses, perceptions, matter and soul in their experimental extension. Basically, I was entering a mentality of the sort: "Go through the entire contour of creation in reverse". A fact that made me feel like someone else, giving the objective notion of the real Ego, distinct in the projection of an idealized reality.

In a way, I think I was confusing myself with that Greek esthetician that emphasized the relative character of the position of various aesthetic categories within their own system. The imaginable became unimaginable. And vice versa. Where the possibility of each of them to impose themselves even more, in continuity to one another, by the direct exploration of the subjective reality, as dictated by the changes reflected in the art plan. According to what I knew and what I didn't know about myself.

Leadership: Can you create something in a different sense of art, generating the echo effect of a feeling of sensation that, together with the achievement of a particular target, achieves the whole of an unparalleled symbolic interpretation?

To determine the nature and importance of creation we must first define its starting point, its meaning, structure, the source in which the spark of reason is produced, with other coordinates of analysis. And see what it highlights. But most important is the way it combines, in a last instance with the mood of the artist, with its own feelings, removing possible confusion caused by the imbalance between real, ideal and fictional.

Reaching a particular target of receiving the different meanings of art is measured in an attempt to convey as much as possible, in a frontal image, everything you know about an object that draws attention by its disarming simplicity. The act of feeling comes from completing the object with a certain emotional tone, perhaps called "sacredness", or with a certain value (good or bad), or attributing it a dream performance by mixing unique performance, elegance, innovation and efficiency.

My searches in the field of art have as an identifying symbol the I.M. specification, that is, the image of a space seen from above, a panoramic view, of sequences from the chronological deployment of a literature from which objects are perceived to remain constant, of the same size, shape and color, even if their image projected on the retina of a common memory is changing.

Art is the language of things that gain life by the way they are transposed in an ever-changing maze of text and image, in which interpretation becomes a work experience with the self.

To create something in a different sense of art, generating the echo effect of an act of feeling, is sometimes to give rise to the effect of an intent to communicate between the things that surround you and the way they are expressed in an adequate language of a discourse of manipulation.

Emotional involvement is that enormous force that binds you to a certain way of thinking that lets you be all you can be. A force that, on the other hand, gives a course of action that is relevant to reaching an individual target. It starts a broad campaign of creation, manifesting itself visibly in scientific curiosity, in a state of perpetual inspiration and in a race of searching for the points of view that favors your pursuit towards the ideal, towards everything that is bold in art.

In leadership, it is important what you believe in a different acceptance of art, culture, language, states of mind, surpassing the stage of "banality" that doesn't demonstrate anything and generates the echo effect. There was a reason Nichita Stănescu saw the act of creation as a "state of echo". Something that resonates both in your soul, as well as around you, but especially in what you consider to be a change through the power of penetrating the armor of the ignorant.

Leadership, being outlined as a reaction to what you try to achieve through the act of creation, under the experimental baton of absolute knowledge, has as filtering material the information, elements of subjective reality, through the vision of imagination and power of expression, transforming them into values related to existence and the surrounding world.

The whole of a work of art is a mix of things, facts and ideas subordinated to emotions that through suggestion, image and symbol can take concrete forms of life.

Unattainable Horizons Of The Search Within Us highlights that state of mind from which man succeeds in perceiving every emotion and accept it as a propulsive force towards a more advanced evolution, and its entry into a mentality of the type: "Go through the entire contour of creation in reverse."

Under Pressure

On July 25, 2016

Relate to what is happening to you, occupying the exact space in the center of the general effect of events that you have to accept as being the chance to fulfill your prophetic destiny.

Almost everyone was contaminated, injured, groaning with the pain of death, due to a major force that turned everything into a desert of resignation, a particular force that only scientists could tame, but not eliminate. You cannot fight against an inevitable death, the desert itself becomes a force of resignation, transforming everything into a polluted world, despite the current science that you would have believed had advanced so much. Science had not found a cure. Yet. I'm referring here to the movie World War Z.

In a world that cannot reanimate itself, exerting a harmful, dominant influence over the general impression, where understanding of the meaning of an ethic of sacrifice is subordinate to the greatness of scientific creation, a small Zorro always survives – but without a mask, and rather equipped with a high capacity for analysis and synthesis, which can stop the expansion of evil.

His name is Gerry Lane. Former employee of the United Nations. He embarks on a race against time to find "The Cure", transitioning to normality, the returning to life of all of those undead beings.

The man who understands the pain of the world in terms of consciousness refers to leadership by accessing serious events at the level of comparison with an Olympic champion who is forced to reveal himself as a miracle of the sacrificial experience.

This scientist, so dumbfounded by what is happening, but at the same time excited beyond measure, gets involved with his whole being, as a true chemist, in the search for the revealing formula of the antidote's composition, the beneficent substance, trying to understand the totality of the determining cause of the epidemic. Basically, he goes by the thread of the cause that generates the effect by decomposing it in its constituent elements: human and material, interconnected.

After the initial panic, when the whole world seemed to spin uncontrollably around a muffled and mysterious madness, continuously progressing from suffering to tragedy, a strange curiosity takes possession of Gerry, an irresistible attraction to various types of human reactions and quantitative aspects of these events, as well as classes of causative organic compounds, which grant him the possibility of completing professional knowledge. And, therefore, his effort in finding meaning in what is happening around him is visible.

Leadership: Are you creative in trying to understand the "totality" of a determining cause, by decomposing it into its constituent elements, so as to generate another attitude at the level of being that faces its destiny as a conjugate effect of providence and human actions?

The leader always occupies the exact space in the center of the general effect of events that he must accept as being the chance to fulfill his prophetic destiny. He never positions himself as a victim, but rather as a sole moderator of uncertain events, going beyond techniques and beyond everything the moves around a result found in the area of unpredictability. A result waiting to be found and accepted by the majority of those connected to its dimension of propagation.

If the impression that all of these worldly "disorders" leave is closely linked to the imprecision of finding its triggering causes, due to the completely striking novelty, then the effort of giving meaning to what happens comes down only to a man endowed with all the positive sides that a scholar should have: the desire to seek, even if one is crossed by the tragic thrill given by the awareness of the fact that he has nothing left to find.

That better "myself", from a personal and professional standpoint, to which man aspires to with a discernment proper to the situation triggered by a particular cause, is directed against the force that turns everything into a desert of resignation. Being creative in the attempt of understanding the totality of the determining cause, which is beyond your will, by decomposing it into its constituent elements, is clearly the typical way in which your all-powerful self addresses everything.

Leadership reproduces the image of the result of the processes of finding the "totality" of the determining cause, conducted at two levels:

On the one hand, the moderator of uncertain events perceives information that is not available to just anyone, in a certain way, in the context of preferences, experience and information held from sources other than those of the cause they study. On the other hand, he designs and transmits a desired image, favorable, which is equivalent to exiting a state of blindness, meaning, with the dependency of the results of research on the possibilities of self-rediscovery.

The leader can be considered a prophet when he manages to preview the possible result of a compensatory and beneficial effect, depending on the evolution of an uncertain event, making possible the delimitation between protection and control, between the present and the past world.

Only in an Under Pressure state can man focus his full attention to surprise his intelligence and reactions to his actions during difficult events.

Such a man learns, primarily, to relate to what is happening to him, to what he sees around him, to what he needs to know. Then, he learns to recognize himself in everything he discovers, easily finding his place in the space of production of new samples of reasoning.

Under Suspicion

On March 07, 2014

Expand the awareness level of the reality you represent, depending on the level of acceptability of the reality perceived by others.

I wondered if it was true. It may seem strange to you but I could couldn't believe it. I felt that there was in Ellie's soul the belief that Greta, with all her practical initiatives, wasn't sufficiently appreciated. Ellie, I was convinced of this, would accept any idea that she herself would've wanted to have. Greta instilled Ellie with a desire of rebellion. And Ellie alone wanted to rebel, only she didn't know how to do it.

*But now, when I had come to know Ellie better, I understood that she was one of those simple people that had unexpected reservations. I was convinced that Ellie would've been capable of expressing her opinion if she really wanted to. The problem was that she didn't want to make this thing felt all that often and I thought afterwards how difficult it was for someone to understand such a thing.

Leadership: Do you approve of the "facsimile" of a reality that wasn't thoroughly analyzed in the light of the appreciation of which you are closely linked in trying to become someone else?

Any leader considerably reduces their advantage induced by the "devotion" factor, if the secondary plan of the image they build of others doesn't shed light on appearances. Without seeking to discover the real man behind these seemingly corrupt appearances, having to obstinately approve of the "facsimile" of a reality that wasn't thoroughly analyzed, the leader reduces their chances of acceding to the depth of human knowledge.

In the field of leadership, the key to effectively perceive man lies in the ability to adapt to their subtle reality, examined only from the perspective of personal convictions. The facsimile of the reality that the man who wants to be appreciated approves, talking only about things that attract attention, is in fact a copy of the image he has formed about himself under the influence of the conviction that he can obtain a leading position in front of others. But no one can recognize the leading man who seeks at any price to be someone other than he really is.

If you do not want to turn into a superficial man that values appearance without content, you must create an image of man for yourself beyond the think wall of assumptions, beyond those pretentious walls of false findings found at the base of summary judgements, beyond what psychology, logic and the science of recognizing the intentions behind human behavior have to offer.

Leadership: Do you accept the idea of expanding your area of confidence from the "known" to the "unknown" by manifesting your consideration of an ideal of "being" that is not justified by accepting the term "natural acceptance of reality" ?

The converse is more strongly felt. According to Coulomb's Law, the module of electrostatic force between two electrostatic charges is directly proportional to the product of the two electric charges and inversely proportional to the square of the distance between charges. Same with the appreciation that others offer you, sometimes to the detriment of your relationship with them, is directly proportional with the triumph of their ideal versus reality, and inversely proportional to the confidence you transmit.

In turn, you become the target of extensive and systematic observations and assessments. You start to wonder if it is true what others think about you, with all the anxiety a man that gets sick overnight can feel, or one who is diagnosed with a communicable disease that nobody wants. It may seem strange to you, but you can't really believe it, the more that nobody gives you the reassurance that there is no reason for concern.

You feel that in others' souls exists a certain conviction, harsh, unsettling, beyond the limit of the admissible, which as an army that rises against its kingdom, puts its strength of character to the test, the power of coping with pressure and maintaining individuality and essential features intact.

The natural acceptance of reality means keeping your mind open to the opportunity to be someone else, but conforming only to the rational nature of being yourself in a continuity that excludes any manifestation of the contradiction between the "current situation" and the "proposed purpose".

The idea of expanding your area of trust from the "known" to the "unknown" highlights the uncertainty that arises when one becomes aware of an effect that, in fact, one does not want. As a consequence of a formal assessment, based on ignorance, misinformation or interpretation.

People are connected to the reality that you transmit, defined and redefined according to their own, often subjective, criteria, through the formation of comparative patterns by decoupling your quality assessment and altering it. This tendency to feel somewhat justified by accepting the terms and conditions of understanding and awareness of the reality perceived by others.

If you want leadership to not transform into a connection encrypted by false assumptions, expand your awareness of the less visible aspects that others create, considered problematic, in terms of access to your own reality.

Leadership is the reality that you convey to the world on the basis that whatever defines you is born of the urge of intelligence to subordinate yourself only to the power to overcome yourself through work, through achievements, through self-confidence.

Under Suspicion highlights the importance of showing yourself in the true light of what you are and what you've become, to remove any shred of doubt about yourself and your actions. Only by expanding awareness of the reality you represent under the urge of your unique intelligence will you be able to correctly identify people and their realities.

Under The Empire Of Loyalty

On December 21, 2009

Rise above your own limits, readjusting your leadership potential in line with the ideals of others.

Only an exceptional man can guide the spirits towards his own ambitions, under the influence of leadership. Whenever a leader proposes to do something, he involves himself personally in the smooth running of things, with dead seriousness and confidence, putting soul into every step he makes. He does not doubt at all about his people's loyalty, just as people, at their turn, do not doubt his devotedness and loyalty.

His desire to achieve his goals, to complete his mission, is so big that nobody and nothing can convince him to give up. For him, victory is absolute for the most times. Only such a longing desire, only such a full confidence in his own forces, in people, and in their ability to overcome their own limits, collaborating with each other, mobilizing their ambitions, can tempt him to always go on.

A day before the beginning of the battle of Austerlitz, Napoleon has addressed to his soldiers:

- I myself will lead your battalions. I will be kept away from the fire, with your customary bravery, you will bring chaos and death into the enemy ranks. But if victory is undecided for a moment, you will see your Emperor exposed to the first blows.

These words really electrified the troops, which proved to be at the height during the whole battle. And by that time, Napoleon could mobilize his people. The great victory of Austerlitz determined the disintegration of the Third Coalition constituted against the French Empire, and HE, the great military genius, strong and majestic like a lion, has enjoyed to the most for quite a long time his moments of glory.

Leadership: Can you achieve the fusion between demonstrative and wishful necessities in order to bring arguments for your position as a promoter of a noble cause?

In order to accomplish achieving the principle of people gathering for a common purpose, avoiding by any means to give an absolute value to certain directions that certify the continuity of some unrealistic approaches, you have to prove your attachment to a certain evolutionism to conceive your vision – through a proper example, letting aside the opposition between justice and injustice, but most of all the opposition between a genius and the common man.

So there has to be a continuous availability for the composition of exterior attitudes and traits, sharing the idealism of your convictions about your own abilities through a heroic determination that inspires people. This even grants you a kind of immunity regarding wrong decisions.

Everything that the leaders shape with their victory gift, with their apparent craziness, beyond the turmoil of disappointments or worries, is based on grounded convictions that have become reference points, and that contain the not at all coincidental phrase: "Everything that isn't governed by strict ethnical principles, is governed by the conditions of ensuring success."

The demonstration of personal power focuses on the limits you are willing to violate in order to validate your control in the trail of mistakes others make if they do not accept to follow you.

And these limits are given by the actions of decision and control that allow you to accurately reconstruct the sequences of the present, traversed through a repeated undertaking of all the risks related to the nature of the virtue of being capable of great deeds, before choosing a unique purpose.

The leaders that have the tendency to judge every decision in terms of "correct" or "incorrect" can easily achieve the fusion between demonstrative and wishful necessities in order to bring arguments for their position as promoters of a noble cause and of glory, through proper measures and actions. They avoid attachment fiascos through a particular way of treating and putting themselves in relation with the responsibility elements of a personal geography that surprises a backward-forward movement between the objective and subjective reality.

The creeds justify the means, having as consequence a positive image of one's self, a strong esteem and trust. And these concentrated expressions of faith, founded on the grounds of convictions full of potential, manage the performance to awaken a certain sensibility for a person's worth, a characteristic impregnated by maturity in the DNA of a leading style.

This doesn't necessarily mean an inclination towards exclusively catching the manifestation, highlighting and demonstration ways of experience, but moreover, a preference for the human typology that wants to overcome itself, stunning through its concreteness.

Leadership: Does your example of self-perfection awakens people's impulse to overcome their boundaries?

The emperor's proof of loyalty and devotedness encouraged the soldiers and inspired them the desire to fight more heartily and, eventually, to win a battle with the odds of three to one. A whole life, Napoleon, this man with such a brilliant mind, stayed only among people. Both in times of war and in times of peace. He was accustomed with the uproar of battles. Every weapon it was like his sister, every soldier his brother. He always fought side by side with his soldiers. It is no wonder that he knew everyone by their names. What is more important is that he was loved, admired and respected.

Napoleon's soldiers exceeded their limits, because he himself had exceeded his limits.

Had Napoleon ever missed the battlefield, as cowardly and fearfully leaders do? No. People would never love and respect a leader who sends them to death, but which who is absent from the battlefield. Napoleon was present in the battlefield almost every time, he led the way, exposing himself often to the first blows.

This was his ticket to the hearts of people. Which is yours? If you do not have, get one !

Loyalty is a sine qua non condition in order to achieve excellence in leadership. It is the line that separates success from failure. Napoleon always proved loyalty towards his soldiers, towards his people, towards his country, even if the decisions that he took along the time, have not proven to be all effective, some of them ending with disastrous failures.

Before you recommend yourself as a unique leadership model, you need to know what conditions predominate in your area of receptivity.

Receptivity is the leader's openness to accept new power control conditions, validated by the people's belief in an intelligence superior to theirs. In this area predominate two conditions: the flair of knowing where to step in the nefarious course of difficulty to predict events and the flair of knowing what that "attraction" is, the one you seek with an attitude of absolute commitment to the world.

Always being present among people, both for good, but mostly for worse, reflects your level of loyalty towards them, contributing to your success and theirs, as well. People are receptive to everything you do, at all your demarches that you undertake over time. Do you leave them in difficulty? Do you deny them? Or you stay by their side and you involve yourself with eagerness and devotedness in the "fight" they are doing for you?

As the kidney (the organ through which are eliminated the substances that are no longer useful to the human body) intervenes in regulating blood pressure, so your level of loyalty intervene in regulating your leadership potential - essential in the proper functioning of the team.

The binder that unites a team. Most people would do anything for you only if you do anything for them, as well. The opposite is also available; nobody will ever follow you if you do not show them, first of all, that you are by their side for the better and for the worse. The people's ideal is to stay always with them.

A leader's loyalty towards his subordinates contributes in achieving common success. People are reticent if they notice that your level of loyalty is low, and you do not support them when they need you. You cannot rise above them, and you cannot influence them, only through your cooperation. Not separately. Not by giving orders and always supervising their activities. Loyalty is based on involvement: the more you involve yourself in common activities, the more people get attached to you and become more loyal. If your level of loyalty decreases, then the level of achieving your goals will be diminished.

Loyalty is checked when your receptivity to people's needs is limited by that hard part of your self-development that goes beyond their "reserve" of adapting to it.

Is the hard part of your self-development the "paradoxical courage" of giving up power to the benefit of those that run towards it?

Conclusion: The mutual loyalty is an essential condition for success; it is one of the binders that unite a team in the way, sometimes easy, sometimes difficult, in achieving the final goals. The lack of it, as well as the disinterest for the ultimate goal is a big obstacle that could cause a definitive failure.

Rise above your own limits, readjusting your leadership potential in line with the ideals of others.

11 metri pătraţi

On Septembrie 22, 2014

Întregeşte-ţi personalitatea, investind mai mult timp în munca de creare a propriei realităţi.

Moscova este bombardată sălbatic. Hitleriştii încep ofensiva împotriva capitalei. Dar Eisenstein continuă munca la film. Peste tot domneşte haosul dezorganizării, mersul normal al vieţii studioului nu este reluat încă multă, multă vreme. Sala de spectacole devine şi ea platou de filmare. Platourile sunt mici, încăperile casei de cultură nu sunt făcute pentru filmări. Eisenstein nu are o locuinţă separată, stă pe 11 metri pătraţi. Adeseori, situaţia financiară este complet catastrofală: „peste tot mi se reţin rate şi iese dracu ştie ce".

De unde atâta forţă în acest artist care trăieşte în asemenea condiţii, de a lucra – şi condiţiile de lucru sunt şi mai teribile – urmărindu-şi obstinat ideile, ducând cu o răbdare neomenească, până la desăvârşire fiecare detaliu, cel mai mic amănunt al viziunii sale, ocupându-se de tot, de absolut tot, insistând până şi pentru obţinerea grosimii corespunzătoare a stratului de chit de pe obiectele bisericeşti ce abia mai urmează a fi aurite? *****

Leadership: Creaţia ta îşi descoperă sensul şi veridicitatea numai dacă este privită din perspectiva unei experienţe de viaţă constrângătoare?

Poate că leadershipul, urmând legi descriptibile prin valori ce apar la momente de timp imprevizibile, este o componentă a unui model mai larg de schimbare, în care experimentezi ceea eşti în condiţii de mare solicitare. Întotdeauna dominanta pe care este plasată interacţiunea cu ceea ce te înconjoară, cu ceea ce contează în momentul stabilirii unei noi relaţii cu o realitate care te depăşeşte, străpungând vălul limitator al concretului, colorează şi antrenează după ea câmpul întreg al trăirilor individuale.

Şi numai aceste trăiri, învăluindu-te uneori cu un subtil văl de tristeţe şi îngrijorare, te ajută – sau te împiedică - să faci față unei lumi în care poate n-ai vrea să mai trăieşti nicio clipă, dar care pare să te aștepte chiar după colț. Toate acestea nu sunt rezultatul a ceea ce eşti, ci sunt rezultatul rezidual al gândurilor şi acţiunilor tale predominante, fapt ce îţi permite să te concentrezi pe lucrurile importante din viaţa ta, în acelaşi timp oferindu-ţi şansa de a-ţi dezvolta cariera într-un mediu incert.

Pentru ca creaţia ta să-şi descopere sensul şi veridicitatea, ea trebuie uneori privită din perspectiva unei experienţe de viaţă constrângătoare, deci prin prisma unui obiectiv greu de atins, după ce analizezi realitatea în care te găseşti din toate punctele de vedere, pro şi contra. Numai investind mai mult timp în munca de creare a unei realităţi obiective, menite să îţi exprime conştiinţa şi nu disperările sau nemulţumirile, îţi vei putea întregi personalitatea.

După cum precizam într-un articol mai vechi: „ Personalitatea are ca destinatar acel individ înzestrat cu capacitatea de a se dărui întru totul pasiunii sale şi lucrurilor în care crede, chiar dacă circumstanţele nu sunt întocmai favorabile. "

Leadership: Eşti pregătit să experimentezi o nouă dimensiune a formării tale, prin prisma trecerii de la statutul de "căutător-dezvoltator" la statutul de "luptător-supravieţuitor" ?

Probabil că toate aceste reprezentări ale sinelui, puse în legătură cu valoarea ascunsă a omului, formează laolaltă, sau ar putea forma, un model general, dezorientat din punct de vedere al căii de urmat pentru evoluţia profesională. Aici leadershipul capătă o nouă caracteristică pentru detectarea naturii reale a omului, aceea de „transfer de siguranţă", prin care se face trecerea de la statutul de căutător-dezvoltator la statutul de luptător-supravieţuitor.

Siguranţa este o preocupare şi o responsabilitate continuă, ce-i revine omului care se angajează singur într-un proces continuu de dezvoltare, în condiţii de incertitudine. Un proces dinamic, focalizat pe construirea unui sistem de valori care poate să genereze, mai ales pe termen lung, o anumită rentabilitate, o anumită rezistenţă cu valoare de test, o stare de spirit care include păstrarea unei atitudini ferme faţă de ceea ce ceri de la tine, de la viaţă, de la hobby-ul tău şi de la viitor.

A experimenta o nouă dimensiune a formării tale ca artist înseamnă să trăieşti experienţa unei aventuri născută din stoicismul cu care rezişti în faţa oricărei greutăţi şi din viziunea cu care te poţi identifica într-o mai vie şi mai pricepută solicitare a capacității de redare a unei realităţi care substituie realitatea pe care trebuie să o înduri.

11 metri pătraţi vizează acea formă de existenţă a omului, devenit prizonierul propriei sale creaţii şi proiecţii în viitor, dar care meditând la sine şi autoanalizându-se îndelung poate înţelege alte unghiuri de abordare a unei situaţii potenţial problematice.

Bucuria victoriei, concretizată într-o nouă serie de reușite profesionale, are de multe ori la bază tocmai conştiinţa, atitudinea faţă de sine, revelarea de sine, validabile prin opoziţie cu ceea ce se întâmplă în jur.

3 lecţii de leadership din partea lui Antoine Bourdelle

On Martie 20, 2008

Niciodată să nu dai vina pe o eroare ca să-ţi justifici atitudinea. Niciodată să nu îţi fie ruşine de nimic din ceea ce faci sau gândeşti.

Antoine Bourdelle a fost unul din sculptorii monumentalişti realişti cei mai expresivi şi plini de forţă ai primei părţi a secolului XX. El l-a admirat încă din tinereţe, deosebit de mult, pe scriitorul francez, laureat al Premiului Nobel pentru Literatură, Anatole France. De aceea a realizat portretul marelui scriitor în bronz. Figura prelungă exprima o mare vivacitate şi totodată un impresionant echilibru interior.

La un moment dat, Anatole France a spus despre Bourdelle: "Nu-i cunosc decât un singur defect, cel de a concepe lucrări peste putinţă, iar acesta este un nobil "defect".

Iar răspunsul lui Bourdelle a fost: "Să-mi văd erorile, în aceasta constă toată forţa mea. Drumul adevărului este alcătuit din erori recunoscute."

Cred că este util să ne oprim asupra acestui punct de vedere şi să analizăm dacă se poate susţine şi astăzi, în domeniul conducerii.

Leadership: Iei în consideraţie faptul că puterea oricărui performer constă în a şti să-şi recunoască "erorile" în care se oglindesc ideile creaţiei sale, ori de câte ori încearcă să-şi dovedească sieşi că poate concepe lucrări peste putinţă de realizat?

Cred că poţi contribui substanţial la dezvoltarea leadershipului tău numai dacă reuşeşti să-ţi recunoşti erorile şi să-ţi asumi consecinţele. În asta constă forţa oricărui performer de elită. Drumul adevărului - despre care Bourdelle spunea că este alcătuit din erori recunoscute, indică de fapt traseul optim, dar foarte dificil şi solicitant, care leagă trăsăturile, calităţile, talentele tale de adevărata performanţă.

Acest drum pe care trebuie să-l parcurgi pentru a-ţi desăvârşi măiestria, vădind o orientare pozitivă spre folosirea cu bun gust şi pricepere a propriilor atuuri şi abilităţi, se aseamănă cu consumul de cantităţi mari de ciocolată. Aşa cum ciocolată poate dăuna sănătăţii dacă cantitatea consumată depăşeşte normalul pe care organismul o poate suporta, tot aşa drumul tău spre performanţă nu va avea particularitatea de a fi excelent dacă nu contribui substanţial la formarea propriei tale personalităţi, adică dacă nu începi să gândeşti, să acţionezi şi să produci rezultate mai multe şi mai bune.

Dacă nu eşti înclinat să-ţi asumi anumite riscuri, dacă nu încerci să te întreci pe tine însuţi, să intri pe un teren nou şi să reuşeşti o anumită progresivitate a Creaţiei, atunci nu vei constata niciodată că poţi face ceea ce credeai că nu se poate.

Tu cum contribui la dezvoltarea Creaţiei tale? Ai sinceritatea şi curajul de a-ţi recunoaşte greşelile şi de a-ţi asuma consecinţele lor? Ţi-ai ales drumul pe care trebuie să-l parcurgi pentru a-ţi desăvârşi măiestria? Acest drum are particularitatea de a fi "excelent"?

Leadership: Eşti în stare să te întreci pe tine însuţi şi să intri pe un teren nou care nu-ţi garantează 100% obţinerea unui nivel înalt de excelenţă?

Sunt sigur că excelenţa în leadership are la bază o riguroasă selectare a erorilor care afectează operațiunile adiacente actului de creaţie (al cărui singur scop este să scoată la iveală veleităţile tale artistice, dar şi cele mai înalte trăsături ale tale). Un performer ar trebui să identifice acele tehnici de corectare a erorilor care pot să producă rezultate constructive de consolidare a cunoștințelor, cu implicarea altor perspective de dezvoltare ale artei, aşa încât orice realizare a lui să fie considerată o capodoperă a creaţiei.

Vorbele marelui scriitor român Nicolae Iorga susţin adevărul transmis de mine. El spunea: "Să râzi, nu de greşelile pe care le-ai făcut, ci de acelea pe care nu le-ai făcut niciodată, deşi ai avut prilejul să le faci."

Un om fără conştiinţă propriilor greşeli nu va putea să pătrundă niciodată în ungherele ascunse ale excelenţei, el nu va putea să creeze niciodată acea legătură dintre investiţii şi profit, adică dintre efort şi beneficiile efortului. A avea conştiinţa propriilor erori şi greşeli constituie un mijloc de a reliefa cele mai caracteristice aspecte ale propriei tale "arte de conducere" căreia îi dai viaţă. Excelenţa are la bază o riguroasă selectare a erorilor şi greşelilor spre a obţine o cât mai profundă şi mai cuprinzătoare exprimare a propriei tale individualităţi, a lumii tale interioare.

Ca să te ridici la nivelul propriilor tale aşteptări, mai întâi trebuie să-ţi răsplăteşti tu însuţi eforturile. Cum? Recunoscându-ţi erorile, adică definindu-ţi punctele slabe.

Ori de câte ori vei face o greşeală, ori de câte ori vei detecta o eroare sau o deficienţă în mecanismul propriei tale funcţionări, completează-ţi singur un cec pentru a plăti o amendă pentru ea. O amendă pentru fiecare eroare. Cecul poate fi în valoare de 5 Lei, 10 Lei sau 25 de Lei. Efectul va fi uluitor. Căci acest cec validează propria ta contribuţie la sporirea valorii personale. Acest cec este o mărturie a perseverenţei tale, a puterii tale de a te dedica progresului personal.

Dacă nu-ţi răsplăteşti singur "producţia" de greşeli, înseamnă că n-ai făcut niciun pas înainte, că nu ai evoluat cu nimic în mânuirea propriilor tale abilităţi.

Leadershipul este un indicator al forţei cu care performerul acţionează asupra descoperirii erorilor premergătoare substanţializării, împlinirii creaţiei, proces din care învaţă să-şi întărească încrederea în sine şi în munca sa.

3 lecţii de leadership din partea lui Antoine Bourdelle am identificat în acest articol:

1. Rezultatele obţinute diferă prin erorile lor experimentale. Niciodată să nu te pierzi pe tine însuţi în timpul gestionarii erorilor.

2. Pentru a exclude cât mai mult posibil erorile sistematice, ar trebui să analizezi întotdeauna cu atenție metoda de măsurare a valorii care însoţeşte rezultatul creaţiei tale.

3. Niciodată să nu dai vina pe o eroare ca să-ţi justifici atitudinea. Niciodată să nu îţi fie ruşine de nimic din ceea ce faci sau gândeşti.

93% din totalul unui spaţiu temporar

On Noiembrie 12, 2014

Explorează-ţi limitele şi orizonturile, contribuind la crearea unor cazuri particulare de aplicare a modelului propriu de interpretare a adevărului unanim acceptat.

Toată această imensitate mi se învârtea în faţa ochilor, nefalsificată de nicio senzaţie de presiune, într-o varietate de sensuri subtile care se opuneau acelui spaţiu temporar numit generalitate, sub semnul experimentului şi al neconvenţionalului. Era un fel de vizualizare particulară a unei dimensiuni suportabile prin felul cum era manevrată, de dincolo de fizic, de dincolo de înţelegerea esenţei existenţei, de dincolo de mintea creatorului ei, privite prin lentila unui model informaţional suprastructural.

În cazul meu, dorind să mă afund mai mult în "Spaţiul de forţă al lui Alpha", sub puterea de proslăvire a Astrului cu 5 colţuri al Microcosmosului Cabalistic , trebuia să aprofundez funcţia exploratoare a gândirii unei noi intervefeţe de comunicare cu filosofia expusă în Pendulul lui Focault:

"Deci cea mai mare osteneală a mea era să găsesc o ordine în aceste șapte măsuri, una potrivită, destulă, deosebitoare și care să țină pururea simțul deștept și memoria nealterată. Această înaltă și comparabilă aranjare îndeplinește nu numai rolul de a-mi păstra ceea ce mi-a fost încredințat din lucruri, cuvinte și arte, dar îmi dă pe deasupra și adevărata înțelepciune…"

Limitele şi orizonturile ştiinţei, bine impregnate în memoria nealterată a marilor creatori de lumi, aceşti artişti izolaţi în vastitatea universului ce ne înconjoară, pot suscita în mintea asociativă, fidelă Ochilor Magici ai lui Oberon , un joc al analogiilor fără sfârşit prin întrepătrunderea planului imaginar cu cel real. Marea splendoare a ştiinţei, cuprinsă în perimetrul convenţiei dintre simbol şi vizualiarea particulară a unei imagini mărite prin procedeul comparaţiei, are o permanentă deschidere spre forma cea mai subtilă a parcugerii cu sfinţenie a "Cufărului lui Newton".

Leadership: Poţi înregistra progrese remarcabile privind lumea de la înălţimea contemplaţii tainice, în încercarea de studiere şi exprimare a nevoii de adaptare la un stil de gândire transferat în afara buclei relativului?

Dacă voiam să înregistrez progrese remarcabile în arta de a privi lumea de la înălţime, facil şi necondiţionat de vreo influenţă exterioară, dacă voiam să deslușesc formula aparent imposibilă a perfecţiunii exigente într-o realitate ireală - fiindcă era nouă, atunci trebuia să aplic un raţionament invers, de la general la particular. Era o încercare de studiere şi exprimare a nevoii de adaptare la un stil de gândire transferat în afara buclei relativului, un stil acceptat drept partener inevitabil în stabilirea unor adevăruri ştiinţifice aplicate în cercetarea unui nou orizont.

Nefiresc, mă simţeam prins în mecanismul proiecţiei unui ideal de superioritate care exista doar în opoziţie cu logica gândurilor şi ideilor iraţionale, abordate într-un mod raţional, ca şi când ar fi trebuit să iau măsuri împotriva unei inteligenţe care depăşea standardul normal de rezonabilitate în redarea unui înţeles, ca autentic sau neautentic. "Relativul" este permanentă tensiune a presimţirii schimbării lumii, dintr-un punct de vedere care învie o altă lume, iar bucla relativului este întoarcerea la înţelesul primordial aflat la răscrucea dintre "nevoia de a vizualiza abstractul" şi "nevoia de a transcende vizibilul".

Eram confuz, legat subtil de un raţionament complicat. Într-un fel, mă regăseam în rolul acelui personaj creat de Pat Rushin care încerca să desluşească o formulă imposibilă, neputând să treacă de 93%, căci tot ce acumula prin extinderea cunoaşterii se autodistrugea. Devenea altceva, ca un ultim act al unui duel purtat de mai multe luni de cei doi adversari: lupta cerească între arhanghelul Mihail şi dragonul de foc. Materia se transformă prin distrugerea vechilor interpretări, reînviind lumea comprimată în austeritatea semnului Alpha.

Leadership: Eşti în stare să creezi o lume congruentă cu interpretarea ta, chiar dacă ar putea fi o lume greşită, în încercarea de a recepta o nouă perspectivă asupra criteriului de orientare spre puterile superioare ale manifestării Creaţiei" ?

Practica explorării necunoscutului, deschizând larg poarta spre înălţimile ştiinţei care pot defini omul ca pe un reprezentant al lumii noi, în care gândirea asociată cu fantezia reuşeşte un salt peste ceea ce este permis, impune o relativitate în evaluarea cunoştinţelor prin extinderea valorilor de adevăr de la două, la trei valori: adevărul, falsul şi probabilul.

Ceea ce se poate răsfrânge asupra leadershipul, în încercarea de a recepta o nouă perspectivă asupra criteriului de orientare spre „puteri superioare", extinse dincolo de graniţele obişnuitului şi admisibilului, este tocmai raţionamentul prin care ştiinţa poate să existe într-un spaţiu în care nu există limite, un spaţiu în care imaginaţia face ca totul să fie posibil. Un fel de raţionament prin care se trece de la acceptarea unor principii general valabile la crearea unor cazuri particulare de aplicare a modelului propriu de interpretare ştiinţifică, utilizând informaţiile pe care le deţii pentru a evalua adevărul sau falsul în continua dezvoltare a relaţiei dintre lume, realitate, existenţă şi perfecţiune.

Un fel de suprapunere dintre tot şi nimic, în acelaşi mod în care un program utilizat de un calculator este verificat şi validat de realitate înainte de a fi implementat la scară largă în diferite instituţii. Doar cu un singur amendament: acela de a nu încurca mintea cu o logică care are o sumedenie de opusuri, împingându-te spre o ambiguitate excesivă, dificil de descifrat.

Puterea superioară a manifestării Creaţiei se regăseşte în interpretarea pe care o dai unei lumi ideale, pure, geometrice, chiar dacă această interpretare poate fi greşită sau neînţeleasă.

Mare dreptate avea avocatul american specializat în litigii economice, Daniel Castro: „ Când facem un raţionament înseamnă că vom crea modelul mental al unui univers aşteptat. De fapt, creăm o lume congruentă cu interpretarea noastră, chiar dacă ar putea fi o lume greşită. " Cu alte cuvinte, tendința de redefinire a ideilor şi idealurilor anterioare poate fi o trecere dintr-o lume mică într-un univers incomensurabil care se împlineşte prin lanţul gros şi complex al conştiinţelor asimilate.

A crea o lume congruentă cu interpretarea ta, chiar dacă ar putea fi o lume greşită, înseamnă a te îndepărta de realitatea concretă, dar şi singura posibilitatea de a accede la un standard superior de gândire. Interpretarea exclusiv personală, bazându-te exclusiv pe ea, poate conduce spre o lume utopică, fără nicio legătură cu concretul de azi, dar care defineşte şi încurajează posibilul de mâine.

Funcţia exploratoare a creaţiei are ca sursă primordială de inspiraţie modelul propriu de interpretare a adevărului unanim acceptat de restul lumii, cu precizarea că acelaşi adevăr poate lua oricând o altă întorsătură spre concretul realităţii perceptibile doar de minţile care ştiu să transceandă vizibilul.

93% din totalul unui spaţiu temporar semnifică desfăşurarea trecerii spre o etapă avansată a evoluţiei – aproape de absolut, prin crearea unor cazuri particulare de aplicare a modelului propriu de interpretare a realităţi pe care o cunoşti, sau mai exact a ceea ce se numeşte „adevăr unanim acceptat".

Leadershipul este posibil prin reinterpretarea acestei lumi complexe, fundamentându-se pe sintagma: „ puterea se reînnoieşte prin orientarea intelectuală şi competenţa analitică care facilitează dezvoltarea tuturor variantelor posibile de viitor ".

Modelul mental pe baza unui raţionament propriu, trebuie să fie în concordanţă cu un orizont prezent (îngustat, temător, cu mii de întrebări cu răspunsuri variabile). Dar în acelaşi timp să rezoneze cu un orizont esenţialmente mobil, care cuprinde profunzimile (în interpretare) de dincolo de sfera de aplicare a viziunii.

A deveni tu însuţi în lumea ştiinţei

On Martie 15, 2014

Încearcă să-ţi constitui autoritatea ştiinţifică ca o materializare a spiritului de a privi cu încredere spre viitor, identificând schimbările care survin în contextul dobândirii unei conştiinţe de sine mai înalte.

Totdeauna m-am gândit la mine ca la un om de ştiinţă ce caută principiile şi cauzele profunde ale unei realităţi fizice unice, obligat să-mi utilizez însuşirile superioare de bun observator spre dobândirea unei noi puteri de chemare şi de iluminare, ca demonstraţie de credinţă intelectuală ce trebuia dovedită înainte de a fi crezută fără rezerve.

Ştiinţa constituia singurul mijloc preventiv în contra pasiunilor şi patimilor ce puteau fi condamnabile şi distrugătoare dacă reuşeau să-mi orienteze privirea şi simţurile spre un punct prea mic de interes ca să însemne ceva pentru progresul lumii.

Aşadar, consecinţele unei astfel de intenţii erau de ordin spiritual, căci întotdeauna simţeam că mă apropii de dorinţa universului conjugată cu creşterea abundenţei de potenţă creatoare (informaţii, imagini, interpretări, realităţi fascinante, teme de reflecţie), atunci când apucam să croiesc o nouă cale de gândire şi de prezentare a ideilor. Mă simţeam în largul meu, ca în faţa unei opere de ficţiune, într-o atmosferă a interiorităţii apărate prin forţa care asigură ordinea cosmică împreună cu tot ce presupune viaţa pe pământ.

Singura explicaţie logică a abundenţei de sensuri şi semnificaţii ce-mi asediau interiorul, revendicându-mi astfel locul bine-meritat în ceea ce scriu, căutând să mă menţin ancorat în vizibilul unei lumi fizice (văzute) şi metafizice (nevăzute), era aceea că destinul meu se hrănea din coincidentele unor paşi premergători de configurare a frontierelor de cunoaştere pe care i-au parcurs vechii alchimişti.

Bagheta magică care transformă orice idee într-un diamant veritabil era asociată timpului şi energiei consumate în reflecţii şi puncte de vedere fertile.

Sau, mai degrabă, cred că încercam să mă utilizez pe mine însumi drept un memento al unei vieţi trecute, unde am trăit prin intermediul altcuiva credinţa într-o lume în care ştiinţa şi tehnica trebuiau să deschidă orizonturi inimaginabile. Sub acest cuvânt "credinţa" se ascunde şi acum întreaga mea iniţiativă de a determina schimbările fundamentale ce intervin în destinul lumii, a cărei miză este atingerea unei trepte superioare de dezvoltare şi de spiritualitate.

Leadership: Poţi să-ţi asumi ataşamentul faţă de totalitatea fiinţei care te înălţă spre măreţie, raportându-te la un act de voinţă desemnat prin sintagma "o materializare a spiritului de a fi ca Unu în multiplu"?

Fizicianul italian Alessandro Volta a trimis o scrisoare fizicianului german Georg Christoph Lichtenberg, din care putem să extragem următorul pasaj:

"Oricât ai recomanda această scrisoare tinerilor fizicieni, tot n-ar fi prea mult. Ea îi va iniţia în arta dificilă a experienţelor; ea îi va învăţa să nu se încreadă în primele observaţii, să schimbe mereu forma aparatelor. Iar dacă imaginaţia nerăbdătoare i-ar face să părăsească drumul încet, dar sigur, al observaţiei pentru visări seducătoare, poate vor fi opriţi pe acest teren lunecător, văzând cum un om de geniu ia în seamă orice amănunt."

Citind aceste rânduri, mi-am dat seama că ceea ce contează foarte mult pentru sufletul meu, care are întotdeauna dreptul de a fi martor la frământările şi năzuinţele de fiecare clipă, este să aprofundez mentalitatea experimentatorului şi a descoperitorului care ştie unde să caute şi ce să găsească pentru a-şi putea expune un punct de vedere ferm faţă de rezultatele dorite a fi materializate.

Totalitatea fiinţei care te înălţă spre măreţie rezidă din datoria spiritului ştiinţific de a fi întotdeauna şi pretutindeni centrul acelor schimbări menite să aibă efectul de stimulare a interesului pentru cunoaştere şi autocunoaştere. Iar o materializare a spiritului de "a fi ca Unu în multiplu" sugerează contopirea mai multor mentalităţi şi caractere într-o singură entitate de inteligenţă superioară a cărei singură realitate vizionară se exercită printr-o lărgire a conştiinţei spirituale.

La o conştiinţă de sine mai înaltă se ajunge prin optimizarea raportului dintre intuiţia pătrunzătoare de a vedea dincolo de faţa imediată a lucrurilor şi lărgirea orizontului cunoaşterii care se materializează prin experienţă şi descoperire.

Un succes nesperat sau o încercare fără sorţi de izbândă sunt două din plăcile turnante ale filosofiei ştiinţei, fiecare din ele reprezentând o expresie a credinţei de a privi spre viitor. În definitiv, experienţa mea de viaţă nu trebuie să fie doar o cucerire excepţională a ştiinţei, ci trebuie considerată o reflectare, o oglindă a sufletului care încearcă mereu să se transpună în cuvinte şi în fapte pentru a realiza lucruri care să reziste timpului și memoriei lumii.

Momentul oportun al dobândirii unei noi conştiinţe de sine contează mai mult decât prilejul de a mă forma ca om de calitate, specialist într-un domeniu, în vederea dobândiri unui loc fruntaş în lume. Un savant îşi atinge adevărată valoare numai prin expresia credinţei pe care o parcurge şi o împărtăşeşte prin intermediul a ceea ce aduce nou în slujba progresului.

Leadership: Încerci să dai viaţă unui lucru care se poate anula pe sine privindu-l ca pe o experiență inițiatică, subsumată exclusiv logicii căutării de sine într-un demers de creaţie de nivel superior?

Pregătirea temeinică într-o anumită ramură a ştiinţei se poate încadra într-un sindrom rigid de dependenţă faţă de profunzimea ascunsă a creaţiei care amestecă voit registrul miraculosului cu cel al supranaturalului. Dar dacă constatările şi aprecierile privind noile posibilităţi de asimilare şi conectare a ideilor inovatoare produse de-a lungul vremii, contrapuse schemelor formale aplicate de ceilalţi, sunt supuse unor distorsiuni interioare, conştiente sau inconştiente?

Vâlvătaia interioară, ca un foc nestins, pasiunea pentru studii se poate domoli sau chiar dispărea dacă dezvolţi un grad mare de dependenţă faţă de o autoritate de nivel superior, faţă de o gândire mult prea aprofundată. O asemenea autoritate poate fi un model de descoperitor al unei lumi ipotetice sau al unei noi ştiinţe.

Dovadă în acest caz este renumitul alchimist Fulcanelli, a cărui constatări şi observaţii se bucură şi astăzi de un interes enorm în lumea ştiinţifică. El ţinea deseori să precizeze: "Cărţile maeştrilor nu sunt scrise pentru toţi, deşi toţi sunt îndemnaţi să le citească." Nu-i de mirare că şi-a păstrat cu înverşunare secretele ştiinţei, cu caracter mistic sau simbolic. Dar ceea ce evidenţiază întrucâtva sentimentul său de superioritate este faptul că, la fel ca toţi alchimiştii, Fulcanelli s-a exprimat într-o manieră mai puţin tangibilă publicului larg. Şi chiar el ţinea să afirme că ultimul său manuscris nu va fi niciodată publicat deoarece nimeni nu ar înţelege conţinutul său.

Prin aceasta s-ar traduce şi expresia: "a da viaţă unui lucru care se poate anula pe sine".

Ştiinţa prea avansată îţi trasează noi orizonturi, dar totodată îţi anulează garanţia că poţi fi înţeles, restricţionându-ţi dorinţa de a da răspunsuri şi îndrumare. Să îi mulţumim minţii noastre, plină de aspiraţii, purtată de imaginaţie şi idei către zone inaccesibile de înţelegere, că ne atenţionează despre faptul că ea nu poate cuprinde pe deplin acele aspecte care au impact direct în modul de relaționare cu cei din jur.

Mintea, echivalând cu promovarea identităţii însăşi a creaţiei noastre, trebuie să ne semnaleze întocmai care sunt graniţele şi limitările noastre. Apoi, cu dreptul, să păşim împreună cu ea în căutarea Vrăjitorului din Oz, dar cu pretenţia de a nu aventura prea mult în necunoscut, precum Gulliver în ţara Liliputanilor. Cine se lasă prins în urzelile şi legăturile superiorităţii gândirii, cu mii de fire mărunte conectate la perspectivele cele mai îndepărtate, cu greu se va mai scula din somnul obscurei sale raţiuni.

Căutarea de sine într-un demers de creaţie de nivel superior este o modalitate de a obţine mai multe informaţii despre ceea ce te defineşte sub influenţa unei puteri concentrate şi constante numită "imaginaţie" reprezentată de perpetuarea unui "limbaj revoluţionar".

A deveni tu însuţi în lumea ştiinţei este considerentul pe care trebuie să-l iei în calcul atunci când încerci să-ți recunoști gradul de adaptabilitate şi de maleabilitate la o conştiinţă ce are ca unic semn distinctiv faptul că rămâne ancorată atât în valorile eterne ale credinţei, cât şi în cerinţele utilizării eficiente a cunoaşterii în lumina descoperirilor.

A domni cu adevărat nu este un lucru la îndemâna primului venit

On Ianuarie 11, 2009

Leadershipul se confundă prea des cu simpla putere obținută de-a gata, în umbra plăcerii pe care o poate procura prin dominația celorlalți.

În timp ce Abedu îşi pregătea revanșa și viitorul, Snefru îl chemase pe Keops la palatul său. Prinţul veni neîntârziat la chemarea tatălui său. Snefru nu îl primi în sala tronului, în public, în faţa Curţii, ci într-o parte mai ferită a palatului. După ce ascultă veştile despre copiii și soțiile fiului său, regele zise:

- Keops, fiule, îți confirm din nou, fără a o declara oficial, că tu ești moștenitorul tronului celor Două Regate. Tu îmi vei urma într-o zi la conducerea acestei țări, ceea ce nu este o poziţie confortabilă şi nicio sinecură. Nu, fiul meu, să nu crezi că lăsându-ţi moştenire coroana îți fac un cadou frumos, căci nimic nu este mai greu de asumat decât conducerea oamenilor. Fiecare se crede în stare de așa ceva, dar, în realitate, asta se întâmplă pentru că se confundă prea des simpla putere regală - şi plăcerea pe care o poate procura prin dominaţia celorlalți - cu îndatoririle unui rege, a cărui sarcină nobilă este să facă să domnească asupra poporului său dreptatea şi prosperitatea. Restul e foarte simplu, dar a domni cu adevărat nu este un lucru la îndemâna primului venit.

- Tată, stăpâne, îl întrerupse Keops, ce vrei să spui zicând că un servitor, prea zelos să te apere, ţi-a ucis agresorul?

Leadership: Reflectând la dificultatea de a acționa în diverse cazuri, cum ai echilibra nevoia de justiție cu riscul de a acționa pe baza unor presupuneri?

- Vezi, fiule, soldatul care mă agresase fugea, nu mai putea să-mi facă rău şi, gândindu-mă la asta, mi-am zis că ar fi fost uşor să fie prins sau, în orice caz, să fie găsit. De ce acest soldat a reacţionat atât de prompt şi inutil, lipsindu-mă cu un gest de un martor atât de preţios? Aşa că m-am informat şi am aflat că acest soldat a fost detașat de la trupa lui Udji adusă de la Buro şi de la cetățile din Nord de Udji. M-am întrebat atunci dacă nu cumva acel soldat - un ofiţer - l-a lovit cu sulița ca să închidă pe vecie gura agresorului

Totuşi, toate acestea sunt doar presupuneri şi nu am niciun motiv întemeiat să-l arestez pe acel om şi să încerc să-i smulg adevăratul motiv al gestului său, pentru că aş putea să mă înşel, iar el să fi acționat cu bună credinţă. Şi nici nu aş vrea, printr-un astfel de gest, să las să se creadă că aş putea câtuşi de puţin să-l bănuiesc pe Udji. Poţi vedea astfel cât de limitată este puterea regelui, cum trebuie să ţină cont de toate celelalte puteri, de toate susceptibilitățile, acest zeu viu, acest fiu al lui Horus.

Cum ai aborda dilema morală și strategică a unui conducător care trebuie să decidă între acțiune directă și precauție, încât să nu-și submineze propria poziţie prin acțiuni necugetate?

Acum, când mă gândesc, sunt confruntat cu un număr atât de mare de dușmani, cu oameni susceptibili de a-mi dori moartea, de la preoții lui Ptah până la șefii diferitelor clanuri din ținutul de sus, încă nesupus în întregime, încât nu mă pot pronunța şi nici nu pot să aduc la judecată demnitari atât de puternici.

Pentru că suntem amenințați de atâția dușmani neştiuţi, trebuie să ne apărăm, tu şi fratele tău Rahotep trebuie să vă uniți. Vreau să-i încredinţez comanda trupelor. Este aliatul tău, lucrează pentru apărarea tronului nostru. l-am dat ordin să formeze o armată adevărată, o armată permanentă, puternică, sub comanda unui singur şef, el, şi bineînţeles, regele. În felul acesta putem contrabalansa puterea şefilor de clan, cea a căpitanilor trupelor care ne sunt furnizate de marile cetăți ale regatului.

Un conducător adevărat recunoaște că puterea sa este restricționată nu doar de legi, ci și de percepțiile și acțiunile celor din jur.

A domni cu adevărat nu este un lucru la îndemâna primului venit, deoarece într-un stat există provocări și responsabilități care trebuie să te protejeze nu doar împotriva dușmanilor externi, ci și a intrigilor interne. Tu cum percepi rolul alianțelor și loialităților în consolidarea puterii pe care o deţii, în special într-un mediu politic plin de rivalități și tensiuni?

A fi un lider adevărat

On Decembrie 30, 2008

Veghează asupra modului în care îţi îndeplineşti rolul, aşa încât să nu plăteşti un impozit prea mare pe "terenul tău de joc".

Eterna întrebare: a fi sau a nu fi...un lider ? Nu voi căuta nicidecum să răspund la această întrebare într-un mod cât mai interesant, aşa cum ar face-o probabil un parlamentar în faţa alegătorilor cu puţin timp înainte de alegeri, sau într-un mod ştiinţific cum ar proceda un fizician, un biolog sau un chimist. Voi încerca în acest articol să simplific cât mai mult lucrurile şi să vă ajut să înţelegeţi cu mai multă uşurinţă conceptul de leadership.

Curiozitatea veşnic vie îmbinată cu seriozitate şi încredere m-au determinat cu mult timp în urmă să caut cu orice preţ răspunsul la această întrebare: " Ce este un lider? " Un prieten căruia i te poţi adresa în orice împrejurare nu este tocmai răspunsul cel mai potrivit, ori definiţia cea mai corectă a liderului, ţinând cont de faptul că au existat lideri care nu admiteau prezenţa în jurul lor a prea multor persoane.

De fapt, dacă stau bine şi mă gândesc, nici nu cred că pot oferi o definiţie exactă, unică şi completă a termenului de "lider". Totuşi, voi încerca să vă ofer un răspuns cât mai simplu de înţeles legat de ce este leadershipul, respectiv ce este un lider, din punctul meu de vedere.

Leadership: Îţi pui la încercare potenţialul de a fi mai mai aproape de acel "plus unu" care se mulează pe ceea ce înseamnă model de consum, gândind în termenii ideii de "câştig"?

Veţi înţelege mai uşor conceptul de leadership dacă veţi gândi în termenii ideii de "câştig". Să spunem că un întreprinzător doreşte să-şi dezvolte afacerea şi să obţină un profit mai mare din vânzarea de umbrele. El angajează mai mulţi tineri fără prea multă experienţă în vânzări care să convingă clientela de calitatea, importanţa şi avantajele acestor umbrele, şi să investească serios în această piaţă. Dar pentru ca totul să meargă bine, întreprinzătorul trebuie mai întâi să-i trimită pe angajaţii săi la cursuri de pregătire în negociere şi vânzări. Apoi trebuie să le ofere un salariu cât mai bun care să fie proporţional cu volumul de muncă prestat şi cu profitul realizat, pentru ca ei să fie motivaţi să lucreze la firma lui.

Un întreprinzător iscusit ştie foarte bine un mare adevăr: singura cale de a-şi dezvolta afacerea, respectiv de a-şi creşte profiturile prin vânzarea umbrelelor, este să obţină în primul rând sprijinul angajaţilor săi şi apoi să vină în întâmpinarea oricăror doleanţe din partea clienţilor pentru ca aceştia să solicite cât mai multe comenzi.

Prin analogie pot spune că "leadershipul" se poate măsura prin câştigul pe care îl obţine atât întreprinzătorul, cât şi angajaţii şi clienţii. Fiecare are ceva de câştigat dacă, şi numai dacă, întreprinzătorul care demarează o afacere deţine experienţa necesară în coordonarea unei echipe, dacă dă dovadă de profesionalism în exercitarea tuturor activităţilor pe care le desfăşoară şi, mai ales, dacă are idei şi dacă ştie să exploateze la maximum posibilităţile pe care le are. Aşadar, întreprinzătorul este cel care dă tonul şi pune lucrurile în mişcare. El este liderul în acest caz, pentru că de el porneşte totul, şi de el depinde în mare măsură cum se vor mişca lucrurile.

Modelul de consum este lucrul care trebuie să îţi avantajeze trăsăturile şi valoarea, potrivit cu ceea ce caută oamenii, şi care contribuie la asigurarea unui nou parteneriat. Iar a-ţi pune la încercare potenţialul de a fi mai aproape de acel "plus unu" care se mulează pe ceea ce înseamnă model de consum, înseamnă să-ţi creşti şansele de a-ţi recupera valoarea investiţiei prin ridicarea nivelului de performanţă în zona de imagine şi în cea de negociere.

La fel ca în fotbal, trebuie să-ţi pregăteşti un teren de joc care să aibă cel puţin 5 "jucători": o premiză de încredere, o premiză de abundenţă sau de creştere a valorii, o premiză de creare a condițiilor de câştig, premiza de a acoperi o zonă mare de impact şi premiza de la care porneşte prezentarea contextului unei dezvoltări durabile. Veghează asupra modului în care îţi îndeplineşti rolul de lider, aşa încât să nu plăteşti un impozit prea mare pe "terenul tău de joc".

Impozitul este contribuţia adusă relaţiei dintre investiţie şi câştig ce se stabileşte între responsabilitatea de a te ridica la nivelul aşteptărilor consumatorilor şi angajamentul de a livra acea "Performanţă cu Mesaj" care să te diferenţieze de concurenţă. Oamenii beneficiază de un cost personalizat la achiziţia unui produs în funcţie de profilul tău de întreprinzător.

Leadership: Poţi să găseşti momentul prielnic de a fi prezent în orice circumstanţă de mare însemnătate, refuzând orice solicitare din partea celorlalţi care contravine cu termenii propriului Cod de acces la o nouă direcţie de urmat?

Urmându-te, oamenii vor reuşi să se autodepăşească? Celebrul scriitor Stefan Zweig sublinia: "Cine vede apropiindu-se o furtună, ştie că un singur lucru poate salva nava şi echipajul: voinţa neclintită a căpitanului de a sta el însuşi la cârmă şi, mai presus de toate, de a o ţine el singur în mâinile sale. "

Pe măsură ce ritmul general al schimbărilor se accelerează, sarcina liderului de a-i îndruma pe oameni în direcţia cea mai bună devine tot mai grea. Căci a-i conduce pe oameni nu este nicidecum cireaşa de pe tort pe care s-o mănânci lingându-te pe buze de plăcere, ci dimpotrivă o corvoadă fără sfârşit.

Termenii propriului Cod de acces la o nouă direcţie de urmat sunt de ordine valoric, vizual, moralizator şi revelator, în funcţie de cât de departe eşti dispus să mergi pentru a crea momentul de vârf al călătoriei în care trebuie să le împărtășești celorlalți ce ai învățat de la viaţă şi ce s-a schimbat o dată cu aceste lecţii.

Puţini sunt cei care au talentul de a prelua conducerea şi de a se impune în faţa oamenilor, câştigându-le respectul şi admiraţia. Pentru că, a fi un lider înseamnă să ai o voinţă neclintită de a răzbi într-un mediu ostil, să preiei iniţiativa atunci când nimeni nu pare interesat sau nu are curajul să o facă. Înseamnă, de asemenea, să câştigi încrederea celor deznădăjduiţi şi să-i convingi că, urmându-te, vor reuşi să se autodepăşească şi să-şi împlinească viaţa.

Rolul liderului este deci foarte important. El trebuie să fie alături de oameni în momentele dificile, să-i motiveze să fie mai performanţi şi mai concentraţi spre rezultate, să vegheze asupra modului în care îşi îndeplinesc sarcinile şi să-i îndrume în direcţia cea bună, conştient de faptul că eşecul sau succesul oamenilor depind numai de el. Şi la fel ca întreprinzătorul despre care v-am vorbit la începutul acestui articol, liderul trebuie să facă tot ce-i stă în putinţă pentru ca toată lumea să iasă în câştig.

Leadershipul este beneficiul pe care îl obţii în urma unui demers considerat "de mare însemnătate" care integrează pragmatism în spaţiul unei vieţi pline de învăţături din care nu renegi nici un minut, ci rămâi fidel (ca un adevărat întreprinzător) îndemnului „Here I go again" !

A fi un lider adevărat este un scop pe care îl ating oamenii ce vor să se autodepăşească făcând din realitatea înconjurătoare propria lor mărturisire de credinţă într-o capacitate sau talent specific, cât mai ales într-un simţ general al succesului - valabil nu doar în afaceri, cât şi în viaţa de zi cu zi.

A Kind Of Magic (II)

On August 10, 2015

Ia decizia de a-ţi manifesta priceperea la nivelul de genialitate, prin declanşarea fenomenului artistic ce uimeşte prin integrarea imaginarului în conștiință.

Iminent, mă văd silit să recunosc un anumit grad de autonomie a intelectului în fiecare străpungere a zidurilor dintre două lumi acoperite de contraste izbitoare, răsturnări de idei, acumulări de imagini, la limita umanului şi divinului, adunate în acelaşi vers „One shaft of light that shows the way / No mortal man can win this day ". Vers care parcă strigă: „Dar, ce-am făcut?"

Acum începe indefinitul, unde numai un aventurier al spaţiului fără dimensiuni, într-o operaţiune de neutralizare a identităţii, se poate avânta. Un verdict neclar în este dat în primă instanţă consumatorului de legi nedetectabile de către metodele științei empirice, croitorului ce coase cu o curiozitate neînfricată pe pânza solidă a irealităţii şi transfigurării un nou model de trofeu al unicităţii, acţionând „The bell that rings inside his mind" ce vesteşte schimbarea.

Răscolitor, mă simt de parcă aş fi atins o perfecţiune ireală, fără să-mi pot spune ceva şi - mai cu seamă, fără a putea să înţeleg cauzele unor sarcini de livrare a imaginarului în evoluţie. Asemenea unui erou al lui Jules Verne care nu caută punct de sprijin în istorie şi nici printre alţi oameni, mă sustrag automat oricărei priceperi raţionale. Să fiu pe lume ca şi când n-aş fi. „A kind of magic."

Dar în toată această perfecţiune automată - la care mai curând mă îndeamnă acea raţiune care se străduieşte să cunoască o nebunie, o altă cauză în sens propriu, o poveste ieşită din comun, ancorată într-o realitate transcendentă - trebuie să existe o singură instanţă de model. „There can be only one."

Leadership: Îţi dublezi eforturile de a te transforma într-o forţă care poate răspunde condiţiei „TRUE" de abordare a falsei identităţi, încât să faci din imaginar o putere a revelaţiilor tale?

Decizia de a-ţi manifesta priceperea la nivelul de genialitate, prin declanşarea fenomenului artistic ce uimeşte prin integrarea imaginarului în conștiință, este o premieră, o acţiune conştient aleasă dintr-un număr oarecare de posibilităţi în scopul de a ajunge la un rezultat spectaculos. Imaginarul este o realitate autonomă şi superioară prin provocările adresate unui anumit tip de gândire, o structură de reprezentare simbolică acumulând varii elemente şi o dinamică proprie, o structură de „poveste vs. răspuns" alternând între o poveste ficţională şi imagini ale unei lumi subiective, dar fascinante.

Această decizie face cinste leadershipului care urmăreşte să stabilească o corespondenţă inovativă între mijloacele de reprezentare a unei concepţii şi rezultatul urmărit prin aplicarea ei. Sau, mai bine zis, între nivelul de inteligenţă de care dai dovadă prin unicitate şi rezultatele pe care vrei să le obţii sustrăgându-te automat oricărui raţionament admis ca fiind valabil.

Magia este cultivarea sentimentului de apartenență la această lume neînţeleasă de mulţi, dar spectaculoasă prin noutatea domeniului, prin instrumentele de creaţie alese de un autor perspicace, prin diversitatea elementelor de decor, prin diversitatea efectelor care par a fi miracole.

O forţă care răspunde condiţiei "TRUE" a falsei identităţi este dată de însăşi capacitatea de a-ţi cunoaşte şi depăşi limitele viziunii, preluând controlul asupra situaţiei în care nu există opţiuni alternative, ca atunci când ştii cine se uită la tine fără să întorci capul.

Tradus mai simplu, acest lucru presupune să exişti ca şi când n-ai fi, şi, totuşi, să realizezi o schimbare majoră în mersul lumii. Arta desăvârşită de a-ţi exterioriza pofta de a sta sub semnul unei perfecţiuni ireale, iscă şi mai puternic senzaţia de inattendu de care sunt bântuite spiritele cele mai evoluate, ceea ce comportă nu doar un anumit grad de autonomie a intelectului, ci şi un anumit grad de ambiguitate.

A-ţi dubla eforturile de a te transforma într-o forţă care poate răspunde condiţiei „true" de abordare a falsei identităţi, presupune să atingi o perfecţiune ireală, integrată într-un demers ficţional-ştiinţific, dar fără a leza pe nimeni şi fără a contesta realitatea. Autoritatea de care magicianul dă dovadă se poate vedea în situaţia în care el trebuie să găsească momentul potrivit de a întreprinde tot felul de acţiuni, pentru a nu rămâne descoperit sau a nu depăşi un deziderat de tipul "Toate secretele mele vor fi ţesute în jurul unei simple iluzii de scenă".

Orice situaţie în care trebuie să urmezi regulile impuse de altcineva şi în care trebuie să ţii cont de constrângerile realităţii se termină printr-un eşec, ca atunci când te uiţi la o fotografie 3D fără ochelari speciali care focalizează imaginea centrală. În domeniul artei şi al creativităţii, magia constă în a face exact contrariul a ceea ce este logic, a ceea ce simt, trăiesc şi gândesc ceilalţi oameni, contrariul a ceea ce se crede în mod firesc.

Leadership: Ce rol eşti dispus să-ţi asumi legat de un domeniu în care nu multă lume excelează, prin referire la un proces de creare a imaginilor, obiectelor şi fenomenelor nepercepute de mintea şi ochiul obişnuit?

Iar dacă reuşeşti să înţelegi cu adevărat cauzele unor sarcini de livrare a imaginarului în evoluţie, deci nu doar să uzezi de procesul imaginativ, ci să-l utilizezi în formarea competenţei de cunoaştere ştiinţifică, abia atunci se va putea vorbi cu adevărat de „magie". Una este să ai imaginaţie, altceva este să transformi imaginaţia într-un câmp de valori sau într-un câmp de bătălie.

A te apropia de acest fel de-a fi, necăutând punct de sprijin printre alţi oameni, ci doar în procesul de dezvoltare şi diferenţiere a ştiinţei, denotă o anumită înclinaţie spre magie, spre extremele unei interpretări rigide a raporturilor dintre creator şi creaţie, dintre ceea ce cunoşti şi ceea ce nu poate fi măsurat. Din aceste considerente, leadershipul ar trebui să devină mai mult o umbrelă de autoevaluare decât o structură de comandă, care are o gaură în ea - cu funcţia de oprire automată. Ai grijă până unde te avânţi cu imaginaţia !

Această capacitate de a te raporta la o singură valenţă de claritate şi originalitate se datorează procesului de ancorare la o altă frecvenţă de înţelegere, la un alt sistem de procesare a cunoaşterii, care stabileşte corespondenţa între ştiinţă şi genialitate.

Leadershipul, care se construieşte luând pe ordonata punctului de funcţionare o variabilă de tip " tu nu eşti majoritatea lumii ", aduce automat un punct bonus, un plus de remuneraţie în însemnătatea propriei atitudini faţă de realitate, conform cu indicatorul perfecţiunii.

Rolul pe care şi-l asumă magicianul într-o regie a provocărilor fără limită este acela de consumator de ştiinţă care ştie să facă legătura dintre artă, experimentul ştiinţific şi experienţa mistică, prin prisma calităţii de a-şi amplifica "puterea de vrajă" cu o altă versiune a realităţii.

A Kind Of Magic vizează trecerea la un alt nivel de reprezentare a sinelui, în raport cu o perfecţiune ireală, dar cu pretenţii ştiinţifice. Este şi un verdict pronunţat în virtutea acelor idealuri, prejudecăţi sau mituri proprii care te particularizează sub aspectul raportării la adevărurile benefice ale închipuirii.

Nu înceta să te cunoşti şi sub semnul a ceea ce aş numi „exilul într-o poveste". Cum ar suna acest lucru din perspectiva ştiinţei? Imaginează-ţi...

Încearcă să devii substanţa de contrast a unei individualităţi plină de subtilităţi, încât să păstrezi ridicate valorile frecvenţei vibratorii ale fluxului de energii nebănuite.

Fundamentul inatacabil al autorităţii mele de a face lucruri măreţe, this flame that burns inside of me , în jocul deliberat cu fantezia în stare să procure viziuni neobişnuite, în cursul experienţelor de învăţare şi reinventare, solicită recunoaşterea unor forme de manifestare a fenomenului numit „Exil". E un fel de magie să ştii să supravieţuieşti unei experienţe neaşteptate, desprinsă parcă dintr-un vis real, ca să poţi îmbrăţişa supranaturalul, să-l slujeşti ca şi când ai asculta ordinele unui Dumnezeu ascuns - Deus absconditus.

Ceea ce nimeni nu este hotărât să îndeplinească prin fiecare eveniment al lumii care generează înţelesuri referitoare la Dumnezeu, în mijlocul a ceea ce pare a fi un haos, se transformă într-un exerciţiu de flexibilitate, de adaptare şi de sagacitate prin oferirea unui refugiu în faţa necunoscutului şi inexplicabilului care caracterizează o identitate atractivă, puternică, pregnantă, memorabilă.

În secret, în cea mai adâncă tăcere care echivalează cu o detaşare de tot ce este material, de tot ce împovărează excesiv creierul cu gânduri derulate fulgerător, eu însumi existând doar într-o învârtire interminabilă a fluxului de creaţie, ca de carusel, simt că nasc în mine o ultimă tinereţe. Una însetată de o libertate nouă şi fragedă.

Silenţios, începe să se ivească o nouă lume: o clădesc alături de cealaltă, înjghebând-o din elemente izolate spre obţinerea unui întreg, asemenea unui artist ce ordonează părţile colorate ale imaginii prin intercalarea unei sumedenii de noțiuni purtătoare de asociații.

Leadership: Eşti în stare să-ţi croieşti o identitate credibilă în jurul unei culturi a fantasticului, încât să pui în lumină procesul transformării realităţii într-o concepţie a ştiinţei oculte?

Desigur, totul se învârte în jurul ştiinţei, baza solidă generatoare de semnale de putere, nu fără a exclude eventualitatea unei pătrunderi într-un câmp magnetic invariabil, din care aş putea percepe doar efecte de suprafaţă şi senzaţii de vacuitate. Şi totuşi altceva se oferă drept ipoteză de cercetare ştiinţifică după citirea percutantelor versuri: „The waiting seems eternity / The day will dawn of sanity".

Un artist ca Freddie Mercury, această inflorescenţă a păcatului de a fi genial, izbuteşte să redea în mod magic viziuni stranii şi splendide ce iau naştere, una după alta, adunate în felul în care sculptorul găseşte în natură de-a gata pietre sau bucăţi de lemn cu chip de om, şi nu are decât să le cioplească puţin ca să mărească şi mai mult asemănarea. „It's a king of magic".

Până când voi putea să mă susţin în totalitate sub efectul unei exprimări care denotă o spaimă plină de fascinaţie, să mă afund în întunecimea hipnotizantă a unei vrăji mereu active? Ştiinţa ocultă a unui artist plin de mister, plin de energie, charismatic şi mereu în alertă, face echipă bună cu aplicarea cunoştinţelor cele mai solicitante, greu accesibile, într-o practică ce are ca fundament o permanentă căutare a prezenței lui Dumnezeu într-un cadru al constrângerilor de tipul: "No one can stop me" sau "No one can be just like me any way".

Întotdeauna geniul răzvrătit, substanţa de contrast a unei individualităţi plină de subtilităţi, are nevoie de o mască pentru a se exprima nestingherit, de forţe nebănuite propagate prin curent energetic pentru a se afla într-un echilibru stabil. Dar nu orice fel de energie, ci una demnă de onorat, o energie izvorâtă în virtutea unei lucrări sinergice între realitate şi aparenţă, între spirit şi lume, între raţiune şi iraţional. Trebuie să fii un Freddie Mercury, „One dream, one soul, one prize", ca să păstrezi ridicate valorile frecvenţei vibratorii ale fluxului acelei energii nebănuite.

Leadership: Poţi să obţii întregul creaţiei, căutând recunoaşterea unor forme de manifestare a fenomenului numit „Exil?

Alegerea deciziei de a te exprima nestingherit prin actul de creaţie şi de a te identifica cu el, adică să deschizi temniţa unei realităţi limitat înţelese, depinde de utilitatea capacităţilor pe care le apreciezi ca fiind bunul tău cel mai de preţ: redarea unor viziuni singulare, urmărind aici implicaţiile revoluţionare pe care ele le au pentru găsirea unei noi identităţi.

Mulţumiri deosebite se cuvin aduse identităţii care, accentuând relaţia dintre ştiinţă şi forţele nebănuite de care numai geniul este capabil să dea dovadă prin detaşarea tot ce este material, aduce sprijin leadershipului prin faptul că individul devine produsul unei viziuni interpretative ce poate duce la noi și neprevăzute configurații în conceptele promovate.

Leadershipul se poate judeca prin felul în care omul vede lucrurile atunci când le concepe. A exista într-o învârtire interminabilă a fluxului de creaţie, spre a experimenta cunoştinţe de un nivel deosebit, proces clarificabil prin intuirea unei dimensiuni de sine care o depăşeşte pe aceea a existenţei şi conştiinţei, este totodată rezultatul unei interpretări şi aplicări corecte a legii: „Un întreg se obţine prin înjghebarea elementelor izolate."

Exilul este forma unor practici exlusiviste, una din probele de încercare a fanteziei, virtuţilor, curajului şi vitezei de reacţie mentală, care şlefuieşte modalitatea de a te exprima unic prin crearea unei realităţi diferite de a celorlalţi oameni.

Creaţia este un întreg în care tu însuţi trebuie să te integrezi ca să evoluezi în aceeaşi direcţie cu fluxul elementelor ce trebuiesc puse în valoare. Ea reuşeşte să impună o interpretare acelor fenomene care sunt încă în mister, stârnind încântare şi admiraţie, astăzi când moda de a avea o înţelegere perfectă a noţiunii de „produs original" se tot reinventează şi prezintă importanţă prin faptul că intră în componenţa unei atitudini de singurătate.

Încercarea de a obţine un întreg al creaţiei, căutând recunoaşterea unor forme de manifestare a fenomenului numit „Exil, este o cerinţă fundamentală a activităţii de producţie a noului (noi posibile definiri ale conceptelor ştiinţifice).

Iar această cerinţă, în ecuaţia genialităţii, este exprimată pe baza raţiunii că în artă este nevoie de manifestarea integrală a posibilităţilor de stabilire a conexiunii între realitate şi aparenţă, între spirit şi lume, între raţiune şi iraţional. Tu ai capacitatea să regândeşti contrastul dintre ele în cadrul unor noi concepte defensive?

Magia care însoţeşte experienţa unică a leadershipului vizează truda sisifică de şlefuire a unei modalități de a te exprima liber și constructiv, într-un moment unic de vis în care totul pare atât de real.

A Kind Of Magic sugerează acea atmosferă de singurătate, specifică genialităţii, care aduce noi elemente de sens creaţiei a cărui alcătuire nemărginită se dezvăluie prin vederea indirectă, prin redarea unor viziuni închipuite care impun clarificarea unor noi concepte.

Menirea acestei creaţii speciale este funcţională doar prin dedicarea ta în slujba ideii de „magie”.

A Kind Of Magic (I)

On August 07, 2015

Găseşte noi metode de a capta sensul autentic al superiorităţii, în virtutea puterii de modelare a unei lumi interioare mai vaste.

Niciuna din vederile mele artistice, desprinse din înălţimile celeste ale spaţiului şi timpului, contrapuse unui sens existenţial mai profund, n-ar fi putut fi împărtăşite printr-un mesaj direct. Ci prin magie, sub puterea unor descărcări electrice, fenomene imprevizibile, imposibil de oprit, fără să ştiu că depindeam de efectul lor real. Niciun muritor nu-şi putea câştiga măreţia printr-un asemenea mod de manifestare a formei de cunoaştere.

Vrând-nevrând, ajunsesem la acea răscruce a minţii, diferită în fiecare moment de revelaţie, de care mă temeam că venise vremea s-o biruiesc. Când întreaga mea fiinţă se abandona propriului demon sau geniu, urmând o tainică lege a existenţei, subordonată timpului, care-mi poruncea fie să mă distrug, fie să mă autodepăşesc. "The bell that rings inside your mind / Is a challenging the doors of time."

Îmi revenea misiunea să fac ceva în privinţa acceptului meu de a-mi uni puterile cu rezonanţa acelor curenţi de energie care intrau în structura unei noi realităţi de a fi. O realitate în strânsă legătură cu frecvenţele de transmisie a unor cantităţi de informaţii reţinute deseori în mai multe locuri, concomitent, dar mai ales în actul de manifestare a sinelui în relaţie cu o instanţă superioară de iluminare. Până când voi putea să trec peste liniile alea de finish la care momentan ştiinţa nu are răspuns? „It's a kind of magic.”

Leadership: Ce rol eşti dispus să-ţi asumi legat de o trăire pe care o exprimi în diferite feluri, experimentând un stil personal de creare a unui spectacol care se străduiește prea mult să fie ”cool”?

Lutul uscat devine mai solid atunci când este ars în foc. La fel şi magia, încălzită la temperaturile înalte ale inspiraţiei şi inventicii, asigură energie alternativă printr-un câmp magnetic uniform. Încât fluxul ei de transformări succesive şi formele ei de intensitate, trecând prin valorile maxime şi minime ale forţelor producătoare de efecte speciale, întăreşte concepţia artei de a convinge.

Atunci când foloseşti o putere aparte, prin transpunerea unui parametru ireal într-un parametru real, sau invers, ea nu trebuie să fie vizibilă, dar trebuie să fie capabilă să uimească, să inspire şi să fidelizeze audienţa prin crearea unei stări de spirit. Rolul tău într-un spectacol care se străduieşte să fie prea "cool", riscând o oarecare dezamăgire în cazul celei mai mici greşeli, este unul de referinţă în realizarea credibilă a unui personaj cu nesfârşite valenţe interpretative. Fiindcă în leadership contează mai mult felul cum se dezvoltă o personalitate într-un cadru inedit, non-competitiv, al inevitabilului, un cadru al aparenţelor, al realităţilor permanent schimbătoare necesar pentru manifestări emoţionale „deschise şi fără cortină”.

Numai inventatorul Nikola Tesla putea genera înaltă tensiune, producând scântei şi împrăştiind lumina în jur fără să rănească sau să producă arsuri. Scriitorul Christopher Priest vorbea despre el că despre un magician: "Totdeauna avusese nevoie de un efect de scenă spectaculos. Pe de o parte pentru a evidenţia trucul Noului Om Transferat şi, pe de altă parte, pentru a masca modul său de realizare."

Magia, în care „I'm hearing secret harmonies” prin sunete, proiecţii şi culoare, este o formă inteligentă de exprimare a stărilor, a emoţiilor, a gândurilor, a artei de a fi mijlocul de transpunere a frumosului în materie, care stârneşte interesul. Oare ce-ar fi avut de spus despre magie scriitorul german Thomas Mann?

Leadership: Superioritatea ta se poate constitui ca o experienţă fără egal în folosirea unei experienţe memorabile drept un simulator de situaţii cu caracteristici mistice care te ajută să cântăreşti o multitudine de relaţii cauză-efect?

Cu siguranţă că studierea unei construcţii ştiinţifice rău famate sub raport moral, fără a lua în seamă că se află o contradicţie în însuşi faptul de a o considera opera geniului, magia, prea plină de mistificări ce aduc a vrăjitorie, cu stranii indicaţii spre hazard, reprezintă o necugetată încălcare a legilor divine. Dar totuşi, ea ne încântă mereu cu frumuseţi vizuale şi auditive. Nu-i aşa, Freddie?

Întotdeauna în leadership problematica va fi situaţia în care actul de creaţie şi trăirile pe care le sugerezi, ce îi orientează pe ceilalţi oameni spre o nouă construcţie a realităţii, devin elemente ale cadrului tău de referinţă, al unei experienţe care dobândeşte mereu o altă semnificaţie.

O relaţie cauză-efect, prin prisma folosirii magiei ca rampă de lansare în taina cunoaşterii superioare, se măsoară prin prin felul cum reuşeşti să faci faţă celor mai neprevăzute situaţii. O asemenea relaţie de tipul "încearcă să evidenţiezi un truc, mascând modul său de realizare", pune preţ considerabil pe facilitarea imaginilor instantanee ca mijloc de definire a unei identități coerente, diferenţiate, și de apărare a ei în fața oricărui atac de natura inhibiţiei.

Magia, o piatră grea de o încercare a ştiinţei conturată cu sprijinul şi încurajarea consecventă primită din partea spiritului inovativ, este posibil de înfăptuit prin efectele interpretării lumii interioare - în aşa fel încât trăirile să capete un sens vizual, fantastic şi credibil în acelaşi timp. În sens restrâns, spunea cineva, magia înseamnă un efort de a controla sau obliga forţele naturale sau supranaturale să acţioneze la ordinul omului.

Leadershipul este realitatea pe care oamenii o percep adevărată, fără să-şi închipuie nicio clipă ce haos se ascunde în spatele "strălucirii" spectacolului pe care îl plănuieşte regizorul.

A Kind Of Magic are ca punct de sprijin capacitatea omului de a se alinia unui sens existenţial mai profund, care oferă alte vederi asupra artei, ce nu pot fi împărtăşite printr-un mesaj direct. Ci prin aplicarea cunoaşterii la cel mai înalt nivel ştiinţific, având ca atribut esenţial o modalitate nouă de receptare a lumii interioare şi exterioare.

A rămas doar Ego-ul

On Aprilie 02, 2016

Fă din leadership o capodoperă, integrându-te în configuraţia faptelor și evenimentelor din care este constituită acțiunea unui roman.

Exista o pagină mereu rescrisă în viaţa mea care mă făcea să vibrez şi să înţeleg, dincolo de cuvintele reci ale unui limbaj plin de sensuri, secretul unei întoarceri la acelaşi punct de răscruce, la acelaşi ceva care trecea dincolo de mine, cu multe semne de explicaţie greu de adunat, neuitând nicio clipă faptul că eram condiţionat de ele. Imaginaţia mă ajuta să redau viaţa celor ce şi-o pierdeau prin condamnarea la o tragică introspecţie, să stăpânesc pulsul unei inimi omeneşti, să ţin locul punctului fix al unui întreg univers căutat în zadar de vânătorii de absolut.

Un fragment plin de emoţie îmi făcea mare bucurie să-l redau întocmai, în forma originală, în configuraţia subiectivităţii faptelor intrate într-un fel de con de inspiraţie, retrase discret în cumpăna unor redundanţe de ghidare, în surplusul de exprimare liberă. În mijlocul încercărilor de a constitui o nouă artă a scrisului, o formă de spiritualizare a materiei, din revelaţii supuse unor corelaţii de ordin esoteric şi unor presiuni deterministe multiple datorate combinării cunoştinţelor practice, se năştea acel sentiment de apartenenţă la o putere inegalabilă prin rafinament şi unicitate.

Scrisul părea un fel de ieşire din Matrix, o evadare din lumea surzilor şi orbilor, un surogat pentru neîmplinirile dintr-o viaţă falsă. Dând contur ideilor şi valorilor dominante ale conştiinţei mele, simţindu-mi gândurile cum se lovesc uneori de colţurile unei priviri din afara a ceva în care eram şi nu eram, încercam să justific restrângerea concentrică a aceluiaşi gigant puls ce răspundea favorabil la chemările năzuinţei de a cunoaşte scopul vieţii. De a pătrunde în tainele lumii prin scris şi de a-mi însuşi cât mai multe privilegii: "Sometimes I feel It's all too much to take in, I can't hold on."

Leadership: Cum estimezi conţinutul noţiunii de REALITATE din punct de vedere al unor experienţe de creaţie pe care le-ai bifat la un moment dat ca "Extra-Options" pentru portretul unui Ego nemăsurat?

Ca şi în cazul artiştilor, mă confruntam cu părţile denaturate ale unor cantităţi însemnate de elemente de conţinut, putând fi înţelese ca nişte axe organizate în jurul unui amestec de factori perturbatori, cu greu primind de la ele impulsuri ale mişcării ideilor întretăiate continuu de modelul abstract al fenomenului concret. Conţinutul noţiunii de realitate pe care încercam s-o definesc prin intermediul experienţelor de creaţie, exprimat sub formă de text sau imagini, asemănător sau total diferit faţă de domeniul conducerii, conţinea mai mult subiectivism, nu doar libera interpretare a alcătuirii lumii.

Repetitiv, aruncasem şi eu în artă toate acele substanţializări ale trecerii de la o zonă umbrită de efectul direct al unui "ar fi trebuit şi nu mai este", la o zonă luminată de ultimul izvor inspiraţional al existenţei mele: povestea fără sfârşit.

Lăsaţi-mă să încerc să fac o paralelă aici. Cea dintâi condiţie de a scrie a marelui poet american Walt Whitman şi, în acelaşi timp ireductibilul gândirii lui, era desfăşurarea acelui Eu evadat în spaţiul construit după iubirea lui, de-a lungul întregii existenţe, realizarea lui concentrică şi succesivă în universul întreg. Poate că tocmai iubirea a fost rezultatul experienţei de creaţie bifată la un moment dat ca "Extra-Options" pentru portretul unui Ego nemăsurat.

În felul acesta de-a căpăta experienţa, prin ceva la care ţinea atât de mult, prezentul i-a răpit anxietatea. În mintea lui incandescentă, uneori încețoșată de variante care l-ar fi putut ajuta să meargă din nou pe pista "E aici ceva unic ! ", evenimentele în sine nu mai contau prea mult, mai aveau foarte puțin loc. A rămas doar Ego-ul. Dar un Ego nemăsurat, fiindcă îşi multiplica perspectivele de a reflecta asupra sa ca Ego universal, ca receptare a ideii de expansiune a materiei vii aflată în stare de agregare.

Leadership: Controlezi contextul trecerii de la o zonă umbrită de efectul direct al unui "ar fi trebuit şi nu mai este", la o zonă luminată de ultimul izvor inspiraţional al existenţei tale?

Mobilitatea în faţa realităţii fenomenelor din care eşti parte activă, vibraţia mistică în faţa unei entităţii transcendentale, ca atunci când scrii despre ceva ieșit din comun, caracterizează omul care atacă viața în mod indirect, dar cu influență spre fapticul imediat. El îşi supune percepţiile vizavi de lume unei selecţii dictate de izvorul inspiraţional al existenței sale.

Aceste unde ale mobilităţii, având la origine existența unei anumite trepte de contemplare, susţinând bucuria de a exista printr-o viziune interioară nemărginită, se încrucişează într-un sistem de construcție unitară a conţinutului evaluării a tot ce ți se întâmplă și te înconjoară. Fantasticul și aventura avându-şi originile în rațional.

Ceea ce scrii, se întoarce întotdeauna în realitate, spre tine, cu precădere spre ceea te cheamă inima, spre ceea ce te va împlini. În felul acesta capeţi o experiență trebuincioasă prin ceva la care ții atât de mult, generând sentimentul că ești pe calea ta.

Ultimul izvor inspiraţional al existenţei tale este iubirea pentru un moment care nu mai trece, văzută ca un fel de conturare a unei imagini întregitoare despre tine care se transformă fără încetare.

Iubirea este varianta unui Eu căruia nu i-a mai rămas altceva decât anevoioasa muncă de a se integra în configuraţia faptelor și evenimentelor din care este constituită acțiunea unui roman.

"Ce roman a mai fost și viața mea". Napoleon a înțeles mai bine ce înseamnă să fii ştiutor de viaţă, în timp ce-şi scria memoriile pe insula Sfânta Elena. Scrisul a reprezentat ultimul izvor inspiraţional al existenţei sale.

Zona numită „ ar fi trebuit și nu mai este " se situează în prezenţa unei raţiuni care nu se mai crede atotputernică, expunându-se modalităţii de a se reforma cu adevărat. Chiar dacă uneori este prea târziu...

Leadershipul integrează în forma lui de bază acea calitate fără egal ce conduce și stăpânește omul potrivit tendinței lui de a se avânta mereu spre ceea ce generează un consum interior mare, iubirea care se înalţă dinspre sine spre sensul vieţii. Trebuie să fii scriitor ca să ai acces la acea pagină mereu rescrisă care te face să vibrezi şi să înţelegi, dincolo de cuvintele reci ale unui limbaj plin de sensuri, fluxul forței vieţii.

A face din leadership o capodoperă înseamnă să combini cunoştinţele posedate de un spirit al acțiunii, în sensul determinat de valorile unor experienţe de viaţă pline de învăţături, cu acea incontestabilă veridicitate pe care o dă un Ego prins în contemplația sinelui.

A rămas doar Ego-ul este consecinţa unei cunoaşteri profunde condiţionată de tendinţa de a puncta un destin la răscruce de „ Ai fi putut face şi nu ai făcut ".

Leadershipul este un regat al ireductibilul gândirii, având ca reper desfăşurarea acelui Eu evadat din închisoarea existenței obișnuite și atașat în spaţiul construit după o viziune, în funcție de starea care îţi dă puteri să fii nebănuit de bun de-a lungul unui context de apel la mobilitate.

Imaginează-ţi că intri în posesia unui manuscris foarte vechi, foarte valoros, dintr-o bibliotecă regală care adăposteşte scrierile prin care secolele şi-au transmis înţelepciunea. Manuscrisul dezvăluie unele din cele mai preţioase secrete ale leadershipului. Numai o mână de oameni le cunosc, le înţeleg, le urmează şi le respectă fiindcă ele deschid drumul spre adevărata performanţă, netezind calea spre atingerea obiectivelor.

Manuscrisul îţi dezvăluie o serie de învăţăminte şi practici esenţiale pentru dezvoltarea ta, pe care dacă le păstrezi în minte şi le pui în practică, concentrându-ţi mereu atenţia asupra rolului pe care îl ai de îndeplinit, vei reuşi să-ţi consolidezi imaginea, cariera şi relaţiile, şi să câştigi un ascendent asupra celorlalţi.

Vrei să te conectezi la un nivel superior de cunoaştere şi de înţelegere a leadershipului?

Membership-ul este ca un manuscris foarte preţios pe care eu ţi-l pun la dispoziţie. El conţine un ansamblu de reţete bine puse la punct care includ paşii ce îţi pavează calea spre înţelegerea cât mai profundă şi mai cuprinzătoare a propriului tău potenţial de lider. Este un patent personal, prin care îţi dezvălui ceea ce nu vei găsi niciodată pe internet sau în alte cărţi de specialitate.

Vrei ceva în plus?

Leadershipul porneşte de la o bază existentă, dar principiile, strategiile şi căile de acţiune se schimbă tot atât de repede ca şi vremea. Vrei să fii la curent cu cele mai noi concepte şi principii de leadership?

Ţi-am oferit până în prezent, gratuit, peste 800 de articole. Ai fost mulţumit? Vrei ceva în plus?

Aşa cum o carte, ca să intre în legătură cu cititorii săi, trebuie să fie mai mult decât o carte - trebuie să posede o parte din autorul ei, tot aşa şi tu, ca să sporeşti valoarea leadershipului tău, trebuie să fii mai mult decât ceea ce eşti, iar pentru asta trebuie să intri în posesia acelor cunoştinţe care îţi lipsesc, şi care te ajută să-ţi dezvolţi abilităţile şi să progresezi.

Abordarea frontală a lucrurilor neelucidate

On Martie 04, 2014

Identifică acele ipoteze care par să fie semnificative pentru determinarea valorii juste a realităţii, raportându-ţi valoarea de judecată la convingerile exprimate de ceilalţi.

- Se petrec lucruri ciudate pe aici. E greu să mă pronunţ. S-ar putea să fie răutate îmbinată cu o acuzaţie conducând spre o anumită persoană.

- Ce credeţi că vrea să însemne asta? Adică acuzaţia să fie îndreptată direct împotriva doamnei Lee?

- Nu, nu cred că putem să spunem asta. S-ar putea ca cineva să fi văzut ceva, sau să fi auzit ceva. Un zgomot sau un strigăt, sau calul fugind de parcă ar fi mâncat pământul. Şi ar fi putut să fi dat peste cineva. Iar ei au văzut sau au întâlnit vreo femeie, curând după aceea. Dar sună ca şi cum ar fi vorba de o altă femeie, pentru că toată lumea crede că altcineva este oarecum amestecat în povestea asta. Aşa încât mesajul sună de parcă o altă persoană, o cu totul diferită femeie ar fi legată de eveniment.

- Vreţi să spuneţi că acea femeie necunoscută a provocat accidentul, pe care o bănuim mai mult sau mai puţin, fără să ştim dacă există într-adevăr sau nu? *****

Leadership: Ţii cont de opiniile celorlalţi cu scopul de a înţelege ceea ce nu se poate descrie și reprezenta pe harta propriilor tale certitudini?

Certitudinea pe care ţi-o oferă faptele cele mai simple suportă grandoarea în a alege acea configuraţie a personalităţii pe care eşti dispus să o accepţi ca parte din existenţa ta, dincolo de ceea ce crezi că este adevărat pentru altcineva. Altfel spus, certitudinea este o revelaţie a trăirii de tip perceptual pe care o obţii trecând printr-o experienţă a rupturii de realitatea cu care te-ai obişnuit să-ţi răsfeţi mintea.

Ca să te convingi de importanţa pe care o are leadershipul în lumina experienţei de a înţelege ce gândesc alţi oameni, ce simt, ce aşteptări au, în funcţie de deschiderile lor - fapt ce te transformă într-un adevărat tester pentru verificarea a tot ce este evident şi măsurabil - trebuie să acorzi atenţie acelor ipoteze care pot fi semnificative pentru determinarea valorii juste a ceea ce cunoşti. Sau a ceea ce ai de scos la iveală pentru a-ţi întregi înțelegerea asupra unor evenimente care depăşesc controlul tău.

Această înţelegere a evenimentelor la care nu ai acces şi pe care nu ai puterea să le gestionezi, experimentală dacă se măsoară acel nivel de " Ce anume susţin şi cred ceilalţi oameni ", necesită aplicarea judecăţii categorice a conştiinţei tale care tinde spre explicaţii cauzale stringente. Altfel spus, îţi dai seama că există totuşi o faţă a lucrurilor pe care nu ţi-o imaginezi. Că undeva, poate nu departe, în aşteptare, se instaurează o aparenţă de realitate care implică o esenţă.

Iar această esenţă, care dezleagă misterul oricărei raportări la propriile convingeri, se constituie ca o invitație pentru realizarea unor noi update-uri la coordonatele tale de impact asupra realităţii. Începi să vezi lumea altfel, începi să judeci altfel problemele de căpetenie care se înscriu, cu mult mai multă îngăduinţă, în completarea sferei de cuprindere a obiectului de analiză asupra căruia îţi îndrepţi gândirea.

Leadership: Cum îţi raportezi valoarea de judecată la convingerile exprimate de ceilalţi în cazul în care nu eşti dispus să suporţi costurile unei interpretări greşite a circumstanţelor în care se produce un eveniment?

Punctul de pornire a demersului de organizare a opiniilor vizavi de tot ceea ce se petrece în jurul tău, vădind tendința de a acorda o mai mare întrebuințare acelor convingeri care conturează interpretările interpersonale, este reprezentat de gândurile care dau năvală-n tine, care se zbat în adâncul tău încercând neîncetat să îţi spună ceva. Ele nu trebuie să deformeze perceperea realităţii, a cărei pregnanţă stabileşte o puternică direcţie a controlului calităţii leadershipului şi stimularea iniţiativei de acţiune.

Circumstanţele în care se produce un eveniment trebuie interpretate prin prisma a ceea ce simţi cu privire la tine însuţi prin comparaţie cu opiniile celorlalţi în cazul în care dai greş în a face alegerea potrivită. Convingerile exprimate de alţi oameni vizavi de o situaţie dată pot constitui revelaţia unei îmbinări perfecte între sforţarea de a explora o realitate care întrece orice aşteptări şi a fi deschis în faţa unei înţelegeri a situaţiei de ansamblu plasată într-un context de tipul: "totul trebuie să capete contur într-un fel".

Gânduri profunde care câteodată răstoarnă multe în tine, dacă nu tot adevărul în care crezi, regăsind ceva din ce credeai că ar fi pus înstrăinare înţelesurilor atribuite realităţii şi care depind de perspectiva din care privesc ceilalţi oameni. Gânduri iniţiate de mărturiile lor nesigure, dar uneori credibile, pe care le aprobi sau dezaprobi, unul câte unul, adunate în tine ca într-un jurnal plin de idei, nematerializate până în clipa în care îţi sunt validate aşteptările.

Asta înseamnă să-ţi raportezi valoarea de judecată la convingerile exprimate de ceilalţi.

Ca să înţelegi leadershipul trebuie să efectuezi o evaluare a certitudinii pe care ţi-o dă experienţa de analist în căutarea unei viziuni de ansamblu, prin prisma a ceea ce ţi se întâmplă când eşti ocupat să revelezi o nouă realitate.

Abordarea frontală a lucrurilor neelucidate scoate în evidenţă acea capacitate de a te corela la “ce anume susţin şi cred ceilalţi oameni”, de a fi în tandem cu aşteptările şi realităţile lor obiective. Ceea ce implică o judecată şi o reevaluare a propriei conştiinţe şi a propriei viziuni.

Abracadabra, cine eşti?

On Iulie 19, 2010

Pentru a cunoaşte realitatea un lider trebuie să deţină şi arta disimulării – o armă de temut, dar eficientă în cele mai multe situaţii.

Într-un articol precedent, „După toate regulile artei ", v-am povestit despre tânărul prinţ Hamlet, care, dorind să răzbune moartea tatălui său, a luat ciudata hotărâre de a se preface pe de-a-ntregul zănatic. Cu o pricepere de inegalat, Hamlet şi-a jucat rolul impecabil, făcându-i pe toţi oamenii de la curte, şi mai ales pe regele Claudius, unchiul său, pe care îl bănuia de uciderea tatălui său, să creadă că adevărata pricină a smintelii sale era dragostea faţă de iubita lui, Ofelia.

Complet absorbit de vorbele stafiei tatălui său care îi povestise cu lux de amănunte cum a fost săvârşit omorul, şi mânat de instinctul pe care îl au numai oamenii dornici de răzbunare, Hamlet a iniţiat o schimbare imediată de atitudine adoptând un comportament intimidant pentru absolut toată lumea, cu excepţia prietenului său cel mai bun, Horaţio. Şi, fiind o fire creativă şi întreprinzătoare, a reuşit nu numai să stârnească atenţia, dar chiar să provoace neliniştea întregii curţi împărăteşti.

Moralistul francez François de la Rochefoucauld făcea o precizare prin care sublinia un mare adevăr: „ Arta cea mai înaltă a unui om iscusit este aceea de a şti să-şi ascundă iscusinţa ".

Hamlet nu ar fi putut să dovedească vinovăţia unchiului său Claudius, dacă nu ar fi adoptat o strategie foarte bună, deşi riscantă din multe puncte de vedere. Căci numai prin subtilitate îşi putea învinge duşmanul. Foarte dibaci şi isteţ, el a pregătit totul cu o grijă deosebită, găsind o modalitate inteligentă şi eficientă de a-şi ascunde vulnerabilităţile. Şi, luându-şi acea mască falsă de om nebun, şi jucându-şi rolul cu abilitatea unui actor de excepţie, a reuşit să alunge orice bănuială.

Suprema capacitate de a ţine sub control minţile oamenilor constă în a cunoaşte foarte bine psihologia umană. Masca pe care a adoptat-o Hamlet l-a ajutat să-şi pună în practică scopul fără să trezească vreo suspiciune. Dar a trebuit să-şi intre în rol atât fizic cât şi mental, făcând astfel să dispară urmele cele mai vizibile ale adevăratului său chip, ale adevăratelor sale intenţii care însoţeau în mod firesc pregătirile lui pentru deconspirarea ucigaşului tatălui său.

Leadership: Concepţia despre sinele tău poate fi reprezentată într-o situaţie de conflict cu intenţiile pe care le ai în vedere, într-o tentativă de a prelua controlul asupra unei situaţii periculoase sau incerte?

O mască a aparenţelor. Să-ţi pui o mască cu ajutorul căreia să surprinzi tainele duşmanului tău, să-i câştigi încrederea şi să nu rămână decât să ţi-o scoţi pentru a-l duce la pieire. Iată pe scurt planul de răzbunare al lui Hamlet. Operând sub această mască a aparenţelor, comportându-se aşa cum i-a dictat rolul – prin gesturi şi atitudini, minţind cu trupul, aşa cum alţii mint din gură, îmbinând adevărul cu falsul – în limita verosimilului, el a mânuit cu dibăcie şi încredere arta prefăcătoriei.

Niciodată nu eşti mai bine deghizat, mai capabil să distorsionezi realitatea şi să abaţi atenţia oamenilor decât atunci când te ascunzi sub o nouă înfăţişare. Sub masca sa, a omului slab şi învins, fără caracter, a omului nepregătit pentru viaţa de conducător, se ascundea însă o fire dură, neclintită, necruţătoare cu duşmanii ei. Poate că asta a fost cauza pentru care Hamlet a reuşit să se impună atât de puternic în faţa tuturor. Totul a depins de modul în care s-a comportat - în aşa fel încât să arate că realitatea pe care o trăia el era complet diferită de a celorlalţi.

Sinele pe care vrei să-l proiectezi lumii, pentru a recupera raporturile de cauzalitate dintre faptă şi răsplată implicate într-un moment care îţi este favorabil în planul relațiilor cu caracter interpersonal, într-o abundență de curbe liniare, acompaniate şi intersectate de alunecări şi incertitudini, este o inversare a moralei şi a trăsăturilor tale, nu ceea ce văd alții atunci când se uită la tine.

Acest sine obligă la sentimente false care te fac să te simţi mai bine, dar te vor minţi pentru a-şi satisface propria dorinţă, pentru a te vedea doborât. După cum bine ştii, Hamlet ajunge la un pas de nebunie, simulând nebunia şi întruchipând negarea raţiunii.

Leadership: Poţi să devii o reflectare a adevărului prin intermediul intențiilor pe care le ai în modul de abordare a unei realități care se refuză comprehensiunii umane?

Lui Hamlet i-a stat în putere să-şi aleagă şi piesa şi rolul. Marea lui contribuţie a constat în aceea că el a formulat şi scenariul, jucând şi în rolul principal. Piesa pe care a creat-o trebuia să instruiască, să mişte şi să delecteze publicul, ceea ce s-a şi întâmplat. Însă pentru ca piesa să fie bine individualizată şi să se transforme într-un succes deplin, trebuia avută în vedere permanent verosimilitatea întâmplărilor prezentate. Cu alte cuvinte, totul trebuia să pară cât mai real, cât mai natural.

Adevărul în cazul lui nu a fost decât o prefăcută servitudine, de care s-a folosit pentru a-i supune pe alţii. Stârnind sentimente de milă şi compasiune prin jocul său teatral, el a întipărit puternic în mintea spectatorilor realitatea dorită de el, spre delectarea şi folosul său. Falsul comportament pe care l-a adoptat l-a ajutat să-şi atingă scopul propus. Distorsionarea realităţii a fost maniera lui de a obţine rezultate.

O realitate care se refuză comprehensiunii umane este un catalizator al potențialului de acțiune la nivel de faptă, gând şi simţire care se manifestă prin asocierea unei stări depresive.

Reconstrucția categorială a unei astfel de realități se sancționează printr-o cădere în abisul unei dorinţe neîndeplinite în totalitate care pricinuieşte moartea spirituală lentă, adică separarea de Dumnezeu şi trecerea într-o stare de iraționalitate a păcatului.

Abracadabra, cine eşti? reprezintă misterul pe care trebuie să-l dezlegi atunci când te transformi în altcineva, într-un individ care pare că nu are nici o legătură cu cel de dinainte.

Liderii, la fel ca majoritatea oamenilor, adoptă atitudini şi comportamente adecvate situaţiilor obişnuite. Dar în situaţii neobişnuite, atunci când instinctul le arată că ceva nu este aşa cum pare, cei mai isteţi caută să cunoască realitatea pură adoptând o mască îndărătul căreia însă, vigilenţa stă trează şi capacitatea de analiză este mai adâncă ca oricând.

Mă refer aici la situaţiile când un lider simte că i se pun beţe în roate, că este sabotat fie din interiorul echipei, fie din exteriorul ei. În consecinţă, pentru a cunoaşte realitatea, un lider trebuie să deţină şi arta disimulării – o armă de temut, dar eficientă în cele mai multe situaţii.

Accente pronunţate în leadership

On Decembrie 28, 2008

Învaţă să contribui la crearea unui eveniment care să ofere o imagine amplă privind evoluţia omului, în cazul în care cursul evenimentelor ar continua să se desfăşoare după alte reguli decât faptele conştiente.

Dă-mi voie să-ţi prezint o născocire ciudată. Îmi vorbeai adineauri de siguranţa zilei de mâine. Dacă ar veni cineva la tine, doar la tine, şi ţi-ar spune că a desluşit tainele lumii viitoare - nu mă refer la viaţa din ceruri, ci la cea pe care o trăim. Iar acest om te-ar convinge că nu e un şarlatan de la bâlci şi că descoperirea e reală, bazată pe un studiu secret de matematică, ştiinţă, astrologie, tot ce vrei. Pe urmă, ţi-ar povesti despre lumea viitoare, ce se va întâmpla mâine, de azi într-o lună, anul viitor, o sută, o mie de ani de acum înainte. Totul, ca într-o poveste. Ia zi - ai alerga pe străzi să-i anunţi pe toţi sau n-ai scoate un cuvânt?

- Haideţi, domnule. Fiindcă am ajuns la acest moment prielnic, oare nu dumneavoastră aţi râs acum câteva zile de superstiţii? Vorbiţi de parcă soarta v-ar fi potrivnică.

- Hazardul nu e superstiţie, Lacy.

- Poate o aruncătură de zaruri. Dar mai poţi arunca o dată.

- Oare Rubiconul se poate trece de două ori? *

Leadership: Poţi să creezi condiţia unei existenţe de a se transforma în destin prin ridicarea hazardului la rangul de principiu de creație?

Leadershipul înseamnă să fi pregătit să ieşi în evidenţă într-o situaţie în care toţi ceilalţi oameni par a se afla în impas, legat de o experienţă sau o viziune care le lipseşte şi pe care numai tu o poţi formula prin ridicarea hazardului la rang de principiu de neînlocuit în doctrina "Omului Nou". Adevărata capodoperă de care trebuie să te simţi mândru este conştientizarea unei anumite puteri de care eşti apt să dai dovadă, în mod constructiv, într-un teritoriu căruia nu mulţi îi acordă interes sau căruia nu i se vede capătul.

Un orizont de gândire turnat în matricea unui alt orizont de gândire, certitudinea uşuratică a unei victorii reprobabile, un succes de scurtă durată, insipid, care ajunge mai devreme sau mai târziu într-un punct mort. Ca o aruncătură de zaruri. O resemnare fatalistă a înţelepciunii. Acesta este rezultatul intervenţiei tale în realitatea unei lumi care nu crede în nimic. Nu încerca să născoceşti o teorie, o idee, o intrigă, o poveste credibilă, dacă nu eşti pregătit să suporţi o antipatie, o imagine de tipul: "An empty perspective".

A crea condiţia unei existenţe de a se transforma în destin înseamnă să-ţi foloseşti spiritul de observaţie, tot ceea ce îţi pune la dispoziţie natura, împrejurările, situaţiile cu care te confrunţi, tot ceea ce prin virtutea întâmplării ai fost nevoit să înveţi, astfel încât să creezi premisele unui eveniment de tip "Go Forward" care să marcheze începutul unei noi etape de evoluţie în conştiinţa celorlalţi oameni.

Iar prin ridicarea hazardului la rang de creaţie se înţelege acea apropiere de "tainele lumii viitoare", având ca substrat o transformare a conceptului de "surpriză a zilei de mâine", prin care foloseşti inspiraţia, viziunea, lărgirea perspectivei de abordare a vieţii ca pe o mărturie despre revelaţia supusă obiectivităţii pe care o aşteaptă oamenii.

O asemenea revelaţie asupra sentimentelor şi raţiunii, putând chiar extinde conceptul lumii la nivel de "cunoaştere apriori", ţinteşte spre generarea unei noi filozofii a existenţei, precum: "Tot ceea ce născoceşti poate deveni realitate, cu condiţia ca realitatea să nu te lovească la un moment dat".

Accentele pronunţate în leadership se constată din formularea scopului pe l-a născut o viziune, prin puterea de a încropi povestea unei existenţe care ajunge la o singură justificare: nu întâmplările contează, ci doar ceea ce le declanşează.

Aşadar, două accente ne atrag atenţia: modul cum te raportezi la situaţiile prin care treci şi percepţia pe care o ai asupra lor.

Acceptare totală în indefinit

On Martie 20, 2015

Caută să afli ceea ce nu eşti, transformându-te într-un creator al posibilităţilor nelimitate de personalizare a ştiinţei prin transfigurarea realităţii.

Treceam peste graniţe nebănuite, ca dintr-o lume în alta cu desăvârşire amestecate, către tot ceea ce era prielnic procesului dinamic şi evolutiv. Eu, omul înclinat spre valorile vieţii lumeşti, cel căruia o revelaţie a ascunsului i-ar fi putut trezi impetuoasa nevoie de a migra spre versiunea adevărurilor devenite în timp neadevăruri. Întotdeauna trebuie să ştii ce cauţi ca să afli ceea ce nu eşti.

Neajutorat, cădeam pradă gândurilor înşelătoare, mici frânturi ale fiinţei limitate care se repetau continuu asemenea unei întrebări cu puţine variante de răspuns, iar în acest sens uşa pentru tentativa de ieşire din real rămânea închisă. Dar n-am înţeles ce era cu ferestrele rămase deschise, experimentând un fenomen de exagerare, căci păream să mă orientez, aşa cum un pictor caută plasticitatea expresiei pentru o idee pe care o doreşte exprimată, spre un mai departe de realitate, spre a superior version of my own self, spre un absolut aproape imposibil.

O mie de ceruri cad în a patra dimensiune a universului invizibil, ca un fenomen de rezonanţă inexplicabil, spintecând două cristalele de foc într-o singură dezvăluire. Şi, brusc, eşti condamnat să iei loc printre propriile tale ficţiuni, demne de un roman de Kafka, de un Joseph K. evoluând de la normal la absurd.

A fi cu totul altcineva era premiza unei resorbţii totale a extremităţilor unei axe continue a nemaîncercatului. Oricine ar fi încercat să mă înţeleagă ar fi fost înşelat, debusolat. Ar fi pierdut sentimentul timpului care trecea cu atât mai repede cu cât mintea le-ar fi fost mai ocupată cu desluşirea unor fenomene de neînţeles.

Numai un maestru al compoziţiilor chimice, purtând în el tot ce este mai realist şi mai genuin, ştiind să extragă expresia unei stări a materiei din orice relaţie de concentrare, mai întâi neclar conturată, abia sesizabilă, apoi, încetul cu încetul, definită tot mai precis, numai el ar fi reuşit să controleze accesul la acel spaţiu fără dimensiuni, pe care renumitul scriitor Artur Silveştri îl numea " Indefinitul ". Spaţiu care mă conecta la o realitate potenţială, caracterizată de acceptare totală.

Leadership: Te propui unei interpretări ca prototip al Omului Nou, la modul general sau la modul particular?

Atunci când omul se loveşte nemijlocit de realităţi care se vădesc a fi în contradicţie cu imaginea întreagă a lumii, între intensitatea exerciţiului intelectului şi volumul efortului posibilităţilor de înţelegere a nemărginitului, de-a lungul porţiunii de linii care face unghi drept cu ştiinţa, atunci se resimte o relaţie de tip cauză-efect. O inversare a întregii viziuni.

În artă, acest lucru este similar cu a fi receptiv la tot ceea ce este nou, prin dezvoltarea capacităţii de a fi parte dintr-un experiment ce are ca premisă fenomenul de exagerare. Îndrăzneşti o astfel de aventură?

Artistul libanez Khalil Gibran spunea că exagerarea este adevărul care şi-a pierdut răbdarea. Ceea ce înseamnă, chiar dacă rămâne de lămurit întrebarea „ până la ce punct poţi rămâne creatorul unor posibilităţi nelimitate? ", să te raportezi la o serie de amplificări ale creativităţii într-o altă direcţie, migrând astfel spre versiunea unor adevăruri ce pot deveni în timp ori esenţialităţi ori neadevăruri în perimetrul ştiinţei.

Un fel de combinaţie a gândirii, a exprimării ideilor, a deschiderii spre o cunoaştere prin trăire şi prin intuiţie a lumii, în condiţii multiple şi uneori necontrolabile, care generează o expansiune a propriei tale conştiinţe până-ntr-acolo unde nu îţi mai simţi limitele. În leadership, această expansiune are semnificaţia unei tendinţe de acceptare a imposibilului ca un protest împotriva acelor restricţii ale identităţii care împiedică orice reprezentare a realităţii prin conexiune cu spaţiul imaginativ, pentru a deveni un om diferit.

Omul Nou este o descoperire a spiritului de creaţie trezit din uimirea pură a nevoii de a încadra misterul reprezentaţiei de neuitat numită "Myself" într-un joc savant cu obscurul, cu întunericul şi cu lumina, cu absurdul si cu suprarealismul, din care în final să rezulte Minunata Lume Nouă.

Întotdeauna trebuie să ştii ceea ce cauţi ca să afli ceea ce nu eşti, chiar dacă asta implica acel curaj nebunesc de-a crede cu toată fiinţa ta într-o idee, prin conectarea la o realitate ficţională.

Iar când găseşti ceva nou şi vrei să apreciezi beneficiile unei eventuale dezvăluiri a unei noi perspective, ridicându-te învingător deasupra inconvenienţelor apărute pe parcursul întregii provocări numite „ Ce-ar fi dacă ", te transformi într-o individualitate de o distinctă originalitate, într-un întreg cu profil aparte, al omului de mâine.

Poţi să te propui unei interpretări ca prototip al omului nou, la modul general sau la modul particular, în funcţie de înclinaţia ta spre un mai departe de realitate, spre a superior version of your own self , spre un absolut aproape imposibil.

Modul general se referă la simplul act de exersare a gândirii ce zugrăveşte realitatea în mod obiectiv şi veridic. În timp ce modul particular înseamnă să forţezi nota până dincolo de limitele gândirii liniare.

Şi, nu în ultimul rând, devii rezultatul unei interpretări faţă de ceea ce te pune pe gânduri, faţă de ceea ce aştepţi să fie exprimat în tine şi prin tine.

A te transforma într-un creator al posibilităţilor nelimitate de personalizare a ştiinţei prin transfigurarea realităţii înseamnă să-ţi urmezi împlinirea printr-un act de modelare a gândirii sub imboldul unei forţe constante numită "punct de vedere progresist" care decurge din cum vezi tu lumea și nu din cum acționează ceilalţi în ea.

Acceptare totală în indefinit se referă la posibilitatea omului de a reuşi să controleze accesul la acel spaţiu fără dimensiuni - al experimentării unor noi abordări, pendulând permanent între cele două lumi (a realităţii si a ficţiunii), fără nici un fel de limitări.

Numai acolo unde te loveşti nemijlocit de realităţi care se vădesc a fi în contradicţie cu opinia celorlalţi, despre care ai putea fi înclinat să crezi că schimbă adevărurile cunoscute, printr-o frământare şi o coacere a gândurilor în cuptorul minţii, chiar cu preţul unor exagerări, numai acolo se deschide calea spre omul suprarealist. Singurul care poate să dea semnificaţie unor subiecte mai puţin abordate.

Accesul unui străin în cadrul insuficient definit al ştiinţei

On Ianuarie 14, 2014

Îndreaptă-ţi demersurile de cercetare spre noi direcţii de valorificare a potenţialului de performanţă, astfel încât ştiinţa ta evoluată să nu se transforme într-o sursă de incertitudine şi dezorientare.

Eram atât de aproape şi totuşi atât de departe de a descoperi fondul inepuizabil de resurse de înţelegere, acel pretiosum rubinus, piatra sângerie a ştiinţei. Pătruns de imboldul aproape de neînvins al cercetării, spre realizarea formulei de calcul a indicelui care măsura toate elementele constituente ale adevărurilor şi non-adevărurilor, am sărit peste tot ceea ce reprezenta abisul inexistentului. O plonjare într-o lume paralelă. O aventură care s-a concretizat într-o deconectare de la rutina "acceptabilului", permiţând instalarea unei gândiri flexibile şi adaptative. Şi, totuşi restricţionată de o forţă externă.

Simţeam că eram condiţionat să reneg tot ceea ce ştiam, de o forţă invizibilă care îmi îndrepta demersurile de cercetare spre noi direcţii și priorităţi în regândirea ipotezelor care diminuau gradul de falsificare a realului de către imaginar. Iar asta însemna încă un pas spre multiplicarea perspectivelor de înţelegere a modului în care iau naştere şi funcţionează marile reguli ale ştiinţei. Prin urmare, trebuia să încerc să evidenţiez discrepanţa dintre ceea ce ştiam şi ceea ce credeam, călăuzindu-mă în muncă după perceptul lui Georges Cuvier: a denumi, a descrie, a clasifica. Diferenţa era importantă.

În ceea ce priveşte pornirile mele spre însuşirea ştiinţei avansate, de care trebuia să ţin seama pentru a nu-mi compromite cumva tăria de a fi eu însumi, mi-am modelat gândirea după înţelesul ideii exprimate de esteticianul român Liviu Rusu:

"Când printr-un vaccin se introduc în organism anumiţi microbi, în realitate se introduc fermenţii unui conflict. Luptă sa cu aceşti fermenţi măreşte rezistenţa organismului la anumite boli. Vigoarea spirituală depinde şi ea de puterea de rezistenţă faţă de "microbii" tendinţelor primare. Cel care se lasă în voia naturii sale primitive nu va fi niciodată un artist creator."

Leadership: Îţi poţi valorifica potenţialul de performanţă care poate să schimbe imaginea ştiinţei de care eşti posedat în prezent, exprimându-te prin intermediul ideii "pot vedea mai departe de ceea ce sunt la origini" ?

Nu-mi dădeam seama prea bine dacă era adevărat sau fals tot ceea ce se ascundea în interiorul acelui spaţiu închis care opera cu legi neclare. Ştiinţa devenise mai degrabă o sursă de incertitudine. Nu puteam să exclam: "Vezi, ai avut dreptate ! ", fiindcă trebuia mai întâi să dovedesc că nu pot exista două realităţi distincte în acelaşi timp. O realitate a unei lumi imaginare şi o realitate a unei lumi raţionale.

Un artist care ştie să devină una cu revelaţiile sale, un creator care ştie să folosească cuceririle ştiinţei şi culturii pentru construirea unei încrederi puternice în sine se exprimă întotdeauna prin intermediul ideii: "pot vedea mai departe de ceea ce sunt la origini". Adică, trebuia să conştientizez că eram mai mult decât credeam că sunt, şi că sunt capabil să stăpânesc mai bine ca oricine arta de a pune împreună, de a asocia materiale, forme, texturi, de a alcătui acea structură în care părțile se susțin, fără să mă lupt cu himerele imaginaţiei.

Ştiinţa este prioritatea versiunii unui sine ce dorește să retrăiască o parte din altă realitate, una în care ceea ce pare azi într-un fel, mâine este exact opusul său. Mă simţeam mai degrabă străin într-un cadru insuficient definit, echidistant de tot ceea ce înseamnă putere de înţelegere, de parcă aş fi coborât pe pantele exterioare ale unui crater de impact mai complex. Din plin fusesem lovit de ceea ce se numeşte blocking-distortion rezultat în urma unui proces de tipul wishful thinking.

Aceste tentative de manipulare a ştiinţei erau însoţite mai ales de cuvintele scenografului român Helmut Stürmer: „ Tocmai atunci când crezi că ai priceput ceva şi încerci să baţi în cuie o realitate, apare automat contrariul ei. "

Leadership: Cum evaluezi actul de revizuire a propriei fiinţe supusă efortului de a ieşi din rutina acceptabilului, prin oglindire cu o suprapunere aproape perfectă între ceea ce te izolează de lume şi provocarea de a descoperi o lume nouă?

Nu vom putea niciodată regândi leadershipul decât prin prisma evoluţiei, aplicativă în contextul unor raportări permanente la un cadrul bine definit al ştiinţei, fără să ne lăsăm plafonaţi de descoperirile făcute. Tot ceea ce înseamnă putere de înţelegere, observabil şi descriptibil mai ales în condiţiile unei dezvoltări dinamice, rezidă din instalarea unei gândiri flexibile şi adaptative, mai imaginativă şi mai creativă. Dar care aproape întotdeauna este restricţionată de acea forţă externă numită "raţional".

Pentru a concepe şi a conduce procesul de dezvoltare a leadershipului, specific ştiinţei care ne învaţă că resursele de cunoaştere şi de evoluţie sunt nelimitate, spre abordarea durabilă a diferitelor zone de câştig de ordin intelectual, se impune luarea în calcul a deficitului de incertitudini. Care se naşte odată cu întrebările succedate de-a lungul pătrunderii noastre într-un spaţiu de cunoaştere şi autocunoaştere mai evoluat, condiţionându-ne însă să renegăm tot ceea ce ştim.

Este vorba, în principal, de actul de revizuire a propriei fiinţe prin oglindire, prin analiza coincidenţelor şi a deosebirilor dintre ceea ce e propriu şi ceea ce este străin, dintre ceea ce gândim şi implicaţiile pe care nu le putem întrevedea.

Sprijini căutările ştiinţei de a se autodesăvârşi în sfera de investigaţie a leadershipului, prin provocarea de a multiplica perspectivele necesare măsurării performanţelor proprii?

Forţa invizibilă care ne orientează demersurile de cercetare spre noi direcţii de valorificare a potenţialului de performanţă, în regândirea acelor idei, principii şi opinii ce sunt contra propriilor noastre aprecieri, este dată tocmai de dorinţa de evoluţie. Câştigarea unei bătălii decisive, prin auto-impuneri, întru dobândirea independenţei noastre de sub jugul unei stăpâniri străine - a acelei forme de cunoaştere calitativ diferite, este esenţială pentru evitarea oricărui colaps. Care, luând forma unor tendinţe de stagnare, întinează instantaneu orice apetit pentru performanţă şi inovaţie.

Leadershipul poate fi investigat prin aportul remarcabil pe care îl aduci dezvoltării ştiinţei, iar perspectiva de măsurare a performanţelor proprii are în vedere abordarea durabilă a ştiinţei cu ajutorul antrenamentului imaginativ reflectat într-o realitate care ne dă speranţa că ceea ce vedem ar putea fi şi altfel.

Putem spune că puterea noastră de cercetare este total în afara sferei de investigaţie a leadershipului atunci când nu reuşim să exploatăm din plin resursele unei noi "naşteri" intelectuale - pasul câştigător în regândirea poziţionării noastre, din punct de vedere al abordărilor, pe un loc fruntaş al ştiinţei. O plonjare într-o lume paralelă, urmărind cazul de intersectare a cererii şi ofertei de capital ştiinţific, care sporeşte activele de explorare ale leadershipului, este singura cale de a scăpa din acel impas compromiţător, blocking-distortion.

Numai identificând punctele tari şi provocările inerente ale fiecărei structuri noi de gândire adoptate, permiţând trecerea noastră spre un nivel superior de evoluţie, vom putea să facem un pas mai mare spre multiplicarea perspectivelor necesare măsurării performanţelor proprii. Şi pentru punerea în aplicare a tot ceea ce am acumulat în scopul diversificării şi optimizării leadershipului.

Potenţialul de performanţă impus de dimensiunea leadershipului atinge cel mai mare grad de libertate creativă în capacitatea ştiinţei de a răspunde la orice întrebare, pe de o parte, şi în căutările ştiinţei de a gestiona momentele cheie ale jocului numit: "plonjare într-o lume paralelă".

Accesul unui străin în cadrul insuficient definit al ştiinţei vizează în special pe indivizii lipsiţi de cunoaşterea unui leadership autentic ce vor să impună schimbarea fără a avea un substrat ştiinţific. Cine intenţionează să deschidă o nouă poartă către cunoaştere şi să redescopere liderul din el însuşi, ar trebui, mai înainte de toate, să-şi îndrepte demersurile de cercetare spre noi direcţii de valorificare a potenţialului de performanţă.

Această parte a filmului s-a prelungit prea mult

On Iulie 13, 2010

Esența leadershipului în montaj constă în capacitatea de a echilibra diferitele elemente vizuale, precum alternarea planurilor apropiate cu cele generale, pentru a crea o experiență coerentă pentru spectator.

Ajuns în faza de montaj, Eisenstein își începe obișnuita improvizație. Constată acum neajunsuri în construcția filmului, greșeli ale sale. Își dă seama, de pildă, de o lipsă de claritate în compoziția de montaj a bătăliei. Pentru ca spectatorul să poată urmări limpede acțiunea, sunt necesare puncte de sprijin puternice. Or, la masa de montaj, remarcă o scăpare: multitudinea de planuri apropiate nu este suficientă pentru crearea senzației reale a unei bătălii. Lipsesc planurile generale care să înfățișeze clar o masă de combatanți pătrunzând într-o altă masă. Și este nevoit să filmeze în completare o întreagă scenă de masă.

Claritatea în prezentarea desfășurării bătăliei depinde, își dă acum seama, de claritatea alternării fazelor ei. Vizionând montajul luptelor, se convinge că această parte a filmului s-a prelungit prea mult. De aceea vrea să taie 200 de metri din peliculă. Dar nu i se permite, și astfel această scenă, socotită în totalitate o perfecțiune, este de fapt cu două sute de metri mai lungă decât ar fi dorit-o realizatorul.

Claritatea în prezentarea unei scene depinde de echilibrul între planurile apropiate și cele generale, care oferă spectatorului puncte de sprijin vizuale.

„În arhitectura cinematografică, crearea unui montaj eficient necesită o planificare atentă și o înțelegere profundă a narațiunii vizuale. Regizorii, asemenea arhitecților peisagiști, trebuie să ia în considerare atât elementele 'naturale' ale filmului, cum ar fi acțiunea și emoțiile actorilor, cât și elementele 'construite', precum compoziția cadrelor și mișcările de cameră.

O compoziție echilibrată a unei scene de bătălie implică utilizarea judicioasă a planurilor apropiate și generale, creând un ritm vizual plăcut și o circulație fluidă a acțiunii prin cadre. Alegerea și plasarea cadrelor joacă un rol crucial în definirea diferitelor faze ale luptei și în crearea punctelor de sprijin pentru spectator.

Un lider eficient în producția de film trebuie să fie pregătit să facă compromisuri, acceptând uneori decizii care nu sunt în concordanță cu viziunea sa inițială, cum ar fi lungimea unei scene.

În procesul de improvizație la masa de montaj, regizorul, ca un arhitect peisagist experimentat, poate identifica neajunsuri în 'topografia' filmului său. El poate observa că 'vegetația' densă a planurilor apropiate nu este suficientă pentru a crea senzația reală a unei bătălii, necesitând 'spații deschise' sub forma planurilor generale care să înfățișeze clar masele de combatanți.

Claritatea în prezentarea desfășurării bătăliei depinde de alternanța echilibrată între diferitele tipuri de cadre, la fel cum frumusețea unei grădini depinde de alternanța între spațiile deschise și cele închise. Vizionarea repetată a secvenței poate releva o prelungire excesivă, similară cu o alee prea lungă într-o grădină, care ar necesita o 'tăiere' pentru a optimiza experiența vizuală.

În final, chiar dacă regizorul ar dori să 'prășească' 200 de metri din pelicula sa, restricțiile externe pot limita această opțiune, rezultând într-o 'grădină cinematografică' mai extinsă decât intenționa inițial creatorul său.”

Claritatea în prezentarea unei scene depinde de echilibrul între planurile apropiate și cele generale, care oferă spectatorului puncte de sprijin vizuale menite să ghideze atenția spre elementele esențiale ale narațiunii.

Această parte a filmului s-a prelungit prea mult deoarece Eisenstein a avut nevoie de timp suplimentar pentru a filma planurile generale lipsă, știind că aceste cadre sunt esențiale pentru a reda claritatea și amploarea acțiunii, în conformitate cu viziunea sa artistică inițială. Desigur, rolul planurilor generale depășește simpla completare a scenelor, prin crearea unei perspective de ansamblu necesare pentru a transmite senzația de amploare și dramatism.

Acei copii ai şoaptei timpului

On Ianuarie 07, 2016

Îmbogăţeşte-te cu o cunoaştere avansată, îndreptându-te asupra ansamblului lumii cu spiritul şi cu întreaga ta personalitate.

Lumea întreagă începea, în sfârşit, să observe prin obscuritatea voită a unui timp ce nu te lasă să te răzgândeşti, ceea ce ar fi trebuit să vadă clar mai devreme. În universul căutătorilor de adevăruri, al cărui microcosm mă descopeream a fi şi eu, plăsmuit din înalturile unui cer destinat deplasărilor prin veacuri, s-au format cele mai convingătoare dovezi ale unei omniprezenţe avansate.

Puterea divină, îngăduitoare prin asistenţa şi susţinerea ei, al cărui senin veşnic se reflecta direct în alcătuirea tuturor sistemelor vii, mă saluta prin sutele de mijloace ce le avea la îndemână. Și îmi şoptea mereu povești nemuritoare.

Dar cine mai vorbește despre cerul de ieri? El făcea inima curată, dând pasiune vieţii care te face să trăieşti. Acum, reprezentarea unui punct în spaţiu, asemeni unui vis pe care numai Luceafărul îl mai susţine prin strălucirea sa în întuneric, poate fi interpretată ca o distanţă măsurată în lacrimi de toţi acei copii ai şoaptei timpului care încă mai împrumută de la Ființa Supremă o busolă - asemenea unui colac invizibil de salvare.

Ca nişte cristale protejate de o incintă cu pereţi izolatori, copiii sunt acum închişi în închisoarea altui timp, parcurs de o alianţă stranie cu conformismul, schimbând cu el fluxuri de energie falsă.

Leadership: Reflectezi la ceea ce te impulsionează sa devii o mai bună varianta a ta într-un context de tipul: "ceilalţi sunt doar în trecere" ?

Am înţeles că şoapta nu este altceva decât o vedere a lui Dumnezeu dincolo de lume, îndemnând la aflarea marii împărăţii cu ajutorul cauzalităţii ori al analogiei, alteori prin suprimarea, înlăturarea şi negarea oricărei idei. Puterea unei şoapte este o momeală teribilă. Căci o dată ce te-a cucerit, încă de la primul ei ascult, în felul în care Iasomia te atrage prin parfumul ei îmbietor, te dedublezi într-un Avatar. Devii manifestarea unei divinități sau suflet lansat trupește de pe pământ.

Cred în sinceritatea vorbelor lui Ioannis Anghelos ce cuprind o bogăţie de cunoştinţe hermetice, însumarea unui mare număr de mistere ale vieţii, în memoria unei amintiri plimbată printre aştri:

"Toată mândria mea s-a năruit. Poate mi-am imaginat că în faţa lumii sunt mai bun sau mai important decât alţii, nu doar din cauza originii mele împărăteşti, ci pentru toate câte le-am încercat în viaţa mea, evadând dintr-un loc pustiu în altul, pentru a-l căuta pe Dumnezeu de-a lungul drumului înşelător pe care merg oamenii. Şi am uitat că sunt, la rândul meu, un om."

Leadership: Poţi da viață unei ființe superioare prin intermediul unei experienţe complet nouă, evadând dintr-un loc pustiu în altul?

Cel ce se lasă învrednicit de vederea unei lumi în devenire, ascultă şoaptele vocii interioare care îl propulsează deasupra axei timpului, avertizându-l deseori asupra unei posibile puteri superioare.

O asemenea ființă, situată deasupra spațiului timpului, pluralității şi devenirii, care înțelege și practică leadershipul în funcție de descoperirile care adună cele mai convingătoare dovezi ale unei omniprezenţe avansate, își poate ușor diminua încrederea în ceea ce este trecător.

Este aceeași senzație pe care o încearcă alpiniştii. Cel ce ajunge în vârful unui munte, deasupra căruia numai cerul îi face cu mâna, încearcă să perceapă acea faţă nevăzută a lumii și a lucrurilor din perspectiva unei libertăți de interpretare fără frontiere. El poate să facă din orizontul nou care i s-a deschis înainte un demers spiritual superior, orientat spre excelență, spre modelare în spiritul valorilor creatoare autentice, nu al unor reguli impuse.

A te apropia de Dumnezeu înseamnă să te recunoşti a fi parte dintr-o poveste nemuritoare din care să se inspire toţi acei oameni care cred că tot ceea ce te defineşte este cuprins între amintiri, imaginaţie şi vise.

Tocmai în această formă de a relaţiona cu ceea ce se află mai presus de lumea vizibilă, manifestându-te în prezentul pe care nu-l cunoști, se poate recunoaşte esenţa absolută a unei imaginaţii puse în slujba analizei realităţii şi evoluţiei lumii, favorizând aflarea unor adevăruri ascunse.

Iar descoperitorul viitorului, încercând a deduce prin imaginaţie și intuiţie adevărurile neelucidate, nu își îndrumă paşii doar după dâra de lumină a desăvârşitei sale inteligibilităţi, ci mai ales după semnele lăsate de trecerea timpului. Evadând dintr-un loc pustiu în altul, în dimensiunile înaltului, el va putea să formuleze judecăţi noi asupra ansamblului lumii. Tu ai ajuns la o cunoaştere dincolo de percepţiile obişnuite?

Un loc pustiu, unde nu se perindă stări sufleteşti variate prin conştiinţă, semnifică de fapt acea realitate care poartă în sine amintirile, duioşia şi înţelesul spaţiului haotic dintre cer şi pământ. Aici nu poţi găsi grija zilei de mâine, la fel cum nu poţi da o semnificaţie celor ce ţi se întâmplă. Însă te poţi simţi mai bine în privinţa ta prin faptul că orice părere pe care ţi-ai făcut-o iniţial despre omenire şi pământ este o închipuire a dumnezeiescului în tine prin Logos.

Lumea pe care o treci prin filtrul gândurilor poate fi înţeleasă ca un fel de reflectare a ceea ce se întâmplă într-o realitate complexă care dă senzaţia viziunii totale, atunci când lucrurile în care crezi sunt creaţia unui Dumnezeu care continuă să te însoţească prin bezna unui labirint numit simplu "Viaţă".

Din categoria „Acei copii ai şoaptei timpului" face parte fiecare om care ascultă ecoul gândurilor sale, deschizând spre exterior ușile unei lumi aparte. O influență directă a „vederii de la înălțimea profunzimii" asupra reprezentării unei lumi noi este sugerată de evoluţia omului în timp, până când reușește să se dedubleze într-o fiinţă măreață.

Achitaţi-vă bine sarcinile ce vă revin

On Iulie 11, 2009

Continuă să înaintezi pe traseul spre excelenţă, fără să deviezi "traficul" tău de eficienţă către o direcţie greşită.

Bzzz… bzzz…bzzz…

De zece minute, o muscă se învârte haotic în jurul meu. Stau la birou, în faţa calculatorului şi scriu ultimul capitol la noua mea carte. Din cauza bâzâitului, care devine tot mai enervant şi mai deranjant, nu mă pot concentra deloc asupra lucrului. Hotărăsc că este cazul să iau măsuri. Voi încerca s-o prind, dacă nu, măcar s-o alung pe fereastră afară, acolo de unde a venit. Mă uit atent după ea.

Îi urmăresc zborul sacadat, fiecare rotaţie, fiecare "popas" pe care îl face prin preajma biroului meu. La un moment dat, musca se aşează chiar lângă imprimantă. E loc destul pentru a-i aplica lovitura fatală. Mă apropii încet, încet de ea, făra să fac nici o mişcare bruscă; mi se pare aproape, atât de aproape, încât e imposibil să ratez. Poc ! Am nimerit-o ! Ce bucurie, ce satisfacţie am pentru că mi-am învins inamicul. Gata cu bâzâitul şi cu deranjul. Mă pot apuca din nou de scris. Deja am pierdut aproape un sfert de oră cu eliminarea ei.

Mă aşez pe scaunul meu confortabil şi încep să scriu la calculator. Mă simt mai plin de viaţă, mai capabil să-mi continui treaba. Este linişte - o linişte plăcută, plină de intimitate. Şi deodată, în liniştea aceasta, de undeva de prin preajma mea se aude din nou sunetul acela îngrozitor: Bzzz… Bzzz… Bzzz… o altă muscă a intrat pe geam.

Leadership: Faci greşeala de a crede că poţi menţine scorul de 2-0 în favoarea ta, în partida cu experienţa de evaluare a lucrurilor asupra cărora îţi concentrezi atenţia, fără să depăşeşti limitele putinţei de a te detaşa de tine însuţi?

Un lider extrage valoare din experienţa personală prin evaluarea lucrurilor asupra cărora îşi concentrează atenţia, dar nu din perspectiva satisfacerii propriilor nevoi, ci din perspectiva înţelegerii asupra vieţii. Pentru el lucrurile sunt ca nişte zugrăveli, dedesubtul cărora se ascunde ceva, o idee sau un concept, în niciun caz nu reprezintă o revenire la atitudini care sunt tipice unor reacţii despre care se poate spune că exprimă constrângeri fizice sau psihice reflectând în termeni orientativi factorul de "limitare".

Concentrarea este o formă de atenţie deosebită şi reprezintă cel mai important factor pentru a obţine rezultate optime, rapide şi eficiente, în activitatea noastră. Dacă vrem să obţinem rezultate foarte bune, atunci trebuie să ne concentrăm numai asupra sarcinilor pe care le avem de îndeplinit, renunţând la capacitatea de a vedea lucrurile care se interpun între ceea ce ai în "farfurie" şi reacţia ta faţă de ceea cele ce ţi se întâmplă în această situaţie.

Avem puterea de a alege lucrul asupra căruia ne concentrăm, indiferent de ce se întâmplă în jur, indiferent de cine ne distrage atenţia. Putem alege să ne concentrăm atenţia asupra lucrurilor prioritare, sau să acordăm o importanţă sporită lucrurilor mici şi neînsemnate. Regula de baza în tot ceea ce facem este să alegem să ne concentrăm întotdeauna asupra obiectivului cel mai important, în pofida a ceea ce se întâmplă în jurul nostru. Noi decidem cât de necesar este să ne îndeplinim obiectivul pe care ni l-am propus, noi decidem asupra cărui lucru trebuie să ne concentrăm pentru a ne atinge obiectivul.

Leadership: Îţi reprezinţi într-un model de eficienţă tendinţa firească de a vizualiza lucrurile: ca un întreg care îţi împlineşte existenţa, sau ca o parte a unei încărcături care îţi îngustează orizontul?

Ori de câte ori ai de îndeplinit o sarcină importantă şi mai ales dacă ţi-ai propus sau ţi-a fost impus un termen limită de finalizare, trebuie să te concentrezi numai şi numai asupra ei, şi să nu te laşi intimidat de unii si de alţii până când nu o duci până la capăt cu brio. Evoluţia ta în cadrul companiei în care îţi desfăşori activitatea depinde de multe ori de capacitatea de a te concentra asupra unei sarcini care trebuie îndeplinite înainte de termenul limită. Iar în situaţii de criză, atunci când intervin diverse solicitări, nu îţi poţi permite să pierzi timpul inutil sau să nu acţionezi cu profesionalism.

Ciudat este că mulţi oameni chiar asta fac - pierd mereu timpul alergând după muşte, având speranţa că altcineva le va prelua sarcinile şi le vor duce la îndeplinire. Alţii găsesc alte modalităţi de a pierde vremea, foarte evidente, cum ar fi pauzele frecvente de ţigară sau de masă.

Ce se poate spune despre angajatul care face pauză de ţigară la fiecare zece-douăzeci de minute, sau care, toată ziua-bună ziua, de când ajunge la serviciu şi până la terminarea programului de lucru, cea mai importanta grijă a sa este aceea de merge să-şi cumpere ceva de mâncare de la magazinul de peste drum? Mereu se vor găsi (mai ales în instituţiile şi companiile de stat) astfel de angajaţi care lucrează foarte încet, fără tragere de inimă şi care, la sfârşitul zilei, vor susţine cu tărie şi argumentat că, de fapt, nu le-a ajuns timpul pentru câte au avut de făcut. Uff.. câtă transpiraţie !

Leadership: Cât de multe aşteptări ai de la ceea ce te înconjoară atunci când te plasezi singur pe un palier de înțelegere și de responsabilitate apropiat de contextul unei înţelegeri greşite a obiectivului tău?

O înţelegere greşită a obiectivului tău seamănă cu o vânătoare de muşte: eşti îndreptăţit să le prinzi, dar fiindcă numărul lor e prea mare se întâmplă ca cele mai multe dintre ele să-ţi scape. Obiectivul pe care urmăreşti să-l atingi nu trebuie să fie determinat de probabilitatea ca, alegând un număr dintr-o mulţime, acesta să fie totodată un "pătrat" aproape perfect.

Liderii au mari aşteptări de la membrii echipei lor. Ei nu doresc sub nici o formă să aibă în echipa lor simpli spectatori care să urmărească cu atenţie "de pe margine" pe cei care cu adevărat îşi dau tot interesul să facă compania să funcţioneze contribuind la realizarea obiectivelor ei. Toţi membrii echipei trebuie să-şi dea silinţa să-i uşureze povara liderului, să-şi aducă aportul la succesul companiei. Trebuie să-l ajute să ia decizii cât mai bune, să vină cu noi idei care să îmbunătăţească performanţele companiei.

Liderii vor persoane serioase şi active în echipa lor care caută să-şi aducă aportul cât mai mult şi mai eficient cu putinţă la realizările companiei şi care sunt dispuse să facă ceea ce alţii refuză. Este o plăcere sa vezi cum oamenii pe care i-ai ales cu multă grijă şi cu mult simţ de răspundere în echipa ta sunt dornici şi nerăbdători să-şi pună talentul, inteligenţa şi dinamismul creator în serviciul companiei. Şi este într-adevăr o mare bucurie să-i răsplăteşti pentru munca depusă, pentru toate eforturile pe care le fac în vederea dezvoltării şi eficientizării activităţilor desfăşurate în cadrul companiei.

Leadershipul este imposibilul pe care îl cauţi şi îl găseşti, fără să alergi după nişte presupuse "echivalenţe" care mai mult te fac să te rătăceşti de la calea performanţei.

Concluzie: Există o mare diferenţă între oamenii valoroşi, care muncesc pentru a evolua pe plan profesional, şi ceilalţi care nu-şi dau nici cel mai mic interes de a face ceva bun, eficient şi durabil. Care este acel lucru care îi diferenţiază în mod special pe oamenii valoroşi de ceilalţi? Ei bine, primii se concentrează asupra îndeplinirii obiectivelor, sarcinilor, responsabilităţilor ce le revin funcţiei lor, ceilalţi se concentrează "asupra muştelor". Aceştia din urmă vor fi expulzaţi din echipă, în timp ce oamenii cu adevărat valoroşi vor fi recompensaţi şi mai bine.

Ca să faci pasul spre excelenţă învaţă să fii productiv - nu devia "traficul" tău de eficienţă către o direcţie greşită.

Acolo unde domneşte întunericul

On Mai 23, 2014

Onorează-ţi obligaţiile morale şi spirituale în aşa fel, încât de la un capăt la altul al personalităţii tale nicio trăsătură de caracter să nu fie pusă la îndoială.

Episcopul Myriel ştia să spună lucrurile cele mai însemnate în graiul cel mai popular. Vorbind toate limbile, pătrundea în toate sufletele. De altminteri, se purta la fel cu cei de sus ca şi cu cei de jos. Nu învinuia niciodată în pripă şi fără să ţină seama de împrejurările respective. Spunea: "Să vedem mai întâi de unde vine răul."

Omul poartă pe el carnea, care îi este în acelaşi timp povară şi ispită. O târăşte după el şi i se supune. E dator s-o supravegheze, s-o înfrâneze, să i se împotrivească şi să nu i se supună decât atunci când nu mai are încotro. Dându-i în felul acesta ascultare, săvârşim totuşi o greşeală, dar o greşeală de felul acesta se poate ierta. E o cădere, dar o cădere în genunchi, care poate sfârşi cu o rugăciune. Să fii sfânt e un lucru rar. Să fii drept e o datorie. Puteţi greşi, puteţi avea slăbiciuni, puteţi păcătui, dar fiţi drepţi.

Pe cei ce nu ştiu, învăţaţi-i cât mai multe lucruri puteţi. Societatea e vinovată, ea trebuie trasă la răspundere pentru bezna pe care o menţine. Acolo unde domneşte întunericul, încolţeşte păcatul. Vinovat nu e cel ce păcătuieşte, ci acela care-l ţine în întuneric. *

Poate leadershipul tău să spargă zidurile invizibile ale vieţii reale, fără să intre într-o buclă de cauzalitate temporală determinată de împrejurările în care te remarci ca un exemplu de fapte bune?

Cel ce îşi manifestă personalitatea doar într-o singură direcţie, spre ceea ce îl face superior şi spre ceea ce contează mai mult pentru devenirea lui, raportându-se mai întâi la ceea ce înseamnă a fi om de mare caracter, de fapt încearcă să se elibereze de acea optică pietrificată despre viaţă care face ca lumea din jurului lui să se deformeze. E un soi de speranţă inventată de creierul uman pentru a putea continua să supravieţuiască într-o societate apăsătoare, care nu îi rezervă nici un viitor strălucit.

A intra într-o buclă de cauzalitate temporală determinată de împrejurările în care te remarci ca un exemplu de fapte bune presupune să-ţi schimbi optica despre ce poţi şi cât valorezi într-un context în care totul este trecător, adică se poate schimba imediat datorită influenţei unei anumite constrângeri externe asupra conștiinței și voinței tale.

Ai puterea de conştientiza felul cum te influenţează interacţiunea cu ceilalţi într-o societate egoistă şi lacomă în care, din ce în ce mai des, pe nimeni nu interesează de nimeni. Iar în intenţia de a demonstra ceea ce eşti, purtându-te la fel cu cei de sus ca şi cu cei de jos, fără a ţine seama neapărat de împrejurările şi de anturajul în care te găseşti, îţi vei spori puterea de a conştientiza binele şi răul, şi care pot fi urmările lor.

Iată ce spunea marele filozof german, Friedrich Nietzsche: "Dacă viaţa noastră are de ce-ul , atunci putem suporta cum-urile ." Pentru ca leadershipul să spargă zidurile invizibile ale vieţii reale, mai întâi trebuie să conturezi perspectivele legate de ceea nu ştii sau nu îţi convine, deci să suporţi „de ce-urile" şi "cum-urile", luând în seamă aspectele negative din jur.

Leadershipul capătă o poziţie dominantă printr-o subtilă oglindire a realităţii care se regăseşte în felul cum întrebuinţezi experienţa vieţii, dar şi prin măsurarea stabilităţii legăturilor pe care le creezi între tine şi ceilalţi.

Leadership: Poţi să te integrezi într-o lume ce își face un scop din a te exclude, fără a declanşa o anumită schimbare a cursului dramatic al experienţei pe care ţi-l imprimă efectul împrejurărilor instalat de sensul societăţii?

În intenţia de a demonstra eficienţă şi nevoia leadershipului, ţinând cont de cât de bine urmăreşti adevărul fundamental şi moral după care se orientează oamenii în decursul vieţii potrivnice lor, deci cercetând "de unde vine răul", vei putea să acorzi mai mult credit acelei părţi din tine care face posibilă înţelegerea vieţii. Numai dacă cercetezi mai adânc experienţele din care poţi trage învăţături, fără a pune la îndoială validitatea a ceea ce accepţi că fiind adevărat, aproape la extrem, dar nu întotdeauna benefic şi suportabil, numai astfel te poţi deschide în faţa vieţii şi te poţi apropia de superioritate.

A te integra într-o lume ce își face un scop din a te exclude înseamnă să aduci echilibrul acolo unde domneşte întunericul. Chiar dacă nu vei putea să tragi la răspundere societatea pentru bezna pe care o menţine, îţi poţi onora obligaţiile morale şi spirituale în aşa fel, încât de la un capăt la altul al personalităţii tale nicio trăsătură de caracter să nu fie pusă la îndoială.

Cursul dramatic al experienţei pe care ţi-l imprimă efectul împrejurărilor instalat de sensul societăţii poate fi oricând deviat spre susţinerea şi întemeierea responsabilităţii de a fi tu însuţi un model de spiritualitate revelatoare.

Asta, numai dacă linia ta de conduită pe care o socoteşti bună va fi de continuitate în ceea ce priveşte ideea de: umanitate, de egalitate, drept, ordine şi onestitate.

Acolo unde domneşte întunericul vizează acea normalitate adoptată de lider pe tot parcursul vieţii sale şi-n toate împrejurările. A fi tu însuţi, dar şi a funcţiona după standardele cele mai înalte ale societăţii, a nu abdica în nicio împrejurare de la ele, face din tine un model demn de urmat de majoritatea celor din jurul tău.

Acolo unde matematica s-a înfrățit cu frumosul

On Februarie 10, 2009

Marea Taină a Creaţiei este o idee care rămâne singura putere veșnică pentru a releva crearea Celui asemenea din Cel asemenea !

- Nu te mai contrazic ! Ba chiar am să mai adaug și cealaltă caracteristică a tăieturii de aur, aceea de a arăta că există o posibilitate de a măsura frumosul. La această tăietură de aur se gândeau filosofii greci când afirmau că frumusețea înseamnă "proporție bine cumpănită". Și, chiar dacă nu au numit-o "secţio aurea", ca Leonardo da Vinci, toate statuile antice, nu numai acelea din secolul lui Pericle, ci și de mai târziu, au fost sculptate ţinând seama de această tăietură de aur.

La fel și Vitruviu spunea că "simetria decurge din proporție - ceea ce numesc grecii analogie - consonanța dintre fiecare parte din întreg. Leonardo da Vinci susținea că tăietura de aur ar trebui să fie legea care să domine arhitectura, ca prin ea să se stabilească proporțiile dintre diferitele părți ale unei clădiri, precum și între volumul construit și cel rămas liber, fiindcă numai respectarea acestui raport face ca un ansamblu arhitectonic să placă ochiului". De aceea, în cartea lui Matila Ghyka sta scris: Estetica și teoria artelor sunt menționate numeroase măsurători care s-au efectuat în legătură cu "dimensiunile și proporțiile templelor din Elada" din care reiese că, în frumusețea și armonia care o răspândeşte Parthenonul, Propileele și alte temple grecești, intervine și tăietura de aur.

- Ai dreptate. Arhitectura greacă prezintă un alt aspect al frumosului, aș putea spune, diametral opus aceluia pe care-l inspiră arhitectura egipteană, căci, dacă maiestatea piramidelor sau a Sfinxului ne aduce în minte gândul morții și al eternității, arhitectura greacă palpită de viață. E de ajuns să privim Templul Athenei Nike, coloanele ei elegante și armonioase care poartă un fronton în formă de triunghi isoscel, totul fiind calculat așa ca să dea impresia de grație și elegantă.

- Dar nici în statui, sculptorii greci nu au folosit modele vii pentru zeitățile lor, ci le-au realizat ţinând seama de un anumit sistem de proporții care aveau rostul să producă impresia de armonie a totului. Începând din Renaștere și până în ziua de azi, toți artiștii au ținut seama de această împărțire a segmentelor. Îți mai amintesc numai de Kepler, astronomul, matematicianul și, aș putea spune, esteticianul secolului al XVI-lea, fiindcă a scris, pe lângă celelalte lucrări bine cunoscute, și un tratat de estetică cu titlul: Harmonices muncii (Armonia lumii), în care se exprimă într-o formă cu totul originală despre tăietura de aur: "Această proporție geometrică, cred eu, este o idee care rămâne singura putere veșnică pentru a releva crearea Celui asemenea din Cel asemenea ! "

Leadership: Poţi să-ţi formezi o anumită percepţie asupra a ceea ce reprezintă "frumosul provenit din creaţia divină", încât să urmezi coordonatele unei singure meniri: de a genera o singură viziune asupra unei ştiinţe care îşi asuma ferm un obiect de studiu?

- Dacă ar fi vorba să aleg frumosul din matematica rămasă de la grecii antici, îți spun drept că nu știu ce ar trebui să las deoparte. Am impresia că filosofii greci, care erau și matematicieni, au țesut toate problemele de matematică cu fire desprinse din frumos, armonie sau încântare. De pildă, teorema: "toate unghiurile înscrise într-un semicerc sunt drepte", pe care a stabilit-o și a demonstrat-o Thales. Se spune că l-a impresionat așa de tare, încât a adus drept sacrificiu zeilor un bou.

Și doar Thales nu era nici la prima lui descoperire științifică și nici un naiv, care să se lase prins în capcana orgoliului. Era unul dintre cei șapte înțelepți ai Greciei, călătorise prin Egipt și stârnise mirarea Faraonului arătându-i că știa să măsoare înălțimea piramidei numai cu ajutorul umbrei pe care o lăsa ea. Și totuși, în această teoremă, care nu aduce nici un folos practic, el a văzut o frumusețe demnă de admirat, o frumusețe care l-a încântat și pentru care a simțit nevoia să mulțumească acelora care considera el că-s stăpânii înțelepciunii.

- Dar această teoremă este și astăzi tot așa de frumoasă, deși trecem peste ea cu multă ușurință ! Faptul că e de ajuns să luăm oricare punct de pe semicerc și să-l unim cu extremitățile diametrului ca să se formeze de la sine un unghi drept, te poate încânta ca și o melodie, sau ca o poezie, sau ca un tablou ! La fel de remarcabilă este și admirația pitagoreicilor pentru numărul în sine, numărul abstract și lipsit de orice semnificație practică. Ca să-l izoleze de orice fel de aplicații care i s-ar putea atribui în viața socială și economică, pitagoreicii întâi, și apoi ceilalți matematicieni greci, au născocit o nouă știință, numită Aritmetică, știință care să se ocupe numai de proprietățile numerelor abstracte, bineînțeles întregi, căci numai întregii erau priviți ca numere.

Celelalte numere concrete, care puteau fi și fracționare sau chiar iraționale, erau considerate ca mărimi și calculele cu ele aparțineau altei științe, numită logistică, știință la îndemâna negustorilor, sclavilor și nebăgată în seamă de filosofi. Aritmetica nu avea nici un fel de aplicații practice, ea era studiată numai ca o delectare, iar Socrate o definește în Harmide sau despre înțelepciune drept: "știința a ceea ce este par și impar, a deosebirilor dintre numere și a relațiilor dintre ele".

Leadership: Poţi să exprimi ceea ce percepi ca fiind "frumos" în cadrul unei asemănări dintre o descoperire care se face numai sufletului și prin suflet, şi o descoperire empirică care se confirmă constant în toate situațiile vieţii?

- Așa-i. Pentru Pitagora, Aritmetica era cea mai frumoasă dintre științe și chiar cea mai avantajoasă, fiindcă numai în acest domeniu, "lucrurile apar sub formă de numere" !

- Parcă numai lui Pitagora Aritmetica îi apărea ca știința cea mai frumoasă ? Gauss nu a spus că Matematica este regina științelor, iar Aritmetica este regina matematicii ?

- Lui Gauss îi dădea mâna să o spuie, fiindcă avea știința gata plămădită de pitagoreici și de toți cei ce au urmat după ei timp de peste douăzeci de veacuri, pe când Pitagora frământa chiar atunci armonia ce avea să farmece generațiile viitoare. Erau lucruri la care nu se gândise nimeni mai înainte și pe care le înșira el atunci ca pe niște mărgele strălucitoare pe un fir de ață. Să ne gândim numai la împărțirea numerelor în prime și compuse. Din punct de vedere practic această împărțire nu servește la nimic. Dar câtă desfătare nu au creat aceste numere prin proprietățile lor în sufletele matematicienilor, începând din vremea lui Pitagora și până azi ?

Mă gândesc, de pildă, la demonstrația pe care o dă Euclid, în Cartea a IX-a, despre infinitatea numerelor prime.

- Te-ai gândit bine, căci această demonstrație a încântat pe mulți matematicieni, de atunci și până în zilele noastre, și i-au îmbiat să mai adauge alte demonstrații noi. -ar fi să luăm Elementele ca să citim, chiar de acolo, cum a formulat Euclid această descoperire a pitagoreicilor ?

Marea Taină a Creaţiei vizează o descoperire care nu se bazează neapărat pe observație şi calcule matematice, ci pe credinţa într-o lume care a fost ordonată de către o inteligenţă supremă.

Acolo unde matematica s-a înfrățit cu frumosul se instituie obligaţia de a recunoaşte transferul responsabilităţii creaţiei divine către om şi de a urma sfatul Creatorului: "Tot ceea ce faci pentru ştiinţă, faci şi pentru Mine. Şi tot ceea ce descoperi prin puterea credinţei, este o invitaţie la explorarea frumosului din tine ca reflexie a frumosului din jurul tău".

Revenind la matematică, iată ce ne spune Wikipedia: Dintre lucrările mai recente despre secțiunea de aur, care stau la baza gândirii lui Matila Ghyka, mai sunt de menționat cele ale lui Heinrich Emil Timerding care, analizând modul în care principiul secțiunii de aur a fost aplicat, insistă asupra faptului că "secțiunea de aur este doar un caz particular al unei reguli mai generale, cea a recurenței acelorași proporții în elementele unui întreg".

Acolo unde se odihnesc străbunii

On Octombrie 23, 2012

Caută să descoperi şi să înţelegi "întregul" omului, fără să minimalizezi ştiinţa de a te dedica în întregime deşertăciunii lui.

Se gândea tot mai mult la el însuşi, nu prin respingere sau spirit critic, ci printr-un soi de prejudecată crudă, printr-o umilă resemnare manifestată în jurul propriului său destin.

Ar fi vrut să împrumute o nouă viaţă, a unuia mai tânăr ca el, un homme d'action , ca să mai încordeze o dată arcul forţei cu adevărat combative care îşi aruncă săgeţile spre obiectivele cel mai dificile, ţintind totdeauna spre mijlocul problemelor, totdeauna în direcţia inaccesibilului, străpungând ceaţa bătrâneţii.

Ar fi vrut să găsească un sprijin solid, continuator, în biruirea tuturor opreliştilor şi strâmtorărilor de tot felul care ţineau în loc evoluţia acţiunilor sale. Un soi de căutare a unei alte identităţi. O eliberare a interiorului, printr-o descătuşare a unei voinţe supreme care să se reverse, ca o ploaie rece şi grea, asupra oricăror forme de regres. A unei voinţe care să nu se risipească niciodată. O diminuare a incertitudinilor care îi învăluiau perspectivele, planând vertiginos asupra evoluţiei sale ca lider, ca autoritate a legii, ca om de mare caracter.

Asemenea unui creştin care îşi asumă suferinţa lumii întregi prin intermediul perspectivei propriilor sale experienţe, transformate de o credinţă vie, dinamică, care dă sens vieţii, şeriful Ed Tom Bell se îndrepta cu paşi repezi spre apusul existenţei sale. Spre un tărâm care preceda încercarea cea mai grea a destinului său, care domina cu gravitate misterul ce înconjura într-un lanţ greoi şi sinistru originea stărilor sale sufleteşti.

Leadership: Coordonata ta acţională în abordarea unei gândiri autonome este argumentată şi demonstrată de experimentul unui sfârşit care îşi îndură singurătatea?

Astfel, din nou, ca un om singur şi pierdut, renegat de societate, fără a fi găsit rânduială şi statornicie într-un ţinut dur cu oamenii, dar mai ales cu bătrânii, Ed Tom Bell se lăsa târât în peregrinările sale în căutarea unui străin, a unui asasin. Simţea pământul lunecându-i de sub picioare.

O apucă spre apus, mereu către apus, acolo unde mereu se înfăptuia o crimă, mereu un alt bătrân. Către marea fortăreaţă a menirii sale, înţelegând că nu avea cum să răzbată în acea vâltoare a căutării. O prietenie foarte vie îl lega de bătrâni, fiindcă şi el era bătrân.

Ed Tom Bell se prăvălea în abisul unei realităţii reci, a unei bătrâneţi tot mai împovărătoare. Pricepu că se apropia sfârşitul, că toţi – toţi în afara celor tineri şi triumfători - trebuiau să se transforme, să părăsească pământul şi să meargă altundeva. Şi, ca un om care piere îngheţat în noaptea deşertului, el îşi îndreptă gândurile spre meleagurile eterne. O reîntoarcere spre origini, spre un trecut înţepenit în timpul său, spre o lume uitată şi necunoscută, spre o zonă îndepărtată de esenţa umană. În căutarea unui loc mai liniştit.

Acolo unde se odihneau străbunii săi.

Leadership: O abatere de la profilul tău de toleranţă la normalitate poate fi definită ca distanţa dintre ceea ce se întâmplă în jurul tău şi greşeala de a te compara cu cei deja dominaţi de verdictul negativ al vieţii?

Prima jumătate a leadershipului, cea umană, este hotărâtoare. Liderii care ştiu să se raporteze foarte bine la ceilalţi oameni din jurul lor, încearcă să evite clişeele de percepţie a leadershipului.

Mai întâi, ei caută să descopere şi să înţeleagă omul ca un întreg, fără să dispreţuiască sau să minimalizeze ştiinţa de a se dedica în întregime deşertăciunii lui – acel drum spre piscul existenţei omului care trece numai prin iadul unei gândiri atrofiate, supuse anumitor constrângeri, şi care îi îngrădeşte libertatea de a fi el însuşi, reorientându-i credinţele, opţiunile în care înclină să creadă.

Leadershipul pe care îl extragi nu doar din încercările şi greşelile tale, ci mai degrabă din "raftul cel mai ascuns" al omului ca întreg, în care este aşezată esenţa lui cea mai profundă, este adevărata comoară pe care trebuie s-o exploatezi cum trebuie.

Esenţa ta cea mai profundă se clădeşte din prea plinul realităţii pe care o trăieşti prin consolidarea diferenţierii între exprimarea unei identităţi prestabilite şi alterarea totului care copleşeşte individualul.

Aşa cum esenţa timpului este curgerea, nu stagnarea, tot astfel esenţa unei înnoiri a relaţiei om-timp este dată nu doar de formarea şi dezvoltarea unei gândiri pozitive, de perspectivă, ci în primul rând de valorile pe care le preţuieşti cel mai mult, de convingerile pe care viaţa ţi le-a implantat în minte.

Altfel spus, în locul procedeului mai uzitat al confirmării cât mai multor aşteptări legate de posibilitatea schimbării, amplificării, diversificării formei de exercitare a influenţei, în alcătuirea unui leadership cât mai facil, este mai util să urmăreşti o mai bună valorificare a tendinţei de optimizare a relaţiei leadership-om-valori-timp.

Leadership: Înţelegi esenţa a ceea ce eşti în contextul unei alterări a Ego-ului?

O apropiere lămuritoare de ceea ce-l face pe om să "ticăie", ţinând cont de acele convingeri privitoare la capacitatea lui de a ignora sau de a accepta realităţile negative, ale vulnerabilităţii şi neputinţelor de tot felul, este esenţială în leadership.

Acest proces delicat de a avansa spre cunoaşterea omului, ştiinţa de a te conecta la latura invizibilă a lumii sale interioare, a tendinţelor şi aspiraţiilor sale în continuă schimbare, îţi va permite să accesezi orice dispozitiv de consolidare a sistemului său de gândire.

Cealaltă jumătate, urmărită de oamenii de top, cea profesională, încearcă să completeze existenţa unei cercetări sistematice asupra viitorului leadershipului, prin recurgerea la un "arbitraj" uşor confuz, extrem de slab, nefavorabil statutului esenţial al omului. O contracţie severă dintre aparenţă şi esenţă ce trebuie atenuată.

Primul pas spre o nouă descoperire de sine este dată de "reîntoarcerea spre origini", spre o zonă aproape uitată, spre esenţa a ceea ce te aștepți să găsești acolo unde se refugiază speranța.

Trăieşti într-un sistem de gândire care ignoră sau dispreţuieşte realitatea celorlalţi? Ţinteşti în direcţia "inaccesibilului"? Te îndrepţi spre un vârf care precedă încercarea cea mai grea a rolului tău, de lider? Accepţi să porneşti în căutarea unui teren de înţelegere a Omului, un teren care este străin de leadership?

Acolo unde se odihnesc străbunii pune în prim plan ruptura dintre lumea obiectivă şi sine, o falsă imunitate la întregirea unei realităţi care cu greu poate fi acceptată. Ca să-ţi schimbi deprinderile de gândire şi acţiune, mai întâi trebuie să accepţi realitatea, chiar dacă ea pare a fi în discordanţă cu structura ta de personalitate.

Analizează oamenii privindu-i ca un întreg, cu bune şi rele, cu calităţi şi defecte. Ancorează-i în realitatea obiectivă şi mobilizează-i pentru a-şi îndeplini menirea şi de a-şi atinge ţelurile. Acest lucru putând fi realizat numai supunându-te tu însuţi acestei analize interioare, şi întrebându-te mereu:

De unde ai pornit şi încotro vrei să ajungi? Ce ţi-ai dorit, ce ai realizat până în prezent? Ce mai ai de realizat?

Actorii sunt prea artificiali

On Decembrie 27, 2015

Asigură-ţi ascensiunea spre culmile înalte ale mândriei de a fi superior, câştigând autonomie asupra propriului tău „show".

În timpul şederii la Paris, regizorul rus Eisenstein discută despre posibilitatea obţinerii unei comenzi pentru realizarea unui film. Sosise în capitala Franţei la invitaţia uneia din cele mai importante case producătoare de filme. Dar nu se poate înţelege cu producătorii. Se loveşte – de data aceasta nu în glumă ca în parodia de la La Sarraz – de cinematografia comercială.

I se propune să realizeze un film „popular", cu condiţia utilizării unei tinere actriţe într-un rol atractiv. Eisenstein rămâne siderat, neputând răspunde cu nici un argument logic, ci doar: „ Dar eu nu folosesc actori... Actorii sunt prea artificiali ! "

Obişnuit să-şi declare deschis concepţiile, primeşte cu furie opoziţia producătorilor: „ Cum se poate imagina să renunţ la concepţiile mele? strigă el revoltat. Succesul meu în Franţa nu este oare bazat în întregime pe ilustrarea acestor concepţii? "

Leadership: Îți dai tu singur acceptul asupra a ceea ce poţi sau nu să realizezi din punct de vedere al fundalului de orientare a atitudinii "ştiu că am dreptate" pe care îl furnizează profilul imaginii tale în lume?

Leadershipul prezintă episoade de ascensiuni spre culmile înalte ale mândriei de a fi superior. În acest caz, individul reprezintă în interesul propriilor realizări anumite valori de la care nu se poate abate. Iar pentru ca leadershipul să poată fi utilizat în orice situaţie, mai ales în cadrul unor schimbări de direcție, se impune a fi respectate cumulativ două condiții, sub criteriul: „Singur îmi dau acceptul asupra a ceea ce pot sau nu să realizez ! "

Prima condiţie în leadership este să nu renunți la jocul posesiei, întreţinut cumva de o conștiință care vede şi trăieşte idei absolute – în interacțiune cu crearea unei percepţii favorabile faţă de sine. Posesia asupra unei forme de cunoaștere și de gândire, dobândită prin stimularea interesului aparte pentru interpretarea faptelor, fenomenelor şi ideilor, creând pentru tine însuţi un rol unic „over and over" în relație cu alții, fără a schimba repertoriul presupunerilor și argumentelor tale.

A doua condiţie este să te asiguri că audienţa are dreptul să ascensioneze în numele unei entităţi de tip „sursă de evenimente", fără să se angajeze într-o luptă de opoziţie. Într-un anume fel, trebuie să fii o oglindă a stării de a exista tocmai în centrul actului de a exista, potrivit relaţiei dinamice dintre procesul de creaţie şi puterea de a îndeplini scopul creaţiei.

Profilul imaginii în lume a unui regizor ţine de ilustrarea opţiunii "decizie finală" pentru formarea concepţiilor şi impulsionarea activităţilor conceptuale vizând dezvoltarea sferei ştiinţifice.

În leadership, "decizia finală" este semnul unei autorităţi în materie de inovaţie, echivalând cu rodul unei profunde şi riguroase experienţe de cunoaştere care aduce în prim plan dovada de libertate în gândire, un stil original şi îndrăzneţ, o personalitate aparte, nonconformism şi imaginaţie bogată.

Exclamaţia „Actorii sunt prea artificiali” denotă îndepărtarea de normele unei stricteţi accentuate în ceea ce privește acceptarea și receptarea unor forme de redare a realităţii prin artă. Mesagerul unei viziuni evoluate este mai întâi de toate un jongler al argumentelor logice și bine întemeiate de pe urma cărora, cu inteligenţă, știe să câștige autonomie asupra propriei munci de creație. Dar mai ales asupra propriului său „Show”.

Actul creator al reinventării

On Ianuarie 05, 2015

Străduieşte-te să faci din leadership un spaţiu al reinventării creative, prin solicitarea nebuniei de a crede în ceva mai presus de limitele raţiunii.

Secondată de firul de lumină al conştiinţei critice, mintea mea se îndrepta către marile întrebări ale timpului, prin prelucrarea riguroasă a unor valori inexacte ale probabilităţii producerii efectelor Deja-Vu. În special prin metoda observaţiilor de tip „transfer de reflecţii". Exista aici aceeaşi nebunie naivă la care mă înhămasem pe vremea când încercam să elaborez traseele optime ale unor portaluri energetice din viitor, prin pulsiuni creative care declanşau secvenţele de imagini ale unei realităţi ineluctabile, într-un joc exploziv de contraste de complementaritate.

S-ar fi zis că optam între revelarea unei noi evidenţe şi revelarea unei noi ascunderi, încercând să introduc o clasă de algoritmi de aproximare a timpului într-un limbaj de scripting cu o sintaxă simplificată la maximum. Astfel încât să scad imprevizibilul şi nonsensul oricărei încercări de a înţelege ceea ce ştiinţa consideră inexplicabil, să nu las în urmă niciun semn de întrebare. Timpul devenise reprezentarea unui sistem de referinţă care poseda proprietatea de a se opune variaţiei factorilor de tranzit al impulsului numit „viaţă".

Citeam undeva că în 1572, astronomul danez Tycho Brahe a descoperit o supernovă deasupra uneia din stelele mici din constelaţia în formă de W. Cassiopeea. Această novă, denumită steaua lui Tycho, a dobândit repede tot mai multă luminozitate astfel încât a ajuns să strălucească mai puternic decât toate celelalte stele şi planete noaptea, apoi a devenit vizibilă şi ziua, până când a început să pălească.

Dacă voiam să ating intangibilul reinventării modului de a face ştiinţă, trebuia să fiu raza de gândire a unei idealităţi unitare care conexează gândurile şi cunoştinţele în raport cu modelarea existenţei. Dar fără să devin captivul propriei mele creaţii.

Leadership: Intri în jocul reinventării de sine prin curajul de a te lupta cu ceva ce pare aproape imposibil de înţeles şi de înfăptuit?

Filosoful român, C. Rădulescu Motru spunea la un moment dat: „ Omul de ştiinţă se deosebeşte de ignorant prin activitatea ce-o desfăşoară în sistematizarea experienţei. Ignorantul primeşte această experienţă într-un mod pasiv, însă omul de ştiinţă o transformă după un plan voit. Cu alte cuvinte, în conştiinţa metodelor întrebuinţate, iar nu în rezultate stă puterea regenatoare pe care o are ştiinţa asupra omului. "

În ceea ce priveşte leadershipul, pentru a face faţă procesului de dezvoltare tot mai dinamic, ca să percepi în mod diferit schimbarea şi efectele ei specifice (de multe ori destabilizatoare), este necesar să te axezi pe o experienţă a judecăţii sistematizată în mod strălucit şi pe efortul de prelucrare a ceea ce face parte din universul tău cognitiv. Trebuie ca în conştiinţa ta să existe puterea de adaptare a imaginarului la condiţiile realului accesibil prin metodele obişnuite ale ştiinţei experimentale şi logice.

Ceva imposibil de înţeles şi de înfăptuit poate corespunde numai unei lumi a imaginarului care edifică un spaţiu virtual din care poţi să observi totul fără sa fii observat, din care nu-ţi mai vine să pleci. Omul de ştiinţă pătrunde în acest spaţiu, vede mai departe de momentul prezent sau de un cerc restrâns împrejurul acestui moment, se integrează într-o imagine nouă despre om şi societate, apoi revine în imediata apropiere de realitate cu o viziune care merge de sus în jos, nu de jos în sus.

Leadershipul este o ştiinţă a gândirii si a înfăptuirii care se impune prin succesiunea revelaţiilor. Iar dacă vrei să faci din această ştiinţă un spaţiu al reinventării creative, opus fiecărei forme de convenţionalism, atunci trebuie să intri în jocul reinventării de sine prin curajul de a te lupta cu ceva ce pare aproape imposibil de înţeles şi de înfăptuit. Mai curând prin solicitarea nebuniei de a crede în ceva mai presus de limitele raţiunii.

Fiecare piesă de fixare a structurii de putere care te caracterizează, printr-un raţionament inductiv, prin metoda observaţiilor de tip „transfer de reflecţii", devine o declaraţie de originalitate şi de încredere în sine într-o lume în care competiţia devine din ce în ce mai acerbă.

Leadership: Poţi să te reprezinţi ca o caracteristică a filosofiei de evoluţie a ştiinţei din perspectiva unei viziuni care câştigă în persuasiune doar prin substratul imaginativ?

Puterea de creaţie are toate şansele să pălească în faţa unei sincere dedicări, mai ales dacă artistul nu reuşeşte să concretizeze revelarea unor noi evidenţe sau revelarea unor noi ascunderi.

Aceste două constante de integrare în cercetarea ştiinţifică - evidenţele şi ascunderile - puse pe seama unui cumul de informaţii obţinute din analiza coordonatelor de definire a unor noi principii, concepte său noţiuni, au o anumită pondere asupra eficacităţii de manifestare a unei noi culturi a gândirii. Ne referim la o cultură care nu inhibă, a unei noi generaţii de creaţie care poate să inspire un adevărat trend în domeniu.

Accelerarea formării imaginilor inovative ale realităţii, lăsând loc unui nivel mai mare de diversitate şi complexitate a producţiei de creaţii individualizate, poate să crească gradul de conştientizare a rolului de lider – prin faptul că lasă loc reflecţiilor şi cugetărilor să se manifeste liber. Comunicarea valorii personale se poate realiza prin comunicarea unei gândiri a negânditului, împletind sensurile unei arte abstracte, în cazul funcțiilor de reprezentare a realităţii, reduse sau absente în marea ecuaţie a dezvoltării unei culturi superioare.

Reinventarea de sine este rezultanta experienței de a interpreta mesajul revelațiilor provocate de actul de creaţie într-o afirmare a impulsului vital, a dorinţei şi a setei de a da semnificaţie unei realităţi complexe.

Actul creator al reinventării este în strânsă legătură cu metoda observaţiilor de tip „transfer de reflecţii prin care îţi asumi exploatarea ştiinţei în numele unei ideologii a înnoirii, care la rândul ei lansează o modalitate sau propune un unghi de vedere neobişnuit.

Îndreaptă-ţi evoluţia un stadiu înalt de dezvoltare, astfel încât premizele obţinerii unor rezultate ambiţioase să fie asigurate.

Pătruns de sentimentul de stăpânire al materiei care mi-a invadat întreaga fiinţă, ca urmare a procesului de interacţiuni continue între elementele de limbaj artistic şi elementele de creaţie efectivă a universului, am stabilit noi linii de cercetare extrem de performante. Iar datorită observaţiilor judicioase asupra proprietăţilor corpurilor am reuşit să-mi perfecţionez anumite tehnici de analiză şi interpretare, concentrate exclusiv pe producerea de rezultate viabile care mi-au garantat progresul.

Totodată, prin experimentele efectuate asupra unui sistem de referinţă am reuşit să identific punctul în care este atrasă materia invizibilă, punctul în care forţele de reacţiune se egalizează. Astfel mi-am îmbunătăţit mecanismul de identificare şi creare a hibrizilor, a pattern-urilor, a echilibrelor şi dezechilibrelor dintre fazele unui sistem multicomponent, caracterizat printr-o multitudine de parametri. Când pui pe primul loc aspectele esenţiale ale ştiinţei, nu doar cele captivante, abia atunci reuşeşti să înţelegi mai multe despre viaţă, despre omul care eşti, ce îţi doreşti cu adevărat sau ce eşti în stare să realizezi.

Această iniţiere în spaţiul consacrat al ştiinţei permitea dezvoltarea unei puteri de pătrundere fără putinţă de egalat, ca o împrăştiere a radiaţiei laser dublată de o absorbţie de energie. Premisele şi concluziile implicite ce derivau din acest proces de asumare a unui orizont prin el însuşi mobilizator, stimulator de noi structuri de gândire, trebuiau să aibă o aplicabilitate cât mai mare.

Leadership: Poţi să-ţi demonstrezi calităţile şi adevăratul potenţial de înţelegere al filosofiei ştiinţei din spatele conceptului numit "iluzia vieţii", transformând realitatea într-o nouă formă de percepere virtuală?

Cine nu descoperă prin propriile forţe drumul tăinuit spre marea ştiinţă, acela nu se va întrece niciodată pe sine. Aveam senzaţia că am fost cucerit de una din acele femei înzestrate cu claritate şi forţă de pătrundere, nu atât prin frumuseţea ei, ci mai cu seamă prin acele însuşiri minunate: dăruire, compasiune, gingăşie, îmbinându-se ca o vrajă într-un mozaic de impresii şi experienţe cu efect surprinzător.

Nu mă consider atotştiutor, dar a trebuit să cobor în abisurile imaginarului, acordat deformărilor de perspectivă şi constrângerilor stricte ale legilor fizice, ca să experimentez durerea "dulce" a propriei renaşteri într-o nouă lume. Alchimia, suma tuturor elementelor supuse transformării, emană acel ceva inexplicabil căreia trebuie să-i dai târcoale, dar căreia îi sunt necesare multe luni de studiu ca să-i înţelegi sufletul. Ea poate suci minţile celui care nu-i înţelege dubla valoare sau care se încumetă să acceadă la fazele superioare de realizare a Marii Opere fără să traverseze timpul şi spaţiul.

Când un titan face un pas înainte, omenirii îi trebuie zece mii de paşi doar ca să-l ajungă din urmă. Acesta este unul din adevărurile care însoţesc călătoria alchimică. Simpla pasiune păleşte repede dacă nu este secondată de un intelect superior incitant. Dar, la rândul ei, obsesia de a căuta profunzimea în orice combinaţii şi mutaţii de elemente, printr-o accelerare a reacţiilor ce decurg din marea transformare, se poate termina printr-o explozie de energie negativă, printr-o evoluţie dezamăgitoare.

Iluzia vieţii nu este moartea, trecerea într-o altă dimensiune, ci speranţa găsirii unui elixir magic care transformă plumbul în aur şi îi face pe oameni nemuritori. Ajungând la acest unic adevăr prin prisma cercetărilor mele asupra lutului, materiei din care sunt constituite obiectele de uz casnic (farfurii, vaze, ghivece, căni) am reuşit să transform realitatea într-o nouă formă de percepere vizuală. Forma obiectului nu este doar un înveliş al pământul, o protecţie plină de har a imaginaţiei, ci reprezintă lumina interioară a Eului poetic descris printr-un limbaj universal.

Leadership: Dispui de capacitatea de a reflecta asupra fenomenelor de simbolizare şi transmitere a conţinutului unui mesaj, de la înălţimea perspectivei de a înţelege lumea prin reinterpretarea cunoştinţelor dobândite?

Să pluteşti ferm pe apele imensului ocean al cunoașterii, în care valurile cu puternicele lor argumente, cu elocvenţa lor torenţială ating înălţimi favorabile desfăşurării activităţilor de formare profesională, constituie o alternativă la neacceptarea gândirii limitative care te individualizează. Dar în acelaşi timp valurile se şi întorc la mal, considerând prin acesta scăderea interesului pentru performanţă şi pentru stabilirea unor noi direcţii de cercetare dedicate domeniului de competenţă.

Dintr-o infinitate de modele un spirit inovator alege, fără a nega liberul examen al faptelor şi al datelor, un anumit eşantion de analiză, de dragul unei campanii personale de illuminatio , cu iz de glorie. Şi îl împământeneşte, fără să ştie nimeni cum. Apoi, aşează în mijlocul noilor sale descoperiri o mică concentraţie de substanţă, bine definită pentru un nou produs ştiinţific. Opţional aplică o anumită selectivitate elementelor. Şi, în final, stabileşte o anumită logică pentru a furniza o funcționalitate oarecare sau un set de funcţionalităţi ce sunt, cel mai adesea, înrudite între ele.

Ce are de câştigat leadershipul din această alchimie plină de semnificaţii, din această stăpânire a materiei? Diverse accepţiuni de noţiuni variate şi delimitări de sensuri, viziuni şi mize de natura unor schimbări fundamentale, te vor ajuta să gândeşti totul într-o manieră profundă şi structurată, pe baza cărora, părtaş la decizii, poţi calcula înălţimile unei noi perspective de a înţelege lumea, viaţa, universal, în raport cu abilităţile şi cunoştinţele dobândite.

Astfel devii personajul principal al unui întreg complex de procese de transformare a materiei, care implică o bună funcţionare şi coordonare între resursele de înţelegere de care dispui şi în jurul cărora se plasează, mai mult sau mai puţin simetric, funcţiile de ordin practic.

Leadership: Poţi să realizezi o extindere a cunoaşterii spre un nivel avansat de studiere a fenomenelor subtile de transformare a materiei, folosind drept pârghie de sprijin a creaţiunii fiecare unghi al decorului natural?

Am găsit recent într-o revistă de cultură un citat aparţinând esteticianului român, Victor Ernest Masek, care zicea următoarele: " În realitate, operele mari şi viguroase sunt indestructibile şi nu numai că supravieţuiesc tuturor procedeelor de analiză, dar capătă chiar un spor de prestigiu atunci când analiza formală este judicios făcută. "

Dacă vrem să apreciem esenţa acestor cuvinte la justa lor valoare trebuie, înainte de toate, să înţelegem fenomenul supraextinderii cunoaşterii, consecinţa necesară a ceea ce trebuie să includem în planul gândirii ca să putem transforma în idei ceea ce experimentele şi observaţiile relevă în mod nemijlocit.

Contactorul şi întrerupătorul sunt cele două dispozitive extrem de utile care fac parte din circuitul tău educaţional. Primul vizează căutarea unor creații de nișă care să aducă " altfel-ul " și " profunzimea ", formele de exprimare novatoare a gândirii. Cel de-al doilea servește la întreruperea sau la restabilirea circuitului când are loc o breşă în mecanismul de implementare a propriilor elaborări.

Unealta cea mai de preţ în măsurarea "distanţei" dintre cele două dispozitive este dată de dorinţa ta de evoluţie şi de aprofundare a cunoştinţelor trebuincioase în sfera leadershipului şi a traseului profesional.

Leadershipul, ca şi alchimia, se bazează pe utilizarea extensivă a informaţiei şi a proceselor sale, dar şi pe distribuirea conţinutului informaţiei într-o nouă perspectivă de gândire pentru lumea de azi şi de mâine. Iar extinderea cunoaşterii spre un nivel avansat de studiere a fenomenelor subtile de transformare a "materiei" se realizează folosind drept pârghie de sprijin a creaţiunii fiecare unghi al decorului natural.

Priveşte în jurul tău: ce anume se poate modifica, mai întâi de toate, prin simpla observare?

Alchimia se revelează astfel: Ai răbdare până ce-ţi vine timpul să devii mai mult decât eşti. Toată lupta omului constă în a avea tăria de a ajunge în punctul în care Marea Lucrare a Universului i se dezvăluie prin rostul vieţii.

Adâncurile mişcătoare ale imensului ocean de materie desemnează acel echilibru care trebuie permanent menţinut în leadership, între voinţă şi putinţă, între Eul propriu şi mulţimea de individualităţi în continuă schimbare. Leadershipul poate fi ridicat la rang de artă numai dacă supravieţuieşte în timp propriilor creaţii.

Adâncurile sufletului

On Octombrie 15, 2010

Oamenii vor fi dispuşi să te accepte ca lider atâta timp cât te vor percepe ca un om apropiat sufletului lor.

În finalul filmului "Prince of Persia – The sands of time" , are loc un dialog între prinţesa Alamutului, Tamina, şi prinţul Persiei, Dastan, care urmau să se căsătorească pentru ca cele două naţiuni să fie strâns unite nu numai prin relaţiile de vecinătate şi de prietenie.

- Cum pot avea încredere în omul care a străpuns zidurile oraşului meu? îl întreabă prinţesa pe Dastan privindu-l cu stăruinţă, cercetându-l cu o atenţie desăvârşită, încercând parcă să-i descifreze intenţiile.

Privirea lui Dastan era calmă şi chiar strălucitoare. Privind-o adânc în ochi, cuprins de o bucurie nespusă, el îi răspunde cu acea căldură a inimii pe care n-o găseşti niciodată când o cauţi:

- Încep să cred că nu mai sunt acelaşi om care le-a străpuns.

Leadership: Experimentezi caracteristicile principale ale unui drum anevoios, şi totuşi, în final împlinitor al unui ideal nutrit cu neîntinată credinţă într-o izbândă care-ţi asigură întoarcerea la un feeling de "deja-vu" ?

În glasul lui răsuna o siguranţă, o convingere, o energie, care o puse pe gânduri pe prinţesă. Privindu-l uluită, emoţionată, Tamina exclamă cu o oarecare reţinere:

- E o perioadă cam scurtă ca un om să se schimbe într-atât.

- Poate, răspunde Dastan, care fără îndoială îşi reamintea toate întâmplările trăite alături de ea.

- Se pare că ai descoperit ceva prinţe... o nouă conştiinţă spirituală.

- Un destin, răspunde el cu vocea pe deplin liniştită.

Şi atunci a fost ca şi cum timpul s-a oprit în loc. Cuvintele lui îi aprinseră prinţesei focul din inimă. Îl privi pe Dastan cu o expresie de duioşie ce se asemăna cu dragostea, gasul inimii ei era cu desăvârşire vesel şi-i făgăduia numai bucurii şi împliniri. O seninătate aproape supraomenească părea că îi învăluia pe amândoi ca o aureolă. Sângele lor simţea aceleaşi înflăcărări.

Leadership: Inspiraţia de a împlini un destin măreţ vine din totala ta acceptare a realităţii numită "coincidenţa oppositorum" în actul regăsirii sinelui de care ai fugit tot timpul?

Unul din secretele leadershipului e că nu-i nevoie să înţelegi un lucru, ca să-l simţi. Există situaţii când oamenii simt din instinct, dar nu se pot exprima prin vorbe. Ştiu pur şi simplu.

Înţeleg îndată cum stau de fapt lucrurile. Poate raţiunea, poate conştientul dau greş, dar inima nu-i înşală niciodată.

Prinţesa Tamina nu-l măsurase decât din priviri pe prinţul Dastan, nu-i judecase faptele, dar i-a simţit firea, sufletul, după privirea lui caldă şi duioasă. Văzându-i licărirea din ochi, ea înţelesese. Fusese imediat cuprinsă de un fel de admiraţie mută şi reverenţioasă. Căci a putut să vadă până în adâncul sufletului lui, şi i-a văzut adevărata faţă, adevăratul său caracter, adevăratul său "Eu". Ea nu ar fi preţuit niciodată acea unire dacă nu ar fi "văzut" sufletul prinţului, ce îi gândea mintea şi ce simţea pentru ea.

Ca lider, trebuie să întreprinzi o călătorie: călătoria spre tine însuţi, care te va ajuta să-ţi cunoşti în amănunt personalitatea şi convingerile pe care le ai, şi să-ţi analizezi alegerile pe care le vei avea de făcut. Priveşte-te cu ochii sufletului, apoi modelează-ţi potenţialul după propriile tale convingeri, criterii şi idei. Caută să fii aşa cum te vezi. Dă glas realităţii prin intermediul a ceea ce eşti, a ceea ce gândeşti, a ceea ce simţi şi a ceea ceţi doreşti. Leadershipul se întăreşte prin dezvoltarea inteligenţei tale emoţionale.

Coincidenţa oppositorum, concept filosofic și religios care semnifică „coincidența contrariilor", se aplică în situaţia în care două persoane cu convingeri total diferite ajung, printr-o întorsătură a destinului, să împărtăşească aceleaşi experienţe, aceleaşi valori, să posede cunoştinţe asemănătoare şi să gândească prin gândurile celuilalt fiecare pas următor.

Iar a-ţi regăsi sinele de care ai fugit tot timpul este similar cu a-ţi cumpăra o hartă care te ajuta să scurtezi drumul spre destinaţia finală, chiar atunci când eşti pe punctul de a renunţa la călătoria ta.

Leadership: Exersezi aplicarea libertăţii în alternanţă când eşti pe punctul de a simţi ceva ce nu vrei să simţi?

Leadershipul este produsul contribuţiei tale la perpetuarea unei înţelegeri corecte şi clare a experienţei de a te conecta la ceilalţi oameni. Felul cum te manifeşti în ochii lor, asigurând proporţia dintre firesc şi forţat, spune ceva despre fineţea ta, despre profunzimea propriei tale realităţi - în care te vezi cu totul altcineva, oferind criterii de ordonare a elementelor disparate în climatul personal.

În sensul acesta, leadershipul nu se referă strict la viitorul plin de aspiraţii pe care îl poţi cunoaște prin puterea minții de a controla realitatea, ci la prezentul în care te găseşti ca suflet, punându-ţi amprenta asupra îmbunătățirii acelor aspecte de contrast care au un impact semnificativ asupra conştiinţei. Conştiinţa de a fi purtătorul unui destin unic - destinul propriei funcţionări în relaţie cu un nivel înalt de însemnătate.

Ceea ce te plasează într-o configuraţie mai înaltă de "iluminare" şi transformare, la nivel de conştiinţă, spre un nou aspect a cine eşti cu adevărat, este redat în chip nemijlocit de scriitoarea franceză, Marguerite Yourcenar, într-una din cărţile sale:

"Toţi exersăm aplicarea libertăţii în alternanţă: emoţiile, ideile, preocupările, trebuie să fie capabile în orice moment de întrerupere şi reluare. Certitudinea de a le putea alunga sau rechema ca pe nişte sclavi ne privează de orice tendinţă tiranică, dezlegându-ne de sentimentul oricărei constrângeri."

Tot ceea ce intră în relaţie cu personalitatea şi convingerile tale, creând ori un efect de distanţare faţă de ce incluzi uzual în sfera propriei tale măreţii, ori un efect de apropiere faţă de ceea ce îţi alimentează fericirea, se reflectă în această "libertate în alternanţă", care trebuie exersată la nivel de joc de rol.

Ea vizează aşteptările, atitudinile şi strategiile individului pentru orientarea sa într-un climat schimbător, într-un joc plin de întreruperi şi reluări, dar care îl reprezintă întotdeauna fidel propriilor gânduri şi sentimente. Iar în acest caz leadershipul poate fi considerat rezultatul unei munci grele de lucru cu sinele, însoţit de un salt în viitor, o contonare în trecut şi o revenire în prezent.

Să simţi ceva ce nu vrei să simţi înseamnă să recunoşti că este ceea ce făceai până să eşuezi nu era ceea ce îţi doreai, sau că ceea ce ţi se întâmplă este o amplificare a unor sentimente de abandon cristalizate anterior.

Foarte mulţi lideri manifestă o preocupare tot mai mare faţă de atingerea rezultatelor, punând mai puţin preţ pe latura umană. Ei caută să-i împingă pur şi simplu pe oameni în direcţia dorită, forţându-i direct sau indirect să se alinieze convingerilor şi valorilor lor proprii. Însă ei nu înţeleg că pentru a schimba oamenii trebuie să intervii în comportamentul, în mintea şi mai ales în inimile lor.

Oamenii simt cine eşti, iar dacă nu te percep ca o persoană capabilă să exprime sentimente autentice de grijă şi compasiune, ca un partener de lungă durată, ci te percep ca un stăpân, atunci nu se va crea niciodată o legătură spirituală între tine şi ei.

Aşa cum aportul de sânge spre ţesuturi depinde în primul rând de cantitatea de sânge pe care o pompează inima, adică de debitul cardiac – tot aşa atingerea unei maturităţi emoţionale, care este absolut necesară pentru stabilirea şi menţinerea pe termen îndelungat a relaţiilor cu oamenii din jur, depinde în primul rând de contribuţia pozitivă pe care leadershipul tău o are la creşterea capacităţii oamenilor de a se raporta la tine, şi de „cantitatea" de răbdare pe care trebuie să ţi-o impui pentru a descoperi valoarea lor, adevărata lor natură şi adevăratele lor trăsături.

Uneori, ca să poţi schimba ceva ce nu funcţionează în viaţa ta trebuie să conştientizezi şi să recunoşti că ceea ce experimentezi este creaţia altcuiva.

Adâncurile sufletului sunt greu de pătruns, mai ales pentru aceia care nu cunosc răspunsul la ceea ce li se întâmplă pe tot parcursul sinuos al unui destin din care nu se poate ieşi cu nici un preţ.

E foarte important pentru un lider să fie perceput de oamenii care l-au ales ca fiind un aliat al lor, un om apropiat lor, care îi va conduce aidoma unei călăuze pe căile cele mai bune. Uneori sufletul său (adevărata lui fire), nu este cunoscut decât după îndelungate colaborări, alteori poate fi doar intuit. Dar odată descoperit, comportamentul oamenilor ori va fi favorabil liderului, ori va lua o turnură nefavorabilă ceea ce va crea o prăpastie uriaşă între ei, plasându-i pe poziţii antagoniste, nocive ambelor părţi.

Cum contribuie leadershipul tău la creşterea capacităţii oamenilor de a se raporta la tine?

Idei aruncate de-a valma, fără vreo selecţie, fără început şi fără sfârşit.

Leadershipul devine tot mai neglijat în prezent. Indivizi care ocupă poziţii importante, dar care nu binevoiesc să respecte nici cele mai elementare reguli de bun simţ. Precum aceia care "plagiază" orice din munca altora. Ei nu pricep ce este "integritatea". Căci aşa cum unui orb îi lipseşte simţul observaţiei, lor le lipseşte conştiinţa sinelui, care, asemenea unei perle care se afundă în mare, îşi pierde tot mai mult din valoare şi tinde tot mai mult să nu mai însemne absolut nimic.

Iar leadershipul, care oglindeşte întâlnirea sinelui cu firea omului, îşi diminuează şansele de a beneficia de o dezvoltare armonioasă, profilându-se în straturile inferioare ale unei viziuni şi a unor manifestări bolnăvicioase, sărăcite de orice virtuţi.

Aşa cum organismele pluricelulare iau naştere dintr-o singură celulă, celula ou, tot astfel potenţialul tău de lider se va dezvolta din acea legătură singulară care se stabileşte între părţile care te definesc, garantându-ţi dreptul de a te impune în mod hotărât în procesul de schimbare a lucrurilor, a acţiunilor pe care le poţi schimba. Spre obţinerea beneficiilor şi fructificarea rezultatelor obţinute pe termen lung.

Dacă vrei să te angajezi în cursa spre desăvârşire, învaţă să gândeşti ca un lider de nivel înalt care ştie exact care sunt punctele tari şi cele slabe ale propriului Ego - care îi controlează toate simţurile, şlefuindu-i caracterul.

Când îţi cercetezi şi înţelegi propria fiinţă, propriul caracter, propriile simţăminte, simţi că ai câştigat încă o dată lupta cu tine însuţi, simţi că avansezi, că progresezi. Simţi, asemenea unui sculptor care ştie să transmită tuturor un mesaj prin însăşi operele sale, că ţii lucrurile sub control, că păstrezi o anumită stabilitate în ceea ce priveşte viaţa ta, Eul tău, în relaţie cu leadershipul.

Simţi că răspunzi cu consideraţie la orice formă de transmitere a idealurilor tale. Simţi că poţi calcula, valorifica, aşa cum un filatelist calculează valoarea oricărui timbru prin expertiză temeinică, orice formă de exercitare a autorităţii tale, orice demers pe care îl întreprinzi. Îţi linişteşti mintea, conştiinţa şi sufletul ştiind că principiile pe care ţi le-ai impus a le respecta nu sunt încălcate prin îndoială sau nepăsare.

Un leadership care se sprijină pe pilonii înalţi al înţelegerii profunzimii "Omului" îşi găseşte menirea odată cu consecinţele evoluţiei tale. Sau îşi încheie temporar sau definitiv misiunea în situaţiile în care eşti condus de ceea ce îţi dictează conştiinţa critică, nu acea raţiune pură care primează. Poţi lupta pentru conservarea şi dezvoltarea leadershipului tău numai dacă plăteşti poliţa extrem de scumpă pentru a te asigura împotriva unei deprecieri a Eu-lui tău.

Felul cum treci prin "tunelul de tranziţie", determină felul în care vei funcţiona în viitor.

Însă leadershipul nu se poate produce de la sine. Mai întâi trebuie să separi Eul de Non-Eu, adică să îmbunătăţeşti relaţia cu acea parte din tine care funcţionează normal, care ştie şi a ştiut dintotdeauna că eşti şi că poţi fi mai mult decât crezi că eşti.

Până la urmă toate eforturile tale se vor dovedi a fi în zadar, propriul tău Eu se va epuiza de la sine. Iar leadershipul tău va apune fără să strălucească, calitatea lui se va pierde în timp, fără ca nimeni să ştie că a existat vreodată.

Viitorul îţi poate rezerva cu mare probabilitate "surpriza" confirmării unui leadership ineficient, care e strâns legat de acea întregire a propriului tău fel de a fi. Numai pe măsură ce progresezi în studiul ştiinţei conducerii îţi descoperi deficienţele.

Orice rivalităţi sau controverse în hăţişul cărora, în treacăt fie zis, nu se rătăcesc numai gânditorii originali, căutători ai ideilor pure care, prin relația lor cu ştiinţă s-au pus în sprijinul inovării și reînnoirii. Ci şi novicii în learning . De aceea aceste dispute pot deveni adevărate surse de profit. Ele pot reprezenta starturile care îl rup pe viitorul performer de unitatea inteligenţei în formă asociativă, în echipă, uşurând naşterea unui nou orizont mental şi abordarea unei noi atitudini în faţa provocărilor cunoaşterii şi a realităţilor lumii interioare.

Totodată, acest start oglindeşte integral acea plăcere de a afla lucruri extraordinare, izvorâtă nu din contractul de împrumut a "substanţialităţii" materiei ştiinţifice, ci mai ales din drumul călăuzit de flacăra aventurii, a creaţiei şi inovaţiei ce arde în adâncul sufletului tău, acea aventură a orientării în lume. Numai prin simpla acceptare a unei doze consistente de muncă intelectuală individuală, prin intermediul puterii de a te elibera de dogme, de a fi original în totalitate, vei putea atinge măiestria în leadership.

În urma experienţei de navigare într-un labirint al absurdului, al cărui centru este tocmai tendinţa de a rescrie regulile leadershipului conformându-te unor standardelor non-morale, se consemnează valoarea propriului tău Ego. Un Ego care se percepe separat de realitate şi, de asemenea, se vede pe sine ca cea mai importantă parte din realitate.

În calitate de reprezentant de frunte al unui soi de pseudofilozofie, deloc potentă, care nu trezeşte decât dubii şi suspiciuni, ai puterea să te retragi într-o atitudine de ascultare şi de aşteptare, sau într-o atitudine de asprime, de tipul: "Sunt împotriva tuturor" - ce poate fi domolită numai de-un oareşicare dezinteres.

Leadership: Te înscrii în planul tendinţei de a te autonomiza în fazele realităţii pe care o explorezi?

Pe planul tendinţei de a te autonomiza şi a-ţi dezvolta mecanismele de perpetuare a superiorităţii, mi se pare valabilă - ca un ecou de trezire, tot mai pronunţat - opţiunea de a te exclude pentru o perioadă nedeterminată din ecuaţia bilanţului obligaţii-realizări. Atât de complexe pot deveni constrângerile la un moment dat, care se cer pentru investigarea diferitelor aspecte ale tranziţiei spre noi abordări (cercetate de ştiinţa de a evita atât supraestimarea, cât şi subestimarea capacităţilor de leadership), încât lucrul de unul singur apare ca imposibil. Deşi este o variabilă de bază.

Această diviziune a abilităţilor tale este benefică dacă sporeşte capacitatea ta de a gândi, de a lua decizii şi de a acţiona în diverse circumstanţe. Ea joacă un rol important, te poate ţine departe de eşec eliminând numeroase obstacole care stau în calea valorificării acelor resurse proprii care au particularitatea de a produce efecte pozitive.

Rezultatele se pot determina prin integrarea acestei poziţii de dependenţă la toate elementele "circuitului" de detectare, estimare şi ajustare a aşteptărilor celor din jur. Deşi teoretic această metodă este todeauna aplicabilă, în practică este posibil de aplicat numai în cazurile când atât forma circuitului cât şi modul tău de a performa sunt mai stricte şi mai apropiate de propria ta împlinire. De propria ta destinaţie numită "desăvârşire".

Nu toţi oamenii sunt pregătiţi pentru o schimbare de proporţii în viaţa lor, sau nu-şi doresc nicio schimbare. Doar unii, cei energici şi plini de viaţă, dedicaţi unui scop şi hotărâţi până la sacrificiu să-l atingă, acceptă schimbarea şi se grăbesc să o adopte. Însă orice proces de schimbare majoră debutează în general greu, iar cel care se străduieşte să pună bazele unei acţiuni are multe de făcut. Şi, fără niciun dubiu, va întâmpina multe greutăţi. Dar odată trecute hopurile, va putea construi şi implementa uşor acţiunile de schimbare.

În primele faze din stadiul de progres profesional, atunci când războiul de cucerire a ştiinţei leadershipului abia izbucneşte, ca o consecinţă a creării şi aplicării ideilor de cercetare fundamentală asupra saltului în conştiinţa umană, nu dispui decât de tine însuţi. Numai de ceea ce ai asupra ta, de ceea ce te înconjoară. Deci un buget limitat de cunoştinţe şi de un sistem de pârghii slab reglat care să-ţi permită eficientizarea resurselor umane.

Iar această mulţime este formată din alţi lideri, tot mai numeroşi, din tot mai mulţi "intruşi într-un spaţiu al gândirii foarte îngust" - cocoţaţi în funcţii nemeritate, dar care la fel ca produsele de top se vând în cantităţi mici, până ce se devalorizează în întregime şi nu-i mai doreşte nimeni.

Iar în aceste limite, greu de depăşit, bazate pe raţiune, se ciocnesc nişte atomi generând energie. Ele se închid, creând un spaţiu vid, chiar atunci când eşti pe cale să-ţi descoperi valorile şi resursele personale cele mai de preţ.

Mai mult decât atât, calculând şi sintetizând informaţia necesară identificării unei noi versiuni a realităţii din haosul subiectiv de impresii nelimitate care, devenind reprezentări, contribuie la îmbogăţirea cunoştinţelor despre lume şi viaţă, practic îţi măreşti capacitatea de înţelegere a unor structuri de relaţii şi de a trage concluzii despre aceste structuri.

Puntea care face legătura cu marea putere a ştiinţei, luând în considerare probabilitatea de manifestare a autenticităţii ca o combinaţie constituită întâmplător dintr-un realism împins la extrem şi din claritatea de înțelegere în jurul evenimentelor și contextului lor, este străbătută permanent de impulsul stringent de a te îndrepta acolo unde nu ai fost niciodată.

Idei aruncate de-a valma, fără vreo selecţie, fără început şi fără sfârşit.

Cele mai hazlii sunt reclamele alea la TV, când apare câte un individ (doctor, profesor, artist, etc.) şi spune: "Am studiat în străinătate x-x ani". De parcă asta îl face mai bun la ceva…

Dacă eşti atât de studios şi plin de merite, mai bine spune-ne cum ai contribuit la dezvoltarea ştiinţei pe care o reprezinţi !

Ai mişcat din loc vreun munte, ai făcut vreo descoperire colosală, ai construit o gândire nouă, ai intrat în Guinness Book, ceva de genul acesta?

Dacă n-ai reuşit să duci ştiinţa cu un pas mai departe, îţi sugerez să pleci din nou în străinătate şi să studiezi în continuare !

Încă eşti la nivel de: "mai am multe de învăţat ! "

E o cale lungă până să ajungi la nivelul: "pot să inventez şi să schimb".

Ceea ce contribuie la întregirea leadershipului este acea categorică lămurire a esenţei fiinţei tale, urmată de finisarea ei în timp, cu grija şi fineţea cea mai rafinată. Această autocunoaştere, sprijinită pe un ideal ales, va contribui la declanşarea unor acţiuni constructive, la alinierea sistemului tău de valori.

Acel mesaj care contează

Ce am învăţat azi se poate rezuma astfel: oamenii sunt tentaţi să amâne lucrul cel mai important cu o oră. Dar acea oră este exact cea care contează. Odată ce-o pierzi, toată ziua e pierdută.

Aşa că oamenii aşteaptă următoarea zi, şi din nou pierd aceeaşi oră importantă, sperând s-o înlocuiască cu altă oră, dar care nu mai e cea care contează.

Şi pentru că au pierdut acea oră ei importantă sunt pedepsiţi să piardă o zi. Şi acea oră, şi acea zi se repetă şi se pierde mereu, transformându-se în săptămâni, luni, ani, o viaţă.

Pentru că totdeauna au amânat lucrul cel mai important cu exact acea singură oră care contează.

Acum închipuie-ţi că Ea şi Eu am pierdut 5-6 ani fiindcă Ea nu a putut să-mi trimită nici măcar un mesaj.

Exact acel mesaj care contează.

Un jurnalist l-a întrebat pe directorul general al companiei "La Fântâna" (liderul pieţei din România pe segmentul distribuţiei şi îmbutelierii de apă naturală) de ce a ales să îşi extindă serviciile în alte ţări, când piaţa locală părea să fie un loc pentru toată lumea. El a răspuns: "Mai mult decât dinamica pe care o avem acum pe plan local, nu cred că este sănătos să ai. Trebuie să creşti într-un anumit ritm, altfel pierzi controlul."

Impune-ţi mereu un anumit ritm de conducere şi profită de ceea ce ai obţinut înainte de a vrea sa obţii mai mult. Ritmul pe care îl impui leadershipului tău, determină valoarea şi calităţile tale.

Inima este organul propulsor al sângelui, determinându-l să circule în sens unic. Ea se contractă (bate) şi pompează sânge în întreg organismul.

În momentul în care atriile (cele două camerele de primire a sângelui) încetează să bată regulat şi încep să se contracte într-un mod dezorganizat, se formează acea fibrilaţie atrială (cea mai comună tulburare de ritm a inimii), care favorizează formarea de cheaguri de sânge care ajungând în creier pot provoca accidente vasculare cerebrale, paralizii şi chiar moartea.

În leadership lucrurile cam stau la fel. Dacă ritmul leadershipul tău este neregulat, mai devreme sau mai târziu îţi vei pierde interesul şi motivaţia, îţi vei pierde elanul. În loc să continui să lupţi pentru atingerea scopurilor propuse, te vei bloca pe un anume făgaş care va avea un efect negativ asupra succesului tău. În loc să continui bătălia cu problemele din viaţa profesională, vei înceta să te mai implici. Şi astfel vei înceta să exişti în sufletul oamenilor. Vei da faliment !

Este binecunoscut faptul că chirurgii cei mai buni îşi pot salva pacienţii fiindcă s-au specializat pe un anumit tip de operaţie, pe care o pot efectua mai bine decât oricine altcineva. Şi tu trebuie să te bucuri de acest gen de reputaţie, păstrând ritmul leadershipului tău la un nivel acceptat de cei din jurul tău.

Configurează-ţi arta, cu grijă, plin de atenţie şi pricepere, astfel încât să generezi o nouă stare de spirit, o stare de mulţumire sufletească.

La fel cum un sculptor ştie să elimine asperităţile pietrei şi imperfecţiunile ei, realizând o lucrare de calitate - ce are un efect uriaş asupra tuturor celor care o privesc, tot aşa şi tu, ca lider, trebuie să elimini imperfecţiunile artei tale, aliniind-o la un anume standard care să fie îndrăgit de toată lumea. Deci, configurează-ţi leadershipul la mare artă astfel încât el să trezească o puternică şi intensă stare pasională în rândul celorlalţi oameni.

Dacă leadershipul tău nu generează în oameni acea mobilitate care să-i conducă către acţiuni productive, care să-i determine să aspire şi să-şi stabilească idealuri cât mai înalte – de exemplu de a deveni la fel de buni ca tine în domeniu – înseamnă că nu le-ai dat o bună şi serioasă pregătire. Iar în acest caz trebuie să te gândeşti cu seriozitate la verificarea cunoştinţelor tale profesionale şi a abilităţilor de conducere.

Să fii cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu înseamnă să conştientizezi faptul că tu evoluezi rapid spre desăvârşire, în timp ce alţii rămân în urma ta cu prea mulţi ani ca să mai poţi să-i numeri.

Şi dacă s-ar aduna cele mai luminate spirite într-un minunat brainstorming, fii conştient că toţi la un loc n-ar face nici măcar 1% din ce-ai făcut tu şi toţi la un loc n-ar ajunge să se apropie de talentul tău nici peste 1000 de ani.

Un singur om face mai mult decât restul lumii. Luaţi ca exemplu Freddie Mercury. Dacă s-ar aduna toţi cântăreţii din lume, credeţi că toţi la un loc vor putea vreodata să compună un "The show must go on" versiunea 2.0 ?

Trebuie să fii întotdeauna conştient de unicitatea şi valoarea ta !

Dacă România nu ar fi avut câțiva oameni valoroşi care să ducă peste hotare niste aptitudini alese sau o cunoaştere unică, probabil ar fi fost demult cucerită.

Prin urmare, aş încuraja pe cei unici şi cu adevărat talentaţi să se afirme cât mai mult în toată lumea ! Ei sunt singura speranţă de trăinicie a acestei ţări !

Politicienii pot oricând să fie cumpăraţi sau şantajaţi, dar imaginea ţării în întreaga lume o dovedeşte doar o minoritate care decide atunci când majoritatea nu are o variantă mai bună !

Problema cea mare a personajelor devenite peste noapte "mari vedete" este că s-au grăbit să se afirme, dar fără să-l lase pe Dumnezeu să le şlefuiască talentul până la perfecţiune.

Una este să cânţi din "durerea" unei tendinţe generale, cu totul altceva este să ştii să faci artă ... chiar şi dintr-un bob de nisip !

Perfecţiunea este geometria secretă a formei şi a fondului, în niciun caz o culoare aruncată la întâmplare.

Începutul unui mare eşec este să apari prea devreme în lumina reflectoarelor. Faptul că ai o sclipire de moment, nu înseamnă că eşti un geniu, e doar o încurajare de a porni în căutarea unei lumi noi şi pure.

Atât de puţini sunt îndeajuns de hotărâţi şi protejaţi de providenţă ca s-o descopere.

Devin necesare în acest sens anumite eforturi de străpungere a aparenţelor, de clarificare a poziţiei sale faţă de tendinţele "umbrei" de a-i minimaliza valoarea. Deci o mai bună înțelegere cu privire la situația cu care se confruntă. Iar rezultatele vor fi pe măsura riscurilor asumate de îndepărtare a "umbrei" care îl ţine captiv în perimetrul degradării şi regresului.

Uneori este necesară deplasarea în anumite condiţii spre trecut, respectând o anumită distanţă faţă de "umbra" ta, care încearcă totul şi vrea să te depăşească prin dimensiune, printr-un cumul de puncte slabe care să te distanţeze de valoarea ta, de cine eşti tu cu adevărat. Această umbră nu este altceva decât dublura ta ascunsă, partea inacceptabilă din tine însuti, porţiunea de spaţiu întunecoasă în care eşti prins, între aspiraţii şi realizare, care te împiedică să evoluezi.

Limitările tale, alunecarea spre marginile propriei tale individualităţi întâmpină o singură forţă de opunere atunci când te hotărăşti să evadezi din infernul torentului de zgomote din întunericul minţii. Această forţă te ajută să-ţi întăreşti controlul asupra capacităţilor tale ascunse. Să se îndepărtezi de zona zero a neliniştii, să scapi de pedeapsa dureroasă a păcatului de a te supune propriei tale firi esenţiale, sensibile şi neputincioase.

Conţinutul ambiguu al percepţiei despre sine, al omului necondiţionat de nicio regulă, al omului străbătut de gândirea - trăită intuitiv pe de o parte, atractiv şi facil pe de alta, măreşte în bună măsură abilităţile de leadership. Asta numai dacă în contextul unei crize sau a unei dezvoltări durabile, omul manifestă o bună parte din personalitatea sa flexibilă, asumându-şi provocarea de a reduce la zero orice tentativă de discreditare proprie. Adică pierderi la nivel de imagine.

Idei aruncate de-a valma, fără vreo selecţie, fără început şi fără sfârşit.

Un manager trebuie să-şi cunoască compania la fel de bine cum îşi cunoaşte grădinarul gradina. De fapt, este şi o chestiune de bun simţ. Nu poţi menţine compania la un nivel de performanţă ridicat dacă nu-ţi cunoşti îndeajuns de bine angajaţii şi practicile pe care aceştia le utilizează. Dezvoltarea şi îmbunătăţirea relaţiei cu toţi angajaţii din companie este primul şi cel mai important pas care trebuie să-l facă un manager.

Ce fel de „îngrăşământ" şi ce concentraţie foloseşti pentru a-i menţine pe oameni activi? Relaţia ta cu ei se înnoieşte, se maturizează în contact cu tipul tău de personalitate? Dezvoltarea companiei se petrece sub semnul transformării lor? Ei s-au dezvoltat sub înrâurirea binefăcătoare a exemplului şi îndrumărilor tale? Cât de bine îţi cunoşti grădina şi cum o îngrijeşti?

La fel cum un grădinar iscusit ştie fiecare plantă în parte din grădina lui, tot aşa şi managerul trebuie să-şi cunoască foarte bine tot personalul; să ştie să evalueze nivelul lor profesional şi să dezvolte competenţele acestora. Abilitatea de a se apropia de toţi angajaţii, de a le înţelege şi satisface nevoile şi de a-i îndruma în direcţia cea mai potrivită îl face pe manager mai mult decât un şef, îl face un lider.

Leadership: Te implici cu tot sufletul în dezvoltarea "bazei" umane?

Un manager conduce pe baza a ceea ce face, nu pe baza a ceea ce spune. Dacă angajaţii constată la manager lipsa unor cunoştinţe minime sau chiar o lipsă de profesionalism din partea lui, atunci ei nu se vor mai implica în dezvoltarea organizaţiei sau în îmbunătăţirea continuă a activităţii lor. Dar, în acest caz, se naşte şi întrebarea: cum a ajuns manager un individ fără cunoştinţe temeinice?

Pentru ca eficienţa obţinută de un colectiv să fie maximă este necesar ca managerul să urmărească buna funcţionare a activităţii organizaţiei.

Aşa cum un grădinar vizualizează în sământă copacul pe deplin dezvoltat, aşa şi tu trebuie să vezi în oameni viitorul succes al companiei tale. Iată de ce preocuparea consecventă şi adâncită pentru fiecare din etapele hotărâtoare ale procesului de selecţie şi recrutare este atât de necesară. Trebuie să ţii cont de însuşirile lor cele mai bune precum şi de necesitatea valorificării şi îmbogăţirii orizonturilor lor în lumina unei evoluţii care să îmbine eficienţa cu dinamismul, precizia şi ingeniozitatea – dacă vrei ca leadershipul tău să înflorească.

Nu voi mai lungi vorba inutil. Voi adăuga doar atât. Nu pot să ştiu cu certitudine dacă eşti un grădinar iscusit, la fel cum nu ştiu dacă eşti un manager talentat. Nu ştiu dacă îţi preţuieşti angajaţii la fel de mult cum îşi iubeşte un grădinar plantele din grădină. Tot ceea ce ştiu este că, dacă doreşti să fii un manager iscusit trebuie să respecţi resursele umane şi să te implici cu tot sufletul în dezvoltarea "bazei" umane, căci de ea depinde în cea mai mare măsură progresul şi evoluţia unei organizaţii.

Ţine cont de însuşirile cele mai bune ale oamenilor, clădindu-le orizonturile în lumina unei evoluţii cât mai naturale şi mai sănătoase.

Concepţia oamenilor despre tine este susţinută de măsura în care cred că ai putea să luminezi într-un fel sau altul situaţia lor. Te vor ignora şi te vor neglija, şi vor considera leadershipul tău drept unul neinteresant dacă nu vor regăsi în tine acea lumină dătătoare de speranţă. Impactul tău asupra lor va fi cu atât mai mare cu cât interesul lor asupra leadershipului tău va creşte, cu cât se vor raporta mai bine la ideile tale, la modul în care îţi exprimi concepţia privitoare la rolul tău şi la menirea artei tale de a-i conduce.

Dacă România nu ar fi avut câțiva oameni valoroşi care să ducă peste hotare niste aptitudini alese sau o cunoaştere unică, probabil ar fi fost demult cucerită.

Prin urmare, aş încuraja pe cei unici şi cu adevărat talentaţi să se afirme cât mai mult în toată lumea ! Ei sunt singura speranţă de trăinicie a acestei ţări !

Politicienii pot oricând să fie cumpăraţi sau şantajaţi, dar imaginea ţării în întreaga lume o dovedeşte doar o minoritate care decide atunci când majoritatea nu are o variantă mai bună !

Leadershipul tău se situează la o altitudine minimă sau maximă?

Ca să-ţi evaluezi progresul în relaţia cu oamenii trebuie să-ţi supui leadershipul unei analize. Această analiză trebuie să aibă în vedere câteva aspecte deosebit de importante, şi anume: altitudinea maximă şi minimă la care leadershipul tău poate garanta funcţionarea la parametri optimi, precum şi gradul de extensiune al diferitelor sale trepte de dezvoltare.

Altitudinea minimă joacă rolul nivelului de bază la care operează leadershipul tău, şi care controlează procesele de eroziune care pot distruge o porţiune importantă din aria ta de performanţă. Iar altitudinea maximă este acea parte calculată din evoluţia ta care poate să-ţi asigure o maximă eficienţă.

Se ştie că vitamina D este esenţială pentru funcţionarea la parametri optimi a sistemului imunitar - cel care susţine sănătatea întregului organism. Însă numai în prezenţa luminii solare este ea sintetizată.

Tot astfel componentul necesar creşterii potenţialului tău depinde de funcţionarea la parametri optimi ai leadershipului tău. Însă acest component esenţial, investit cu grijă în „motorul" excelenţei tale, poate fi sintetizat numai prin angrenarea unor elemente de bază, cum ar fi: profesionalismul, calitatea serviciilor, pasiunea, responsabilitatea asumată sau etica. Acest „component" este reputaţia ta, iar aceasta determină altitudinea leadershipului tău.

Identificarea unor programe de training care să ducă la dezvoltarea profesională a personalului este de cele mai multe ori soluţia optimă. În urma acestor traininguri angajaţii vor înţelege mai bine ce se cere de la ei şi cu această ocazie îşi vor dezvolta nivelul de cunoştinţe şi abilităţi tehnice necesare realizării obiectivelor profesionale. În consecinţă, pentru ca angajaţii să lucreze la potenţialul maxim, ei trebuie să-şi dezvolte aptitudinile profesionale.

Aceşti adversari redutabili, strâns legaţi de un raţionament subdezvoltat, dificil de susţinut, şi de o putere scăzută de înţelegere a lucrurilor, ca nişte adevărate ţinte în continuă funcţionare, dar fără a genera vreun profit intelectual particular, orientează individul într-o direcţie care nu oferă posibilitatea de a face "Refill". Şi astfel, stimulii de dezvoltare intelectuală îşi vor arăta limitele, împiedicând orice pătrundere în spaţiul privat al marii ştiinţe care pulsează și se schimbă neîncetat.

Dacă vom reuşi să demonstrăm celorlalţi oameni că suntem capabili să-i ghidăm cu înţelepciune spre succesul în carieră, dacă le vom reda speranţa în ziua de mâine, abia atunci vom putea considera că avem aptitudinile necesare pentru a reuşi în domeniul conducerii.

Mentenanţa este un termen generic pentru o varietate de operaţiuni iniţiate când are loc evenimentul neprevăzut. Ea creează o cădere nedorită şi prelungită a sistemului de valori, convingeri, motivaţii, atitudini, experienţă de viaţă, amplificând sentimentul unei nedreptăţi.

A bloca jucătorii puternici să se conecteze la sistemul tău de siguranţă în timpul unei mentenanţe este sinonim cu a accede la o experienţă vizionară fără a-ţi seta parametrii de risc pe o anumită o zonă de refugiu. Înseamnă să-ţi pierzi din motivaţia de a acţiona în necunoscut.

Leadership: Apelezi la procesele de producere a informaţiei, trebuincioase în contextul reprezentării unor proiecţii subiective a Putem distinge în cursul etapelor de creaţie, două procese de producere a informaţiei trebuincioase în contextul reprezentării unor proiecţii subiective, unor idei care dau conţinut abordărilor care susţin alte realităţi.

Un proces urmăreşte creşterea subiectivă a competenţei specifice autopercepute, prin care treci la nivelul superior de asumare a închipuirii. De unde posibilitatea de te impune mai mult, prin explorarea directă a realităţii subiective.

Al doilea proces domină faza concepţională a producţiei de reprezentări ale sinelui în raport cu neştiutul, bizarul, cu o realitate greu acceptabilă, în care se conturează - renunţând la probleme de detaliu - proiectul operei pe care vrei s-o creezi. Practic, oferi o nouă îndrumare creaţiei, sporind informaţiile ca măsură a dezordinii, a surprizei şi a improbabilităţii. Acestea produc inovaţie şi originalitate în realizarea leadershipului prin configurarea individuală a unui proces de gândire aparte, a unui traseu care nu a mai existat.

Subiectivitatea este cea care, în urma prelucrării şi evaluării realităţii externe sau interne, atribuie unora din componentele acesteia statutul de sumă a multiplelor forme de manifestare a existentului, delimitând şi legând trecutul perimat de viitorul existent, ca posibilitate de valorificare personală.

Idei aruncate de-a valma, fără vreo selecţie, fără început şi fără sfârşit.

Ştiinţa provoacă o adevărată debandadă în mintea ta? Ai ajuns să regreţi fiecare moment care te ţine departe de tine însuţi? Psihicul tău poate să susţină greutatea aşteptărilor pe care le generezi tot timpul? Dorinţa arzătoare de a evada din rutină, dorinţa de schimbare absolută devine de nepreţuit?

O parte a "veniturilor" precise, exacte, pe care le realizezi din leadership pot fi depăşite substanţial de "cheltuieli" ca urmare a faptului că poziţia ta faţă de tine şi faţă de ideea de schimbare se construieşte pe o premisă de care nu eşti sigur.

Veniturile, care pot fi limitate în anumite circumstanţe, depind în mare măsură de eforturile investite în studiul acelor avalanşe de idei şi revelaţii care se pot concretiza în rezultate deosebite. În timp ce cheltuielile sunt întreaga osatură a unei bune cunoaşteri şi a unei orientări adecvate în mediul încercărilor cu care te confrunţi de-a lungul unei îndelungate perioade de autoevaluare. Cu cât veniturile sunt mai mari, cu atât "restul" care îţi rămâne după plata acestor cheltuieli de bază este mai mare.

Frumuseţea artei de a conduce este totdeauna dată de apropierea de viaţă. De aceea liderii cei mai buni sunt constant "reînviaţi" de forţa creaţiei autentice într-un timp care le oferă oportunitatea profundă şi unică de a primi, de a încorpora şi integra o nouă relaţie suverană cu tot ceea ce înseamnă viaţă. Ei sunt întotdeauna interesaţi de consolidarea stabilităţii pe plan intern, aprobând întotdeauna "cererea" de întrerupere a funcţionalităţii lor atunci când fluxurile de inspiraţie se schimbă sau se adună.

Astfel este aprobată victoria asupra viciilor de ordin fizic, psihic şi cognitiv, aducând fără teama de a depăşi limitele admise de propria lor autoritate, o nouă şi binevenită culoare vieţii. Dorinţa arzătoare de a evada din rutină, dorinţa de schimbare absolută nu este o extremă, ci o unealtă de nepreţuit. Nimeni nu poate să avanseze pe plan personal dacă se învârte în cercul unei dezvoltări continue.

Ar trebui să căutăm în măruntaiele acestui munte viu, ce se numeşte om, studiat sub lupa enormă a unei lucidităţi fără defecte, deci de pe poziţiile unei rigori a gândirii. Şi să smulgem o dezvăluire bine fundamentată care să nu provoace răni sau sentiment. Atunci l-am putea considera un învins sau un învingător.

Drumul spre cunoaşterea absolută este închis atunci când omul intră în atmosfera unei realităţi psihologice impuse sau autoimpuse. Ca să reţinem câteva din trăsăturile leadershipului în viitor, pe care le putem întrezări prin perspectiva deschisă a naturii umane ce simte nevoia de a exprima îndoieli, dictând evoluţia unui joc de nepotriviri, constând în construirea de noi trăiri şi emoţii, mai întâi trebuie să asigurăm materialul necesar elaborării alternativelor pe care omul trebuie să le exploreze.

Acest material, caracteristic felului de "a fi" al omului, poate avea vicii ascunse, puncte de minimă rezistenţă, cedând sub presiunea unor forţe externe. În funcţie de nivelul de forţă emoţională şi psihică pe care îl are, când se doreşte o modificare a realităţii trăite intens, el poate participa cu toată fiinţa la un proces de transformare, pozitiv sau negativ. Cu precădere atunci când adaosul de stimuli duri şi imprecişi, greu de finisat în condiţii de "înaltă presiune", nu asigură funcţionarea optimă.

Dincolo de bariera leadershipului de azi, dincolo de bariera construită de mintea umană aflată sub controlul emoţiilor, rămâne un teren absolut necunoscut care seamănă însă atât de mult cu o cărare pe care nu s-a păşit niciodată. Alternativa la o oprire de moment, o şovăire din care de abia cu sforţări se poate smulge omul care nu este capabil să exercite controlul corespunzător asupra propriilor frontiere.

Cine oare îndrăzneşte să se avânte dincolo de propriile frontiere, în condiţiile în care asupra lui se răsfrâng toată acele oscilaţii bruşte de indispoziţie şi dificultăţi de concentrare, cu efect distructiv? În condiţiile în care toate acele manifestări de personalitate, naturalul şi artificialul, sunt închise în adevărul deranjant al realităţii?

Leadershipul este un model de gândire extensibil care se va axa tot mai mult pe ideea de a fi complet chiar şi în afara spaţiului de raţionalitate admis de propria ta conştiinţă şi de propria ta obiectivitate. Completul este o entitate de sine, un soi de trăsătură unică care te caracterizează, ceva ce trebuie pus pe primul loc şi pe care mulţi nu vor reuşi să-l depisteze şi să-l stăpânească.

Asta presupune să susţii posibilitatea unei fuziuni temporale între odinioară, acum şi cândva, chiar dacă asta poate însemna să nu cazi de acord cu ceea ce îţi cere o altă variantă a ta, un Alter Ego.

În acest moment, când eşti prins în ghearele unui torent nou de cunoaştere, aflat în afara conştiinţei celorlalţi oameni, nu mai eşti doar un creier care coordonează raţional căutările spre un început de o mare amploare, ci mai degrabă un robot programat să îşi execute zilnic misiunea pentru care este proiectat: să se supună unor ordine superioare, venite din partea unei instanţe superioare de judecată.

Cum îţi atingi limitele constructive? Cu riscul apariţiei unei "hipertensiuni" în modul tău de a aborda procesul de evoluţie, care netratată poate eroda ireversibil potenţialul tău de creştere?

Culmile gloriei se ating greu după mulţi ani de muncă bine dozată, făcând sacrificii conştient acceptate. Este o investiţie pe termen lung pe care ar trebui s-o ia in considerare fiecare dintre noi pentru a putea face lucrurile normale extraordinar de bine, canalizându-ne energiile în direcţia potrivită spre atingerea excelenţei.

Un citat pe care l-am găsit întâmplător pe internet, şi pe care probabil mulţi guru ai timpului prezent îl scot din desaga plină cu secrete atunci când vor să capteze atenţia publicului pe la întâlniri şi sesiuni de traininguri, suna cam aşa: "Depăşiţi-vă aşteptările. Nu sunteţi motivaţi să faceţi lucruri extraordinare, ci să faceţi lucruri normale extraordinar de bine."

Tot felul de experţi din diferite domenii sunt bucuroşi să-ţi explice de ce stabilirea nivelului de aşteptări este inevitabilă, la fel de importantă ca şi procesul derulat ulterior, atunci când începi să-ţi stabileşti obiectivele.

Dar ei uită sau nu iau în considerare efectele eforturilor necorespunzător dozate, fiindcă nu s-au izbit de acea limită de suportabilitate pe care nu o poate trece nimeni decât cu un singur preţ: o scădere a capacităţii de înţelegere a lucrurilor şi de răspuns adecvat.

Mai devreme sau mai târziu, aceasta depăşire de sine, grabnică, hotărâtoare, va ieşi din matcă şi va inunda capacitatea de înţelegere a lucrurilor, de asimilare a noilor cunoştinţe utile performanţei.

E o chestiune particulară de trend, de interes sau cumva de supravieţuire, care mă îndurerează. Un soi alterare a factorilor de stimulare a înnoirii, deconectarea de la dispozitivul de control intern, o maladie incurabilă căreia uneori din neştiinţă sau din grabă, suntem tentaţi să-i picăm pradă. Lupta continuă dintre două regimente, unul care vrea să obţină o poziţie de superioritate, dar nu poate păstra cuceririle, şi unul al cărui avanpost se afla în apropierea făgaşului măsurii, al echilibrului şi normalităţii.

Într-un asemenea context, propun să testăm o cale alternativă. O constatare. Şi anume, constatarea conform căreia conflictul dintre cele două regimente joacă un rol vital, menţinându-ne într-un ritm alert conţinu; punându-ne faţă în faţă cu noi înşine, cu capacitatea noastră de dezvoltare, prin educarea mobilităţii şi voinţei de a urma căile progresului.

Acum ea este din nou liberă să se manifeste după dorinţele ei, din nou pe val, din nou disponibilă să-şi aducă aportul la întărirea relaţiilor dintre interior şi exterior.

Aşadar, pentru înţelegerea mai bună a propriilor tale limite şi dezvoltarea acelui sentiment de depăşire a fiinţei, urmăreşte implicaţiile pe care le presupune o detaşare de configuraţia unică a personalităţii tale. Mai exact a acelei părţi care se referă la percepţie, afectivitate şi gândire. Acest lucru impune o coerenţă a acţiunilor de prevenire şi control ale unei eventuale "alunecări" spre extrem.

O „paralizie" care se profilează într-un moment decisiv al vieţii, poate avea ca efect întârzierea sau chiar anularea upgrade-ul de configuraţie lăuntrică menit să îmbunătăţească nivelul cunoaşterii de sine.

Leadershipul este o continuare a experienţei live în care eşti prins şi în care te priveşti ca într-o oglindă. Deseori, ca să părăseşti "zona de turbulenţe" care îţi împiedică dezvoltarea, printr-o urmărire consecventă a consecinţelor, ducând la bun sfârşit lupta cu tine însuţi, trebuie să explorezi într-o mai mare măsură aspectele comune ale experienţei de viaţă şi a implicaţiilor sale, la graniţa dintre " a fi " şi " a nu fi ".

Să tratezi știința în aceleași fel în care pisica se joacă cu motoceii. Acesta este tot secretul.

Liniștea și inspirația o găsești numai în mijlocul naturii. Fiecare fir de iarbă îți spune mereu altceva. Nu încerca să numeri. Doar ascultă. Şi priveşte.

Când cineva pleacă departe de tine, urează-i din toată inima Bon Voyage.

Unii confundă biserica cu Dumnezeu, la fel cum confundă toceala cu Marea Știință.

Arată-mi un om care a schimbat şi inovat domeniul ştiinţei, şi îţi voi arăta un om care l-a cunoscut pe Dumnezeu.

Marea Știință este doar pentru cei care s-au dedicat întru totul Creației.

Să știi să vezi...iar dacă nu reușești, va vedea altcineva pentru tine exact la momentul potrivit.

Talentul: Ceea ce altora li se pare atât de greu de făcut, ţie trebuie să-ţi fie atât de uşor, dar atât de uşor de făcut.

Să tratezi știința în aceleași fel în care pisica se joacă cu motoceii. Acesta este tot secretul.

Când îţi place cu adevărat o melodie, dar atât de mult...şi vocea, şi versurile, mai ales ritmul de mare fineţe, nu-ţi mai rămâne decât s-o experimentezi sub altă formă de artă, ca şi când ai face tu parte din ea.

Cei făcuţi pentru a îmbrăţişa tainele Marii Ştiinţe oferă permanent ceva nou prin însăşi "producţia" lor creativă.

Cine vrea puțin de la viață își orientează demersurile spre țintele cele mai sărace.

Omul care se gândeşte numai la bani nu va fi niciodată un Creator. Creaţia este o călătorie în valea răbdării, care are ca şi corespondent un citat din biblie: "Lasă totul şi urmează-Mă pe Mine ! "

Dublează-ți continuu valoarea în funcție de rezultatele talentului tău. Un om valoros este un talent cu mare putere de exprimare.

Nu poţi fi un actor excelent dacă îţi lipseşte vraja... Te rog, interpretează tu rolurile mici, mie lasă-mi-le pe cele mari.

Cea mai măreaţă putere a creaţiei este să fii tu însuţi expresia desăvârşirii ei.

Ca să vezi totul de la înălțime fii dispus să urci mai multe trepte de impreviziblitate decât ești pregătit să întâmpini.

Poţi gândi ca un angajat sau ca un lider. Depinde cât de sus vrei să-ţi exprimi unicitatea şi cât de puternică este voinţa ta.

Muzica este acea parte a sufletului care îţi întinereşte mintea.

Un om cu adevărat talentat este un om de neîntrecut în lume. Și el știe bine acest lucru: "N-am învățat nimic de la niciun profesor. Tot ce știu am învățat numai de la mine.

Dacă ai un talent și te ții de el, totul este atât de ușor. Mai mult decât ușor. Dacă nu ai niciun talent, închipuieşte-ți cât este de greu să te apuci de ceva.

Celui ce i s-a dat știința, i s-a dat și capacitatea de a genera schimbarea.

Numai cineva din afara sistemului va reuși să schimbe sistemul.

Ori de câte ori faci un pas înainte spre culmile Marii Științe, amintește-ți că cei mai mulți rămân cu o sută de pași în urmă. Iar dacă faci în fiecare zi un pas înainte, vei realiza la sfârșitul anului cât de în urmă au rămas ceilalți față de tine.

Omul care are un talent, îl are oriunde. Omul care nu are niciun talent, nu-l are nicăieri. Astfel, omul care are un talent nu are nevoie de studii în străinătate pentru a deveni excelent. Iar cine pleacă în străinătate ca să studieze, se va întoarce la fel cum a plecat: fără talent în nicio direcție. Tot ce ai nevoie pentru a-ți descoperi talentul se află chiar în preajma ta. Dar acest lucru nu-l vor afla niciodată cei cu studii în străinătate. Cum pleacă, așa se întorc.

Dacă ochiul știe să vadă, atunci mintea poate să lucreze. Mai ales în vacanță, când ești relaxat, atunci mintea lucrează cel mai bine, fiindcă ochiul nu se mai străduiește să observe, ci admiră cu adevărat.

Numai cel care reușește să ducă o știință la un alt nivel poate spune că a beneficiat de sprijinul universului în fiecare etapă a "căutărilor" sale.

Oare cine este mai deschis și mai înclinat spre progres: acela care aduce constant noutăți într-un domeniu, sau acela care nu are nimic, nimic, nimic de arătat lumii? Judecați singuri.

Adevărul așteaptă. Numai minciuna se grăbeşte.

Cine nu știe să vadă, nu va putea nici să priceapă.

N-ai să strălucești niciodată ca o stea dacă cobori până la rădăcina firului de iarbă. Atât de mulți oameni coboară, atât de puțini se înalţă.

Nu există decât infinitul. Și câțiva îngeri deghizați în oameni.

Până la sfârșitul anului se vor schimbă atât de multe în sfera științei. Unii vor fi cu un pas înaintea tuturor. Își vor intensifica eforturile pentru a inova în sfera științei, oferind constant noi perspective, noi abordări, noi creații. La alții nu se va vedea nimic. Nimic, nimic, nimic. Absolut nimic. The nothing is everywhere..but you don't have to be nothing.

Oricât de importanți se consideră unii, internetul va arăta în Lumea Nouă, cât de mici și neînsemnaţi sunt. A apus vremea falșilor învățători, vlăstarele cele rele" care au ținut în loc lumea cu neștiința lor. Datorită internetului, toată atenția lumii se va îndrepta spre cei cu adevărat înzestrați intelectual și spiritual, adevărații deschizători de drumuri.

Unii înaintează constant spre un nou început, alţii sunt mult prea în urmă ca să aibă vreun început. De fapt, unii sunt prea în urmă ca să-şi dea seama c-au rămas în urmă. Majoritatea celor rămaşi în urmă nu lasă nicio urmă, pe când cei fruntaşi lasă constant urme care deschid noi orizonturi.

Numai cine face o schimbare majoră într-o ştiinţă poate spune că a făcut o schimbare majoră în lume. Forţa de creaţie este arta de a cuceri ştiinţa, înainte de a finaliza transformarea ei într-un sistem complex.

Dacă ești AS într-un domeniu, ceea ce este greu de făcut devine extraordinar de ușor. Dacă ești slab pregătit, ceea ce este simplu de făcut devine extraordinar de greu.

Prinți și prințișori. Cum vin, așa pleacă toți. Nu se vede nimic în urma lor. Nimic, nimic, nimic...

Progresul este truda omului care îşi face cunoscută ştiinţa. Omul care nu îşi prezintă inovaţiile în faţa lumii, nu are capacitatea şi ştiinţa de a asigura progresul.

Nenumărate schimbări vor avea loc în domeniile ştiinţei şi tehnologiei. Iar unii vor fi vârf de lance în exact cele mai importante direcţii de dezvoltare ale ştiinţei.

Tot mai mulţi candidează la funcţii înalte, dar prea puţini nu au iniţiativa să-şi construiască un blog ca să arate lumii ce anume spune ştiinţa lor. Toţi iubesc funcţiile înalte, dar foarte puţini au ceva de arătat.

Lumea este a celor treji care acţionează şi îşi extrag din ei înşişi propriile puteri. Exact cum ar extrage aur din adâncul unei mine. (Erika Nachez)

Aţi văzut filmul "Ran" al lui Akira Kurosawa? În el se arată felul în care rigiditatea unui bătrân, şeful unei familii nobile, duce la distrugerea completă a întregului său clan. (Erika Nachez)

Bătrânii folosesc întotdeauna metode învechite. Numai ei folosesc dinamita acolo unde mâna fină a maestrului trebuie să folosească dalta.

Celui ce i s-a dat ştiinţa, i s-a dat şi capacitatea de a face descoperiri în mai multe domenii. Asta include capacitatea de a obţine perspective noi despre spiritualitate.

Singurul lucru pe care îl pot face cei rămaşi în urmă este să netezească şi să lase calea liberă celor care vor s-o ia înainte.

Nu există decât infinitul care alimentează universul. Şi mai există 1001 îngeri care traversează timpul sub alte identităţi. Numai ştiinţa va dezvălui acest adevăr, într-o clipă care va dura cât o mie de ani.

Credinţa înseamnă să crezi într-o comoară care sta tot timpul ascunsă.

Cel ce nu face niciodată un pas înainte, va face întotdeauna trei paşi înapoi.

Dacă nu eşti un om al schimbării, nu vei avea lângă tine oameni ai schimbării. Dacă nu excelezi într-un domeniu, nu vei fi înconjurat niciodată de oameni excelenţi. Din cauza asta se pierd bătăliile: fiindcă şi conducătorul este slab, şi armata este slabă.

Cine are ceva de spus, spune. Cine nu are nimic de spus, tace. Cine are ceva de arătat, arată. Cine nu are nimic de arătat, nu are nimic de ascuns.

Degeaba îţi place arta, ţie, om al fineţii şi al rafinamentului, dacă nu ştii să faci din tine însuţi o operă de artă. Artiştii fără a lor creaţie sunt ca vioara fără strune.

Oricât de mare ar fi efortul, nu simți deloc oboseala. Asta se întâmplă când pasiunea întâlnește talentul.

Lumea nu stă după cei care stau. Lumea se mișcă după cei care mișcă lucrurile. Să nu treacă o zi măcar fără să aduci ceva nou în domeniul științei.

Cei ce știu, vor ști și mai multe. Cei ce nu știu, nu vor ști niciodată.

Numai talentul real poate învinge. Unica ta putere nu este vastitatea în care se pierde toată lumea, ci limita deasupra căreia te poţi considera genial.

Oamenii care nu au niciun talent deosebit îşi revendică o anumită importanţă prin prisma culturii generale. Este ca şi când Beethoven s-ar apuca să studieze chimia şi fizica pentru a compune Sonata Lunii. Aşadar, responsabilitatea unui creator nu este de a obţine cunoştinţe generalizabile, cât de a obţine o cunoaştere focalizată pe un scop particular.

Salvaţi cărţile de la dispariţie !

Pentru cei care vor să ajute o lume întreagă, la nivel de informaţie şi cunoaştere, le recomand scanarea/fotocopierea unei cărţi - măcar o carte pe săptămâna. Nu contează domeniul. Nu contează vechimea cărţii sau a documentului. Dar cuiva, poate îi va folosi informaţia din cartea respectivă.

Puteţi converti apoi imaginile scanate în PDF, şi să le puneţi pe net (Scribd, Internet Archive, etc). De menţionat că "Internet Archive" nu are limită în ceea ce priveşte mărimea fişierelor pe care le uploadaţi.

Recomand CS (CamScanner), o aplicaţie mobile foarte bună pentru fotocopierea cărţilor, mai ales că are posibilitatea de eliminare a umbrelor (Shadows), şi are multe alte efecte pentru claritatea documentelor/cărţilor.

Îngerii au fost mai întâi demoni. La început a fost iadul, apoi a urmat raiul.

Când asculți DeepHouse în taină, atmosfera este total diferită de aceea dintr-un club, fiindcă îți consolidează forța sufletului.

Cam asta este realitatea din România ultimilor 30 de ani, cu precădere în instituțiile de stat, unde colcăie pilele și relațiile: soțul, soția, tata, mama, copii, cumătrii, vecinii, prietenii, socrii, etc.. Caracatițe întregi, o corupție infernală care nu face altceva decât să scadă drastic prestigiul instituțiilor. Este plină vârf de "somități" țara noastră. În instituțiile unde observați aceste grade de rudenie și amiciție, acolo să știți că este corupția cea mai mare, și specialiști ZERO. Toate instituțiile s-au dus încet la vale, iar curând nu vor mai reprezenta niciun interes...

Idei aruncate de-a valma, fără vreo selecţie, fără început şi fără sfârşit.

Nedevenind funcţional decât cu preţul eşecului, leadershipul nu încetează să intereseze spiritele preocupate de viitorul lor, de modul în care vor acţiona în noua lor funcţie. Această ştiinţă tot mai bine înfiptă în mentalitatea zilelor noastre, vine în ajutorul omului care nutreşte ambiţia să creeze arta, s-o trateze şi s-o expună - nu ca pe o marfă oarecare, pretutindeni unde "reţeaua comercială" o permite - ci mai degrabă ca pe o investiţie pe termen lung, ca pe o reflexie în oglindă care-i luminează constant adevăratele abilităţi, pasiuni, motivaţii, intenţii şi idealuri.

Începând cu momentul producerii faptelor, deci din momentul în care începi să-ţi etalezi cunoştinţele şi să-ţi exersezi îndemânarea, pericolul scăderii valorii tale devine tot mai mic. Se fac din ce în ce mai simţite efectele de stimulare a capacităţilor ascunse, a creativităţii, a productivităţii, furnizând adevăratele răspunsuri care îţi vor folosi în drumul tău spre succes. Şi astfel vei căuta să acţionezi tot timpul într-un mod în care nu ai fi procedat în mod obişnuit.

Creezi leadershipul ca pe o marfă oarecare sau ca pe o investiţie pe termen lung?

O cantitate enormă de practici realizate la indigo, după diferite modele celebre de leadership, sau realizate în colaborare cu prestigioşi profesionişti din domeniu, prin folosirea în comun a resurselor, nu induce o doză de responsabilitate. Ci poate produce mari prejudicii transformând leadershipul într-un duplicat, cu pretenţia exagerată de a se impune ca o artă majoră.

Evident, copia rudimentară a acestui leadership, realizată în condiţiile procedeelor şi tehnicilor neexersate, nedezvoltate şi nedemonstrate, care pot permite doar pe termen scurt obţinerea unor rezultate pozitive, nu va poseda nici pe departe calităţile originalului.

În condiţiile dezvoltării omului care nu poate distinge bine realul de aparenţe, problema realizării unor reproduceri fidele şi verosimile leadershipului care să sporească dimensiunea câştigului său de productivitate, după o serie de rezultate ambigue, după o serie de indicii pe care el nu a știut inițial cum să le interpreteze, începe să devină presantă.

Materialul de calitate inferioară din care e croit un asemenea individ, prelucrat cu ajutorul unor mici "trucuri", şi mai puţin cu ajutorul operaţiilor gândirii: analiza, sinteza şi comparaţia, ajunge să fie utilizat în realizarea a tot felul de prototipuri de lideri cu pretenţii de niveluri avansate.

Dar în condiţiile în care se intervine - din punct de vedere al câştigului pe care îl reprezintă un asemenea individ pentru ceilalţi oameni, sau al pierderii pe care aceştia o simt la rândul lor - pentru ca leadershipul să placă şi să atragă, pe linia efectelor de contrast între vechi şi nou, totul capătă o nuanţă gravă. În acest caz leadershipul devine o dezamăgire, o daună care vizează exclusiv buna funcţionare a unei companii.

Putem oricând identifica o serie de indicatori ai eşecului în îndeplinirea unui obiectiv de leadership, cum ar fi: "repetenţia" în urma evaluărilor curente, care atestă niveluri scăzute de competenţă.

Mai exact, repetenţia la comunicarea unei viziuni de transformare personală. Sau, repetenţia la predarea unei lecţii de viaţă care să ducă la implicarea şi simularea unor abilităţi practice. Repetenţia la capitolul obligaţiei asumate, de a te implica direct în activităţile desfăşurate de ceilalţi, exercitându-ţi autoritatea în mod paşnic, cinstit şi eficient. Sau, repetenţia în ceea ce priveşte încălcarea dreptului la libera exprimare.

Toţi indicatorii eşecului sunt conectaţi la nevoia de apartenenţă la o conştiinţă mult mai cuprinzătoare, care în momentul luării deciziilor de impunere a unor obligaţii, este adormită şi ignorată.

Tind să cred că una dintre tendinţele de dezvoltare a leadershipului este cea de monitorizare şi evaluare a indicatorilor de rezultate ai activităţii de producere a excelenţei persoanelor din jur. Constând în caracterul temporar al imaginii pe care ţi-o formezi despre ele până să ajungi să le cunoşti, şi o altă imagine, cea pe care o ai după ce le cunoşti foarte bine.

Se întrevăd, tot mai mult, posibilităţi clare de expansiune a leadershipului în sfera vieţii personale a oamenilor, nu în sfera activităţii organizaţionale. Se întrevăd vaste posibilităţi de expansiune a percepţiei despre oameni, prin reproducerea realităţii cu obiectivitate perfectă şi sub toate aspectele sale, după diferite criterii de evaluare a muncii şi a importanţei ei, cu ajutorul leadershipului şi a opţiunilor lui de reglare a influenţei.

Dar mai ales prin intermediului modelului tău de a te raporta la realitatea din sufletul lor, la puterea lor de se reface, de-a se situa deasupra tuturor slăbiciunilor. Deci, prin creşterea gradului tău de adaptabilitate la condiţiile lor de funcţionare.

Am impresia că în privinţa formelor de cunoaştere umană, fără a ajunge la o rezolvare completă a ceea ce-l frământă pe om, împingându-l la fapte nesăbuite pe care le poate regreta ulterior, liderii nu deţin o experienţă prea bogată, izvorâtă din existenţa unei vaste arii de competenţe, ce-şi propun pătrunderea într-o zonă discretă, de ataşament faţă de importanţa sau utilitatea pe care omul o acordă propriei sale creaţii.

O imposibilitate de apreciere a ceea ce este cu adevărat relevant pentru a asigura o productivitate maximă, face ca imaginea leadershipului să fie complet compromisă.

Poţi să-ţi transformi leadershipul într-o formă de artă desăvârşită?

Nu poţi fi lider dacă îţi contrazici, flagrant, cu detaşare, alegătorii. Nu poţi fi văzut drept un om mare, dacă nu-ţi poţi valida caracterul integru.

Aşa cum arheologul trebuie să pună laolaltă vestigiile istorice descoperite cu migală, răbdare, imaginaţie şi inteligenţă, pentru a obţine acel tot al perioadei istorice din care ele datează - tot astfel şi tu, ca să fii în măsură să dai valoare leadershipului tău, trebuie să scoţi la iveală din sufletul oamenilor (mai ales a celor complicaţi şi dificili) mulţimea aceea de sentimente mărunte, dar constante, care-i defineşte, care dă sens existenţei lor, care le alimentează suferinţele sau bucuriile. Să le pui laolaltă, apoi să le îndepărtezi, sau măcar să le minimalizezi pe cele nocive.

Nu este suficient să fii lider numai cu numele, numai fiindcă ai fost acceptat la conducere, ci trebuie să-ţi prezinţi leadershipul în lumina calităţilor tale reale, a acelor însuşiri care fac loc de „mai bine”. Trebuie să creezi din leadership o formă de artă accesibilă, serioasă şi antrenantă, nu decorativă, - o formă de artă care să servească drept mijloc de relaţionare şi transformare.

Un leadership nefuncţional, sărăcit de conţinut, bolnăvicios prin constrângerile pe care le impune, ciuruit de decizii neinspirate, - poate totuşi, în anumite cazuri, să avanseze spre niveluri superioare, însă cu riscul de a produce supărări în rândul oamenilor, în conştiinţa lor. Ceea ce va atrage după sine repercusiuni şi mai grave, cum ar fi abandonarea ta bruscă, totală, definitivă, aşa cum o afecţiune neurologică netratată la timp poate avansa spre creier producând moartea bolnavului.

Aşa cum un pictor ia în considerare întotdeauna structura formei şi a culorii pentru a putea optimiza calitatea imaginii, tot aşa şi oamenii trebuie să ia în considerare simţirea ta lăuntrică ca să-şi poată optima mai eficient resursele necesare desfăşurării activităţilor în concordanţă cu obiectivele tale.

Iar această lume a trăirilor, din imediata vecinătate a complexului de convingeri, ne permite să supunem, într-o concepţie proprie, acel imperiu al erorii de gândire, axat în cea mai mare parte pe distrugerea unităţii fiinţei. Imperiu care s-a născut prin înlănţuirea tuturor evenimentelor şi deciziilor, a quiproquo-urilor (" atunci " în loc de " acum ") stabilite la comanda unor stări de agitaţie sau de aşteptare neîmplinită. Conducându-ne înspre o formă de „a fi" mai puţin elevată, înspre o greşită înţelegere a perspectivelor de evoluţie.

Iată întrebarea care ne frământă. Oare ce limbaj comun poate asigura parteneriatul fructuos între un Ego supradimensionat de producțiile de înţelegeri furnizate de sursa vieţii şi leadershipul utilităţii sociale, nu doar ştiinţifice, pe scara continuităţii în timp, ţinând cont de necesităţile reale de formare şi de progres?

Ei bine, este limbajul libertăţii de a te exprima şi de a fi tu însuţi, condiţionat de reacţii ale gândirii despre sine, în strânsă legătură cu ceea ce te fascinează, prin însuşirea elementelor unei ştiinţe perfecte. Această libertate îndeplineşte o funcţie de comandă şi control asupra a ceea ce te stăpâneşte cel mai mult - extremele, una a închiderii şi una a deschiderii schimburilor de convingeri - făcând din tine o fiinţă umană de calitate, eliberată de toate limitările.

Ficţiunea se impune printr-o mare complexitate ca alcătuire, plămădire, evoluţie şi raportări la noi valori şi atitudini, derivă din motivele "Morţii" şi "Învierii", înţelese ca o nouă formă de activare a sinelui ce se manifestă sub forma de reflex de orientare.

Restricţiile referenţiale, în baza excesului de raţiune care conduce la impresionante descoperiri, constituie un minim necesar pentru atingerea superiorităţii. Ele reprezintă acele acţiuni sau activităţi în care ai prefera să nu te angajezi, dar care au o importanţă mare. Au menirea să readucă sistemul de inter-relaţii dintre realitate şi ficţiune într-o stare de echilibru.

Dacă nu te pui în gardă în privinţa unei despărţiri de tine însuţi, atunci întregirea cunoştinţelor şi cristalizarea unei structuri particulare de înţelegere a ştiinţei va avea ca simptom închiderea ta într-un "iad" privat. Te vei plasa sub un nou setup de cauze şi efecte, neluate în calcul, sub formă de contra-lovitură, care se vor resimţi peste vreme.

Ceea ce te ajută să fii o cu totul altă persoană este rezultatul unui mic element care poate transforma fenomenul numit „connect to yourself" într-un perpetuum mobile al acțiunilor viitoare.

Nu-i important ce spun, cât mai ales ceea ce mă inspiră. Momentul sublim de trezire din somnul greu al lenevirii, neaşteptata evadare dintr-o închisoare fără gratii numită auto-suficienţă, se prelungeşte infinit de lung, până când îmi desprind privirea de la proiecţia mea în oglindă şi contemplu orizontul. O creaţie instinctivă în care se relevă viitorul, diferenţiat între cuvântul de spirit şi culoarea imaginii picturale, refuză o teoretizare adâncită, dar capătă valenţe magice. Mă eliberează de iluziile propriei vanităţi.

Posibilitățile de a mă integra într-o nouă realitate sunt nenumărate când forţa de creaţie cade hotărâtor, ca un trăsnet din înaltul cerului, asupra necesităţii de a mă descotorosi de latura pasiv-reflexivă care speră la lucruri mari, dar se teme de acțiunea directă şi de confruntări. În mod tainic, simt că particip la o extraordinară experienţă, profundă într-un imaginar al alterităţii. Ca şi când m-aş fi eliberat brusc din nişte lanţuri groase, iar sentimentul eliberării neîntâmplătoare, neaşteptată, dar verosimilă după schemele unui univers paralel, ar trasa vieţii mele o nouă sarcină. Din fericire, nu ştiu care. Încă.

Scrie mâna fără mine, aşa cum vremea se schimbă fără niciun semn, fără niciun avertisment, încât reuşesc să cântăresc cuprinsurile unei lumi fără ziduri, aceasta fiind singura posibilitate de a scruta orizontul potrivit unei note exhaustive: „Oye, piensa en tu futuro ! " Toate se petrec îndeosebi noaptea, fără să-mi pot explica dacă este doar vreo potrivire, o completare a unui plan divin sau o asortare universală. Atunci dansez în ritmul unei muzici numai de mine auzite.

Leadership: Poţi crea un raport de reciprocitate între creaţia căreia îi slujeşti într-un moment sublim de catharsis şi transfigurarea unei realităţi care te obligă să i te supui?

Tot printr-o transfigurare de inspiraţie creatoare, revelând cu intermitenţe un mister al potrivirilor de ritmuri, ca nişte arcuri tensionate, gata, gata să explodeze, reflexiuni ale timpului în care s-au născut dorinţa, viziunea, chemarea divină, înscrise în cuvinte şi în conexiunea dintre ele, mi-am exersat putinţa de a fi eu însumi.

Am inversat rolul pasiv de a fi un produs al creației, la raţiunea de a recepta ceea ce mi se oferă prin legile de compunere a forțelor vieții. Fără a reflecta asupra ideilor cunoscute. Realitatea în faţa căreia trebuia să mă înclin cu respect, cu răbdare, cu demnitate, părea extrasă dintr-un text al scriitorului Heinrich Cornelius Agrippa: "Cel ce scrie în glasul universal trebuie să fie purificat și curat prin sacrificiu, să aibă speranță puternică, credință constantă, iar mintea să fie ridicată către Dumnezeul înalt, și atunci va obține cu siguranță puterea divină."

Era un fel de oglindire a ceea ce cred despre mine într-o renaştere a vitalităţii programate şi întreţinute cu orice preţ de energia sfântă, într-un refuz total de a mă supune, de a mă opri, de mă legitima în faţa unor reguli fixe. O încleştare de acorduri în care învingătoare este autodepăşirea. Ea se constituie într-un atribut al dinamicii unui sistem fizic din care pot fi derivate ecuațiile de mișcare ale unui corp pe direcţia unui inteligent sound that has a Level 10.

Leadership: Îți poți ridica exemplul personal la rang de virtute prin punerea în valoare a potențialului de oglindire într-un dublu asemănător ție, identificat prin Sinele Suprem?

Am devenit cu totul altcineva pe măsură ce intensitatea transpirației creștea acolo unde nu mai era nimic altceva decât imaginație și curaj. Pentru ceea ce unii numesc "Adelante", în tensiune spre un înainte ce intensifică un şi mai înainte, acea calitate de a fi sincron cu noul de pretutindeni doar ca să-l faci viu pe scena improvizată a unui timp uniform, porque la vida es corta , eu îl numesc Sinele Suprem provenit dintr-un nucleu divin de adrenalină.

Ideea necesității de a mă apropia de declanșarea unei chain reaction cu efecte imprevizibile, ceea ce am în minte când sunt prins în jocul manifestării realităţii pe care o creez în jurul ideii de "iluzie", mai mult ca sigur vine din invizibilul unei greşeli sau al unei vinovăţii nemărturisite, exprimate de percepţia magicului necunoscut: "Yo vivo hoy no miro para atrás ".

Operând o deschidere interioară spre un dincolo insesizabil şi totuşi prezent, un "dincolo" metafizic, un viciu explodând cu aşchii de foc, o punere în practică a fugii de singurătate în eventualitatea unei opriri bruşte în timp, spre alte legi ale vieţii, ajung să trec dincolo de mine şi să văd ce este mai presus de posibilităţile mele de a cuprinde o totalitate. O lume rezumată într-un singur cuvânt mă integrează în structura divinului suprem: Intensitate.

Frumusețea a ceea ce vezi în oglindă este atracţia ce nu cunoaşte nicio limită faţă de ceea ce trăiești intens în prezentul unui cu totul alt viitor decât cel care poate fi imaginat în acel moment.

Să trăiesc într-o manifestare esenţială de voinţă, o formă de energie regenerabilă, inepuizabilă, de vibraţie înaltă, prin reducerea necunoscutului la cunoscut, ca o promisiune a unei experienţe care mă bucură nespus: "Que viva la vida ! " , parcă pe fondul unei predestinări de care nu pot fugi, a devenit expresia dorinţei de a înfăptui o lucrare la nivelul cel mai subtil al naturii mele. De a recâştiga periodic perfecțiunea dincolo de orice fractură şi polaritate.

Această manifestare este reacţia neaşteptată de a mă repezi spre cele ce se nasc şi nu mor niciodată, îmbogăţirea vieţii spirituale, libertatea spiritului de a-şi mări continuu volumul de conţinut şi libertatea spiritului de creație, propus acum revizuirii estetice. Însoţite de degajarea unei energii egală cu diferența dintre ceea ce simt şi ceea ce gândesc în virtutea legii acţiunii şi reacțiunii.

O viaţă care se derulează pe „repede" înainte are ca esenţă puterea de a trăi fiecare moment la intensitate maximă. În contextul unei astfel de intensităţi se trasează calea de accedere spre o realitate profundă și de durată, capabilă să renască prin fiecare gest, acțiune sau reacție, alimentând acea revelație în care realitatea formată în afara ta dispare la un moment dat.

Leadershipul vizează ducerea Creaţiei personale la nivel de Sine Suprem, încât ceea ce scoţi în evidenţă prin mărturisirile tale intime să poarte pecetea unei conştiinţe universale receptive la pulsaţiile unei trăiri autentice..

Adelante sugerează recrearea acelei realități intrinseci prin intermediului intensității și forței de sugestie cu care îți exprimi gândurile sau întâmplările implicate în expresia şi modelarea unei personalități unice, autentice.

Ceea ce te ajută să fii o cu totul altă persoană este rezultatul unui mic element care poate transforma fenomenul numit „connect to yourself” într-un perpetuum mobile al acțiunilor viitoare. Acest mic element are ca punct de referință valorizarea unei clipe printr-o trăire intensă și revelatoare. Imortalizarea acestei clipe creează amintiri care vor dăinui o viaţă.

Adevăr sau Provocare

On Ianuarie 02, 2009

Configurează materialul fundamental din care este constituit modul tău de gândire, astfel încât să-ţi asiguri funcţionalitatea în circumstanţele limitatoare.

Cartograful francez Nicolas-Thomas Baudin a fost numit în 1801 să conducă o expediţie pe coastele Australiei pentru a întocmi o hartă exactă a acelor locuri. În 1802, ajunşi pe ţărmul Australiei, naturaliştii au debarcat pe uscat şi s-au aprovizionat cu numeroase plante şi scoici. Dar surpriză. Această şedere a fost una de foarte scurtă durată.

Toată lumea îl considera pe Baudin un căpitan extrem de curajos, dispus să sfideze orice risc şi capabil să-şi atingă toate obiectivele propuse. Însă, legenda spune că el s-a speriat într-atâta de orăcăitul broaştelor australiene, încât a ridicat grăbit ancora şi a luat-o la fugă, fără să se mai întoarcă vreodată în acel loc.

Legenda e legendă, şi nu putem şti cât este sau nu de adevărată. Dar există un tâlc important în ea: dacă nu suntem hotărâţi în proporţie de 100% în acţiunile pe care le întreprindem şi dacă nu suntem pregătiţi să facem faţă celor mai noi provocări, nu ne vom putea atinge niciodată scopurile.

Leadership: Modul tău de răspuns la condiţiile unor împrejurări imprevizibile, dar dependente de voința ta, este specific funcţiei "RETURN" pentru măsurarea efectelor şi impactului asupra valorii tale de referinţă?

Trăim într-o societate în care toată lumea doreşte să obţină totul într-un timp cât mai scurt şi fără prea multă bătaie de cap. Din acest motiv foarte mulţi indivizi întreprind rapid tot felul de demersuri pentru a-şi atinge cele mai incredibile scopuri, dar la apariţia primului obstacol sunt gata să renunţe. Sunt ei oare atât de hotărâţi şi merituoşi să-şi atingă cu orice preţ scopurile?

Nu cred. Nimeni nu obţine un succes răsunător dacă porneşte într-o călătorie, succesul îl obţin doar cei care ajung la capătul ei, adică cei hotărâţi, curajoşi şi perseverenţi. Dacă Baudin ar fi fost într-adevăr un bun conducător, şi-ar fi înfrânt impulsul de a renunţa. Dar el nu a fost tocmai un conducător adevărat, ci un foarte bun cartograf. Diferenţa e mare.

Valoarea de referinţă a unui lider este predominată de influenţa momentului de aplicare al impulsului de comandă asupra reacţiilor de răspuns la condiţiile unui mediu ostil. Funcţia "Return" se activează dacă eşti setat să gândeşti în termeni de vină sau înfrângere, acceptând ca pretext imperfecţiunile unor circumstanţe care nu depind de tine.

Leadership: Cum te raportezi la cele două tipuri de condiţionări?

Nu intenţionez să modific nimic din tiparul liderului, ori să creez impresia că dincolo de el se află o grămadă de calităţi nebănuite, ci să semnalez unele variante de promovare a personalităţii sale profund adecvate timpului prezent şi viitor. Dar şi acele aspecte neexplorate care pot da naştere la confuzii nedorite.

Liderul autentic nu poate ignora filosofia, care convine perfect naturii sale, conform căreia orice faptă, orice eveniment şi orice atitudine va avea efecte în viitor. Materialul fundamental din care e constituit modul lui de gândire, acele profunde adevăruri care îl ghidează în timp, impune periodic o examinare riguroasă. Dar şi o revizitare atentă a realităţii înconjurătoare. Altfel spus, se cuvine a fi făcută periodic o reactualizare şi recontextualizare a felului său de "a fi" în situaţii variate, pentru a fi sigur de calităţile sale.

Înclinaţia spre succes a liderului este rezultatul raportului între două situaţii decizionale, atunci când el este familiarizat cu eşecul, sau atunci când nu este. Sau, mai bine zis, este rezultatul raportului de strânsă aderenţă între condiţionarea de tip "început - nu pot" şi "pot - finalizare" , din care leadershipul îşi extrage seva şi îşi perfecţionează structura. Deseori liderul poate fi complet insensibil la ceea ce se întâmplă în jurul lui, limitându-şi strict dimensiunea de dezvoltare.

Fie şi amestecul unei analize bine fundamentate a propriilor sale convingeri, decizii şi acte de conducere, care deschide ochii prin înlăturarea vălului de confuzie, cu înguste reprezentări ale modului în care factorii externi îşi pun amprenta asupra imaginii sale, poate de naştere, brusc sau lent, în orice dozaj, în funcţie de împrejurări, la interpretări diverse.

Sub rezerva acelei forţe inexorabile "de stânga" care-i programează atât de bine mintea, convingându-l să renunţe în momentele în care trebuie să treacă de proba curajului, liderul nu va mai putea să înlocuiască cu brio perspectiva imprecisă a faptelor care se înlănţuiesc în cursul procesul său de aderare la acea creştere a valorii care promite atingerea excelenţei.

Leadership: Vii cu partea ta de răspuns la provocările pe care nu le poţi controla, acceptând riscul de a fi supus unor influențe nejustificate din partea unei nuanţe de tip "excepţie de la regulă"?

Aşa cum un scriitor trebuie să prezinte un interes de actualitate în opera sa - tot astfel tu trebuie să prezinţi un interes foarte mare în a-ţi duce până la capăt misiunea, îndeplinindu-ţi rolul cu cât mai mult sârguinţă.

Adevărul este că şi cei mai destoinici conducători au temerile lor. Însă aceştia din urmă nu lasă frica să pună stăpânire pe ei. Odată cu fiecare nouă provocare întâmpinată, ei se încăpăţânează parcă şi mai tare să-şi atingă obiectivele. Într-o altă ordine de idei, doar dacă eşti deschis la schimbare şi nou, şi numai dacă dai tot ce ai mai bun din tine vei reuşi să ajungi acolo unde cei şovăitori şi neîncrezători în forţele proprii nu izbutesc.

Să capeţi o nuanţă de tip "Excepţie de la regulă" este similar cu a face alpinism având încredere în utilizarea unei frânghii care nu rezistă. Singurul termen de garanţie care lipseşte din vedere pentru o ascensiune sigură ţine de necesitatea de a-ți testa propriile limite, de ambiție, de senzații care numai acolo "sus" pot fi trăite.

Această excepţie de la regulă mai spune că "orice întârziere este taxată" atunci când îţi încalci o promisiune şi îţi pierzi stima de sine, ca apoi să pierzi şi încrederea altora în tine.

Expertul internațional în leadershipul avansat, John Maxwell spunea: " Nu schimba împrejurările pentru a-ţi schimba viaţa - schimbă-te pe tine pentru a schimba împrejurările. "

Fără îndoială va trebui să-ţi înfrunţi temerile şi să capeţi multă încredere în forţele proprii dacă doreşti să-ţi atingi obiectivele. Şi va trebui să te grăbeşti, căci pe măsură ce timpul trece lucrurile evoluează şi se schimbă rapid, obstacolele se înmulţesc pe măsură ce înaintezi spre ţelul propus şi astfel misiunea ta devine tot mai grea.

Leadershipul este un examen al împrejurărilor neprevăzute pe care cu cat le experimentezi mai mult, cu atât mai interesantă devine viaţa şi misiunea ta.

Adevăr sau Provocare: fiecare din ele reprezintă o alternativă la modul în care abordezi o realitate pe care nu o poţi nega şi pe care ai obligaţia să o schimbi. Chiar dacă eşti îngrozit de necunoscutul care ţi se aşterne în faţă, găseşte-ţi curajul de a merge mai departe, fiindcă aceasta este singura direcţie în care trebuie să te îndrepţi ca să-ţi testezi şi depăşeşti limitele.

Doreşti cu adevărat să îţi atingi obiectivele propuse? Dacă da, atunci ai grijă să priveşti numai înainte şi să nu baţi niciodată în retragere.

Mult succes !

Adevărata capodoperă de artă

On Martie 26, 2017

Măsoară-ţi pasiunea pentru leadership, demonstrând că ambiţia cunoaşterii imediate a unui efect final serveşte drept punct de start pentru confirmarea unei noi revelaţii.

Mă gândeam la tot şi gândeam totul în semnificaţiile unei opere de artă cu autor necunoscut. În fiecare stadiu al neliniştii plină de întrebări, care îşi calculează accentele tulburi în funcţie de ideea relevată de tendinţele evolutive ale bolii, totul fiind pus sub semnul de neclintit al destinului, era scoasă la iveală o nouă dimensiune a ideii de formă, de ordonare, de sortare.

În secret, sub marea dimensiune a greşelii şi a remuşcării, în mine se năştea o frustrare, ca un soi de mistuire a sentimentului de obligaţie, apropiată lumii personajelor lui Dostoievsky, o stare atât de pasională, de fierbinte, căreia numai apocalipsa ii era imanentă.

Nu voi spune că nu m-am rătăcit, refuzând să mă las antrenat moral, şi poate că nici nu trebuia s-o fac, într-o asemenea aventură experimentală, urmarea întâmplării de a nu avea odihnă, confruntându-mă cu efectele necruţătoare ale transformării virusului prin resortări de gene ce făceau ca rostul vieţii pe pământ să fie doar o şansă la supravieţuire.

Leadership: Determinarea ta constă în capacitatea de a naviga prin „underground-ul vieții", înfruntând mutațiile imprevizibile și impactul brutal al realității?

Dar voi privi rătăcirea sub aspectul unui fragment al infernului în care omul este asociat ştiinţific animalului de pradă, în înfăptuirea unui plan creator divin din perspectiva mutaţiilor imprevizibile şi transmisibile ale virusului.

Punctele de extrem ale funcţiei de căutare a vreunui inhibitor al virusului, într-un underground al vieţii, erau aceleaşi cu punctele de extrem ale funcţiei de măsurare a impactului meu cu realitatea cea mai neagră, unde trebuia să o scot la capăt cum puteam.

Într-un fel ştiam ce urma să se întâmple, mă îngrozea ideea, fără niciun fel de retuş, fără niciun fel de rezervă. Eram dovada penalizării vieţii după toate legile aspre ale ştiinţei şi ale judecăţii finale ale lui Dumnezeu.

Leadership: Frumosul, ca înțelegere individuală a faptului că poți folosi legile vieţii în crearea unor căi de a depăşi limitele realităţii, este un răspuns la recomandarea ecoului care estompează o stare de slăbiciune?

Nostradamus a fost zidit pentru că nu lăsa pe nimeni să intre în camera lui. Acest caracter intim şi discret este un răspuns la adresa anxietăţii, o îngrijorare cu privire la viitor, o stare afectivă caracterizată printr-un sentiment difuz de insecuritate, o penalizare pentru analiza sistematică a repercusiunilor pe care acest gen de intimitate o iradiază.

Diagnosticul acestei afecţiuni psihologice se stabileşte în accepţiunea zicalei "nu trebuie să crezi nimic ca să înţelegi totul" . În asemenea situație, impactul final asupra concentraţiei ambiţiei de a trăi merge de la câteva fracţiuni la câteva zeci de procente, apoi coboară brusc la zero.

Un tu însuţi mai finisat devine singurul material de construcţie a cărui rezistenţă la compresiune creşte în timp, oră de oră, pe măsura comparaţiei între efecte şi cauze, între firesc şi arbitrar, sau între autoritate şi libertate. Un tu însuţi a cărui formă, nuanţă şi aspect sunt dictate doar de instinctul de supravieţuire şi de nevoia de a te fereca într-un ecou golit de şoapte, dar viu și extrem de dinamic, de felul "cine scapă viu de aici este un erou". Ecoul va face înconjurul lumii în căutarea speranţei de a învinge forţele maligne ale răului, ale realităţii nefireşti.

Îndrăzneala de a te avânta primejdios dincolo de limitele realităţii este un tablou în care toți ceilalți sunt absenţi, și doar tu exişti.

Înainte de a promova leadershipul trebuie să iei în considerare calea de a te deschide unei viziuni referitoare la raporturile rezultate din înfăptuirea unui plan creator divin oferit perspectiva unei realităţi aspre și nesigure (în care interacţionează factori nenumăraţi) și exigenţele propriei chemări spre aventură în raport cu instinctul de a supravieţui „all by yourself".

Starea de forţă este dată de tendinţele omului de unificare a oricărei informaţii din mediu în direcţia aspiraţiei spre o lege absolută: "nu poți să-ți negi acțiunile fără să-ţi negi propria vinovăţie ori să scuzi eşecul moral". Iar starea de slăbiciune, dincolo de limitele impuse de realitatea aspră, este dată de acea experienţă a întâlnirii omului cu un set de prejudecăţi şi mituri persistente, de tipul: "I can't survive alone".

Adevărata capodoperă de artă este să depăşeşti limitele impuse de fatalitate. Oamenii îi urmează pe lideri dacă aceștia demonstrează că ambiţia cunoaşterii imediate a unui efect final serveşte drept punct de start pentru confirmarea unei noi revelaţii.

O astfel de revelație, transpusă într-un rol de forţă, poate suna în felul următor: „I am the only one that place today before yesterday " sau „I am the only one that place pain before joy".

Adevărata fericire a unei fiinţe virtuoase

On Iulie 19, 2016

Du-te unde vrei, dar, totuși, întoarce-te la tine.

Era o împrejurare excepţională, ca într-o enigmă care în loc să se dezlege, se învârtoşează mai tare. De pe urma căreia, cu multă chibzuinţă, am câştigat cel puţin două puncte de vedere: mai întâi, sensul adevăratei credinţe mi-a devenit, dintr-o dată, în mod direct, accesibil. Factorul Beta al împrejurării în care mă aflam, oferindu-mi prilejul de a experimenta o ghicitoare în interiorul unei enigme de mare excepţionalitate, se putea asocia spaţiului simbolic al memoriei şi continuităţii vieţii.

În al doilea rând, expunerea motivelor ce stăteau la baza acestei iniţiative de resurecţie a unei părţi consistente din mine, vizând deprinderea unei cunoaşteri implicite, despre care un scriitor ca John Fowles ar fi numit-o "o împletitură de efecte care nu întârzie să apară" , conduceau la selectarea variantelor alese de nespusuri care - și acum - așteaptă o lămurire. Acest lucru constituia o bună introducere în estetica unei noi formule literare.

Parcă aş fi fost altcineva, imaginea unui personaj din romanele lui Umberto Eco, care caută o înţelegere a lucrurilor acolo unde nimeni altcineva nu se uită. Întotdeauna omul ancorat în stări profunde de prezenţă care compun în mod metonimic ţesutul intim della sua parte vivente , într-o căutare a lui Dumnezeu cu inima, se conduce totodată după imperativul formulat de Heraclit: „să ai capacitatea de a cunoaște ceea ce cârmuiește toate lucrurile prin mijlocirea tuturor lucrurilor".

Leadership: Poţi să prezinţi imaginea unei lumi aparte prin intermediul iniţiativei de a face parte dintr-o creaţie care poate să îţi sugereze elementele necesare pentru a te elibera de puterea şi de temerile egoului tău?

Sursa acesta raţională determinată de forţe realiste, înscrisă într-un cerc evolutiv ale cărui unghiuri opuse nu sunt congruente, reuşeşte să-şi readucă la normal, într-o manieră discordantă cu cea la care s-ar fi aşteptat, nivelul de funcţionare. Concomitent cu înălţarea spiritului către Creator. Singurul capitol unde ea nu îşi poate cuantifica progresul, unde nu se poate manifesta ca tot unitar, este acolo unde nu poate deveni accesibilă.

Imaginea unei lumi aparte determinată de particularităţile unei creaţii scriitoriceşti, menită să scoată în evidenţă funcţia imaginativă a unui Ego cuprins de incertitudinea unei schimbări de atitudine şi de mentalitate, este creaţia unui artist care se maturizează frumos, care nu se mai lasă sedus de modele şi curente trecătoare. El şi-a găsit o viziune, dar deocamdată nu o poate hrăni decât cu sentiment şi gând cu gând.

Remarcaţi, aşadar, preocuparea mea febrilă, de o viaţă, aceea de a-mi lămuri necunoscutele, în ipostaza de căutător de adevăruri ascunse, examinându-mi existenţa în jocul absolut gratuit cu conştiinţa, with my own releases, with my own unique sensibilities , pentru a-mi înţelege trăsăturile esenţiale şi rolul personalităţii în viaţa unui Faust în bătălie cu Mefisto. Ghidându-mă după indicii numai de mine ştiute, ascunse în zicala "du-te unde vrei, dar, totuși, întoarce-te la tine".

Pentru o perioadă îndelungată, consumând cu nesaţ imensele diversiuni ale tuturor negărilor şi acceptărilor dominante, în lumina unei selecţii multipolare a activelor realităţii mele, înscrise într-o mişcare sinergică, am simţit tot mai neputincios acea vrajă puternică of the forbidden Fruit, hidden in the scattered traces of the lost wisdom . Viaţa mea era un tablou reflexiv dotat de psihologie cu o unitate izbitoare de tip: BlackList.

Leadership: Încerci să lansezi modelul tău de lider ca revelaţie a unei valenţe aparte a personalităţii tale, trăind sub controlul unui Ego care îţi cere să faci dovada unei cunoaşteri mai presus de înţelegerea ta?

Citeam zilele trecute într-o revistă mai veche caracterizarea pe scurt a figurii celebrului Don Quijote:

"Una din trăsăturile care îl fac fascinant pe eroul lui Cervantes este aceea că, dacă de multe ori este complet întreg la minte, niciodată nu este complet nebun. Chiar și în momentele de sminteală, întotdeauna îşi păstrează o doză de bun simţ şi armonie. De aceea, cavalerul rătăcitor, în afară de momentele când e în joc soarta tagmei lui, poate fi considerat un model aflat sub semnul raţiunii, al discuţiei temeinice şi al căutării adevărului."

Un om de acest fel, aflat în ipostaza de căutător-descoperitor, care-şi subjugă cititorii prin povestea vieţii sale, își măsoară certitudinea asupra chestiunilor subtile cu aceeaşi exactitate cu care chimistul îşi măsoară reacţiile. Supus propriei sale cunoaşteri despre necunoaştere, în speţă unei logici care scapă minţii normale, el se apropie de o stare pură de inteligenţă critică, între bătăile inimii şi contracţia reprezentărilor sale morale. Dar neştiind când urmează a se împlini clipa în care mugurii filosofiei sale se vor deschide cu toţii deodată şi se vor transforma în înţelepciune.

Îți poți crea ideea de fiinţă virtuoasă, prin extinderea cunoaşterii de sine la un nivel superior, în ipostaza de căutător de adevăruri ascunse, atunci când încerci să-ţi lămureşti necunoscutele – toate acele moduri de a vedea lucrurile care îți testează limitele. Atunci când îți examinezi existenţa în jocul absolut gratuit cu conştiinţa, with your own releases, with your own unique sensibilities.

Egoul este cererea realităţii de a se vedea o alta, prin faptul că ceea ce te defineşte ca fiinţă te defineşte ca un un puzzle de perspective care interpretează realitatea pe alte coordonate.

Iar în această privință, adevărata deplinătate, care se ghidează după ideea că omul este o sursă raţională determinată de forţe realiste, dar totodată o formă ascunsă a ceea ce este în realitate, contribuie la estimarea modului său de a se proiecta în conştiinţa lumii exterioare de pe poziția unei validări a autenticităţii sale. A cărei nerespectare atrage nulitatea absolută.

Felul în care îți manifeşti sensibilitatea, preocuparea febrilă, aceea de a-ţi lămuri necunoscutele, în ipostaza de căutător de adevăruri ascunse, poate influența asumarea corespunzătoare a identităţii prin faptul că nu acţionezi direct asupra a ceea ce ți se întâmplă, ci acţionezi indirect asupra a ceea ce reprezinţi pentru viața ta după ce înțelegi felul cum funcţionezi.

Voința de a cuceri o conștiința nouă, orientarea spre o satisfacere de sine altruistă, axate pe dinamica aspiraţiilor către o logică a firii şi a trăsăturilor de caracter prin care oameni diferă unii de alţii, este una din verigile nesfârşitului lanț al leadershipului care face trecerea de la un stadiu neevoluat la un stadiu avansat.

Omul care încearcă să-şi lanseze modelul de lider ca revelaţie a unei valenţe necunoscute a personalităţii sale, este omul care doreşte să aibă control direct asupra a ceea ce i se întâmplă atunci când pune sub semnul raţiunii esenţa a ceea ce este. Adică atunci când experimentează stări pe care le-a trăit deja. Și reușește să le atribuie o semnificaţie aparte.

Leadershipul este lumea închipuită a creatorului, având avantajul de a nu fi o creaţie personală a lui, ci o creaţie existentă în sânul unei lumi care se vrea mai mult decât o realitate, se vrea a fi produsul unui Ego contrariat.

Adevărata fericire a unei fiinţe virtuoase stă în cunoaşterea de sine şi în imaginea pe care ţi-o formezi despre tine. Chiar şi atunci când te îndepărtezi de propria fiinţă, chiar și în momentele de sminteală, vei asculta întotdeauna ecoul acela fantomatic al unei lumi mai profunde care îţi dictează ce să faci, ce să crezi, îţi inoculează valori şi îţi arată mereu cum să fii, contribuind activ la realizarea unei vieţi de calitate.

Adevărata măsură a leadershipului

On Ianuarie 12, 2013

Învaţă să fii proactiv în elementele esenţiale ale vieţii, fără să creezi presiune asupra propriei tale autorităţi.

În volumul pe care Mihail Sebastian l-a scris despre "Corespondenţa lui Proust", găsim aceste rânduri tulburătoare: "Aproape toate scrisorile lui Proust, chiar şi cele din tinereţe, sunt scrise sub iminenţa sfârşitului. Gândul morţii e mereu prezent în scrisori. Dacă primeşte o invitaţie, sau propune o întâlnire, sau fixează un termen, Proust e obligat să adauge clauza pentru el actuală, mereu plauzibilă, a morţii care poate revoca totul."

Moartea poate veni oricând, pentru oamenii trişti şi bătuţi de greutăţile vieţii, spunea Mihail Sebastian despre scriitorul pe care năprasnica boala de astm îl ţinea de ani de zile într-o cameră fumegândă, cu pereţii de plută.

Neîmpăcat cu moartea lui Proust, nemângâiat, înduioşat de acest tragic destin, nu îi este dat lui Mihail Sebastian nici norocul modest de a-şi presimţi propria moarte, de a se pregăti pentru ea, de a se revolta, de a scrie un singur rând în lumina rece a apropierii ei. *****

Leadership: Eşti în stare să-ţi păstrezi măreţia de a fi împăcat cu cine eşti şi ce eşti în punctul cel mai plăpând al vieţii, încât să-ţi creezi o identitate apropiată de traiectoria unui destin revelat doar printr-o antiteză?

În ce varietate de situaţii se stârneşte în tine refuzul, dezaprobarea? Cazi uneori într-o stare de înrăire tot mai surescitată, sau într-o stare tot mai apăsătoare de sfârşeală? Toată esenţa vieţii tale se distanţează de moralitate? Eşti un sistem care poate să întreţină focul cel mai cumplit, sau un sistem care nu este capabil de nicio reacţie impulsivă?

Un om azvârlit în mijlocul tumulturilor vieţii este, în realitate, un navigator care înoată în derivă cu capul în jos, până ce ajunge să se scufunde în propriile îndoieli. Faze agitate de incoerenţă în gândire, proprii involuţiei sale. Un astfel de om ajunge să-şi răsfrângă ultimele forţe nu doar asupra existenţei sale, ci şi asupra celorlalte persoane din jur, cauzând o ruptură între ei care uneori nu poate fi reparată.

Această înaintare haotică care creează o anumită presiune asupra omului, are loc în momentul de cumpănă când negativismul îşi pune amprenta asupra personalităţii şi evoluţiei sale, producându-se o puternică destabilizare, sub cele mai diferite forme. Devine un chin să împartă cu alţii experienţe cât mai variate. Iar îngrămădirea componentelor definitorii într-un spaţiu mic de exploatare, în care nu este posibil un control absolut asupra identităţii sale reale, atrage după sine în mod ferm o diminuare a propriilor valori.

Poetul român, Mihail Eminescu îşi imaginează toată suflarea vieţii în controversa spirituală a omului ca pe un fel de antiteză: "Vreme trece, vreme vine, Toate-s vechi și nouă-s toate." Prin aceasta, înţelegem caracterul omului care este strâns legat de diferenţa dintre tu cel de ieri, cel de azi şi cel de mâine, dar la nivel de motivaţie, emoţii, performanţă, destin, asociate cu sensibilitatea şi cu slăbiciunea de a te lăsa pradă îndoielii, disperării, pornirilor instinctuale.

Leadership: Viziunea pe care ţi-o formezi asupra vieţii te ajută să înţelegi mai bine dimensiunea conştiinţei a ceea ce experimentezi ca pe o atitudine practică în faţa unei fiinţe marcată de o dualitate ireconciliabilă?

"Astăzi am înţeles că a acţiona, a iubi şi a suferi înseamnă, într-adevăr, a trăi în măsura în care eşti permeabil şi-ţi accepţi destinul ca reflex al unui curcubeu de bucurii şi de pasiuni", spunea la un moment dat Camus în "Caietele" sale.

Asta înseamnă să intri într-o zonă neagră, de nelinişte, şi să rămâi acolo restricţionat fără a avea o viziune pozitivă asupra vieţii şi asupra propriei tale identităţi. Este momentul când atingi limita propriei neputinţe de a te ridica deasupra situaţiilor de viaţă bulversante. O sărăcire a propriei tale firi care se perpetuează, creşte şi devine de necontrolat. Şi nu se va schimba de la sine decât atunci când intervine o terţă persoană, în cazul cel mai bun, sau abia atunci când fapta a fost comisă, adică prea târziu.

Nu vei putea niciodată să-ţi dezvolţi potenţialul maxim de leadership dacă nu blochezi infiltraţiile negative, precum deprecierea stimei de sine şi a statusului social propriu. Asigurând continuitate evoluţiei tale, fără să treci cu vederea acea atenţionare care intră în vigoare ori de câte ori te apropii de zona interzisă, vei putea să îmbrăţişezi toate aspectele multiforme ale realităţii.

O fiinţă marcată de o dualitate ireconciliabilă, fiind atinsă de limita propriei neputinţe de a se ridica deasupra situaţiilor de viaţă bulversante, îşi dă uşor acordul de a reprezenta o imagine afectivă în plan comportamental şi psihologic, prin faptul că nu produce nicio emoţie altuia lipsit de asemenea dispoziţii. Reproducerea stărilor afective în satisfacţie, evidente în cazul unui deznodământ nefericit, cu mult reproşuri şi mustrări de conştiinţă, se reduce la o simplă amintire a faptului că le-a avut.

Leadership: Faci o săritură în afara destinului tău, fără să știi unde să te întorci după aceea?

Ca stimulent în procesul tău de îmbunătăţire a calităţii de Om, poţi utiliza un punct forţe, o trăsătură fundamentală, sau o atare convingere, care să-ţi asigure permanenţa valorii. Aprobarea. Acceptă inevitabilul şi încearcă să-l depăşeşti, împacă-te cu tine însuţi şi profită la maxim de pe urma oricărei situaţii, aparent disperate, care îţi pune la încercare caracterul.

Scriitorul român, Emil Cioran, spunea un lucru care merită citat. "Nimeni n-a iubit mai mult ca mine această lume şi, cu toate acestea, dacă mi-ar fi fost oferită pe tavă, chiar copilaş fi exclamat: "Prea târziu, prea târziu ! " Ce aveţi, ce s-a întâmplat ? - N-am nimic, n-am nimic, am făcut o săritură în afara destinului meu, şi nu mai ştiu acum spre ce să mă întorc, spre ce să fug..."

Dacă abordezi continuu noi zone în afara ariei tale de "a fi", aproape sigur te vei îndepărta de leadershipul de calitate. Asta înseamnă să faci o săritură în afara perimetrului de siguranţă, în care trăirile şi gândurile pozitive sunt ocrotite şi garantate. Te vei pierde într-o zonă fără o acoperire puternică. Şi astfel toată esenţa vieţii tale se va distanţa de bogăţia morală, riscând să fii învins de neprevăzut şi să deveni vulnerabil. Nesiguranţa, teama, vulnerabilitatea, împletite formal, vor da naştere unei structuri aparent funcţionale, dar fragilă şi instabilă.

Traiectoria "joasă" a unui destin frânt are ca punct de sugestivitate măcinarea unui Ego aflat mereu la limitele existenţiale dintre fiinţare şi neant, într-un delir al suferinţei susţinut cu pregnanţă de luciditatea unui angajament neasumat.

Adevărata măsură a leadershipului este puterea de a te rupe de acel "Prea târziu, prea târziu" în difuzia unei culturi a diversităţii şi a manipulării, în care fiecare existenţă are valoare neînsemnată, condiţionată de satisfacerea nevoilor materiale, încât "săritura" pe care o faci în afara destinului tău să nu fie prea dură atunci când te vezi brusc "cu sacii în căruţă".

De la sfârşeală la seninătate este un pas mic pe care conştiinţa îl percepe la nivel de credinţă, transcendenţă, autosugestie, transformare personală, iniţiativă, la nivel de mentalitate colectivă sau la nivel de control şi informaţie.

Adevărata Superioritate

On Mai 08, 2016

Schimbă-ţi percepţia asupra propriei ființe, în funcţie de poziţia sau unghiul din care priveşti fiecare din experienţele care te-au făcut să fii ceea ce ești.

Mă închideam în tăcere, în secretul unei chemări spre îndeletniciri mai înalte. Acest straniu fenomen nu se putea explica decât prin farmecul pe care îl reprezenta atingerea unui nivel mai ridicat de spiritualitate, în faţa unei aşa zise înclinaţii spre o nouă viziune a identităţii care, pentru a se declanşa, avea nevoie de împrejurări exterioare de "bun augur".

Ceva mă înstrăina de restul lumii, acea acută senzaţie a descoperirilor multiple, funcţia stimulatoare a unor revelaţii redimensionate care puteau mai târziu să inducă o trăire mistică, densă ca norii care umbresc soarele, făcând din mine etalonul unui sistem de referinţă inerţial, un "outsider" al societăţii actuale. Cu toate că dădusem la iveală tot ce era mai bun din mine, prin felul cum gândeam, prin felul cum gândirea îşi exprima atât de izbitor forţa nemasurată determinând proiecţiile unui supraunivers, nu reuşeam totuşi să definesc ceea ce era adevăr şi ceea ce era eroare.

Leadership: Cum navighezi între ipostaza de creator și cea de creație în propria ta transformare, astfel încât să creezi o simbioză între voința ta de a transforma și puterea de a fi transformat?

Uneori mi se părea că visez. Nimic nu mă atrăgea mai mult decât energia explozivă a unei experienţe de viaţă asociată unei dimensiuni particulare - a profunzimii izvorâte dintr-un act de contemplaţie, înlocuind relaţiile de transformare a coordonatelor spaţio-temporare ale cadrului de întâlnire cu mine însumi, visându-mă că visez, că visul m-a ales pe mine, nu eu pe el.. că nu sunt eu, ci un altul este în mine. Totul părea atât de real într-un atât de larg ireal.

Magicianul încerca să folosească realitatea de dincolo de vizibil, pentru a avea putere asupra lumii din faţa lui, încordând până la ultima limită a raţiunii muşchii acelor organe vitale numite: efecte secundare, dar nu fără a se transpune în ipostaza unui om condamnat să trăiască la nesfârşit proiecţiile propriei memorii, sfârşind prin a dialoga cu personaje imaginare.

Magia este calea spre construirea unui personaj din care îţi vine greu să crezi că vei scăpa. Intră în lumea lui şi convinge-te singur !

Leadership: Accepți să fii stăpân doar la tine acasă, sau ai pretenţia ridicolă de a fi şi la alții?

Talleyrand, Sfinxul neînţeles, triumful inteligenţei şi subtilităţii din umbra lui Bonaparte, n-a urmărit nimic altceva decât pacea pe tot parcursul evenimentelor acelor timpuri, şi o aştepta în virtutea următorului ideal: "Adevărata superioritate înseamnă să fii stăpân la tine acasă şi să n-ai niciodată pretenţia ridicolă de a fi şi la alţii."

Privit ca pe o metaforă, acest "la tine acasă, şi niciodată la alţii" este consecinţa unei particularităţi a fiinţei superioare care a îndrăznit să-şi asigure geometria ascunsă a spaţiul personal, tipic desenelor onirice ale lui Escher. Din această exprimare se degajă satisfacţia abandonării în faţa sinelui suprem încărcat cu pace, acea atmosferă sufletească de care simţi nevoia să te bucuri și să profiţi, acea atitudine de invulnerabilitate într-un cadru care nu contravine legilor lumii exterioare.

Superioritatea este o retragere din ceea ce este previzibil, încununarea într-o stare de conştiinţă clară care aduce noul, pacea sfântă, făcând ca adevărul ultim al lumii exterioare să fie adevărul tău. Retragerea nu se produce atâta timp cât omul nu e stăpânit de acea inteligenţă inexorabilă ce poate exista doar într-un singur punct: culminarea experienţei limitării şi a diferenţei.

Limitarea este o restrângere a zonei în care dorești să „locuieşti", un decor în care îți creezi propria poveste, este consecinţa rămânerii tale în sfera gândurilor și revelaţiilor care stau la baza propriei transformări. Te autocreezi prin ceea ce mintea plămădeşte în background. Te exteriorizezi prin secretele pe care le dezvălui ca pe nişte mărturisiri ale propriilor trăiri şi experienţe, prin facultatea de a părăsi un rol şi a lua locul altuia, fără a-l judeca, nu dincolo de bine şi de rău.

Leadership: Forma fenomenologică a lumii exterioare coincide cu esența ta, cu propriul tău conținut, atunci când realitatea pe care o creezi este furnizată sub forma unui "outsider" al propriei tale deveniri?

Experiența magiei, clădită pe temeiul efectelor creării unei entităţi de sine stătătoare, putând fi înţeleasă ca o unitate de emoții și idei, ca o activitate directă a ceea ce noi numim Minte, Suflet şi Voință, constă în a te situa la o distanță suficient de mare faţă de ceea ce se întâmplă în mintea altora. Această experiență este remarcabilă prin faptul că te ajută să treci peste orice obstacol aflat între tine și ceea ce te poate afecta în realitatea exterioară.

Magia reprezintă mărturisirea unor stranii atașamente faţă de ştiinţa de a obţine orice doreşti, de a supune orice dominaţiei tale şi de a dispune de o voinţă nelimitată de nimic. Un magician se transforma tot mai mult într-un profesionist atunci când ceea ce se ascunde în spatele aparenţelor devine o întoarcere la izvoarele adevăratei credinţe în ceva mai înalt decât este el în mod obişnuit.

Leadership: Cum reușești să valorifici profunzimile interioare atunci când te afli între realitate și vis, între cine ești și cine ai putea fi?

După cum două elemente eterogene, ca salpetrul și cărbunele, amestecate în anumite proporţii dau pulberea din care se poate desprinde o imensă energie explozivă, tot astfel fuziunea dintre cele două experiențe: „limitare" și diferenţă", funcţionând la o anumită frecvenţă de rezonanţă, poate să constituie o rută de exit faţă de restul lumii. Într-o anumită perioadă de timp, acest lucru conducând la crearea și propulsarea unei alte entităţi ale fiinţei spre un nivel mai înalt de percepţie a tot ceea ce ea reprezintă.

Percepţia asupra propriei fiinţe depinde de poziţia sau "unghiul" din care priveşti fiecare din cele două experienţe. Un individ poate exista într-un singur punct, într-un anumit moment al timpului, în acel punct în care este coechipierul minţii sale, când poate să compare rezultate celor două experiențe, și să devină stăpân pe direcția care reprezintă noul, schimbarea personală totală.

Realitatea pe care o creezi este furnizată sub forma unui "outsider" al propriei tale deveniri atunci când ceea ce simţi, trăieşti, experimentezi, este exprimat prin intermediul unei mărturisiri care nu dispare cu totul din povestirea pe lumea o citeşte din pură curiozitate.

Devii altcineva atunci când desăvârşirea ştiinţei tale pătrunde în sufletul celorlalţi oameni prin intermeiul unei mărturisiri care nu-i surprinde, dar îi face să te invidieze prin indiciile pe care nu au voie să le ignore.

Adevărata Superioritate nu este atinsă decât de fiinţele care se bucură în libertate de orizontul vast al universului lăuntric. Iar credinţa în existenţa unor forţe înalte, oferite de ştiinţă, precum şi mărturisirea fiecărei taine prin intermediul povestitorului care îşi deapănă firul amintirilor, se aplică la nivelul maturităţii de a-ţi înţelege unicitatea şi potenţialul creator dincolo de aparenţe şi presupuneri, dincolo de iluzia pe care oamenii o numesc "realitate".

Adevărata valoare a leadershipului

On Octombrie 24, 2010

Înaintează pe calea spre excelenţă, declanşând întregul instinct al geniului tău şi întregul avânt al inimii tale.

Maestrul era un om sclipitor. Nu avea deloc înclinaţie spre ştiinţele exacte şi pentru matematici. Erau ca nişte limbi străine pe care nu le putea înţelege, oricât de mult s-ar fi străduit să le înveţe. Dar cu toate acestea era un învăţat, un om care şi-a însuşit un mod de gândire cu mult diferit de al celorlalţi oameni, un mod de gândire în esenţă generator de noi idei, conexiuni, analogii, comparaţii, simboluri şi interpretări diferite. Era un artist desăvârşit care năzuia necontenit spre perfecţiune. Era un om deosebit care şi-a impus propriul talent prin propriile forţe, prin eforturi, prin hotărârea nestrămutată şi dăruirea sa exemplară pentru pictură.

Am mers într-o zi să stau de vorbă cu el şi să-i admir operele. Îşi crease un stil inedit de pictură folosindu-se, cu o poetică ingeniozitate, de cele mai importante elemente ale tehnicii în acuarelă. Se vedea cât colo că era înzestrat cu acea imaginaţie originală în măsură să născocească cele mai intense efecte. Stăteam în picioare lângă el cu modestie, într-o atitudine plină de respect şi de înţelegere. Ridicându-şi ochii spre mine şi încropind un surâs grăbit, maestrul luă cuvântul cu aceeaşi bună credinţă cu care îmi vorbise de nenumărate ori despre tablourile sale:

- Nicu, cel mai bine tainele semenilor le prind artiştii, dar uneori nici ei nu sunt conştienţi de asta. Un pictor, un portretist, pune pe pânză la lumina zilei toate ascunzişurile sufletului uman. El dă glas realităţii prin intermediul operei sale.

Leadership: Dezvăluirile tale îndeplinesc condiţia esenţială a creaţiei intelectuale şi artistice?

Un lider adevărat îşi expune viziunea în tot ceea ce înseamnă "abordarea complexă a activităţii de creaţie", insuflând avizaţilor în domeniu puternice sentimente de apartenenţă şi coeziune la un ideal care îşi măsoară dimensiunea prin însăşi forţa evidenţei.

Emisiile de cerinţe şi virtuţi, relativ extinse, pe care idealul le generează, sunt influenţate de nuanţele de adâncime ale fiinţei care receptează realitatea din jur, în mod obiectiv, dominând toate semnificaţiile de drept şi de fapt. Bine preciza cineva pe web: "Utilizarea unei opere care conţine un portret necesită consimţământul persoanei reprezentate în acest portret."

Un argument care stă în favoarea acestei ipoteze, îndreptându-ne atenţia către dorinţa de individualizare a creatorului, dar mai ales către o garanţie a gustului pentru sensibilitate, este răbdarea de a descoperi frumosul care se zbate între receptare şi interpretare.

Leadershipul este apanajul unei intelectualităţi, deseori rebele, care schimbă realitatea, experimentând tot ce este mai nou şi mai interesant; a unei intelectualităţi care analizează dimprejurul cu obiectivitate şi alege tot ceea ce ar conduce la conturarea unei viziuni dinamice şi constructive.

Adevărul, pe care dezvăluirile creaţiei îl scot la iveală, este faptul că producţia culturală şi intelectuală îl supune pe creator la o presiune continuă, pentru a livra noi sensuri de exprimare cu valoare de exemplu. Este un adevăr care linişteşte prin profunzimea pe care o demonstrează procesul gândirii care conduce recunoaşterea valorilor definitorii, dar în acelaşi timp sufocă printr-o apropiere mai mult decât necesară de un pattern alternant de creşteri şi scăderi ale dispoziţiei de înţelegere a sinelui.

Leadership: Poţi să dai dovadă o inepuizabilă forţă de sugestie, actualizându-ţi imaginea implicării tale concrete în dinamica unui parcurs artistic marcat de o rară coerență ideatică?

Prin intermediul "operei" sale, pe care are dreptul s-o retuşeze şi s-o desăvârşească, în voie, în vederea apropierii de perfecţiune, liderul îşi exprimă realitatea, tot aşa cum marii pictori îşi exprimă conştient sau inconştient întregul lor univers prin capodoperele pe care le creează.

Opera liderului însumează acele senzaţii, percepţii, noţiuni, judecăţi şi raţionamente legate de realitatea percepută, care îl ajută să se manifeste şi să se exprime. Un lider nu poate să-şi transforme viziunea în realitate dacă nu-şi declanşează întregul instinct al geniului său şi întregului avânt al inimii sale.

Foarte sigur pe sine, pătruns de sentimentul unei demnităţi şi unei valori cu totul personale, el îşi conduce strategiile şi îşi călăuzeşte "creaţia" în concordanţă cu valorile în care crede, astfel încât ea să capete o însemnătate cat mai mare.

Leadership: Eşti în stare să-ţi extinzi graniţele influenţei, creând valoare din analiza fundamentelor cu care îţi argumentezi schimbarea conceptului de "receptare a operei" cu care te simţi solidar?

Cu şase sute de ani în urmă, în epoca în care arta se afla la mare cinste, mulţi duci, regi şi papi au fost gata să-şi vândă coroana, sceptrul ori tiara numai ca să poată achiziţiona unul din acele minunate giuvaeruri sau opere de artă ce ieşeau din mâinile meşterilor.

Un lider nu se poate impune în relaţiile cu oamenii dacă "opera" căreia i-a dat viaţă nu este dorită de nimeni. În acest caz el nu se poate numi un adevărat "meşter" în ale leadershipului.

Receptarea operei certifică un sens, şi nu numai sensul operei, ci şi sensul artei în general, sensul progresului ei. Aşadar, conceptul de "receptare a operei" fixează corespondenţele dintre sensul care permite circulaţia recunoaşterii tale, prin trăiri ale experienţei de viaţă materializate în linii, forme şi culori, şi expresia de uimire şi încântare pe care o are privitorul atunci când îţi evaluează lucrarea la terminarea ei.

Un lider adevărat îşi simte misiunea, chemarea nevăzută, pentru că ele singurele forţe cărora le dă întotdeauna ascultare. Asta e firea şi destinul său, Dar nu priveşte cu uşurinţă datoria sa faţă de ascunzişurile artei. Conştient că adevărata lui valoare este apreciată după abilităţile sale, el îşi pune toate forţele în scopul creării unei opere desăvârşite care să capteze în totalitate atenţia oamenilor şi care să nu-şi piardă niciodată magia.

Odată, un critic l-a întrebat pe marele pictor român, Nicolae Grigorescu în ce constă secretul artei sale. El i-a răspuns: "Niciun secret, dragă domnule ! Privesc lucrul cu ochii mei şi caut să-l fac aşa cum îl văd ! "

Ca lider trebuie să întreprinzi o călătorie plină de satisfacţii: călătoria spre adevărata ta valoare. Priveşte-te cu ochii sufletului, apoi modelează-ţi potenţialul după propriile tale convingeri, criterii şi idei. Caută să fii aşa cum te vezi. Dă glas realităţii prin intermediul a ceea ce eşti, a ceea ce gândeşti, a ceea ce simţi şi a ceea ce-ţi doreşti. Te-ai convins că totul se bazează pe leadership?

Să fii un rezultat al creaţiei artistice înseamnă să experimentezi o stare de acceptare exterioară prin interiorizarea echilibrului, armoniei, coerenței presupuse de "frumosul" pe care îl dezvăluie arta ta.

Concluzie: Leadershipul poate fi o capodoperă sau doar o activitate stearpă. Poate fi o sumă de activităţi benefice tuturor, sau poate consta doar într-o sumă de acţiuni care să nu fie în beneficiul nimănui. Liderul, la rândul lui, poate fi un veritabil artist sau un cabotin, un individ care nu are nimic în comun cu arta conducerii. Depinde de noi toţi să găsim mijloacele de a recunoaşte un lider adevărat şi să-l urmăm sau să demascăm şi să înlăturăm "non-liderul".

Adevărul de dincolo de magie (II)

On Ianuarie 26, 2015

Asigură un mediu al schimbării care salută excepţionalitatea, transformându-te într-un programator al unui nou conţinut de sine.

Era un soi de convenţie a unei funcţionări ce admitea o singură variabilă: redimensionarea realităţii, sub acţiunea unor forţe de înaintare ce făceau posibilă teleportarea în timp şi spaţiu. Prin magie. Trecerea aceasta de la o unitate mai deplină, la o unitate profundă, părea înfăşurată de spiralele unei lumi ce lăsa în urmă nimicul şi alte ceruri. Astfel, exista posibilitatea de a detecta prezenţa lui Dumnezeu peste tot şi nicăieri, asumată printr-un înţeles care acoperea intervalul cuprins între raţiune şi imaginaţie.

Dintr-o clipă în alta, mi se părea că mă aflu într-un loc diferit, că uit unde mă aflu şi ce se întâmplă în jur. Negreşit, eram ţintuit în mijlocul unor determinări situate valoric în limitele unor legi de impact, exprimate prin ecuaţiile unor clauze neevidente. Nu-i de mirare că nu mai aveam niciun control asupra situaţiei. În ultimă instanţă, probabil că n-aş greşi dacă aş spune că îmi scăpa totul. Cu toate acestea, am mers înainte încercând să-i dau de capăt acestei şarade apropiate de zona science-fiction, cufundându-mă orbeşte în ireal.

Leadership: Cum poate actul de a „îndura totul" să fie comparat cu procesul artistic, în care creatorul, asemenea unui magician, transformă durerea și frica într-o expresie a voinței divine și a luminii interioare?

Prinţul, abia reîntors din împărăţia vecină, se uită drept în ochii tatălui său şi-l întrebă:

- Tată, e adevărat că nu eşti împărat, ci doar un magician? Trebuie să cunosc adevărul, adevărul de dincolo de magie. Altfel am să mă omor.

- Nu există adevăr dincolo de magie, răspunse împăratul. Şi prin farmecele sale chemă moartea să vină. Moartea apăru în uşă şi îi făcu semn prinţului să vină cu ea. Prinţul se înfioră. Îşi aminti de insulele frumoase, frumoase dar ireale şi de prinţesele ireale, ireale dar frumoase.

- Prea bine, zise. Voi putea îndura totul.

- Vezi, fiule, zise împăratul, acum eşti şi tu magician.

Leadership: Încerci să controlezi un mediu de tip „Open World" prin valorificarea unei experienţe distribuite într-un soi de colaj al concretului şi abstractului?

Leadershipul este un factor extrem de important în fertilitatea unui teren nou de gândire, dar el are nevoie de aprobare din partea sinelui ca să se contureze. Mai ales din partea acelui sine care există dincolo de percepţia directă, dincolo de filtrele realităţii obiective (care nu este atât de cuprinzătoare ca realitatea subiectivă).

Atunci când aprobi existenţa unei realităţi a cărui orizont de aplicabilitate nu se vede prea devreme, înseamnă că recunoşti o altă variantă a cunoaşterii care interferează cu „materia magică" a sinelui.

The Open Word, ca şi condiţie a propriei transformări în marea ecuaţie a pretenţiei de a fi altcineva, evidenţiază originalitatea pe care ţi-o asumi prin constituirea unei noi identităţi care poate să-ţi confere o anumită împlinire, pendulând între ceea ce eşti capabil să înfrunţi şi ceea ce eşti capabil să posezi. Iar o mască pe care ţi-o pui deasupra nesiguranţelor tale, de frica de a nu fi vulnerabil, este începutul unei tentative de a evada dintr-un univers obscur (obiceiuri lumeşti, disperate, obsedate de nereuşită).

Leadership înseamnă să pui în valoare o cunoaştere a cărei extindere duce la crearea unei noi realităţi, detaşându-te de condiţia imediată de prizonier al concretului.

Dacă vrei ca leadershipul să reflecte şi să pună în valoare o cunoaştere a cărei extindere să ducă la crearea unei noi realităţi, detaşează-te de condiţia imediată de prizonier al concretului şi transformă-te într-un programator al unui nou conţinut de sine. Care se poate realiza prin proiectarea în viitor a unei alte imagini a puterii, ca un magician de ordin superior capabil să furnizeze noi perspective lumii, prezentate ca un fel de " Mission impossible ".

Zilele trecute, Eric Schmidt, preşedintele executiv al Google, a declarat că internetul va dispărea în forma pe care oamenii o cunosc în prezent. Aşadar noua realitate, căreia îi corespunde un alt orizont de aşteptare, se construieşte dintr-un alt soi de experienţă - una bazată pe minuni, pe magie, pe suspendarea unor legi unanim acceptate, ca o redirecţionare a înţelesului acordat obişnuitului. Rămâi în joc?

Leadership: Mintea ta îşi îndreaptă privirea spre tot ce e mai „sfânt" dincolo de confruntarea dintre lumea aceasta şi lumea cealaltă?

Există costuri ascunse pentru orice fel de experienţe distribuite într-un soi de colaj al concretului şi abstractului, dar ele ajută la promovarea imaginii puterii tale nebănuite. Leadershipul cel mai înalt se materializează prin puterea de a te manifesta ca un descoperitor de taine, prin puterea de a înlocui certitudinile prezentului. Prin puterea de a te situa deasupra acelui nivel mediu de gândire acceptat de marea majoritate. Prin puterea de a te situa deasupra unei realităţi ale cărei imperfecţiuni se estompează în acea perspectivă a obişnuitului, care nu poate da nicidecum măsura unei inteligenţe creatoare originale.

Parafrazându-l pe istoricul olandez, Johan Huizinga, aş spune că mintea liderului-creator nu se poate desprinde din cercul magic al jocului puterii, ea îşi îndreaptă privirea spre tot ce e mai sfânt. Adică spre tot ceea ce este mai secret, mai acoperit cu subînţelesuri şi asocieri care scapă oricărei logici, oricărei încadrări în real, căutând un ascunziş definitiv care poate apărea mai târziu în viaţa celorlalţi oameni drept verosimil. Ca o consecinţă a condiţiei de convergenţă spre înalt, spre sursa supremă a „iluminării".

Dacă este adevărat ce spunea cineva, că abstractul şi concretul se contopesc logic într-un univers ilogic - mintea noastră, atunci experienţele obţinute prin cufundarea în ireal pot reda imaginea unei noi lumi vecine cu confuzia, plină de mister, dar în acelaşi timp plină de atracţii.

Un conţinut nou de sine are ca şi corespondent imaginea unei personalităţi aflată între ceea ce se defineşte ca "imperativ imediat al acceptabilului" şi ceea ce se naşte din adâncirea ta în nişte adevăruri irefutabile considerate ca fiind "sfinte" într-o realitate care se schimbă tot timpul.

Adevărul de dincolo de magie scoate în evidenţă acea putere a gândirii sprijinită de un soi de colaj al concretului şi abstractului, prin care se clădeşte o nouă realitate adaptată incredibil pe pelicula leadershipului, printr-o încununare a cunoaşterii imaginative, întemeiate pe o viziune misterioasă care atribuie incertitudine oricărei clase de convingeri.

Adevărul de dincolo de magie (III)

On Ianuarie 28, 2015

Realizează o expansiune a sensului realităţii către ceva mai vast, prin împletirea informaţiilor de care poţi fi conştient numai printr-o reconciliere a contradicţiilor propriei gândiri şi identităţi.

Nu aveam niciun plan în minte, nicio idee despre ce urma să fac în tot acest pătrat mişcător, în al cărui centru, întunecos ca mormântul şi tulburător ca somnul din care te trezeşti mai greu, se împleticeau însingurate toate fluxurile de reprezentări ale irealului. Absorbit de gânduri de nimeni ştiute, amplificate sub frânturile de glasuri ale nevăzutului, în dezordinea pagubelor suferite de conştiinţă, nu-mi dădeam seama că, involuntar, uitasem de mine însumi.

Ochii mei nu aveau puterea de a se deschide. Mă simţeam înstrăinat de propria mea natură, de parcă aş fi fost prins într-o vrajă pe care nimeni din lume nu o putea desface. Nesimţitor, rămâneam indiferent faţă de tot ceea ce se petrecea în jurul meu, destabilizat fiind de un gen de autoritate cu sensuri complicate, enigmatice şi cuprinzătoare.

Unii metafizicieni numesc acest fenomen „rătăcirea frânturilor de adevăr în ceaţa presupunerilor false", o doză sporadică de acceptare a ceea ce te face să rămâi nesincer şi inautentic. Un personaj al lui Frank Herbert încerca să găsească explicaţia pentru realitatea şi prezentul aflate dincolo de pragul unde gândurile se prefac în visuri. În cazul meu, el ar fi trebuit mai întâi să elimine confuziile din jurul trăirilor care intersectau axa lumii reale într-un cadru în care predomina alteritatea.

Leadership: Poate iluzia orizontului care te atrage să fie văzută ca o expresie artistică a dorinței de a atinge divinul, chiar dacă realitatea pare să fie doar un joc de magie?

În timp ce prinţul căuta o barcă pe mal, un bărbat îmbrăcat în haine de seară, cu mânecile suflecate, se apropie de el. Prinţul, uimit de noua realitate care i se dezvăluise, îl întrebă:

- Insulele de acolo sunt adevărate? Şi făpturile acelea stranii şi tulburătoare? Dacă da, atunci trebuie să existe şi un Dumnezeu.

- Eu sunt Dumnezeu, răspunse omul în haine de seară, înclinându-se uşor.

- Nu-i adevărat. Data trecută m-ai păcălit, dar nu se va mai întâmpla. Acum ştiu că nimic din această împărăţie nu este real. Iar tu nu eşti decât un magician.

- Nu eu te păcălesc. Şi în împărăţia tatălui tău există multe insule şi multe prinţese frumoase, dar tatăl tău te ţine sub vraja lui şi nu le poţi vedea.

Leadership: Valoarea superiorităţii tale se datorează unei experienţe care poate fi realizată şi apreciată numai prin izolarea temporară într-o lume relativă?

Modul în care te gândeşti la ceea ce nu eşti, sub forma unui experiment de redare a unei structuri diferite de gândire care să stea la baza transformării tale, poate deveni o călăuză a ascensiunii spre noi forme de putere. Dar această ascensiune, care îşi are debutul în acceptarea unei alte atitudini mentale şi emoţionale, limitează experienţa interioară prin densitatea întrebărilor şi răspunsurilor care nu reuşesc să îţi clarifice nivelul de luciditate spre care tinzi.

Cineva scria pe o pagină web: „Viaţa noastră psihică conştientă este în mare parte o iluzie, o împletire de informaţii de care nu suntem conştienţi că le-am înregistrat. "

Leadership: Poţi să creezi o punte între vizibil și invizibil, sugerând posibilitatea transcendenței prin artă?

O expansiune a sensului realităţii către ceva mai vast, prin împletirea informaţiilor de care poţi fi conştient numai printr-o reconciliere a contradicţiilor propriei gândiri şi identităţi, cu riscul de a cădea în îndelungi reverii, este o abordare inedită a cunoaşterii de sine - prin intermediul iniţierii într-un grad superior de autonomie.

În acest caz, transcendenta prin artă se referă la abilitatea de a depăși limitele percepției convenționale, împletind contradicțiile interioare într-o formă creativă care revelează o nouă înțelegere a sinelui și a realității.

Autonomia pe care ţi-o conferă fapta de a fi diferit într-un context de tipul "realitate augmentată", ce corespunde combinărilor de reprezentări ale lumii din afară Eului, are ca obiect obligaţia asumată de a te subordona unor legi superioare Ţie? Aceste legi provin din interiorizarea trebuinţelor celorlalţi, sau din descoperiri accidentale care te determină să-ţi schimbi viziunea asupra a ceea ce este posibil a fi înfăptuit?

Leadership: Trebuie să-ţi asumi o anumită independență în raport cu o autoritate exterioară, chiar dacă asta implică o doză sporadică de acceptare a ceea ce te face să fii nesincer şi fals?

Pentru a trasa un nou curs leadershipului care să te ajute să stăpâneşti noi forme de devenire, trebuie să-ţi asumi o anumită independență în raport cu o autoritate exterioară, chiar dacă asta implică o doză sporadică de acceptare a ceea ce te face să fii nesincer şi fals. Această falsitate este o modalitate pretenţioasă de a te verifica sub o altă formă, de a-ţi gestiona identitatea sub o nouă lumină.

Altfel spus, este un soi de experienţă care poate fi realizată şi apreciată numai prin izolarea temporară într-o lume magică, relativă - o lume dizolvată într-o lume nouă, care încă nu a prins formă. O nebunie care ascunde o mare înţelepciune, alte orizonturi, devenind sursa unei filosofii care-şi asumă relativitatea, care refuză înţepenirea într-o anumită apreciere a fenomenelor sau proceselor cercetate.

Leadershipul cel mai autentic se regăseşte în arta de a cădea şi de a te redefini sub puterea unei vrăji, luând drept fir călăuzitor ideea de provocare a minunilor, deci învestirea ta cu puternice trăsături de alteritate, o experienţă pozitivă a identificării opţiunilor de transformare personală. Şi de a te trezi la adevărata realitate preschimbat într-un cu totul alt om, într-un izvor de învăţături, de înţelepciune şi adevăruri adânci - din care ceilalţi oameni să se inspire.

Vraja pe care trebuie să o faci ca să-i inspiri pe oamenii din jurul tău este să încerci să găseşti explicaţia pentru realitatea şi prezentul aflate dincolo de pragul unde gândurile lor se prefac în visuri.

Adevărul de dincolo de magie ţine mai degrabă de înţelegerea fenomenologică - indică saltul pe care îl faci într-o lume relativă care îţi poate conferi certitudinea unei noi înţelegeri de sine.

Puterea de preschimbare, care preexistă propriilor manifestări, şi pe care nimeni nu ţi-o poate conferi, este o mare tentaţie dacă aspiri la atingerea superiorităţii. Ea cântăreşte totul din mai multe puncte de vedere. Este o formă de adaptare la un nou context de autorealizare, o formă de raportare la nişte factori consideraţi variabili, a căror valoare se modifică substanţial printr-un proces introspectiv pe parcursul trecerii de la un tip de gândire la altul.

Adevărul de dincolo de magie (I)

Încearcă să-ţi fundamentezi propriile teorii ştiinţifice ce pot da credibilitate unei noi linii de gândire, interacţionând cu acele „necunoscute" create în jurul unor experienţe personalizate.

Sub imboldul unei inspiraţii puternice, încercam să plonjez într-un necunoscut care exista doar prin acţiunea unor forţe de tip impuls. Invizibile circuite de identificare a adevărurilor nerostite în fluxul vieţii, pe care înţelepciunea veacului acestuia nu putea să le împlinească. Neînduplecat, căutând ascunsuri ce nu se puteau împlini uşor, mistere rămase nedescoperite de mintea omenească, aterizam permanent într-un loc în care nici nu visam. Mă trezeam într-un teritoriu plin de farmec şi de lucruri uimitoare, înconjurat de tot ceea ce mă făcea să cred că acolo era paradisul, lăcaşul lui Dumnezeu.

Cred că mă aflam într-un soi de derivă experimentală, ca într-o călătorie inițiatică într-un outside care făcea posibilă schimbarea identităţii, încercând să-mi fundamentez propriile teorii ştiinţifice ce puteau da credibilitate unei noi linii de gândire. Intenţionam să umplu golul acesta de neînţeles care se mărea la nesfârşit înăuntrul meu, în raport cu un exterior care scăpa oricărei înţelegeri.

Deliberat, mă pierdeam într-un labirint al jocurilor psihologice, cu roluri provocatoare şi improvizaţii de situaţii ambigue. Într-o frenezie de senzaţii şi dependenţe de putere. Ca şi când aş fi intrat într-un circuit integrator de impulsuri de identificare a unor entităţi de natură specială, pe care nu le credeam cu putinţă.

Leadership: Îţi accepţi statutul de a fi superior în ecuaţia propriei fiinţe, dand crezare unor lucruri pe care nu le credeai posibile?

Scriitorul englez, John Fowles, povestea că a fost odată un prinţ care credea în toate lucrurile în afară de trei. Nu credea în prinţese, nu credea în insule, nu credea în Dumnezeu. Împăratul, tatăl său, îi spusese că toate acestea nu există. Şi cum în împărăţia tatălui său nu existau nici prinţese, nici insule şi nici vreun semn al existenţei lui Dumnezeu, tânărul prinţ îi dădu crezare.

Dar într-o zi prinţul fugi din palat şi ajunse în împărăţia vecină. Aici, spre uimirea sa, văzu nenumărate insule în largul coastelor. Şi pe aceste insule nişte făpturi stranii de o frumuseţe răpitoare. Iar în timp ce se plimba pe malul uneia dintre insule, îl întâlni pe Dumnezeu.

A fi superior în ecuaţia propriei fiinţe înseamnă să manifeşti tendinţa de a te retrage dintr-un joc pe care nu l-ai inventat tu, dar la care ai luat parte prin faptul că aparții aceleiași linii de dependenţă faţă pe care practicarea lui.

Leadership: Poţi să utilizezi linia de putere pe care operează fluxul de cunoaştere multi-direcţional, extrăgând noi constante de "inedit" din experienţe mai vaste?

Un scriitor profund îşi începea monologul: „Ştiinţa este o haină pe care n-o găsim în magazine, ci în tainele a ceea ce ne înconjoară." Ei bine, aceasta este o ştiinţă mai presus de celelalte ştiinţe, pe care o poţi integra în unitatea superioară a unei viziuni care nu a mai fost abordată – şi care face cinste leadershipului.

Poţi să deschizi orizontul unei cunoaşteri pe care să o poţi integra într-un tot unitar? O cunoaştere care se particularizează printr-o abordare a interpretărilor a tot ceea ce te înconjoară - în lucrurile mici, în adevărurile nespuse, în simbolurile realului care ar putea fi imaginat ascuns sau explicit, într-un mediu în care te poţi manifesta drept un artist al personalizărilor, în motivele pe care ţi le pui singur în faţă, în rolurile diferite pe care le îndeplineşti în relaţiile cu ceilalţi?

Leadership: Cum poate cunoașterea, însoțită de riscul de a te rătăci, să fie transformată într-o formă de artă abstractă, oferind o viziune unică asupra propriei tale existențe?

Cunoaşterea cea mai profundă se naşte din plăsmuiri ale minţii, pline de semnificaţii, în relaţie cu lumea şi cu realitatea pe care o recreezi printr-o autonomie a puterii de transformare identitară. Ea reprezintă o sursă importantă de informaţii, o modalitate prin care se atinge o realitate plină de miez, dar mai ales o abordare a propriei identităţi prin interacţionarea cu anumite „necunoscute" exterioare care deseori nu se percep în mod direct.

Iar această cunoaştere, integrată într-un model de evoluţie care poate schimba conştiinţa, dând un nou sens vieţii, este rezultatul sondărilor interioare în cadrul unei varietăţi de experienţe. Este rezultatul unei succesiuni de lecţii care trebuiesc trăite într-un alt chip şi în impulsurile altor coordonate pentru a putea fi înţelese şi aşezate într-o ordine care să creeze o continuitate identităţii tale, cu riscul de a te rătăci sau de a te dezamăgi. Aceasta este cunoaşterea care fundamentează evoluţia unui model de autoritate bazată pe noi abordări, de pe poziţii mult mai echidistante şi pluraliste, care dau leadershipului o notă de magie.

Leadershipul tău se poate reflecta ca autoritate îndrumătoare în înţelesul pe care îl dai experienţelor de interacţiune cu tot ceea ce te înconjoară?

Leadershipul devine o formă de cunoaştere evoluată în măsura în care îţi asumi o experienţă mai vastă de viaţă şi de creaţie, mai provocatoare, care abia ulterior se răsfrânge asupra sferei de business. Comportându-se asemenea unei lumini care îndepărtează tot ceea ce este întuneric, leadershipul se poate reflecta ca autoritate îndrumătoare în înţelesul pe care îl dai experienţelor de interacţiune cu tot ceea ce te înconjoară.

Iar când această autoritate se înfăţişează sub forma unor construcţii independente de judecată, sub o formă neaşteptată de dominare a unui „ încă nu este evident ", abia atunci vei fi plasat într-o poziţie de superioritate.

Adevărul de dincolo de magie scoate în evidenţă acea cunoaştere întemeiată pe experienţe personalizate, ce au rolul de a te deconecta de la un real stabilit prin mai multe distincții familiare între adevărat și fals, formându-te ca un maestru al creării contextelor de auto-depăşire sau de influenţare.

Adevărul de sub scutul confesiunii

On Mai 17, 2012

Observă-te şi judecă-te singur de la distanţa celui care a înţeles în bună măsură limitele fireşti ale leadershipului.

Filmul "Meet Joe Black (1998)" . Susan se afla în faţa tatălui ei, marele om de afaceri Bill Parrish, mare şi prin faptul că o iubea mai mult decât pe oricine altcineva. Îi mărturisi cu înflăcărarea omului care a câştigat marea luptă cu prezentul, şi a cărui viitor rezonează perfect cu gândurile sale:

- Dragoste, pasiune, obsesie… Toate acele lucruri pe care tu mi-ai zis să le aştept. Ei bine, au devenit realitate. M-am îndrăgostit de Joe, aşa cum s-a întâmplat cu tine şi cu mama. Îl iubesc !

Simţurile, sufletul, toate aceste elemente constitutive ale fiinţei cu adevărat supusă forţelor implacabile ale dragostei, conferindu-i stabilitate, dezmorțindu-i acel imbold lăuntric care o înălţa în toate privinţele, trezindu-i voinţa, sunt dintr-o dată tulburate. Căci, surprinzător, tatăl ei, şocat de confesiunea ce i-a fost împărtăşită, lansează puternicul val al mâniei, îl împinge mai departe până ce acest val mătură ceea ce mai rămăsese şi mai stăruia ca reziduu din trecutul lor. Ca şi cum legătura dintre ei doi s-ar fi rupt, Bill ridică tonul, pentru prima oară atât de brutal:

- Nu-mi pasă dacă îl iubeşti ! Îţi spun…Joe nu e bun pentru tine !

Privindu-l cu ochii plini de tristeţe, ca un om neputincios ce şi-a pierdut într-o clipă sensul vieţii, simţindu-şi gâtuite, sufocate toate acele emoţii care dau frumuseţe vieţii, care ispitesc inima omului, înfierbântându-i sângele şi făcându-l să clocotească în întreaga fiinţă, Susan se vede nevoită să încheie conversaţia:

- Desigur, tată. Îmi pare rău.

Inima ei, răvăşită, dezgolită de orice extaz, cuprindea fără îndoială cuvintele pe care, odată, Marchiza de Brinvilliers i le-a adresat singurului ei prieten, cu puţin timp înainte de a urca pe eşafod: „ Eşti tu stăpânul tuturor sentimentelor mele până în momentul morţii mele? "

Leadership: Cauţi să experimentezi o transformare de tipul "Revino la natura ta adevărată" insistând pe adevărul ce se ascunde în spatele constrângerilor de utilizare a ceea ce este mai presus de tine?

A nu fi eficient în acea zonă preponderent umană care îţi dezvoltă leadershipul presupune a nu găsi modalităţile cele mai eficiente de manifestare a empatiei, a ignora toate acele idealuri, simţăminte, valori, convingeri care nu corespund cu realitatea ta, cu normele propriului tău Eu. Toate acestea constituie un indiciu infailibil cu privire la forma şi stilul tău de a relaţiona, si, totodată, semnul că te îndepărtezi de calea spre performanţă; ele evidenţiază calea cea mai uşoară de a-ţi deprecia valoarea.

Puterea unui lider rezidă din capacitatea de a păstra simultan în minte şi în suflet cele două elemente opuse, dar egale ca forţă: dragostea şi ura, înţelegerea şi neînţelegerea lumii exterioare. Ea vine din interior, din percepţia proprie asupra elementelor de bază care alimentează o existenţă bazată pe constrângerile unei lumi unde nu dețin întregul control și nu pot spune Nu la orice.

Liderul care tinde spre perfecţiune prin calităţile sale deosebite, prin puterea lui de a sprijini dezvoltarea şi consolidarea relaţiilor umane, are încorporat în structura sa mecanismul de analiză al propriilor sale valori, pasiunile, convingerile, căruia îşi subordonează propria existenţă. El deţine pârghia dură şi sensibilă a dezvoltării fiinţei umane cu ajutorul căreia poate învinge cele mai dificile crize de personalitate. Şi datorită căreia poate linişti, înlătura manifestările negative, instabile, necaracteristice ale propriului său Eu.

Mai presus de ceea ce te reprezintă ca o versiune grandioasă a sinelui tău trebuie să fie generozitatea de a-ţi dărui încrederea în aspiraţiile şi visurile celor dispuşi să experimenteze o călătorie pentru suflet responsabilă de creşterea sensibilităţii faţă de valorile vieţii.

Leadership: Eşti pregătit să experimentezi o întâlnire cu tine din perspectiva abandonării pretenţiei de a şti totul în mod direct şi de a controla totul?

A respinge orice cerere, orice formă, orice încercare a oamenilor de se apropia de tine. A nu fi receptiv la felul lor de a fi, a nu fi perceput drept confident, primitor şi deschis la propunerea lor de dialog, înseamnă a respinge o parte din tine însuti. Înseamnă a respinge orice parte din creaţia căreia i-ai dat naştere, acel leadership înzestrat cu cele mai alese calităţi morale şi emoţionale.

Iar a respinge acea parte din tine însuţi care îţi asigură un aport ridicat de "nutrienţi" sănătoşi, ce combat orice îndepărtare de la principiile şi valorile care te definesc, nu înseamnă altceva decât scufundarea ta în adâncul oceanului şi rămânerea bruscă fără oxigen.

Să ieşi la suprafaţă şi să inhalezi aer proaspăt, aerul cald al reînnoirii propriului Eu. Să-ţi schimbi toată garderoba empatică – şi s-o alegi pe cea care te avantajează cel mai mult, aceea care conţine foarte multă înţelegere, respect reciproc, multă căldură sufletească, acea garderobă care să satisfacă până şi cele mai riguroase pretenţii. Asta denotă că eşti un om deosebit pe care ceilalţi se pot baza oricând.

Leadership: Eşti dispus să renunţi la propria ta dreptate şi să începi să te îndrepţi spre orizontul unei înţelegeri primare atunci când vrei să ştii totul despre ceilalţi?

Dar Susan, femeia teribil de îndrăgostită, subordonată unui puternic imbold lăuntric, trece deschis la răzvrătire; îşi adună tot curajul inimii, îşi alimentează spiritul cu voinţa cea mai aprigă, îşi pune în stare de funcţiune toate instalaţiile de apărare împotriva oricărui "NU" al tatălui ei, şi îşi urmează inima. Ce contează părerea lui, atâta timp cât este în joc sufletul ei, dorinţa ei, pasiunea ei?

Şi abia în ceasul al 12-lea, la plecarea ei, ca şi când ar fi rămas singur pe lume, Bill îşi dă seama de greşeala făcută. Se confesează. A fost oare o greşeală voită, sau neintenţionată? se întreabă el, grav, în sinea lui, ca un om hotărât să-şi însemne până în cele mai mici amănunte tot ce-a pătimit, tot ce-a murit în el însuşi, străduindu-se din răsputeri să nu scape niciun detaliu, sau ca nu cumva să falsifice în vreun chip realitatea.

Ceea ce constituie unitatea leadershipului nu este compoziţia sa de valori şi de virtuţi conţinută, ci felul magistral în care liderul, destinat să-şi ateste coeficientul de nobleţe, le gestionează.

Leadership: Poţi să deschizi noi posibilităţi de modificare a aprecierii tale faţă de calităţile unei persoane, prin corelaţiile sau convergenţele cu valorile care te fac să te simţi împlinit?

Aşa cum într-un roman, specificul personajelor, caracterul lor, reiese din semnele particulare pe care le observă autorul, tot astfel trăsăturile particulare de caracter ale liderului, care îl împiedică să se bucure de binele pe care l-ar fi putut oferi celorlalţi, recăpătându-ţi astfel stima de sine, reies din propria sa autoobservare.

Cu vasta lui experienţă, cultură, cu vasta lui panoplie de principii, idei, convingeri pe care nu trebuie să le trădeze, deci pe care să se bazeze, liderul, asemenea instituţiilor media care trebuie să-şi îndeplinească misiunea informând corect şi obiectiv publicul, trebuie să-şi îndeplinească sublima misiune de a trece dincolo de frontiera cunoaşterii.

El trebuie să transmită oamenilor, cu forţă susţinută, fără să neglijeze calitatea relaţiilor, esenţa bine conturată a caracterului său - acea viziune proprie, care să răspândească o energie copleșitoare, motivând paşii pe care ei trebuie să-i facă, şi să dea un sens călătoriei vieţii lor.

O întâlnire cu tine din perspectiva abandonării pretenţiei de a controla totul este o aproximare a intensităţii cu care încerci să-ţi asumi destinul din partea plinătăţii Egoului care îţi transmite neîncetat mesajul: "Nu judeca fiecare zi după roadele pe care le culegi, ci după seminţele pe care le plantezi".

Adevărul de sub scutul confesiunii evidenţiază acele trăiri benefice, care însumate dau valoare existenţei acelora care se conformează leadershipului tău. Dar, în acelaşi timp, şi reciproca este valabilă. Iar în acest caz, singurul care are de pătimit este liderul.

Leadershipul presupune şi un permanent dialog cu sinele. Adevărul din Eul tău îl poţi cunoaşte doar atunci când te confesezi ţie însuţi. Leadershipul are în compoziţia sa un imens conţinut de sentimente umane; el nu este un sistem strict tehnic, cu un soft programat în baza unor legi ale fizicii, matematicii şi electronicii, ci are o puternică încărcătură de elemente specific umane.

Observă-te şi judecă-te singur de la distanţa celui care a înţeles în bună măsură limitele fireşti ale leadershipului.

Adevărul, Maat, este echilibrul lumii și realitatea intimă

On Decembrie 28, 2012

Maximizează vizibilitatea mesajului pe care îl adresezi celorlalţi, creând o imagine care să reflecte valoarea simbolului "eu sunt" în mintea lor.

- De ce-mi spui că trebuie, mai înainte de orice, să-mi îndrept inima spre propria profunzime? De ce toți înţelepţii spun că trebuie să-ți pui singur întrebări, să cauţi în tine adevărul, din moment ce zeul se află peste tot în univers, în tot ceea ce este creat, în lumea aparenţelor şi în ceea ce rămâne ascuns privirilor noastre?

- Spune-mi: ce poate să ţi se pară lumea pe care o vezi, tot ceea ce te înconjoară, tot ceea ce percep ochii şi urechile tale, dacă nu eşti în stare să-ți pui întrebări despre aceste realităţi care frapează simţurile? În noi şi în afara noastră se află cunoaşterea şi, deci, Adevărul, Maat, care este echilibrul lumii, dar și realitatea intimă.

Căci acum cunoşti probabil că zeii pe care îi reprezentăm, precum şi tot ceea ce se spune despre ei sunt doar niște realități reduse la simboluri, semne pe care numai înţelepţii le pot descifra şi citi, după cum scrierea noastră sacră este exprimată doar prin imagini. Astfel, când vezi trasat pe un papirus un semicerc, îți spui imediat că se citeşte "neb" şi că îl desemnează pe stăpân, iar dacă vezi un stindard care flutură în vârful cozii te gândeşti la “neter” şi ştii că este vorba de zeu, de fiinţa inefabilă, de cel pe care mintea noastră finită nu îl poate percepe. În timp ce un om care nu este scrib, un individ care nu a învăţat literele sacre nu vede decât ceea ce ţi-am descris: un semicerc şi un drapel. Aceasta este puterea simbolului în mintea noastră, dar numai atunci când știm să-l descifrăm, când am primit cunoaşterea lucrurilor secrete.

Leadership: Explorează și descoperă întregul spectru al realității intime, integrând într-un simbol cunoștințele dobândite în căutarea ta spirituală?

Or, află că tot ceea ce se află în lume, tot ceea ce este lumea este simbol, că noi înșine suntem încarnarea acestui ansamblu de simboluri, căci în noi se află universul, suntem oglindirea a tot ce există, a ființei prin excelenţă, căci tot ceea ce este jos conţine potențial tot ceea ce se află sus. Şi așa este pentru că suntem vii. Dar imediat ce viaţa ne părăseşte, adică atunci când își ia zborul ceea ce constituie esența fiinţei noastre, suflarea care îl animă, inteligenţa care ne luminează sufletul, acest corp nu mai este nimic, este doar o formă goală destinată unei distrugeri mai mult sau mai puţin rapide, o transformare în pulbere.

Căci ceea ce conferă formă corpului nostru, ceea ce este în el imaginea şi reflexul Marelui Tot este ceea ce numim "ka", în timp ce părticica de lumină divină, care ne conferă cunoaşterea lucrurilor, care este pentru noi instrumentul acestei căutări, este ceea ce numim “ba” şi îl reprezentăm simbolic printr-o pasăre cu chipul nostru, dar este şi Akhu, acea parte luminoasă şi nemuritoare a persoanei noastre umane, acea părticică divină care coboară în corpul nostru la conceperea sa, ca să trăiască experienţa pământească, provenind din lumină primordială, acea lumină care era forță şi putere, conţinând în ea toate formele existente mai înainte ca ele să se manifeste sensibil pornind de la materia increată, pornind de la divinul Ta-tenen, mai înainte ca zeul să fi scos din el formele existente și viitoare, înainte ca Maat să o organizeze, pentru ca din haos să se nască armonia.

Gândirea unui lider pătrunde în miezul lumii prin următoarea reflecţie: "Imaginea pe care o creezi despre tine trebuie să reflecte valoarea simbolului care te reprezintă în mintea celorlalţi."

Adevărul, Maat, este echilibrul lumii și realitatea intimă, atunci când tot ceea ce experimentezi îţi conferă cunoaşterea lucrurilor de care ai nevoie ca să ajungi la un nivel înalt de spiritualitate. Părticica divină din tine este esența ta nemuritoare și luminoasă, o rază a Marelui Tot, care te conectează la cunoașterea universului și la echilibrul absolut al Maat-ului. Tot ce rămâne să faci este să-ți găsești un simbol care să reflecte imaginea ta interioară prin conexiunea cu cunoașterea universală și cu echilibrul divin al Maat-ului.

Imaginea în care te regăsești creează un decor unic care reflectă dispoziția ta sufletească, când tot ce este lumea este simbol?

Adevărul mut aşternut în cartea vieţii

On Ianuarie 22, 2014

Efectuează numeroase incursiuni în lumea ascunsă a raţiunii, astfel încât să urci la un nivel mai înalt de dezvoltare personală.

Mă cuprinsese îndoiala. Eram, oare, într-adevăr în faţa a ceea ce filozofii numesc argentum vivum ? Procesul de investigaţie a ceea ce putea determina o fragmentare a legăturii cu neverosimilul greu de digerat al unei lumi imaginate, se alinia cu tendinţele cele mai inovatoare ale artei de a utiliza principiile de funcţionare ale unui spaţiu întins şi foarte complex. Care delimita ştiinţa de pseudoştiinţă.

Efectuând numeroase incursiuni în lumea ascunsă a raţiunii care se realiza numai prin ştiinţă, ghidat de înțelegeri și supoziții metafizice sau de conceptele filosofice ale timpului, totodată bazându-mă pe observații sistematice, am depăşit neputinţa de a înțelege legătura dintre valoare și identitate. Care mă definea în raport cu orizontul de aşteptare al unei autorităţi străine ce mă supraveghea necontenit. Începusem să aflu cine sunt cu adevărat în relaţie cu un Ego supradimensionat de o imaginaţie relativ captivantă, dar distorsionată de un Alter Ego care îmi făcea mereu reproşuri.

Luptam împotriva curentului, împotriva propriei mele conştiinţe, împotriva propriei mele structuri intelectuale care filtra orice imperfecţiune de ordin identitar? Diferitele fenomene de cunoaştere, simţire şi voinţă, prin raportare la anumite lucruri şi la felul în care le vedeam, se subordonau unei raţiuni care parcă apucase să existe cu mult înaintea mea şi căreia mă grăbeam să mă supun.

Leadership: Te accepţi sclavul unei realităţi îmbrăcate de aparenţe care plasează o perspectivă de vastă semnificaţie la limita dintre ceea ce gândeşti, justifici şi aplici în conformitate cu un adaos de cunoaştere care nu-ţi dă posibilitatea să te înlături de la elementul "rătăcire" ?

Mă pusesem în raport cu elementele de construcţie ale unei personalităţi faţă de care mă simţeam disproporţionat, deformând astfel veritabilele condiţii ale legăturii mele cu realitatea obiectivă. Studierea amănunţită a câmpului de luptă pe care se înfruntau cele două orientări, una spre autocunoaştere, cealaltă spre experimentare, uneori într-un sens abstract, sporea cooperarea din ce în ce mai strânsă cu ştiinţa.

Incursiunea în propria mea lume, adaptată la un anumit context în care ceea ce eram şi ceea ce voiam să devin puteau fi separate în timp şi spaţiu, devenise o parte a acelei ştiinţe ascunse rezervate alchimiştilor. Numai alchimiştii erau capabili să descifreze mesajul codat pe care Dumnezeu l-a implantat în fiecare om la naştere. Această ştiinţă avea capacitatea să unifice şi să solidarizeze toate strădaniile mele de cunoaştere, într-un singur tot, dându-mi posibilitatea să mă înlătur de la elementul "rătăcire" care decurgea din perspectiva fiinţei care eram.

Ce însemnătate am eu? Ca să răspund măcar estimativ la această întrebare exhaustivă trebuia să iau în serios ceea ce credeam despre mine însumi. Mai mult decât atât, ceea ce se schimba la mine în raport cu ceea ce mi se întâmpla pe măsură ce mă apropiam de punctul de întâlnire al celor două axe în mişcare: ştiinţa şi experienţa de viaţă.

Cunoaşterea de care îmi legam existenţa era o consecinţă a senzaţiei de realitate intangibilă, o plonjare într-un timp şi spaţiu fără coordonate, fără repere şi fără ieşire, mai mult o dorinţă de a acapara o parte însemnată din vitalitatea și imaginarul unui creator de ficţiuni care întretaie şi traseele adevărului. Un alchimist exprima acest lucru folosind metafora: " Cufundă-ţi mintea în undele izvorului de lumină a lui Hermes care să te atragă spre adevăr. "

Leadership: Poţi să creezi anumite condiţii de exploatare a sinelui în încercarea de regăsire a autenticităţii de fond, fără să faci din backgroundul existenţial o latură vulnerabilă a personalităţii tale?

Temelia de nezdruncinat pe care se sprijină liderul autentic, protagonistul unei deveniri continue, este adevărul. Cunoaşterea, care neagă sau susţine adevărul a ceea ce omul-lider este, nu poate fi receptată şi procesată doar la nivelul minţii. Ci mai cu seamă la nivelul realităţii şablon în care el este de acord să creeze anumite condiţii de "iluminare", de exploatare a sinelui în încercarea de regăsire a autenticităţii de fond. La rândul ei, această autenticitate se ridică împotriva adversarului numărul unu: lipsa de credibilitate în contextul crizei de identitate.

Dincolo de bariera dificilă a cunoaşterii de sine rezultată din examinarea personală, la intersecţia dintre ştiinţa şi pseudoştiinţa de te pune în acord cu tine însuţi, trebuie să înveţi să-ţi foloseşti şi inima şi intuiţia. Autenticitatea de fond este dată de crezul puternic pe care îl slujeşti cu devotament faţă de o cunoaştere, o ghidare sau un har care nu se arată oricui, oricând, oriunde, şi care nu poate face abstracţie de nivelul realităţii pe care o trăieşti prin faptele tale.

Când refuzi să te asculţi se poate întâmpla ca puternicul contrast dintre Eu şi backgroundul existenţial să accentueze mai degrabă o latură vulnerabilă a personalităţii tale. Te laşi ghidat de înţelegeri şi presupoziţii care îţi îngrădesc capacitatea de defini corect componenta ta complexă şi definitorie? Această componentă se bazează pe sentimentul intim al propriei valori?

O lipsă de credibilitate în ceea ce priveşte aplicarea măsurilor asumate în plan personal pentru reglarea oricăror dispute ce decurg din ascultarea de sine, nedând crezare semnalelor continue ale minţii raţionale care îţi dau de înţeles cât de mult te cunoşti şi te accepţi ca fiind o entitate unică, poate împiedica trecerea la o conştiinţă extinsă de sine. Şi îţi limitează înţelegerile şi interpretările despre ceea ce te defineşte la graniţa cu aspectele care îţi aduc cele mai slabe motivaţii.

Leadership: Poţi să configurezi un trigger de tip DEPTH care să declanşeze ruperea de realitatea subiectivă?

Între ştiinţa de a te cunoaşte şi leadership există mai multe linii de cache, care au ca separaţie între ele un întrerupător: acel „neverosimil" greu de digerat al lumii imaginate în care te adânceşti. Aceste linii de cache stochează în conştiinţă tot ceea ce este concret şi abstract în materie de perspective, idei, ipostaze. Examinând totodată alternativele privind disponibilitatea de a te desprinde de adversarul cel mai insistent - Egoul supradimensionat de o perspectivă încărcată cu prea multă subiectivitate.

Cineva spunea: " Adevărul este obiectul înţelegerii noastre, la fel de bun este ca voinţa noastră, iar înţelegerea nu mai poate fi încântată cu o minciună decât când va putea alege un rău aparent. " Vedem, aşadar, în ce mod subtil se propagă în leadership adevărul a ceea ce suntem, cum se instalează el din punct de vedere valoric printre noi, aici, pe certitudinile noastre vizavi de felul cum evoluăm. Spre bine său spre rău.

Realitatea subiectivă desemnează în acest caz acea realitate interioară, pusă pe cântarul cel mai subtil al devenirii noastre, care nu ţine seama de ecoul realităţii exterioare, depăşind cadrul de referinţă în relaţia cu însăşi coerenţa experienţelor noastre de viaţă.

Poţi să declanşezi ruperea de realitatea subiectivă în care te găseşti, configurând "triggerul de tip DEPTH" care să-ţi orienteze gândirea spre o ştiinţă a raţionamentului şi a judecăţii nesuspendate de ireal şi improbabil. Acest trigger nu reprezintă altceva decât o îngropare a ceea ce ai fost, în favoarea a ceea ce trebuie să fii.

Ca să înţelegi rolul raţiunii din spatele creativităţii, pe baza experienţei de filtrare a unei realităţi transcendente, trebuie să asculţi ce îţi spune Ego-ul despre tine prin intermediul unor adevăruri pe care nu le-a văzut nimeni şi care nu pot fi descoperite decât numai printr-o virtuozitate poetică.

Adevărul mut aşternut în cartea vieţii reliefează acea valoare a omului care se realizează prin cunoaştere de sine şi asumare a propriei persoane. Posibilităţile de devenire şi perfecţionare a elementelor native existente în om, ca o condiţie esenţială a progresului, oferă prilejul unei apropieri mai profunde şi mai eficiente de leadership.

Adevărul nu poate fi ascuns în dosul unei măşti

On Ianuarie 09, 2009

Extinde-ţi cercul influenţei, promovând o gândire şi un comportament care să ajute la recunoaşterea adevăratelor tale valori.

Ieri am citit o ştire pe internet. Se preciza faptul că consiliul de administraţie al marelui motor de căutare, Yahoo, a înfiinţat o comisie specială care să ancheteze cum a fost posibil ca în CV-ul lui Scott Thompson, CEO actual al companiei, să apară o diplomă de informatică pe care acesta nu a obţinut-o.

Thompson a preluat în ianuarie funcţia de CEO al Yahoo ! şi atunci şi-a adăugat în CV şi informaţia falsă legată de o diplomă de licenţă în informatică. Minciuna a ieşit la iveală după ce şeful fondului de investiţii Third Point care deţine 6% din capitalul Yahoo a trimis o scrisoare board-ului Yahoo.

Yahoo a admis că este o problemă gravă şi a creat o comisie specială care să ancheteze de ce calificările universitare trecute în CV nu coincid cu realitatea şi în ce circumstanţe au apărut inexactităţile.

Dar lucrul cel mai important de reţinut, este că în mijlocul acestui scandal, Patti Hart, membru al consiliului de administraţie care a avut un rol crucial în angajarea lui Thompson, a decis să se retragă din funcţie. *

Leadership: Poţi să judeci pe cineva prin prisma interacţiunii dintre iluzie şi adevăr, iar nu pe baza ideilor pe care le-ai căpătat din interpretarea eronată a unor fapte pertinente?

Dacă ai propria ta organizaţie, nu-ţi poţi permite să laşi timpul să treacă fără să-ţi pregăteşti liderii pentru viitorul ei. Iar soarta liderilor tăi stă fără îndoială în caracterul lor, care îi declară (sau nu), compatibili cu cerinţele organizaţiei. Ca şef al organizaţiei eşti îndreptăţit, şi este misiunea ta să pui în aplicare acele principii solide, prin care să-i transformi pe lideri în modele de urmat, asigurându-te că rezultatul alegerilor lor nu sunt alterate de diverşi factori negativi care să le influenţeze dezvoltarea.

Tu cum îţi pregăteşti liderii pentru viitorul companiei tale? Dar tu cum te pregăteşti? Care sunt primele trei principii solide pe care le-ai formulat, care să-i inspire pe oameni şi să-i ghideze către leadershipul tău? Cum îi transformi pe ceilalți oameni în lideri, şi cum îi transformi pe lideri în modele de urmat? Cum dezvolţi relaţii personale cu cei pe care intenţionezi să îi înzestrezi cu o personalitate magnetică şi impunătoare?

Nu uita că orice relaţii bune dintre tine şi ceilalţi viitori lideri, încep cu o legătură personală. Trebuie să fiţi buni prieteni, şi nu doar colaboratori. Care sunt primii trei factori care crezi că ar putea încetini sau chiar opri procesul de înzestrare al viitorilor lideri? Ce înseamnă pentru ei interesul tău sincer pe care li-l arăţi?

Ceea ce mi-a plăcut la Patti Hart, membru al consiliului de administraţie care a avut un rol crucial în angajarea lui Thompson, este faptul că a decis să se retragă din funcţie imediat ce a izbucnit scandalul – evitând astfel o gravă deteriorare a leadershipului său care a avut de suferit odată cu izbucnirea scandalului. Practic Hatti Hart şi-a îndepărtat masca, aceea a omului superficial care favorizează doar interesele celorlalţi. Leadershipul său era unul virulent, înnegrit de neputinţa de a se solidariza principiilor integrităţii şi a responsabilităţii.

Cel puţin aşa reiese din ştirea nou apărută pe internet. Căci un lider care angajează şi acceptă la conducere o persoană care se pretează la falsuri nu este, cu siguranţă, chiar o "uşă de biserică".

Leadership: Ce influenţă are impactul convingerilor tale asupra unor iniţiative care nu sunt de competenţ ta decizională, dar care se pot sincroniza cu imaginea unei noi întâlniri cu tine însuţi?

Până când poţi purta o mască? A te conforma la nesfârşit unei gândiri guvernate de acele aşa zise proceduri ale "magiei", ale acceptării aspectelor mai puţin luminoase care contaminează leadershipul ,este ca şi cum ai face un salt cu paraşuta. Oricât te-ai asigura că eşti în siguranţă, ai pus totul la punct, tot nu poţi fi sigur sută la sută că ţi se va deschide paraşuta, sau că nu vei fi doborât de un curent de aer foarte puternic. Un leadership "nesănătos" poate oricând să provoace imaginii tale un "infarct".

1. Care crezi că sunt aspectele pe care oamenii nu le ştiu (sau nu le observă) la leadershipul tău? Ce influenţă crezi că ar avea aceste aspecte asupra impactului tău? Pe măsură ce oamenii încep să te cunoască şi să te placă, acceptă tot mai mult orientarea ta şi doresc să înveţe tot mai mult de la tine?

2.Cunoşti priceperile şi slăbiciunile viitorilor lideri? Ce temperament au? Ştii care sunt ţelurile lor? Ce anume îi motivează?

3.Ai încercat să-i vezi pe potenţialii lideri în afara lumii afacerilor? Nu uita că la serviciu cu toţii încercăm să fim aşa cum vor ceilalţi să ne vadă. Acest lucru e valabil peste tot, la orice persoană. Ce înseamnă pentru tine "leadershipul nesănătos"?

Leadershipul se poate determina pe parcursul derulării unor analize anterioare adoptării unor iniţiative care furnizează date despre posibilele consecinţe decizionale care implică minciuna, falsitatea şi înşelăciunea din spatele aparenţelor.

Adevărul nu poate fi ascuns în dosul unei măşti. El iese până la urmă la iveală, ca şi caracterul tău, iar atunci când nu respecţi o etică şi o deontologie unanim acceptată, prestigiul tău are de suferit.

Adevărul te paşte

On Octombrie 01, 2010

Trezeşte în oameni sentimentul de apartenenţă la leadershipul tău, adăugând la personalitatea ta acea calitate care corespunde criteriilor de eligibilitate stabilite de ei.

Aseară, cu totul din greşeală am dat peste o scurtă poveste intitulată „ Pictorul şi Califul ", de O. Henry. Personajul principal, un pictor pe nume Gerard Plumers era atât de talentat şi de iscusit, încât reuşea să dea fiecăruia dintre portretele sale o expresie care dezvăluia starea sufletească a modelului. Nimeni, nici chiar el nu-şi putea explica misterul acesta. La început câştigase foarte mult din picturile pe care le crea la comandă în micul său atelier. Comenzile curgeau. Oamenii veneau adesea la el să-i admire operele. Până când au început să se ivească complicaţiile.

De exemplu, într-o zi un cunoscut de-al pictorului, intră din întâmplare în atelierul său şi văzu tabloul care se afla încă în şevalet. Se uită atent la desen. Recunoscuse personajul. Era tocmai bancherul său. „Ce cap de escroc are" spuse el cu o convingere greu de zdruncinat. Apoi ieşi ca din puşcă din atelier şi alergă la banca să-şi retragă depunerile. Sosise prea târziu; onestul bancher o ştersese cu banii.

Astfel de scenarii se petrecură tot mai des. Toţi cei care îşi făceau portretul la marele pictor, erau demascaţi. Fiindcă el avea darul să-i surprindă în pictură exact aşa cum erau în viaţa de toate zilele. Avea darul să dezvăluie unul după altul păcatele ascunse ale modelelor: pungăşiile lor, ticăloşiile, vicleniile, etc. E lesne de înţeles de ce nimeni nu a mai călcat în atelierul celebrului pictor. Pentru că nimeni nu voia să i se recunoască adevăratul caracter, bine ascuns în viaţa de toate zilele.

Leadership: Pui un mare accent pe unicitatea poveştii din spatele creatorului care te face părtaş la creaţia lui, sub aspectul unei retrospective a greşelilor făcute pe parcursul unei vieţi trăită numai în folosul personal?

Imaginează-ţi te rog că intri în atelierul pictorului Gerard Plumers, care are puterea să dezvăluie în picturile sale adevărata natură umană. Pe şevaletul acestuia se află terminată ultima lui creaţie, o splendidă capodoperă care, stupoare, înfăţişează tocmai chipul şefului tău. Care ar fi reacţia ta la vederea reuşitului tablou? Dacă ai cunoaşte adevărata natură a celui care te conduce, l-ai mai urma?

Felul în care îţi percepi şeful are un efect imens asupra performanţelor tale şi asupra randamentului tău. Dacă pictorul i-a redat şefului tău chipul cel mai înfricoşător cu putinţă, mi-e teamă că se va întâmpla următorul scenariu:

Scenariul cel mai negru – dar şi cel mai des întâlnit. Eşti la serviciu. Încerci să te concentrezi asupra lucrului, dar ecranul din mintea ta e prea des ocupat de imaginea şefului tău, a cărui adevărată natură ţi-a dezvăluit-o pictorul cu atâta măiestrie şi lux de amănunte prin intermediul tabloului său.

Simţi cum în tine creşte un întuneric care e prea amorţit ca să fie o mâhnire şi prea rece pentru a fi o furie. Încerci să te împotriveşti acestor sentimente. Te ţii cât de ocupat poţi. Dar niciun fel de muncă, niciun fel de extenuare nu poate să alunge din tine acel gust amar al adevărului, acel sentiment de profundă frustrare şi nesiguranţă pe care l-a redat tabloul.

Încetul cu încetul, chipul şefului tău începe să ocupe un loc ascuns al inimii tale. Ştii cine este el cu adevărat, ştii de ce este în stare, îl resimţi ca fiind intimidant, ameninţător, distant, greu de înţeles şi nepreocupat de sentimentele tale şi ale oamenilor în general, iar asta îţi frământă sufletul, creierul, gândurile, conştiinţa. Simţi cum fiecare muşchi, fiecare articulaţie, fiecare os este suprasolicitat de nervozitatea şi emoţiile tale negative. Orgoliul nu-ţi dă voie să te plângi, dar ai face-o, ai face-o ştiind că ai făcut greşeala vieţii tale angajându-te în firma condusă de un asemenea şef tiranic.

Leadership: Poţi să repari percepţia inexactă a oamenilor despre tine, oglindindu-te în spaţiul unei creaţii din care reiese un profund sentiment de tristeţe care nu mai trece?

Ori de câte ori gândurile îţi umblă razna îţi aminteşti că chipul şefului tău este mereu acolo, holbându-se la tine cu acea privire indescriptibilă de tiran. El persistă prin prezenţa lui, în fiecare zi, ocupându-se de afaceri. În timp ce lucrezi eşti chinuit de griji, te forţezi să-ţi reintri în ritmul susţinut de lucru, dar tot mereu îţi revine în minte imaginea lui: de bătăuş înfuriat, intimidant şi neliniştit care-şi pierde mereu cumpătul, o persoană obtuză, asurzitoare, care îţi strigă totul în faţă şi trezeşte teama în inima ta.

Ai curajul să te vezi demascat de propriul tău portret? Dacă ai o funcţie înaltă de conducere, gândeşte-te cum ar fi ca oamenii să-ţi vadă portretul care înfăţişează adevărata ta natură. I-ai părăsi înainte să te părăsească ei pe tine?

În viaţa de toate zilele poţi da chipului tău expresia pe care o doreşti. Însă în portretul realizat de pictorul Gerard Plumers eşti prins exact aşa cum eşti în realitate. Te temi? Ţi-e jenă de tine? Eşti mâhnit de ceea ce vezi?

Neîncrederea dintre oameni şi lider îngreunează interacţiunea eficientă ceea ce determină o fractură serioasă în cadrul companiei. Comportamentul oamenilor de care liderul se înconjoară arată indirect firea lui. Dacă el nu conduce creativitatea şi pasiunea în muncă, va fi părăsit de echipa sa care, aidoma lui, va lâncezi şi va bate în retragere.

Leadershipul este spaţiul creaţiei în care este oglindită firea ta adevărată, prelucrat de realitatea unei lumi care imită modelul de structură psihologică agreat cel mai mult prin intermediul efectului de adâncime al portretului în care te vădeşti fără pereche.

Concluzie: Oricât de mult ai dori să-ţi ascunzi adevărata fire, aceasta iese totdeauna la iveală şi se reflectă prin calitatea muncii întregii echipe. După mai mult sau mai puţin timp, oamenii de care eşti înconjurat învaţă să „te citească", îţi descoperă felul tău real de a fi şi acest lucru va avea un impact deosebit asupra activităţii tale şi a lor.

Dacă observi că eşti perceput de ceilalţi altfel decât cum eşti cu adevărat, acest lucru ţi se datorează ţie şi în special lipsei sau problemelor de comunicare dintre tine şi echipă.

Poţi să trezeşti în oameni sentimentul de apartenenţă la leadershipul tău? Care consideri că este calitatea cea mai preţioasă pe care oamenii o aşteaptă de la tine? Prin ce se reflectă această calitate? Ea scoate în evidenţă adevărata ta natură? Sugerează indirect firea ta?

Admisibilul pur al unui spaţiu vast de reflecţie (II)

On Februarie 11, 2014

Reglează puterea particulară a dimensiunii necunoscute a fiinţei tale, în încercarea de a descoperi măreția misterului invizibil al universului propriu de creaţie.

Ce anume aş putea să dobândesc în urma unei distanţări de mine însumi sub înrâurirea ideilor adunate în jurul unei cunoaşteri cauzative, dar una nepotrivită zonei de reprezentare a realităţii, prin iniţierea unei suite de metafore, comparaţii, consecinţe extreme şi alte instrumente de expresie?

Mă simt în situaţia unui ignorant pur empiric care încearcă să fabrice aurul material cu câteva frânturi de alchimie. Pot să sfârşesc într-un balamuc acceptat tacit de propria-mi minte, în care nu există reguli de logică. Ci doar un ansamblu de componente defecte sau decalibrate de la setările "default".

Recunosc că de ceva vreme sunt în căutarea unei puteri particulare de reglare a dimensiunii necunoscute a fiinţei mele, secondate de o plăcere intensă venită din adâncurile unei exploatări atente a mijlocului fix: raţiunea. Acea raţiune care se străduieşte să cunoască o altă raţiune, ancorată într-o realitate transcendentă.

O iniţiere în viaţă şi o intrare în contact cu universul unui context de creaţie personalizată. O confruntare cu perspectiva exclusivă, inspiraţională, a unei lumi ideale. A cărei tensiune de străpungere creşte gradat o dată cu deconectarea automată de la admisibilul pur al unui spaţiu vast de gândire, cunoaştere, reflecţie şi regăsire.

Leadership: Ai devenit suficient de matur pentru a face saltul spre o mai mare realizare de sine, încât să exişti în interiorul unei realităţi care îşi dezvăluie contururile în visurile îndrăzneţe ale creatorului ei?

Îmi amintesc de tânărul acela din romanul Perpetuum Mobile , scris de Artur SIlveştri. O viaţă întreagă el a stat pe plajă, singur, scriind fără oprire. Când plecase de pe plajă, era deja bătrân. Cărţile lui, despre care ar fi vrut să vorbească, nu existau ori poate că existau altfel decât ar fi putut să fie vreodată şi nu apucaseră să existe.

Dar el scrisese tot timpul: unde se aflau ele, de fapt? Şi dacă totuşi erau cărţile altcuiva, de altundeva, din lumea aceea pe care odinioada, doar o întrevăzuse câteva ore, o zi, o vreme, într-un odinioară tot atât de indistinct ca şi viaţa lui pe care poate că acela doar o visase şi se trezise?

Când încerci să te cunoşti mai bine din perspectiva sensului de a trăi sub înrâurirea ideilor adunate în jurul unei realităţi fictive, construind o metafizică a depăşirii de sine prin creaţie literară, făcând asociaţii vizuale şi revelatoare, câştigi o anumită deprindere în a manevra ceasul propriului destin. Începi să incluzi imagini noi în memoria ta, aşa cum face pictorul când vrea să completeze tabloul perfect cu legături multiple din mai multe planuri, fiecăreia dintre aceste imagini conferindu-i un aspect original, un efect de culoare deosebit.

A exista în interiorul unei realităţi care îşi dezvăluie contururile în visurile îndrăzneţe ale creatorului ei înseamnă practic să reconstitui diferite imagini şi întâmplări care îţi trec prin minte din perspectiva unei memorii apriorice, pe de-a-ntregul inventate, dar care aduce tuturor amintirea duioasă a unei lumi cândva existente, care continuă mereu să fascineze.

Leadership: Gândirea ta aparţine unei realităţi care există înainte şi după viaţa ta, cerând să fie trăită ca pentru prima oară în momentul lecturii unei cărţi care se cere tot timpul completată?

Funcţionând cu eficienţă maximă, ca un agent de valorificare a activelor de fond ale personalităţii, gândirea, sau mai degrabă acea neîntreruptă tensiune a gândirii care se exprimă metaforic sau în imagini, surprinde toată varietatea de subiecte şi evită până la urmă monotonia compoziţională a unei perspective restrânse de abordare a realităţii.

Eşti în căutarea unei puteri particulare de reglare a dimensiunii necunoscute a fiinţei tale, secondată de o plăcere intensă venită din adâncurile unei exploatări atente a raţiunii? Ce anume ai putea să dobândeşti în urma unei distanţări de tine însuţi sub înrâurirea ideilor adunate în jurul cunoaşteri cauzative nepotrivită zonei de reprezentare a realităţii?

Filozoful american William James, simţindu-se suficient de stăpân pe gândirea lui, menţiona: "Suntem asemenea insulelor din mare, despărţite la suprafaţă, dar legate prin fundul mării."

Exact asta se întâmplă atunci când încercăm să ne decalibrăm de la setările “default” ale minţii noastre. Puţin câte puţin facem trecerea de la un lucru la altul, de la o perspectivă la alta, extinzându-ne teoriile asupra lumii înconjurătoare. Ceea ce era just altădată se va transforma încet, încet, în altceva.

Iar atunci când vom deveni suficient de maturi pentru a face saltul spre o mai mare realizare de sine vom putea să atingem punctul culminant al modificării concepţiei despre leadership.

Lectura unei cărţi care se cere tot timpul completată seamănă de fapt cu mărturisirea unor stranii atașamente faţă de realitatea unei imagini care se repetă în contextul unei conştiinţe de sine autonomă, caracterizată printr-o atitudine teoretică care eliberează de dependenţele rigorii de a spune "Da" unei lumi care se vrea superioară.

Admisibilul pur al unui spaţiu vast de reflecţie scoate în evidenţă relaţia omului cu experienţa sa existenţială secondată de o implicare nelimitată în încercarea de a descoperi măreția misterului invizibil al universului propriu de creaţie.

Liderul care se confruntă cu perspectiva exclusivă, inspiraţională, a unei lumi ideale, este tot pe atât creator cât şi artist, năzuind să-şi extindă propriile teorii, concepţii şi viziuni asupra artei sale. Aici se găsesc, în germene, multe idei care, depăşind stadiul de „un gând razant”, le fac cu ochiul şi celor care ajung să-l urmeze.

Admisibilul pur al unui spaţiu vast de reflecţie (I)

On Februarie 11, 2014

Porneşte în căutarea originalităţii protectoare de înţelegere individuală, lărgindu-ţi orizontul de cunoaştere în afara contextului obişnuit al existenţei tale.

Visul meu de noaptea trecută, fascinându-mă de la început şi până la sfârşit, tinde oare să devină realitate? Nu-mi pot şterge din minte această nouă experienţă de navigare în irealul unei individualităţi indefinite, a unei pozitivități incerte de tipul " ought-to-be ", a ceva cerut și numai subiectiv imaginat. Dar care totuşi dă impresia frumoasă de spaţialitate, în căutarea originalităţii protectoare de înţelegere a sinelui.

Un vis neexplorat până la capăt. Era vorba despre o insulă pustie din mijlocul unui ocean conectat la un univers impenetrabil. Şi insula aceasta adăpostea un recif splendid de corali. În jurul recifului se crea în mod constant o categorie de entităţi de înaltă vibraţie, se reorganiza radical o nouă formaţiune de viaţă.

Eram atât de mulţumit fiindcă ajunsesem unicul posesor al acelui recif de corali, care semăna perfect cu un mic creier uman, subdivizat în emisfera dreaptă şi emisfera stângă. Însă nu puteam să am acces la acea nouă formaţiune de viaţă care mi-ar fi putut oferi sentimentul de împlinire sufletească. Mărturisesc. Asta mă intriga şi instiga la curiozitate maximă. Dar şi la un soi de revoltă interioară.

Visul este o pătrundere în literatura unei lumi care nu se descompune. Şi când spun acest lucru, mă gândesc la tipul de evoluţie conceptuală din prozele lui Artur Silveştri, cu trimitere în special la Perpetuum Mobile : "dacă ele au început din linia unui surrealism în care cu greu descifrezi granita subţire din care se trece din real în ireal sau imaginar, din posibil spre altceva, la fel se întâmplă şi cu dimensiunea onirică a experienţelor trăite de mine".

Leadership: Te confrunţi cu perspectiva unei aterizări forţate în zona de conştientizare a unei realităţi scăpate de sub control, fapt care îţi întăreşte ideea de că eşti unicul înţeles din toate iluziile acestei lumi?

Leadershipul, aplicat ca normă de reprezentare a unui spaţiu nou de procesare a cunoaşterii, devine dezvoltatorul unei suite de revelaţii, reflecţii, trăiri şi conştientizări, pentru simularea traiectoriei parcurse de acceptarea unei viziuni care poate să devină realitate. Iar această viziune se cere a fi, mai întâi de toate, remodelată. În niciun caz declarată "moartă" sau "nulă" în raport cu încercarea de explorare a propriei identităţi, a propriei conştiinţei şi a propriei creativităţi.

Leadershipul, mereu în curs de evoluţie, formulând poate mai complet decât oricare altă ştiinţă noi reguli şi perspective, poate conduce la actualizarea unor capacităţi şi aptitudini intelectuale avansate.

Punând dimensiunea propriei tale existenţe în omniprezenta deschidere a conştiinţei exprimate sub forma schimburilor dinamice de impulsuri inteligente de evadare dintr-un spaţiu îngust de cunoaştere, vei reuşi să simţi senzaţia reală a unei experienţe de conducere mai focalizată, mai îndrăzneaţă, mai dinamică şi mai sofisticată.

Poţi să creezi o punte puternică între realitate şi vis, în încercarea de întrupare în conştiinţă a unei experienţe echivalentă cu adâncirea şi înţelegerea unei noi lumi, care se conturează precis, concret, lăuntric? Încercând să faci din ea mai mult decât un auxiliar al sârguinţei continue spre desăvârşire, vei putea să-ţi ridici propriul imperiu de judecată pe noi structuri de asigurare a calităţii leadershipului.

Leadership: Poţi face din tine un narator care aderă la lumea Eului narat, evidenţiind acea perspectivă spectaculoasă a creatorului de a deveni eligibil pentru a accesa o latură a realităţii alternative?

Ai şansa să pătrunzi într-un spaţiu/timp de o stranie bogăţie, aderând la două lumi: una virtuală şi una materială, atunci când ceea ce-ţi imaginezi că ai putea avea parte devine conştientizare a unei vederi mai bune asupra necesităţii de a trăi o altă experienţă pe care o consideri definitorie pentru formarea ta ca deschizător de noi drumuri pe tărîm literar.

A te confrunta cu perspectiva unei aterizări forţate în zona de conştientizare a unei realităţi scăpate de sub control înseamnă să abordezi conflictul care ia în considerare atât nevoia de a crea rezultate, cât şi relaţiile cu părţile implicate.

Experienţa de viaţă si sinele îndreptat spre cunoaştere, care nu aşteaptă ca evoluţia să se petreacă singură, ci provoacă inspiraţia, determină o adevărată schimbare în atitudinea cu care abordezi fiecare piesă a ansamblului de elemente care iau parte la producerea unei noi perspective.

Lumea Eului narat vizează trecerea dintr-un timp în altul, dintr-o lume în alta, prilejuind o sugestie culturală ce declanşează imaginea unei proze realiste caracterizată de un subiect principal: "Transformarea unui vis în imagini".

Admisibilul pur al unui spaţiu vast de reflecţie scoate în evidenţă acea dimensiune maximă pe care o poate atinge Eul personal în cadrul unui spaţiu numit "naraţiune" care favorizează şi stimulează forţa imaginativă şi inovatoare excepţională constituită ca stare de luciditate paralelă crescută în jurul unei experienţe subiective.

ADN-ul Leadershipului

On Martie 14, 2009

Îndreaptă-ţi atenţia către structura propriului tău caracter, pentru a-ţi păstra în siguranţă propriului tău sistem de valori şi aspiraţii.

Nu exista niciun pericol în afară de răul pe care şi-l provoca el însuşi. Când şi-a dat seama de acest lucru, Kevin Lomax era pe punctul de a se resemna în postura omului ispitit în toate privinţele. Era principalul vinovat de decăderea sa morală şi spirituală. Ştia că nu era în stare să stăpânească situaţia în care se afla. Impactul schimbărilor bruşte pe care le suferise fusese atât de profund, încât nu avusese timp să reacţioneze în niciun fel. Problemele îi subminau voinţa de a face faţă provocărilor muncii sale, îl determinau să renunţe la viaţa personală.

Tot ce cunoştea acum era diferit, tot ce simţea era pus la îndoială. Nu lucrurile de zi cu zi, ci lucrurile mai importante, precum raţiunea de a fi. Era ciudat cum de se lăsase atât de uşor antrenat în diferitele complicaţii ale acestor oameni care conduceau compania la care se angajase. Se simţea ca un şoarece prins într-o cursă fără şanse de scăpare, în cursa plină de provocări şi pericole pe care i-o întinsese însuşi John Milton, managerul companiei. Interacţiunea dintre cele două realităţi – a lui, şi a lui Milton, era tot mai greu de suportat.

Deşi încrederea în propria lui raţiune fusese zdruncinată, Kevin a avut totuşi o viziune profundă asupra propriului său „Eu", care reprezenta centrul existenţei tale. Se afla la interferenţa dintre două realităţi: una era a lui Milton şi a acoliţilor săi, cealaltă, a lui. Trebuia să se elibereze singur, şi cât mai repede din robia pe care aproape că i-o impuseseră aceştia, trebuia să se despartă de tot ceea ce îi lega de ei, folosindu-şi propriul mecanism intern de „autoapărare".

Leadership: Pentru a-ţi pondera Ego-ul, trebuie să trăieşti experienţa faptului că da, îţi poţi asuma consecinţele, fără să suferi din cauza unui salt neasumat înainte?

Tu mergi pe sârmă la înălţime? Dacă îţi aminteşti filmul „ The Devil's Advocate (1997) " atunci ştii că scăparea lui Kevin Lomax din ghearele „diavolului", s-a datorat priceperii sale de a înţelege şi de a învinge toate mijloacele de constrângere a lui Milton, care dorea cu orice preţ să-l determine să renunţe la valorile sale bazate pe un fundament solid şi să adopte propriile sale reguli de acţiune sau de gândire.

Puterea ta de a conduce începe şi se termină cu ceea ce crezi tu despre tine însuţi, şi este condiţionată de felul în care abordezi şi controlezi influenţa celorlalţi. A încerca să te lupţi cu influenţele străine, e ca şi cum ai merge pe sârmă la înălţime. Dacă te îndoieşti de tine poţi oricând să te dezechilibrezi atât psihic, cât şi emoţional, şi să decazi în primul rând în faţa propriei tale persoane şi a principiilor după care ţi-ai ghidat viaţa. „Linia de comandă" care ghidează evoluţia leadershipului tău se va subţia atât de mult, va deveni atât de fragilă dacă nu-ţi drămuieşti bine forţele şi echilibrul, încât singur te vei sabota singur şi vei eşua.

A suferi din cauza unui salt neasumat înainte presupune de fapt să recunoşti că eşti un om uşor de manipulat care, chiar dacă înaintează spre un scop înalt dorit de ceilalţi, nu este în stare să se sprijine singur, aşa cum s-ar fi cuvenit, nu este în stare să se împotrivească şi să-şi cureţe cu desăvârşire mintea de gânduri străine. Aşa cum organismul uman are un mecanism de apărare împotriva bacteriilor, tot aşa şi tu trebuie să ai un mecanism de apărare, foarte bine pus la punct, împotriva leadershipului bazat pe o etică „murdară" a celor cu interese corupte.

Leadershipul este rezultatul unui Ego lipsit de pluralitate care nu primejduieşte status-quo-ul omului, luând în calcul faptul că ceea ce omul este deja în sine ia naștere în sufletul lui dinainte ca acesta să se lase dezlipit de stăpânul lui.

ADN-ul Leadershipului dă măsura capacităţii tale de a-ţi sprijini evoluţia pe plan „intern". Este piatra de temelie pe care se sprijină progresul tău moral şi spiritual. Ca şi lider, vei avea întotdeauna de dus o luptă cu o forţă negativă care te poate împinge înapoi, sau care, dacă ştii cum să o abordezi, şi dacă ajungi să o stăpâneşti, te poate propulsa înainte.

Concluzie: Depinde de ADN-ul tău, adică de structura personalităţii tale să-ţi menţii permanent echilibrul interior şi să faci faţă provocărilor exterioare ca şi influenţelor nefaste ale celorlalţi care te vor un instrument uşor manevrabil în scopul realizării beneficiilor pe căi ilegale. În leadership orice oscilaţie, orice abatere de la normalul acceptat de societate la un moment dat are consecinţe nefaste.

Aforisme şi păreri bine şlefuite (I)

On Septembrie 01, 2019

Să fii atât de bun într-un domeniu, încât să nu ai decât un singur egal: Dumnezeu. Abia atunci vei împlini ceea ce se numeşte "Marea Operă".

Mulţi oameni privesc spre stele, dar prea puţini reuşesc să se înalţe până la nivelul lor de strălucire.

Cine are știință face totul pentru știință. Cine nu are știință, nu face nimic pentru știință.

Fiecare om are datoria să descopere un tărâm nou, dincolo de văzul lumii, dincolo de limitele impuse de societate şi de timp. Un tărâm care să-i poarte numele în semn de recunoştinţă pentru stăruinţa de care a dat dovadă tot timpul.

Este atât de uşor să stăpâneşti materia. Cu o singură condiţie: să ştii cum să o alcătuieşti, să ştii să o recompui în forme şi dimensiuni noi, să o stimulezi şi să interacţionezi continuu cu ea.

Este atât de uşor să vezi universul într-un grăunte de nisip. Dar înainte de toate învaţă să creezi universul şi fii una cu el.

Omul care nu ştie nimic este sămânţa unei creaţii care îşi aşteaptă rodirea.

Nu contează ce intră în mintea omului, ci ceea ce el este pregătit să înţeleagă.

Nu încerca să-ţi însuşeşti o cunoaştere înaltă dacă ea nu poate oferi garanţia performanţei şi durabilităţii.

Arta se raportează la o singură lege privind actul de creaţie: UNU este mai important decât MULŢI.

Timpul pe care l-ai petrecut cu trandafirul tău face ca trandafirul tău să fie atât de important.

Există un anumit fel de închinăciune în "Metamorfozele" şi jurămintele sacre pe care Ovidiu le aduce fiinţelor superioare.

Este şi asta un fel de sfinţenie: să pui Creaţia şi Descoperirea la un loc de cinste în imaginea lui Jupiter.

Să fii desăvârşit într-un domeniu, încât să n-ai decât un singur egal: Dumnezeu. Abia atunci vei înţelege cu adevărat mesajul operei maestrului Michelangelo !

Să te raportezi numai la infinit. Să dai continuitate creaţiei tale, fără să te consumi niciodată. Astfel îţi câştigi nemurirea.

Alchimia, care de sute de ani a impulsionat minţile libere, va lua o altă denumire: Leadership.

Sunt două feluri de oameni: cei foarte puțini care știu, și cei foarte mulți care nu vor afla niciodată.

Tainele Marii Ştiinţe sunt apanajul strict al numerelor Prime !

Poţi gândi ca un angajat sau ca un lider. Depinde cât de sus vrei să-ţi exprimi unicitatea şi cât de puternică este voinţa ta.

Vechii alchimişti erau doar pe jumătate învăţaţi. Ei ştiau să treacă un metal prin ploaia de foc, dar nu ştiau cum să-l închine exclusiv lui Dumnezeu. Secolul 21 a adus schimbarea, odată cu el şi înlăturarea pericolului de a staţiona în fascinaţia unui miracol fără spirit.

Cea mai măreaţă putere a creaţiei este să fii tu însuţi expresia desăvârşirii ei.

Ca să vezi totul de la înălţime, fii dispus să urci mai multe trepte de imprevizibilitate decât eşti pregătit să întâmpini.

Dublează-ţi continuu valoarea în funcţie de rezultatele talentului tău. Un om valoros este un talent cu mare putere de exprimare.

Nu poţi fi un actor excelent dacă îţi lipseşte vraja. Te rog, interpretează tu rolurile mici, iar mie lasă-mi-le pe cele mari.

Cine vrea puţin de la viaţă îşi orientează demersurile spre ţintele cele mai sărace.

Omul care se gândeşte numai la bani nu va fi niciodată un Creator.

Creaţia este o călătorie în valea răbdării, care are ca şi corespondent un citat din biblie: "Lasă totul şi urmează-mă pe mine."

Cei făcuţi pentru a îmbrăţişa tainele Marii Ştiinţe oferă permanent ceva nou lumii prin însăşi "producţia" lor creativă.

Când îţi place cu adevărat o melodie, dar atât de mult...şi vocea, şi versurile, mai ales ritmul de mare fineţe, nu-ţi mai rămâne decât s-o experimentezi sub altă formă de artă, ca şi când ai face parte din ea.

Să şti să vezi. Iar dacă nu reuşeşti să vezi la timp, va vedea altcineva pentru tine exact la momentul potrivit.

Talentul: Ceea ce altora li se pare atât de greu de făcut, ţie trebuie să ţi se pară atât de uşor de făcut.

Arată-mi un om care a schimbat şi inovat domeniul ştiinţei, şi îţi voi arăta un om care l-a cunoscut pe Dumnezeu.

Marea Ştiinţă este doar pentru cei care s-au dedicat întru totul Creaţiei.

Când cineva pleacă departe de tine, ureaza-i din toată inima Bon Voyage.

Unii confundă biserica cu Dumnezeu, la fel cum confundă toceala cu Marea Ştiinţă.

Liniştea şi inspiraţia o găseşti numai în mijlocul naturii. Fiecare fir de iarbă îţi spune mereu altceva. Nu încerca să numeri. Doar ascultă. Şi priveşte.

Nu ceea ce arăţi lumii, ci ceea ce lucrezi în background este izvorul adevăratei arte, şi al Marii Ştiinţe.

Cel mai sigur mijloc de a comunica cu Universul este prin sunetul muzicii.

Să tratezi ştiinţa în acelaşi fel în care pisica se joacă cu motoceii. Acesta este tot secretul.

Cea mai înaltă ştiinţă din lume este leadershipul. Important este să se găsească cineva care să-l redefinească în mod unic.

Numai cine se dedică 100% practicării unei îndeletniciri va afla toată secretele ei. Şi va reuşi să inventeze mereu alte secrete.

Dacă lumea ar cunoaşte planurile universului, probabil nimeni nu şi-ar mai face planuri.

Marea provocare înainte de a ajunge la piatra filosofală este să rezişti la foc intens cel puţin 20 ani, după primii 20 de ani de viaţă.

La baza marilor schimbări vor sta întotdeauna doar câţiva indivizi izolaţi.

În leadership există o singură constantă de echilibru: Un singur om face cât toţi ceilalţi.

Marea Ştiinţă este destinată numai celor care se dedică întru totul actului de creaţie.

Dacă tu însuţi nu te consideri o valoare, atunci nici ceilalţi nu te vor trata prin prisma metodei valorii adăugate.

Întotdeauna celor puţini li se revelează totul.

Desăvârşirea este religia minţilor alese.

Chiar şi un nor, sau un trăsnet, poate să-ţi indice un mesaj important: fii prudent !

Prima condiţie pentru a atinge excelenţa este să urmezi propria ta cale.

Leadershipul trebuie să fie în primul rând un instrument de popularizare a ştiinţei.

Viitorul aparţine celor care reuşesc să activeze în sufletul lumii ideea de continuitate în evoluţia ştiinţei.

Deviza unui învingător: în fiecare zi devin mai încrezător în ştiinţa mea !

Leadershipul se determină după o singură constantă: "Nu tu trebuie să fii ca ceilalţi, ci mai mult ceilalţi trebuie să fie ca tine".

Pedeapsa totală este să trăieşti cu frica de a nu face ceea ce îţi place. De fapt, cel mai greu lucru din viaţa asta este să faci ceea ce îţi face plăcere. Majoritatea îşi găseşte de făcut tot timpul altceva decât ce le cere inima.

Singura cale de a întări legătura dintre Ştiinţă şi Dumnezeu este prin Creaţie şi Descoperire.

Să citeşti într-un leagăn, la soare, şi să laşi razele să lumineze cuvintele potrivite. Universul încearcă să-ţi comunice ceva?

Să descoperi prin propriile forţe legătura dintre întâmplător şi magie care creează Marea Operă.

Toate lucrurile de care ai nevoie ca să-ţi îndeplineşti scopurile se află întotdeauna în preajma ta. Trebuie doar să le observi.

E necesar un singur om pentru ca schimbarea totală să se producă. Unu este un număr magic.

Unii creează schimbarea, alţii sunt obligaţi să recunoască că sunt martori la ceva nou.

Dacă planurile tale nu rezonează cu cele ale universului, atunci vei da greş, oricât de inteligent şi puternic te consideri.

O schimbare totală poate fi înfăptuită numai de un om provenit dintr-un mediu diferit de cel pentru care a fost iniţial construit.

Marea artă a creaţiei înseamnă să ştii să vezi în absolut orice lucru banal o coloană a infinitului.

Prezentul şi viitorul aparţin celor care acceptă frumuseţea absolută a creaţiei !

Cine înţelege cu adevărat arta are datoria să o salveze de la a fi uitată.

Când faci un rău ia aminte: te vei confrunta mereu cu frica de a ţi se întoarce răul făcut.

Numai cine îşi dedică întreaga viaţă ştiinţei este în măsură să dezlege tainele artei şi ale universului.

Dacă până la 35 de ani nu ţi-ai format o înţelegere nouă asupra ştiinţei, apoi fii sigur că nu vei mai reuşi în veci să produci schimbarea totală în vreun domeniu.

Să nu treacă o zi fără să-ţi aduci contribuţia la dezvoltarea ştiinţei şi artei.

Marea artă a creaţiei înseamnă să ştii să vezi în absolut orice lucru banal o coloană a infinitului.

Infinitul este invenţia minţilor nemuritoare.

Natura este cel mai bun învăţător.

Marile schimbări ale lumii sunt înfăptuite numai de oameni care construiesc noi universuri.

Îţi trebuie 10 ani de exerciţiu asiduu, pentru ca în al 11-lea an să înţelegi o mică parte din nesfârşită enigmă a Marii Ştiinţe.

A-ţi întemeia un stil personal de a face artă înseamnă să urmăreşti 15 ani o ficţiune care poate face din tine oglinda unei noi realităţi.

În fiecare zi universul te face mai încrezător şi mai puternic, încât să devii o parte din El.

Să vezi întotdeauna mult mai departe decât vede restul lumii şi să nu te abaţi niciodată de la calea credinţei.

Dacă vrei să fii cel mai bun din lume, trebuie să dai mai mult din ţine decât dă restul lumii.

Marile schimbări se produc întotdeauna datorită celor la care nimeni nu se aşteaptă. Aşa lucrează universul.

Nu încerca niciodată să te ridici la nivelul gândirii celui pe care nu-l cunoşti.

Marea vrajă a magiei este să descoperi singur ceea ce au descoperit alţi magicieni, dar printr-o formulă complet diferită.

Degeaba afli toate tainele cunoaşterii dacă îţi lipseşte puterea alchimică de a răbda procesul transformării depline a materiei.

A citi fără a scrie este un fapt la fel de neînsemnat ca atunci când priveşti marea fără să înoţi. Nu poţi să simţi vraja în toată plenitudinea ei.

Laşitatea se trădează ori de câte ori se iveşte un prilej, dar în primul rând se trădează ea însăşi prin răzbunare.

Există două feluri de oameni: cei care gândesc în termeni de "jobs" şi cei care gândesc i stilul lui Steve Jobs.

Nu judeca niciodată un om aflat la început de drum. Judecă-l la sfârşitul călătoriei sale.

Când asculţi intens o melodie, s-ar spune că eşti inspirat la maxim. Nu ştiu cum se face. Dar cred că am rezonat întotdeauna cu formaţia Enigma. Până la urmă, un român tot de la un român se inspiră, numai că pe altă frecvenţă de vibraţie – una la fel de înaltă.

Trebuie să uiţi complet trecutul ca să-şi redefineşti prezentul în lumina viitorului.

Fiecare lucru din jurul tău încearcă să-ţi spună mereu ceva, trebuie doar să ştii să asculţi.

Când vorbeşti despre artă trebuie să simţi prezenţa indirectă a pictorului aflat în plin proces de creaţie.

Marea tragedie a artei este că tot mai mulţi oameni caută să o înţeleagă fără să înveţe să construiască.

Este de ajuns un singur om care să aibă o nouă viziune asupra unui domeniu încât schimbarea întregii lumi să fie completă.

Secretele sunt expresia unei realităţi pe care nimeni nu o crede posibilă.

În fiecare zi devii mai bun în ceea ce faci şi tot mai încrezător în abilităţile tale.

Schimbarea lumii este opera marilor creatori de idei !

Dacă nu reuşeşti să comunici cu natura, atunci nu vei putea să fii niciodată de folos Universului.

Schimbarea la nivel global în ce priveşte leadershipul va începe din România.

Cel mai sigur mijloc de a comunica cu Universul este prin sunetul muzicii.

Să simţi ceea ce nimeni altcineva nu reuşeşte.

Primul lucru, esenţial, pentru a avea o putere semnificativă pe o anumită nişă piaţă este să-ţi creşti constant vizibilitatea.

În leadership stă veşnic în picioare o singură excepţie. Oricât de mare este valoarea pe care ţi-o atribui, cel care are de pierdut este acela care nu-şi permite să se conecteze la tine.

Omul care nu este în stare să uite definitiv trecutul este condamnat să-l retrăiască într-o veşnică şi profundă deprimare.

Ca să primeşti cât mai mult de la viaţă, mai întâi trebuie să valorezi cât mai mult, apoi să ceri cât mai mult.

A fi cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu înseamnă să cântăreşti totul de pe o poziţie foarte puternică.

O umbră răzbunătoare va fi întotdeauna anulată de o credinţă păzitoare.

Dacă ai o strategie bună nu ai cum să dai greş. Încrede-te doar în mintea ta. Nu te lăsa distras de vederi ademenitoare.

Aceasta este singura şi cea mai măreaţă înţelepciune: "Ai răbdare până ce-ţi vine timpul să devii altcineva, mult mai mult decât eşti acum."

Toată lupta omului constă în a avea tăria de a ajunge în punctul în care marea încercare a universului i se dezvăluie prin intermediul rostului vieţii.

Înainte de a te apuca de scris găseşte un spaţiu în care să-ţi exprimi gândurile.

Când te îndrepţi spre un scop măreţ, universul îşi aşează înainte persoanele care te vor ajuta să-l atingi.

Cine este în stare să producă infinitul va putea să susţină universul.

Numai cine îşi măsoară cunoaşterea cu un întreg univers poate să producă infinitul.

Stai departe de oamenii slabi, cel puţin până ce prind curaj şi devin puternici. Sau lasă-i să trăiască tot restul vieţii cu slăbiciunea lor.

Măiestria în leadership se vede atunci când deţii toate atuurile unui joc pe care alţii nu-l pot juca.

Un bun meseriaş nu se recunoaşte doar după felul cum lucrează, ci mai ales după felul cum îţi strânge uneltele.

Numai cine ajută ştiinţa să facă un pas mare înainte, a înţeles cu adevărat intenţia universului: de a considera infinitul drept o creaţie a minţii omeneşti.

Omul slab caută mereu căi ocolitoare şi îndepărtate de scopul principal. Omul puternic merge direct la ţintă şi nu se pierde pe parcurs.

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu nu gândeşti în termeni de jobs şi cv-uri. Gândeşti numai în termeni de Business Model.

În leadership, ca şi în viaţă, există o lege universal valabilă: nu contează cine pleacă, important este cine rămâne.

Perfecţiunea este geometria secretă a formei şi a fondului, în niciun caz o culoare aruncată la întâmplare.

Una este să cânţi din "durerea" unei tendinţe generale, cu totul altceva este să ştii să faci artă chiar şi dintr-un bob de nisip.

Talent + Ştiinţă + Experienţă + Pasiune + Magie = Alchimie

Un om care nu reuşeşte să pună bazele unei ştiinţe nu se va putea constitui niciodată el însuşi drept o ştiinţă.

Una din cele mai importante lecţii pe care le-am învăţat până în prezent este că niciodată n-ai să ştii leadership citind cărţi de dezvoltare personală. Secretul este în altă parte...în lărgirea orizontului de interpretare şi aplicare a cunoaşterii. Activează-ţi funcţia de creaţie şi de afirmare personală !

Adevăraţii promotori ai progresului au norocul să se întâlnească întotdeauna când este mai mare nevoie de ei, şi să formeze o echipă redutabilă.

Dumnezeu este interfaţa dintre credinţă şi ştiinţă, încrederea în îndeplinirea unui scop aproape de limita imposibilului şi spiritul de discernământ spre a alege momentul şi mijloacele potrivite pentru a-l atinge.

Dacă nu te grăbeşti să faci la timp un anumit lucru ajungi să nu te mai bucuri de beneficiile care rezultă de pe urma lui.

În fiecare zi devii tot mai conştient de valoarea ta şi nu-ţi mai rămâne altceva de făcut decât să te gândeşti cum poate fi ea măsurată (mai întâi de toate) în cuvinte, în modul cel mai credibil.

Să te joci cu materia şi să produci transformarea elementelor ei în acelaşi mod în care chimistul îşi alege experienţele cele mai relevante pentru implementarea unor noi legi şi principii.

Cu cât este mai vie imaginaţia, cu atât orizontul se lărgeşte mai mult.

Cu cât ai mai multe idei, cu atât mai uşor infinitul ţi se deschide înainte !

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume, îţi place tot mai mult să conduci.

Când se întrepătrund la modul cel mai strâns: talentul, pasiunea, experienţa, voinţa, răbdarea, perseverenţa, toate inclinaţiile artistice, abia atunci se împlineşte marea lucrare de creaţie a lui Dumnezeu.

Niciodată să nu te laşi condus decât de propriul îndemn: "Fii cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu".

Leadershipul nu se bazează pe modestie, ci pe încredere deplină !

Infinitul este vecin numai cu oamenii care îşi făuresc singuri perfecţiunea.

Marea Ştiinţă este un nucleu echivalent cu infinitul: trebuie să-l posezi ca să poţi să-l conturezi.

Să fii cel mai bun într-un anumit domeniu înseamnă să te împrieteneşti cu ştiinţa atât de mult, încât ea să facă totul în locul tău.

Să te menţii pe primul loc – asta înseamnă să fii excepţional.

Când eşti cu adevărat bun într-un domeniu, ai certitudinea că poţi să realizezi absolut orice.

Cine nu ştie să producă idei din orice mică formă a materiei, acela nu este un om de ştiinţă veritabil.

Cel mai bun "place to live" este să fii mereu în fruntea clasamentului.

Îndată ce ţi-ai desăvârşit o abilitate începi să vezi ideile acolo unde ceilalţi nu pot să vadă nimic. Chiar şi nimicul este o idee care ascunde atât de multe altele. Infinitul este suma ideilor care nu sar decât în ochii celor care au recunoscut şi au redefinit "nimicul".

În fiecare zi devii mult mai bun şi mai încrezător în tine şi în ştiinţa ta, în timp ce alţii rămân în fiecare zi tot mai în urmă, mult prea în urmă pentru a face faţă prezentului şi viitorului ştiinţei.

Numai cine a înţeles infinitul îşi va câştiga nemurirea. Află secretul înainte să-l stăpâneşti !

Când realizezi care este valoarea ta reală, abia atunci începi să vezi lucrurile de la înălţime.

Ştiinţa este coloana infinitului din care a fost creată lumea. Cine a înţeles asta cu adevărat, l-a cunoscut pe Dumnezeu.

Fiecare moment pierdut de ceilalţi este un moment câştigat de tine.

Laşitatea îşi câştigă îndrăzneala numai în faţa furiei, a urii şi a răutăţii. Dar rămâne complet nemişcată în faţa adevăratelor valori.

Să fii cel mai bun înseamnă să înaintezi în timp ce toţi ceilalţi stagnează.

Oamenii străluciţi înaintează în pricepere, ceilalţi plutesc în derivă ca nişte bătrâni fără prezent şi fără viitor.

A fi cel mai bun este un parcurs în care nu întâlneşti nicio piedică. Încet-încet ţi se deschid toate uşile, toate ferestrele, toate lacătele, toate oportunităţile, toate drumurile.

În timp ce alţii se bat cu toată lumea pentru putere, tu obţii puterea fără nicio greutate. Fără să mişti în deget !

Oamenii mari sunt valoroşi pentru că nu participa la nicio luptă. Ei câştiga de la sine doar dacă îşi continuă parcursul. Atâta tot: continuă să păşeşti înainte !

Aforisme şi păreri bine şlefuite (II)

On Septembrie 01, 2019

Unii îmbătrânesc şi pier în uitare veşnică fără să fi aflat taina Marii Ştiinţe. Iară dacă pleci cu ideea c-ai fost cineva important, aminteşte-ţi următorul lucru: faptul că te-ai urcat până în vârful copacului nu înseamnă nicidecum că ai înţeles mişcarea planetelor din sistemul solar. Ca să nu mai zic cât de departe ai fost de misterele universului..

Unii oameni duc ştiinţa la nivel de secolul următor. Alţii calcă pe urmele lor. Restul pretinde a fi în acord cu ştiinţa.

Când înţelegi că nimeni nu are realizările tale, abia atunci începi să reprezinţi cu adevărat Leadershipul.

Te poţi considera cel mai bun din lume într-un anumit domeniu atunci când lumea devine dependentă de realizările tale.

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu renunţi definitiv a te compara cu alţii. Unicitatea este o putere care nu are egal.

Cine nu descoperă prin propriile forţe drumul tăinuit spre marea ştiinţă, acela nu se va întrece niciodată pe sine.

Când un titan face un pas înainte, omenirii îi trebuie zece mii de paşi doar ca să-l ajungă din urmă.

Singura modalitate de a-ţi îmbunătăţi continuu performanţa este să-ţi placă la nebunie ceea ce faci.

Nu-i de ajuns să ajungi cel mai bun din lume într-un anumit domeniu, mai important este să ştii să te menţii în frunte.

Sunt unii oameni care efectiv scriu viitorul în numele ştiinţei, în timp ce alţii doar îşi rabdă prezentul.

Nu te grăbi să străluceşti într-o direcţie sau alta. Fiindcă într-o bună zi te vor depăşi toţi aceia (cu adevărat inteligenţi) care îţi arată la timpul potrivit valoarea.

Cel mai bun scriitor din lume este acela care te-a învăţat să scrii mult mai profund decât a reuşit el.

Ai nevoie de 10 ani de antrenament zilnic, la foc intens, ca să dobândeşti priceperea. Şi abia din al 11-lea an începi să faci performanţă.

Un singur om poate schimba întreaga gândire a lumii dacă susţine cu tărie ideea unei creaţii ce grăbeşte înaintarea exigentei şi mersul naturii.

Numai cine se dedică 100% actului de creaţie va descoperi toate secretele artei.

Scrisul care se ridică din suflet este singurul mijloc gratuit care te învaţă să gândeşti în stil mare.

Când talentul artistului va strânge mâna experienţei şi va fi ajutat mult de perseverenţă, abia atunci el va descoperi Marea Ştiinţă.

Există oameni capabili să absoarbă zilnic, ca un burete, o anumită valoare din marile taine ale ştiinţei. Până într-o zi când ei înşişi se vor constitui ca limbaj al Marii Ştiinţe.

Frumoasă încurajare primită la această oră din partea unui cititor din India: "În viitor, dumneavoastră veţi reprezenta etalonul curajului în creativitate, dar şi etalonul performanţei absolute în ştiinţa conducerii."

Să ordoni ştiinţei să se supună voinţei tale, ca şi când ai fi tu stăpânul ei, cel care îi dă viaţă !

Pe zi ce trece devii tot mai bun, mai creativ, mai înaintat în vederi decât toţi ceilalţi în perceperea operelor de artă.

Un lider veritabil face zilnic un pas mai departe pentru a-şi dubla valoarea din lume. Altfel nu are ce căuta în frunte.

Dacă ceea ce ai de spus se regăseşte în altă parte, înseamnă că nu ai nimic de spus.

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu începi să înţelegi să singura oază de linişte este frumuseţea naturii contemplată pe fundalul artei.

Ştiinţa este ca o petală de trandafir pe care trebuie să surprinzi fiecare strălucire de rouă.

Simţi o mare satisfacţie când vezi că valoarea ta creşte direct proporţional cu numărul tot mai mare al cititorilor tăi.

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu, primul lucru pe care îl conştientizezi este importanţa valorii tale.

Un om care acţionează este mult mai valoros decât unul care face planuri. Primul ajunge undeva, celălalt stă pe loc.

Un singur om care visează este mult mai puternic decât toţi aceia care se roagă.

Fiecare artist se loveşte de o îndoială. Ce preferi să ştii că eşti: un creator de materie sau un model explicativ al naturii ei?

Când ajungi cel mai bun din lume într-un domeniu devii conştient de faptul că nu tu depinzi de ceilalţi, cât mai mult depind ceilalţi de tine.

Fii întotdeauna o condiţie indispensabilă progresului. Încetul cu încetul, se va forma un cerc al forţelor vitale ce vor contribui la poziţionarea ta pe primul loc în clasamentul celor mai valoroase Branduri.

Să prezinţi un subiect ştiinţific într-o manieră cât mai captivantă şi mai accesibilă publicului larg este ca şi cum ai invita o fată tânără şi frumoasă la dans, iar ea ţi-ar răspunde: "Cu cea mai mare plăcere ! "

Când eşti cel mai bun din lume şi ştii că nimeni nu poate face ce faci tu. De aici începe frumuseţea leadershipului.

Ca să te promovezi solid într-un domeniu trebuie să fii neasemuit ca un diamant şlefuit impecabil, pe care şi-l doreşte toată lumea.

A fi cel mai bun nu este un scop, nu este o alegere, nu este un vis. Este un destin. Este un merit. Este ecoul universului !

Dumnezeu nu iartă laşitatea. Ei bine, laşitatea este sinonimă cu trădarea. Primul om care de va trăda într-o bună zi este întotdeauna cel lipsit de curaj.

Cea mai ambiţioasă iniţiativă este întotdeauna cea salvatoare. Cine se implică cu adevărat într-o cauză care este deja pusă pe rol, acela va câştiga totul. Sau va continua să fie condamnat la jocul responsabil prin stabilirea limitelor.

Din clipa când ai prins aripi ştii că nu mai există decât o singură cale: să te avânţi cât mai sus. Lângă cei ca tine !

Oamenii cu adevărat valoroşi ajung întotdeauna mult mai departe decât şi-a putut vreodată închipui cineva.

Există multe persoane care parcă duc lipsă de aprecieri. Îşi prezintă lucrările în faţa comisiilor de evaluare. Dar cine sunt cei care îi evaluează? De ce oare au ei nevoie de o notă din partea lor? Normal: fiindcă depind de evaluarea altora.

Însă un lider, omul care deţine o cunoaştere foarte avansată, nu are nevoie de note, fiindcă ştie că deja se află mult deasupra celorlalţi. Un lider gândeşte în felul următor: "Nu eu am nevoie de voi, ci voi aveţi nevoie de mine ! Nu voi mă evaluaţi pe mine, ci eu trebuie să vă evaluez pe voi toţi ! "

Fii întotdeauna Primul sau Ultimul, dar niciodată la mijloc.

Companiile şi universităţile care vor să-şi demonstreze valoarea ar trebui mai întâi de toate să investească masiv în oameni cu adevărat valoroşi. În România, un om de mare valoare va semna un contract cu orice universitate doar dacă instituţia va fi dispusă să investească o sumă de bani considerabilă. Vorba unui expert din informatică: dacă nu-ţi permiţi să investeşti într-un om valoros, atunci apelează la un rector sau la un decan universitar - aceştia cer mai puţini bani, dar tare puţin vei învăţa de la ei.

Uneori trebuie să fii mai bun decât eşti, pentru a fi tu.

Trebuie să stăpâneşti bine mijloacele artei, pentru a înţelege că nimeni altcineva nu le poate lua în posesie.

Geniul se recunoaşte după unicitatea şi dăinuirea operei plămădită din limbajul divin.

Discuţiile cele mai neînsemnate scot la iveală valorile cele mai mari. Discuţiile cele mai deschise sunt suportul caracterelor cele mai sincere. Discuţiile fără remiză reprezintă încheierea definitivă a unei cauze de interes.

Nu te compara niciodată cu ceilalţi. Fii întotdeauna cu mult deasupra lor.

Pasiunea şi Talentul te fac de neînvins. Două lumi care se întrepătrund în interiorul aceluiaşi univers.

Alege-ţi un singur drum şi continuă să înaintezi ca şi când n-ar exista altul.

Cel mai utile sfaturi le afli de la oamenii care au trăit şi au înfăptuit imposibilul.

Toţi elevii şi studenţii sunt condiţionaţi de profesori să înveţe, doar ca să strângă nişte puncte. Ceea ce nimeni nu le spune este să-şi găsească o pasiune. Căci dacă îţi găseşti o pasiune, poţi cu cea mai mică uşurinţă să laşi în urmă (chiar şi cu o mie de de ani) orice profesor, de orice rang şi cu orice funcţie. Indiferent că se numeşte rector, decât sau lector.

Dacă învingătorul se formează după principiul locului întâi, dacă meriţi să fii cel mai bun, atunci cum ai putea să refuzi ceea ce îţi este predestinat?

Sunt două feluri de scriitori: cei care scriu din capul lor şi cei care scriu din capul altora. Un scriitor bun se recunoaşte după felul în care îşi aşterne propriile gânduri. Pe când un scriitor mediocru se recunoaşte după coautorii alături de care semnează o lucrare academică.

Sunt două feluri de oameni: cei care mor crezând că au făcut ceva în viaţă, şi cei care nu mor niciodată.

Marea Împărăţie este destinată celor care au învăţat să cuprindă infinitul.

Cine nu reuşeşte să se transforme într-o picătură din oceanul timpului, nu va reuşi niciodată să lase urme în nisipul fin al clepsidrei universului.

Eşti ceea ce trăieşti în jocul propriei tale minţi.

Oamenii deosebiţi se îndreaptă numai spre un viitor care le conferă o valoare cât mai mare. Fii prezent numai acolo unde eşti preţuit cum se cuvine.

Avem atât de multe de învăţat de la natură, avem nevoie să simţim înainte de a cuprinde.

Fiecare viaţă este un roman. Ca să citeşti toate romanele lumii ar însemna să cunoşti toate vieţile ei.

Odată ce-ai descoperit infinitul nu-ţi mai rămâne decât să atingi nemurirea.

Răbdarea nu se dezvăluie, ea se deprinde prin credinţă.

Unul din cele mai rare momente din viaţă are loc atunci când ţi se relevă o însuşire care te poate înălţa deasupra tuturor. Un zero absolut se poate transforma cu răbdare într-un infinit perfect.

Competiţia este unul dintre mijloacele de a te apropia de excelenţă. Ea este unul din motoarele de bază ale dezvoltării. Fără competiţie evoluţia ar fi fost mult mai lentă.

Cu fiecare descoperire pe care o faci, te poziţionezi cu o treaptă mai sus de restul lumii. Important este cine descoperă primul. Restul lumii va încerca să calce pe urmele sale. Amintiţi-vă de Amundsen şi ..de Scott.

Omul lipsit de sentiment nu va căpăta niciodată îndurare.

Unicitatea deschide spiritelor superioare calea nemuririi.

Ştiinţa se dezvăluie numai atunci când apelezi la ea.

Omului rău i se va ierta totul numai atunci când va face înzecit binele.

Foarte puţini oameni îmbrăţişează cu adevărat o Pasiune. Şi, chiar şi mai puţini apreciază ceea ce trebuie să devină datorită Pasiunii.

Lasă-i pe trecători să se mândrească cu ce au şi cu ce nu au. Între timp, tu adaugă noi trepte care duc spre vârful piramidei performanţei.

Un sculptor excepţional îşi exersează îndemânarea realizând continuu noi piese de artă. Dar sculpturile cu adevărat speciale, care nu ajung la mâna oricui, se fac doar la comandă. Iar acestea au un preţ foarte mare.

Oferă-i ştiinţei timpul tău, iar ea îţi va dezvălui taina universului. Ascultă-ţi glasul inimii, iar ea îţi va dezvălui limbajul universului.

O pasăre care nu încearcă să dea din aripi şi nici nu încearcă să se înalţe, atunci cu siguranţă nu este un vultur.

Secretul este infinitul. Dacă reuşeşti să asiguri continuitatea acestui reper universal, înseamnă că te-ai autodepăşit.

Rezervele sunt pentru oamenii care nu mizează totul pe o singură carte.

Dacă vrei să fii un om mare, în orice domeniu, începe prin a fi autodidact. Excelenţa dă o notă mare studiului individual.

Nicio strategie nu te va apropia de scopul tău dacă nu dovedeşti că eşti pe măsura scopului tău.

Taina superioară a ştiinţei constă în a şti ce să faci cu ce-ai învăţat după ce-ai realizat cine eşti cu adevărat.

Este nevoie de o grămadă de minţi luminate ca să putem evalua performanţa unui bec economic.

Spiritele care se înalţă mult prea sus, de regulă ajung în spaţiul vidului.

Leadershipul este o piesă care reuşeşte să se facă auzită prin refrenul ei.

Este cu adevărat sublim să-i observi pe intelectuali cum investesc timpul doar în redimensionarea stimei de sine.

Acestea sunt ferestrele tale larg deschide către o ascensiune sigură şi îndelungată.

A prezenta leadershipul sub o nouă lumină este doar apanajul unui artificiu de inspiraţie la rece.

Leadershipul este poezia căreia artistul îi dă o ultimă versiune.

Oamenii care vânează permanent greşelile altora nu vor recunoaşte niciodată greşelile proprii.

Singura sursă importantă de câştig de care poţi profita la maximum este potenţialul de a deveni cel mai bun.

Leadershipul este o comoară care se dezvăluie numai prin redescoperire.

Trebuie să ai încredere în necunoscut, ca să îţi poţi orienta privirea către un loc mai îndepărtat.

Este o vreme când te simţi în putere să lupţi împotriva tuturor, şi să învingi. "Ţineţi minte: sunteţi mulţi, iar eu sunt singur ! " Apoi realizezi că lupta nu-ţi aduce aceeaşi bucurie ca un gest frumos, un zâmbet, căldură sufletească.

Dacă stai tot timpul cu muşchii încordaţi, atunci nu te vei relaxa niciodată.

Dacă trandafirul ar putea să-ţi vorbească...dar el întotdeauna tace. Ştii doar că este frumos, dar străjuit de spini.

Celui care are nevoie de surse biografice ca să elaboreze un text cu conţinut bogat, îi lipseşte experienţa care precede viziunea.

Ar fi auzit de tine dacă nu ai fi fost numit într-o funcţie înaltă? Valoarea ta adevărată este alcătuită din cine eşti şi ce faci dincolo de funcţie.

Nu poţi înţelege un om decât după ce ai trecut prin ce-a trecut el.

Cel mai bun profesor în leadership este experienţa de viaţă, mult mai importantă în formarea personalităţii decât experienţa profesională.

Mai întâi compară-te cu cei mai buni profesionişti. Apoi găseşte-ţi cel mai bun model de inspiraţie şi depăşeşte-i limitele.

Combină mai multe stiluri, apoi formează-ţi propriul stil. Studiază artă pe cont propriu, apoi deviază în mod controlat de la tendinţele trasate de ceilalţi creatori.

Nu poţi fi ceea ce eşti dacă nu ştii cine eşti.

Nu poţi să cucereşti o cetate fără să identifici, în primul rând, locaţia ei.

Frumosul trăieşte prin designul aparte al florii. Iar ori de câte ori o petală cade, asta se întâmplă nu fiindcă îi lipseşte lumina soarelui, ci fiindcă se lasă pradă vântului.

E uşor să înţelegi o lume, dacă eşti creatorul ei şi îngrijitorul ei.

Omul care ştie totul constituie întruchiparea unei perfecţiuni de neatins.

Important nu este să oferi oamenilor o viziune. Ci să aprinzi în ei puterea de a-şi forma singuri o viziune.

Diferenţa de potenţial între lideri şi oameni este că primii generează transformarea, ceilalţi trec din transformare în transformare.

Mai bine spargi un zid invizibil, decât să continui o perfecţionare care subjugă toate forţele posibile.

Numai dacă ajungi să controlezi în întregime o ştiinţă, vei putea să generezi germenii unei ştiinţe viitoare.

Dacă vrei să fii cu adevărat bun într-un domeniu, atunci ambiţionează-te să studiezi un domeniu mai avansat, de care eşti complet străin.

Până ce nu eşti sigur că ţi-ai câştigat libertatea de a trăi o viaţă plină de sens, nu te lăsa pe-o ureche. După ce se termină petrecerea, prietenii pleacă. Şi rămâi doar tu.

O stea care nu-şi dă interesul să lumineze va rămâne întotdeauna neobservată.

Nu e de ajuns o stea strălucitoare pe cer pentru ca noaptea să capete o nuanţă plină de vis.

Experienţa te-a ajutat să te faci remarcat printr-o unicitate aparte?

Sclipirea cea mai puternică se observă cel mai bine în adâncul întunericului.

Trebuie să te ridici cât mai sus pentru ca cei de jos să te observe.

Un om de foc se recunoaşte întotdeauna după flacără.

Un caracter puternic este coordonat de un suflet şi mai puternic Un om puternic poate mişca toţi munţii din loc doar dacă este străbătut de o motivaţie puternică.

Totul este trecător, mai puţin esenţa care făureşte infinitul.

Omul care nu ştie ce vrea caută întotdeauna de toate sub forma implicată a unor simple stele căzătoare.

Preţul adevărat pe care viitorul plin de răsplătiri îl cere de la prezentul ambiguu este acesta: să ştii să ierţi, să înţelegi cu inima, cu sufletul.

Invizibilul, necunoscutul şi infinitul sunt cele trei mari componente ce intră în alcătuirea Marii Opere.

Liderul cel mai câştigat împrumută adepţilor săi noi valenţe de afirmare din resursele lui proprii de performanţă.

Oricât de multe fire de iarbă ar exista pe pământ, ele nu vor lumina niciodată în întuneric precum o stea.

Nu vei ajunge niciodată cel mai bun dacă te plasezi pe picior de egalitate cu ceilalţi.

Nu te poţi ridica deasupra Creatorului tău. Căci astfel ai deveni tu însuţi propriul model de urmat.

Toţi spiriduşii au dreptul să-şi valorifice cât mai mult potenţialul creator. Dar transformările lor pline de imaginaţie sunt plăsmuite de un singur scenograf: Dumnezeu.

Cele mai bune idei se ivesc atunci când construieşti, nu atunci când plănuieşti. Deci, construieşte cât mai mult.

Răbdare, flexibilitate – apoi viteză şi rezistenţă. Să îmbrăţişezi schimbarea cu mare drag. Şi să foloseşti cu chibzuinţă absolut tot ceea ce, bun sau rău, se iveşte în calea ta.

Leadershipul este un demers al dezvoltării durabile, doar dacă are continuitate în transformarea omului.

Cu precădere, în viitor se va pune accent pe talent şi pe calităţi. Mai presus de toate va conta pregătirea individuală şi rezultatele obţinute în activitatea desfăşurată în mod independent.

În timp ce tot mai mulţi indivizi vor acumula diplome şi certificate de competenţă, alţii – cei puţini şi speciali – îşi vor crea un alt drum. Un drum al pasiunii. Mult mai eficient şi mai spectaculos decât pare.

Atâta vreme cât omul are voinţă şi dispune de libertatea de a-şi fructifica talentul, el va dispune şi de mijloacele necesare pentru a duce la bun sfârşit bătălia vieţii sale.

Cine atinge succesul prea devreme, se strică de tot mai târziu.

E - I = M (Experienţă – Imaginaţie = Mediocritate)

Deschide dicţionarul la orice pagină. Alege un cuvânt oarecare. Doar unul singur. Apoi încearcă să realizezi o capodoperă literară, fără să te inspiri din nicio altă sursă. Scrie cu ochii închişi.

Dumnezeu este punctul de întâlnire al celor trei instante mistice: artistul, magicianul şi alchimistul.

Cine ştie să manipuleze materia, acela ştie cel mai bine cum se creează un univers între atâtea universuri.

Nepricepuţii încearcă să înţeleagă materia. Artiştii o modelează. Magicienii o condensează şi o încadrează într-un ciclu nesfârşit de rotaţie. Iar alchimiştii ştiu să o însufleţească.

Lasă-i pe ceilalţi din jur să te depăşească. Pentru ca ei să dea greş cu mult înainte ca tu să ajungi la destinaţie. Deseori drumul spre excelenţă este netezit de greşelile "de viteza" a celorlalţi.

Un maestru reuşeşte să configureze materia după bunul său plac. Vei deveni maestru numai atunci când materia recunoscătoare îţi va de necontenit ascultare.

Dacă n-ai ajuns la stadiul în care efectiv să te joci cu materia şi s-o modelezi după cum îţi place, înseamnă că eşti departe de adevărata măiestrie.

Te vei regăsi numai atunci când te vei recunoaşte.

Vei atinge măiestria numai atunci când te vei depăşi pe tine însuţi.

Omul orgolios este un pierzător pentru că întotdeauna se lasă învins de el însuşi.

Dacă reuşeşti să percepi insesizabilul, vei putea să produci mereu noi ecouri în universul acestei lumi.

Aforisme şi păreri bine şlefuite (III)

On Septembrie 01, 2019

Ori mizezi totul pe o singură carte, ori nu mai juca deloc. Jucătorii cei mai buni primesc întotdeauna cărţile cele mai proaste cu putinţă, dar ştiu să le transforme în cele mai bune.

Pierzătorul percepe muntele ca un întreg. Învingătorul se concentrează asupra pietricelelor din care este constituit muntele. În timp ce primul îşi spune: "N-o să pot niciodată muta muntele din loc", celălalt are deja câteva pietricele strânse în mână. Performanţa este ca pietricelele din munte: este doar o chestiune de timp până le strângi pe toate.

Artistul îşi poate extinde arta cu o singură condiţie: să posede ştiinţa construcţiei şi compoziţiei.

Trebuie să ajungi la un nivel înalt de înţelegere a obscurului, ca să reuşeşti să înfierbânţi materia, s-o transformi şi să produci expansiunea ei în lumină.

De ce să te mulţumeşti doar cu statutului de a fi bun, dacă ai posibilitatea să fii strălucit?

Cel care nu ştie decât să joace dur şi să ţină lupta în picioare, acela nu va primi niciodată o mângâiere.

Omul care nu şi-a descoperit un talent sau o pasiune, nu va putea să exceleze decât în mediocritate.

O singură idee poate transforma omul obişnuit într-un om genial. Ideea deschide porţile zăvorâte ale adevăratului tău potenţial.

Cine pretinde că ştie totul, acela nu ştie nimic. Iar cel care pretinde că nu ştie nimic, de fapt ştie totul.

Omul care nu poate să reinventeze ştiinţa sau să o modeleze exclusiv după voinţa lui, nu va dobândi niciodată măiestria.

Când lumea n-o să se mai gândească la bani, atunci va înţelege totul. Şi va avea totul.

Ca să cunoşti binele, mai întâi trebuie să cunoşti răul. Ca să recunoşti un adevăr, mai întâi trebuie să-l negi. Ca să iubeşti cu adevărat, mai întâi trebuie să urăşti. Ca să ai certitudinea că exişti, mai întâi trebuie să-ţi negi propria existenţă.

Înainte de toate caută să-ţi însuşeşti mai bine ca oricine ştiinţa care ţi se potriveşte.

Învingător nu este acela care obţine doar o mică parte dintr-un întreg. Ci acela care dobândeşte prin forţele proprii ştiinţa de a cuprinde întregul şi de a-l reinventa în chip strălucit.

Taina măiestriei: Învaţă să creezi un singur punct, pe care apoi să-l înmulţeşti la nesfârşit cu el însuşi.

Cine nu este capabil să dea viaţa în fiecare zi unei noi construcţii aparte, sau unei viziuni cu totul diferite în domeniul său de activitate, acela nu are dreptul şi puterea de a se numi profesionist.

Nu-ţi dori să intri în rândul celor mai buni. Nu te compara niciodată cu cei mai tari. Fii întotdeauna cu mult deasupra lor ! Aminteşte-ţi că oricât de puternici ar fi leul sau tigrul, întotdeauna vulturul se află sus, cu mult deasupra lor.

Secretele se dezvăluie numai celor puţini, care au transpirat mulţi ani la rând în căutarea lor.

Fii puternic prin înţelegere. Fii bun prin excelenţă. Fii tu însuţi.

Profesioniştii creează zilnic ceva nou şi viabil. Amatorii nu fac altceva decât să repete reţetele şi etichetele creaţiilor originale.

Ştiinţa nu este un instrument pe care să-l poţi iubi foarte mult, fără să-l fi abordat în mod direct.

Noţiunile unei ştiinţe simbolice pot fi oricând interpretate, dar rareori înţelese.

Fiecare vis are o stea şi fiecare stea are un vis.

Alchimia se poate efectua numai în întuneric. Fiindcă întunericul ascunde o lumină foarte mică. Şi tocmai acea lumină mică este esenţa.

Nu există doar un singur univers, şi nici mai mult universuri. Ci doar infinitul !

În clipa când vei descoperi fenomenul din spatele ştiinţei, te vei simţi dator să cotrobăi în tine însuţi pentru a-ţi amplifica valoarea.

Necunoscutul este sursa de alimentare a marii cunoaşteri.

Numai cine are curajul să se avânte cu toată inima în necunoscut va afla totul.

Excelenţa se clădeşte numai prin pasiune şi perseverenţa.

Nu contează numărul acelora care aleargă împreună cu tine. Contează doar cel mai perseverent dintre ei care rezistă până la sfârşitul cursei.

Cel mai greu de îndurat este suspansul: oare ziua de mâine va fi ca cea de azi?

Degeaba eşti cel mai bun, dacă nu ai tot ce-i mai bun.

Cel mai greu lucru este să faci un pas înainte, ştiind că altcineva va face doi paşi înapoi.

Formula alchimiei restrânsă: să crezi înainte de a şti !

Cel mai mult contează cine eşti înainte de a ajunge CINEVA.

Dacă flacăra începe să se stingă, vina îi revine în totalitate aceluia care nu ştie să-i întreţină arderea.

Să faci întotdeauna doar ceea ce îţi place. Să faci doar ceea ce îţi cere talentul.

Şi într-o bună zi vei ajunge cel mai bun din lume.

Alchimia este doar ştiinţa maeştrilor. Culege un ciob de sticlă, pune-l la fiert două ore, presară deasupra lui puţin clar de lună, suspendă-l de o rază de soare, şi vei obţine un diamant.

Unui om talentat îi trebuie doar un impuls de moment pentru a crea o lume întreagă cu legi proprii. Unui om cu experienţă îi trebuie o viaţă întreagă şi o lume întreagă pentru a constata că-i lipseşte talentul. De fapt, talentul este mult mai important decât experienţa.

Să realizezi ceea ce nimeni altcineva nu reuşeşte. Să înţelegi ceea ce este obscur celorlalţi. Să descoperi ceva important de unul singur. Să cucereşti un nou limbaj. Să realizezi într-o singură zi ceea ce altora le-ar lua săptămâni, luni sau chiar ani. Asta înseamnă să fii maestru.

Totul se transformă. În orice domeniu poţi fi un alchimist, cu o singură condiţie: să reuşeşti să transformi orice condiţie în altă condiţie.

Deseori cărţile se dovedesc a fi mult mai bine decât oamenii.

Pentru unii, bunătatea fără margini înseamnă ca ei să aibă întotdeauna ultimul cuvânt de spus. Prin urmare eşti nevoit uneori să fii puţin răutăcios cu oamenii prea "buni".

Nu-i invidia niciodată pe ceilalţi. Fă tot ce poţi pentru ca ceilalţi să te admire enorm de mult pe tine.

Un viitor performer îşi începe călătoria spre excelenţă pornind de la statutul de "mărginit". Şi îşi desăvârşeşte formarea până ce-i depăşeşte pe toţi cei înnobilaţi cu statutul de "Super Brand".

Greu nu este să creezi un scenariu nou de viaţă. Greu este modul în care îl interpretezi.

Prea mulţi să grăbesc să-şi găsească un loc de muncă. Prea puţini îşi orientează eforturile către atingerea excelenţei.

Un adevărat performer face în fiecare zi ceva care să-l apropie de ţelul suprem: to be the best of the best.

Dacă vrei să primeşti ceva, învaţă să dai mai întâi de la tine. Dacă ai dat deja, învaţă să aştepţi să primeşti. Nu îndura timpul, traversează-l. E rândul tău să faci un pas curajos înainte? Aştepţi să primeşti ceva fără să dai nimic de la tine?

Cea mai dificilă constantă a vieţii este: sincronizarea cu tine însuţi, cu lucrurile pe care vrei să le schimbi, cu oamenii dragi din jurul tău.

Promovează-ţi valoarea înainte de a te compara cu cei mai buni.

Antrenează-te zece ore pe zi, timp de şase-şapte ani, la un singur skill, şi vei ajunge să-l controlezi mai bine ca oricine. Fii convins că 99% dintre aspiranţii la statutul de performer nici măcar nu încep antrenamentul, sau nu-l duc până la capăt.

Desăvârşirea înseamnă să pătrunzi adânc în necunoscutul cel mai real dintre necunoscute, şi să descoperi lumina cea mai înaltă dinăuntrul tău.

Necunoscutul este cea mai importantă constantă a performanţei.

Două feluri de oameni merită cel mai mult atenţia: cei care ştiu să piardă şi cei care nu ştiu să câştige.

Talentul nu are nevoie de diplome sau de certificate de studii ca să se dezvolte şi ca să se afirme.

Atâta timp cât ne vom permite să fim Oameni, va exista şi Leadershipul.

Cine are o pasiune, dar nu face din ea un adevărat bastion de rezistenţă, acela niciodată nu va performa.

Cel mai greu lucru din lume este să încerci să faci imposibilul. Iar cel mai frumos, să reuşeşti.

Fii bun la un singur lucru, doar la unul. Dar la acela fii cel mai bun din lume

Talentul şi Pasiunea – doi fraţi gemeni care se înţeleg de minune în limba lor.

Cele trei etape ale transformării: caută + găseşte + atribuie un sens.

Important nu este să le ştii pe toate. Important este să ştii un singur lucru pe care nimeni altcineva nu îl cunoaşte.

Pasiunea este forţa care îţi dă garanţia că eşti mult mai bun decât ceilalţi într-o anumită direcţie.

Talentul este ca o floare, care odată răsărită, trebuie doar udată periodic ca să nu se usuce.

Singurul şi cel mai valoros profesor pe care îl ai este greşeala. Corectează, corectează, corectează până când vei atinge perfecţiunea.

Nu există oameni de geniu pe lumea asta. Ci există doar două constante "POT" şi "NU POT".

Numai omului care a descoperit un secret îi este dat să culeagă în întregime roadele acestuia.

Foarte mulţi m-au întrebat de ce mă grăbesc atât de mult să termin anumite proiecte. Le-am răspuns: fiindcă cel care nu se grăbeşte, nu o să termine niciodată.

Doar pentru acel cineva care îmi va împărtăşi crezul: "Chiar dacă toată lumea va fi împotriva mea, eu voi fi alături de tine".

Una este să fii bun într-un domeniu de activitate. Cu totul altceva este să fii excelent într-un domeniu de activitate. A fi bun înseamnă să te afli într-un cerc alături de mii, sau milioana asemenea ţie. Dar a fi excelent înseamnă să fii tu cel care învârte cercul.

Să nu fii străin de privirile întoarse în alte direcții, construite pe principiul oglindirii în simetria aparențelor. Ceea ce privești nu e întotdeauna ceea ce vrei să găsești.

Și degeaba iei binele cu tine, dacă binele este uitat... Nu mai bine să lași în urma ta ceva de neuitat? Fii o stea pe cer, nu un sfânt pe pământ.

Poți să păcălești șoarecii și să-i faci să cadă în diverse capcane. Dar nu poți să convingi universul să-ți facă o stea pe cer, doar pentru că știi să întinzi capcane pentru șoareci.

Omul care își face mereu planuri, cel care are o poftă neînfrânată de a-și imagina noi strategii, este omul care nu acționează niciodată la timpul cuvenit.

Până ce tu aștepți să se întâmple ceva de la sine, alții deja au făcut 10 pași înainte. Schimbarea nu așteaptă să-i hotărăști momentul potrivit, fiindcă niciodată n-o să fie momentul potrivit.

Important este omul care aduce schimbarea, nu cei care așteaptă ca lucrurile să se întâmple de la sine. Schimbarea nu are planificată întâmplarea.

Nimeni nu îmbrățișează mai mult tehnologia decât un om al științei. Cel ce îmbrățișează orizonturi mai ample este cel ce-a străbătut distanța de la pământ la cer.

Unii sunt gata să meargă tot înainte, alții sunt nevoiți să rămână tot mai în urmă.

„Mai uşor trece o cămilă prin urechile acului, decât intră un bogat în Împărăţia Cerurilor." Ştiinţa (Marea Împărăţie) nu are nevoie de înlesnire materială ca să genereze accelerarea progresului.

Dacă citești o carte de o mie de ori, vei descoperi tot atâtea modalități de a percepe realitatea printr-o oglindire îndepărtată, înghițită de un spațiu ireal.

Nu vei găsi niciodată o comoară trăind cu capul în nisip, luând din când în când câte o gură de aer. Utilizează-ți energia pentru a profita de bogăția din tine !

Să fii cel mai bun dintre cei mai buni, fără să te consideri mai bun decât cel din urmă.

Nu te juca cu focul dacă nu te simți în stare să arzi ca o flacără. Temperaturile mari sunt declanșate de flăcările mistuitoare care ard atât de puternic.

Secretul pe plan spiritual este să fii înconjurat de o aureolă magică. Dacă nu știi să te transpui într-o cifră magică, nu te vor putea ajuta nici inteligența și nici hazardul.

Taina științei este lucrarea credinței celor care, strălucind ca stelele, reușesc să transmită lumina pe toate nivelurile de vibrație ale întregului Univers.

Singura cale de a ajunge foarte departe este să luminezi ca o stea într-un întuneric care străbate noaptea fără nicio direcție.

Directorii sau salariații vin și pleacă. Dar creatorii rămân pentru totdeauna.

Niciodată să nu excelezi acolo unde toți excelează. Ci, să excelezi numai acolo unde ești unic, fără egal.

Când Dumnezeu te ţine departe de ceilalţi oameni, înseamnă că are planuri mai mari cu tine.

Important este cel care duce știința la un nivel superior. Universul este un plin al științei umplut cu credința celor care construiesc piramide.

Progresul îi elimină pe cei sensibili și bolnăvicioși, și îi păstrează doar pe cei rezistenți în fața provocărilor. Progresul este știința de a fi cauza unei tămăduiri care transformă viața într-o provocare.

Tot secretul este să știi să vezi. Pentru asta, trebuie să studiezi arta subtilă a picturii. A vedea este un fel de a picta noaptea un relief.

În fiecare săptămână să aduci ceva în câmpul ştiinţei. La sfârşitul anului, mii de oameni vor folosi resursele tale ca să continue suplimentar angajamentul făcut ştiinţei, lucru care face, ca brandul tău să fie unic şi valoros.

Cei care au un website, le sugerez să traducă conţinutul tuturor articolelor cel puţin într-o limbă străină ! Şi chiar dacă nu ştiţi foarte bine o limbă străină, puteţi apela la traducători. Nu există scuze pentru a nu traduce !

Iar cei care ştiu bine o limbă străină şi au un website, şi nu traduc tot ceea ce au lucrat, degeaba au mai învăţat o limbă străină...

Cel care nu ştie, dar apelează la cine ştie, este mult mai important decât cel ce ştie și nu face nimic cu ceea ce ştie.

Ca să-ți asiguri locul 1 mondial în elita unei industrii puternice, nu-i de-ajuns să fii cu un pas înaintea altora, ci cu 100 km înaintea tuturor. 100 km înseamnă cam 100 de mii de pași. Deci un pas nu e suficient, ci 100 de mii.

Toată materia, stelele nemuritoare, toată energia universului, întreaga creație (complet infuzată cu spirit), natura înconjurătoare, tot ce numim timp și spațiu, întunericul și lumina, chiar și cea mai îndepărtată planetă, tinerețea fără bătrânețe, toate se aliniază spre a ușura traseul pe care ai de parcurs ca să reușești în ceea ce ți-ai propus.

Dar ca să se întâmple toate astea, trebuie să ajungi la acel nivel de credință care are în centrul ei alchimic însăși Forța Creației Infinite. Cum spunea cel mai mare alchimist al tuturor timpurilor: "Infinitul sunt Eu".

Cei ce știu, vor ști și mai multe. Cei ce nu știu, nu vor ști niciodată nimic.

Nu ai cum să-i depășești pe ceilalți decât dacă îți dovedești superioritatea cu ajutorul științei.

Iar dacă nu-i depășești pe ceilalți vei fi tu cel rămas în urmă.

Puţini acordă atenție micilor schimbări care creează în timp marea schimbare.

Cât timp oamenii își văd de cursul firesc al vieții, cineva acolo schimbă în taină ordinea lucrurilor în întreaga lume.

Cu toate astea, unii vor contribui cât pot de mult la dezvoltarea ştiinţei, în timp ce alţii vor privi neputincioşi la schimbările înfăptuite de cei care consideră că ştiinţa are propria frumuseţe.

Unii schimbă lumea, alţii sunt pur şi simplu sunt conduşi de curentul schimbării, fără să poată schimba nimic. Există, aşadar, oameni ai inovaţiei, şi oameni ai privitului fără noimă. Tu din care categorie faci parte?

P.S. Cei care iubesc ştiinţa, îmi vor da dreptate. Toţi ceilalţi mă vor urî din tot sufletul !

Big prizes are for great people. Small prizes are for small people.

Culorile sunt manifestări ale picturii valabile pe linia unei vieţi care nu-şi epuizează niciodată misterele.

Paradoxul pretențiilor grosolane: „Să te dai mare știutor, și cu toate astea să ajungi în cel din urmă stadiu al bătrâneții fără să fi aflat ce este Știința.”

Unii sunt predispuși s-o ia înainte, alții sunt predispuși să rămână în urmă. Unii rămân în drum, în loc să își facă un drum.. adică nici nu merg măcar. Si asta este o alegere...sa existi este o optiune, sa traiesti este tot o optiune...don't judge, just observe and accept ! O parte merg în ritmul lor normal, fără a fi judecaţi de unii sau de alţii, fiecare merge pe drumul lui, pe care nimeni nu poate merge.

Ar trebui să trăiesc o infinitate de vieți într-o infinitate de trupuri, doar ca să extrag o mică parte din infinitul pe care îl port acum în mine.

În asta constă inteligența: să ai puterea să le conduci pe toate în orice împrejurare.

Când vrei să faci cuiva un rău, asigură-te că Dumnezeu nu știe planurile tale. Altfel, se poate întoarce roata într-un fel în care nu îți imaginezi. Şi cum Dumnezeu îţi ştie planurile dinainte ca tu să ţi le imaginezi...este doar o chestiune de timp, nu de certitudine.

Cine are știință arată mereu ceea ce știe. Cine nu are știință, nu are nimic de arătat.

Cei mici vor ajunge cu totul neînsemnați, cei mari se vor înălța tot mai mult.

Anul acesta ne vor părăsi mulți bătrâni, și nu știm dacă mai au timp să îndrepte ce-au greșit. Cert este că tinerii vor mai întineri cu un an. Amin.

Acolo unde nu ai avut niciodată înclinații, exact acolo s-ar putea ascunde talentul tău. Punctul tău slab este punctul tău forte.

Cultura generală nu este pentru creatori. Creatorul știe un singur lucru: am un singur talent, mă țin doar de el, și restul nu contează.

Când alergi noaptea târziu este întotdeauna linişte şi însingurare. Dar se văd stelele.

Să alergi cât poți de bine ! Și când nu mai poți, continuă încă un pic. Dar niciodată, niciodată, niciodată să nu renunți.

Cum spunea un prieten azi: alergătorul este precum o pană de vultur, smulsă de vânt, purtată în neștire...

Lumea nu stă după cei care stau. Lumea se mișcă după cei care mișcă lucrurile. Să nu treacă o zi măcar fără să aduci ceva nou în domeniul științei.

Cei ce știu, vor ști și mai multe. Cei ce nu știu, nu vor ști niciodată.

Dacă fiecare ar fi preocupat de ce ştie el şi nu alţii, s-ar cunoaşte mai bine cu siguranţă. Mulţi sunt prea preocupaţi de ceilalţi şi nu încetează să se compare; în ideea că fiecare face ce poate şi ce ştie uitatul în grădina altuia nu duce la progres, ci doar de purtarea de grija altuia, care la noi constituie o mare problemă.

Toţi greşim, şi totul ţine de percepţie: o tratăm ca pe o oportunitate de schimbare pozitivă, sau aşteptăm pe ceilalţi să se schimbe (ca noi suntem perfecţi).

Amândouă părţile sunt lezate mai mult sau mai puţin, dar totul pleacă de la o şansă, şi aici începe "magia" schimbării.

Vezi şi "Prinde-mă dacă poţi", inspirat din realitate. Frank Abagnale fraudează sistemul, nu dintr o cultură a "răului" sau a sfidării, ci pe fondul unei insecurităţi afective, apărută în adolescenţă. Agentul FBI care l-a urmărit, i-a dat şansă după şansă (în total 3), convins fiind că totul pleacă de la o şansă, şansă care trebuie să asigure acea securitate emoţională de care individul are nevoie, pentru a înfăptui schimbarea.

Aşa a început schimbarea...din cel mai căutat fugar şi infractor fiscal, a devenit consultant în securitate financiară .

Totul este psihologie fină, a te pune în locul celuilalt, altfel spus a renunţa la "ego", şi a da o şansă ! Este aşa cum a spus cineva: "Secretul nemuririi înseamnă, mai întâi de toate, să trăiești o viață demnă de amintit."

Aici se simte mâna Domnului

On Februarie 22, 2013

Reflectează asupra modului în care evoluezi, astfel încât să te convingi de legătura strânsă ce există între sistemul tău de valori şi rolul pe care ţi-l asumi în lume.

Numai un singur individ, numai o singură speţă umană iese dintr-o casă străină, iar pe pragul de la intrare îşi inspectează încă o dată talpa pantofilor de eventuale urme de sânge. Asasinul - Anton Chigurh - hiena aceasta flămândă, fiara aceasta de o cruzime absurdă care după ce s-a înfruptat din prada aleasă la întâmplare, îşi linge cu poftă sângele de pe bot, lăsând impresia de curăţenie şi îngrijire.

O voinţă intensă care izbuteşte să domine frontierele propriei sale conştiinţe, o captivantă aventură care însă urmează un traseu fizic şi psihologic regresiv, o determinare care aduce cu ea un întreg şir de evenimente. Căci, îndepărtându-se de casă - locul unde şi-a înfăptuit încă o dată opera, nici nu se urcă bine la volan, abia parcurge câţiva metri, că: "Boom" ! O altă maşină îl izbeşte în plin !

Şi acum, pentru prima dată, el simte tulburător efectul direct al acelui châtiment , întunecata întorsătură a destinului, descărcarea curentului invizibil, generat de un trăsnet, direct asupra stării sale iniţiale de confort fizic şi psihic. Abia acum resimte el puternica voinţa care-l domină, sarcina electrică, aproape mortală, care îi electrizează simţurile în avântul lui impetuos spre absolut.

Aici se simte mâna Domnului, invizibilă, neiertătoare, grea şi traumatizantă ca o palmă servită din plin, cu toată ura, împingând fiara în mărăcinişul cu spini ascuţiţi ai durerii. Un ultim avertisment?

Leadership: Cum se justifică efectele acţiunilor tale atunci când ispăşirea păcatelor tale devine extensia unei imagini de sine plină de putere care nu urmează alte criterii decât cele auto-impuse de restricţia de a nu te uita în urmă?

Picior fracturat, mâna ruptă, oase dislocate, plin de tăieturi şi de sânge, zdrobit de durere. O resuscitare a energiei în sistemul propriu de valori care se manifestă printr-o drastică tendinţă de apropiere de realitate - fenomen caracterizat printr-o emisie de "lumină", lumina vieţii. În sfârşit omul ăsta este constrâns să perceapă mai profund, mai clar complexitatea existenţei sale în raport cu latura negativă a caracterului său.

Sfera metalică este electrizată negativ, nu mai poate acţiona nicidecum cu alte sfere. Personalitatea sa nu-i îngăduie să interacţioneze cu alte personalităţi. Anton Chigurh eşuează lamentabil. Este doborât très rapidement, chiar în mijlocul călătoriei sale spre dobândirea întregii deplinătăţi, chiar în momentul când se crede ajuns la suprema siguranţă a existenţei.

Leadership: În ce fel judecata de sine târzie, adusă de chinul constant, te face să îți reconfigurezi percepția asupra viitorului tău, chiar și atunci când conștientizezi "răsplata" inevitabilă?

Chinul se statorniceşte în el, îl muşcă adânc din carne, dezvoltând un puternic efect de recul asupra lui, îi anulează orice forţă eliberatoare, îi scutură bine mantaua de autoritate pe care o poartă. El nu încearcă să-şi justifice efectele acţiunilor lui, chiar dacă simte că totul se petrece după legea divină "după faptă, şi răsplată", fiindcă imaginea lui despre sine este identică cu acea vanitate necruţătoare de fiară care pândeşte o altă ţintă, din instinct şi pasiune. Durerea şi plăcerea sunt de fapt două feţe ale aceleiaşi monede – nu poţi avea una fără cealaltă.

Până în acest moment a avut prea puţin timp ca să se judece pe sine însuşi, aşa încât acum este foarte mulţumit că se poate gândi la acţiunile sale. Pare să-şi amintească de toate crimele înfăptuite. Toate fărădelegile par a se perinda anapoda în mintea lui – preocupat împreună cu toate simţurile, de viitor.

Va lupta mai departe pentru un viitor curat, sau pentru un viitor tot atât de periculos şi incert ca înainte?

Rănit, dar nu mortal. Chinuit de dureri, dar nu vlăguit în totalitate. Prins într-o mlaştină de contradicţii, Anton Chigurh e nevoit să pună în practică – aidoma unui personaj al lui Balzac - singura axiomă care îl poate face să treacă peste acest moment: " Fuge, late, tace ". *

Leadership: Ce anume te poate determina să percepi mai profund şi mai clar complexitatea existenţei tale în raport cu latura dominantă a caracterului tău, fără să te consideri învinsul unei lumi care te fascinează şi te îndeamnă s-o îndrăgeşti?

O voinţă intensă izbuteşte să domine frontierele propriei tale conştiinţe? Porneşti într-o captivantă aventură care însă urmează un traseu fizic şi psihologic regresiv? Îţi aloci puţin timp ca să te judeci pe tine însuţi? Lupţi pentru un viitor curat, sau pentru un viitor periculos şi incert?

Nu ne este greu să întrevedem, încă din perspectiva înţelegerii conceptului de leadership - axat pe latura umană, elementele care pot determina mai târziu apariţia unor transformări de natură morală în existenţa individului supus unei singure raţiuni, tumultoase, o crăpătură în zonă care delimitează perimetrul caracterului său.

Nu ne este greu să ne explicăm, tot din perspectiva unei asemenea înţelegeri, a conceptului de leadership, de ce limitele omului, în ultimă instanţă, nu sunt marcate cu precizie în partida dintre o viaţă pustie şi una cu sens. Ca să treci la un nivel înalt trebuie să permanentizezi aceste limite în sens pozitiv, să te observi cât mai des din perspectiva automodelării.

Ceea ce te poate determina să percepi mai profund şi mai clar complexitatea existenţei tale în raport cu latura dominantă a caracterului tău este încercarea de a te mântui prin înţelesul pe care îl dai suferinţei pe care o trăieşti după ce o produci în viaţa altora.

Leadership: Îţi poţi asuma destinul unei fiinţe care nu se lasă doborâtă de nicio experienţă dezamăgitoare, fără să cazi pradă slăbiciunii de a rămâne constant în aceeaşi direcţie a tuturor faptelor tale?

Expertul în materie de leadership, John Maxwell spunea la un moment dat ceva de genul: " Un act de echilibristică dă naştere unor conflicte interioare. "

Acest act de echilibristică semnalează acea pierdere de energie în sistemul propriu de valori, care se manifestă printr-o drastică tendinţă de îndepărtare de realitate. Uneori este necesară o "scurtcircuitare" a circuitului tău intern de valori şi convingeri, doar astfel vei fi constrâns să percepi mai profund, mai clar complexitatea existenţei tale în raport cu latura dominantă a caracterului tău.

Învaţă să transformi fiecare pepită de aur din existenţa ta – toate momentele pline de învăţăminte şi adevăr - în noi norme de facilitare a accesului spre excelenţă. Doar aşa vei putea găsi, rapid, un înlocuitor al inacceptabilului sau regresului. Sau poţi aspira să realizezi tot timpul opere îndrăzneţe, fără excepţie, dar această implicare într-un voiaj spre absolut, în care să-ţi dezlănţui partea lăuntrică negativă, nu-ţi va fi deschizătoare de drumuri la nesfârşit.

Dante Alighieri a ajuns într-o zi în faţa unei porţi sinistre, înaintea căreia a şovăit. Şi în faţa ta va exista o astfel de poartă în pragul căreia vei şovăi. Este "alternanţa" - de la o zonă slab iluminată sau chiar întunecoasă, la una luminoasă. Poţi cădea pradă propriei tale slăbiciuni dacă rămâi constant în faţa uşii, în zona întunecoasă. Sau îţi poţi spori puterea de înţelegere a Omului din tine dacă treci de ea, spre zona luminoasă.

Leadership: Poţi să înalţi către o conştiinţă superioară fundalul unui sentiment de familiaritate cu impactul evenimentelor care te iau prin surprindere, fără să devii sclavul unui sine paralel care se identifică cu voia Domnului?

Reformularea propriei hărţi interioare – furnizată de instanţa numită "conştiinţă", aşa cum există ea la un moment dat, este baza deciziei curente care comandă acţiunea. Acţiunea schimbă nivelul sistemului tău funcţional. Iar nivelul real al sistemului este generatorul care îţi pune în mişcare orizontul şi deschiderea faţă de valorile pozitive ale vieţii.

Criticul rus Vladimir Vladimirovich Ermilov explica în una din cărţile sale un lucru important: " Idealizarea dedublării este legată de faptul că nu poţi concepe existenţa unui caracter integru, deschis, bine conturat, ferm, care să fie înzestrat în acelaşi timp cu sentimente subtile şi scrupule de conştiinţă. "

Iată-l pe Anton Chigurh. Şi priveşte-te pe tine. Poţi să-ţi defineşti caracterul? Poţi să funcţionezi în contradicţie cu tine însuţi? Eşti rodul unei inconsecvenţe de fond? Poţi fi în acelaşi timp şi alb şi negru? Poţi să şovăieşti în pragul unei porţi sinistre şi în acelaşi timp să acţionezi raţional dincolo de ea?

Relevanţa pe care o acorzi „Omului" din tine şi în acelaşi timp esteticii leadershipului, este plasată în spaţiul în care vrei să te încadrezi, acel spaţiu al fiinţării laturii tale dominante. Hotărăşte-te ce cale vrei să urmezi şi nu te îndepărta de la ea. În cadrul procesului de dezvoltare n-ai cum să fii două persoane în acelaşi timp, fără riscul de a cădea într-o extremă sau alta.

Reflectează asupra modului în care evoluezi, astfel încât să te convingi de legătura strânsă ce există între sistemul tău de valori şi rolul pe care ţi-l asumi în lume.

A înălţă către o conştiinţă superioară fundalul unui sentiment de familiaritate cu impactul evenimentelor care te iau prin surprindere înseamnă să-ţi reaminteşti mereu că lupta pe care o duci cu tine însuţi, forţându-te să fii puternic, reprezintă de fapt revenirea la o viață normală în care ai posibilitatea să renunţi la a te mai simţi în stare să escaladezi "imposibilul".

Aici se simte mâna Domnului marchează consecinţele regresului pe care îl înregistrezi atunci când funcţionezi pe "aburi" şi nu pe "combustibil". Un sistem de valori "redus" care, ca şi non-valoarea, au repercusiuni negative pe termen lung.

Alchimia materiei vii

On Aprilie 15, 2009

Dezvoltă-ţi o ştiinţă care să se sprijine pe pilonii înalţi al înţelegerii profunzimii legăturilor dintre lucruri, încât să câştigi întrecerea dintre ceea ce se descoperă prin reflecţie şi ceea ce se constată prin experiment.

Ai încercat vreodată să uzi florile numai cu apă distilată? Am citit despre experienţe de acest fel făcute către sfârşitul veacului trecut de un german cu numele von Herzeele, reluate apoi după anii 1950 de profesorul Pierre Baranger, şeful catedrei de chimie organică a Şcolii Politehnice din Paris.

Ce idee ! Am pus nişte seminţe să încolţească într-o cuvetă în care erau numai cristale de sulf şi apă distilată, iar într-o altă cuvetă am pus acelaşi fel de seminţe, dar în pământ udat cu apă obişnuită. Interesant a fost faptul că seminţele din cuveta cu sulf nu numai că au încolţit, dar deşi le-am udat tot timpul doar cu apă distilată, plăntuţele au şi crescut. Şi stai să vezi ce-am făcut cu ele.

După ce micile plante au crescut câtva, le-am scos din ambele cuvete şi le-am ars în mod separat. Aşa procedăm noi, biologii, ca să putem afla prin analize foarte fine ce elemente chimice conţine fiecare plantă în parte. Ei bine, şi la unele şi la celelalte am găsit exact aceleaşi substanţe chimice, specifice speciei respective.

De aici se poate trage concluzia că plăntuţele din prima cuvetă, deşi au fost hrănite numai cu sulf şi apă distilată-mineralizată, şi-au fabricat singure elementele chimice necesare. Plantele sunt adevărate micro-uzine atomice, în care, prin transmutaţii la energii scăzute, îşi produc în cel mai discret mod elementele chimice de care au nevoie. *

Leadership: Te limitezi numai să constaţi transformările calitative ale materiei, fără a încerca să explici rezultatele neobişnuite ce trebuiesc supuse avizării unor ipoteze explicative?

Materia care formează subiectul ştiinţei se constituie din toate mijloacele naturale sau artificiale care contribuie la funcţionarea unui anumit organ sau la modul în care are loc un fenomen sau altul. În orice segment al naturii, unde elementele sunt conectate printr-un misterios proces numit "confuzie", savantul trebuie să-şi facă intrarea printr-o metodă cât mai inovativă de a depista angrenajul în care locuieşte un principiu sau un concept, trecând dincolo de situaţia imediată.

Celebrul inventator american, Thomas Edison, a spus: "Nu am eşuat. Am descoperit 10.000 de modalităţi care nu funcţionează." Chiar dacă leadershipul se focalizează mai mult pe aspectele personalităţii care te pot avantaja în societate şi în lumea businessului, aceasta nu înseamnă că îi lipseşte partea de antrenament ştiinţific care poate valida noi abordări şi noi puncte de vedere faţă de diferite aspecte ale lumii sau ale vieţii.

Aceste aspecte contribuie la evaluarea propriei funcţionalităţi din perspectiva unei gandiri care se implică propriu-zis în evenimentul revelării unei noi atitudini faţă de creaţia lumii.

Nu te mulţumi doar să admiri faţada leadershipului expusă la cel mai înalt nivel ştiinţific, printre zăbrelele gardului de fier al neputinţei de a explora noi frontiere cunoaşterii. Încearcă să uneşti părţi diferite ale spaţiului şi timpului pentru a obţine un fenomen de interferenţă constructivă, important pentru analiza propriu-zisă a unei realităţi mai largi. Încearcă să faci strălucita dovadă a unei practici creatoare care să îmbogăţească cultura şi înţelegerea lumii. Încearcă să foloseşti întâmplarea care să ducă la contopirea mai multor idei într-o continuă evoluţie şi extindere, încât ele să alcătuiască fondul teoretic al dezvoltării durabile.

Leadership: Eşti reprezentat de un câmp vizual extrem de larg pentru vederea la distanță, compatibil cu menținerea unei zone de reflecție confortabilă pentru vederea de aproape?

Perspectivele cele mai promiţătoare de ascensiune sunt condiţionate şi menţinute doar de adoptarea unei forme noi, distincte şi particulare de "a fi", în contexte care îţi pun la grea încercare răbdarea, adevăratul curaj de întreprinzător, convingerile şi rezistenţa în faţa a ceea ce este necunoscut. Transformările calitative ale materiei pot reprezenta o enigmă care ne e dezvăluită în ultima scenă a actului de enunţare a unor noi teorii, legate de faptul că imaginea dată a lumii devine prin gândire străbătută de noţiuni şi idei tot mai îndrăzneţe şi mai năstrușnice.

Vei reuşi să aeriseşti încăperile leadershipului racordate la reţeaua de alimentare şi distribuţie a ideilor inovatoare care promovează independenţa ta profesională şi avansarea în carieră, numai dacă îţi fixezi ca scop explorarea şi promovarea gândirii științifice şi raționale care, ulterior, va trezi interesul unui cerc larg de specialişti în domeniu.

Bineînţeles, în măsura în care dimensiunea reală a resurselor de autoevaluare pe care le ai la dispoziţie şi a răspândirii lor în practica de specialitate, în contact cu universul unui context favorabil de creaţie, nu depăşeşte dimensiunea maximă de dezvoltare acceptată de trairea in imaginar.

O vedere la distanţă optează pentru consacrarea expresă a unei constatări care, impusă prin deducţie şi reglementare prealabilă a colectării de probe, poate face obiectul unei transmutaţii de elemente unele în altele. Ea trebuie să fie compatibilă cu menținerea unei zone de reflecţie confortabile pentru vederea de aproape prin spiritul argumentărilor şi a demonstraţiilor logice care te obligă să tragi o concluzie referitoare la un anumit efect pe baza cunoaşterii cauzei propriu-zise.

Ştiinţa presupune să-ţi creezi o altă perspectivă de a privi mediul înconjurător, luând seama de distanţa la care se întâmplă ca lucrurile să se înlănţuiască perfect care este aproape de expunerea lor la încercarea de foc a îndoielii.

Alchimia materiei vii singularizează existenţa unei practici ce implică conştientizarea unei forme de intervenţie în cursul naturii şi întinderea unui anumit drept asupra unui terioriu care pentru cei mai mulţi indivizi face obiectul unor restricții diverse, provocând nelinişti.

Dar, pentru alţii, acelaşi teritoriu sugerează nelimitatul, o enigmă care se lasă greu descrifrată, ca posibilitate de descoperire a unor noi combinaţii de reguli, forme, efecte, metode, condiţii şi factori ce pot genera producerea unor noi puncte de vedere asupra complexităţii şi înţelegerii lumii.

Alchimistul (II)

On Iulie 20, 2017

Ţinteşte cu uriaşa ta voinţă asupra întregului din jurul tău, încât să-ți câştigi privilegiul unei avantajoase poziţionări în zona adevărurilor conţinute în revelaţia divină.

Totul se constituie într-o artă adecvată la trei planuri: corp, spirit și materie, care prin dubla natură a luminii și a diferitelor posibilități de expresie ale acesteia, într-o manieră figurativă, fac posibil atât dialogul dintre Cer și Pământ, cât şi transmutaţia prin amalgamarea cu metalele nobile. O artă cu triplă propunere: o practică de enunţare a adevărurilor ascunse, o acțiune proporțională datorită naturii unor anticipări inspirate decât teorii ştiinţific elaborate şi o reacţie la raţionalismul iluminismului care antrenează după sine un ideal de perfecţiune pus în slujba binelui.

Sunt eu însumi sub imperiul artei, adică eu însumi mă constitui ca act de mărturisire a unui crez artistic: cred în destinul creaţiei mele. Alchimia, sub presiunea unei constante numită Experimentum Crucis , este o acţiune de eliminare a cauzelor oricăror neconformităţi între cer şi pământ, între vid şi plin, între unic şi universal, între trecător şi etern, ce mi-l procură însăşi momentul şi dorinţa mistuitoare de a scrie. Având privilegiul unei avantajoase poziţionări în zona adevărurilor conţinute în revelaţia divină.

În mare, este vorba de o determinare care adună real, imaginar și simbolic toate luările de poziție generice, teoretice și retorice, implicând refuzul separării subiectului de obiect și căutarea analogiilor, mai degrabă decât a cauzelor unei acțiuni sau stări de fapt. De o modalitate legitimă de a dobândi un nume, un plus de cunoaştere şi strălucire, înarmându-mă cu entuziasmul unui sentiment sublim care aprinde focul secret din care se naşte eternitatea.

Pot să mă privesc în lumina adevărului sublim și să mă accept ca o mică porţiune a raţiunii care se manifestă în natură, imaginându-mă o parte din creaţia unui artist care și-a propus să picteze lumea în culorile vii ale pietrelor preţioase și ale metalelor nobile, ale poveştilor umane, susţinute de o abordare vizuală care comunică spectaculosul pe măsura unei întâlniri cu unicul înţeles din toate iluziile acestei lumi: Dumnezeu.

Leadership: Reuşeşti să vezi noul de care eşti avid în ceea ce n-a încetat să se afle sub ochii tăi?

Chiar dacă mă servesc excesiv de acea intuiție a geniului care surprinde cauzele mişcării corpurilor cu ajutorul acţiunii divine, diversă în efectele ei și unică în raţiunea cu care cineva se angajează la o astfel de lucrare personală, consider că totul are rolul de a mă învăţa atât de multe..culmea..tot despre mine.

Sub ochii mei se află adevărul revelaţiei divine, dar tot el poate face nevăzut miracolul propriei mele iluminări.

E ca și când aș descoperi cheia unei interpretări neaşteptate, elementul favorabil calcinării aurului și argintului, fără să mai traduc textele enigmatice ale experimentatorilor hermetiști în termeni de procese naturale reproductibile în laborator. Luciditatea consecinţelor supunerii oarbe în faţa probei focului, hrănită din lupta cu visul, o las în seama tratatului Cerului Terestru , interpretat în zece feluri, ce se suprapune cu revendicarea unei priorităţi în finalizarea unei noi înţelegeri.

Marea cunoaştere este calea de a ieși din labirintul incertitudinii realităţii prin finalizarea unei noi înţelegeri asupra propriei persoane din perspectiva manifestării unei ordini superioare.

În mod particular, tind să cred că am ceva din bogăţia unei firi care simte acolo unde alţii gândesc, care construieşte un sens acolo unde alţii cred că totul este definitiv, fără să elimin cauzalitatea universală. Calculez molaritatea unei soluţii obţinută prin amestecarea fermentului extras din aur cu fermentul extras din argint, tot așa cum mâna pricepută a unui fizician cântărește toate părțile universului într-o cumpănă dreaptă, armonizând în mod exemplar legile mişcării cu natura corpurilor.

Așadar, am parte de o înţelegere care continuă în multe privinţe oglindirea în cioburile unui glob transparent care înfăţişează lucrarea divină. Concomitent, stăpânesc toate mijloacele artistice care pot să deschidă orizonturi noi de interpretare și înţelegere a creaţiei universale şi a dimensiunii umane, oferind celor pasionaţi de artă posibilitatea de a vedea lumea din perspectiva sculptorului care se opreşte în faţa unei porţiuni de stâncă, şi exclamă cu ardoare: "Ce mare minune va fi şi opera mea ! "

Leadership: Îţi construieşti o imagine a „luminii cereşti" încât să vezi în toate tocmai ceea ce, fără tine, nu vede nimeni?

E clar, mă pricep de minune să fac din faptele și lucrurile mărunte o stea în calea măreţiei ideilor, o imortalizare a luciului unei ape cristaline, numită Izvorul Sacru , creând liber şi nu imitativ, fabricând aurul mai întâi sub forma sa simbolică, asemenea geniilor care îşi găsesc inspirația în haosul unei stranii şi fascinante întâlniri cu divinitatea.

Un făcător de miracole, care trebuie în consecinţă să fie şi alchimist şi magician, trebuie să se scufunde într-un cadru atemporal, construindu-şi estetica de luminozitate nocturnă după postulatul că în microcosmosul din om sunt conţinute energiile macrocosmosului, imprimând creaţiilor sale pecetea autenticităţii atât în ceea ce priveşte conţinutul, cât şi forma.

Vissarion Grigorievici Belinski, fondator al programului estetic al realismului în literatura rusă, observa:

„Există oameni, foarte puţini, care posedă într-adevăr capacitatea unei activităţi creatoare independente de aptitudinea lor. Aceştia privesc totul într-o manieră oarecum deosebită, originală, văd în toate tocmai ceea ce, fără ei, nu vede nimenea, iar după ei vede toată lumea, şi se minunează că n-a văzut respectivul lucru şi înainte. Aceşti oameni nu sunt nici pe departe vicleni sau ciudaţi: ei înţeleg totul simplu, dar înţelegerea lor simplă pare tuturora, la început, foarte complicată, iar uneori smintită şi absurdă. Pe urmă însă pare atâta de simplă, încât nu mai e niciun prost care să nu se mire cum de nu i-a dat lui prin cap - e doar atât de simplu ! "

Lumina cerească simbolizează cunoaşterea pe care pe care singur o creezi, o improvizezi sau o zugrăveşti într-un context de multiplicare a secvenţei de iniţiere într-o existență superioară căreia îi poți da un sens măreţ chiar dacă ascunde o nebunie. Însă tocmai această nebunie este un produs al alchimiei pe care numai artiştii au măiestria s-o redea în variate forme, în conformitate cu un ideal de neatins. Un ideal de distincţie. Un ideal de a schimba lumea în mod original.

Alchimia presupune să cercetezi cu răbdare o nouă abordare a interacţiunii dintre cunoaştere, credință și adevăr, încât să descoperi ascuns în ele mesajul unei ordini superioare.

Alchimistul este artistul care priveşte totul într-o manieră oarecum deosebită, originală, și vede în toate tocmai ceea ce, fără el, nu vede nimeni. Iar după el vede toată lumea.

Alchimistul modern

On August 17, 2014

Împrumută câte ceva din propriile trăiri şi concepţii, pentru a stabili acea formă a experienţei personale de a fi stăpân pe ceea ce eşti.

Adeseori ai impresia unui alchimist modern, care cu migală ştiinţifică, dozând riguros elementele materiale din eprubete şi alambicuri, măsurând şi cântărind, încearcă să descopere piatra filozofală a artei. Ea se naşte însă într-o explozie a eprubetelor şi alambicurilor şi în afara calculelor savant riguroase ale fostului inginer. Filmul "Greva", ca şi întreaga operă a lui Serghei Eisenstein, este o creaţie artistică spontană şi independentă de calculele pedante întreprinde de realizatorul ei.

Contradicţia este doar aparentă. Exemplul mai vechi al unui Leonardo da Vinci o demonstrează. Spiritul ştiinţific, analitic al lui Eisenstein nu face decât să surprindă cu luciditate ideile în totala lor nuditate, în formă pură, aparent "în vitro", să descopere geneza acestor idei, mecanismul lor intim. Ar fi, poate, hazardată afirmaţia că întreaga alchimie practicată de Eisenstein nu era decât o formă de cochetărie a unui artist de un temperament creator, vulcanic, care nu putea fi de loc dozat în sticluţele etichetate ale unui laborator. Dar este deocamdată singura explicaţie posibilă, completată de cea a unei fiinţe, în fond foarte timide, poate inhibate, care-şi maschează incandescenţa prin afirmarea temperaturii scăzute a lucidităţii. *

Leadership: Forma de cunoaștere științifică pe care o dezvolţi incorporează o obligaţie abstractă faţă de tine însuţi şi faţă de cei în faţa cărora te impui ca model?

Leadershipul este pentru agenţii schimbării o creaţie în sine, garantând reuşita în ceea ce priveşte impactul asupra performanţei profesionale, dar în acelaşi timp şi o creaţie condiţionată de contradicţia dintre tendinţa de certitudine faţă de descoperirile ştiinţifice şi tendinţa de a le împărtăşi cu alţii. Adevărata artă care te mobilizează în direcţia descoperirilor ştiinţifice rezultă din scoaterea la lumină a acelor amănunte care ar putea produce efecte în sfera activităţii profesionale.

Întotdeauna creaţia, în efortul de adaptare a descoperirilor la activitatea profesională, va fi supusă normelor întemeiate pe raţiune, iar valoarea acestor norme va fi condiţionată de principiile confidenţialităţii cât şi de variabilitatea preferinţelor de comunicare şi de conţinut.

Nu spunea filozoful Giovanni Papini că a stăpâni un lucru implică posibilitatea de a-l modela, de a-l transforma? Această transformare benefică evoluţiei, accentuând reflecţiile personale legate de partea rezistentă a creaţiei, nefiind pusă sub semnul susceptibilului, poate constitui o formă de cochetărie cu pendularea între valoarea temporară şi valoarea permanentă a leadershipului.

Aici intervine „alchimia", în sensul unei dezvoltări a formei de cunoaștere științifică prin creaţie, care incorporează o obligaţie abstractă, autonomă şi necondiţionată faţă de tine însuţi şi faţă de cei în faţa cărora te impui ca model. O asemenea obligaţie evidenţiază o cerinţă de ordin practic, dar totodată o adevărată necesitate estetică, care ţi-o impui ca proces de creaţie ce îmbină tehnologia cu arta pentru a transmite anumite idei şi trăiri imortalizate într-o formă vizuală de mare efect.

Ce parte a leadershipului este menită să asigure performanţei tale un randament înalt prin costuri acceptabile de investiţie?

Puterea de a înţelege lucruri care sunt mai presus de limitele înţelegerii celorlalţi şi de a le înnoi constant prin dezlănţuirea ideilor, uneori printr-o tacită exprimare, este o parte a leadershipului menită să asigure performanţei un randament înalt prin costuri acceptabile de investiţie. Costurile sunt reprezentate de timpul consumat prin actul creaţiei, plin de raţionalitate, care împrumută câte ceva din propriile trăiri, idealuri şi concepţii, stabilind acea formă a experienţei personale de a fi stăpân pe ceea ce eşti, pe ceea ce gândeşti, pe ceea ce transmiţi şi pe ceea ce laşi în urma ta.

Dacă nu ai încredere în potenţialul tău de înţelegere a mecanismelor de creaţie, sau dacă nu aduci modificări în percepţia intensităţii continue de creaţie, căutând în perfecţiunea de sine arta de a făuri o ştiinţă a viitorului, probabil că nici nu o să încerci să descoperi geneza ideilor de redefinire a identităţii proprii.

Aceste idei, subordonate cunoaşterii şi a efectelor ei nelimitate de transformare a gândirii, aflate la frontiera dintre ceea ce este accesibil şi ceea ce este inaccesibil experienţei de utilizare a creaţiei, determină consistenţa leadershipului.

A surprinde cu luciditate ideile în totala lor nuditate, în formă pură, aparent "în vitro", a descoperi geneza acestor idei, mecanismul lor intim, este primul pas spre instituirea şi consolidarea spiritului ştiinţific, atât de trebuincios pentru a face performanţă şi a obţine randamente înalte la prelucrarea zonei de influenţă pe care o deţii.

Alchimia artistică cuprinde toate procedeele de creaţie cristalizate într-o practică aprofundată şi perseverentă, acceptate ca un fel de modelaj neconvenţional, gata oricând pentru a fi transpus în material definitiv, care poate ilustra atât eleganţa simplităţii, cât şi luxul unui produs inedit.

Alchimistul modern este liderul care împrumută constant câte ceva din propriile trăiri şi concepţii, pentru a stabili acea formă a experienţei personale de a fi stăpân pe el însuşi, pe ceea ce ştie, pe ceea ce gândeşte şi pe ceea ce transmite. Iar alchimia practicată de un asemenea lider nu este decât o formă de cochetărie cu puterea de creaţie ce izvorăşte din el însuşi, care garantează reuşita în ceea ce priveşte efectele schimbării asupra performanţei.

Alchimistul (I)

On Iulie 15, 2017

Şlefuieşte forma creaţiei pe care o susţii și o arăți prin intermediul unei noi realităţi, în așa fel încât să demonstrezi legătura directă între ceea ce te inspiră și ceea ce te reprezintă ca artist.

Îmi încerc peniţa plină de cerneală invizibilă pe una din foile destinului, constituind înţelesul profund şi cauza unei stele căzătoare. Frumosul din arta de a da nume diferite unor descoperiri, atribute sau simbolici asemănătoare, din coşmarul unei lumi haotice pe care desfrânat şi-o asumă magia, se săvârșește și se făptuiește prin puterea cuvântului care trebuie ghicit. Mercurul care ajută la extragerea aurului este un string din șirul guessedWord.

În loc să respect o anumită ordine care guvernează legile chimiei sau fizicii, urmăresc continuu paradigma infinitului izvorât din legile ascunse ale artei de a construi noi repere de gândire, noi metode de topire a metalului sacru, cu ajutorul materiei purificate. Alchimia cucereşte și saturează prin sine întreg domeniul realităţii mele, într-o parte sau alta a talentului de a mă ridica deasupra limitelor pe care le presupune pactul cu un soi de determinare ascunsă care amintește de Hannibal: „Lucrurile care par imposibile devin posibile dacă le privești dintr-o altă lumină."

Frumusețea rară a Divinului, tripla finalitate a Marii Opere, trebuie să ştii să o vezi acolo unde ea nu există, iar căutarea ei și efortul de a o crea oferă perspectiva prelungirii vieţii. Or ce anume există dincolo de o înţelegere absolut nouă a clarobscurului, ce anume vine dintr-o hermeneutică atentă la vibraţiile sensului noţiunii de secret? Ce anume ascunde puterea de a vedea dincolo de aparențe, altceva decât dorința acută de a mă contopi cu un spațiu infinit?

Despre cele surprinse de mine cu ajutorul focului secret într-o revelație aproape profetică, universul ar avea de replicat doar atât: "Nu mă angajez să explic nicio rupere de simetrie între cuvânt şi fiinţă, dar admit extremele unei realităţi agitate în punctele de control ale formei de a-mi interpreta rolul într-un adânc mister".

Leadership: Caracterul tău predominant se remarcă prin sugestia unei încrederi permanente într-o motivaţie intrinsecă, vitală care, deşi este permanent în flăcări, îşi păstrează potenţialul de fascinaţie?

Călimara neterminată de atâta materie acumulată ireversibil din concluziile atentei analize asupra unei imense sume de momente consecutive, această primă verigă a lanţului care mă leagă de cultura universală, suplimentează substanţa lingvistică cu noi elemente, precum aglomeraţia unei mulţimi de înţelesuri şi timpul de aşteptare al facerii de minuni.

Scrisul, judecând după gama lui profundă de caracteristici, surprinde năzuinţele lăuntrice, ascunse şi întunecate ale sufletelor, în sfârşit, tot ceea ce priveşte curentele nevăzute ale conştiinţei.

O reprezentare vizuală a unei clipe, o pendulare între contrariile inerente fiinţei umane care se exclud şi totodată se condiţionează, o reflexie asupra lumii din diversiunea „tainelor" universului. O imortalizare a farmecului sau armoniei ce decurg nu din finisarea exterioară a unei construcţii lingvistice noi, ci din forţa interioară vie insuflată de puterea creatoare a divinului.

Iată splendoarea unei alchimii care îşi încearcă bogăţia de sensuri într-o continuă calcinare, manifestându-şi efectele asupra creşterii organice a volumului de diferenţe mai mult sau mai puţin perceptibile de concepţie şi viziune, ca nişte culori pastelate, în virtutea căutării perfecţiunii de a mă contopi cu Marele Tot.

Valabilitatea semnăturii care te reprezintă cel mai bine, dinspre care vrei să generezi imaginea veridică a unei realităţi încă insuficient descifrate, corespunde motivației pe care o ai dincolo de cuvintele pe care le exprimi într-un cod de simboluri abstracte.

Cu enigma pe care o convoacă căutarea perfecţiunii, ca dorinţă a atingerii imposibilului, ca mijloc de acces la nemurire, pe care aş putea oricând să o numesc "arta imprevizibilului" decupată din prelungirea duratei zborului unei crisalide, pot să-mi prepar un elixir de viaţă lungă. Pot să produc acea transmutaţie a metalelor lipsite de valoare, inferioare şi obscure, în aur pur, nobil şi luminos.

Motivația mea este schimbarea revoluţionară a modului de a percepe noţiuni precum: realitate, spaţiu, timp, materie, Univers sau Dumnezeu. Schimbând, mai precis, regulile jocului.

Leadership: Gândul tău de a dobândi un plus de reputaţie intră în categoria genialităţii care descoperă o realitate nouă sub acțiunea unei veritabile credinţe, încă de nimeni bănuită?

Dacă îi dai atenţie unui gând ascuns, el creşte tot mai mult şi prea controlul asupra minţii tale, aruncându-te într-o permanentă confruntare cu ceea există înăuntrul unui univers aparte, între vanitatea și disperarea cu care artistul se învăluie în încercarea de a determina săvârşirea unei capodopere.

Gândul, el însuși o parte a creaţiei universale, dacă este expus la lumina unei superluni, intră în categoria genialităţii care descoperă o realitate nouă sub acțiunea unei veritabile credinţe, încă de nimeni ştiută, încă de nimeni bănuită.

Și uite așa, între știință și alchimie, bântuit de gândul ascuns al evadării din concretul realităţii imediate, am intrat în pielea unui personaj născocit de John Fowles. Mă apropii de o răscruce, de un moment asemănător pe care romancierii moderni le rezolvă în sistem dublu. Mă simt tot mai mult prins între un trecut pe care-l cunosc și un viitor necunoscut. De aici vine senzația care mă tulbură, de a nu mai fi propriul stăpân, de a fi un personaj în piesa pe care altcineva o scrie.

Dintr-un faimos alchimist aflat în căutarea tinereţii veşnice, își extrage esenţa subiectul unei povești fără finalitate care atestă originalitatea și autenticitatea unui „partener" mai înalt care ştie să se facă simţit, mai mult ca altădată, în focul unei noi înţelegeri, încât să atingă inima oricui aflat sub vraja singurei game repetată la infinit: creșterea spirituală.

Leadershipul este un parcurs al relaţiei dintre înțelegere şi convingere care se transformă în acea experienţă de a fi altcineva, exprimând înrudirea ta cu geniul unei mari capodopere.

Alchimistul se referă la forma creaţiei pe care o susţii și o arăți prin intermediul unei noi realităţi sau prin intermediul unei forţe fictive introdusă formal în magia realităţii, în așa fel încât să demonstrezi legătura directă între ceea ce te inspiră și ceea ce te reprezintă ca artist.

Aleph

On Aprilie 15, 2024

Locul spre care privești poate să fie revelația care te motivează să devii tu însuţi cea mai bună variantă a realităţii percepute prin scenariul unui vis.

Este o noapte plină de stele, mii de sclipiri luminează bolta cerească ca într-un vis frumos de primăvară. Amplificând fiecare fărâmă de lumină, ochii îmi sunt cuprinşi de un "dincolo de acum", având convingerea că fiecare stea este o lume posibilă, un Azyanasiell Elgnisira, un vis ce așteaptă să fie visat. Şi, tot aici îşi face loc acea stare între două lumi, cea care credem că sunt şi cea care pot fi.

Orientat către o depășire a temporalului, mă gândesc la toți cei care au privit cerul înaintea mea, astăzi, și mă întreb cu fiecare clipire din ochi, dacă mai împarte cineva același sentiment de uimire și reverență față de această vastă și veșnică minune cosmică. Privind stelele, obişnuindu-mă cu întunericul cosmic, am descoperit frumusețea subtilă și mesajele ascunse într-un Ishtelephes Sdrowuiah Osoyulae, un soi de fereastră către lumi necunoscute care reflectă o oglindă a universului meu interior.

E nevoie să suporţi întunericul, să stai nemişcat, să ai răbdare până se acomodează ochii cu luminiţele fugace ale universului, ca să înţelegi Aleph-ul.

Am văzut nenumărați ochi larg deschiși, scrutându-se în mine ca într-o oglindă, am văzut toate oglinzile de pe pământ și nici una nu mi-a distorsionat vederea panoramică, orientată asupra unui clarobscur generator de reflexii misterioase. Una din stele, cea mai dragă privirii mele, mi-a mărturisit că nu există nicio altă taină în afară de timp, această infinită întreţesere de ieri, de azi, de viitor, de totdeauna şi de niciodată. O simţeam ca pe-o extensie a sufletului meu, liberă să-şi exprime oglindirea într-un vis transformat într-o vie realitate, pe o cale specifică: "fiecare moment trăit prin reflexie este o extensie a infinitului în simţuri".

N-am închis un ochi toată noaptea, ştiind că tot ce-am văzut, a fost un vis pe care am să-l repovestesc în toate vieţile ce vor urma.

Leadership: Poți să captezi esența unui moment imediat, încât percepția ta să nu modifice impresia unui întreg auto-referențial care reflectă realitatea oglindită de propria ta imaginație?

Într-o noapte stelară, adânc învăluită în mister, am simțit cum universul îmi dezvăluie o parte din puzzle-ul imensităţii sale, părând să-mi șoptească secrete nespus de profunde.

- Ce sunt, eu, în această imensitate? l-am întrebat cu privirea larg deschisă, cuprinzând fiecare colț al bolţii cereşti.

Iar universul, cu ai lui ochi misterioși, mi-a răspuns:

- Eşti o stea care nu vrea să se stingă niciodată, lumina ce nu cunoaște apusul.

Şi atunci, Aleph-ul, sursa nemijlocită a reflexiei mele în univers, m-a invocat ca martor al răsăritului unei stele care apune. Când întunericul nopţii este visul viu al realităţii, forţându-mă să fac inexistentul existent, imposibilul - posibil, atunci nu sunt altceva decât lumina unei stele care străluceşte prin trăirile celui care am fost, în viaţa veşnică a celui care voi fi.

În acest caz, Aleph-ul va deveni o fărâmă de viaţă strălucind în memoria universală, triumful spiritului asupra materiei, starea de permanență a Sinelui într-o clipă dintr-un milion de ani, simbolul unei lumi care și-a câștigat unitatea omniprezentă.

Leadership: Expunerea emoțiilor tale într-un decor unic poate transforma percepția realității într-o viziune mai largă asupra destinului, încât să dai sinelui tău o semnificaţie de "călăuză luminoasă" ?

Mi-am închipuit mereu, privind cerul întunecat prin oglindirea luminii din mine, că timpul - o eternitate de incertitudine întinsă înaintea mea, îmi va arăta calea străbătută de la vis la destin. Privirea îndelungată spre cer, voinţa intuitivă de a da o aură de revelaţie unei făgăduinţe făcute odinioară timpului, mi-a amintit că fiecare întuneric poartă sămânța unei lumini ce doar așteaptă să fie descoperită. Ajuns în acest punct de reflecţie, sufletul meu pare să rezoneze cu simţirea unui personaj din filmul "Buried (2010)".

Era un vis, mai presus de realitate, sau o realitate care îngroapă orice vis? Protagonistul îngropat de viu, descoperă o brichetă Zippo ascunsă în sicriu. La început, o folosește doar pentru a-și lumina spațiul claustrofobic și a-și aprinde țigările. Totuși, mai târziu, Paul observă o gravură pe brichetă, ce pare a fi o hartă, cu linii și simboluri criptice. Descoperirea îl umple de speranță, crezând că harta îl poate ajuta să găsească o cale de ieșire din sicriu. Paul petrece ore întregi descifrând harta, folosindu-și cunoștințele despre zonă și indiciile din jurul său. Începe să creadă că harta a fost plasată intenționat în sicriu pentru a-l ajuta să scape. Un semn divin. Descoperirea hărții îi oferă un sentiment de scop și speranță, motivându-l să continue lupta.

Punctul în care leadershipul se conturează este următorul: "Locul spre care îţi îndrepţi privirea poate deveni catalizatorul transformării unei viziuni care inspiră acţiune."

Aleph este starea în care te manifeşti ca şi călător în adâncurile existenţei, este primul tău pas către explorarea sinelui și spre înțelegerea manifestării divine în tine, într-un proces continuu de transformare și descoperire a puterii care te învăluie cu strălucirea unei viziuni constructive. Modul în care observi ceea ce te inspiră dezvăluie viziunea ta asupra lumii, tot aşa cum privirea îndreptată spre stele îţi definește concepția despre univers.

Algoritmul de căutare al ştiinţei fără sfârşit

On Ianuarie 30, 2014

Pune-te la punct cu elementele determinante care stimulează progresul ştiinţei tale, astfel încât să depăşeşti limita cunoașterii imperfecte.

Răspunsul lipsea cu desăvârşire. Sau mai bine zis exista, însă era foarte confuz, fiindcă altceva rămânea mereu deoparte. Un sens care se acumula neîncetat, o actualizare a unor interpretări imposibile, dezvoltate în funcţie de o serie de formulări experimentale. Era oare încă un pas spre un infinit al multiplicării incalculabilului? Căci păream a fi nimerit într-un gol de spaţiu-timp pe care nimeni nu-l putea umple nici măcar cu vreun cuvânt.

Pentru a asigura un grad corespunzător de iluminare a sensurilor, întreţesute în combinaţia potrivită, trebuia mai întâi să cântăresc punctele mele de vedere în mijlocul unei intersecţii aglomerate, pline de premise, concluzii, conţinuturi variate de simboluri, invadate de nişte succesiuni de conotaţii care compuneau materia prima.

În acest caz, "semnificativul", care evidenţia diferenţele şi apropierile dintre un raţionament matematic, o speculaţie filosofică şi un fapt ştiinţific, lăsa loc de interpretări acelor înţelegeri situate între două coordonate fixe. Prima, orientată înspre originea axei de accesare a relativului, cealaltă, orientată înspre evoluţia ineditului ce se întindea până la nivelul abstractului.

Leadership: Ai o sumă de temeiuri pentru a reliefa esenţa unei gândiri axate pe rolul tău în mijlocul conţinuturilor de reprezentare a unei lumi sui-generis, punând-o în ecuaţia termenilor de "transparenţă care are totuşi o umbră" ?

Eliminând variantele necorespunzătoare de prelucrare a factorilor care intrau în ecuația de echilibrare a înţelesurilor, cu posibilitatea de alegere a algoritmului utilizat, aş fi putut, bineînţeles cu o mare doză de acceptare a ceea ce vine din sânul întunecat al unei taine arzătoare, să observ ceea ce nu era încă cunoscut.

Dacă aş fi încercat să pun la încălzit într-o retortă un amestec de acid sulfuric şi fluorură de calciu, aşteptând ca acidul fluorhidric rezultat să treacă în stare de vapori, aş fi putut pătrunde mai uşor dincolo de acele ziduri de neînţelegeri care împrejmuiau neostenite formulările obscure şi normele interpretative ale simbolisticii de profundă originalitate. Dar mai întâi trebuia să învăţ să mânuiesc fără precauţii substanţele chimice particulare.

Chimia este strâns legată de alchimie. Iar alchimia epurează materia şi te ajută să depăşeşti limita cunoașterii perceptibile, prin experimente care au la bază coliziunile accelerate dintre sensuri şi concluzii, pe marginea adevărurilor admisibile.

Termenul de "transparenţă care are totuşi o umbră" se aplică în cazul acelei plăsmuiri a minţii care transgresează graniţa dintre cotidian şi oniric, exploatând un orizont de aşteptare scurtat la maximum fără a avea însă şi o bază reală, dar din care purced: emoţia, revelarea, elementele de creaţie, opoziţiile dintre transcendet şi limitare, etc.

Stilul tău de leadership poate fuziona cu succes două extreme, fără să optezi pentru nici una din ele în cazul unei cunoaşteri care rămâne în acelaşi timp mereu subiectivă?

Prin leadership, supus unei multitudini de legi şi abordări ce-i determină eficienţa, se poate înţelege o nouă modalitate de exploatare a cunoaşterii, între ideile şi ipotezele emise de-a lungul timpului, în scopul producerii unei formule prin care se poate face posibilă apropierea de un raţionament mai deliberativ. Acest raţionament vine în sprijinul acelor puncte de vedere care contribuie la înţelegerea unor noi direcţii majore de progres.

Dar mai întâi trebuie să te simţi într-adevăr capabil şi foarte hotărât să te supui unei edificări riguroase a demersului intelectual. Chiar şi cea mai sărăcăcioasă gândire are avântul ei. Numai dacă nu este stabilizată între nişte coordonate fixe care respinge pluralitatea de interpretări şi nu îşi asumă posibilitatea erorii.

Cunoaşterea rămâne mereu subiectivă atâta timp cât depăşeşte graniţele unei realităţi palapile, schimbându-se şi subit devenind imprevizibilă, impunându-se cu toată evidenţa într-un delir hermeutic pe care-l regăseşti nu doar ca o constantă a vieţii, ci şi ca o constantă a întregului acestei lumi.

Consolidarea fluxului de stimuli de natură intelectuală produce o serie întreagă de forme derivate din cunoaşterea elementară. La nivelul cărora stilul practicat poate fuziona cu succes două extreme: o ştiinţă care nu mai poate fi cucerită şi o ştiinţă care se poate reexperimenta persistent până în momentul în care devii conştient de vastitatea resurselor şi a propriilor capacităţi intelectuale.

Leadershipul poate fuziona cu succes două extreme: acea rigoare a raţionamentului care dă atât de strălucite rezultate în ceea ce numim "plinătate a credinţei" şi acea rigoare a cunoaşterii rezultată din modalitățile în care se adună și se analizează învăţămintele posibile din experienţele vieţii.

Demersul intelectual care te ridică la un alt nivel de înţelegere a importanţei atingerii desăvârşirii corespunde răspunsurilor pe care le dai la întrebarea:

Cum poţi să micşorezi confuzia în privinţa a ceea ce ar trebui să faci astfel încât să dai un imbold semnificativ atitudinii faţă de existenţă, ca totalitate a proceselor mentale care îţi conturează o cu totul altă imagine asupra realităţii?

Algoritmul de căutare al ştiinţei fără sfârşit se execută ca răspuns la încercarea de a-ţi depăşi necesarul de susţinere al performanţei. Însă acest algoritm nu descrie paşii ce trebuie parcurşi pentru a produce într-un timp finit noi realizări şi noi abordări în leadership. Ci se apelează pe el însuşi ori de câte ori încerci să deschizi calea perspectivelor de înţelegere a unor noi seturi de noţiuni pentru accederea la niveluri evolutive mai înalte.

Dacă nu încerci să-ţi dezvolţi capacitatea de stăpânire a ceea ce constituie materia prima, acest algoritm se va opri sau nu se va mai putea aplica în mod corespunzător.

Eşti străbătut de acea preocupare continuă de cunoaştere a realităţilor mereu în schimbare, prin însuşirea unei ştiinţe a conducerii în orice circumstanţe, astfel încât să devii un model demn de urmat?

Alone Tonight

On Ianuarie 29, 2016

Învaţă să faci din leadership entitatea esenţei de a fi altcineva, amplificând mesajul obţinut din oscilaţiile conotaţiilor specifice redescoperirii de sine.

Am nimerit în jocul secund al unei redescoperiri de sine realizată printr-un soi de apropiere de lucrurile care nu se văd, dar se caută, făcându-se simţite între somn şi veghe, integrate în plinul unui întreg activ şi mişcător. Credeam că numai Dante poate coborî involuntar în abisul cel mai întunecat, parcurgându-i dimensiunile greu accesibile, asimilându-i toate substraturile şi valenţele, ca apoi să revină în mod uluitor în vârful dimensiunii vieţii.

Neputincios, dar lucid, simt că am devenit prizonierul unui sentiment exprimat cu mijloace furnizate de un laitmotiv, de o idee călăuzitoare ce îmi poate schimba concepţia despre relaţiile dintre "Above" şi "Beyond" ascunse printre stihiile nopţii. De multe ori singurătatea este produsul lor. Ghici cine-mi deschide ochii la trezire?

Alone Tonight este calea mea spre instituirea unui repaus de muncă prelungit, o tăcere sumbră, o scufundare în absența oricărei interacţiuni cu lumea, îndepărtarea oricărui sens de contextul său. Înseamnă înţelegere, uşurare, iertare, relaxare, asumarea conştiinţei de sine. Presupune să experimentez entitatea esenţei de a fi altcineva în surdina unui Ego care nu cere aprobări, acceptări, justificări și laude pentru ceea ce este şi face.

Dar asta nu înseamnă că pot scăpa de sub supravegherea unei inteligențe substanțiale care corespunde, mai presus de orice înţelegere, unui soi de intruziune imaginară într-o lume în care, în realitate, nu voi avea acces niciodată. Este o provocare de a mă pune în pielea unui Elohim dintr-un tărâm misterios, aspaţial şi atemporal, dincolo de legi şi de margini ale universului. And if I'd fought with all the strength I held inside, I wouldn't be out here.

Leadership: Îţi poţi asuma o experienţă care accentuează sentimentul de vulnerabilitate, integrându-te într-o realitate care îţi dă speranţa că ceea ce vezi ar putea fi şi altfel?

Pentru a face din leadership entitatea esenţei de a fi altcineva, pe criteriul însuşirii unor convingeri care să stea la baza unei imagini de sine modificate, trebuie să amplifici mesajul obţinut din oscilaţiile conotaţiilor - pozitive şi negative, specifice unei absenţe din careul fraged al lumii pe care o percepi în mod obişnuit. Alone tonight este omul care îşi testează Egoul prin prisma convingerii că poate să se schimbe pe sine, să se recreeze, să fie propriul său stăpân, numai dacă se îndepărtează de căile superficiale ale lumii şi căutând să-şi regăsească pacea interioară.

Omul care vrea să garanteze revelaţia unor adevăruri unice despre el însuşi, la care doar știința avansată și ezoterică poate răspunde, trebuie să realizeze un soi de intruziune imaginară într-o lume în care ceilalți nu au acces niciodată. El nu se înclină numai asupra realităţii sinelui care trebuie trăită integral prin raportarea constantă la o lume plină de culoare și diversitate, ci la o lume în care negrul câștigă mult mai mult teren, seduce și impresionează tocmai prin faptul că este diferit.

Cel mai mare inventator al lumii, Nikola Tesla şi-a dorit întotdeauna să găsească răspunsul la întrebarea: ce se întâmplă cu o stea care apune şi cu soarele care nu mai este?

Într-un anumit moment din viaţă, cred că fiecare om de ştiinţă îşi ia ca punct de referinţă noaptea, întunericul, această ambiguitate imperioasă care îngăduie destule suspiciuni motivate sau nu, generând efecte ascunse, lăsându-te să crezi orice. I've wrestled with angels all my life, It's always the halos and the wings that keep me blind.

Leadership: Poţi să te îndepărtezi de un punct pe care îl porţi fără încetare în tine, îndepărtându-te de un centru al lumii care eşti de fapt tu însuţi?

Wilhelm Hauff, unul din cei mai mari scriitori ai lumii, mărturisea într-un moment de "Alone Tonight" ce anume îl face să se simtă măreţ, liber şi calm:

"Sunt un biet tânăr nevoit să-şi croiască un drum prin lume cu pana sa...Aparţin tuturor, îmi aparţin mie însumi, dar nu aparţin nici unei şcoli...Nu simt deasupra mea nici un stăpân sau dascăl căruia să-i datorez supunere, în afara legilor eterne ale binelui şi ale frumosului, spre care tind, chiar şi aşa, într-o manieră nedesăvârşită. Se prea poate să nu fiu în stare să ţin forma departe de influenţa timpului, dar spiritul îmi va rămâne negoethean, netieckean, neschlegelean şi nemăsluit."

Acelaşi lucru îl simt şi eu, ca un fel de sincronizare între spiritele alese. Am încercat deseori să mă surprind într-o ipostază de filozof, să vorbesc cu mine însumi într-un cadru atemporal, ca şi când aş vorbi cu Dumnezeu, chiar dacă numai într-o manieră provizorie, evitând căile ocolitoare ale unui orgoliu nemăsurat.

Fiindcă trebuie să mă îndepărtez de un punct pe care îl port neîncetat în mine, adică să mă feresc de motivaţia de a fi altcineva, care nu e altceva decât dorinţa de a epata prin cunoştinţe, prin limbaj, prin referinţe livreşti etalate ostentativ. Totodată, îndepărtându-mă de un centru al lumii în care mă simt asemenea unui Dumnezeu, aşteptând o confirmare liniştitoare numai din partea minţii mele, îmi asum de fapt dreptul de a fi uitat de lume. Alone Tonight devine mijlocul prin care Egoul meu obiectiv devine un eu transcendental, vrând parcă să spună: "încă nu sunt suficient pentru a mă schimba".

Asupra caracteristicii de frecvenţă ale acestor self-integrations în întunericul unei guri deschise a timpului, de care depinde fidelitatea unor principii ale raţiunii în dauna altora, o importanţă mare o exercită partea de joasă frecvenţă a impulsului de a-mi lăsa „neîntâmplările" în suspensie.

Ceea ce încă nu am trăit, se multiplică prin monolog, în absența oricărei interacţiuni cu lumea, prin adâncirea într-un conţinut meditativ. De fapt, acesta este și înțelesul subtil atribuit expresiei: " There is nowhere in this universe to hide from you tonight. "

Leadershipul surprinde nevoia mea de a fi o ființă totală, una respectată, înțeleasă și apreciată total, care nu dispare definitiv într-un cadru intim, departe de lume; atunci doar îşi ascute inteligenţa cunoaşterii de sine.

Alone Tonight poate să determine o linie de forţă a devenirii tale, prin intermediul unui soi de intruziune imaginară într-o lume în care ceilalți nu au acces niciodată. Dar pentru asta singurătatea - întunericul unei clipe - trebuie să fie motivaţia ta, produsul determinării de a parcurge o cale superioară de cunoaştere, şi nu ceva super-deprimant.

Am crescut şi m-am înălţat ca om învăţat

On Iulie 23, 2022

Pentru un singur om, o singură pereche de ochi spune mai multe despre sine, decât poate să reflecte oglinda vieţii despre o întreagă lume.

Cu mult timp în urmă am hotărât să-mi încerc norocul în pribegie. A însemnat o abandonare irevocabilă a tot ceea ce înseamnă calitate a vieţii, un fel de stabilire spirituală în eternitate, trecând prin ceea ce efemerul condiţiei umane numeşte "damnare". Nu, nici nu voi minţi în privinţa felului în care am înţeles să trăiesc, cu stima de sine subevaluată, entuziasmat doar de ideea de libertate, de peisaj, natură, intrând parcă complet în lumea fascinantă a poveştii unui pictor care a dat celebritatea pe traiul simplu de la ţară.

Totul era atât de necunoscut, de nemaivăzut, pe fundalul unei naraţiuni intens curgătoare, pline de fascinante simbolizări. Şi bine am făcut că pe tot drumul anevoios, parcurs doar cu ochii spre soare şi spre stele, în cel mai sincer mod de a mă ţine în viaţă, am fost destul de prevăzător. Astfel, am ajuns să isprăvesc acea parte a poveştii care m-a ţinut captiv constant, această adâncă şi necuprinsă operă tâlcuită doar de un artist al lumii trecătoare care şi-a plasat arta pe axa adevărului şi sublimului, pornind de la zero.

Un singur punct de reper mi-a fost călăuză şi factor de rezistenţă: Incorisedah , apariţia unei vederi dincolo de controlul meu. Iată unde m-a purtat vântul, iată locul unde tu, pribeag ca un înger de lumină, ţi-ai încercat soarta după gradul de exigenţă faţă de ideea de particular, asociată noţiunii de "portret mișcător" (dintr-o mare galerie de artă) care începe prin a-şi schimba imprevizibil trăsăturile, şi sfârşeşte prin a nu mai semăna cu nimic. Trecând prin mai multe stadii de proeminență și obscuritate, am ajuns să mă conectez cu acea lumină vibrantă a îngerului, a aducătorului de lumină care este în mine însumi.

Leadership: Ai decis să te deschizi faţă de experienţa unei realităţi mult mai cuprinzătoare decât crezi că este posibil în prezent, şi să te întorci la un nivel de conştiinţă care ar putea fi catalizatorul marii schimbări numită "Ascensiune" ?

Sufletul mi-a rămas intact, nemăsluit, în pofida tuturor greutăţilor. Arta, cu ale ei capodopere universale, şi-a păstrat caracterul sincretic, fără să-şi taie legăturile cu totalitatea condiţiilor vieţii. Şi numai deschiderea mea către o manieră de lucru în plein-air m-a ridicat pentru eternitatea timpurilor. Pe măsură ce această convingere se întărea, tot mai intensă devenea acea prezență însoțitoare a Îngerului Păzitor care, stabil şi rentabil, şi-a ascuns slava divină a prezenţei sale într-un şevalet plin de culoare prin care pot fi transmise emoţii (prin combinarea mai multor modele).

Aşa a fost să fie. Abandonarea a tot ceea ce a fost mereu prezent, dar învăluit în iluzie și deziluzie, dezvoltarea unei vederi clare la distanţă şi apropiere, puterea de a mă implica empatetic în idealurile de artă, idealuri de neatins care dau sens şi frumuseţe existenţei, toate acestea m-au făcut vrednic să privesc acea lumină îngerească care stă ascunsă în ceruri, şi pe care o pot privi numai cei ce au ochii sufleteşti curaţi.

Revelaţia a ceva extraordinar părea să îşi aştepte destinul misterios. Arta, tâlcuind această adâncă şi necuprinsă operă destinată îndumnezeirii, fiind singura călăuză care îmi implora mintea să-şi extindă orizonturile, a dat în vileag trăsăturile mele de căpătâi: rezistenţa în faţa capriciilor vremii şi autenticitatea simţirii subiective. Artistul şi-a ridicat ochii spre cer şi, conştient de scânteia spiritului încătuşat de bună voie în materia extrafină a strălucirii, a suspinat din adâncul inimii, zicând: „Dumnezeul meu nu trece cu vederea inima cea umilită şi smerită".

Leadership: Alegi să îţi explorezi sinele folosindu-te de imagini pentru a relata o naraţiune secvenţială, decât să te ancorezi în realitatea unei istorii mereu repovestită de alţii?

Câteva imagini mi-au inundat mintea, dar le-am putut controla: imaginea unei naturi ideale, imaginea unei utopii pe care aş fi vrut s-o fac reală şi imaginea unei cărți deschise, simbol al procesului asimilării valorilor de cultură spirituală.

Cineva spunea că dacă toți oamenii din picturi arată ca niște vagabonzi, fiind în același timp luminați de o lumină slabă, atunci este vorba despre o operă a lui Rembrandt. Pe aceeaşi linie de privire, dimensiunile realităţii în care trebuia să-mi încadrez compoziţiile artistice au fost înlocuite cu imaginea unui viitor visat de un om plin de har, înălţător prin vederile înaintate, care într-o lume realistă se foloseşte de imagini pentru a relata o naraţiune secvenţială. În alt scenariu, acelaşi om se foloseşte de iluzii ca să ia în stăpânire o conştiinţă nouă, mai tulbure, dar mai viguroasă, aidoma unui izvor proaspăt de energie.

Or acest punct de vedere exprimat în termeni de "conexiune internă şi externă", îmbunătăţind impactul potenţial al conţinutului de idei şi sentimente pe scara unei realităţi mai cuprinzătoare decât cea obişnuită, este reprezentativ pentru viziunea lui John Fowles din cunoscutul roman "Daniel Martin":

"Eu îmi apăr Eul meu", aşa ar trebui să modific celebra expresie a unui personaj de roman. Câte puţin din mine însumi, iar alteori ceva mai mult, se va regăsi în toate eseurile care vi le supun astăzi spre lectură. Nu înţeleg să renunţ la nicio fărâmă din persoana mea. Tot ce se află în această carte mă reprezintă. Atunci când cioburile din oglindă redau, pentru un singur om, mai multe perechi de ochi, urechi şi buze, realitatea abia începe să devină mai interesantă.

La rândul meu, am reuşit să-mi menţin aceeaşi deschidere a ochilor în aventura unei vieţi care nu şi-a epuizat nicio clipă misterele. Dincolo de orice încercări ale vieţii, ca receptare a artei în situaţia de a regândi realitatea, m-am încrezut mai mult în şevalet, acest suport grandios din lemn pe care pictorul îşi fixează pânza, decât în realitatea unei istorii mereu repovestită de alţii. Şi am ajuns la o singură concluzie: pentru un singur om, o singură pereche de ochi spune mai multe despre sine, decât poate să reflecte oglinda vieţii despre o întreagă lume.

Ascensiunea în leadership este dată de următoarea axiomă: singura călăuză care îţi imploră mintea să-şi extindă orizonturile este rezistenţa în faţa capriciilor vremii, urmată de autenticitatea simţirii subiective.

O asemenea simţire subiectivă este facultatea sufletului de a-şi depăşi condiția de împlinire momentană, pentru a se putea duce spre "stele".

Am crescut şi m-am înălţat ca om învăţat, fiindcă mi-am aşezat sufletul într-o carte pe care nu mai vrei să o închizi. Această carte va fi portalul unora spre imaginaţie, iar pentru alţii va fi oglinda unei vieţi exemplare. Unii vor fi victimele unei iluzii, care îi va lăsa să creadă că au elaborat ei înşişi ceea ce li s-a impus din exterior.

Pe prima pagină, sus, se află inscripţia Exprisedah-Edyam , adică "Dumnezeu le-a pus pe toate în mişcare spre folosul lucrării Sale."

Am lăsat în urma mea, o umbră (II)

On Ianuarie 09, 2013

Continuă să-ţi lărgeşti capacitatea de înţelegere a vieţii, fără să devii prizonierul trăirilor care te frământă.

Încep să cred că aş fi mai puţin decât mă recunosc, doar una dintre ecuaţiile unui reflex secundar al trăirii prin absurd, expresia unui fel mai puţin inteligent de a reacţiona şi de a mă proteja în faţa neverosimilului realităţii. De fiecare dată când mai trece o zi, o săptămână, simţind că am făcut aceleaşi lucruri, ca un fel de repetare a unor date din memoria timpului, când simt că am văzut aceleaşi locuri şi am vorbit cu aceeaşi oameni, încep să mă găsesc într-o imposibilitate de a-mi exercita întreaga forţă a personalităţii.

Irosirea vieţii începe cu o irosire a tuturor eforturilor de a găsi un motiv bun de a reacţiona la propria percepţie a realităţii. Dacă aş eșua să mă ridic la nivelul moralității și virtuții, capitalul adevăratelor valori care mă autentifică drept un om de mare caracter, ca o primă încercare de a eluda orice compromis făcut cu forţele pornirilor naturale de a-mi scrie jurnalul în văzul lumii, ar însemna de fapt să mă expun dramatizat într-un joc al interacţiunilor dintre "conformism" şi "constrângere".

Leadership: Povestea ta are puterea de a se transforma constant, fără ca prezența ta în prezent să fie esențială pentru a păstra autenticitatea drumului pe care îl urmezi?

Aş fi putut fi în alt loc în orice moment, gustând din viaţa diferită a altor personaje din lumea pe care o cunosc, descoperind noi forme şi stiluri de a trăi, cu cele mai interesante poveşti de împărtăşit, de la care aş avea atâtea de învăţat. Dar mereu ceva mă ţine într-un loc, din perspectiva unei călătorii printr-un labirint al oglinzilor deformante în care rătăcesc mână în mână o realitate a trăirii prin regrete şi o poveste a trăirii prin repetare.

În prefaţa cărţii "Perpetuum Mobile", Mariana Brăescu Silveştri scria: "Ca o scoică aş putea închide povestea, perla preţioasă a inimii mele şi aş păzi-o pe tot restul vieţii şi acolo ar rămâne pentru vecie. Taina definitivă. Taina mea."

Spre deosebire de momentele pe care le trăiesc în amintirea clipelor care au trecut, delimitând caracterul global al lucrurilor care mă îngrijorau și mi-au dat toate opțiunile pentru nevoile de vedere în ansamblu, implicând prin această operaţie o anumită distanţare de excesivele tendinţe de a explica prin reflecţie sensul vieţii, povestea reinventării mele are ca laitmotiv prizonieratul unei stări de spirit care se declanşează numai atunci când acţionez în încălcarea prezentului.

Leadership: Eşti sută la sută autentic în trăirile pe care ţi le dă momentul prezent în ceea ce priveşte consistenţa realităţii cuprinsă între exigenţa de a continua să te autolimitezi şi firul poveştii care te ţine într-o continuă încercare de înţelegere a experienţei vieţii?

Accepţi să trăieşti prin felul cum reacţionezi la ceea ce ţi se întâmplă sau renunţi să te mai întrebi dacă povestea ta e ficţiune sau realitate.

De fapt, "Acceptarea" sau "Renunţarea" sunt cele două linii paralele care nu se ating, derivate din evoluţia trecutului şi prezentului – care la rândul lor determină viitorul. Două forţe decisive care despart oamenii în două categorii: învingătorii şi învinşii, cei care îşi apără cu tărie condiţia, şi cei care îşi contrazic rolul, crezurile şi menirea (pe care se sprijină leadershipul).

Ca să poţi adăuga o valoare uriaşă vieţii tale, văzută ca o intervenţie în formarea personalităţii, trebuie să respecţi condiția esenţială a iniţiativei tale de a-ţi grăbi transformarea: acceptarea.

Acceptarea schimbării, evoluţia spre o transformare fundamentală la toate nivelele, este ca o poliţă de asigurare pentru viaţă: alegerea dacă o semnezi sau nu, îţi aparţine. Experienţa de mare intensitate a trăirii autentice pe care ţi-o asigură viaţa, în multe dialoguri cu tine însuţi pe seama interpretării realităţii, măreţiei, desăvârșirii tale, dă naştere dispoziţiei de a te releva ca un filosof progresiv care încearcă să dea personalitate unei entităţi de tip cognitiv pe care să o numească din tot sufletul "GHID".

Leadership: Cum poți să navighezi în labirintul vieții fără a te pierde în oglinzile trecutului, găsind echilibrarea între păstrarea secretelor personale și deschiderea către noi experiențe?

Dacă năzuieşti la o înnoire a identităţii, a modului de a reflecta şi de a acţiona, trebuie să fii dispus să te raportezi mai mult la dimensiunea convingerilor care ori îţi sabotează viaţa, ori îţi canalizează percepţia despre ce te frământă spre o uniformizare a gândirii filosofice. Adică să pui în prim plan realitatea şi evoluţia personală prin imaginea în oglindă a motivului central ce-ţi cauzează "tulburarea" conştientă faţă de ceea ce ţi se întâmplă.

Cu responsabilitate, fără a formula obiecţiuni care nu fac altceva decât să lungească procesul de evoluţie, trebuie să semnezi acordul cu propria ta persoană, să confirmi faptul ca ai înţeles termenii şi condiţiile impuse de viitorul tău statut.

Respecţi cu uşurinţă condiția esenţială a iniţiativei tale de a te transforma într-un alt om? Te detaşezi de partea neînţeleasă din tine, sau o accepţi cu uşurinţă? Cum traversezi pârtia abruptă a alternativei? Te arăţi deschis schimbării sau continui să te ascunzi în umbra celui ce ai fost?

Leadership: Monitorizezi informaţiile privind percepţia personală despre îndeplinirea cerinţelor de evaluare pe care le atribui unui adversar tăcut şi puternic?

Acceptarea schimbării în ceea ce priveşte redefinirea conceptului de "sine" este primul pas spre marea transformare a profilului de lider. Ea este dată de senzaţia de plenitudine din momentul acela cheie în care reuşeşti să te defineşti, atunci când toate calităţile tale se unesc într-un singur nucleu şi se materializează într-un set de acţiuni care duc în final la atingerea potenţialului propriu.

Acceptarea se aplică întregului spectru al existenţei tale ca Om şi ca lider. Ea se realizează şi se manifestă în mod practic atunci când alergi în direcţia "umbrei" pe care o întrezăreşti la orizont. Când îţi canalizezi eforturile spre partea neînţeleasă din tine, când ajungi să înţelegi într-un fel nou şi clar ceva ce ai simţit întotdeauna intuitiv. Trebuie să te sprijini pe "umerii" acceptării dacă vrei să adaugi valoare vieţii tale.

O insuficienţă sau o absenţă a deciziilor care se impun a fi luate în momentele de incertitudine, atunci când asupra ta planează suspiciuni, când orizonturile îţi sunt învăluie în ceaţă, răsfrângându-se apoi asupra întregii tale evoluţii, - poate diminua abilitatea şi dispoziţia ta de a te ocupa de acele aspecte definitorii ale caracterului tău pe care se sprijină stilul leadershipului practicat.

Adversarul tăcut şi puternic care oricând te poate lua prin surprindere, sabotând orice încercare a ta de a te autdepasi, este obişnuinţa de a te vedea mereu cu aceeaşi ochi, neschimbat de gândurile zilnice care te frământă.

Am lăsat în urma mea o umbră este un "la revedere" adresat gândurilor de peste zi care te-au frământat foarte mult, dar din care ţi-ai alimentat o nouă înţelegere asupra ta şi asupra vieţii.

Fiecare din noi este propriul său lider în ceea ce priveşte viitorul său, dar este o dovadă de maturitate să accepţi să te transformi şi să devii un om pe care lumea se poate baza. Într-un om care are un "modus operandi" constructiv spre binele lui şi al celorlalţi, care acceptă asumarea responsabilităţilor majore pe care le implică noul său statut.

Respectă condiția esenţială a iniţiativei tale de a-ţi grăbi transformarea, ca să rezonezi mai uşor cu întregul spectru al leadershipului.

Am lăsat în urma mea, o umbră (I)

On Ianuarie 09, 2013

Respectă condiția esenţială a iniţiativei tale de a-ţi grăbi transformarea, astfel încât să rezonezi mai uşor cu întregul spectru al leadershipului.

Mă simţeam cumva învingător, în sfârşit liber şi capabil să fac orice. Îmi oferisem posibilitatea unei autoevaluări, printr-o retrospectivă a propriilor dezamăgiri şi căutări. O despărţire tacită de trecut, sănătoasă şi completă ca un lucru indispensabil în existenţa mea. Ceva îmi dădea de înţeles că mai aveam de făcut doar un singur pas spre direcţia definitivei schimbări pe care o întrezăream la orizont.

O aspră convenţie cu mine însumi. Trebuia să înfrunt acel foc mistuitor care ardea fără încetare în mine ori de câte ori încercam să iniţiez ceva. Şi cum altfel se stinge focul, decât cu îndrăzneală? Îmi impuneam o ultimă încercare, apoi, dacă dădeam greş, urma să-mi schimb traseul, definitiv şi irevocabil ca o lege dură a vieţii, respectată cu sfinţenie. Şi să caut altceva, o forţă de atracţie, nu de respingere.

Evoluția interioară devine posibilă doar atunci când îți asumi rolul de creator al propriei identități, fără a impune altora convingerile acestei identități.

O înnoire imperativă, spre care năzuiam de ceva vreme. Ideile, imaginile stăruitoare, scenariile pe baza combinării şi transformării trăsăturilor mele definitorii, nu încetau să mă obsedeze. Mă simţeam în pielea unui magician, păzitorul unei ciudate creaţii artificiale, care nu vrea să impună nimănui propriile sale viziuni şi care opune o dârză rezistenţă tuturor celor ce vor să-i impună anumite constrângeri.

Înaripat de un suflu înnoitor şi de elanul specific unui nou început, mă dăruiam în totalitate, grijuliu, cerinţelor mele interioare. Forma elaborată a proiecţiei eu-lui care spune " Da " schimbării. Eram apărătorul înfocat al aspiraţiilor mele spre a deveni altcineva, spre consolidarea unei individualităţi impusă pregnant de propria-mi examinare şi apreciere.

Eram tot mai aproape de o "aterizare" dură. Trăiam iluzia unei realităţi autoimpuse.

Leadership: Poţi să-ţi evidenţiezi în mod diferit subtilitatea trăirilor sufleteşti, chiar dacă eşti constrâns să-ţi suporţi acele trăsături ale personalității pe care nu vrei să le arăţi lumii?

Fără şovăială, mă lăsam purtat de paşii unei alchimii interioare, pe care mizam, tacit, cu toată fiinţa. Animat de acelaşi spirit de sacrificiu şi de aceeaşi uriaşă voinţă cu care Orfeu, fiul regelui trac Oeagrus, a coborât în infern pentru a-şi regăsi nimfa mult iubită. Dar, la fel ca şi Orfeu, frământat de temeri cum eram, nu reușeam să respect condiția esenţială a iniţiativei mele de a-mi grăbi transformarea: acceptarea.

Îmi escortam dorinţele şi idealurile departe, spre locul ştiut numai de mine, spre locul în care de fapt nu eram sigur că vreau să ajung, spre locul în care, printr-un mic spaţiu între cele două coloane ale transformării " a fi " şi " a deveni ", se putea distinge vulnerabilitatea, îndoiala şi teama. Trei componente susţinute de realitatea altora, trei goluri înscrise în propria mea poartă, în partida covârşitoare cu viaţa.

Formarea identității reprezintă arta de a-ți păzi creația în fața constrângerilor exterioare, prin introspecție constantă.

Alergam în direcţia "umbrei" pe care o întrezăream la orizont. Spre partea neînţeleasă din mine, exponentul unei atitutini contradictorii, de nesiguranţă, care reclama o uniformitate monotonă. Capitulam inconştient în faţa necunoscutului.

Nu-mi dădea seama ce se întâmplă cu mine, cu sufletul şi mintea mea, cu experienţele mele, cu tot ceea ce mă compunea în raport cu tot ceea ce mă înconjura. Ca şi cum o forţă nemaivăzută mă înălţase la o nebănuită acuitate a simţurilor. Şi, tot aceeaşi forţă, mă doborâse apoi, într-o epuizare totală.

Totul părea să se amestece într-un perpetuum mobile al identităţii, al aducerii aminte, al trecerii timpului şi al redevenirii. Traversam pârtia abruptă a alternativei: acceptarea sau respingerea. Era o mare încercare pentru cineva devenit sclavul unei stări pe axa timpului, în raport cu singurele două repere: prezentul și trecutul.

Ceea ce sunt a luat definitiv locul celui ce am fost?

Leadership: Te arăţi deschis schimbării sau continui să te ascunzi în umbra celui ce ai fost din perspectiva realizării de sine care suferă anumită imperfecţiuni?

Năzuieşti la o înnoire totală? Mai ai de făcut un singur pas spre direcţia unei schimbări definitive? Implică acest pas o acceptare sau o renunţare? Te dăruieşti în totalitate cerinţelor tale interioare? Trăieşti iluzia unei realităţi autoimpuse? Îţi escortezi dorinţele şi idealurile departe, spre locul în care nu eşti sigur că vrei să ajungi?

Îmi amintesc ce spunea la un moment expertul în materie de leadership, John Maxwell: " Spre încântarea mea, am descoperit că un lider poate fi construit. " Dau dreptate acestei păreri.

Însă tot acest proces de construcţie a liderului, care poate fi oricând pus în funcţiune, partea importantă a realizării de sine în prezent sau viitor, poate fi urmărit pe două planuri: acceptarea sau renunţarea. Dorinţa de cucerire a unor frontiere noi sau capitularea în faţa necunoscutului.

Singura imperfecţiune pe care o poate avea realizarea de sine este reprezentată de contrastul dintre modul de a te privi în contextul unei renunţări la idealurile în care crezi şi realitatea pe care ţi-o impui ca limită a unei oscilaţii slab amortizate între ceea ce ţi se întâmplă şi ceea ce ştii că nu poţi schimba la tine.

Umbra simbolizează starea omului de a fi în raport cu actul percepţiei realităţii autoimpuse din perspectiva elanului specific unui nou început de ciclu pentru relația dintre imaginea neclară a propriei identităţi, când îţi uiţi rădăcinile şi continuitatea, şi capitularea în faţa necunoscutului în ceea ce priveşte transformarea care te poate îndruma spre împlinire.

Am lăsat în urma mea, o umbră aduce în prim plan îndepărtarea rezistenţei la transformare şi redeschiderea unei căi luminoase, de real interes al vieţii. Fii pregătit să decizi momentul despărţirii de trecut, de cel care ai fost, aducând o contribuţie majoră la identificarea şi valorificarea potenţialului de a te transforma într-o variantă a ta mai bună.

Decizia de a te schimba îţi aparţine în totalitate. Dacă vrei să faci din tine un lider trebuie să te bazezi pe analiza potenţialului tău, pe acceptarea neimpusă de a urma un trend ascendent în concordanţă cu personalitatea şi capacitatea ta de transformare - acceptarea renunţării la trecut, şi ancorarea ta în prezent şi viitor.

Am uitat să mor

On Aprilie 27, 2017

Nu încerca să te împotriveşti curgerii vieții înainte de a fi trecut pragul impus de determinismul ei.

Am crezut mereu că o viziune poate fi schimbată, că un mod de gândire poate fi răsturnat la 90 de grade ca într-o oglindă ce caută să controleze şi să domine cu orice preţ realitatea. La mijloc era conţinutul intern al conştiinţei umplut până la refuz de dorinţa construirii unui destin. Mai cu seamă eram un naiv, un ansamblu cu desăvârşire fals şi convenţional între cauzele şi efectele aflate deasupra înţelegerii mele, foarte diferit de felul în care eram atunci când îmi slujeam idealurile de viaţă cu aruncarea unei priviri binevoitoare către un viitor ancorat în făgăduinţele lui Dumnezeu.

Ce puteam să cer de la un tânăr familist care vedea lumea încă în culorile roz ale motivelor de basm, prin liniile rotunjite ale posibilităţii de a fi un erou al lumii libere şi prospere, paşnice în tot ce ea are de oferit, producând un fel de refugiere într-un spaţiu fantastic în care totul este posibil? Nu că am devenit altul, străin fiinţei proprii, un om văzându-se în întuneric şi în izolare completă, fără nicio plasă de siguranţă, dar acum cred că viziunile nu pot fi schimbate, ele pot fi doar adaptate, laborios interpretate drept încă o probă a obsesiei faţă de ştiinţă şi cuceririle ei.

Virusul era inversul prezenţei suflului divin în făptura mea, era condiţia de a-mi asuma negarea realităţii pitită printre umbrele nepieritoare ale unei cu totul alte naturi, uriașe năluciri ale lucrurilor sensibile şi lumeşti. Şi el se răspândea vertiginos către periferia nemărginită a unei umanităţi reci, decăzute, dureroase, sfârtecate, în care omul era mereu singur, iremediabil compromis.

Leadership: Ești slăbiciunea unui om care se vede pe sine ca un admirator profund al artei de a trăi, dar incapabil să o creeze sub un nume propriu?

Numele meu este Gerry Lane, sunt cercetător de profesie. Am uitat să mor. Neînvins de prilejul satisfacerii unei drame de o mare intensitate, a simţirii bolnăvicioase, parcă dincolo de timp, de o sută de ori mai intensă decât orice răsturnare de forţe între bine şi rău. Sau mai bine zis, moartea a uitat de mine, așa cum artistul uită de oboseala drumului şi parcă se umple cu energie când ia parte la finalizarea unei picturi deosebite. Pentru mine moartea era ceva care se întâmpla întotdeauna altora, în vârtejul unei chemări spre uitarea cea mai neagră din care sorbeam doar vaietul prelung al despărţirii de trecut.

O acceptam ca un fapt inevitabil, o pată neagră într-un cerc arzător, privind-o ca o perspectivă foarte îndepărtată, aproape ireală, cuprinsă de muşchiul unei inimi pe care o cunoşteam dar nu-i mai auzeam bătăile. Moartea era un țesut contractil format din celulele unei muzici care ironiza într-un mod terifiant diferitele filosofii de a trăi ale oamenilor, pe care oricum medicina n-o putea îndepărta.

Slăbiciunea de a te lăsa la mâna destinului și de nu crede în menirea ce ți-a fost dată este o întrerupere a experienţei de a aparține unei lumi mici într-o lume mai mare.

Daimon, sau alegerea propriului eu, astfel ar fi caracterizat John Fowles răspunsul pe care eu îl ofeream morţii. Amintindu-mi astfel de eroul lui, care se privea constant în interior unei camere:

Menirea vieţii mele era să mă caut pe mine însumi între culoarele unei morți care mă ocolea și ariile unei vieți care îmi era total necunoscută. Mă îndoiesc că aș fi putut să disting clar o parte importantă a aspectelor de leadership. La acel moment creaţia mea era un mod de a mă revela ca un izvor al vieții într-o lume muritoare, într-o dependenţă de subtilităţile esenţei de a mă socoti viu și predestinat să fac schimbări.

Sensul pe care îl dai vieții depinde de virtutea transpunerii tale într-un rol de coșmar din care să evadezi printr-o cucerire a putinţei de a te autodepăşi prin faptul că accepți termenii și condiţiile unor legi lumeşti (sau divine) care te dezavantajează.

Este de datoria fiecărui om să-şi actualizeze sensul de înfruntare a provocărilor evenimentelor lumii în marea întindere a fronturilor pe care luptă, corelată cu capacitatea de a lua decizii şi de a evalua impactul acestora.

Un front al negării realităților manipulate de forţele naturii sau divine, un front al refuzului de a fi dependent de un context particular, un front al definirii personalităţii care îşi găsește ecou în lupta cu morile de vânt şi un front al libertăţii de a fi dependent de ceea ce experimentezi printr-o trăire a omului transformat.

Nu trebuie să pierzi pe niciun front, ci să străluceşti pe fiecare, și pe frontul durerii, și pe frontul miracolului revelării divinului sau a naturii tale esenţiale. Dacă nu vrei ca viața ta să capete valenţe de decor, dovedeşte-ţi că eşti câştigător în orice confruntare.

Leadershipul este impactul pe care îl ai asupra evenimentelor care îţi pun la grea încercare capacitatea de a lua decizii cu privire puterea de a rămâne consecvent propriilor idei despre sensul vieţii într-o lume care nu mai crede în miracole.

Am uitat să mor este rodul unei însufleţiri manifestată prin forța de a experimenta lupta contra vieții. O viață al cărei determinism se explică prin înlănţuiri de cauze şi efecte care nu pledează întotdeauna în favoarea ta.

Actul divin al Creaţiei este o experienţă de mare fineţe în interpretarea unei realităţi plină de semnificaţie, despre însemnătatea pe care o are transformarea chipului originar al naturii într-o „imagine în oglindă".

De atâtea ori am observat că drumul pe care viaţa mi l-a întins cu mărinimie în cale trece printr-o grădină plină de trandafiri, îngrijiţi în câmpul conştiinţei Inmariasty, lăsându-se cunoscut mai bine printr-un soi de spiritualitate aparte, intelectualistă şi elitară, pe care numai artiştii cei mai talentaţi sunt în stare să o dobândească. Ameno, Ameno, latire , căci mi se acordă privilegiul de a avea o mână de aur, utilizată ca remediu împotriva constrângerilor pe care le suportă trandafirii, cum este încercarea omenirii de a interveni în cursul naturii, în legile ei, în opera ei.

Inmariasty, în deplină iubire şi adevăr, este numele profetic atribuit unei relaţii matiro outhisum între "lumina adevărului", "divinul în natură" şi "recurgere la intervenţie în planul experienţei artistice", pe măsură ce creatorul se aventurează spre cele mai înalte viziuni ale frumuseţii investită cu valoare unică de simbol. Termen foarte expus în actul sublim al profeţiei, căci „Cine vede interiorul meu, nu trebuie să se uite la aspectul exterior", creează impresia de viu por medio de una escritura sagrada , astfel încât şirul de situaţii şi evenimente care mă pun faţă în faţă cu mine însumi capătă nuanţele unei contemplări asupra relaţiei cu un Deus Absconditus.

Prin blândeţea atingerii petalelor firave, cu acea uşurinţă a unei atingeri de pensulă fină, dar şi prin practicarea toaletării frunzelor, una câte una, cu ajutorul unei batiste din catifeaua cea mai moale, am dobândit un altfel de concentrare asupra vieţii, o cale paralelă de dezvoltare sufletească cu rezonanţă în multiple exemple de inițiative creative. Trandafirul, fără de care nu se poate concepe existenţa unei arte Latiremno (unirea strânsă a celor plini de credinţă cu sensul profund al unei imagini sacre), cizelează în mod rafinat un fel de revenire la puritatea formelor şi la natura reală, aparent ascunsă în spatele figurativului. Ciò che è santo è sempre segreto...

Efectul de lărgire a unei viziuni creative este dat de sensibilitatea unei spiritualităţi mistice surprinsă într-o imagine a perfecţiunii ce sălăşuieşte numai în ştiinţa artei de a-ţi găsi în natură o asemănare pe măsura personalităţii tale.

Adesea, am fost tentat să-mi aleg un alt drum în viaţă, câte o potecuţă care se adâncea într-un desiş de dumbravă, dar mă văd nevoit să recunosc că o forţă stranie a ales în locul meu, şi mai bine decât mine, aruncând o lumină puternică asupra adevărului despre lume în feluri greu de acceptat pentru cadrul existent al cunoaşterii. Succesul unui artist este o analiză finală a colaborării cu Dumnezeu în determinarea ordinii unor fenomene distincte care facilitează execuţia unor remarcabile compoziţii. Ameno, dore me !

Totul mi se pare pictat cu sângele miracolului de a exista într-o discreţie totală, dar şi într-un cerc al impresiilor de o clipă înflorite superb în jurul unui ideal estetic. Trandafirii, alcătuind respiraţia spaţiului sacru în care se contemplă rostirea atemporală a învăţăturii Divine, mă sprijină în rafinarea subtilă a modelului expresiv de prelucrare artistică a mesajului abstract, ales ca să hrănească spiritului nemuririi. E o artă să ştii să transformi materia sensibilă într-un corp nemuritor, apoi să te retragi în lumina lui.

Arta însufleţirii trandafirului este doar începutul unei mistici care pune accentul pe învierea Mântuitorului nostru Hristos într-un suprarealism sui generis , oglindit în conştiinţa lumii printr-o imagine parţial figurativă.

În privinţa locului în care m-am înconjurat de sfinţenia unei imagini cu rezonanţă în „îmbrăţişarea copilului Iisus", care nu cunoaşte în lume decât o orientare ascendentă spre autonomia limbajului artistic, pot recunoaşte în acelaşi timp acea manifestare a unei stări de uimire şi admiraţie pe care artistul o trăieşte duios, cu decenţă, cu răbdare, la vederea unei picturi abstracte, rechemând nostalgic luminile unor vremuri trăite omoovia-sethys în spiritul alchimiei.

Leadership: Arta pe care o păstrează Creaţia ta posedă taina stilului interpretativ bogat ornamentat, asistat de o viziune a destinului divin conceput ca o eternă călătorie arhetipală, de iniţiere a sinelui în tainele unei compoziţii figurative?

Aşadar, trăirile experimentate în fiecare moment al vieţii, în interiorul unui stil de desen mai rustic, au reprezentat un fel de mentor în subtila rafinare a unui limbaj trainic, a unui gust estetic ales, a rigorii suplimentare în interpretarea temelor de creaţie, bineînţeles adaptate contemporaneităţii. Cred că, şi aici, gândurile mele merită să plonjeze într-un puhoi de trandafiri antici, ascunzând veşnic în semnificaţia lor o taină ce ii poate alunga pe propagatorii de kitsch-uri : „Suntem ceea ce vedem şi admirăm în mod repetat."

Asigurarea corelaţiei între viaţă şi artă, în raport cu un simbol de frumuseţe şi pozitivitate, se sprijină pe un instinct natural de reproducere a imaginilor vii, a fenomenelor esenţiale care împodobesc Creaţia Cychesthea, plonjarea în lumea opţiunilor cu potenţial sensibil, dezvăluind uneori o realitate tangibilă, alteori o utopie sau un idealism căzut în capcana fanteziei. Fără să fie prea dulceag, romantic sau expansiv, trandafirul îmi şopteşte o taină: " Fii ca mine, fără să uiţi cine eşti tu ! "

Gândit ca apariţie miraculoasă a unui mesager divin, printr-o împărtășire din imaginea curată a lui Dumnezeu, deci oferindu-i o simţire foarte ortodoxă în modelul expresiv al unui zâmbet de copil, cu alură de înger, am încercat să descriu trandafirul (pentru eterna glorificare a credinţei) într-un transfer de însuşiri pozitive de la un espíritu puro la un espíritu sagrado , într-un mod sublim şi supranatural, transformând cu adevărat harul celor sfinte într-un loc Argyasantri (scris într-un nume divin). Nu a fost deloc uşor, căci asta presupunea să experimentez trandafirul ca o expresie naturală a intimităţii mele în corespondenţă cu o eleganţă figurativă.

Leadership: Este în natura creatorului din tine să treacă dincolo de Ego până la hotarul cu o altă lume, pretinzând o viziune a omului într-un univers al Sinelui Imperial?

Nimic nu e mai facil pentru un pictor, comparat cu splendoarea unei imortalizări de viață (narată în câteva secvențe frumos descrise artistic), decât să redea în mod plastic o situaţie produsă prin facilitarea întâlnirii dintre imanent şi transcendent. Printr-o singură privire acordată unei flori unice, surprinsă într-o imagine cu mult roşu şi galben, ce parcă vrea să renască în ipostaza de fiinţă umană sensibilă care începe să înveţe un limbaj articulat madeagis istenantza , imaginea esenţială a Creaţiei capătă o calitate marcată de grație şi poezie, dar cu o pondere tot mai mare în transmiterea mesajului solemn: „Ce-i adânc niciodată nu dezamăgeşte."

Dacă aş extinde această idee în legătură cu impactul realităţii din lumea trandafirului, aş putea recurge la supremul punct de vedere al episcopului Ghenadie al Râmnicului: „Ideea sfintei noastre religii, predicate cu prisosinţă de către Mântuitorul şi Apostoli, şi introduse în minţile oamenilor, nu puteau să rămână aici multă vreme în formă numai de concepţiuni mintale, căci şi ele aveau trebuinţă de un corp, ci trebuiau să fie înfăţişate prin nişte reprezentaţiuni împrumutate din domeniul artelor şi din cartea naturii."

Sinele Imperial de care se foloseşte artistul pentru a crea coordonatele unei alte lumi, într-o miraculoasă armonie de patru trandafiri cu mirosuri total deosebite, adunaţi laolaltă şi contopiţi într-o sinteză perfectă, are ca şi corespondent unic în spaţiu şi timp urmatoarele tuşe: o tuşă de culoare, o tuşă de nobleţe, o tuşă de naturaleţe, o tuşă de factură suprarealistă, o tuşă de modern, o tuşă de stabilitate şi o tuşă de infinit.

Am înţeles, în sfârşit, că a fi divin înseamnă să exprimi artistic efectul de petale de trandafir sub un alt cer, cu un alt nume, în imagini sau în cuvinte, în trup şi suflet. Dumnezeu este echivalentul perfect al trandafirului real, bogat înmiresmat şi învăluitor, ascunzând veşnic în adâncurile sale o taină: "să înfloreşti perfect în încercarea de a recrea o lume posibilă, la fel de obiectivă şi de subiectivă ca oricare alta."

Ideea sfintei credinţe este transpunerea unei forme de limbaj interior într-o compoziţie expresivă cu tentă de omagiu adus Naturii şi Creatorului, în intenţia de a obţine o asemănare cu El sub înrâurirea unei ancore de putere: „Ţi-am dat o viziune a formei mele divine pentru a mă putea recunoaște ca un miracol al naturii în tine însuţi".

Ameno este modelul de cooperare între artă şi sentiment pe care ţi-l dezvăluie unitatea dintre om şi natură, personificată numai de un psihic sensibil, o gândire minuţioasă trudind răbdătoare între vizual, ideal şi conceptual, care adesea recurge la intervenţia divină pentru a reproduce o tematică şi o realitate mai vibrantă, mai venerată şi mai aproape de sufletul credinciosului.

Amin

On Iunie 01, 2019

Adu-ţi aminte de ceea ce te defineşte ca artist într-un timp care nu îşi încetineşte niciodată mersul.

Îmi admir zilnic trandafirii, aşa cum un pictor îşi admiră tabloul cu puţin timp înainte de a-l finaliza, pentru a-i face ultimele retuşuri, încercând să disting mesajul transmis de natură într-un context de "eveniment trecător". Este dovada clară a unei forţe spirituale înalte, o mărturie a cuiva mai în temă cu condiţia spre care sunt împins, de a fi o fiinţă înţeleaptă şi plină de cunoştinţe, una care recunoaşte importanţa opririi timpului într-o singură clipă.

Aici, în grădina mea, ca pretutindeni în artă şi în viaţă, în pofida oricăror ascunsuri ale universului revelate doar prin intermediul unei fiinţe dragi, impresia de întoarcere în timp îşi găseşte locul într-un decor plin de culoare, unde îmi recapăt sensul. Compoziţia subiectului meu, de această dată având dimensiuni tot atât de vaste ca un bob de nisip dintr-o clepsidră fără ieşire, întâlneşte o rugăciune, un regret şi o faptă bună.

Aş putea reprezenta grafic posibilitatea de lectură a unei istorisiri pe care mi-o dă zilnic trandafirul, în culorile unei realităţi misterioase, ascunsă în curgerea unor endorfine dintr-un creier mai enigmatic care îşi solicită mecanismele de interconexiune între pământ şi univers.

Printr-o linie mereu ascendentă, trecând prin toate înfăptuirile şi măreţiile naturii, ca o metaforă într-un făgaş al timpului, aş putea să menţin cu veneraţie legătura dintre viaţa mea, un câmp al dorinţelor totdeauna mai ample decât cele planificate, şi sensibilitatea rafinată a unui artist care glorifică miraculosul acestei lumi printr-un AMIN răsunător.

Orice artist care aspiră la nemurire îşi ia ca model de inspiraţie natura unică a unui simbol dintr-o imagine, pe jumătate virtuală, la extinderea distanţei dintre sugestie şi percepţie.

Am experimentat caracterul durabil al unui trandafir, parte a unei naturi grandioase, sigur pe el, niciodată cedând în faţa slăbiciunilor unei celebrităţi care a trăit vreme îndelungată între culise şi rampă. Am fost reprezentarea simbolică a unui personaj cheie dintr-un roman complex dotat cu o istorie a sufletului omenesc, privit ca o formă de exploatare egoistă a unor momente de îndoielnică nobleţe, care ar suporta consecinţele unui posibil scenariu de apartenenţă la un misterios semn al zeilor, într-un timp în care inteligenţa artificială era respinsă cu desăvârşire.

Am cunoscut toate enigmele lumii, toate vicleniile ei, toate bucuriile, toate realităţile ei. Am trăit mult, dar n-am întâlnit decât puţini oameni cu adevărat vrednici de laudă. Am făcut parte din nostalgia marilor împăraţi, din ştiinţa marilor alchimişti, din inspiraţia marilor artişti, dar cel mai tare am fost înduioşat de Peter cărbunarul, care şi-a vândut inima necuratului doar ca să constate că nimic nu-l face mai fericit. Am fost, în acest caz, câmpul de observaţie al unei existenţe pline de învăţături.

"Când ai o inimă rece nimic nu te mai mişcă, nimic nu te mai bucură; niciun tablou, nicio muzică, niciun dans. Nu-ţi mai rămâne din plăceri decât mâncarea, băutura şi somnul. Astfel îşi ducea viaţa acest om, călătorind prin lume fără rost, amintindu-şi doar rareori de vremea când, băiat sărac, nevoit să-şi agonisească traiul prin muncă, fusese mai vesel şi mai fericit."

"Watch out. I defeat the pain. I'm alive again" îmi şopteşte firul unui gând care se resimte ca un preludiu interminabil al graţiei şi iertării divine, pe tot parcursul unei vieţi nemuritoare, derivată din vestirea iminenţei unei schimbări de mentalitate într-o evoluţie a conştiinţelor pure. Un fel de trezire spirituală pentru o conștientizare imediată a păcatului de a nu fi trăit ceea ce sufletul își doreşte cu adevărat. Păcatul de a nu fi folosit tot ceea ce Creatorul a acordat oamenilor: o întoarcere la noi înşine.

Leadership: Deţii rara calitate de a combina într-o singură formulă contribuţia generoasă a naturii la desăvârşirea unei perspective despre ce înseamnă să-ţi trăieşti viaţa prin raportare la axele esențiale ale unui destin vulnerabil?

Trandafirul. Lumea întreagă într-o singură imagine care zugrăveşte destinul unei opere neterminate. O viaţă plăsmuită din gingăşia unei iubiri neîmpărtăşite, sau din puritatea unui zbor de stea, sau din fineţea cu care artistul descrie portretul unui om de rând care îşi scrie povestea în cartea nemuririi. Este singurul agent al naturii care are putere de rememorare a detaliilor trecutului, experimentând continu un deja vu al existenţei personajului din opera lui Wilhelm Hauff.

I was blind and now I see. What if god is not for me? se întreabă omul care păşeşte fără ezitare în păcat, dar se loveşte de insuportabilitatea propriului caracter. Natura aude zbuciumul inimii, îşi calmează nervii şi-i acordă o şansă de izbăvire sub formula unei înţelegeri: "o singură calitate poate înlătura toate defectele."

Splendoarea spiritului se manifestă când faptele mărunte devin expresii ale unei misiuni divine mai înalte.

Ce-i spunea "Omuleţul de Sticlă" lui Peter cărbunarul, rămâne o parabolă a pocăinţei: "Întotdeauna părerea de rău, izvorâtă din curajul inimii de a iubi, împacă lucrurile şi, dacă aş fi convins că-ţi pare rău de viaţa păcătoasă ce ai dus-o, atunci m-aş strădui să fac ceva pentru tine."

Când resimţi o emoţie puternică a celor petrecute în coeziune cu tot ce este esenţial în planul vieţii, în efortul de a-ţi îndrepta caracterul, aşa cum trandafirul îşi îndreaptă tulpina în bătaia vântului, mai ales după furtună, spiritul fiinţei tale capătă splendoarea unei izbăviri din legăturile fatalităţii.

Iar când trăieşti prin misterele unui trandafir purpuriu, la fel ca şi istoria admirată cu mare emoţie, de fapt, intuieşti potențialul artistic al unui tânăr regizor, care, înşiruind fapte după fapte, într-un ciclu de câteva secole, pregăteşte sufletul lumii pentru comoara ce-i este rezervată, dând sens unei misiuni mai înalte: de a face cunoscută lucrarea Domnului în cele mai mici fapte.

Leadership: Eşti în stare să înţelegi glasul naturii potenţat de imperativul unui destin chemat să te urmărească prin asemănările care te leagă de trecut, în căutarea unui simbol pe care să-l foloseşti într-un mesaj unic?

O, ce înlănţuire de întâmplări minunate mi-a hărăzit trandafirul. Dar cerul veghează întotdeauna deasupra simbolului pe care vreau să-l folosesc într-un mesaj unic: "Încearcă să păstrezi în memoria lumii tot ce-ai trăit în clipele când ai fost altcineva ! ".

Trandafirul a fost martorul unei existenţe care se repetă prin ideea din spatele povestirii, anume că orice trăire îşi caută haina potrivită, iar orice impuls de manifestare a spiritualităţii îşi caută calea de acces spre cuvânt. În trecerea de la bogăţie la suferinţă, şi de la suferinţă la bucurie, Peter cărbunarul obişnuia să spună: "Mai bine să te mulţumeşti cu puţin decât putred de bogat, cu o grămadă de aur şi cu inima rece.”

În artă, la fel ca în viaţă, eşti condamnat să îndrăgeşti o realitate care îndată imortalizată într-o amintire de dincolo de cuvinte, nu mai poate fi schimbată niciodată de nimeni, ci doar însufleţită cu puţină culoare, cu sensibilitate, cu salut dumnezeiesc.

Numai un artist genial reuşeşte să redea, ca o cronică perseverentă a unor întâmplări luate din realitate, chiar dacă puţin diluate cu sens de născocire, lectura unei linii de unire a sufletului cu divinitatea, scop suprem al existenței. Singura mea grijă provine din faptul că mi-am exagerat un pic puterea de înţelegere, impulsul spiritual care rezistă în faţa timpului, de unde şi această manifestare activă a dorinţei de a concepe o estetică a fragilităţii, a suferinţei şi a bucuriei ce o urmează.

Leadership: Existenţa ta reprezintă o realitate care a început să fie vizibilă odată cu crearea unui personaj plin de contradicţii, dar care rezistă în faţa timpului prin intermediul temei pe care o abordează?

Din momentul în care m-am întors în timp, spre alte meleaguri, am creat o ambianţă diferită, o altă variantă a mea care trăieşte într-o realitate paralelă. Am fost imaginea unui trandafir care a crescut în inima personaj de basm plin de contradicţii, dar inspirat din realitate, ceea ce echivalează cu plonjarea într-un univers cu adevărat fascinant unde oamenii de rând îşi descoperă deodată forţe noi, menite să le transforme vieţile şi pe ei înşişi în... altceva.

Totodată, îmi însuşesc întâmplarea de a fi împins în prim planul lecturii tocmai ideea de măsură a lucrurilor, de ordine și de orientare, într-o estetică a bucuriei de a trăi în memoria unui trecut demult uitat, în care numai termenul “sfinţenie” ar putea să măsoare distanţa dintre regret şi pocăinţă, dintre durere şi starea de bine. Prezentul, cât este de diferit într-o verificare a temei "Priveşte înapoi"?

Să trăieşti cu înţelepciune o întoarcere în alte timpuri nu este filosofie a ştiinţei despre creaţie şi creator, nu este o imortalizare a rămăşiţelor unei morale depăşite, ci este efectul unui gând menit să percuteze câmpul de luptă al unei dureri care şi-a aşteptat parcă dintotdeauna alinarea.

Meditaţia asupra artei începe cu justificarea ideii de finitudine. Am fost puritatea unui trandafir situat în prim-planul unui tablou în care culorile saturate sunt prea reci pentru a fi frumoase, dar în care imperfecţiunea este o virtute şi fiecare personaj, măsurat cu acurateţea timpului, e absolut minunat aşa cum e.

The past is gone for good, it's time to say: Amen !

Puterea unui artist constă în alegerea corectă a unui simbol menit să-l reprezinte în afara temei pe care o abordează din perspectiva timpului, ci a unei vieţi trăite prin reîncărcări succesive.

Amin este țipătul unui artist care s-a uitat în jur, a văzut defectele lumii, şi a ales să spună “Adio” doar pentru a se întoarce la ea în alte timpuri, în alte locuri, în alte dimensiuni ale fiinţării, pentru a-şi desăvârşi opera.

At last, I believe I will be found...

Aminteşte-ţi cine eşti

On Februarie 20, 2015

Schimbă-ţi atitudinea de fond care justifică interesul în formularea unei noi idei de realitate, extinzând autenticitatea trăirilor care te încearcă neîncetat în faţa situaţiilor care te aduc în punctul în care devii altcineva.

Întotdeauna se ivea o descoperire atunci când încercam să pun în evidenţă existenţa îndârjitei consecvenţe în lupta cu reprezentările vieţii. Era un joc unic de explorat, o direcţie ajustată pe parcurs, o cale de acces la drumurile închise ale individualităţii. Cumva, simţeam nevoia unui nou standard de exteriorizare, prin practica interiorizării. Pentru aceasta, trebuia să îndeplinesc exigenţa de redare a unei experienţe de navigare prin câmpurile trecutului, născută din ideea descrierii elementelor constitutive ale unui pariu însufleţitor (eveniment – miză – câştig) , cu ajutorul ecuaţiilor de sugestibilitate.

Mă aflam şi eu, precum temerarii vikingi care se avântau în diverse expediţii de explorare a teritoriilor necunoscute, sub presiunea necesităţii acute de a-mi rezema umerii incertitudinii de delirul fragil al bucuriei procurate cu efortul imaginaţiei. De o amintire profundă şi afectuoasă, de o întâmplare petrecută în vecinătatea destinului meu, de vreun secret care îmi încălzea sufletul asemenea unei melodii răscolitoare care nu se mai opreşte. Însă nu întotdeauna respectam ritmurile autoacceptării de sine.

Odată, în mintea-mi riguros formalizată, inadecvată nuanţării caracterului axat pe interpretările trecutului – derulat ca pe o peliculă de film imperfectă, am aruncat o întrebare al cărei răspuns m-am chinuit în zadar să-l aflu. Îmi vedeam propria poveste prin oglinda parţial reflectorizantă a raţiunii manifestate prin Eul empiric, într-o succesiune nesfârşită de imagini (reflectări ale realului din spatele aparenţei trăirilor vieţii) de la înălţimea conştiinţei, de la înălţimea cuvântului gândirii care îmi vorbea în piept prin bătăile inimii, sub biciul de plumb al poruncii: „Remember who you are ! ”

Leadership: Orizontul tău de cunoaştere şi existenţă converge spre transformarea unei realităţi date, prin analogie cu un Ego care experimentează umilinţa de a trăi în permanenţă un adevărat proces de conştiinţă?

Pe când povestea despre fratele său geamăn care se înecase în copaie, Mark Twain observă că: „ Nimeni n-a ştiut vreodată cine anume s-a înecat, eu sau fratele meu. ” Atât de bine se asemănau, încât nimeni nu a putut să verifice autenticitatea sa. El a fost unicul martor şi mărturia lui a reprezentat singurul mijloc de exprimare a adevărului.

Posibilitatea de a valorifica o situaţie în care te lupţi cu ceea ce numim clasic Ego, chiar dacă sentimentele sunt mai puternice decât tine, depinde de valabilitatea relaţiei dintre certitudine şi iluzie, dintre realitate şi spirit. Tu eşti singurul martor al situaţilor care îţi validează autenticitatea trăirilor pe care le experimentezi în relaţie cu o realitate tot mai complexă, marcată de temeri acute sau de bucurii ascunse.

O amintire exprimată prin stimulii proveniţi din exemplaritatea unei experienţe de navigare prin câmpurile trecutului, din amintiri şi reconstituiri, relevând o realitate în care nu intervine eroarea de a te îndepărta de tine însuţi prin întrebări la care nu găseşti răspuns, poate să declanşeze o dorinţă profundă de schimbare şi de transformare pe toate planurile.

Leadershipul, ca ştiinţă a cărei fundaţie se clădeşte, se urneşte, se clatină sau cade în funcţie de coordonatele de manifestare a puterii de a te recunoaşte ca individ separat de lume şi care în acelaşi timp are o influenţă asupra lumii, trece prin stadiul empiric atunci când experimentezi emoţii de neuitat.

Rezultatele explorării analogiei dintre cunoaştere şi existenţă sunt calculate riguros în faza de schimbare de sine, dar ele pot fi interpretate şi validate în drumul acceptării totale a ceea ce eşti atunci când devii conştient de ce se întâmplă într-o realitate care acceptă numai varianta ta de adevăr.

Leadershipul seamănă în acest caz cu un joc de felul „călătoreşte şi socoteşte" în care trebuie să renunţi la vechea identitate care te urmăreşte, cu bunele şi relele de care ai dat dovadă în trecut, într-o existenţă finită. Şi să concepi o nouă reprezentare a înţelegerii tale - prin prisma a ceea ce ai cunoscut de-a lungul timpului, prin surprinderea contrastului între aparenţă şi esenţă.

Aparenţa este dată de gândurile sau sentimentele pline de regret, de tristeţe sau de amăgire asupra cărora te concentrezi - care cresc din ce în ce mai mult în tine incertitudinea, până când în final se adună şi are loc explozia. Îţi pierzi identitatea în firul propriei memorii, în umbra amintirilor, devii suspicios față de propria putere de înțelegere.

La polul opus, esenţa este ceea ce rămâne stabil în tine, după ce citeşti printre rândurile aparenţei. Adică, odată intrat în labirintul amintirilor, în loc să te pierzi, găseşti certitudini care aduc confort psihic conştiinţei, redându-ţi linişte interioară.

Atitudinea de fond care justifică interesul în formularea unei noi idei de realitate aparţine situaţiei când te vezi prins între incertitudinea unei schimbări de imagine şi incertitudinea unei lumi în schimbare, şi te-ai decis să alegi varianta adevărului care îţi permite să fii tu însuţi.

Aminteşte-ţi cine eşti aduce în atenţie marca identităţii personale care se doreşte a fi cercetată pentru a-ţi reconsidera poziţia faţă de virtuţile sau slăbiciunile tale. Să nu uităm ce spunea blogerul Radu Lucian Alexandru: „ Identitatea este ceea ce fiecare fiinţă este la un moment dat, privită fiind din perspectiva Întregul ei Fiinţial."

Astfel, nuanţarea caracterului prin interpretarea trecutului, trecând prin filtrul gândirii, al simţirii şi al sistemului de valori acele întrebări care satisfac nevoia de autenticitate şi cunoaştere profundă, este necesară pentru că facilitează trecerea mai uşoară de la statutul de „învins" la statutul de „învingător". Un om învins nu are nicio putere asupra a ceea ce-l nelinişteşte, el nu-şi poate găsi ritmul vieţii interioare în dezordinea socială.

Ca să-ţi schimbi atitudinea de fond – de la resemnare la hotărâre, extinde-ţi cunoașterea asupra a ceea ce te stăpâneşte, asupra a ceea te-a dus în punctul în care eşti acum. Dar nu şi emoţiile !

Amintirea unui trandafir se priveşte în altă înfăţişare

On August 06, 2019

Fii capabil să-ţi recunoşti propriile gânduri şi emoţii într-o identitate pe care oricând o poţi "împrumuta" din garderoba naturii.

Când am plantat primul trandafir în grădină, era într-o toamnă târzie, nu ştiam nimic despre viaţa florilor, cu atât mai puţin despre natura atât de surprinzătoare şi de ofertantă. Era mai mult o nevoie imperioasă de ordine, un fel de rezervă faţă de frumuseţea la care toţi râvnesc să o simtă, un determinant al unei stări de spirit care, în virtutea unei constatări de ordin vizual, trebuia să stimuleze activarea resurselor necesare actului de creaţie.

Schimbarea perspectivei nu e acelaşi lucru cu chemarea de a sluji unui crez despre artă. Sunt acelasi om de atunci, aceeaşi forţă imaginativă, o conştiinţă modelată prin nobleţe sufletească, dar mă simt ca şi când aş fi fost schimbat de împrejurările unei realitati care nu apartine acestei lumi. Precum în cazul lui Cervantes, amintirea a ceea ce fusese cu adevărat înălţător trebuia să aibă conturul unei himere, de aici pornesc toate neaşteptatele măreţii ale imaginaţiei.

Leadership: Poți atinge independența absolută prin liberul arbitru, transcendând cursul unui destin care se rescrie continuu, echilibrând proporțiile și stabilitatea într-o expresie artistică a spiritului creator?

Totul capătă independenţă absolută în această viaţă, precum liberul arbitru, dar există o forţă misterioasă care modifică la un moment dat cursul fiecărui destin, conform unui plan mai amplu. Iată că trandafirul meu a crescut, aşa cum creşte în mintea pictorilor tendinţa artistică, făcătoare de minuni, numită "Metaestetică", caracterizată prin sensul proporţiilor, gustul compoziţiilor echilibrate şi stabile.

Când te afli în posesia unei flori, numai a ta, cea mai delicată dintre toate, dar şi cea mai rezistentă, simt că aluneci într-un delir mistic, ca şi când o forţă superioară de origine divină, o entitate angelică, te-ar pune în contact cu frumuseţea interioară a revoluţionarului autentic, a esteticianului care creează armonia şi frumuseţea unui tablou conform trăsăturii profunde a naturii înconjurătoare.

Voi fi mereu o parte a trandafirului, o fărâmă de cuget pe o tulpină înaltă şi plină de spini care creşte în interiorul unui cadru compoziţional ce semnifică drumul parcurs de om de la curăţirea inimii de patimi...spre iluminarea minţii sale.

Leadership: Convingerile pe care le ai despre tine însuţi contribuie la dezvoltarea sensibilităţii în vederea desăvârşirii unei creaţii revelate de natură în caracterizarea structurii unei identităţi vizuale unitare?

De atunci, am plantat mulţi trandafiri în grădină. Peste 40 de specii. Culori diferite, parfumuri pline de emoţii ce captează şi reflectă lumina într-o scânteie de vis. Mă vedeam tot mai mult într-un tablou plin de vrajă şi mister în care natura pură, cea mai frumoasă pictură făurită de către Dumnezeu, îşi făcea cunoscută splendoarea prin apropierea de un ideal artistic învelit în noţiunea de "Movement în stillness".

Convingerile despre obiectul dependenţei mele de frumos, trandafirul, acest bun consultant de imagine, erau incluse în gândirea înaltă şi pură a unui pictor de mare fineţe: "Şterge tot ce faci dacă simţi că sufletul tău nu e acolo”.

Semnificaţia trandafirului ni se dă sub forma unei intensităţi de viaţă sensibilă surprinsă în universul unui tablou care luminează discret gestul unei simţiri pururi spontane, pe care n-o poţi întâlni decât la artistul unei lumi fragile care ştie să descopere frumosul chiar şi într-o îngălbenire pronunţată a frunzelor, chiar şi în uscarea lor.

Arta existenței constă în armonizarea frumuseții interioare cu proporțiile naturale ale unui univers delicat, creând o compoziție echilibrată și stabilă de emoții și sensuri.

Vedeţi, deci, cât de important este pentru mine să prind din prima cântărire a gândurilor de zi cu zi povestea de viaţă a unui personaj, din câteva linii şi haşuri, încât să aduc în prim planul privitorului ideea de comuniune cu splendorile naturii, sau chiar ideea de imitaţie a naturii.

Tresărirea de sentiment a fiecărei linii poate fi înţeleasă numai în creaţia artistului care ştie transpună pe pânză, în plan vertical, efortul de articulare a propriei experienţe de comunicare cu un trandafir, ca pe-o confesiune acordată conştiinţelor modelate prin experienţa călătoriei în lumea naturii. Nu degeaba mi-am ales ca motto pentru conversaţiile cu mine însumi, pe tema picturii contemporane il per sempre adesso , repetiţia subliniată a unei exclamaţii pusă pe seama unui bătrân inimos: “Într-un pictor există un şir nesfârşit de asemănări vizuale ale naturii.”

Structura unei identităţi vizuale unitare se compune din preţuirea şi asigurarea permanenţei unei viziuni despre artă într-un cadru mai larg de promovare a imaginii privind plauzibilitatea imitaţiei naturii în plan emoţional.

Desigur, o identitate vizuală implică şi intervenţia omului de creaţie în mersul naturii din punct de vedere al plauzibilităţii unei legături între imaginea unei frumuseţi care durează şi consecinţa unei stări emoţionale, a unei aspirații, a unui vis, a unei trăiri în revelaţie. Numai renascentiştii puneau accentul pe asemănarea dintre manifestarea naturii şi cea a Creatorului, aşa încât pictura să conţină o notă de specificitate menită să reflecte totodată o concepție artistică care eclipsează alte creaţii de gen, dar şi o abordare conceptuală de forma “Imaginea Celuilalt” .

Scriitorul Alexandru Vlahuţă scoate în evidenţă substratul unei potențialități infinite de manifestări ale sufletului pe care îl posedă trandafirul, surprins în ipostaza de stăpân al creaţiei, în studiul psihologic al personalităţii marelui pictor Nicolae Grigorescu.

“Toate lucrurile omului acestuia au o viaţă discretă, profundă, pe care n-o înţelegi, n-o simţi la început, dar care palpită acolo şi, cine ştie când, sub ce rază de lumină, de afară, sau din sufletul tău, te va face odată să tresari şi să zici: “Ciudat, asta acum parc-o văd întâia oară”…Şi de câte ori ai s-o mai vezi întâi ! Căci aceasta e taina, acesta e darul cel mai mare al vieţii – de a fi pururea nouă.”

Armonizarea simplităţii interioare cu complexitatea expresiei artistice libere este posibilă atunci când îţi mărturiseşti perspectiva de a transla în ficţiune evoluţia unei fiinţe care umple ea singură întreaga lume.

Şi tu. Încearcă să imiţi natura prin intermediul unei creaţii transformată prin personificare într-un trandafir sălbatic, domesticit prin puterea expresivităţii cu care îţi mărturiseşti gândurile despre artă, văzându-te desculţ într-un vis care mărturisește perspectiva de a transla în ficţiune evoluţia unei fiinţe care umple ea singură întreaga lume.

În transformare se găseşte tot ceea ce îţi hrăneşte sufletul, experimentând într-un mod pur, autentic şi puternic deschiderea faţă de o cu totul altă dimensiune a personalităţii, una artistică şi foarte liberă în spirit, faţă de un nou sens al vieţii, faţă de un nou mod de exprimare. Aşa încât simplitatea din confortul minţii tale să primeze în orice împrejurare, mai ales în faţa "obligaţiei" de a te pune într-o postură de creator al unei picturi liniștite, echilibrate.

Leadershipul este situaţia în care darul cel mai mare al vieţii (de a fi pururea nouă) se manifestă într-un singur sens: dinspre lumea creaţiei spre crearea unei lumi în care primul loc îl ocupă trăirea unei experienţe împlinitoare de ideal transferabilă de la o entitate de sine stătătoare, la o diversitate de entități cu evoluţii distincte.

Trandafirul este mai mult decât un simplu format al realităţii când se vorbeşte despre contemplarea clarvăzătoare a lumii exterioare, este un îndelung proces de purificare şi sacralizare a unei vaste moşteniri artistice care ne amprentează cu sensuri noi de interpretare a Marii Opere, îndemnându-ne să trăim după regulile mediului înconjurător.

Când voi înţelege mai bine originea trandafirului poate voi constata că el este o reflectare a mea într-o altă formă de existenţă, ce poate fi exprimată într-un cuvânt matrice al limbajului pur universal: “Metamorfoză”.

Amintirea unui trandafir care se priveşte în altă înfăţişare se naşte numai în mintea unui povestitor excepţional care trăieşte o altă viaţă înăuntrul său, o viaţă care nu este a lui şi care nu se va termina niciodată, o viaţă care nu e satisfăcută doar de vizibil, de palpabil. Ci una care este inteligent proiectată de un Creator care îşi pune creaţia pe seama unei împletiri a resorturilor unei fiinţări autonome cu resorturile unei gândiri ce invită la respectul naturii.

Amintiţi-vă de mine

Învaţă să te raportezi la un moment de intensă experienţă artistică, imortalizându-l într-un moment decisiv al relaţiei tale cu o fiinţă care te simte şi te imită în tot ceea ce creezi despre ea.

Ori de câte ori mă aflu între trandafiri, asemenea unui Harry Houdini printre tablouri, simt cum sunt introdus într-un peisaj de poveste, în conversaţiile memorabile dintre două personaje asemănătoare, şi totuşi atât de diferite ca zestre morală, educație şi caracter. Este ca şi când aş trăi o experienţă de neimaginat într-o lume a senzaţiilor şi a iluziilor optice învârtite în jurul unei imagini de neuitat, sobră şi totodată plină de sensibilitate, în care două puncte, percepute separat, se declară unite într-o singură parcurgere de istorie a artei.

Îmi dau dreptate şi iau aminte atunci când gândurile-mi surprind tăcerea unei clipe de afecţiune şi dor, questo momento è un santo segreto, că nu tot ceea ce văd este o grămadă de materie organică adunată într-o formă sau alta, în acelaşi timp ceva trecător şi fără rost. Mai există şi o latură estetică în care culorile îmi alterează percepţiile despre ceva existent în afara mea, un monolog dialogat, un simbolism religios complex întruchipat într-o formă artistică adecvată, o frumuseţe răvăşitoare care se desfată cu laudele şi admiraţia tuturor prin constituirea unui punct de reper: "Destinul unei realităţi transcendente".

Această percepere a trandafirului, în momentele privilegiate ale rupturii mele de lume, facilitează întâlnirea cu un AlterEgo inspirat de strălucirea nemuritoare a unui întreg indestructibil, de orizontul unei înţelegeri situaţionale iremediabil închistate într-un spaţiu extrem de strâns. De multe ori, chiar, trandafirii îşi fac destoinic datoria de a transmite liber, ca o rugăciune sfântă, ceea ce cuvintele nu reuşesc: o bună concentrare mentală, linişte sufletească, o creaţie mentală a Totului.

Leadership: Ai capacitatea de a materializa niște idei într-o formă vizuală care dau sens unui concept de tipul "believe in something more than you can see" , imortalizat printr-un factor de atracţie care convinge subtil să-l adopţi fără a avea reacţii de respingere?

Într-un fel, mi-am impus să ascult tăcerea trandafirilor, cu plăcere şi încântare, numai prin simplul fapt al prezenţei mele printre ei, ca atunci când pictorul admiră peisajul şi îl vizualizează ca pe o matrice de spaţiu sacral şi de acţiune devoţională, trăindu-l cu toată intensitatea de care este capabil, înainte de a-l imortaliza într-un moment decisiv al relaţiei sale cu natura.

Tabloul, îndată terminat, este o clipă de mare surpriză fiindcă trebuie să recunoşti o nouă înfăţişare a ceea ce Dumnezeu a vrut ca tu să vezi din El, prin intermediul diversităţii şi măreţiei naturii.

Amintiţi-vă de Miranda Grey, personajul din opera lui John Fowles. Ce-i spunea ea colecţionarului de fluturi rămâne o emblemă definitorie a trandafirilor exteriorizaţi prin artă, pentru că ei înşişi se simt o parte din viaţa oamenilor, un ritiro dalle onde delle tentazioni del mondo , aşa cum sunt setaţi cu multe culori predefinite de natură, cu simţăminte şi gânduri pe care le regăsesc şi în mine, în sprijinul poveştii mele:

E o nebunie, e sinistru, dar s-a creat un soi de relaţie între noi. Ne tachinăm unul pe celălalt, o situaţie aproape prietenească. În parte pentru că mă simt atât de singură, departe de lumea agitată, în parte o fac deliberat încât să-l forţez să se relaxeze. O parte de slăbiciune, o parte de viclenie. Dar mai există o parte, misterioasă, pe care nu o pot defini. Nu poate fi vorba de prietenie, căci îl urăsc, te înţeapă în venă cu nişte cuvinte pline de nuanţe gri chiar şi atunci când nu e necesar. Poate e un soi de interes faţă de persoana lui. Pentru că ştiu atât de multe despre el. Şi atunci când cunoşti bine pe cineva, în mod automat te simţi mai aproape de el. Chiar şi atunci când ţi-ai dori să-l vezi pe altă planetă."

Leadership: Obiectul atenţiei tale poate deveni versiunea autentică a unei empatii de tip proactiv prin reprezentarea plastică a unei fiinţe care anunţă descoperirea unei capodopere de-a ta, cu desăvârşire neştiută până acum?

Atenţia focalizată asupra unei splendori a naturii este asociată pregnant cu modificarea unei imagini de valoare artistică concepută în vederea facilitării extragerii informației de interes pentru construcţia unui sens atribuit activităţii trăite prin intermediul unui personaj, prin conştiinţa sa, urmărindu-i gândurile şi sentimentele. Fie ca emblemă a purităţii şi candorii, fie ca emblemă a puterii pe planul cunoaşterii imaginative sau intelectuale.

Cu multă inspiraţie şi pasiune, ştiu că voi putea pricinui o schimbare de mentalitate artistică, oltre ogni dubbio, o îmbogăţire durabilă a viziunii despre infinitele resurse creatoare ale geniului omenesc cu o sursă a puterii de expresie a limbajului, numai dacă obiectul atenţiei mele îşi va pune tot mai puternic amprenta asupra necesităţii de diversitate. De asemenea, el trebuie să motiveze alte curente de opinie să îmbrăţişeze aspectele legate de revitalizarea sentimentului estetic faţă de natură.

A fi proactiv înseamnă să fii un om al ideilor despre artă impregnate în mintea şi sufletul celui care îţi completează trăirile cu o anumită intensitate. Iar capodopera unui artist constă în a reda intensitatea acestei trăiri ca expresie a unei reuşite simbioze între vizual şi conceptual, între natură şi omul contemporan.

Pe măsură ce mi-am recunoscut înclinaţia spre redarea frumuseţii trandafirilor, ca însuşi faptul ce priveşte imortalizarea unui moment unic din viaţa mea, putând fi transpus într-o poveste, am început să introduc în tablourile mele conţinutul de sens atribuit unei trăiri de impresionantă forţă şi vigoare, surprinsă imagistic, precum o face scriitorul Artur Silvestri în lucrarea „Perpetuum Mobile":

„O muzică nedesluşită îl făcea să viseze cu puţin cu ochii deschişi. Era ceva ca o magie pe care nu o mai încercase niciodată până acum. Începuse să vadă peisaje, scene fără mişcare şi chipuri fără nume – aproape ca nişte fotografii – pe care le cunoscuse altă dată, demult, poate chiar în viaţa lui. Părea că retrăieşte momente concentrate, ce se întâmplaseră doar pentru a şi le reaminti altădată, cândva, într-un viitor oarecare, venit abia acum fără să-l fi anunţat nimic."

Marea taină a creaţiei este trăirea sentimentului de a fi VIU, desprins din spatele cuvintelor care rămân întipărite în mintea celorlalţi oameni, numai dacă le comunici la timp prin reflectarea artistică a unui obiect, a unui peisaj, a unui tablou, dintr-o realitate uitată în viața cotidiană a zilelor noastre.

Cuvintele sunt drumurile pe care, totodată, arta mea le produce la vederea unei opere strălucite, cu totul inexplicabilă, pe care natura o numeşte Logos, expresia lui Dumnezeu, exprimarea Lui despre sine însuși. La început a fost cuvântul, apoi rostirea unei realităţi de care sunt legat profund subiectiv, dând la iveală grandioase revelaţii despre mine însumi. Scăpări din acelea care se găsesc numai în viziunea poetului asupra naturii, în gândurile de pace, armonie, linişte, iubire interioară pe care le dăruiesc tuturor celor care vor să constituie o permanentă noutate în peisajul artei.

Amintiţi-vă de mine este îndemnul trandafirului exprimat prin percepția personală a artistului asupra schimbărilor de mentalitate, gândire şi atitudine, pe care le prilejuieşte contactul lui cu o sensibilitate de altă structură decât acea a limitelor care împinge expresionismul trăirii prin comparaţie, ci a unui expresionism vibrant, cu inserturi simbolice, ancorat în realitatea unui eveniment numit „ La Creazione Incessante ”.

Amsterdam

Accelerează înţelegerea propriei evoluţii, dezvoltându-ţi simţământul de cuibărire în brațele unui sine stabil care nu se schimbă în ciuda diferitelor încercări ale vremurilor.

Pe măsură ce-o alimentam, bizara nostalgie după zilele tinereţii când mă avântam în faţa impulsurilor de moment, suportând acea nedezlegată stare de tip "Don't worry, be happy", avea în mod paradoxal darul de a mă pune în legătură cu tot ce era material şi imaterial. Rodul unei prostii efemere sau umbra unei oprelişti decăzute?

Aş fi vrut să iau lumea întreagă, s-o cuprind în căuşul mâinilor, aşa cum marea ia cu sine micile mormane de nisip, şi să o fac a mea, dorind-o fără hotar şi fără întoarcere. Fără să ştiu că asta suporta o tranziţie de tip Fade-In. „When I close my eyes I can only see miles of headlights / Fleshing out the distance."

La un moment dat am simţit că eu sunt lumea, totul din jur am sorbit în mine ca pe conţinutul unui pahar de apă vie, ca nu cumva să ajung eu înghiţit de ea. Istovit, eram inundat de senzaţii dese de deja-vu, împingându-mă tot înainte, într-o modalitate care se mişca între extreme - între vise şi amintiri. Cum să răspund la apelurile lor? Fireşte, eram depăşit de situaţie.

Leadership-ul vizionar explorează necunoscutul familiar, folosind percepțiile interioare pentru a redefini realitatea externă.

Ceva mă conducea cu desăvârşire deasupra puterilor mele. Un corp străin, căzut direct din cer cu puterea unui fulger care luminează o clipă, apoi dispare, tradus prin: "I miss you". And I miss you. And I miss you. Dar, deşi visele şi amintirile mă răscoleau, ele nu reprezentau nici finalul, nici începutul unei noi călătorii. Ci doar garanţia unui "unknown known".

Neîndurătoarea lumină de iarnă mă înveleşte din nou în pătura unei cronologii relative. Toate cerurile de deasupra mea şi toate pământurile din dinăuntrul meu, luând aparenţa unor noi orientări de sine, revelate prin percepţia unui astru al mişcărilor sufleteşti nepieritoare care de atâtea ori m-a lovit cu tonaj de voie bună, facilitează mersul prin univers în memoria unui timp care renaște. „You love me then you leave me, still I lie here."

Un timp pe care simt că nu o să-l mai recuperez vreodată, dar pe care mi-ar plăcea să-l trăiesc din nou. „And I'm lonely here without you / Miss your breath against my skin."

Leadership: Poţi să demonstrezi validitatea modelului tău de progres, conectându-te la realitatea unui spațiu cunoscut?

Deschiderea unei acţiuni posesorie de amintiri - din London, New York, Amsterdam, care mai de care mai încâlcite şi mai derutante, căreia devotamentul faţă de iluziile trecătoare îi poate acorda doar note de subsol într-un underground al conştiinţei, subliniază parcă poziţia mea în raport cu măreţia de a dăinui.

Un spaţiu cunoscut este un loc al amintirilor şi al regăsirii, provocând o stimulare a motivaţiei de a cotinua ceea ce a rămas neterminat, constituind totodată o reacţie de răspuns la un stimul de o suficientă putere numit scăderea distanţei faţă de o poziţie anterioară. Cum ar fi poziţia de căutător de al sensului vieţii.

Pentru a putea folosi leadershipul în scopul demonstrării validităţii modelului meu de progres, mă conectez la realitatea unui spațiu cunoscut. Navighez prin senzaţiile corespunzătoare acelor lucruri, momente, locuri, care mă reprezintă și care mi-au adus împlinire. Asta înseamnă că acțiunile din viața personală, puse în sprijinul unei deveniri care poartă în sine bucurie și fericire, concordă cu jurnalul vieții mele, cu amintirile, cu zestrea mea emoţională.

„Nu uita de tine, nu uita prin ce-ai trecut, nu uita ce te-a format, să nu uiți ce-ai cunoscut ! ” este deviza liderilor, căci ei nu trăiesc în virtutea inerţiei. Ei știu că una din cele mai mari ironii ale vieții este că oamenii nu acordă importanța cuvenită momentului „atunci” decât atunci când se află la un pas de a-l uita. „Acum” este voia lui „Atunci”.

Ştiinţei de a rezona cu momentul „Trecut” într-un „Acum” care va trece și el peste timp i se poate atribui însuşi adevărul potrivit căruia omul acţionează pornind de la anumite efecte pe care le-a simțit şi pe care încă nu le-a îngropat. Amintirile, sub conducerea unor trăiri pozitive sau negative care tind să se repete, stau la baza fundamentării unui caracter de ghidare aflat într-o continuă căutare a propriei identităţi.

Un lider îşi demonstrează validitatea modelului său de progres, conectându-se la realitatea unui spațiu cunoscut, atunci când se apropie de acel model al experienţei de a se implica într-un trecut care a rămas pentru el un fundal constant al vieţii de fiecare zi.

Amsterdam este rezultatul unui trecut care continuă în prezent. Plasarea în timp şi spaţiu a unei regăsiri de sine, luând în primire amprenta mea singulară în jocul interminabil dintre lumină și umbra minții, ce seamănă cu un drum pavat de paradoxuri (încercând să le înţeleg n-aş face decât să mă rătăcesc prin gânduri !) este o acceptare a propriului meu „beginning” care îmi întreţine primordialitatea.

Amuzamentul regizorului

On Ianuarie 22, 2016

Străduieşte-te să obții mai multă claritate asupra a ceea ce realizezi, efectuând un salt în afara valorii hrănite din acumularea individuală de cunoștințe.

Compozitorul rus Dmitry Kabalevsky care îl vizitează în aceste zile pe Prokofiev, notează: „ Ceea ce m-a uimit mai mult în această raţională şi extrem de precisă metodă de lucru era faptul că încadrarea în canavaua de măsuri cu accentele ei dramatice şi psihologice precis aşezate nu-i stânjenea de loc libertatea gândirii creatoare. Scrie muzica pentru film tot atât de inspirat şi cu aceeaşi pasiune cu care scria celelalte compoziţii ale sale în care rămânea stăpân absolut fără nicio îngrădire. "

Odată compusă muzica, Prokofiev i-o cânta la pian lui Eisenstein, urmărind imaginea pe ecran şi cântând tot el partea corului, dar prost, spre amuzamentul regizorului. Muzica astfel înregistrată de probă mai este urmărită împreună cu imaginea şi, dacă ele coincid perfect, Prokofiev scrie partitura de orchestră. În fine, după atente repetiţii cu orchestra, muzica este înregistrată. Ca şi cu prilejul colaborării la filmul istoric „Alexander Nevsky", Eisenstein asistă şi acum la aceste înregistrări. Şi, ca şi atunci, el rămâne fermecat. *****

Leadership: Ecoul exemplificator al acţiunilor celorlalţi se reflectă asupra ta în valoarea TRUE sau FALSE, luând în considerare capacitatea artei de a se întoarce la tine într-un mod neaşteptat, miraculos aproape?

Arta se reflectă în ceea ce creezi diferit de aşteptările obişnuite pe care le ai de la ceilalţi. Una este să creezi pentru a ajuta pe cineva, alta este să creezi pentru atingerea nivelului de excelență la care aspiri.

Diversele forme de sprijin, recunoscute în leadership drept un fel de apreciere și afecţiune, contribuie la satisfacerea necesităţilor de ordin funcţional al omului care vrea să urce cele mai înalte trepte ale măreţiei intelectuale. Dar acest lucru nu-ţi asigură neapărat o satisfacţie în a face lucruri care în mod firesc îţi aduc o stare de bine, o satisfacţie în a depăşi o povocare, în a preţui şi servi arta pe care ţi-ai însuşit-o de timpuriu.

Continuarea diverselor forme de sprijin în vederea stimulării unei pasiuni pentru o disciplină ştiinţifică în care creaţia este punctul forte, duce la o creștere a productivităţii forțelor de semnificaţie. Sau, dimpotrivă, la o scădere a importanţei diverselor stări de spirit - ca fericirea, bucuria, îngrijorarea şi tristețea, arătând fragilitatea devenirii, conflictele interioare cu care se confruntă individul.

Arta se întoarce la tine într-un mod neaşteptat, miraculos aproape, numai dacă renunţi a mai fi victima gusturilor celorlalţi oameni, fiindcă originea caracterului trudnic al artei pretenţioase (aşa cum îl accentuează de regulă avangarda unei generaţii cu atitudine) stă în plăcerea de a şti că meritele tale reale nu se vor răspândi contra ta.

Un artist nu îşi etalează arta pentru a face cuiva pe plac, deci pentru a nu stârni o reacţie adversă, ci după felul sentimentelor care îl stăpânesc, adică după cum predomină cele mai plăcute, încât să nu-şi piardă frumuseţea propriilor sale impresii despre lucrările realizate.

Leadership: Te vezi constrâns să reduci forțele de impact şi semnificaţie ale demersurilor tale de creaţie sub impulsul primar de a fi agent cauzal, de a experimenta voinţa celor care stabilesc cadrul unei schimbări majore de mentalitate?

Forțele de semnificaţie ale demersurilor tale de creaţie, având la bază anumite sondări ale zonei de reprezentativitate, pot reprezinta acele relații reciproce între semnalele de tip „suport" recepţionate de la ceilalţi. Nu este de mirare că efectul instalat după începerea etapei de aplicare a cunoştinţelor, cuprinzând procesele de stimul-reacţie, are ca opţiune de bifare acea stare de spirit debordantă de încredere şi pozitivism care joacă un rol atât de important în jurul libertăţii gândirii creatoare.

Leadershipul, orientat spre reprezentarea unor modele de gândire autentice, întâlnește pe parcursul evoluţiei acea formă de manifestare a bunei-dispoziţii care permite efectuarea unui salt în afara valorii hrănite din acumularea individuală de cunoștințe.

Individul, fermecat de această nebănuită serie de inspiraţie indusă într-o ambiantă plăcută, printr-o stimulare creatoare accentuată prin intermediul unui alt purtător de valori, poate acționa spre o tendinţă de creștere a randamentului, neinhibat de schimbul de experiență.

Libertatea gândirii creatoare este fondul organic înnăscut al temperamentului care se ghidează după dictonul "Eu organizez, eu câştig".

Ecoul exemplificator al acţiunilor de sprijin ale celorlalţi se reflectă asupra ta în valoarea TRUE dacă reușești să-ţi înțelegi atitudinea faţă de ceea ce practici, obținând mai multă claritate asupra a ceea ce vrei să realizezi.

Sau se reflectă asupra ta în valoarea FALSE dacă renunți la experiența unei călătorii fermecate ce ți se deschide înainte spre un altfel de „muzică", care nu se încadrează în tiparele convenţionalului, a cărei finalitate trebuie să fie propria ta reinventare.

A reduce forțele de impact şi semnificaţie ale demersurilor tale de creaţie sub impulsul primar de a experimenta voinţa celor care stabilesc cadrul unei schimbări majore de mentalitate înseamnă să generezi ideea care separă sentimentul de acţiune.

Iar ideea care separă sentimentul de acţiune, întregită printr-o armonioasă şi elocventă expresivitate plastică, se face remarcată prin dispoziţia artistului de a reacţiona contrar impresiilor şi concepţiilor altora. Ideea în artă nu este să fii original sau diferit, ci să fii împăcat cu tine însuţi şi cu ceea ce faci.

Amuzamentul regizorului este rezultatul unei sinergii îndreptate spre o esenţializare a unui stil de gândire, a unei stări sau a unei situații, care poate să trezească bucuria de a fi mai eficient în desfăşurarea activităţii profesionale. Chiar dacă asta înseamnă să renunţi la ceea ce crezi că vor oamenii să fii.

Analiza conceptului de frumos

Dezvoltă-ţi sensibilitatea faţă de ceea ce arată orientarea direcţiei tale vizuale, reacţionând mai intens la stimulii de "ridicare la alt nivel" a reprezentării unei entităţi de admiraţie reciprocă.

- Albrecht Durer nu a fost numai un mare pictor, dar și un geometru pasionat. Am putea spune că era un matematician înnăscut, fiindcă în cărțile pe care le-a scris, deși erau adresate tinerilor pictori, se găsesc probleme importante legate de teoria proporțiilor, a tăieturii de aur, a secțiunilor conice, de poliedrele regulate sau semi-regulate, de trisecția unghiului și duplicarea cubului, ba chiar și unele anticipări asupra geometriei analitice. Aceste probleme au stârnit admirația lui Galilei și Kepler.

Contactul cu Italia, evoluția studiilor asupra proporțiilor, reflectarea profundă la problemele artei l-au dus pe Albrecht Durer până acolo unde gândirea teoreticienilor italieni nici măcar nu se abătuse - la analiza conceptului de frumos, la dezbaterea esenței și cognoscibilităţii acestuia. Italienii nu se întrebau dacă frumosul poate fi definit. Dar Albrecht Durer era convins că se poate afirma în mod obiectiv ce este frumos și că se pot stabili legile estetice ale acelui ideal unic, conducător. Poate că numai Leonardo a intuit, ce-i drept problema subliniind că există o varietate de frumosuri și diferite aprecieri estetice.

- Așa-i. Știu că Leonardo s-a exprimat în felul următor: "Chipurile frumoase sunt diferite, după cum diferite sunt și preferințele pentru frumos".

- Mă gândesc la impresia pe care a făcut-o Leonardo da Vinci asupra lui Durer. Căci de văzut, l-a văzut. Poate că l-a auzit chiar rostind acele vorbe, rămase în capitolul VII, intitulat "Despre perspectivă" din Tratatul despre Pictură: "Pictorului îi este necesară matematica, aparţinând artei sale. Tu trebuie săstudiezi întâi știința, apoi va veni practica acestei științe. Perspectiva este ghidul și ușa, fără ea nu se poate face nimic bun în pictură".

Leadership: Ai capacitatea de a memora şi reprezenta expresiv şi durabil evenimentele pe care le-ai trăit, pe linia specială a unei arte care corespunde în mod ştiinţific nevoilor spirituale ale creatorilor?

- Sunt aproape sigur de asta, o arată replica lui Durer în prefața la prima lui carte pe care a scris-o după ce s-a întors din Italia, nişte îndrumări pentru măsurători cu compasul și rigla: "Deși îndemânarea necesită numai o mână liberă, opera executată în acest caz este inconștientă și făcută numai după fantezie. Privind această operă, pictorii înțelegători și adevăraţii artiști trebuie să râdă de orbirea acelor executanți, fiindcă unei adevărate înțelegeri nimic nu-i apare mai displăcut decât falsitatea în pictură, chiar dacă aceasta a fost pictată cu destulă sârguinţă. Faptul că asemenea pictori găsesc plăcere în greșeala lor vine de acolo că ei n-au învățat arta măsurării, fără de care nu poate exista și nu poate fi un meșter adevărat".

- Albrecht Durer și-a manifestat dragostea sau poate cultul pentru geometrie și prin gravura lui, în aramă, intitulată "Melancolia I", pe care a executat-o în 1514 după ce s-a întors din cea de-a doua călătorie în Italia și se pare că sub impresia durerii pe care i-a pricinuit-o moartea mamei lui. În această gravură, care a fost de multe ori și în diverse feluri comentată, Melancolia a luat chipul geometriei, fiind înaripată și ținând în mână un compas. Este îngrijorată. La ce se gândeşte ? Nu a putut stabili legea care leagă frumosul de matematică? La picioarele ei se află o sferă, la dreapta ei un imens dodecaedru și deasupra capului, pe un perete, se vede un pătrat magic, de ordinul patru, ceea ce arată că pe lângă problemele de geometrie pură, pe Durer l-a mai interesat și această problemă, deloc ușoară, din teoria numerelor. Jucându-mă odată cu acest pătrat, a cărui sumă a cifrelor este 34, m-am întrebat dacă nu cumva Durer a ales acest număr drept constantă a pătratului său, fiindcă în acel an el împlinea tocmai 43 de ani ?

- Asta s-ar putea să fie o simplă coincidență, dar nu-i tot o simplă coincidență faptul că ai remarcat acest pătrat magic. Cred că poate fi un subiect foarte atrăgător pentru viitoarea noastră întâlnire. Ești de acord ?

În leadership se pot identifica două nevoi spirituale specifice creatorilor: nevoia de a lega ştiinţa de artă, şi nevoia de a transforma datele realităţii în vederea construirii unei imagini care să te valideze drept "un fragment din ceva şi mai mare".

Analiza conceptului de frumos este realizată întotdeauna numai de către un artist care face o artă abstractă bună, încercând să exprime realitate prin intermediul imaginilor care utilizează asocieri libere cu alte domenii, precum matematica, optica sau fizica. Aici artistul poate include diferite grade de simbolizare, sugerând sensul de "măsură" prin însăşi forma unui corelativ obiectiv.

Există o sensibilitate în artă, datorată în primul rând admiraţiei reciproce între artişti din diferite domenii care au reuşit să contopească diferite ştiinţe între ele, exprimându-le simbolic în diferite imagini menite să-i lege de Marea Ştiinţă. Pentru asta ei şi-au dezvoltat sensibilitatea faţă de ceea ce arăta orientarea direcţiei lor vizuale.

De exemplu, ca să ridice la alt nivel reprezentarea unei entităţi de admiraţie reciprocă, Albrecht Durer şi-a oglindit măiestria preluând în propria lui Operă diverse idei din lucrările lui Leonardo da Vinci.

Analiza Sinelui

On Aprilie 07, 2009

Deschide poarta spre adevăratul sine, ridicându-te la înălţimea a ceea ce-ţi dictează conştiinţa.

- Cine eşti? îl întrebă marele Bill Parrish, fondatorul şi preşedintele corporaţiei Parrish Communications, pe străinul care poposise la el acasă.

- Gândeşte-te la milenii înmulţite cu eoni, la o scară infinită. Atât măsoară existenţa mea, dar numai de curând mi-au stârnit interesul afacerile tale ! răspunse liniştit străinul.

Ce vrei de la mine? De ce nu mă laşi să-mi trăiesc viaţa cum doresc eu, atât cât mai am de trăit?

Tu eşti alesul, Bill... Vreau să-mi arăţi lumea. Să fii ghidul meu. În schimb, vei primi timp. Minute, zile, săptămâni. Nu o să intru în detalii. Contează doar să-mi menţii interesul treaz.

Leadership: Refuzul de a-ţi sacrifica propriile aşteptări şi interese denotă viziunea ta pentru anii ce au să urmeze, mai ales dacă îţi recunoşti slăbiciunea în faţa fatalităţii, în faţa unei voinţe care te transcende şi în faţa căreia te arăţi neputincios, copleşit, debusolat?

Dacă ai văzut filmul „ Meet Joe Black (1998) " probabil îţi aminteşti influenţa pe care Prinţul Întunericului a avut-o asupra lui Bill Parrish. Mersul normal al vieţii lui Bill a fost afectat într-o asemenea măsură, încât şi-a periclitat statutul, funcţia, imaginea, credibilitatea, deci relaţiile cu ceilalţi. Fiecare pas pe care îl făcea, fiecare gând pe care mintea lui îl elibera, fiecare clipă pe care o trăia era o străduinţă dusă până dincolo de limitele propriului caracter. Se schimbase total. Începuse să devină ineficient în multe din acţiunile sale - mărturii ale gândurilor şi ale sentimentelor de nesiguranţă ce-l stăpâneau.

Influenţa lui Joe Black asupra lui Bill se asemăna cu o fiară fără chip care înainta implacabil spre teritoriul firav al conştiinţei sale, care îi dicta purtarea, determinându-l să se ascundă în sine şi să nu divulge nimănui ceea ce simte. Un coşmar care devine o crudă realitate. Nimeni nu poate însă ghici câte eforturi sufleteşti îl costa pe Bill fiecare moment petrecut în preajma lui Joe Black. Neliniştea pusese stăpânire pe el, fiind dominat exclusiv de lumea lui lăuntrică, şi mai puţin de deciziile importante ce trebuiau luate. Degeaba se străduia să revină grabnic la ritmul normal, totul părea fără speranţă.

Leadership: Prezența unei forţe care iese în evidenţă în locul nepotrivit poate să adauge organizare laturii tale îndrăzneţe, sau îţi conferă o perspectivă sceptică asupra vieţii cu care te vei confrunta mai departe?

Alternanţele gândurilor şi stărilor sufleteşti ale lui Bill reprezintă un exemplu minunat de auto-analiză psihologică, prin care poţi rămâne surprins de multitudinea nuanţelor sentimentelor umane ce apar mai ales în situaţii limită. Întreaga lui fiinţă a fost în întregime schimbată, sub controlul foarte atent şi riguros al lui Joe Black.

Dar, la un moment dat, Bill, contrar aşteptărilor lui Joe Black, a luat atitudine şi a acţionat numai după voia lui, făcând abstracţie de orice temeri şi nesiguranţe. El a pus piciorul în prag şi i-a spus lui Joe: „Nu mă interesează ce vrei tu ! ”

Şi tu cred că ai face la fel. Căci oricât de mare ar fi influenţa altora, conştiinţa ta nu poate să funcţioneze pe „pilot automat”. Sinele îţi cunoaşte toate ungherele conştiinţei tale, şi se opune oricăror forme de exploatare, oricăror influenţe nocive străine. Conştiinţa ta funcţionează pe „pilot automat”?

Dacă vrei ca leadershipul tău să-şi păstreze valoarea atunci trebuie să continui lupta îndelungată de creare a unui zid de apărare sau a unui antidot eficient împotriva oricărui tip de otravă. Ceea ce îţi poate otrăvi structura ta interioară este tocmai acea forţă nemiloasă, persistentă a influenţei pe care o au ceilalţi asupra ta. Dacă nu reuşeşti să-ţi aperi rezerva de sănătate morală şi calitatea valorilor tale etice, opunându-te oricăror idei, mentalităţi şi practici dăunătoare, vei rămâne întotdeauna la mâna celorlalţi. Vrei să fii un prizonier al influenţei celorlalţi, un robot care execută ordinele, sau un om liber?

Leadershipul este rezultatul unei voinţe care decurge dintr-un acord, anterior proclamării alegerii tale ca mesager al destinului, dintre o forţă obscură care te ghidează în viaţă şi acea ostentativă etalare a mândriei tale de a nu fi în rând cu lumea.

Analiza Sinelui este primul pas către buna funcţionare a leadershipului tău. Este lucrul cel mai important de care trebuie să ţii cont dacă vrei să-ţi păstrezi poziţia de lider. Aşa cum un regizor încearcă să facă din fiecare cadru un tablou desăvârşit, tot aşa şi tu trebuie să încerci să faci din conştiinţa ta un bastion al susţinerii întregului tău spectru interior.

Analiza Sinelui este sinonim cu auto-analiza propriei persoane, ceea ce pentru un lider care tinde, dacă nu spre perfecţiune, spre acel normal de a nu greşi, este deosebit de important. Cineva spunea că perfect este doar Dumnezeu, iar în comparaţie cu El toţi suntem mai mult sau mai puţin imperfecţi. Prin această auto-analiză (inclusiv a propriei capabilităţi) trebuie mai ales să ajungem la concluzia că nu greşim, că nu am căzut sub influenţele nocive a acelora care intenţionat sau neintenţionat vor să ne abată din drum – mai ales a acelora care oferă „recompense” într-un fel sau altul, făcând un fel de troc cu conştiinţa ta, sau care consideră conştiinţa ta că este obiectul unui contract de vânzare-cumpărare.

Anatomia unei arte

On Octombrie 28, 2010

Exprimă-ţi autoritatea faţă de arta pe care o stăpâneşti, marcându-ţi diferenţa de stil printr-o continuitate a propriei tale creaţii.

Henri Matisse, unul dintre cei trei artişti care au contribuit la evoluţia artelor plastice în primele decenii ale secolului 20, i-a scris la un moment dat marelui pictor român, Theodor Pallady: "Într-un tablou, culoarea este masculul."

La care pictorul român i-a răspuns: "Dimpotrivă, culoarea este elementul feminin al tabloului; ea are nevoie de sprijinul desenului, în timp ce acesta poate fi de sine stătător ! "

Pentru Matisse intensitatea culorii a însemnat un element predominant şi un ţel. Însă Pallady, dimpotrivă, n-a îngăduit niciodată culorii să atingă pragul exaltării. Mai mult decât atât, culoarea, deşi a jucat un rol important în creaţia lui, a rămas întotdeauna pentru el un element secundar. În timp ce stilul lui Matisse se baza îndeosebi pe tăria brutală a contrastelor de culoare, stilul lui Pallady se impunea prin calmul armoniilor lui compoziţionale. *

Leadership: Stilul care defineşte autenticitatea creaţiei tale vine în acord cu valoarea pe care o atribui unui conţinut care nu este capabil de semnificaţie prin natura sa?

Un lider iscusit îşi marchează întotdeauna stilul prin modul în care îşi exprimă solidaritatea şi ataşamentul faţă de propria sa „creaţie", faţă de propriile sale performanţe, fără să încline spre un stil care nu-i convine, care nu-i defineşte valorile şi principiile după care îşi ghidează existenţa. El îşi foloseşte abilităţile pentru a se apropia cât mai mult de modelul de leadership pe care îl reprezintă, menţinând acea continuitate lină şi neîntreruptă care îi permite să devină stăpânul mijloacelor, al posibilităţilor pe care le oferă arta sa, printr-o depăşire a performanţelor sale individuale.

Arta, pentru un lider, este o repetiţie generală a propriei sale înţelegeri despre ce reprezintă realitatea, cum evoluează ea, încercând s-o modeleze după propriile sale criterii de evaluare, după propriul său ritm de evoluţie, după propriile sale idei, după propriile sale legi determinate de gradul său de educaţie şi instruire, după propriile sale posibilităţi intelectuale, după interesele proprii şi după trăsăturile sale de caracter.

Leadershipul este o artă subtilă pentru cei care înţeleg cu adevărat miezul ei. Liderii cei mai buni nu creează o artă fără un profund sentiment, fără o doctrina clară. La fel ca marii pictori, liderii sesizează forma în care străluceşte magnific o idee, în care se reliefează o viziune, identificând şi revizuind mereu esenţa ei până obţin acea imagine clară, mult dorită, a reuşitei lor.

Elementul dominant al creaţiei tale este în acord cu rolul pe care ţi-l asumi - acela de artist care se ridică la înălţimea provocării de a-şi asuma o viziune suprapusă peste realitatea celorlalţi?

Aşa cum un regizor de film este dator să se gândească înainte de toate la ceea ce nu trebuie să apară în peliculele sale, tot aşa şi tu, pentru ca arta pe care o creezi să aibă un rost şi să devină realitate, o realitate folositoare şi atractivă, eşti dator să te gândeşti înainte de toate la ceea ce nu trebuie să apară în cadrul ei. Trebuie să analizezi atent influenţa netă şi uşor detectabila pe care arta ta o are asupra celorlalţi, redirecţionându-ţi atenţia, gândurile şi interesele către necesităţile lor, asigurând un leadership de calitate orientat în aceeaşi direcţie cu a lor.

O artă cu un conţinut fără esenţă sau fără formă este ca un telefon scos din priză, înseamnă o rupere de propria ta valoare şi chiar faţă de realitate. Dacă vrei să străluceşti în ochii celorlalţi, dacă vrei ca arta ta să folosească altora şi să fie apreciată, trebuie să-ţi dezvolţi acele calităţi care te diferenţiază de ceilalţi şi care să consolideze imaginea solidă şi de încredere a leadershipului tău.

O viziune care este suprapusă peste realitatea celorlalţi oameni are ca prim constituent punctul de vedere al formei şi al conţinutului pe care îl transmiţi, în aşa fel încât să nu fii "o pată de culoare închisă peste una mai deschisa".

Anatomia unei arte desemnează acea structură intrinsecă, profundă a leadershipului tău, prin care îţi exprimi sentimentele, punctele de vedere, stilul şi personalitatea. Dacă o bună parte din stilul tău de leadership este comun concepţiei celorlalţi despre leadership, înseamnă că arta pe care ai creat-o şi pe care o practici şi-a atins menirea, înseamnă că este autentica şi ajunge la cei mai mulţi oameni.

Concluzie: Se spune că stilul face omul. Iar acest lucru îi deosebeşte pe unii oameni de alţi oameni. Stilul unui lider se recunoaşte din felul lui de-a fi, din felul cum îşi construieşte sistemul de valori, imaginea, după felul cum îşi exercită autoritatea, de felul cum îşi foloseşte propriile energii, în ce direcţie şi le îndreaptă. Aşa încât apare şi reciproca: omul face stilul.

Pentru a stârni interesul celorlalţi, adoptă un stil propriu fără elemente de împrumut, fără discontinuităţi, şi liber acceptat de tine însuţi, dovedind că eşti o autoritate în acest domeniu.

Exprimă-ţi autoritatea faţă de arta pe care o stăpâneşti, marcându-ţi diferenţa de stil printr-o continuitate a propriei tale creaţii.

Antichristul

On Decembrie 31, 2023

Ochii sunt o fereastră către cunoaștere, dar mulți preferă să privească în întuneric.

Dumnezeu ne-a dat ochii ca să vedem lumina învăţăturilor sale, dar mulţi şi-i folosesc ca să umble în beznă. Concluzia asta am tras-o în urma unei scurte conversaţii purtate cu o bibliotecară din incinta unei universităţi din Iaşi. Surprins, am constat cum un om atât de simplu, liber în a-şi exprima gândurile, a putut să grăiască nişte adevăruri alese. Şi ea mi-a spus, cu luare aminte, într-un acces de sinceritate:

"În fiecare an sunt date la casat mii de cărţi, pentru maculatură, şi nimeni nu le salvează. Profesorii nu mai sunt profesori, ci sunt doar nişte gropari, fiindcă tocmai ei au aprobat totul. Oare profesorii ăştia de pe ce-au învăţat? Ce respect au ei pentru învăţătura primită din partea altora?"

În altă zi, m-am reîntors la bibliotecă. Sub un birou era un teanc de cărţi mai vechi, prăfuite, trecute parcă prin rândurile unei vremi uitate, reprezentând o serie de volume de psihologie din anii '67. Mi s-a permis să răsfoiesc unul din volume, şi printre rânduri bine scrise, ca niște frânturi ale unor povești străvechi care conturează imagini tainice în mintea cititorilor, am întâlnit o legătură stranie cu o veche biserică catolică din care n-au rămas decât nişte ruine.

Instant, din memorie mi-au revenit cuvintele uitate din romanul "Numele Trandafirului":

"Neputinţa asta a mea de a vedea cum trebuie este poate efectul umbrei pe care marele întuneric care se apropie o aruncă asupra lumii încărunţite. Cu cât îmi citesc mie însumi povestea de aici, cu atât izbutesc mai puţin să pricep dacă în ea există vreo urzeală care merge dincolo de desfăşurarea firească a întâmplărilor şi a timpurilor ce o încheagă. Şi este un lucru greu pentru mine să nu ştiu dacă litera pe care am scris-o cuprinde în ea vreun înţeles ascuns, sau dacă are mai mult de unul, şi multe, sau nici unul."

Leadership: Amintirile care te inspiră pot să formeze ecouri ale unor evenimente trecute, prin filtrul unei transfigurări interioare care dă o nouă viață experiențelor tale de cunoaştere?

Am recitit acele câteva rânduri din volumul prăfuit, câteva minute bune, cu speranţa de a găsi în ele o înţelegere mai profundă. Mai mult, am reflectat la cuvintele plăsmuitoare de sensuri care, nesocotind curgerea vremii, şi-au făcut loc imediat în inima mea, tot așa cum culorile își fac loc în paleta unui pictor, doar mult mai subtil. Una din doamnele bibliotecare mi-a spus că acele volume vechi erau puse deoparte pentru a fi trimise la casat, şi deoarece aveau ştampila bibliotecii nu puteau fi împrumutate oricui.

Aşa că imediat am scris mesaj unui bun prieten al meu, profesor universitar cu mare influenţă, al cărui birou nu cred că era prea departe de incinta bibliotecii. Atât i-am scris: "nu lăsa cărţile să se piardă, ci dă-mi-le cu împrumut ca să le fotocopiez cu telefonul."

I-am scris mai multe mesaje bunului meu prieten, marele profesor universitar. El a citit mesajele, dar nu mi-a răspuns nici până acum. Singurul semn din partea lui, după câteva săptămâni, a reprezentat un cumul de imagini făcute într-un minunat sejur în străinătate, la un maraton în Grecia. Cât despre volumele vechi, singurele martore tăcute ale trecutului, aproape sigur au fost trimise la casat, iar din ele nu a mai rămas nicio urmă. Nimic nu s-a salvat.

Doar amintirea acelor rânduri vii, cuceritoare, scrise cu cerneală roşie, însemnând o pagină întreagă, mai încălzeşte memoria mea. Cu câtă grijă au fost scrise, cu suflet şi din suflet ! Presupun că acest detaliu este demn de personajul William of Baskerville care, cu ultimele puteri, a reuşit să salveze câteva manuscrise vechi din mănăstirea benedictină, înainte ca focul să o cuprindă de-a întregul. Eu, totuşi, n-am reuşit să salvez nimic.

Leadership: Poţi să priveşti schimbarea cum trece prin faţa ta, fără să fii pus în situaţia de a sta martor la evenimentele care să pot îndurereze nădejdile tale?

Aşadar, am apelat la cineva care avea puterea de a salva mii de pagini pline de cunoaştere, dar aşa cum preciza şi eroul lui Umberto Eco: "Ultimele eforturi n-au mai ajutat la nimic. Cum ar putea un înţelept să comunice ştiinţa sa, dacă îi lipseşte dovada cunoaşterii sale? Poate că manuscrisele au fost condamnate de propriul lor refuz de a fi cunoscute, de taina pe care o păstrau? De un lucru sunt sigur: antichristul se apropie cu adevărat, pentru că nicio înţelepciune nu-i mai stă în cale."

Întunericul ignoranței se întinde peste lume, ca o pânză a diavolului care învăluie tot ce este viu. Îndeosebi, cunoașterea se pierde exact ca o lumină care se stinge, ca o floare care se ofilește. Iar prin ignoranţa lor, artizanii întunericului ţin lumea în beznă prin refuzul salvării cunoașterii, aceeaşi indivizi mediocri care n-au învăţat nimic din cărţi, şi cărora cărţile nu le folosesc la nimic. Într-adevăr, ei au puterea şi autoritatea de a salva multă cunoaştere, dar în schimb lasă totul să moară. Ceea ce se întâmplă astăzi, casarea cărţilor fără a fi salvate în prealabil pe internet, este similar cu arderea miilor de manuscrise din timpul inchiziţiei (1490-1500). Oamenii inteligenţi din vremurile trecute au avut ceva de spus, iar sistemul le-a închis gura.

Cei ce apără știința sunt gardienii cunoașterii, pe când ceilalți se numesc gropari ai învățăturilor curate, ignoranța dezvăluindu-le natura uşuratică, mentalitatea superficială, marea lor indiferenţă. Ei sunt sunt creatorii uitării, nu ai renașterii. Ei sunt răul în această lume, acelaşi suflet hain de inchizitor din vremurile trecute care încă persistă.

Leadership: Gândurile tale pot să formeze întregul unui univers din bucăţi răsfirate, privind cu ochii minții lucrurile pe care alții nu le văd?

Mâna lui Dumnezeu creează, nu ascunde, şi nu aruncă nimic în uitare. Frânturile de gânduri din acel volum învechit, rămase în memoria mea ca nişte puzzle-uri, ecouri ale unor străvechi morale sociale, până să formeze întregul, încă îmi stârnesc întrebări şi curiozităţi, purtându-mă cu gândul la evenimentele vremii. O parte din marile opere ale omenirii au fost salvate, majoritatea au pierit. Şi încercând să pun cap la cap cuvintele din acea pagină, rămase şi acum în memorie, cu ochii care văd lucrurile pe care alţii nu le văd, mă regăsesc din nou în romanul "Numele Trandafirului":

"Din portalul bisericii rămăseseră puţine urme, roase de mucegai, deşi trecuseră atâtea decenii. Scormonind printre resturi găseam uneori bucăţi de pergament, căzute din scriptorium şi din bibliotecă, supravieţuind ca nişte comori îngropate în pământ. Am început să le adun, ca şi cum ar fi trebuit să fac la loc foile unei cărţi.

De-a lungul unei bucăţi de zid am găsit un dulap, stând încă uimitor de drept lângă perete, scăpat de foc, nu ştiu cum, găurit de apă şi de insecte. În el mai erau încă nişte foi. Pe altele, sfâşiate, le-am găsit scormonind prin ruinele de jos. A fost o recoltă săracă, dar mi-am petrecut o zi întreagă ca s-o strâng, ca şi când de la acele "disiecta membra" ale bibliotecii ar fi trebuit să primesc o vestire. Unele bucăţi de pergament erau decolorate, altele lăsau să se mai străvadă umbra vreunui chip, uneori fantoma vreunui cuvânt sau a mai multora. Uneori am găsit foi pe care se puteau citi fraze întregi, mai uşor găseam legături încă neatinse, apărate de altele care avuseseră paftale de metal. Larve de cărţi, părând încă sănătoase pe dinafară, dar devorate pe dinăuntru; şi totuşi, uneori, câte o jumătate de pagină scăpase, se zărea pe ea câte un incipit, câte un titlu…"

Leadership: Discernământul pe care îl exerciți față de nişte detalii memorabile poate să apere o creație de mare valoare spirituală, încât ceea ce simți în suflet să nu piară în uitare?

Dumnezeu este ceea ce rămâne în suflet, nu ceea ce piere în uitare. Puţine, atât câte au fost, cuvintele acelea atât de adânc înrădăcinate în memoria mea au stârnit nevoia de a scrie acest articol. Ele au sădit înţelegere, înmugurind gânduri și simțiri ca niște flori nevăzute, dar pline de esența vieții. În lumina lor, mi-am contemplat esența existenței, iar ce-am scris aici sunt ca stelele pe cerul nopții. Ele au fost călăuze, îndrumându-mă prin întunericul incertitudinilor și oferindu-mi un far în marșul meu prin labirintul realității. Sau poate că, ale mele cuvinte sunt o oglindă a povestirii lui Umberto Eco, care conţine un tâlc ascuns la final:

"Am cules toate rămăşiţele care se puteau găsi şi am umplut cu ele doi saci de călătorie, aruncând lucruri care-mi erau de trebuinţă pentru a salva comoara aceea mizeră. Toate fragmentele, propoziţii şi fraze neterminate, voi şti să le pun cap la cap, să le conturez în alt mod, încât din puţinul lor să creez ceva măreţ.

De-a lungul drumului de întoarcere şi apoi la Melk, mi-am petrecut multe şi multe ore încercând să descifrez vestigiile acelea. Adesea am recunoscut, după un cuvânt sau după o imagine rămasă, despre ce operă era vorba. Când am regăsit, după aceea, alte copii ale acelor cărţi, le-am studiat cu dragoste, ca şi cum soarta mi-ar fi lăsat acea moştenire, ca şi cum faptul de a fi descoperit copia distrusă ar fi fost un semn neîndoielnic din cer care spunea "Toile et Lege". La sfârşitul răbdătoarei mele realcătuiri mi s-a însăilat în minte o mică bibliotecă, semn al celei mari, care dispăruse, o bibliotecă făcută din bucăţi, citate, fraze neterminate, rupturi de cărţi.

Paginile acestea neterminate m-au însoţit toată viaţa care mi-a mai rămas de trăit de atunci, le-am cercetat ca pe un oracol, şi mi se pare chiar că tot ceea ce am scris atunci pe foile acestea, pe care le citeşti tu, cititorule necunoscut, nu e altceva decât o mixtură, "un carme a figura", adică un nesfârşit acrostih care nu spune şi nu repetă altceva decât ceea ce mi-au şoptit acele fragmente. Şi nu mai ştiu dacă până acum eu am vorbit despre ele, sau ele au vorbit prin gura mea…"

Vederea divină se deprinde în lumina unei avuții tăinuite, cu ajutorul gândului de a salva cunoașterea ca pe o creație măreață, receptând ecoul unei imagini rămasă în amintire.

Antichristul este un om total lipsit de cunoaștere, care nu poate să recunoască o avere în reprezentarea subtilă a unor opere, fiind orbit de iluzia unei pretinse atotcunoașteri. El urmează doar întunericul care îi arată calea, ca pe un fel de busolă în viața sa. În loc să se orienteze după lumina și claritatea învăţăturilor, el alege să meargă în direcția întunericului, ghidându-se după obscuritate și necunoscut. Astfel, întunericul devine pentru el un ghid, o sursă de călăuzire în locul luminii divinului.

În acest caz, este de ajuns să părăsești gândul de a salva cunoașterea, pentru a vedea totul risipindu-se precum nisipul în vânt.

Apa înseamnă sânge

On Decembrie 26, 2015

Încearcă-ţi măiestria în a da naştere unei creaţii autentice, găsind acel ceva dincolo de imaginație care să se poată materializa într-o schimbare lăuntrică.

În timp ce Emirul din Kharesm îşi face în genunchi rugăciunea în oraşul asediat, prizonierii din jurul lui, care au ordinul să repare zidul de apărare, strigă disperaţi: "Apă ! Apă ! Nu avem apă cu care să amestecăm mortarul ! Ce să facem?" Atunci emirul dă ordin ostaşilor săi: "Amestecaţi mortarul cu sângele lor". Şi îşi continua rugăciunea în timp de ordinul lui este executat.

Acelaşi val de cruzime inundă şi acest film. Moartea domină începutul lui şi, tot ca în filmul mexican, triumful vieţii îl va încheia. "De două ori – pe ideea: apa înseamnă sânge – stihia apei trece cu forţa ei distrugătoare, aducând după ea moarte, vărsare de sânge şi victorie asupra omului. Iar a treia oară apare sensul autentic al acestei idei despre apă ca sângele dătător de viaţă…"

Ţesăturile filmelor lui Eisenstein sunt toate făcute cu aceleaşi fibre, aceleaşi teme se întrepătrund, revin şi se dezvoltă obsesiv în fiecare operă a sa. *

Leadership: Poţi să configurezi o imagine a realităţii care abundă de intensitatea unor trăiri rezultate din acțiunea unei povești pline de culoare, prin declanşarea unei atitudini de spirit superior îndreptată spre o singură țintă: "Să fie cum vreau eu ! " ?

Prima acțiune de impunere a unei idei personale într-un montaj creativ, rezultate din adâncurile vii ale unei viziuni artistice generoase, se poate justifica prin faptul că nu se încadrează întotdeauna în standardul de referinţă al celor care înțeleg importanța unei experienţe memorabile prin substanța și consistența mesajului pe care ea îl poartă. Imaginea realităţii la care face referire regizorul este îndreptată întotdeauna spre o singură ţintă: "să fie cum vreau eu", fiindcă el ţine să-şi arate puterea creaţiei faţă de tot ce este pus înaintea faptelor.

De asemenea, montajul ne trimite la acel "Să fie cum vreau eu ! ", respectiv la acţiunea posesorie asupra unei actualizări a realităţii, folosită pentru a întrepătrunde o temă veche cu o lume nouă, sau o realitate transformată în ficțiune. Ceva care nu se pierde prin vizualizare, ci staționează multă vreme în mintea omului prin impactul declanșat de o explozie puternică - un efect al variabilei numite „argument credibil".

Leadershipul este un promotor al argumentului credibil, declanşând o anumită emoție în rândul oamenilor ca mijloc de reprezentare a unei noi perspective de cunoaştere a lumii prin lentila unei reacţii afective, intelectuale şi artistice.

Altfel spus, înainte să dai viaţă unei idei de scenariu trebuie să începi prin a găsi o raţiune cu care să explici totul, de la ce se vede la ceea ce nu se vede, să faci analiza lucrurilor care alcătuiesc prin însăşi natura lor realitatea obiectivă. Scenariul este o poveste plină de culoare pe care nu o poate recepta oricine dacă mai întâi de toate nu este crezută, sau dacă nu este dezvăluită însăşi esenţa ei.

Leadership: Poţi să creşti intensitatea unor trăiri rezultate din acțiunea unei povești considerată drept o modalitate de exprimare a unor concepţii, sentimente despre lume şi viaţă, într-o formă artistică?

Argumentul credibil, în cadrul unui tablou unitar, coerent, unde realitatea poate respira chiar și în aburul ficţiunii, întărește legătura cu acel ceva care te face să simți, ceva care este dincolo de imaginația și așteptările tale, deci care se poate materializa într-o schimbare lăuntrică - ca și când ai fi trăit personal o experiență inedită. Aici nu ne referim doar la faptele înregistrate pe peliculă, ci la motivele şi simbolismul din spatele faptelor ce servesc drept transpunere a sentimentelor într-o formă de creaţie.

A găsi o modalitate de exprimare a unor concepţii, sentimente despre lume şi viaţă într-o formă artistică înseamnă de fapt să conştientizezi relaţia dintre ceea ce experimentezi în mod direct şi ceea ce experimentezi printr-o trăire a omului transformat de iureşul evenimentelor, din punctul de vedere al teoriei de film care spune că: "o înşiruire de imagini se caracterizează prin existenţa unui singur fond".

Cine privește pe web, de pildă, imaginea unei destinaţii turistice care se repetă pe numeroase site-uri, va reuşi să se oprească din căutatul continuu al unei posibile opţiuni mai bune doar dacă aceasta oferă garanţia unei experiențe memorabile.

Dar, să nu uităm pe această cale, ce spuneau frații Heath în cartea lor „Idei cu impact garantat": „ Dacă încercăm să convingem un public sceptic să creadă de veridicitatea unui mesaj nou, realitatea este că vom duce o luptă anevoioasă împotriva cunoştinţelor și relațiilor sociale pe care individul și le-a format de-a lungul unei vieți întregi. "

Un regizor trebuie să dea scenariului și peliculei o notă personală reconstituind acţiunea unei poveşti pe baza imaginilor prezentate şi slujindu-se de aceste imagini pentru a impune propria interpretare a evenimentelor din viaţa sa.

Apa înseamnă sânge exprimă de fapt o imagine a realităţii, redată prin culoare, dar care declanşează o emoţie puternică. Regizorii cei mai buni ştiu sa creeze o poveste reală, oferind posibilitatea de a "intra mai adânc" în miezul ei, folosind chiar imagini fantastice.

Aparenţa care ucide sufletele superioare

On Ianuarie 20, 2015

Impune-te prin puterea convingerilor pe care le rulezi continuu, astfel încât să-ţi găseşti un rost în rândurile interpretării vieţii.

Monte Cristo ieşi cu sufletul adânc mâhnit din casa unde o lăsă pe Mercedes, pe care, după toate probabilităţile, nu avea s-o mai revadă niciodată. De la moartea lui Edouard o mare schimbare se săvârşise în el. Ajuns la culmea răzbunării, pe povârnişul domol şi întortocheat pe unde urcase, zărise de cealaltă parte a crestei prăpastia îndoielii. Mai mult decât atât: convorbirea cu Mercedes îi trezise atâtea amintiri în inimă, încât amintirile acestea aveau ele însele nevoie să fie înfrânte.

Un om cu firea lui Monte Cristo nu putea pluti multă vreme în melancolia care poate face să trăiască minţile obişnuite dându-le o aparenţă de originalitate, dar care ucide sufletele superioare. Contele îşi spuse că din moment ce ajunsese aproape până la a se mustra singur, trebuia să i se fi strecurat o greşeală în calcule.

"Nu privesc bine trecutul şi pesemne că nu mă înşel chiar într-atâta. Cum - continuă el - scopul meu să fi fost oare nesăbuit? Să fi mers oare de zece ani pe o cale greşită? O oră să fie de ajuns ca să-i dovedească arhitectului suprem că opera tuturor nădejdilor lui era dacă nu imposibilă, cel puţin nelegiuită?

Nu vreau să mă obişnuiesc cu ideea asta. Ea m-ar putea înnebuni." *****

Leadership: Testezi superioritatea sau inferioritatea poziţiei tale faţă de linia zero, în aria unei sume de reflexiuni despre sine?

În raporturile cu existenţa, leadershipul poate fi rezultatul cunoaşterii de sine ce decurge din cercetarea faptelor pozitive sau negative, administrând unitatea inconfundabilă a omului produsă în momentele trăite în fiecare zi, integrând esenţa nevoii lui de a-şi asigura un sens de urmat.

Spre deosebire de alte ştiinţe, leadershipul trece, în raporturile cu realitatea complexă, prin stadiul declinului autorităţii omului - atunci când el întâlneşte faptele şi constrângerile fireşti ale consecinţelor din timpul procesului de schimbare.

Trebuie să rămâi puternic în timpul tranziţiei spre un alt tip de om, chiar dacă asta implică o adâncire deopotrivă în suprasensibil, străbătând cu stoicism câmpul îndoielilor şi deznădejdilor mai ales atunci când trecutul te ajunge din urmă, apăsând pe tine cu forţe nebănuite.

Identificarea căii pe care trebuie să înaintezi, în condiţiile unei vulnerabilizări a sinelui care poate să degenereze într-o renunţare totală la sensul propriei fiinţe, este procesul cu adevărat greoi de reformare – dar reprezintă testul de confirmare a superiorităţii tale.

Leadership: Viziunea care predomină în zona ta de control creează un sentiment al zădărniciei, determinat de ideea că nimic nu e statornic în timp?

Modificarea semnificaţiilor atribuite situaţiilor de viaţă în care reacţionezi neajutorat, fără conştiinţa propriilor alegeri şi fără putinţa de a schimba cursul lucrurilor, dincolo de aparenţele înşelătoare ale realităţii, este punctul de plecare al unei reflexiuni despre sine – care cade şi asupra leadershipului, fiindcă testează superioritatea sau inferioritatea poziţiei tale faţă de linia zero.

Linia zero reprezintă perioada de referinţă în care predomină abaterile de la rigorile experienţelor de viaţă, ajustările de valoare sau toleranţele conştiinţei. În funcţie de lungimea acestei linii depinde devenirea ta, atribuirea unui sens major experienţelor, întărirea sentimentului valorii de sine şi găsirea unui anumit rost în rândurile interpretării vieţii.

Un lider se impune prin puterea convingerilor pe care le cucereşte în urma luptei îndelungate cu propriile limite, slăbiciuni şi eşecuri, în încercarea de a se dovedi mai bun şi mai valoros. Prin conţinutul său de calităţi, prin gândire şi prin atitudinea în faţa vieţii, un erou al luptei cu viaţa este totodată expresia sensibilităţii actualizate care îl modelează astfel încât el să aibă un comportament mai înţelegător şi mai tolerant faţă de semenii săi.

Reflexia este forţa cu care se întoarce la tine intensitatea unei trăiri, după ce ea a lovit necruţător în conştiinţa unui destin capricios.

Aparenţa care ucide sufletele superioare evidenţiază acea nesiguranţă în „apărare", atunci când încerci să-ţi impui autoritatea în drumul vieţii. În careul propriilor tale experienţe se vor infiltra adesea sentimente sau convingeri demotivante, dar ele au menirea de a şlefui permanent si de a scoate la iveală tot mai mult din ce poţi fi. Un om de mare caracter.

Aparţin privirii care îmi încarcă ochii cu bogăție artistică

On Februarie 25, 2024

O îndepărtare care mărește perspectiva face ca tot ce înconjoară vederea să se contopească într-un eveniment grandios.

În dimineaţa aceea frumoasă de vară, în liniştea cea mai deplină, mă plimbam pe plaja din Mamaia. Pe cerul tot mai senin, spre răsărit, dispăreau nuanțele palide ale zorilor care străpunseseră întunecimea nopţii, lăsând să se distingă fundalul abstract, purpuriului strălucitor al unei aurore de o luminozitate nemaivăzută. Soarele tot mai vizibil se ridica la orizont, și asta se întâmpla și în inima mea, stârnind o stare de bine.

Orizontul pe care marea îl mângâia cu șoapte gingașe, invitându-mă să-i explorez tainele adânci și misterioase, măsura mişcările ochilor mei în timpul unui episod vizionar de contemplare a naturii, când mintea-mi călătorea pe cărările gândirii creatoare. Undeva în larg, un vas de croazieră îşi vedea nestingherit de drum, distanţa dintre noi micşorându-se din ce în ce mai mult. Şi, plăcut surprins, am constatat că era înconjurat de un peisaj desprins din basme, unde marea și cerul se întâlneau într-o simfonie perfectă.

În acel unic moment, ochii îmi puneau la încercare vederea, de unde şi rolul ieşit din comun al privitorului de a se metamorfoza într-un creator, dând o semnificație aparte lucrurilor prin puterea propriei sale percepții și imaginații. Sigur că ochii nu îşi exersează vederea doar având grijă de expresia constructivă a obiectului observat, încât să creeze o unitate spaţială, ci faptul că însăşi vederea devine parte integrantă a acestei construcţii dirijată de artă, numită percepţie. Sau cum ar spune anticii, Urfechios Aositis Udarisvia, o îndepărtare care mărește perspectiva, făcând ca tot ce înconjoară vederea să se contopească într-un eveniment grandios.

Leadership: Prin accesări succesive ale orizontului poţi să conturezi un moment memorabil, drept corespondent al raportului dintre ceea ce percepi şi ceea ce simţi?

Vederea, bine antrenată de exterior, impune o nouă condiţie intuiţiei şi evidentei artistice: de a lăsa intactă plăcerea întâlnirii cu un moment memorabil, drept corespondent al raportului dintre ceea ce percep şi ceea ce simt. Având capacitatea nu doar de a interpreta lumea, dar şi de a o imaginea diferit, vederea ajunge prin accesări succesive ale orizontului un fel de locțiitor al lucrurilor care au existat și care au fost cunoscute, un principiu de referință sau de tendință, în ordinea cunoașterii a ceea ce nu mai există ca atare. Şi, colorând cu subtile şi eficiente nuanţe de "efemer" toate lucrurile, într-un elan confesiv, vederea devine un soi de garant al orientării spre artă, spre pictură.

Cel mai probabil, vederea care se remarcă aici poate captura esența a ceea ce mă defineşte ca artist, fiind străbătut de neîncetatul elan al căutărilor, exact ca în romanul "Colecţionarul" de John Fowles:

"Totul era gata. Nu-mi mai rămânea decât să mă aşez la pândă şi să profit de prima ocazie ce avea să se ivească. E adevărat că în momentul acela eram într-o stare ciudată. Mă gândeam la toate detaliile de parcă făcusem lucruri de-astea toată viaţa. Ca şi când aş fi fost agent secret, detectiv, sau un artist în căutarea frumuseţii perfecte. Până la urmă am aşteptat, şi am aşteptat, zile întregi, aşa cum se întâmplă şi cu fluturii. Vreau să spun că te duci într-un loc unde ştii că vei da peste specii rare şi nu găseşti nimic, dar altă dată, când nici nu cauţi fluturi, îţi apar în faţa ochilor pe o floare, oferiţi ca pe tavă, cum se zice."

Apariţia oricărui exemplu de perfecţiune artistică necesită timp de aşteptare. Iar dacă încerc să disting unicitatea dintr-o imagine vagă, precum un lucru aflat în depărtare, atunci simțurile mele trebuie să se piardă în fluxul unui moment deschizător de perspectiva, coincidentia oppositorum, ca să poată captura și exprima o anumită interpretare, devenind astfel instrumente ale creației. Doar astfel îmi pot amplifica capacitatea de a interpreta lumea din jur și de a o transforma într-o operă de artă, printr-un fel de a mă afla în locul în care, deși nu găsesc nimic palpabil, simt că sunt în mijlocul unei prezențe subtile, dar pline de semnificație.

Leadership: Ai reflectat vreodată asupra modului în care un reper vizual poate marca separarea dintre realitate și interpretare, creând astfel o legătură între două entități distincte?

Ştiu prea bine ce reprezintă fiecare din vederile mării pentru mine: un fluture pe care am dorit întotdeauna să-l prind. Am stat la pândă o zi întreagă, doar ca să sesizez ceea ce ochiului îi place mai mult: detaliile subtile sau esența amplă a întregului peisaj. Ştiam că şi marea mă priveşte ca pe un colecţionar de imagini unice, precum fluturii ce trăiesc o singură zi, realităţi pentru care idealitatea există, dar nu voiam să mă las cuprins de vraja ei decât acceptând realitatea unei scene desprinsă tot din romanul lui John Fowles:

"Când recitesc ce-am scris îmi dau seama că nu este numai o situaţie fantastică, este o variantă fantastică a unei situaţii fantastice. Vreau să spun că acum sunt la mâna sorţii, iar soarta nu se poartă ca şi cum ar fi de aşteptat. Şi astfel soarta, prin intermediul acestui om, mă aduce în situaţia de a-i fi fals recunoscătoare. Sunt atât de nesigură, şi cu siguranţă că el ştie asta. Mă poate face să depind total de el. Parcă aş trăi un timp nesfârşit, nesfârşit, nesfârşit, într-o singură clipă trecătoare.

Ce scriu aici e firesc. E ca şi cum două persoane s-ar strădui să continue o conversaţie. Este invers decât desenul. Când tragi o linie, ştii imediat că este o linie bună sau rea. Dar când scrii o linie, la început pare adevărată şi apoi, când o reciteşti mai târziu..."

Arta este ca marea, mereu în schimbare, mereu fascinantă, mereu angajându-se în conversaţie cu mine. Mă poate face să depind total de ea dacă o privesc ca o linie de demarcație între două lumi diametral opuse: oamenii superiori și masele, ignorând spațiile dintre o apariţie şi alta. Iar dacă continui să caut forme de expresie în orice punct pe suprafaţa mării, să văd fluturi în orice mică apariţie din larg, să mă comport ca un colecţionar de vederi care hrăneşte pictura cu tot felul de tipologii de culoare, de la cele pe bază de uleiuri până la cele pe bază de apă, probabil aş ajunge în situaţia de a trăi un timp nesfârşit, nesfârşit, nesfârşit, într-o singură clipă trecătoare.

O clipă care la început pare adevărată, dar când o analizez mai târziu, ea pare iluzorie.

Una din preocupările constante ale unui creator este să surprindă esența unei experiențe sau să provoace reflecții profunde prin intermediul artei sale. Dar fără să ajungă în situația de a-și pierde originalitatea și autenticitatea în fața iluziilor percepute, fie ele provocate de vastitatea mării, de misterul orizontului, sau de propria interpretare a realității.

Aparţin privirii care îmi încarcă ochii cu bogăție artistică ori de câte ori sufletul meu întâlnește marea, concomitent cu simțul infinitului care se revarsă dincolo de orizont. Iar dacă aş privi de nenumărate ori marea, cu aceeaşi ochi cu care ea mă priveşte pe mine, atunci i-aş adresa aceleaşi cuvinte pe care le rostea personajul din romanul "Colecţionarul", scris de John Fowles:

"Iubesc cinstea şi libertatea, şi generozitatea. Iubesc capacitatea de a face ceva, de a crea. Îmi place să mă implic din plin. Iubesc tot ce nu este static şi îi urăsc pe toţi cei care se mulţumesc să stea de o parte şi să nu facă nimic, să plagieze, pe cei a căror inimă a murit înaintea trupului."

Apriga îmbrăţişare a diavolului

On August 31, 2010

Măreşte puterea leadershipului tău, fără să devii prizonierul propriilor tale patimi.

Qin Shi Huang Di a fost un strateg strălucit. A cucerit toată China, care îi poartă şi azi numele. Dar cum a ajuns el cel mai puternic şi mai de temut om din lume la acea vreme? Nimic mai simplu: ţinând omenirea "în şah". Şi, de asemenea, ghidându-se mereu după principiul: " Scopul scuză mijloacele ".

Imperiul său trebuia să fie etern. A învins regat după regat prin forţa armelor. Toţi prizonierii erau executaţi. Nu admitea să i se discute ordinele. Totul, chiar şi interesele celor ce-l sprijineau, trebuiau să fie subordonate intereselor sale. Obsedat de ideea de a-şi atinge cu orice preţ scopurile, a procedat întotdeauna fără milă şi necruţător.

Pentru un om care are pasiunea puterii şi a gloriei, dar mai ales a puterii, viaţa celorlalţi nu are niciun preţ. Temându-se de ce gândesc oamenii în privinţa acţiunilor şi deciziilor sale ticăloase şi inumane, Qin Shi Huang Di a găsit un motiv să execute 460 de învăţaţi, o crimă care, mai presus de altele, s-a întipărit în mintea poporului. Sute de mii de oameni au trecut prin cele mai grele chinuri ca să-i construiască împăratului un mausoleu uriaş, un palat subteran păzit de o armată de teracotă, şi un zid imens menit să confere apărare regatului său.

Leadership: Îţi evaluezi corect nivelul de experienţă în a judeca caracterul unui destin superior care îşi asumă o istorie îndelungată, prin prisma unei fireşti detaşări de situaţia în care eşti îndreptăţit să te consideri ca find victima unei poticniri fatale?

Cu siguranţă, cel mai bun prieten al diavolului este omul, pe care numai dacă reuşeşte să-l câştige de partea sa îşi poate atinge scopul. Dar odată ajuns sub suprema lui putere, are dreptul de viaţă şi de moarte a fiecăruia, căci diavolul nu acceptă niciodată înfrângerea. Odată ce intri în infern, odată ce ești prins în ghearele sale monstruoase, nu mai poţi face nimic – eşti prins ca într-o pânză de păianjen care se ţese tot mai mult în jurul tău, şi eşti ţinut prizonier ca într-o transă hipnotică.

Cine îşi închipuia că bunătatea conducea lumea, se înşela amarnic. Împăratul Qin Shi Huang Di devenise întruchiparea temerilor oamenilor. S-a manifestat în acţiunile sale cu toată puterea şi cu toată răutatea lui. Dar pe lângă faptul că a fost foarte încăpăţânat, a avut o foarte mare putere de convingere.

Oamenii care serveau interesele împăratului erau îndreptăţiţi să se considere ca find victima unei poticniri fatale, deoarece mintea lor nu filtra bunul mers al evenimentelor printr-o bogăţie spiritual deosebită, prin tendinţe permanente de înaltă valoare morală, ci mai curând printr-o lipsă de respect faţă de regulile şi legile vieţii în societate.

Ei nu puteau judeca lucid caracterul conducătorului lor tocmai fiindcă raţiunea lor de a exista nu era întemeiată pe adevăr, pe învăţătură, pe principiul egalității în drepturi, ci pe sindromul istoric de a sta cu capul plecat precum un condamnat la pieire.

Leadership: Poţi să extragi din viaţa ta acele semnificaţii atribuite relaţiei dintre ceea ce ţi se dezvăluie ca realitate incontestabilă şi ceea ce ţi se dezvăluie ca fiind cu mult mai cuprinzător decât îţi poate oferi perspectiva unei imagini a puterii nelimitate?

Era expert în mesmerism, avea acea capacitate nesănătoasă de a hipnotiza masele de oameni. A exercitat de la distanţă o influenţă telepatica răuvoitoare, a otrăvit sufletele oamenilor nevinovaţi care nu bănuiau nimic. În consecinţă mulţi s-au lăsat în seama voinţei lui superioare, aşteptând ca el să hotărască pentru ei. Mulţi au fost gata să-şi sacrifice vieţile în numele idealurilor sale înalte şi a convingerilor pe care şi le crease.

Mă întreb, ce-i trebuie unui om ca să-şi dea, cu o bucurie atât de mare, viaţa pentru conducătorul său? În primul rând, liderul trebuie să corespundă întru totul aşteptărilor sale. Iar un Don Juan al întunericului are capacitatea să sucească minţile oamenilor cu un raţionament chipurile sănătos şi coerenţă în gândire, încât aceştia, fără să fie cuprinşi de nicio îndoială, cufundaţi într-o stare de euforie generală, să fie gata să-şi dea şi viaţa pentru el.

Aşa este, ca să mânuieşti oamenii trebuie să fii capabil să pătrunzi în interiorul lor, să le îngheţi în aşa măsură sufletele, încât să nu mai poată să discearnă corect între bine şi rău. Iar prin puterea şi arta lui, diavolul reuşeşte întotdeauna să atingă această performanţă. Atotputernicia lui psihică tulbură într-atât buna judecată a supuşilor săi, încât aceştia, devotaţi lui trup şi suflet, îşi semnează singuri condamnarea la moarte.

Leadership: Eşti în stare să experimentezi acea trăire a "divinităţii" din tine, fără să devii robul acelei imagini a puterii care se sfărâma presiunea propriei energii devoratoare, eliberate de un destin fără scăpare?

Omul care se lasă condus de un tiran este un martor umil al evenimentelor pe care nu le poate controla, fiindcă nu este dispus să atribuie vieţii semnificaţia de "glorie", acea glorie câştigată printr-un ansamblu de alegeri libere şi corecte, printr-o înălţare a forţei lor sufleteşti, nu printr-un anumit fel de a te raporta la cineva mai puternic şi cu viziune. Majoritatea oamenilor slabi slujeşte o autoritate autoimpusă, câştigată printr-un duh de slujire a unor idealuri de înrobire.

Odată ajuns sub stăpânirea diavolului, viaţa omului atârnă de un singur fir de păr. Dar şi viitorul diavolului depinde de oameni. Căci el se foloseşte de oameni ca de un suport pe care să se poată sprijini în voie. Din pricina asta el nu poate opta pentru o totală indiferenţă faţă de ei ci, adoptând o atitudine constructivă, se asigură că îi vor îndeplini unele nevoi, şi abia apoi, când nu-i mai sunt necesari, se descotoroseşte de ei. Căci bunul mers al afacerii sale este influenţat numai de rezultate, care depind de performanţa supuşilor săi. Iar demoralizarea oamenilor, lipsa de productivitate şi proactivitate sunt factorii de risc cei mai semnificativi.

Leadership: Vocea interioară te împinge spre o evoluție interioară profundă, transformându-te în o versiune mai puternică și mai autentică a ta, dincolo de ceea ce ai considerat că sunt limitele tale?

Un geniu al răului trebuie ucis sau închis într-un cufăr, sau să-l determini să accepte vitregia destinului şi să se resemneze. Dar energia extraordinară a împăratului Qin Shi Huang Di, demonica lui putere asupra sufletelor era mult prea mare. Nu existau celule sau ziduri care să-l oprească. Oamenii se puteau doar amăgi cu gândul că e muritor, şi că, într-o bună zi, vor putea scăpa din acel infern.

O fiinţă neînduplecată şi nesocotită în pasiunile sale, veşnic lipsită de măsură, stăpânită de sentimente supraîncordate, nu poate nutri sentimente pozitive puternice pentru cineva, ci egoiste sau nedrepte care în final nu-l vor conduce decât la eşec. Imperiul împăratului Qin Shi Huang Di trebuia să fie etern. Dar s-a sfârşit în haos. Iar el a murit după ce-a înghiţit o pastilă de mercur care spera să îi prelungească viaţa. Moartea a fost duşmanul de care s-a temut el o viaţă întreagă, şi pe care nu l-a putut învinge.

Leadershipul este aspiraţia de a cunoaşte o trăire a vieţii fără lupte, încrâncenări şi frustrări care îţi secătuiesc energia, cu specificaţia că voinţa de a birui o pasiune este singura unealtă a expresiei sinelui care îşi controlează tristeţea sau suferinţa.

În leadership trebuie să faci neapărat trebuincioasă o atare alunecare spre legendă, prin actul eroic de lepădare a sinelui care îşi presimte neîmplinirea.

Apriga îmbrăţişare a diavolului este acceptată doar de oamenii fără credinţă într-un sens al vieţii, aceia care acceptă mai degrabă să fie conduşi decât să-şi conducă singuri destinul spre făgaş împlinitor de vise.

În leadership nu poţi avea succes bazându-te pe principiul "scopul scuză mijloacele" şi nu poţi să conduci având o politică tiranică, căci vei sfârşi lamentabil. A ţine la putere fără a te sinchisi de cei din jurul tău, a sacrifica totul, inclusiv oamenii, înseamnă să te îndepărtezi de noţiunea de lider (care este ales) şi să devii tiran (care se impune prin forţă), atrăgându-ţi dispreţul celor din jur care mai devreme sau mai târziu te vor înlătura de la conducere.

Măreşte puterea leadershipului tău, dar fără să devii prizonierul propriilor tale patimi.

Arhitectul destinelor

On Februarie 20, 2009

Concepe funcţionalul şi faţetele schimbărilor, astfel încât aportul pe care îl aduci leadershipului tău să fie maxim.

Un eveniment nefericit poate schimba cursul vieţii unui om.

În 1955, o femeie de culoare a fost arestată pentru că nu a vrut să se ridice de pe locul "rezervat albilor" dintr-un autobuz din Montgomey. Acest incident a umplut paharul. Acesta a fost momentul când Martin Luther King Jr. a decis să se implice cu orice preţ în lupta pentru dobândirea libertăţii şi a drepturilor oamenilor de culoare şi pentru combaterea discriminărilor rasiale. Urmând exemplul eroului său, Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King Jr. a pornit bătălia.

În cele din urmă, după ce şi-a atins scopul, el a mărturisit oamenilor pe care i-a sprijinit, cu puţin timp înainte de a fi asasinat: " Am fost in vârful muntelui şi am văzut Tărâmul Făgăduinţei ".

În sfârşit năzuinţele cărora le-a consacrat cei mai buni ani ai săi, s-au împlinit.

Liderul nu e un biet zidar care pune în plus o cărămidă la fundaţie, ci arhitectul care pune acoperământul clădirii.

Inteligent, şi foarte însetat de libertate, având, desigur, o viziune de perspectivă faţă de problemele cu care se confruntau oamenii de culoare, Martin Luther King Jr. a răspuns nădejdilor puse în el. Şi, în ciuda numeroaselor probleme pe care le-a întâmpinat, a reuşit să le imprime acestora o atitudine fermă în faţa tuturor nedreptăţilor care li se făceau.

El a venit cu o energie şi un avânt extraordinar în faţa oamenilor şi le-a proiectat un alt viitor. Demersurile sale constant susţinute, care au oglindit o adâncă şi caldă dragoste pentru om, pentru libertatea şi demnitatea lui, au avut un ecou larg în rândul populaţiei de culoare care a răspuns chemării sale la luptă pentru dobândirea de drepturi egale cu ale celorlalţi oameni.

Martin Luther King Jr. nu a fost doar un simplu om care a încercat să-şi aducă aportul la schimbarea pe care toată populaţia de culoare o aştepta. Nu, el nu şi-a pus doar ştampila asupra schimbărilor, ci a conceput funcţionalul şi faţetele schimbărilor, iar pentru aceasta a fost iubit şi stimat.

Atingând un nivel ridicat de cunoaştere, înţelegând viaţa în mod profund, dominat de un accentuat spirit divin, el şi-a asumat rolul de arhitect şi amfitrion al schimbării. A pus problema rasismului pe un plan mai înalt decât o făcuseră predecesorii săi, cuprins totuşi de tristeţea faţă de întunecatele perspective ce-l aşteptau în acea perioadă tulbure pentru el şi poporul său.

Leadership: Poţi să-ţi reconsideri poziţia faţă de o decizie hotărâtoare care te obligă să-ţi resetezi calitatea de a livra o perspectivă nouă de abordare a evenimentelor într-un prezent al aşteptărilor înşelate?

Poziţia lui Martin Luther King Jr. faţă de decizia hotărâtoare de a apăra drepturile oamenilor de culoare a fost de la bun început exprimată în calitate de jurat, transformată apoi în calitatea de om greu de înlocuit. El şi-a resetat calitatea de a livra o perspectivă nouă de abordare a evenimentelor într-un prezent al aşteptărilor înşelate printr-un soi de hocus-pocus divin care l-a transformat într-un super-erou dotat cu puteri salvatoare.

Nu e cu putinţă să ajungi în vârful scării ierarhice dacă nu îndrăzneşti să faci ceva în această privinţă, dacă laşi lucrurile aşa cum sunt în loc să le schimbi, sau dacă nu te implici suficient de mult în rezolvarea problemelor cu care se confruntă cei din jur. La tot pasul vei întâlni oameni care au nevoie de ajutor pentru a putea face faţă problemelor. Dacă vrei să atingi un nivel mai înalt de performanţă, atunci ieşi din zona personală de confort şi fă tot ce poţi ca să le deschizi uşa spre o viaţă mai bună.

Mulţi oameni îşi aţintesc privirile spre cer, cerând ajutorul lui Dumnezeu, dar rămân pe loc fără să facă nimic, până când cineva are curajul să se implice în viaţa lor mobilizându-i într-o anumită direcţie. Visurile şi aspiraţiile spre mai bine nu îi vor ajuta întotdeauna pe oameni să se mobilizeze, dar un lider dinamic, hotărât şi cu putere de convingere va reuşi acest lucru. Dacă vrei ca oamenii să te urmeze, atunci stabileşte-ti ca scop susţinerea lor constantă. Succesul oamenilor depinde întotdeauna de cel care îi conduce, aşadar nu-i dezamăgi.

Liderul este un arhitect care se ocupă numai de "lucrările mari", oferind soluţia exactă pentru construirea lor cât mai urgentă după o imagine proprie originală şi bine pusă la punct.

Leadershipul este o depăşire a limitelor impuse de o credinţă fără margini a cărei primă ipostază este încălcarea regulamentelor care invalidează un vot majoritar și permite repetarea lui într-un tur favorabil.

Arhitectul destinelor este cel care se implică în ajutorarea oamenilor (înţelegând şi materializând corect doleanţele lor) şi-i conduce, urmând anumiţi paşi, spre un alt viitor mai bun decât cel care se prefigurează în prezent, căutând cea mai mare parte a recompensei sale în mulţumirea lăuntrică.

Dar trebuie să ai curaj şi spirit de iniţiativă ca să lupţi pentru binele celor ce te-au ales, tocmai pentru aceste calităţi. Şi trebuie să insufli la rândul tău curaj şi perseverenţă celor din jurul tău, tocmai pentru că ai ales să fii " arhitectul destinelor ".

Concepe funcţionalul şi faţetele schimbărilor, astfel încât aportul pe care îl aduci leadershipului tău să fie maxim.

Aria limitativă a contrastelor

On Ianuarie 26, 2014

Testează valoarea de adevăr a ceea ce te defineşte, astfel încât să te distanţezi de identitatea îndoielnică care te limitează.

Mă cunosc pe mine însumi, dar în raport cu ceea ce sunt sau cu ceea ce nu sunt? O licărire îmbătătoare pâlpâie cu flacără firavă în lampa conştiinţei, ca o lume care moare, pentru că se naşte. Creată printr-un superior efort de înţelegere a versiunii reale a Omului care are în proprietatea lui adevărul. Format, la rândul lui, dintr-o mulţime infinită de mici adevăruri, spaţii înguste de acces spre marele mister al unei galaxii greu accesibile, în punctele de discontinuitate ale traseelor existenţiale care menţin o diferenţă de potenţial constantă între nesfârşitul sine şi înşelătorul Alter-Ego.

Pe drumul spre întemeierea primelor etape ale demersului meu artistic, fiindcă arta asociată cu expresia vizuală reprezintă singura mea sursă de a mă dezvolta spiritual, am învăţat multe despre ceea ce vreau să fiu şi despre ceea ce cred alţii despre mine prin comparaţie cu capacitatea de a valorifica lecţiile unei gândiri creative şi reflexive.

Leadership: În ce măsură reușești să transformi evenimentele extreme într-un limbaj artistic propriu, făcând din "inadaptare" o formă de expresie unică?

Eu însumi am devenit expresia unei arte fără egal, o construcţie de limbaj foarte rafinat, sugestiv şi diferit de ceea ce consideră lumea în general a fi formula unei noi structuri intelectuale dominante, reuşind o înălţare a exprimării la nivel de măiestrie datorită vederii de dincolo de timp. Identitatea îndoielnică care mă limitează este direct corelată cu incapacitatea de a mă simți „întreg" într-o lume copleşită de evenimente extreme în care nu mă simt niciodată adaptat.

Omul puternic se luptă mereu cu frica de a deveni mai mult decât poate duce. Arta nu este doar o călătorie spre descoperirea unui nou sens dat existenţei, evenimentelor sau anumitor frământări interioare, ci este şi o improvizaţie de mare clasă pe care o practici prin felul de a te raporta la un munte pe care trebuie să-l cucereşti. Masutatsu Oyama, unul din cei mai mari luptători ai tuturor timpurilor, a păstrat permanent în conştiinţa sa un singur gând: " Mă tem să lupt. Mă tem să nu fiu bătut şi să pierd. Cu toate astea, îmi caut mereu un nou adversar. "

Leadership: Cum se pot justifica efectele atitudinii tale de învingător atunci când obiectul gândirii tale devine extensia unei imagini de sine plină de putere care nu urmează alte criterii decât cele prevăzute de succesiunea frământărilor interioare?

Adevărurile ce-l frământă pe om compun întotdeauna o lume în evoluţie, intensă şi puternică în trăiri, ruptă parcă din sfera ireală a unei opoziţii puternice, mai consistente şi mai inteligente, ducându-l invariabil pe un alt nivel al înţelegerii şi dezvoltării sale.

Efectele atitudinii tale de învingător se pot justifica ca o ieşire dintr-un univers concentric atunci când obiectul gândirii tale devine extensia unei imagini de sine plină de putere - prin faptul că deţii curajul şi virtutea de a mărturisi permanenţa adevărurilor constatate empiric, sau chiar a celor confecţionate de imaginaţie din uimirea faţă de caracterul trudnic al unei arte pretenţioase.

Neîndoios, ceva din mine se predă, se retrage în colţul neliniştitor al contrastelor ce-mi ameninţă stabilitatea, spunându-mi că trebuie să evadez degrabă din acel timp al întâlnirii cu înşelătorul Alter-Ego. Să mă distanţez de identitatea supusă unei întinderi continue şi progresive de îngrădiri ce redau amploarea limitărilor la care sunt supus. Şi să mă privesc din afara ei.

Leadership: Cum poate arta ta, asemenea unei construcții rafinate de limbaj, să reflecte viziunea dincolo de timp, chiar și atunci când identitatea îndoielnică te împiedică să te simți „întreg"?

Vulnerabil. Sunt închis într-un speed of light la nivel de gânduri întunecate peste care se suprapune o altă imagine, o formă de împrumut a unor cauze repetitive de anulare a sinelui, pe care realitatea refuză să le accepte categoric. Acolo unde cuprinsul raţiunii mele îşi depozitează ascunsul nedezvăluit al contrastelor, înţelesurile tăinuite, trecând de la static la dinamic, şi invers, acolo se efectuează validări de fond ale fiinţei mele care facilitează întâlnirea cu subconştientul – singurul care poate ordona şi armoniza totul în mine.

În regim staţionar, când gândurile-mi sunt îndreptate spre destinul unei noi fiinţe, renăscute sub impulsul devenirii, trebuie să existe o continuitate între esenţa diluată a naturii mele sârguincioase şi aparenţa nerentabilă a unui real care are o reprezentare finită.

Leadership: Eşti adeptul acelei căi predefinite de construcţie a unui limbaj rafinat care oferă statornicie în tot ceea ce înseamnă viaţă - cu trăirile ei astfel proiectate de experienţă încât să poată fi transpuse în arta fără a-şi pierde calitatea lor iniţială?

Omul care îşi ignoră "conţinutul" nu va putea niciodată calcula corect, în termeni de validitate a orientărilor adoptate, propria expunere la temperaturile foarte scăzute sau prea ridicate ale realităţii. Iar leadershipul, urmărind mai întâi cazurile de intersectare ale omului cu arta de a se cunoaşte pe sine, se reflectă în modul în care el se raportează la cine este cu adevărat atunci când este înconjurat de ceea ce nu este.

Referitor la tot ceea ce te defineşte în raport cu cine eşti cu adevărat, Anthony Silard, Director General al Global Leadership Institute, spunea: " Pentru a reuşi să te pui pe primul loc în viaţa ta, dă-te la o parte din propria-ţi cale. "

Această evitare a inamicului tău numărul unu, sinele care adesea te duce tot mai departe de calea naturii tale reale, poate reprezenta deviaţia dublă a coloanei vertebrale ce limitează caracteristicile esenţiale - acele părţi ale personalităţii tale care doreşte să se dezvolte spre a-şi atinge deplinătatea. În funcţie de gradul lor de dezvoltare creşte şi nivelul aspiraţiilor şi al realizărilor, de la nevoile inferioare până la cele superioare (nevoia de apreciere socială, de apartenenţă la grup, de autoapreciere).

Te cunoşti pe tine însuţi în raport cu ceea ce eşti sau cu ceea ce nu eşti?

Adevărurile pe care le crezi despre tine compun acea lume în evoluţie, puternică în trăiri şi reacţii, care lovind opoziţia puternică a Alter-Egoului negativ, reuşesc performanţa să dovedească propria ta valoare, bine ancorată în realitate. Această realitate trebuie pusă în slujba leadershipului.

Trăirile tale proiectate de experienţă pot fi transpuse în artă fără a-şi pierde calitatea lor iniţială atunci când ele intră sub incidenţa năzuinţei de a-şi singulariza demersul unei singure legi creative – autenticitatea unei viziuni veridice asupra vieţii.

Aria limitativă a contrastelor desemnează acea zonă de interferenţă între ceea ce eşti şi ceea ce vrei să fii, sub acţiunea demersului artistic de care te foloseşti în realizarea unei noi viziuni asupra lumii şi a vieţii. Bineînţeles, personalitatea ta se dezvoltă şi se şlefuieşte întreaga viaţă, dar nu poate fi reconfigurată în discordanţă cu ceea ce nativ eşti. Iar cu cât această discordanţă este mai accentuată, cu atât valoarea leadershipului este mai redusă.

E greu, dar absolut necesar să te cunoşti pe tine însuţi, sincronizându-te cu ceea ce eşti şi cu realitatea exterioară.

Art Nouveau

On Aprilie 04, 2016

Învaţă să faci din leadership o artă, păstrându-ţi privilegiul de a fi mai mult decât ceea ce ești.

Se născuse în mine acea îndârjire fără seamăn, proprie artistului impulsionat de dorinţa de a crea ceva original, de a găsi un limbaj artistic prin vocea numită „Eu însumi”. Dar cât mai apropiat de formele invizibilului, adică cu sensuri ascunse, dublate de adevăruri şi incertitudini, prin intermediul elementelor particulare: colorit, teme, tendinţe, îmbinarea nuanţelor, intensitatea, contrastul, aspectul, echilibrul de subiectivitate şi obiectivitate.

Întotdeauna prin porţile umbrite ale întregului univers literar, pe care de atâtea ori am încercat să-l reinventez, singur împotriva lărgirilor periodice ale hotarului "neştiutului", se revărsa desăvârşita unitate a contrariilor, răsfrântă la cea mai pronunţată convergenţă. În ceea ce privește stilul abordat, relativ greoi, el trăda anumite tendinţe de exagerare a efectelor de perspectivă ale unui personaj sau subiect.

Contrariile se atrag, dar nu înainte de a purifica şi adâncind acea constantă stilistică consistentă, acea particularitate a percepţiei formei ce are loc chiar în absenţa informaţiilor complete, sub aspectul unei intrări în imaginar, unde totul are alte valenţe, alte concretizări, o altă audienţă. Chiar dacă mi-am impus să fiu în pielea unui artist autentic, trăind şi creând în afara cotelor comerciale, departe de clasificările apreciative sau depreciative ale criticilor, nu ştiam cât este de complicat să tratez abstract spaţiul de referinţă al unei pure plasticităţi menită să dea naştere emoţiei artistice, exprimând vigoare şi soliditate în acelaşi timp.

Leadership: Conţinutul redat de imaginea creaţiei tale este perceput ca fiind dominant în tratarea unei particularităţi a personalităţii artistice înclinate spre introspecţie, dar mai ales spre analiza unei realităţi desfăşurată paralel cu a sa?

Până la căpătarea măiestriei artistice, m-am tot preocupat de această unitate a contrariilor care asigura stabilitate şi echilibru universului meu literar, dar cu o oarecare dezaprobare. De parcă aș fi intrat într-o luptă cu spiritul rătăcitor al unui geniu care își proiecta asupra mea toate oscilaţiile unei imagini repetitive, subsumate unei alte imagini cu caracter de arhetip, de model originar.

Singurul loc unde reuşeam o incursiune în Art Nouveau, explorând spontan ambivalenţa unei producţii simbolice care era în acelaşi timp o reconstituire captivantă a vieţii şi a morţii, pentru că totul suportă o transformare pe substrat organic, era acolo unde nu existau limite. În vis, ceva mult mai adânc decât simpla imagine a unui sfârşit fără început, o viziune în metafizic ce avea să fie expresia de mai târziu a frumuseţii sufleteşti sau iluzia unei minciuni, cerând crearea deliberată a unei derute interpretative.

Constituentul esenţial al artei este o obsesie a întregii vieţi creatoare bazată pe fondul unui Ego aflat într-o ipostază de confruntare cu o realitate fictivă. Arta este un loc de unde revelaţia despre tine însuţi iese la iveală în încercarea de a te autodepăşi prin lărgirea sferei de reprezentări despre viaţă, natură, timp, spaţiu, bine şi rău, frumos şi urât.

Aşadar, particularitatea unei personalităţi artistice înclinată spre introspecţie, de care trebuia să ţin cont dacă voiam să experimentez o nouă formulă de depistare a capacităţilor creative, era aceea ce a mă exprima liber şi de a-mi expune trăirile într-un mod diferit de alţii. Prin viziuni enigmatice, prin realităţi enigmatice, prin poveşti şi imagini care captivează, dar care nu alcătuiesc niciodată un tablou complet.

Exact ca Salvador Dali. Toate picturile sale au o sumedenie de interpretări, şi par a nu se opri niciodată din a stârni câte o polemică, tot mai de amploare.

Leadership: Depui efortul şi toată străduinţa de a aprofunda o operă de artă, fără a încerca să găseşti explicaţia creatorului ei?

A depune efortul şi toată străduinţa de a aprofunda o operă de artă este un lucru total diferit de a încerca să găseşti explicaţia creatorului ei. Prima variantă are la bază intenția de a te integra într-un tablou pe care îl găsești neobişnuit. A doua variantă ţine de încercarea de a te plasa în locul celui care a stârnit în tine interesul de a identifica elementele esenţiale ale tabloului.

"Privilegiul de a fi mai bun decât ceea ce eşti" este rezervat celui care ştie să aleagă din panoplia vieţii cotidiene imaginea unei noi realităţi capabilă să provoace sentimente de domeniul artei, precum sentimentul de eliberare, de pace, de puritate, de libertate totală, ca atunci când deschizi un mare secret din care decurg toate celelalte, făcându-te să te simţi într-un mediu familiar, plin de armonie, fantezie şi originalitate.

Ca să fie mai clar ce vreau sa evidenţiez, vi-l prezint pe Fanshawe, aşa cum îl caracteriza pe scurt creatorul său, scriitorul Paul Auster. Extrageţi, dacă puteţi, acea noutate plină de tâlc, acel "aici este locul tău" , sub aspectele unui încetul cu încetul, pas cu pas, eliminând orice abordare filosofică. Deja v-am derutat, nu-i aşa? Dar, citiţi mai departe:

„ Fanshawe avea ceva atât de atrăgător încât îţi doreai tot timpul să stai lângă el, de parcă ai fi putut să trăieşti în sfera lui şi să primeşti atingerea personalităţii lui. El se arăta mereu dispus să te ajute, dar în acelaşi timp rămânea inaccesibil. Îţi lăsa senzaţia că există un nucleu secret înăuntrul lui în care nu ai fi putut pătrunde niciodată, un centru misterios şi ascuns. Imitându-l, deveneam cumva parte din acel mister, dar totodată înţelegeam că nicicând nu vom putea să-l cunoaştem cu adevărat. "

Imaginea de creator aduce în prim-plan acel autoportret imuabil al unui ego care-şi asumă rolul de personaj emblematic într-o zonă de tip "memorie" care poate fi observată şi explorată în mod direct printr-o amplificare a trăirilor existenţiale.

În versiunea mea, Art Nouveau se formează pe baza unei alianţe între descrieri și personaje, prezentate într-un mod neașteptat și imprevizibil, prin adăugarea unor imagini de fundal din care se naște specificul unui subiect viu, plin de mister, adică inaccesibil unei analize precise.

Această imagine poate fi individualizată prin valorile curente ale argumentelor propuse și integrate într-un scenariu din care cititorii - da, cititorii - trebuie să reţină doar particularităţile care dau un anumit farmec, o intrigă, asigurând căutarea esenţei a ceea ce este ascuns chiar la ei înşişi. Cititorul este oglinda, povestea, vocea, modelul, portretul unui personaj fascinant cu care se identifică.

Un artist care nu inserează un sens aparte în picturile sale, unul care nu poate fi asociat cu vreun simbol, acela care nu face niciodată apel la contrastul de clar-obscur, niciodată nu va fi etichetat drept geniu. Deci, păstrează-ţi privilegiul de a fi mai mult decât ceea ce ești în ochii lumii.

Omul care promovează leadershipul este artistul care construieşte o imagine nonconformistă, reunind-o cu adevăratele trăiri şi aprecieri ale celui ce vrea să se înalţe deasupra genialităţii lui.

Leadershipul se află în spatele a ceea ce se prezintă drept o reacție la efectul unui apel de intrare într-un personaj misterios, din care poți să alegi o varietate de caracteristici și manifestări necesare reinventării personale. El conțiine un fragment din scenariul căutării esenţei a ceea ce ești în varietatea unor tipologii umane aruncate în vârtejul măștilor.

Personajul te introduce în specificul unei anumite laturi a personalităţii pe care deseori ai ocultat-o, dar care există totuşi în tine, și așteaptă să fie savurată și lansată în lume drept pretext pentru a simți că faci parte din lumea magică a poveștilor trăite de ceilalți oameni. Cine încearcă să te imite sau să găsească o explicație, automat este inclus în mister.

Arta se remarcă nu doar printr-o viziune îndrăzneaţă şi perturbatoare, ci printr-o asumare emoţionantă a trăirilor personajului de care eşti dispus să nu te mai despărţi în realitatea pe care ceilalţi o observă contemplator.

Art Nouveau este o incursiune înăuntrul naturii umane care se caută, care se descoperă, care se refuză în ceea ce nu este şi se acceptă în ceea ce poate şi trebuie să fie. În leadership primează puterea de a fi un personaj misterios, făcându-te, mai îndrăzneț, mai diferit, uimind printr-un farmec aparte, devenind cu atât mai interesant cu cât reușești să lărgeşti hotarul neştiutului despre tine.

Arta alchimiei în viziunea artistică

On Decembrie 22, 2019

Un artist cu dorinţă de nemurire ştie să găsească potriviri cu viaţa sa în pildele spiritului naturii.

Nu sunt doar un trandafir oarecare, ci un purtător al spiritului naturii asociat cu un nume: Double Delight. Adevărata mea viaţă, cu trăirile cele mai intense manifestate în Misujaryan (misterul profund al visului activ), a început odată cu Moartea lui Adam , atunci când artistul a conceput din materia sensibilă a poeticului, prin fel de fel de alchimii, referenţialul expresiv al cunoaşterii spaţioase în unitatea misterului unei călătorii în timp.

Cei ce scriu "Aleph" pe mormintele din sticlă de Murano, sau cei care necontenit caută comori sub influenţa planetelor, sau cei ce văd Natura Universală sub forma unei reptile încolăcite, n-au priceput nimic. Latura spirituală a alchimiei adevărate, dimensiunea ideii aflătoare în spiritul unei gândiri înzestrate, echivalentul aurului cu puritate 100%, este să ştii devii un trandafir, sau măcar o parte din mine.

Leadership: Poate creația să devină o metafizică a naturii, prin care descoperi esența sublimului în spatele unui scenariu „realist"?

Din perspectiva puterii de a da viaţă lucrurilor nemişcate şi tăcute, am fost salvat de la ignoranţa lumii tocmai de acest artist îndrăgostit de frumos, întruchipat prin il sogno dell'armonia, care a ştiut să mă asimileze în arta fiorului sublim cu ajutorul uimirii genuine cuprinsă în spiritul unei ordini structurale. Fericit mă socotesc pentru că a stat în puterea acestui tânăr visător, neatins de muşcătura entropiei, să prefacă o formă de metafizică a naturii într-o inspiraţie de o complexitate spontană. Lucru de mare mirare din partea unui străin în ale practicilor acceptate de vechii cabaliştii.

Artistul privilegiat nel primo grado dell'essenza divina se descoperă în spatele scenariului „realist", în cazul angajării efective în universul trăit prin alăturarea uimitoare a unor lumi complementare. Efortul de a sonda un potenţial mediu exterior, selectând cu dibăcie şi pe îndelete realitatea dorită, fără a se mulţumi cu trăirea distanţată ce o poate oferi participarea estetică la spectacolul oferit de un tablou descifrat simbolic, îl situează pe Creatorul meu în planul metafizicii tradiționale: „Cine suntem? De unde venim? Încotro ne îndreptăm?"

Leadership: Poţi face trecerea de la „formalism" la „interpretare" printr-un act de conversiune simbolică în dublu sens: al imaginii care se vede diferit în alte lumi şi al imaginii care se roteşte în jurul aceleiaşi axe?

Altădată am fost un om ca toţi ceilalţi oameni, un simplu muritor de rând, dar lumea nu m-a perceput sau nu a înțeles nimic din ce reprezentam în valorile spirituale ale credinţei adevărate. Înţelesurile cele mai simple au început să poarte nuanţele cele mai diverse de roşu. Instinctul de metamorfozare a fost tot mai intens dezbătut și conceptualizat în Quinta Essentia . Astfel am pătruns în altă lume, identificată în Tiphereth, imaginea unei splendori a naturii redată în forma cifrei 9, prevăzută cu boboci trataţi ca nişte emisfere cereşti în varianta pământeană.

O, câtă nostalgie în amintirea exploziilor de culoare. În artă, să fii aidoma admiraţiei faţă de prestaţia unei frumuseţi neînţelese şi fără egal, este similar cu mărturia adevăratei cruci în flăcări a lui Constantin , cu menţiunea că orice model poate fi remodelat în funcţie de necesităţi. Bineînţeles, imaginea mea picturală va spune cu totul altceva decât focalizarea asupra Arbustului Sfânt perceput cu virtuţi narative în natura ereditară a operaţiei de înnobilare a Duhului Sfânt (prin transmutaţia substanţei pasive universale).

După câte se poate observa, o imagine se construieşte dându-i o măsură exactă de interpretare prin ideea dedublării, prin vecinătatea spaţio-temporală şi prin poziţionarea diferenţiată.

M-am expus măsurii timpului, cu potrivire în cugetările platoniciene precum aceasta: "măsura şi proporţia merg mână în mână cu frumosul şi virtutea", în încercarea de a găsi calea rapidă de învăţătură şi de înălţare a simţirii din Oglinda Ploii din Răstimpuri . În trecerea secolelor, ca o punte între lumi, am fost menţionat în scrierile lui Ptolemeu sau în codurile secretele introduse de patriarhul Abraham în "Sefer Yetzira". De asemenea, am călcat pe straturile de nisip din împărăţia califului Al-Raşid de la marginile Apusului, doar ca să mi se aducă drept ofrandă o adeziune de vis în povestea celor 1001 de nopţi.

Dar tot de fiecare dată, cu semeţie şi cu trufie, m-am situat într-o continuă aducere aminte a ceea ce lipseşte din viaţa oamenilor: cultul fecund al formei de metamorfozare.

Leadership: Creaţia căreia îi conferi o nouă înfăţişare, îmbogăţind „conţinutul perceput" cu un „conţinut imaginat", pune în valoare rostirea ascunsă, intrinsecă a mijloacelor stilistice de transmitere a revelaţiilor unei fiinţe duale?

Am o rugăminte la voi, căci nu vreau să vă încurc prin exprimări inepuizabile IN CUGERO, sau prin îmbrăţişarea ştiutului cu neştiutul. Înainte de a mă înţelege prin ochii artistului, care de atâtea ori deformează copia lucrurilor furnizate de percepţie, încercaţi vă rog să mă priviţi ca un muritor de rând, unul care va rămâne în sufletul vostru pentru totdeauna.

Nu mă veţi înţelege prin dinamica reprezentărilor arhaice. Nu atunci când ţineţi o mână o carte şi lecturaţi fără discernământ romanele copilăriei lui Quentin, cu trimitere la diferite reţele pentru întreţinerea copacilor umblători . Hibridizarea unui trandafir nu poate fi înţeleasă nici prin actul de „a privi" al spectatorului aşezat solemn în faţa ecranului, nici prin fidelitatea arătată învăţăturii aristotelice şi tomiste, nici prin experienţa descoperirii Amuletei lui Dinesh.

Leadership: Cum reușești să sondezi potențialul mediului exterior, depășind simpla participare estetică pentru a atinge o trăire autentică?

Numai prin măreţia inimii lui Bastian din „Neverending Story", care nu se lăsa stăpânită de păreri omeneşti şi raţionamente complicate, veţi putea să trăiţi viaţa mea, să-mi cunoaşteţi istoricul, să mă salvaţi de la uitare, şi să vă armonizaţi fiinţa instinctivă cu cea spirituală:

„Odată – pe când eram mult mai mic, am întrebat la ora de religie dacă Domnul Iisus avusese şi el nevoi ca orice om obişnuit, ţinând seama că obişnuia să mănânce şi să bea ca un om obişnuit. Toată clasa a izbucnit în râs, iar profesorul de religie mi-a scris în condică o mustrare pentru „purtarea necuviincioasă". Nu am primit niciun răspuns. Nu avusesem intenţia să mă port necuviincios. Probabil asemenea lucruri sunt mult prea lipsite de importantă şi neînsemnate pentru a fi menţionate în poveşti."

Trandafirul nu este o lume plină de simboluri, mai cu seamă este spiritul superior al artistului capturat în propriul portret, pictat în numele aducerii aminte. Să ştii să înfloreşti sub influenţa celui care te-a ridicat la rang de capodoperă, fiind mult mai încântător atunci când eşti amintit prin reproducerea unui punct de atracţie în fundalul imaginii genuine, înseamnă să fii atras în orbita unei logici capabile să dea un alt sens individualului.

Leadership: Ştii să pui în valoare „imaginea-percepţie" prin intermediul caracteristicii fundamentale a Creatorului, legată de realizarea unor forme complexe de expresie cu un potenţial accentuat de extindere înspre „vederea de dincolo de tine însuţi"?

Trandafirul îmi pune la încercare sufletul, aşa cum aurul pune la încercare natura corpurilor inferioare de a se amesteca cu Piatra Sângerie în ordinea cosmică indicată de tranzitul lui Saturn prin Săgetător. Nu ştiu de ce continui să cred într-o realitate atât de greu de descifrat, dori me . Poate că este forma complementară de dobândire a unei corespondenţe cu spiritul unei plante perene, cu ascendent în al nouălea semn zodiacal, în sensul unei comunicări speciale cu o fiinţă gânditoare plasată într-un sistem al determinaţiilor ontologice ale creatului.

Poate că este doar o formă de a mă substitui vreuneia dintre multele şi diversele acţiuni de natură alchimică, cu ajutorul instrumentelor lui Hermes. Poate că este o formă de a mă manifesta inventiv prin dizolvarea puterii Numhesya în rădăcina lui Para Atar. Sau, poate că am înţeles mai bine ca oricine limbajul ascuns şi elementar al universului.

Pe bună dreptate, trandafirul meu preferat, Double Delight, face parte din categoria frumuseţilor care conţin o metaforă aleasă cu dibăcie: cercul de foc al livrescului spiritual . Eu nu sunt decât însufleţirea lui, transpunerea lui într-un limbaj cifrat, dar întotdeauna sincer, pur, liber, eliberator, coerent doar pentru aceia ce cred în altă viaţă, cu ochii deschişi înspre toate zările senine din Sufletul Lumii. Ne vom revedea atunci când ne vom contopi destinele.

Viziunea artistică este destinată capturării unei realităţi de dincolo de tine însuţi, prezentată printr-o comparaţie inclusă într-o imagine cu sens metaforic.

Arta alchimiei în viziunea artistică se datorează unei scrieri în care adevărul şi închipuirea s-au îngemănat până la acel amănunt dătător de unic trup, dinspre partea unei imagini care conteneşte să producă pulsaţii la nivel de experienţă (artistică) fără egal în producerea vieţii dincolo de cortina timpului, dincolo de ceea ce cunoaştem, dincolo de materie.

Arta concentrată în jurul unei picături de sânge

On Ianuarie 19, 2021

Creează-ţi un univers care să reflecte căutările tale interioare, în aşa fel încât să scoţi în evidenţă trăsăturile adânci ale unei opere de artă.

Ieri am donat sânge pentru cineva drag, atât de drag, că aş mai dona o dată. Şi era linişte în sală, o linişte tulburătoare, ca şi când eu şi cu mine aveam de dat un examen de reciprocitate într-un spaţiu al existenţei duale, într-o încercare de transcendere a "substratului biologic-corporal" din ontologia unei opere de artă. Dacă aş fi cercetat atunci o parte din mine, prin felul cum se desfăşoară procesele biochimice la nivelul structurilor celulare, poate aş fi remarcat ritmul marelui univers păstrat într-un moment sufletesc care poate fi descoperit prin contemplarea îndelungă a unei plante, cum este trandafirul.

În timp ce sângele mi se scurgea din vene cu o rapiditate caldă, un fluid ameţitor de emoţie se transforma într-un fluid de tip artistic, însufleţitor, asemănător cu colagenul unei sinteze endogene ce produce mutaţii de molecule în structura biologicului unei lumi mai vaste, dar dominată de imaginea tăcerii. Instantaneu, m-am gândit la un trandafir care, strecurat printre alte flori, de alte specii, îşi caută rostul într-un corp uman sănătos, nu într-un amalgam de suflete călătoare. Acesta este visul poeţilor şi al filozofilor.

Leadership-ul transformator valorifică potențialul artistic al experienței de explorare intelectuală, dând sens unei misiuni mai înalte, precum atingerea perfecțiunii.

Numai o înţepătură te poate trezi dintr-o aţipire deplasată.

Într-adevăr, mă simţeam vulnerabil. Ca să-mi revin din starea de semiadormit aveam nevoie de un stimulent locomotor și metabolic pentru perceperea simţirii unui alt simţ, specific trăirii în lumi paralele, într-o lume imaginară superioară, dominată de o „ordine întoarsă a simultaneităţii". Sau, poate că aveam nevoie de uniformizarea unui model de ataşament faţă de o metafiză a depăşirii de sine?

Trandafirul, atunci când este singur în ceasul sacru al amurgului, se învesmântează în vălul purpuriu al unei inimi uriaşe care bate prin absorbirea căldurii unui suflet în care te afli chiar şi atunci când eşti departe. Într-adevăr, creaţia mea este o plăsmuire a gândurilor transpuse în simboluri vii, concrete, exprimând o realitate evidentă într-un moment sublim, de mândrie şi recunoştinţă.

Leadership: Creaţia ta vizează modul în care trebuie trăită viaţa tocmai în vederea contactului dintre suflet şi idee, în contextul unei cauze programate sau aleatorii ce continuă să se manifeste şi să se exacerbeze?

Sângele mi se scurgea din venă, amintind atât de pregnant de lumina amurgului. Pentru o clipă mi-am imaginat că sunt un pictor cu vederi în alte lumi, încărcat cu vederea unui suflet de dincolo de timp. Culorile apăreau de peste tot, dar numai una singură îmi străpungea sufletul cu amintirile unei călătorii mistice în dimensiunea unei pensule de vopsea. Un roşu din acela închis, cum e vinul de Sagrantino, a declanşat în mine o pasiune imensă, o reacţie centrifugă, ceva de genul: "I believe in something that needs to be created new".

Dorinţa de a mă vedea mai departe, pentru a-mi continua drumul în acest decor al tăcerii aflat la intersecţia dintre suflet şi trup, m-a condus la categoria de comenzi inedite din portofoliul artiştilor. Demult, artistul Mircea Sin povestea despre un tânăr care a venit la el cu desenul elaborat al unei inimi cu artere, pe care vroia să o dăruiască iubitei sale. Băiatul a ţinut să precizeze că doreşte ca inima să aibă şi utilitate şi să se poată bea din ea. "Aceasta era foarte complicată, ca o fotografie, şi e mai greu să execuţi aşa ceva", a spus sticlarul.

Provocarea artistică constă în a da sens unui ideal abstract, chiar și într-o lume ce prioritizează biologicul și concretul.

Uneori, pentru redescoperirea adevăratei noastre naturi și a unei simțiri mai profunde, mai prezente în involucrul pneumatic al sufletului raţional, trebuie să dăm sens chiar şi unei provocări nerealizabile. În artă se nimeresc foarte bine cuvintele lui Ioan Mititelu: „Trebuie să răspunzi cu biologicul unei lumi care ţine atât de mult la biologic, incapabilă să-şi sacrifice o parte din concret pentru o idee."

Chiar şi după ce mi-a fost scoasă perfuzia, foarte eficient, fără durere, simţeam cum sângele continua să curgă cu aceeaşi uşurinţă şi libertate ca şi viaţa însăşi, cu aceeaşi intensitate cu care artistul stimulează intensitatea înfloririi unui trandafir colorându-l în nuanţe foarte vii.

O singură picătură de sânge, pierdută într-o singură clipă, a fost de ajuns ca să mă facă să tresar din starea de amorţire. Şi nicicând în viaţa mea n-am mai întâlnit o asemenea picătură de sânge, atât de clară, atât de caldă, atât de chintesențială, care într-o singură clipă m-a făcut să simt că aparţin unui univers deschis care mă doreşte, mă pune în valoare, aşa vulnerabil cum sunt.

Exprimarea unei simţiri vii, coagulată în jurul spontaneităţii artistice, îşi adună sinceritatea în imediata apropiere a vărsării chiar și a unei singure picături de sânge.

La fel ca în artă, leadershipul apare ca mod de comunicare a simţirii fiinţei: să fii împăcat cu tot ceea ce simţi şi să fii capabil să exprimi creativ tot ceea ce vezi, chiar şi atunci când te simţi vulnerabil.

Arta concentrată în jurul unei picături de sânge confirmă sensibilitatea artistului care reuşeşte să obţină o bucată de viziune, să dea o altă formă şi un alt înţeles momentelor capturate într-o interioritate izolată, într-o nesfârşită simplitate a simţirii.

De fapt, întreaga mea operă de artă, constituită ca o modalitate de exprimare (prin metafore, simboluri, personificări), se determină prin raportare la reperele de care are nevoie lumea lăuntrică pentru a evolua spiritual: sentimentul, viziunea, mesajul artei, fantezia, avântul spre ideal şi spre originalitate.

Arta cuprinsă în orizontul pierdut al sinelui

On Mai 07, 2022

Omul care nu reuşeşte să se facă înţeles şi să-şi transmită emoţiile mai departe, este omul care nu reuşeşte să scoată la lumină "forma pe care materialul o ascunde".

Ieri după-amiază. În timp ce mă îndreptam spre casă, trecând întâmplător prin faţa unei terase de pe strada Alexandru Lăpușneanu, privirea mi s-a oprit asupra unui individ straniu. Era imposibil să nu-l observi, ceva îmi dădea impresia că el vrea să fie observat, nu doar prin felul cum gesticula, ci prin faptul că, în acelaşi timp, adoptase cumva o atitudine dezaprobatoare faţă toţi ceilalţi oameni din jur. Ştiţi voi, genul acela de om care vrea să atragă atenţia tuturor, dar în acelaşi timp nu-i pasă ce crede lumea despre el? Ei bine, fix tiparul acesta de individ, calm şi jovial, se găsea atunci la acea masă.

El era ca un obiect sensibil care îşi refuză satisfacerea unei nevoi de finisare. Un obiect în care îşi găseşte alinarea tocmai satisfacerea simţământul egoist al altui om, egoist pentru că îşi caută în alt om propria sa esenţă.

Combinată cu un realism poetic tandru şi profund, atitudinea celui luat în colimator putea fi măsurată şi după felul cum ţinea piciorul stâng pe scaunul alăturat, corelat cu acea maladie a ego-ului bolnav care face ca cel afectat de vreo tulburare emoţională să se posteze în centrul atenţiei. Părea genul de individ care a luat decizia conştientă de a se concentra pe obiectivul aflat de partea miraculoasă a durerii, un fel de evitare a imaginii de sine negative utilizată în scopul determinării unei eventuale reuşite în viaţa socială, prin conştientizarea pericolului "înţepenirii" în rolul de victimă a vreunei discriminări sau privaţiuni.

Leadership: Tinzi să faci în permanenţă distincţia între "forma goală" şi "conţinutul real", fără să pierzi sprijinul ideii predominanţei vieţii?

Şi cum îţi ţinea el piciorul pe scaunul din stânga, fără să-i pese că altcineva se va aşeza mai târziu pe acel scaun, fluturând o expresie de automulţumire supraevaluată înaintea interlocutorului, mi-am amintit de mine însumi cu mulţi ani în urmă. Şi, deci, a fost uşor să-mi dau seama ce simte, ce crede, ce gândeşte, ce urmăreşte, ce-l inspiră, ce-i poate aduce viaţa.

De fapt atitudinea lui este uşor de identificat la un artist care poartă în el tot ceea ce reprezintă viaţa, dar care pune imagini neterminate peste tot în jurul lui. Un artist pătimaş, cu o traiectorie a vieţii plină de capcane şi rătăciri, în stare să combine într-un mod unic misterele iluzionismului cu falsa bună dispoziţie.

Şi-l priveam pe omul acesta în treacăt, îl priveam tacit fără ca el să sesizeze privirea care îi măsoară sufletul. Discret, cu alura omului care emite judecaţi de valoare, integrat cu cine ştie ce impulsuri venite din exterior, omul din prim planul vederii mele se manifesta la fel ca pictorul ce încarcă pensula cu prea multă vopsea pentru a evita un al doilea strat, şi astfel vopseaua continua să se estompeze inegal pe suprafaţa pânzei, sau va lăsa mici picături peste tot. Felul său de a părea, felul cum gesticula, ţinuta lui, toate trădau o profundă criză internă care postulează studiul raporturilor faptice ca domeniu exclusiv al unei baze de comparaţie între realitate şi kitsch.

Leadership: Poţi să schimbi modul de a fi al unui conținut experiențial greu de definit, plecând de la premiza că ceea ce vezi este relevant înainte de a alege să crezi?

Mai mult ca sigur, el nu este un om care a pierdut sprijinul ideii predominanţei vieţii: putinţa de a fi fericit cu ceea ce are deja. Ci, trezindu-se pe un orizont înceţoşat al sinelui, părea că îşi compară criza lăuntrică cu sufletul unui artist (dominat de o mare voinţă de înnoire vizuală) care nu reuşeşte să se facă înţeles şi nu transmite emoţia mai departe, care nu reuşeşte să scoată la lumină forma pe care materialul o ascunde. Aşa că, cu bună ştiinţă şi ostentativ, el continuă să caute noi forme de a transmite mesaje non-verbale, mai mult corporale.

Sau, poate că avea ceva în comun cu artistul acela român, Ştefan Luchian care, confruntându-se cu experienţele de neuitat ale maturizării, cu povara durerii pe care a dus-o, cu lipsurile materiale, cu invidia răzbunătoare a colegilor de breaslă, a renunţat definitiv la artă şi s-a apucat de "wildlife".

Leadership: Simţământul atotcuprinzător care îţi dă puterea să te laşi dus de valuri necesită adecvarea raportului dintre viziunea unei imaginii pictate cu o poveste neobişnuită și aparenţa unui obiect care îşi ajunge lui însuşi?

Şi omul respectiv stătea la masă ca la el acasă. În niciun caz nu se putea dovedi un mesager de marcă al intelectualităţii, părea mai degrabă un fragment de pictură neterminată care fascinează prin aspectul discreţionar, dar şi prin pendularea dintre certitudine şi incertitudine - sugerată de un dialog care nu părea să aducă la viaţă nicio emoţie, dar facând lumină asupra a ceea ce înseamnă să trăiești cu depresia sau cu anxietatea. La un moment dat am simţit că îşi vorbea lui însuşi cu acea latură a eroului tragic dintr-un roman scris de John Fowles:

"Obişnuiam să am un simţământ de culpabilitate pentru că am petrecut prea mult timp studiind trecutul. Mi-am văzut creaţiile în chip de valuri ridicate, ca să nu văd ceea ce nu voiam să înţeleg. Acum văd că orice poate sluji drept val, dacă aşa vrea cineva. Teama era fizică, materială, ca vreun hoţ să nu se fi strecurat în gândurile mele şi să mă atace în momentele de singurătate, deci în momentele de sinceritate profundă. Am mai avut această experienţă, dar nu s-a mai repetat cu aceeaşi intensitate. Este foarte straniu, ca o întrerupere a timpului."

În acel scurt şi trecător moment, singura mea provocare constase în a desluşi sensurile unui destin artistic, în spatele pestriţului tablou ce-l oferă suma tuturor particularismelor speciale spre care tinde viaţa omului. Fiindcă însăşi felul lui de-şi etala personalitatea într-un mod ostentativ, dar oarecum delăsător, dovedea frământarea lăuntrică, pendularea între optimism şi pesimism care nu putea decât să-l prejudicieze, cauzându-i dezechilibre și alienări, chiar patologii identitare. Iar dacă mi-aş exercita un pic mai mult puterea imaginaţiei, punându-mi la încercare impresia sensibilă, aş vedea lupta obişnuită a unui om cu morile de vânt, care însă produce teama şi deprimare.

Leadershipul este acel simţământ al răspunderii pe care îl dă confruntarea omului cu sine însuşi, a unui om care nu s-a jucat cu viaţa, ci a impus vieţii acceptarea propriilor limite.

Arta cuprinsă în orizontul pierdut al sinelui aduce în prim plan mijlocul de exprimare a unui ego rănit care caută validare socială, dar care refuză cu tot dinadinsul să controleze o realitate deformată.

Cred că avea dreptate scriitorul Liviu Rusu când spunea: "Artistul se deosebeşte de omul de rând numai în ce priveşte intensitatea funcţiunilor sale psihice. Creaţia sa ar fi o descărcare a acestor funcţiuni. De fapt, arta începe cu analiza formelor simple de expresie gestuală, bazate exclusiv pe virtuțile limbajului coloristic, ţinând seama de impulsurile primite de la viaţă."

Arta este ecoul sufletului în formă vizibilă

Perspectiva trebuie să se potrivească ochiului celui care privește scena, încât ceea ce se vede să pară inevitabil și desăvârșit.

Am privit-o de atâtea ori pe sora mea, Oana Fântânaru, alergând atât de agil, atât de frumos, atât de mulți kilometri, încât orice artist ar sesiza în grația trupului ei o armonie desăvârșită. Ce mai, este eleganța întruchipată ! În arta ei de a alerga pe munte apar, cu o forță elementară, noi tendințe de a îmbina mișcarea cu spiritualitatea, ecouri ale picturii moderne, în care sufletul se dezvăluie fără mască, pur. Să nu uităm că, în meșteșugul picturii "Onifegrum Eurathavis", lucrul cel mai de seamă este potrivirea mișcărilor cu intențiile ce stau în mintea artistului, ca de pildă dorința de explorare sau libertate interioară.

Într-adevăr, Oana întruchipează noul artist, bine reeducat prin natura efortului său, un vizionar aparte. La ea, simplitatea întâlnește profunzimea, deoarece sufletul ce cârmuiește și domnește peste trup își găsește alinarea, imediat ce își întâlnește dublura. În pictură, ca și în alergare, două dimensiuni sacre se contopesc în aceeași armonie desăvârșită. Așa se face că determinarea ei disciplinată, neobosită în fața provocărilor, creează o operă de artă în mișcare continuă. Este și asta un soi de măsură a frumuseții: să știi să te desăvârșești neîncetat, în armonie cu spiritul tău, numai în aceleași mișcări, în aceleași ritmuri mereu înnoite.

De altfel, am realizat de atâtea ori că, între dorința de a-și împinge limitele fizice spre maxim și chemarea tainică a naturii, sora mea explorează în alergare nu doar muntele, ci și propriile temeri și aspirații. Munții nu sunt pentru ea doar simple destinații, ci niște espejos del espíritu, fiecare piatră reprezentând o barieră de trecut, o chemare către noi înțelesuri. În această privință, pictorul care va pătrunde cunoașterea nervilor, mușchilor și a tendoanelor va înțelege diversele înfățișări ce le iau modelele sale, astfel încât ceea ce pare ascuns să fie vizibil printr-o revelație artistică.

Leadership: Privirea ta interioară poate să contribuie la transformarea efortului fizic într-o expresie a frumuseții pure, din perspectiva unei creații modelate de voința ascunsă a destinului?
